IMAGE EVALUATION
TEST TARGET (MT-2)
A
C
A
B
D
B POINT SIZE FUTURA
NEWS GOTHIC
POINT SIZE
1.0
1.1
1.25
1.4
1.6
2.0
2.2
2.5
1.8
SERIF (BASKERVILLE) SIZE SANS SERIF (MICROFONT)
POINT
SHOULD MEASURE .25" AT REDUCTION
0
12x
16x
20x
24x
28x
30x
Photographic Sciences
Corporation
23 WEST MAIN STREET
WEBSTER, N.Y. 14580
(716) 872-4503

DA-541
12-72

START

State of Michigan
Department of Administration
Office Services Division
Records and Publications Center
Central Microfilm Services

DEPARTMENT Education
DIVISION State Library
RECORD TITLE
ROLL NO. 2	REDUCTION RATIO 20 x 1
DATE 3-31-75	CAMERA OPERATOR M. Flynn

TRY DR. CROUTER'S DYSPEPSIA CURE,
For Indigestion, Nausea, Heartburn, Loss of Appetite, Etc.
If you want the best PILLS sold, ask for CROUTER'S ANTI-BILIOUS GRANULES. Manufactured by
G. W. Crouter, Druggist.

Temperance Column.

Conducted by a Committee of the W. C. T. U.

OFFICERS.

President—Mrs. O. W. Jeffers.
First Vice President—Mrs. G. V. Cash.
Second Vice President—Mrs. J. E. W.
Third Vice President—Mrs. B. Sofield.
Recording Secretary—Miss Julia Mason.
Corresponding Secretary—M. L. E. Allen.
Treasurer—Mrs. Stump.

Our Appeal to the Young.

BY W. JENNINGS DEMOREST.

Of the many sad devious paths that are open to youthful feet, none are so dangerous as the temptation to alcoholic drink; wine, beer, or cider, whiskey, brandy or gin, and a numerous and long list of names that are applied to the various kinds of stimulating drink, all containing more or less poison—poison for the stomach, poison for the brain, poison for the body, poison for time and, poison for eternity, poison lasting through to-morrow, and poison that will bane our hopes for all eternity. Poison for ourselves, poison for our homes, poison for our country, and every department of life, every stage of progress and all our interest, both for the present and the future, are blighted and blasted by this hideous consuming curse of rum. And the most responsible parties are those who offer the allurements—the rum-seller, whether this be in a gilded saloon or in one of the lowest dens of infamy, and those who are the makers of the money and delicious taste. They believe is due in part to beer-drinking and increased nervousness. Nothing can be done practically, until society recognizes the physical nature of inebriety; then its cure and prevention may be expected."

Alcohol a Hint.

A TEXAS merchant is the father of several marriageable daughters. In fact they have been marriageable for a number of years. Not long since one of his clerks left his employment.

"You are a most excellent young man, and enjoy my perfect confidence. I would like to present you with something to remind you of me during the rest of your life," said the merchant.

"I'll be only too glad to take anything you may have to offer," replied the clerk.

"I am rejoiced to hear that. Take your pick of my daughters. You need a good wife."

The clerk took—his leave.

A Novel Dance.

Each village in the Black forest has its differences in dress, besides which there is a difference in the local customs and sports. We witnessed what is known as "the cock dance." It was going on in a barn, and our obliging driver told us of it. We were the only strangers in a group of some thirty couples. A glass full of water was hanging the last four years. My experience matches the views of Dr. Crouter; and others that inebriety is increasing, and the insane types of inebriety are also increasing. This I believe is due in part to beer-drinking and increased nervousness. Nothing can be done practically, until society recognizes the physical nature of inebriety; then its cure and prevention may be expected."

Aversion to Improved Machinery.

United States Consul Smith at Carthagena, United States of Columbia, has sent an interesting report to the State department in regard to the harvesting and further of rice in that country. He has illustrated his report by two drawings which shows the women of the country first engaged in pounding the hulls of the rice in mortars and then winnowing it in the primitive way. He says that while the improved machinery now in use in the United States has been tried there, it has always been pronounced a failure and they have gone back to the primitive way. He suggests that if the manufacturers of rice machinery, or those interested in the rice product, would send experts there to teach the natives the new methods, a great deal of good might result to both countries. He feels certain that many machines or models would at once be eagerly sought for, and, if adapted to the work, would be readily purchased.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Beer and Disease.

In the last quarterly report of the Washingtonian Home at Boston, Mass., Dr. Day, the superintendant, says that of the one hundred and sixty-five new cases admitted there four had delirium tremens. The excess of patients such year brings a large number of cases of disease of the kidneys. Formerly not over one in six cases which come under treatment had disease of the kidneys. Now, one in every three has this affection, which I believe to be owing to the great increase in the use of beer. Many of these cases try to substitute beer for stronger spirits, and in this way far less kidneys are saved. Those who have been beer for years always have diseased kidneys. I am confident that disease of kidneys were more common in the cases which came for treatment during the last four years. My experience matches the views of Dr. Crouter; and others that inebriety is increasing, and the insane types of inebriety are also increasing. This I believe is due in part to beer-drinking and increased nervousness. Nothing can be done practically, until society recognizes the physical nature of inebriety; then its cure and prevention may be expected."

STAUFFER'S BROADCAST
Hand-Seeder.

This new invention possesses many qualities peculiarly adapted to farmers of this vicinity.

THE REASONS

1. It sows the roughest or smoothest soils.
2. It sows evenly all kinds of grain and seeds, large and small. Wheat, barley, clover, timothy, rata kegs, etc.
3. It sows any desired quantity. One-fourth pound of rata kegs ,and can be spread over an acre of ground ... a perfect cure and accuracy.
4. It sows rapidly. With wheat it covers a rod to the round. Clover 42; clover and timothy wheat 36. Ten acres of clover sowed in 3½ hours.
5. It is not affected by quite a strong wind.
6. It is quickly adjusted to different quantities per grain.
7. It cannot clog.
8. It is easily operated.
9. It is cheap.
10. It is durable.

Patented by Jacob Stauffer, of Canterbury, Kennedy Co., Mich. Sold by

UPRIGHT & EMREY,
Jos. Clark and examine it. Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.

WHEREAS default has been made in the payments of the money secured by a mortgage bearing date the 4th day of December, in the year A. D. one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four, by Nancy Hause to the Pine Lake Iron Company, a corporation created and existing under the laws of the state of Illinois, and duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the state of Michigan, which said mortgage was recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the said county of Charlevoix, in Book 1 of mortgages, at page 9, on the 1st day of January, in the year A. D. one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five, and the said mortgagee is now an corporation and Pine Lake Iron Company, as owner thereof, has exercised and doth now exercise the option which is given in and by said mortgage, to be declared and doth hereby declare the whole principal sum of two thousand dollars (2000) in said mortgage, as well as the interest thereon to be now due and payable. And whereas, the amount due at the date of the mortgage of the date of this notice is the sum of one hundred and twenty-five dollars and twenty-five cents ($125.25) principal and interest, and a further sum of fifteen dollars ($15.00) provided by law as an attorney's fee in the foreclosure of said mortgage, which is the whole amount claimed to be due at the date of this notice, no suit or proceeding at law or in chancery having been instituted to recover the debt now remaining secured by the said mortgage or any part thereof, whereby the power of sale contained therein has become operative. Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and the statute in such case provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described, at public auction to the highest bidder at the front door of the town hall in the township of Charlevoix, in the county of Charlevoix and state of Michigan, which is the place of holding the circuit court for said county, on Wednesday, the 4th day of August, A. D. 1886, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, which said premises are described in said mortgage as follows, viz: The south-east quarter (s. e. ¼) of section twenty (20) in the Pine Lake Iron Company, in and from township, range, in the county of Emmet, Charlevoix, county Michigan.

Dated this 4th day of December, A. D. 1885.

PINE LAKE IRON COMPANY
Mortgagee.

CRICKSHANK & GRIER,
Attorneys for Mortgagee.

MORTGAGE SALE.

WHEREAS default has been made in the payments of the money secured by a mortgage bearing date the 4th day of December, in the year A. D. one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four, by Nancy Hause to the Pine Lake Iron Company, a corporation created and existing under the laws of the state of Illinois, and duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the state of Michigan, which said mortgage was recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the said county of Charlevoix, in Book 1 of mortgages, at page 9, on the 1st day of January, in the year A. D. one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five, and the said mortgagee is now an corporation and Pine Lake Iron Company, as owner thereof, has exercised and doth now exercise the option which is given in and by said mortgage, to be declared and doth hereby declare the whole principal sum of two thousand dollars (2000) in said mortgage, as well as the interest thereon to be now due and payable. And whereas, the amount due at the date of this notice is the sum of one hundred and twenty-five dollars and twenty-five cents ($125.25) principal and interest, and a further sum of fifteen dollars ($15.00) provided by law as an attorney's fee in the foreclosure of said mortgage, which is the whole amount claimed to be due at the date of this notice, no suit or proceeding at law or in chancery having been instituted to recover the debt now remaining secured by the said mortgage or any part thereof, whereby the power of sale contained therein has become operative. Now, therefore notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and the statute in such case provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described, at public auction to the highest bidder at the front door of the town hall in the township of Charlevoix, in the county of Charlevoix and state of Michigan, which is the place of holding the circuit court for said county, on Wednesday, the 4th day of August, A. D. 1886, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, which said premises are described in said mortgage as follows, viz: The south-east quarter (s. e. ¼) of section twenty (20) in the Pine Lake Iron Company, in and from township, range, in the county of Emmet, Charlevoix, county Michigan.

Dated this 4th day of December, A. D. 1885.

PINE LAKE IRON COMPANY
Mortgagee.

CRICKSHANK & GRIER,
Attorneys for Mortgagee.

MORTGAGE SALE.

WHEREAS default has been made in the payments of the money secured by a mortgage dated the 4th day of December, A. D. 1884, executed by Nancy Hause to the Pine Lake Iron Company, a corporation created and existing under the laws of the state of Illinois, and duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the state of Michigan, which said mortgage was recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the said county of Charlevoix, in Book 1 of mortgages, at page 9, on the 1st day of January, in the year A. D. one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five, and the said mortgagee is now an corporation and Pine Lake Iron Company, as owner thereof, has exercised and doth now exercise the option which is given in and by said mortgage, to be declared and doth hereby declare the whole principal sum of two thousand dollars (2000) in said mortgage, as well as the interest thereon to be now due and payable. And whereas, the amount due at the date of this notice is the sum of one hundred and twenty-five dollars and twenty-five cents ($125.25) principal and interest, and a further sum of fifteen dollars ($15.00) provided by law as an attorney's fee in the foreclosure of said mortgage, which is the whole amount claimed to be due at the date of this notice, no suit or proceeding at law or in chancery having been instituted to recover the debt now remaining secured by the said mortgage or any part thereof, whereby the power of sale contained therein has become operative. Now, therefore notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and the statute in such case provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described, at public auction to the highest bidder at the front door of the town hall in the township of Charlevoix, in the county of Charlevoix and state of Michigan, which is the place of holding the circuit court for said county, on Wednesday, the 4th day of September, A. D. 1886, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, which said premises are described in said mortgage as follows, viz: The south-east quarter (s. e. ¼) of section twenty (20) in the Pine Lake Iron Company, in and from township, range, in the county of Emmet, Charlevoix, county Michigan.

Dated this 4th day of December, A. D. 1885.

PINE LAKE IRON COMPANY
Mortgagee.

CRICKSHANK & GRIER,
Attorneys for Mortgagee.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Default has been made in the payment of the money secured by a mortgage dated the 4th day of December, 1884, executed by Jacob Lewis and Lucy A. Lewis, his wife, to Ellen U. Kirkland, which said mortgage was recorded in the office of the register of deeds of Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 26th day of December last, in liber 1 of mortgages, on page 66. And there is now claimed to be due on said mortgage the whole amount thereof because of said default, the amount claimed to be due at the date of this notice is the sum of two hundred and twenty-three dollars, principal and interest, and a further sum of twenty-five dollars, an attorney fee, stipulated for in said mortgage, and no suit at law or in equity having been instituted to recover the debt so secured or any part thereof. Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and in pursuance of the statute in such case provided, the premises in a sale of the premises herein described, at public auction, to the highest bidder at the front door of Lewis' hall that being the last place of holding the circuit court in the village of Charlevoix, in said county, on the 6th day of September, 1886, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon. The premises are described in said mortgage as follows: All that certain piece or parcel of land situate in the township of Charlevoix county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, and described as follows, viz: The south-east quarter of the south-east quarter (s. e. ¼ of s. e. ¼) of section twenty (20) north of range six (6) west, except seventy-five (75) acres of even breadth and land contained off from the south side of said quarter section parallel with the south line.

Dated June 7, A. D. 1886.

ELLEN U. KIRKLAND,
Mortgagee.

TAILTOWN & GRIER,
Attorneys for Mortgagee,
Petoskey, Michigan.

Detroit, Mackinac & Marquette Railroad.

"Mackinaw Short Line."

Time Table to take effect January 10th, 1886.

GOING WEST Read down.		STATIONS.	GOING EAST. Read up.
A. M.	P. M.		P. M.	A. M.
9 00	6 05	Detroit	12 45	9 00
			P. M.	A. M.
A. M.	P. M.	St. Ignace	1 40	10 40
7 00	1 40	Mackinaw	4 15	12 55
7 56	2 40	Seney	2 22	11 46
8 40	3 20	Germania	1 40	11 00
9 20	4 00	Au Train	1 05	10 20
10 15	4 55	Munising	12 15	9 30
P. M.	P. M.		P. M.	P. M.
1 00	7 45	Marquette	8 00	6 45
3 50		Ishpeming	12 45	3 50
4 30		Negaunee	12 15	3 20
5 30		Houghton	9 30
6 30		Calumet	8 30

Mixed train leaves St. Ignace at 7.00 a. m., arrives Marquette at 6.00 p. m. leaves Marquette at 7 a. m., arrives St. Ignace 5.00 p. m.

CONNECTIONS.

(1) Via M. T. co.'s boats, with Michigan Central for all points in Michigan, Chicago and points west, Buffalo and points east, Canada and points east, Grand Trunk & Chicago and points west.

(2) Via Marquette, Houghton and Ontonagon, with lake navigation for all points on Lake Superior, northwest and south. The lands of this line that is sought to be conveyed by said mortgage, Thursday and Saturday night. (3) With Chicago & Northwestern R. R. at Seney for Marquette and above points. (4) With J. M. & I. railroad for Houghton, Hancock, Calumet, Ontonagon and points; Chicago and Northwestern railway.

Sundays—Central time. *Daily. †Daily, except Sunday. ‡Daily, except Saturday.

A. HAYSON, Gen'l Sup't. E. W. ALLEN, Gen'l Pass & Ticket Agt.

HANNAH, LAY & CO.'S STEAMER LINE.

SEASON OF 1886.

CITY OF GRAND RAPIDS,

CAPT. O. E. WILSON.

GOING NORTH, Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, will leave Traverse City, 7.00 a. m., Leland, 9.00 a. m., Northport, 11.00 a. m., Suttons Bay, 12.00 m., Harbor Springs 2.00, Cross Village 4.00, Good Harbor 5.00, arrive Pt. Larkin 6.00 p. m.

GOING SOUTH, Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays, leave Pt. Larkin, 7.00 a. m., Good Harbor 8.00, Cross Village 9.00, Harbor Springs 11.00, Suttons Bay 1.00 p. m., Northport 2.00, Leland 3.00, Manitou Islands 4.00, Glen Haven 5.00, Glen Arbor 6.00, Leelanau 7.00, arrive Traverse City 8.45, Northport 9.30, all Central Time 7.30 p. m.

T. S. PAXTON

CAPT. A. G. ALDRICH.

GOING NORTH, Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays, will leave Traverse City 7.00 a. m., Leland 9.00, Northport 10.30, Charlevoix 11.30, Petoskey 1.00 p. m., Harbor Springs 2.00, Cross Village 3.00, Good Harbor 4.00, Pt. Larkin 5.00, arriving at St. Ignace 8.30, P. M.

GOING SOUTH, Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, will leave St. Ignace 6.00 a. m., Mackinaw 7.00, Cross Village 8.00, Good Harbor 9.00, Pt. Larkin 10.00, Harbor Springs 11.00 a. m., Petoskey 12.00, Charlevoix 2.45, Northport 3.45, Leland 4.45, Traverse City 6.30 P. M.

GOOD CONNECTIONS will be made at Traverse City and Petoskey with both day and night trains on the Ferry R. R. & G. R. & I. R. R. lines; with Michigan Central R. R.; also on Monday, Wednesday and Friday with the Traverse City & Hersey R. R. for Cadillac, Grand Rapids, Grand Haven and Western points. Also with the Traverse City & Leland R. R. for Leland and Traverse to Chicago. At St. Ignace with the Detroit, Mackinac & Marquette R. R. Steamers, and with the steamer Minnie M., Mackinaw City.

E. H. CLINK, Agent, Traverse City.

Traverse Bay Route.

Steamer LOU A. CUMMINGS—Capt. George Masterson.

Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, leave Old Mission at 5.00 p. m., arrive at Traverse City 5.30 p. m.; leave Traverse City 7.30 p. m., arrive at Old Mission 8.00 p. m.

Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays, leave Northport at 1.00 p. m., arrive at Traverse City at 3.15 p. m., leave Traverse City 5.30 p. m., arrive at Old Mission 9.00 p. m.

The steamer stops at Elk Rapids once every day, leaving Elk Rapids at 6.30 a. m. Connections made at Northport with the Leland & Glen Arbor stage, at Traverse City with G. R. & I. Railroad.

Harbor Springs, Petoskey, Charlevoix, and East Jordan.

STEAMER THOMAS PRIANT.

CAPT. E. VANDERVEER.

Mornings—Leave Harbor Springs 7.00, Petoskey 7.45, Charlevoix 8.30, arrive East Jordan 9.00. Evenings—Leave East Jordan 4.00, Feth.-Jory 5.30, arrive Harbor Springs 6.00. Close connections at Petoskey with G. R. & I. R. R. trains, north and south.

Charlevoix and East Jordan.

Steamer GAZELLE—Capt. John Mason.

Mornings—Leave Charlevoix 8.30, arrive East Jordan 9.30. leave East Jordan 9.00, arrive Charlevoix 10.00. Afternoons—Leave Charlevoix 4.00, arrive E. Jordan 5.00, leave East Jordan 5.30, arrive Charlevoix 6.30. Stopping at intermediate points.

Charlevoix and Boyne.

Steamer CLAYTON BELLE—Capt. Robert O'Neil.

Mornings—Leave Charlevoix 6.00, arrive Boyne 8.30, leave Boyne 9.00, arrive Charlevoix 11.00. Afternoons—Leave Charlevoix 2.00, arrive Boyne 4.30, leave Boyne 4.30, arrive Charlevoix 6.30. Stopping at intermediate points.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Table to take effect January, 1886.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
		P. M.	P. M.	P. M.
Cincinnati, Lv.		7 30	10 30
Fort Wayne, ar.	6.20 pm	1 40 pm	3 30
Fort Wayne, lv.		2 00	3 45	8 45am
Auburn,		2 42	4 26	9 26
Kendallville,		2 55	4 39	9 39
Ligonier,		3 13	4 57	9 57
Goshen,	7 00am	3 30	5 15	10 15
Elkhart,	7 15	3 45	5 30	10 30
Howard City,	8 30	5 00	6 45
Big Rapids,	9 10	5 45	7 20
Reed City,	9 45	6 20	7 55
Cadillac, ar.	11 00	7 45	9 10
Cadillac, lv.	11 05	7 50	9 15
Walton,	11 45am	8 30	9 55
Williamsburg,		8 45	10 10
Traverse,		8 55	10 20
Boyne Falls,		9 08	10 35am
Pelosky,		9 15	10 45
Harbor Springs,		9 40	11 10
Mackinaw City,		4 50pm	2 15am

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 6	No. 4	No. 8
		P. M.	P. M.	A. M.
Mackinaw City,		1 15am	5 20pm
Harbor Springs,
Pelosky, lv.		8 34	10 12
Boyne Falls,		8 41	10 19
Traverse,		8 55	10 34
Kalkaska,		9 13	11 00am
Walton,		9 23	11 10
Cadillac, ar.		12 05pm	2 15	1 10pm
Cadillac, lv.		12 10	2 25	1 15
Reed City, ar.		1 00	3 15	2 05
Reed City, lv.		1 05	3 20	2 10
Big Rapids, ar.		1 40	3 55	2 45
Howard City,		2 15	4 30	3 20
Elkhart, lv.	7 15am	5 00	6 45	10 30am
Goshen,	7 30	5 15	7 00	10 45
Ligonier,	7 48	5 33	7 18	11 03
Kendallville,	8 00	5 45	7 30	11 15
Auburn,	8 13	5 58	7 43	11 28
Fort Wayne, lv.	1 00 pm	10 00am
Cincinnati, lv.	7 00	6 00		7 00pm

C. L. LOCKWOOD, G. P. A., Grand Rapids, Mich.

THE LIGHT RUNNING
NEW HOME
SEWING MACHINE
HAS NO EQUAL.
PERFECT SATISFACTION
New Home Sewing Machine Co.
—ORANGE, MASS.—
30 Union Square, N. Y. Chicago, Ill. St. Louis, Mo. Atlanta, Ga. Dallas, Tex. San Francisco, Cal.
FOR SALE BY
E. N. CLINK, East Jordan.

DE LAND & CO'S
CAPITAL
SALERATUS
SODA
For Baking Purposes.
Best in the World.
Sold by Upright & Emrey.

JAMES HEMMINGS,
On Mason St., third door west of State, Charlevoix.
HOUSE PAINTER,
Calciminer,
Paper Harger,
And Decorator.
PINE AND HARDWOOD FINISHING. GOOD WORK.
Heath, Francis & Co.
Builders and Jobbers.
Charlevoix, Mich.

Jos. Beauvais
BOAT-BUILDER.
The Best Modeled, Easiest Rowing, and Best Sailing Boats in Northern Michigan, for the Least Money. Give me a Trial. I am bound to Please.

Boat Livery
In connection with shop.
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

Gibson Stoves
Are unsurpassed for Durability, Economy and Good Baking.
Sold only by the Trade throughout the United States.
Manufactured by the Gibson Stove Co. Chicago, Ill.
ADVERTISERS on affairs who wish to examine an advertising space when in Chicago, will find it on file at 45 to 49 Randolph St., the Advertising Agency of LORD & THOMAS.

Lumber Sawed and Bills Filled to Order.
Dressed Lumber, Bands, Moldings, Door and Window Frames, Sash, Doors, Blinds, Shingles, Lath, Pickets, Posts, Wood Turning, Scroll Sawing, Etc.
Planing, Specifications, and materials furnished and moulding built upon the cars or at our building done to order.
FINE FURNITURE
Built to order, and repairs of all kinds done on short notice. Final work guaranteed.
Will take Lumber or Stock, wood in part payment for work done in shop on Anthony street west of Village Hall, Charlevoix, Mich.
LUTHER HAYES, Note Heads, Statements, Bill Heads, etc., neat, clean, and cheap, at the JOURNAL Office.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 159. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, JULY 29, 1886. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL
Published every Thursday,
BY CHAS. J. STRANG.
Office on Bridge Street,
CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX MICH. AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

WATCH YOUR ADDRESS LABEL.
The date following the name on your address label indicates the time to which your subscription is paid. If it is overdue, you are requested to pay up.

BUSINESS CARDS.

ATTORNEYS.

ARTHUR S. MARTIN, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Michigan. Collections promptly attended to.

CRICKSHANK & GRIER, Attorneys at Law and Solicitors in Admiralty. Office in Hayes Block, Charlevoix, Mich.
A. S. CRICKSHANK. C. J. GRIER.

DUFF & CALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents. Lake St., east of postoffice, Petoskey, Mich.

FRED W. MAYNARD, Attorney and Counselor at Real Estate business promptly attended to. Money to loan. Boyne City.

L. NEWBERRY, Attorney at Law and Judge of Probate of Emmet Co., Petoskey, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

OSCAR J. WISNER, Attorney at Law and U. S. United States Circuit Court Commissioner, Western District, East Jordan, Mich.

W. N. MOORE, Attorney and Solicitor, East Jordan, Mich. Attorney at Law.

Z. S. GARRETT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

CHURCHES.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7.30 p. m. Sunday school at 12 m. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7.00 o'clock. All seats free. All strangers welcome. W. G. CLARK, pastor.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7.30 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7.00 o'clock. J. T. DODSON, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7.30 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer and praise meeting Thursday evening at 7.00 o'clock. J. T. DODSON, pastor.

DENTISTRY.

N. J. PERRY, Dentist. Office at Wood's Drug Store. CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

B. SUFFIELD, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Domestics, Cutlery, Charlevoix, Mich.

PHYSICIANS.

J. LEWIS M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office in the Lewis block, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. M. PRESTON, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Patent physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HORACE S. HARSHA, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

G. A. R.—Baxter Post No. 119, meets second Monday after full moon, in Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Round Lake Lodge, No. 309, meets every Wednesday evening, in their hall.

K. O. T. M.—Resor Tent No. 188, meets second Tuesday every month at Odd Fellows' hall.

F. & A. M.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 187, meets on or before full moon, in Barnard school house.

W. R. C.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 93, meets every Tuesday on or before full moon, in their hall.

T. J. BROWN, Commander. W. A. BROWN, Adjt. Brown & Co's Bank of Charlevoix, CAPITAL, $25,000.

Bank drawn direct upon the principal cities of the world. Collections carefully attended to. Good securities bought and sold. Tickets to and from all points in Europe by best lines. Interest paid on time deposits.

No. 1 Corporation National Bank, Chicago; Merchants and Manufacturers' National Bank, Detroit; Fourth National Bank, Grand Rapids.

WELL DIGGING.

I am prepared to dig, drive, and repair wells of all kinds, and guarantee satisfaction. Leave orders with Stockman & Iddings.

E. W. BENNETT,
Charlevoix, Mich.

1872. 1886.
DR. G. W. CROUTER,
Drugs, Stationery and Wall Paper.
Dental Office in Rear of Drug Store.

ADVERTISEMENTS of three lines or less will be inserted in this column for each insertion. (This rate will average seven words to a line.) Each additional line, three cents each insertion.

TEN CENTS

FOR SALE.—Gentle pony, broken to ride or drive. Can be handled by children. Will be sold cheap. H. SARTORIUS.

FOR SALE.—A new little business, for lady or gentleman. Terms easy. Address, corporate Newman House. Inquire of J. J. KANAGY. 154

JOB PRINTING on every description executed at the JOURNAL office, promptly, neatly, and cheaply, at the JOURNAL Office.

LETTER HEADS, Note Heads, Statements, at the JOURNAL office, neat, cheap, and tasty.

WOOD WANTED on subscription. In exchange for paper for winter. We will take all that comes.

WANTED.—A good, Wide-Awake correspondent is wanted for this paper in every town and school district in the adjoining counties. Address, or call on or address this office.

Terrace Farm
J. R. & J. S. DIXON
Charlevoix, Mich.
Dairy, Vegetables, and Stock Farm. Transportation and Trade HOLSTEINS a specialty

COMMERCIAL HOUSE
D. B. JESSUP, Proprietor.
East Jordan, Michigan.
Entirely rebuilt and refurnished. First-class Sample Rooms for agents. Good Stable in Connection with the House. 75

FARMERS' HOTEL,
WM. RANGER, MANAGER.
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.
Excellent accommodations for steady boarders and for transients. Rates reasonable. Give us a good chance. Good stable for feeding teams. The management of this house will not interfere with any social work at the county town.
WM. RANGER.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,
RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.
Charlevoix, - Michigan.
Finest location in town, giving good view of the finest water, the home of the speckled trout, white fish, black bass, pickerel and other kinds of fish. Fruit of all kinds do well. Grand Traverse supplies are the best keepers in the world. A gentleman told us in the latter part of June that he had then had good, sound apples which were raised in this vicinity, in his cellar.

Traverse Herald: Little Floyd, not yet four years old, daughter of E. Walton, of Elmwood township, is a bright little specimen of Grand Traverse productions. She can read almost any book readily, and spell words of three syllables readily. ... A box of luscious sweet cherries, as big as crabapples, from W. R. Morse's orchard, Miller's Hill, contained twenty-one cherries, one nine inches long with 43 cherries, one seven inches long with 33 cherries, one seven inches long with 31 cherries.... Hon. D. C. Leach has a strawberry bed in his garden in this village, planted in Traverse City sand, measuring about two rods of ground, from which he has gathered eight bushels of luscious berries, and there are seemingly enough left to last a good sized family all through the summer.

Cheboygan Tribune: The wrecking tug Leviathan returned to port last Thursday afternoon. Captain Thorp was successful in recovering the machinery from the steamboat Graves and also the steam-pump boilers, belonging to the Leviathan, that went down with the barge. He landed the recovered machinery at Gillmanton before returning to Cheboygan. The machinery of the Graves was in fair condition.

Clayland Herald: Should this section be blessed with an abundance of rain the balance of the season, the potato crop will be the largest ever known here.... One of our well known farmers, not very far distant from Gaylord, says that his wife is too deaf to hear an ordinary clap of thunder, but she can hear his, the hired girl down two flights of stairs.

Dr. Peter's Magic Pain Oil is Good for both internal and external pain, Good for burns, cuts, black and blue bruises, and swollen joints.
Good for wounds, as one by knives, scissors, and implements of surgery.
Good for internal pains, colic, colds, and chronic diarrhoea, bowel complaints, and rheumatism.
Good for man and beast. Sold by Perry Weed and Dr. G. W. Crouter.

Around the County.

Boyne City.

The board of supervisors meet at Boyne Falls Friday.

The frequent showers lately will prove very beneficial to the late planted potatoes and other crops.

Mr. Mills is making much needed improvements on the school here, of which we will say more at a future period.

Considerable shipping is going on from this place at present, about three vessels being loaded weekly with tanbark, wood, and lumber.

Mrs. T. Kane has gone on a visit to her daughter, Mrs. J. W. Mans, of Dutton, Ont. She was accompanied by her son Master "Carl" Kane.

Boatbuilder Cook sent one of his Clinker row boats to Charlevoix on Wednesday by the Clara Bella. We did not learn who the purchaser was.

Quite a number from here attended the school picnic at Advance Wednesday afternoon, but still more attended the dance and festival in the evening, many of whom got—wet.

A new wagon and blacksmith shop is in the course of erection on Main street. Various other new buildings in different parts of town are also in the course of construction.

Trout fishing is now at its best in Boyne river and disciples of Izaak Walton have been enjoying good sport during the past week with rod and line. Probably the most successful was Walt Ware, who caught 14 of the speckled beauties that turned the scale at 8 pounds. Another individual boasts of having taken one measuring 15 inches in length.

The Clara Belle will run an excursion from here to Bay View on Sunday next, leaving here at 6 a. m. and returning will leave Bay View at 4 p. m. This will give all an opportunity of attending the camp meeting and of enjoying an invigorating ride on the waters of the turbulent lake Michigan, a change from our own placid and picturesque Pine lake.

The ball given at the Waldron house, Bay Springs, on Tuesday evening was well attended—about seventy-five couples being in attendance. A very pleasant time was spent, the gathering not breaking up till the wee sma' hours of the morning. The Clara Belle brought the musicians and about two dozen persons from Charlevoix, the North Star also brought a respectable number from East Jordan and intervening points.

The Friars' excursion to Bay Springs Tuesday was well patronized by resorters and others from Charlevoix. A number availed themselves of the opportunity to visit the county seat and whiled away a few hours in our natural park, which was not frequently saturated on the banks of the Boyne river. Other parties were out on day fishing, rowing, etc., while the sweet strains of music from the Boys' band added enchantment to all around.

It is pretty tuff when a "fellor" has to row six miles of a night to accompdate his best girl, after loafing tanbark all day, but such was the fate of a Boyne City hero. While returning home the other morning, a short time before the clerks crew, and everything else having popped, and been—well we can't say what—he but here is what we overheard him getting off:

"This world's a fraud
And all things prove it,
Can't I love my girl?
But how I know it."

Probably the poor fellow had been accepted and mourned that he had put his foot in it, or was it the other way—rejected and broken hearted.

Burgess.

Fred Sneethen has 12 acres of potatoes. They look well.

We had a much needed rain last Saturday, but not enough of it.

People are busy harvesting their winter wheat, and it is a medium crop.

Mrs. Leeds and family of Louisville, Ky. are visiting at her father's Mr. Josiah Gibson.

Some people are easily mistaken this dry weather about rain, especially when under a tremor.

Mr. Ben Lowe and family have gone to Cleveland, Ohio; they intend to make that place their future home.

There will be a greenback caucus held at the Gibson school house Monday, Aug. 2d, at 2 p. m. to elect delegates to county convention, by order of committee.

Barnard.

Come at last—rain. Welcome.

Mrs. James expects to return to her home in Canada this week.

Mrs. John Shepherd is expected home from Canada this week.

Ella Thorp has been quite ill for the past two weeks. She is attended by Dr. Kanaggy, of Banks, and is slowly recovering.

Mr. Avery has his pea weeders around the neighborhood again.

Will Burns has commenced work on his new home. We think Will means business.

School Report.

Report of school in district 5, Marion, for the term ending July 23, 1886: Number enrolled, 15; average attendance, 13.

Those present every day were Hattie Anderson, Elisha Geer, Roy Perce; absent one day, Sarah Bigelow, Julia Newman; neither absent nor tardy, Hattie Anderson; neither absent nor tardy during the last month, Hattie Anderson, Elisha Geer, Roy Perce, George Perce.

Those who did not whisper during the entire term are Edith Adams, Hattie Anderson, Alzada Bigelow, Henry Bigelow, Sarah Bigelow, Gordon Bennett, Elisha Geer, Lonie Johnson, Julia Newman, George Perce and Willie Thompson.

MATE L. A. LOVEDAY, Teacher.

Picnic at Old Mission.

EDX HAVENS, July 25.—The picnic at Old Mission yesterday was attended by over 2,500 people from Traverse City, this and other places around bay, the City of Traverse having 1,000 people on board, including the Traverse City band. Four hundred and twenty five people went from here and returned on the steamer Selkirk of Cleveland, which was in tow of the steamer Morley of this place. The Elk Rapids cornet band was also in attendance. A delightful day was spent, and no accidents occurred.

Clipped From Exchanges.

Elk Rapids Progress: Winter wheat harvesting commenced slightly in some parts of Grand Traverse and Antrim counties last week and will be in full blast this week. The yield and quality is said to be good. Spring wheat does not promise as well on account of the dry weather but there is a chance for this important cereal yet.... Andrew Ohmann, a Swede employed at the furnace, made an unsuccessful attempt to commit suicide by drowning late last Friday afternoon.... Antrim county contains thousands of acres of the choicest farming land, no malaria or diseases of any extent, plenty of snow in winter to handle with ease, wood, logs and lumber. Climate delightful. Forests of timber of the choicest varie

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

EASTERN.

Samuel K. Gay, chief clerk of the Pittsburgh Pension Office, has probably gone to Canada, leaving $12,000 or $20,000 with him.

The loss by fire in the terra-cotta works at Ravenswood, L. I., amounts to $60,000, and nearly two hundred men will be thrown out of employment.

Henry Bicknell, a 15-year-old son of J. A. Bicknell, of Portland, Me., shot his 13-year-old sister Mattie dead, with a gun which he thought was empty. He went insane over the affair.

A loss of $30,000 was occasioned at Allegheny City by the burning of the Union foundry, on Preble avenue.

Malarial fever is epidemic at West Elizabeth, Pa. There are at present sixty cases, many of whom are in a serious condition.

Capt. H. C. Chester, through whose heroism the members of the Hall Arctic expedition were saved, has just died at Nanaki, Cuba.

WESTERN.

Henry Scarsch and his wife, aged about 70, were found murdered on their farm near Janesville, Wis. The man had been shot in the back and the woman in the head. Search was made early Sunday, and apparently greed for gain prompted the crime. The barrels drawers of the home were ransacked by the assassin, but little of value was stolen.

A farm laborer is suspected.

The convicted anarchists of Milwaukee—Hirth, Simon, and Palm—have been sentenced to nine months each in the House of Correction.

The Calispel Indians, in the Kootenai county, Washington Territory, threaten to massacre the settlers, and a number of frightened farmers, with their families, have arrived at Spokane Falls.

It is known that "the Peoria Kid" (Jack Quinn) was at the head of a quintet of robbers who cleaned out the Minneapolis Post-office. Jerry Cook, a famous crackman, also took a hand.

The residence of District Attorney M. J. Gordon, at Aberdeen, D. T., was destroyed by an incendiary fire.

The Nottingham block, on Euclid avenue, Cleveland, occupied mainly by art dealers, was damaged by fire to the amount of $12,000.

A dispatch from Gratton, Wis., says that a large meteor fell recently on a farm near that place. The meteor entered the ground for some distance, and it is proposed to dig to it and secure it.

Dispatches from numerous points in Southern and Eastern Iowa say that only about half a crop of wheat and oats is being harvested. Corn is in good condition, but needs rain, some having fallen for six weeks. Hay is very light.

Green's Opera House, at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, was burned, entailing a loss of $26,000.

Complaints are still coming in from points throughout the Northwest of the injury to grain by the long-continued dry weather. Corn is suffering most.

In the anarchist trial at Chicago, the prosecution placed on the stand a German carpenter named William Seliger, who gave startling details as to the manufacture of bombs in his dwelling, and plainly unfolded to the public the plot to murder policemen at the Haymarket. The witness described the making of the bombs by Lingg (one of the defendants) and others. The work was "rushed" the day after the Haymarket factory fire, and the day after the explosion, exploded. There were no concealment among the workmen as to the use to which the "stuff" was to be put. They were shown at the police. In the language of the witness, they were "the best fodder" for persons marked for murder by the Socialists. Lingg, though he had been a resident of America only nine months, was the most violent advocate of Socialistic "reform" by massacre in this country. He devoted all his spare time to the manufacture of bombs, specimens of which were displayed in court to the consternation of nervous auditors. Some loaded bombs were exhibited in the court-room, but an agreement was reached that they should be taken to the lake shore and emptied. At his own request, Seliger has of late been locked up in the police station, to escape assassination.

SOUTHERN.

Jake Braswell, colored, was lynched near Flat Fork, Jefferson County, Ga. Braswell had horribly maltreated Dolly Woods, a little 6-year-old girl, while on her way to school. She identified him after his capture, and he confessed, saying that he would have killed the child, but thought he had when he left her. A crowd of one hundred whites and blacks held a conference, and gave Braswell the choice of being burned or hanging himself. He chose hanging, climbed up a tree, fastened a rope around his own neck and a limb of the tree, but then refused to jump off. A negro climbed up, tied Braswell's hands, and the crowd pushed him off with a rush. His body was riddled with bullets.

Mattie and Addie Joyner, aged twelve and eleven, attacked their father with an ax in his sleep, at Southampton, Va., and hacked him to death. The crime was committed out of revenge for a severe whipping.

F. W. Chase, Sheriff of Concordia Parish, Louisiana, is reported short $27,000 in his accounts.

Peter Sorrell, colored, assaulted Mrs. Dukes with a hatchet near Lulling, Tex. He was captured at a ball, and in the evening was riddled with bullets by a mob.

At Greenaburg, Ky., Glem Bishop, aged 20, a backwoods doctor and preacher, married his ward, Retta Boston, whose age is but 9 years. Bishop obtained the marriage license by fraud.

WASHINGTON.

United States Senator Miller is quoted as saying that in his opinion the Morrison surplus resolution will not be acted upon by either the Committee on Finance or the Senate at this session.

S. Davis Page has been nominated by the President to be Assistant United States Treasurer at Philadelphia.

Louis E. Church, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of Dakota, has tendered his resignation.

The Secretary of the Treasury has called $4,000,000 of 5 percent bonds, on which interest will cease Sept. 1.

The President has approved the bill allowing the construction of a bridge across the Mississippi River at Dubuque, Iowa.

Comandante D. B. Harmony has been designated to act as Secretary of the Navy in the absence of Secretary Whitney.

The President, accompanied by Secretaries Bayard and Vilas and Private Secretary Lamont, went to Albany last week to participate in the bicentennial celebration of the founding of that city.

The total values of the imports of merchandise into the United States during the twelve months ended June 30, 1886, were $635,446,048, and during the preceding twelve months $577,699—an increase of $57,723,277. The total values of the exports of merchandise during the twelve months ended June 30, 1886, were $675,832,922, and during the preceding twelve months $742,184,276—a decrease of $66,351,783.

POLITICAL.

Gov. Stoneman has called an extra session of the Legislature of California to take action as to irrigation.

It is probable that the chief political parties in Tennessee will pit the Taylor brothers against each other for the Governorship.

W. H. Clifford, of Portland, Me., is mentioned as the possible successor of John Goode as Minister to Germany.

Seaborn Reese, representing the Eighth Georgia District in Congress, failed of renomination because he neglected to answer letters sent him by constituents. Henry A. Carleton will be his successor.

The Vermont Prohibitionists' State Convention at Middlebury put in nominations a full ticket with Prof. H. M. Dailey, of Middlebury College, at the head for Governor.

THE INDUSTRIAL OUTLOOK.

The International Laborers' Union, at London, Ontario, requested the revision of its constitution, and adjourned to meet in St. Louis in 1886.

The American flint-glass workers closed their fourth annual session at Hamilton, Ontario. It was resolved not to join the Knights of Labor.

Six men, members of the Executive Board of the local lodge of the Knights of Labor, have been arrested at Wyandotte, Kan., charged with wrecking a train on the morning of April 26 and causing the death of two persons. The affair has caused great excitement among the Knights at Kansas City.

The Ohio Valley Glass Works at Bridgeport, Ohio, have been closed, owing to financial difficulties.

The National Association of Pipe Manufacturers met at Pittsburg, Pa., and reaffirmed the card of rates adopted in New York last month.

RAILROAD INTELLIGENCE.

It is hinted among railroad people, says a Chicago dispatch, that the pending effort to bind the warring Western railroads into a pool will be a success.

The new arrangements include the bunker business, which has heretofore been excluded, and has formed a bone of contention. The outlook for a pool has so nearly harmonized by the railroads that the various interests concerned are now working daily at the task of drafting the articles of agreement. The pool is intended to promote not only a strong combination but a lasting peace. In that case it is not improbable that the people of the West will be called upon to pay the expenses of the late war in the shape of higher freight rates.

By the end of July the track of the Duluth, Minnesota & Northern Road will be completed from St. Paul to Oregon, 0., 256 miles. The road will not be opened for Chicago traffic until September.

Sioux Falls (Dakota) special: "A large and enthusiastic meeting was held at the court-house here to consider the proposition of the Manitoba Railroad Company to build the Duluth line from Winner, Minn., into this city. The necessary aid will be given, and the road will be built into Sioux Falls before January 1."

In the Circuit Court at Springfield, Ill., the suit against the Illinois Central Railroad Company for alleged unjust discrimination in the matter of fares from Chicago to Mattoon and Kansas was ended by the jury bringing in a verdict for a fine of $1,000 against the company.

The Illinois Central Road has organized an engineer corps to survey a direct route from Chicago to Freeport, to connect with its lines at Dubuque, the track to be ready for next season's traffic. Surveys will also be made to St. Paul and into the lumber and iron regions of Northern Wisconsin, with the intention of reaching Lake Superior.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The business failures throughout the country during the week, as reported by telegraph, amounted for the United States 193, and for Canada 23, a total of 216, as compared with a total of 179 the previous week. Telegrams to Bradstreet's, while reporting favorable trade features noted a week ago, report quite general hardening of domestic money markets and a widespread improvement in mercantile collections.

Charles Mitchell, the pugilist, left New York for England with $21,500. Three years ago he landed on this side of the Atlantic without a dollar.

The Surgeon Lodge of the World, Knights of Pythias, at their session just held at Toronto, elected the following officers: Supreme Chancellor, Howard Douglass, Cincinnati; Supreme Vice-Chancellor, William Ward, New Jersey; Supreme Prelate, Dr. King, Toronto; Supreme Keeper of the Records and Seals, E. E. Cowan, St. Louis; Supreme Master of the Exchequer, J. Willey, Wilmington, Del.; Supreme Secretary of the Endowment Rank, H. Nelson, Washington, D. C.; Supreme Master-at-Arms, Charles F. Bunge, Mainz; Supreme Inner-Guard, Robert Newall, Arkansas; Supreme Outer-Guard, John W. Thompson, Washington, D. C.

The citizens of London, Ontario, have arranged with the directors of the Canadian Pacific Road for an extension to that city.

A revolution has broken out in the Spanish States of Chuachiva and Nuevo Leon, and armed supporters are crossing from the American side of the Rio Grande to participate in hostilities. The Federal Government of Mexico has sent Colonel Parras to New Laredo with 600 men.

A stage making its way in the Canadian Northwest Territory was attacked by robbers near Battleford, and plundered.

A New York dispatch says that there seems to be little doubt that Maloney, Keenan, and the other "bodies" taken from the Hudson have their headquarters from Montreal to Paris.

The total yield of the winter wheat crop in the Eastern States is reported to be a very heavy one, and in excess of that of last year. That of the Western States is reported to be prolonged drouth. In some States it is very light, especially in Ohio, where the upland hay is said to be nearly all dried up.

A circular on the fisheries question has been prepared by United States Minister Phelps at London, and secretly delivered to all leading fishing merchants in the United States, with a request to send all answers and suggestions to Mr. Phelps, to whom the matter has been referred by Secretary Bayard.

FOREIGN.

Nineteen men of the British warship Geshawk went ashore at Port Royal, Jamaica, and while there a storm arose. They attempted to return to the ship in the storm, and on nearing the vessel, their boat capsized. The next morning three of the sailors were found on the bottom of the boat. Only one, Port Henderson, and two on one of the royal naval boats, escaped out of the wreck, which they had swam. The other fourteen were drowned.

James Junior, of London, has been placed in a lunatic asylum for writing an offer of marriage to Queen Victoria and calling at Windsor Castle for an answer.

General Boulanger, the French War Minister, and Baron de Lareyre fought a duel near Paris. The Baron fired at the General without hitting him. Boulanger then fired in the air. Thus wounded honor was avenged.

The convention between the shoe-trade manufacturers of England, Belgium, and France, formed for the purpose of preventing ruinous competition, has expired. It is stated that the convention will not be renewed.

A London dispatch of the 19th inst. sums up the result of the Parliamentary elections as follows, with seven constituencies remaining to be heard from: Conservatives, 316; unionist liberals, 71; Gladstonians, 187; nationalists, 83; a unionist master of 332 ranked against 270 home-rulers. Thus far there is a majority of 122 against Mr. Gladstone on a Irish policy. The conservatives have a majority of 50 over the liberals of all shades, but they fall 27 below the united vote of the liberals and nationalists.

The price of silver in London was declined just 19 pence per ounce in the last fortnight.

Yokohama advices state that the cholera epidemic was then raging at Osaka, Hiogo, and Kobe, in most alarming. About one hundred cases are occurring daily at the first-named place and fifty at each of the other places. The mortality is very large.

Mr. Frederic Harrison, editor of United Ireland, was detained for five days in South Tyrone by T. W. Russell, Liberal Unionist, the latter's majority being 90.

The new gold field in the northern part of Western Australia is estimated to extend over an area of nearly 4,000 square miles. Already there is a rush of diggers toward the scene, which for aught any man knows may yet eclipse California in its palmiest days.

The Anglo-Russian explorer MacLean is making arrangements at St. Petersburg to found a Russian colony at New Guinea.

A Pekin (China) dispatch says the Russian fleet threatens Lazareff, because England occupied Port Hamilton during the Afghan Dispute.

The British Cabinet, at a meeting in London on the 19th instant, July decided to immediately place their resignations in the hands of the Queen, as a measure containing the formal resignations was made by the entire cabinet. After the Cabinet meeting Mr. Gladstone gave a reception in the council hall to a number of his friends, including Baron Rosebery, Earl Granville, Lord Foxbury, Baron Monson, and Arnold Morley. Mr. Gladstone referred in despondent terms to his staying powers, saying that he was doubtful if he could stand in the face of an embattled Parliament, but would do his best, but he urged his followers to prepare to rely upon other leaders.

The resignation of the Gladstone Cabinet was accepted by Queen Victoria on the 21st of July.

Two hundred anti-royalist rioters have been arrested in Marseilles, France. Two persons were wounded during the conflict on the night of July 20.

At a meeting held at Lima, Peru, it was resolved to petition the Parliament to expel the Jesuits from the country.

LATER NEWS ITEMS.

Hon. William Hunter, Second Assistant Secretary of State, died at his residence in Washington, last week, of old age and general debility. He was 81 years old, and had served continuously in the State Department for fifty-one years, having been appointed by President Jackson.

A war is in progress in the parish of St. Martin, La., between the officers of the law and a band of desperadoes. A colored man named Lorenzo Randal was shot by a white man named Mills. A warrant for the arrest of Mills was placed in the hands of officers. The issue came upon Mills and his father-in-law, one Sparks, and a fight ensued, the result of which was that three of the officers were killed and two wounded. Sparks and Mills then took to the swamps. It is said that Mills has with him some thirteen half-breed Indians and whites.

An alleged crank, calling himself Nathan Schuler, was arrested at Albany for dogging the footsteps of President Cleveland and swearing about him. No weapons, however, were found on the person of the crank. He argued his arrest, and said he deserved a political position as Eli was a poor man, and wanted to make himself.

A large grain elevator at East Dubuque, Illinois, belonging to Hassia Union, and used by the Diamond Jo Steamboat Line, was burned by fire. The loss is about $45,000.

Frank Molloy, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Molloy, the temperance evangelist, and Mrs. Agnes Storz, daughter of Jacob Wolf, of Leipsic, Ind., were drowned in Pine Lake, near Laporte, by the capsizing of a boat.

George Gray, son of ex-Senator Gray, of Delaware, a personal friend of Secretary Bayard, has disappeared from San Francisco, on a secret mission to the Siamese Legation, and it will most regret representatives of European powers.

Alonzo B. Thompson, the bankrupt wrecker, of St. Louis, has had quite a run of streets at Montreal. It is stated that his father and brother will pay the creditors the full amount purloined by the fugitive.

United Ireland, Mr. Parnell's organ, commenting on the political situation, says: "The Marquis of Salisbury will be compelled ere long to produce his measures. Coercion last year the Irish people have submitted to the bitterest privations and extraordinary patiently. The judicial rents are becoming daily more unbearable. It is absolutely hopeless to expect any redress from an English Parliament. It is more human nature for the Irish tenantry to longer refrain from helping themselves. Landlords will fight for their rents with fire, sword, or crowbar, thus obliging Lord Salisbury to prop Parliament to assist the landlords in carrying out evictions. Then will come the tug of war."

The Parnell election case was the subject of another debate in the Senate on July 22. Senator Teller said, in regard to the conference report presented by the Committee of Conference, that the Senate was nearly harmonized by the action of the House in agreeing to the report. He was in favor of the conference report, because it was the result of a political compromise between Senator Sherman said he rose to perform the most disagreeable duty of his life. He could not follow his colleague (Senator Jones) in his remarks. He had voted for the original proposition, and had gone through the entire process of the election, acknowledgeing the correctness of the decision. He believed also that if the election case were to be reopened, the result would be reversed. There was no doubt that Mr. Parnell had behind him the election of his colleague (not with his consent), by intimidation, by threats of violence and boycott, and by other means of political coercion. Under the circumstances, it was far the lesser evil that the Senate should yield to the House. But certainly sufficient evidence had been before it to warrant a contest. Senator Senator Frye, in supporting the minority report, said the conference report was a surrender of the Senate to the House, and asked whether the Senate from Ohio had himself been intimidated by Senator Jones, of Nevada, Senator Logan, of Illinois, Senator Cockrell, of Missouri, Senator Morgan, of Alabama, Senator Pugh, of Ohio, Senator Vance, Vest, and Eustis opposing the measure. In the course of the debate Mr. Hoar, Republican, of Massachusetts, said that the Senate was not in a position to make a very much like the attempt of a hypocrite to commit murder upon the House of Representatives. Senator Frye said, and yet it is proposed to make a compromise between the Senate and the House of Representatives, in consequence of which the House has agreed to reconsider the disagreeable and disgraceful action of the Senate, and that they were prepared to pay $50,000 to the contestant, Mr. Lee, and to pay the sitting member, Mr. Parnell, the mileage and per diem, which was the sum they had paid out for the contest. The Senate had agreed to pay $25

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

Democratic State Convention.

The Democratic State Convention to nominate candidates for State officers, and for the transaction of such other business as may come before the convention, will be held in Kelsey's Opera House, at the City of Grand Rapids, on Wednesday, August 18, 1886,

AT 11 O'CLOCK A. M.

Each county is entitled to one delegate for each 500 votes cast for Governor at the last general election, and one for every fraction of not less than 250 votes. Every organized county is entitled to at least two delegates, and under the rules adopted a delegate must be a resident of the county he represents.

JOHN J. ENRIGHT, Chairman.
H. F. PENNINGTON, Secretary.

Charlevoix county is entitled to four delegates.

Democratic Congressional Convention.

The Democratic electors of the Ninth Congressional District of Michigan are hereby notified that a convention will be held at HOOT'S HALL, IN THE CITY OF BIG RAPIDS, ON WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 1, AT 9 O'CLOCK, P. M., for the purpose of putting in nomination a candidate for Congress from the Ninth Congressional District, and the transaction of any other business that may properly come before said convention. On the basis of one delegate for each 500 votes cast for Governor at the last general election, and for every fraction of not less than 250 votes, the various counties comprising the said Congressional District will be entitled to representation as follows:

	Votes Gov. 1884.	No. of Dels.
Antrim	1823	4
Charlevoix	1018	2
Emmet	1935	4
Lake	1000	2
Manistee	2700	5
Mason	2562	5
Mecosta	1491	3
Missaukee	870	2
Newaygo	2175	4
Osceola	1239	3
Oceana	2000	4
Ottawa	3000	6
Wexford	2255	5
Total		38

WM. P. NISBETT, Mecosta Co., Ch'n.
G. G. HOYT, Muskegon,
A. J. MCLEOD, Lake,
DAVID E. WEBB, Newaygo,
LOU. E. MORRIS, Manistee,
JOHN R. SAVAGE, Antrim,
Democratic Cong'l. Com.

Democratic County Convention.

A democratic county convention will be held at THE VILLAGE HALL in Charlevoix on Friday, the 6th day of August, A. D. 1886, at 1 o'clock, p. m., for the purpose of electing delegates to the democratic state convention to be held at Grand Rapids, on Aug. 18, 1886, and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the meeting. Each township is entitled to delegates to said convention as follows:

	Vote for No. of Gov. 1884.	Dels.
Bear Lake	56	1
Boyne Valley	125	3
Chandler	105	1
Charlevoix	214	3
Charlevoix Village	204	3
Eveline	137	2
Hayes	107	2
Marion	161	2
Norwood	160	2
Resort	167	2
South Arm	39	1
Springvale	44	1
Wilson	90	2

C. J. STRANG, Chairman.
J. MILO EATON, Secretary, Democratic County Committee.

Greenback County Convention.

The greenback county convention to elect delegates to the State nominating convention, at Grand Rapids, on Aug. 17 and 18, inst., will be held at Lewis' hall, Boyne City, on August 28, at 1 o'clock p. m., and the several townships in Charlevoix county are entitled to the following number of delegates:

Boyne City	2	Marion	2
Boyne Valley	2	Norwood	2
Chandler	1	Resort	2
Charlevoix	3	Springvale	1
Evangeline	3	South Arm	1
Eveline	3	Wilson	2
Hayes	2

J. J. HILL, Chairman.
E. H. SHEPARD, Secretary.

Old Fashioned Democracy.

President Cleveland seems desirous of taking the government back to the doctrines of Jeffersonian democracy. He is insatiable ambition, and every man worthy of the name Democrat should say, amen.

The democrat platform of 1840 contained the following:

"It is the duty of every branch of the government to enforce and practice the most rigid economy in conducting our public affairs, and no more revenue ought to be raised than is required to defray the necessary expenses of the government."

The last democratic platform, the one on which Mr. Cleveland was elected, says:

"All taxation shall be limited to the needs of economical government."

It will be seen that the first step towards Jeffersonian democracy is also towards economy and low taxation. The most extravagant and entirely useless expenses of the government at the present time is that of paying interest on the three per cent. bonds, long past due, while there is money in the treasury sufficient to pay them. This is now costing the country over five millions a year, which expenditure we regard as the most criminal and prodigal waste of money ever known to this government.

No act the president could perform could be hailed with so much satisfaction, or would lay him as well on the shelf of so sincere a desire to return to Jeffersonian methods of government as an immediate call of the entire amount of outstanding three per cents. The extracts given above show the democrat party is on record for fifty years past against this shameful waste of the people's money, and opposed to taxing the people to piles up a surplus in the treasury. It is entirely within the power of the president to call in these bonds.—Ionia Standard.

The Democrats and the Treasury.

From the New York World.

If the present session of Congress is written down upon the record as responsible for some sins of omission, it will at least enjoy a good reputation as being substantially free from sins of commission. Its weakest point is in the matter of private pension bills, but the executive has done good service in weeding out the numerous objectionable ones. It has been a bad year for that industrious set of men whose road to fortune lies in extracting it from the government through legislation. Their plans have come to confusion almost without exception, and their crowds litter their mouthpieces on the floors of congress may be plentifully based on the date of adjournment approaches.

The work of reform has gone forward visibly and, of course it hurts. The efforts of Commissioner Sparks in the land office have drawn upon him frequent and savage attacks, the latest one being an endeavor to cripple him by cutting out an appropriation in the sundry civil bill for the pay of officers engaged in unearthing frauds. Some little advance has been made in the recovery of unearned land grants from the railroads in spite of strenuous opposition. The scheme to subsidize certain steamship companies under the guise of an alleged improvement of the mail service and American commerce has failed, though the senate is still engaged in endeavoring to compel the house to withdraw its opposition. The determined plans of the Pacific railroad men to secure another large grant from the people by threats and misrepresentations have been so far set at naught and, it is stated, will be pushed no further for the present. They will bear close watching, however. The amended for $80,000,000 Blair educational bill, which at one time had a prospect of success, has been smothered as has also his economy pensions measure. It is a little early to speak of the river and harbor bill perhaps, but it is altogether probable that in its dropsical state it will sink its own weight, and the Hennepin canal and kindred schemes with it.

The defeat of the upholders of these efforts to deplete the treasury is distinctly due to the democratic party. The recklessness of the republican senate has been marked, and the animus which prevades that body needs no more significant illustration than its speedy reconsideration of Mr. Beck's bill prohibiting members of congress from serving as attorneys or agents for land grant railroads as it was found likely to become a law. The democratic party is not in as good condition as it ought to be to go before the people this fall, but its record, as can be quickly recognized, is infinitely better than that of the republicans, and it behooves democratic members of congress to see that the contrast is maintained until the strain is ended by adjournment.

Keeping Their Promise.

On Wednesday last the democratic Congressmen showed the country that the democracy was sincere in promising to pay all the debt, and not into circulation.

The republicans, during the ruinous republican policy had saved from the people and locked up in the government vaults.

After a sharp debate the house by a vote of 207 to 67 adopted Morrison's amendment requiring the secretary of the treasury to pay out all the surplus above one hundred millions for the redemption of government bonds.

This is the most important action that has been taken this session. It is fulfilling one of the pledges of the democratic platform, and shows that a great majority of the democrats can be trusted.

And now if the democrats will finish the work they have begun and free the party from Mannigan and Randallism they will deserve, and we believe they will, receive the united support of the masses of the people against the money and tariff monopolists.—Independent.

C. S. Hampton has expressed himself to a Grand Rapids Herald reporter as believing that the nomination for governor will fall to the democratic side of the fusion arrangement this fall. In reply to the question "How about United States senator," he said: "If I was a democrat I should insist on naming the man."

During the height of the labor excitement in this city, the working men sent to Chicago for George A. Schilling as a proper person to guide them in their silly position on the eight hour question. Schilling responded to the call and delivered a number of harangues to anxious listeners, who applauded him to the echo, while they turned deaf ears to Hinrichs' friends. Schilling returned to Chicago and championed the cause of the bomb throwers, and subsequent events have disclosed the fact that he was implicated in the anarchist plot which will go down to history as one of the blackest crimes ever perpetrated in a free country. Such are the men the workingmen turn to for advice in time of trouble.—Grand Rapids Tradesman.

While bitterly opposing Cleveland, the New York Sun takes issue with the handful of radical sheets which can political capital in the pension vetoes, and gives its views thusly: "We congratulate the president, not only on his manful abandonment of an unknowable theory of executive duty, but also on the excellent use which he is making of his new found power. He is teaching congress a valuable lesson. He has vetoed no bill yet which ought to be law, and no law that as he sticks to that principle, the cause of honest government and the public interest are the gainers, no matter if the veto messages fly as thick as snowflakes in December."

The Use of Postal Cards.

Seven days ago there were 22,000 postal cards on hand at the post office, and a new supply of 50,000 was ordered. The supply was exhausted and 6,000 was borrowed from Grand Rapids and 3,000 from Battle Creek. These two were used yesterday, and the office was without a card for a day and a half. The total issue said in 14½ days was 31,000. The new supply of 50,000 arrived yesterday afternoon, and several persons were on hand for 500 and 1,000 bunches as soon as they were opened. If those bought have been used it takes nearly 2,000 used daily in the city for the past half month.—Kalamazoo Gazette.

Is This Why We Have Strikes.

Possibly the true reason for the numerous strikes which are wholly unreasonable has came to the surface at last. One of the striking switchmen of the Lake Shore Railway at Chicago said the other day that the strikers were by no means in a hurry to return to work, and they could stand it about as long as anybody else. He said: "Why should we be in a hurry to go to work, we are getting $2 to $2.75 a day for sitting in the shade, and we get plenty of sympathy free?" How do the toiling switchmen who are supporting a house hog in the heat and dust to earn the $1,000 a week, or more, to support these idlers take it? What is true in the case of these strikers is true in the case of other causeless strikes. If there were less opportunities for idleness there might possibly be more strikes. There is a great chunk of philosophy hidden here for those who look for it.—Grand Rapids Telegram-Herald.

A Nice Ohio Miser.

An old miser named James Walker died at his home in Dalmonia, this county, possessed of a fortune of more than $20,000 that is known of, and there is perhaps more to be discovered. He was a bachelor and one of the very democratic members of congress to be elected in a little log hut, and in the summer years lived principally on clover and bran. He spent most of his time in winter in bed, lest he are raw cornmeal to avoid the expense of fuel. Once, some years ago, he walked to the bank in Canton with coupons on $10,000 government bonds which he had cashed, and then walked to Wheeling to deposit the amount. He was dressed only in blue cotton pantaloons, brown socks and straw hat—no other garment—and he walked the whole forty miles barefoot. During the last two years he had been very broke and a sister cared for him. He had apparently a sound mind, and was credited with being present in business transactions. A mistake of a cent in his cash book occupied only two years ago caused him to walk twenty-two miles back to the county treasurer's office, which was given him by the treasurer out of his own pocket.—Bellaire (O.) Special Dispatch.

A Full Stock of

Jewelry and Silverware,

Optical Goods, Etc.

C. R. BELLINGER,

Charlevoix, Mich.

At the Old Stand.

A. J. McLeod

Can be found at the old stand with a

FULL STOCK OF MEATS

Of all kinds

At Wholesale and Retail.

HIDES, PELTS & FAT STOCK WANTED.

The Circus

Commences Next Week.

I am going to receive a large invoice of CLOTHING, bought from one of the leading houses in Rochester, N. Y., which I am going to sell at Prices that will draw me trade from all around the county.

I think the best advertisement a merchant can have is to have his goods advertise him in Good Fits and Prices that cannot be beat.

GEO. W. MILLER.

Summer Announcement.

TO THE LADIES:

We have just received a fresh invoice of summer goods in all such styles as are much desirable at this time of year, comprising India Linens, Percales, plain and figured Nainsooks, Manilla cloth and Batists, all of which are the leading wash fabrics.

We have also lately added to our stock a full line of ladies' muslin underwear, infants' robes, chemise, corset covers, etc.

The Peerless woven wire bustles may be found at our store in all shapes manufactured.

Our glove stock is being continually replenished. We have an elegant line of plain and undressed kids, silk, and jersey gloves.

Our trimmings comprise everything new and desirable, having plain, stripe, and brocade velvets, jet trimmings, and rosary beads.

We will offer until closed out at big reductions, all our parasols, shawls, light goods, prints, and ginghams.

Call and get our August fashion sheet, and ask us to show you our bargains.

F. W. CRAINE & CO.

PERRY WEED,

DRUGGIST AND STATIONER,

OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

HENRY C. COOPER

Undertaker!

CHARLEVOIX MICHIGAN.

Coffins, Caskets, and Trimmings Always in Stock.

Come and See my Stock of Furniture.

ALL ORDERS BY TELEPHONE RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION.

Come and See our Immense Stock of

BOOTS AND SHOES.

FOX & MILLER.

A Large Stock of

Furniture!

IN

Oak, Maple, Ash, and Cherry,

JUST RECEIVED BY THE

PINE LAKE IRON COMPANY

IRONTON, MICH.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., July 29, 1886.

PRODUCE MARKET.

Hay, loose, per ton $13; baled, $15
Corn, per bu. 50c.
Oats, 45 to 50c.
Feed, per ton, $20.
Pork, $10 ⅌ cwt, 6c ⅌ lb.
Salt, ⅌ bbl, $1.25
Syrup, "Gold Medal," 50c ⅌ gal.
Canned Tomatoes, 12c.
Canned Peaches, 15 to 20c
Coffee, Java and Mocha, 35c.
Farmer's Produce at Upright & Emrey's.

UPRIGHT EMREY & CO.

☞ A splendid line of Boots and Shoes, for ladies and gents, boys, girls and misses. More on the road.

☞ A magnificent lot of Dress Goods arrived recently, and we offer them at the very lowest figures.

☞ Hosiery in all styles a specialty, for both ladies and gents—best line in town.

☞ New Groceries received almost every day.

☞ Both Dinner and Tea Sets in Decorated Ware at cost.

☞ If you want some Choice Butter go to Upright & Emrey's.

☞ Fresh Kalamazoo celery at Jefferies' market.

☞ Best fresh butter at Jefferies' market.

Local Notes and News.

A fine shower last Saturday morning.

Petoskey is enjoying a building boom.

See F. W. Craine & Co.'s new card this week.

The camp meeting at Bay View is full swing.

Perry Weed sets up a fine dish of ice cream soda.

Rev. J. R. Stevenson, of Eaton Rapids, owns a dog 11 years old.

E. E. Mudge has Capt. R. W. Pollock's house ready for plastering.

"Uncle Dick" is feeling a mighty side every day at the Fountain City.

The Grand Rapids Daily Times has been absorbed by the Daily Democrat.

L. D. Bartholomew has made several improvements to his residence on State street.

Capt. Roberts is in command of the Higgie, Capt. Tim Smith taking his place on the Martin.

Say, have you seen the Van Raalte with the troops from Mackinaw, which were coming here last week?

A large rail and white streamer floats over McCabe's meat market, to advertise his good things to be found there.

The wrecking tug Sangatuck with a lighter raised a cargo of sunken logs from Nicholls mill boom this week.

There was a large crowd at the rink last Saturday night to see the graceful skating of Miss May Montgomery.

The ladies of the Episcopal church will serve ice cream on Friday afternoon at H. C. Cooper's furniture store, near the bridge.

W. C. Newman's porch on three sides of his hotel will make a valuable addition to the accommodations of the place.

A tramp, in speaking against the old stand, is an old and time worn battle principle and equally applicable in a village!

Rain is the time of year when farmers are supposed to have a little cash in their pocketes before you spend it in the counties for pleasure.

Jas. Lawrence has just finished a cottage for E. W. Barnes on the Charlevoix resort, which the painters have colored peachblow and marron.

Lieutenant Gov. Buttars has received official notice of the absence from the state of Gov. Alger. Our lieutenant is therefore acting governor of Michigan.

"Just or unjust," it was four weeks last Thursday since a drop of rain fell on this city, emphasizing within the time notwithstanding.—Eaton Rapids Journal.

Governor Alger being absent Archbald Buttars, of Charlevoix, is now governor of the State of Michigan. Alphabetical order—from Governor A. to Governor B.

The schooner Mockingbird is receiving a new foremast, in lieu of the one she lost during a squall, also a new bowsprit. All the work is being done at Washburn's shipyard.

Wilcox & Barton have a dock on Henry Newman's lot, south of the Bridge street home for their boat livery and ferry business, with a floor foot sidewalk to the street.

Candidates for county and State offices will soon be nominated. Then they will know whether their grandmothers were cross-eyed, and whether their great uncles stood in the aristocratic class.

Dr. Graves of Grand Rapids, has been making a "Dr. Tanner" experiment upon a leech. The thing has gone four months without a particle of nourishment and is still lively.

W. H. Healey has a load of East Jordan stock on sale at Stockman & Iddings' dock. These brick need no recommend from us. They are well known to be the best in the market.

The friends of Rev. J. R. Savage, of Mancelona will present his name to the democratic convention as a worthy one to be placed upon the ticket for the office of commissioner of the state land office.

Ben Davis, the pilgrim, canvassed Charlevoix last week for a portable copying press which does good work considering the very low price. He sold a few and will be here again in a few weeks to complete the canvas of the town.

A basket picnic will be held in the grove at Hinck's school house, in Marion, on Wednesday, August 4th. Exercises to commence at 9 o'clock. Should the weather be unfavorable it will be on the day following. All are cordially invited.

The Friant gave an excursion from Harbor Springs to Bay Springs on Tuesday, and one from Petoskey and Charlevoix to Cross Village on Wednesday, both of which were well patronized. This popular boat never fails to get to the front.

Representative Moffatt has secured the passage of a resolution to establish telegraphic communication between the Manitou Islands and the main land. This will not only be a convenience to the islanders, but a great benefit to commerce.

The Clara Bejie will make three trips to Boyne City Saturday, and will remain there over night the last trip so as to be on hand Sunday morning when she will leave Rodgers's dock at 6.40 for Bay View, calling at Advance and Horton's bay. She will leave Charlevoix at 8.45.

It is reported that a stock company composed mainly of Detroit physicians, are negotiating for the purchase or lease of the Powers mineral well at Boyne Falls. If the arrangement is made the company will erect a sanitarium and a large hotel at that place.

The Kalkaska cornet band accompanied the Friant on her return trip from the excursion to Harbor Springs last Thursday night, and played some of their excellent music in the streets of Charlevoix, besides tendering a serenade to Lieut.-Gov. Buttars. Come again.

The G. R. & I. annually consume 3,000 tons of ice in the refrigerator and passenger cars. About 5,000 tons are put up annually at Rome City, Kalamazoo, Grand Rapids, Cadillac, Petoskey and Mackinaw, and generally none is left at the expiration of the year. About 25 per cent melts in the ice houses.

Eaton Rapids Journal: The Charlevoix JOURNAL has just completed its third year and is the most precocious infant we've seen in many a day. That no attack of cholera infantum nor measles may carry it off in its tender youth, but that it may continue to live and thrive are our worst wishes for this bright, healthy exchange.

A workingman's prayer addressed to his employer: O man, wherever thou art in authority, be just and merciful to those under thy yoke. Consider the hard condition of those who have no homes. Consider the hard condition of those who have to sweat and toil at day labor to procure the bare necessaries of life, and who cannot use its luxuries and comforts.

The Charlevoix resort association at their annual meeting last week, decided to rebuild the Belvedere house on the old site at a cost of not to exceed $3,000. The plan agreed upon is a building 40 feet in depth, two stories high, with a north front of 130 feet, and an east front of 80 feet, so built as to hide the old buildings now erected. It will contain 50 rooms, all large and comfortable. It is to be ready for occupancy June 20, 1887.

The Halifax Journal, of Daytona, Fla., has the following concerning a two-horse power Shipman engine in operation in a boat at that place: "Precisely at one o'clock the editorial procession reached the end of the mill dock and clambered into the "Moundgrover" whose little Shipman kerosene engine was fizzing and snarling with all the fierceness of a black and tan terrier ready to chase rats up the Halifax river. We did not mean to run the boat and therefore cannot give her dimensions and tonnage. She is not so large as the Great Eastern nor so small as the ditty to Noah's ark. She was built in Boston chiefly of white cedar; has a 2 horse power engine noisy enough for a wheel barrow (junk) train, with a screw propeller,—little but mighty. She is capable of averaging from six to eight miles an hour and of carrying several tons of freight."

M. E. Church.

The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Jordon will hold services at the M. E. church next Sabbath, morning and evening; and it is expected they will lead the young people's meeting at 7 o'clock. All are invited.

Robbing the Grave.

Last Thursday, Azra Campbell, who has been in poor health for over three years past, was taken with severe pains in the abdomen, followed with spasms. A physician was sent for, but the spasms followed each other in quick succession, the pain becoming more severe, the pulse growing weaker and slower, until Friday noon when both physicians and friends conceded that death was at hand, and the friends who could be reached gathered around to watch during the closing moments. Mr. Campbell says he recollects of having a sense of hearing, but everything was dark, he had difficulty in getting his breath, and his body began to chill. As a last possible hope, some of the relatives concluded to send for Mrs. Dr. Sweetland, of the Metaphysical Bethesda, the other physicians having given up the case as beyond their reach. When Mr. S. arrived in place could be found and she labored with her patient about twenty minutes before any visible results were obtained; then Mr. Campbell opened his eyes and showed signs of consciousness. She continued the treatment another half hour, during which time the patient vomited apparently everything from his stomach, sweat so profusely as to wet his clothing till it could be wrung, and emitted such a foul smell from his body as to require disinfectants to make it possible to remain in the room. The pain and spasms were stopped and have not returned. To-day is the sixth day, and when we called at the house we found Mr. Campbell up and dressed, with coat and boots on, and apparently feeling as well and as strong as he had at any time for months. During the treatment no medicine of any kind was given, internally or externally. This statement of facts we obtain from Mr. Campbell himself. We leave it for the people to draw their own conclusions. Whether the cure is permanent is a question for the future.

Did Not Move the Property.

Some time ago Shoot Boston named a day about the first week in August, on which he expected to be ready to move the county property from East Jordan to Boyne City, and the officers said they would be ready. Last Thursday Mr. Boston concluded to hasten the matter, and with Mr. Healney went up with a scow, team, and necessary apparatus. In view of the good meeting of the board of supervisors to be held in Boyne Falls this week Friday, the dock owners concluded that there was something behind the movement more than was apparent in the expressed purpose to get the matter speedily settled. The docks being private, the owners exercised their right to refuse to permit the scow to land. A crowd naturally collected, and sustained the dock owners. No violence was offered, and no forcible resistance made to the officer, although the crowd defeated every effort to make a landing. Finally it was decided to permit the team to be taken off and fed, but none of the property was permitted to be moved.

We have from an eye-witness, a gentleman from another state, widely disinterested, that it was the best natured crowd he ever saw collected to oppose any movement where so much was at stake. There was plenty of opportunity to do bodily harm to the sheriff and his men, but no one was hurt, and no clubs, stones or fire arms were visible during the whole transaction.

What may be the result of this transaction, or whether a speedy removal will follow the special meeting of the board, we are unable to say but it is quite evident that the county seat question is not yet permanently settled.

School Exhibition and Picnic.

Friday afternoon July 23, at the close of the summer term of school at the Johnson school house, the school children with their parents and friends, had a picnic in the woods near the school house. The grounds and here well provided with tables and seats, and also with a pulpit, tastefully decorated with evergreens, through the kindness of a few of the gentlemen.

A sumptious and delicious dinner was served by the mothers, after which the school, now enlarged by the addition of many visitors, assembled in their audience occupied seats in front, and listened attentively to recitations, songs, and dialogues, which were well rendered by the scholars.

About five o'clock the company dispersed apparently well pleased with their afternoon.

Shipments.

July 22—Schr. Salama, 75 cords wood, French & Sutton, to Milwaukee.

22—Schr. F. M. Smith, 68 cords bark, R. Tulock, to Milwaukee.

22—Schr. Oneida, 100 cords wood, 70 cords bark, T. J. Mesch, to Milwaukee.

22—Schr. T. V. Avery, 180 cords wood, Perkins, to Chicago.

23—Schr. Starke, 100 cords wood, 130 cords bark, O. Anderson, to Milwaukee.

26—Schr. Willard A. Smith, 40,000 pickets, 315 posts, John Gilchrist, to Muskegon.

27 Prop. J. M. Ainsdinger, 19,000 feet hardwood lumber, 236,000 shingles, Glenn & Porter, to Chicago.

27—Schr. Radical, 70 cords wood, 100 cords bark, John Carroll, to Chicago.

27—Charlotte Rand, 90 cords wood, 130 cords bark, W. H. Dewey, to Chicago.

28—Schr. R. P. Wilson, 70 cords wood, one 2,000 posts, W. H. Dewey, to Chicago.

28—Schr. Mary Collins, 70 cords bark, French & Sutton, to Kenosha.

The following is a summary of the shipments from the port of Charlevoix for the week ending Wednesday evening, and for the corresponding week of 1885.

	1885.	1886.
Hardwood lumber, feet	382,000	149,000
Pine lumber, feet	20,000
Shingles	700,000	236,000
Pickets		40,000
Railroad ties	1,640	2,000
Cedar posts		3,815
Wood, cords	422	1,015
Bark, cords	1,462	328
Fresh fish, pounds		6,000

LEAVE YOUR ORDERS FOR

JOB WORK

AT THIS OFFICE.

Gift Schemes Not Required

TO SELL OUR GOODS.

All so-called "Gifts" are paid for by the Customer, and dearly too.

We offer Genuine Bargains in

NEW DRESS GOODS,

CASHMERES,

Tricots, Henrietts, Bouclas, Sergas, Crinkled Seersuckers, Piques, Ottomans Nikadas, Jersey Jackets, Broadheads, Lasvas, Boucle Jackets,

And a Full Line of Staple

DRY GOODS & GROCERIES

At prices lower than the Lowest.

Many of our Goods were bought during the recent excitement caused by the strikes, and we were enabled to buy at our own figures. We are offering values not to be obtained elsewhere. Our stock of is replenished and fully up to the high standard we endeavor to maintain. When others tell you Groceries are higher, do not believe them. Our prices are lower than ever.

GROCERIES

LIME, CEMENT, STUCCO, AND PLASTERING HAIR

Always on hand.

J. L. HURD & CO.

Bargains! Bargains!!

IN ALL

SUMMER GOODS

AT

ROSENTHAL & SON'S.

The time is nearing at hand when we shall have to clear our counters and shelves for our fall supplies. To this end we have decided to sell all Summer Goods way down at prices to suit everybody. Straw Hats, Straw Hats, in every style, shape, and at all prices. Flannel Shirts in all colors, just what you want to wear now-a-days, closing out very cheap.

Just give us a call and we are sure to please you.

Respectfully yours,

ROSENTHAL & SON.

Something New. More Light.

The Rochester double and triple Burner makes the Whitest and Best Light known.

THE Sherwin William's PAINTS.

Stoves, Hardware, Tinware, Notions, Fishing Tackle. The "double action easy Force Pump." Job and Tin Work.

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW & CO.

REPORT OF THE CONDITION

OF THE

CHARLEVOIX

Savings Bank

At Charlevoix, Mich., on Monday, July 5th, A. D., 1886, made in accordance with sections 13, 14, and 17 of the General Banking Law as amended in 1881.

RESOURCES.

Loans and discounts	$28,191 64
Demand loans	9,000 00
Overdrafts	1,000 00
Furniture and fixtures	437 00
Expenses	1,257 41
Due from banks and bankers	3,656 46
Legal tender and bank notes	2,000 00
	$45,544 91

LIABILITIES.

Capital paid in	$17,000 00
Surplus fund	1,700 00
Undivided profits	4,747 57
Dividends unpaid	1,000 00
Due depositors	20,796 34
Notes and bills re-discounted	300 00
	$45,544 91

I do solemnly swear that the above statement is true, to the best of our knowledge and belief.

FRED. A. SMITH, Cashier.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 7th day of July, 1886.

CHAS. J. STRANG, Notary Public.

MISS L. SPAULDING.

MILLINERY

and Fancy Goods.

CHARLEVOIX - MICHIGAN.

New Grocery!

Cor. Antrim and Grant Streets.

A. J. MUDGE

Would respectfully announce to the people of Charlevoix and vicinity, especially to the people of the northwestern part of town, and all coming in from the south, that he has opened a stock of Groceries in his building on the corner of Antrim and Grant streets, and requests all to give him a trial.

BUTTER AND EGGS WANTED

Owing to Special Rates in Photographic Stock, I will continue to make

Cabinet Photographs at $4.00 per Dozen,

Until further notice.

Dave Bradbeer,

Photographer,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Charlevoix Manufacturing Company,

MANUFACTURERS OF

Sash, Doors, and Blinds,

Screen Doors and Windows, and Moulding of all Descriptions.

Newell Posts, Balusters and Stair Rails of Soft and Hard Wood,

Kept in Stock and Made and Fit Up to Order.

PINE AND BASSWOOD SIDING.

Also Contractors and Builders, and General Jobbers.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

THIS PAPER is on file in Philadelphia, at the Agency of Messrs. N. W. AYER & SON, our authorized agents.

MY BALKY MULE.

BY WM. HAYNIETON.

Twas long ago, in summer time,
I sought my mule and sought to climb
Parnassus' hill.
I had a switch and then, with careless ease
I said, "Good lion, go at you please
And where you will."

"I'm higher heights I longed to try—
To reach the stars, to float and sky
O er Helicon—
I long for and, your aid I sought,
But here you are, you good-for-nought,
You won't go on."

She laughed a merry laugh, and then
She turned me to a green glen Amongst the trees.
"See yonder where the hawthorn blows,
The dulcet and the mountain rose—
Let's sing of these.

"Let poets used to loftier flight
Sing of the realms beyond our sight,
In strains sublime.
We'll sing the haunted leafy dell,
The wild wood love delights to dwell,
In number rhyme."

The wild rose blushed a rosier red,
And sweeter balm and bloom were shed
From thorn and tree.
The violet peered its modest face,
And smiled with such enchanting grace
It vanquished me.

And ever since that summer day,
Whenever my fancy wale I stray,
In meadow green,
The violet peeps from heart I hear,
And fairy music, soft and clear
Fall at my feet.

THE SPY.

BY CAPTAIN JAMES MONTFORD.

"I have been looking over an old diary to-day," said the Colonel, "which I compared the day I joined the forces at Washington.

"It was my firm intention at that time to keep an exact and minute account of every event that occurred within my knowledge. I continued it, the book would be of considerable interest to-day, but, for a variety of reasons, the idea was not carried out.

"The last time I wrote in it was the evening on which quite a remarkable character appeared in camp.

"I was then in Missouri. Our duties had for some time lately consisted merely in guarding the loyal inhabitants and preventing the gathering of reorganizations. The last was, of course, not possible in a strict sense. There were many bands of Confederates, who constantly harassed us, and skirmishes were the occurrence of every day.

"One day, just at sundown, a man rode into camp. He was a very sheer wraith, his legs strangely short and bowed. His face was red, with a short stub nose, glittering black eyes. Long, brown hair fell in a tangled mass upon his shoulders, and his clothes were greasy and worn.

"Notwithstanding his queer appearance he was a personage of considerable importance, and bore despatches from General Pope.

"After he had discharged his commands he seemed to have had liberty given him to mix with the troops, for he was soon making merry with men of his own cheerful disposition.

"Many knew him intimately or had heard stories concerning him and his exploits.

"He was a noted spy, said to be in the confidence of the commanders, and had received the name of Billy Black, as one seemed to know exactly why.

"I was a lieutenant when he told a funny story or two, and was so pleased with his character that I wrote an account of it and film in my diary.

"The day following we had a skirmish in which my horse was killed under me, and so I lost the diary.

"But this was not the most important loss of that day.

"Billy Black had been trusted with an answer to the despatches he had brought, and had left camp in the early morning.

"At night he returned on foot, with a quite serious wound in his head. He had been waylaid by a party of marauders, captured, and as papers taken from him, he had managed to escape during the skirmish with our troops, his party having been our combatants, and had now returned to report his loss.

"The papers were of considerable import, and the spy determined to recover them. He knew into whose possession they had fallen, and this made his task more possible.

"His wound having been cared for, he left camp at 9 o'clock, toward the encampment of the skirmishers.

"They had their headquarters in a little village called Corden, distant about seven miles.

"Black made such good promise that he reached the outskirts of his own second hours before daylight.

"He had taken care to disguise himself as a countryman, and he walked boldly into the town.

"He had not gone far when the sentinel brought him to a halt. Black made such simple answers, and his manner was so in keeper with his appearance, that he passed the soldier without encountering even his suspicions.

"The spy's papers had fallen into the hands of the captain of the troop—a young fellow new to the arts of warfare, but who was a gallant soldier nevertheless, and had made no foil the efforts of Black that afternoon.

"This gentleman had quarters at the inn, and when the spy approached the door he saw a light, although the curtains were drawn.

"Some persons were making merry in the house, for Black could hear the sound of laughter and clink of glasses.

"The rest of the little village seemed fast asleep, not even a dog came out to bark at the nocturnal visitor.

"Black considered deeply within himself for a moment, and then embarked upon open the door.

"It was locked; but the party inside had evidently heard his attempt, for the noises ceased, as though they were listening.

"The spy rapped loudly for admittance, and on instant later the door was unbarred, and there appeared a couple of inches, while a face pressed up to the opening.

"'Let me in,' said Black.

"The man referred, but our adventurer knew well how to plead, and, after some queerable talk, and with more than one of the merry-makers, he was admitted.

"Walking inside, Black looked around from the company and their circumstances closely as he dared.

"'I see were four man in the room—three seated in Confederate uniforms—the other was the proprietor of the house.

"Black saw with delight that the young Captain was one of the party, and immediately upon his entrance the officer began to question him as to his condition and business.

"The spy told a long, rambling story to account for his presence there that night, and used his powers of entertainment so well that he not only warded off suspicion, but the gentlemen, who had drank enough to make any merry comer agreeable to them, admitted him to their table and ordered more liquor.

"That afternoon had been the first time the young officer had distinguished himself, and he was in excellent humor with himself and all the world.

"He bragged a little about his skirmish, and he find he had made, something valuable, and that must be kept a strict secret, he said, and vaunted how he would serve the Yankees if he ever had another opportunity to try consciousness with them.

"Black suspected that this 'find' referred to the papers, and he managed to elicit a confirmation of this idea by a few deftly put questions.

"After the spy had been over an hour in their company the officer proposed to break up.

"The most sober one of the party left the house, the other three retired under the inn-keeper and Black assisting them.

"He saw the Captain ushered into a room at the front of the building; the windows opened on to the veranda, and Black seized the opportunity that offered to make a closer survey of the apartment and its connections.

"It was nearly bare of furniture, a poor bed, a table, and a couple of chairs being all it contained.

"There was no place to conceal the papers, but the Captain been in condition to think of reserving them.

"When Black returned to the bar-room with the unknown, the inn-keeper was informed that his unnoticed guest would do well to leave.

"This suited the spy very well, and after thanking that he could not be kept in the house so late, and, in the morning, he ended behind him.

"He did not go far from the house, however, but waiting about until the lights was removed and the innkeeper retired, he approached the veranda.

"Moving silently to the window of the Captain's room, he listened. All was still.

"He tried to raise the window; but it was fastened.

"Drawing a knife from his pocket, he began to cut the sash from about the pane secured the catch.

"He soon broke out the light, and with considerable difficulty found and threw back the latch.

"Then he paused and looked about him. Nothing was stirring, the night was dark, and the sentinels seemed to be sleeping.

"Slowly and cautiously Black raised the window and slipped into the room. He could hear the labored breathing of the Captain, and moved lower the bed with the stillness of a cat.

"He search around to the dark for several moments, trying in vain to find the clothing the Captain had thrown off.

"He was forced to light a match at last, and by its light searched the pockets of the clothes, which were thrown over the head of the bed.

"But his search met with no reward. What had become of the papers? As a last resort Black felt under the pillow. He found touched some articles; he was certain the papers were within his grasp, although he could not see.

"Just as he was not to accomplish his hazardous work without trouble. The sleeping officer had been aroused by the presence near his bed. Several times he had changed positions uneasily, and Black grew out the papers, he gave a gurgling cry and dashed up in bed.

"Black darted toward the window, at the instant the Captain leaped from the bed.

"Doubtless he saw the intruder, with the spoks clasped close to his heart, the spy ran down the street, followed by a bullet from the Captain's pistol, which cut a wonderfully close to his head.

"Every one was awake in a moment and a search was instituted for the spy, who now lay close concealed in the stable at the back of the yard.

"I walked out with them through a great forest, under the solemn stars. They saw no beauty, no sublimity in them. They chattered incessantly of the new trimming of their bonnets. They were used to the meaning of the stars and stars. The only thing apparently to which they were used to were the changes in ribbons, puffs, and flounces.

"I went to church with them, and listened to the great 'Te Deum' which has come down to us through seven worshipers of God. They smiled each other while they sang it to look at a dessing cloak in the next pew.

"We physicians now test the temperature of a patient's body, and if we find it below a certain degree, know that death is already in the heart. When I find so low a degree of indifperature in the words, actions, and thoughts of a human body, I begin to fear that the soul within is cold and dead beyond recall.

"Old John Bunyan taught us the same lesson in his picture of the man with the muck-rake, who incessantly scraped together the foul, perishable stuff, and kept his eye bent on it, while the great world opened around him, and the wind blew, and the sun shone, and God waited for him behind them all.

"Do we, too, use this rake, and what is it that we gather?—Youth's Companion.

Thousands Like Him.

She (in the morning)—Tom, dear, I wish you'd stop at Johnson's on your way to the office and buy me a lot of plants and seeds. It's just 40.

He—Five dollars! Bridkes me that! A good deal to lay out for that sort of thing. I should think half as much would have been ample enough.

She (in the evening)—Well, Tom, did you pay that bill?

He—No, I didn't. Fact is, going down town I met Bob Jiar, and bet him a V that his bird was smaller than mine. I lost—his hat came down to my earr—and when I paid him I found myself dead-broke. Have to save the money out of your next month's allowance for housekeeping.—Harper's Bazar.

She Found Her Mamma.

The north-bound train had left Austin, Tex., and Conductor Hughes was making his usual round collecting tickets. He stopped in front of a little girl who was crouched in a corner near the stove. Notwithstanding that a cold northwester was blowing, she was thinly clad in a torn calico dress, and her feet were destitute of shoes and stockings.

As she appeared to be alone, the conductor asked:

"Have you got a ticket, little girl?"

"What is that?"

"Didn't whoever but you on the cars give you a ticket?"

"Nobody put me on the car. We came all by ourselves, didn't we, dolly?" she said, hugging a dilapidated doll.

"Didn't your papa put you on the cars?"

"No; we didn't tell him we were coming, did we, dolly?"

The conductor took the little girl's hand in his. It was burning hot. For this features were flushed, and her eyes were glassy with fever.

"Your clothes are thin. Don't you feel cold sometimes?"

"Yes, we feel so cold, but we hug up close together, don't we, dolly? When I find mamma she'll give us some new clothes and some shoes."

"Where is your mamma?"

"I don't know, but I'm to find her. She told me to come to her. She came into my room last night and put her hands on me and kissed me—just as she used to before she went to sleep in a long box and went off on the cars."

The conductor was puzzled. Had the fever affected the child's head?

"I think you are lost, little girl. What is your name?"

"My name is Fanny, but mamma used to call me 'little pet.'"

"I'll send you back to your papa. You have got a papa, haven't you, in Austin?"

A look of terror was frozen on the little pinched features. Two thin arms were thrown around the conductor's neck.

"Please don't send me back to pa," she said in piteous accents. "My new mamma will whip me and lock me in the dark closet. Oh, please don't send me back! I'll be so good. I'll give you dolly. No; I can't give you dolly. Mamma gave me dolly, but I'll let you play with her. Please, let me stay for you till I find mamma."

"This is a bad case of stepmother," said the conductor to himself. "This is some poor, neglected little creature. I've a notion to take her home and leave her with my kids. One more won't make much difference."

"I'll not send you home. Just lie down here," he said, lifting her up a place to lie on one of the seats.

The child was contented and happy. She laid down and the conductor covered her up with his overcoat. Once or twice, as he passed by, he heard the little deadhead passenger talking to her dolly about what they would do when they found mamma.

At Taylor the north-bound and southbound trains met, and the passengers got supper. As soon as Conductor Hughes stepped on the platform the operator called to him:

"Here, Bill, here is a telegram for you."

He opened the envelope and read: "Arrest a little deadhead passenger conductor of south-bound train for Austin."

"Poor little creature," he muttered, "she has a hard time of it in this world, but I'll wake her up and give her some supper before I send her home to her folks."

He turned back into the car and threw back the overcoat from the sleeping child. She was fast asleep, but dear to her breast. There were tears on her pale, thin cheeks, but a happy smile on her little pinched features.

"Little pet" had found her mamma.

Bad Lawyers Good Judges.

"Yes," said the old fellow who had been beaten for Superior Court Judge in a close election, "I'm sorry I didn't always make good Judges. Most bad lawyers are given to conscience and honesty."

"All—Judge—"

"That's all right. I'm a bad lawyer. That's why I wanted to be a Judge. It gave you a lot of trouble and teaches you your business when other lawyers fill you up with facts and figures of the law. A good lawyer can never be trusted on the bench. He's always liable to give a decision against the clever lawyer in the case, just to show his smartness. A bad lawyer on the bench doesn't take law so much as justice into consideration, and no defendant or plaintiff ever yet was injured by a common-sense decision. It is a fallacy of our great republican form of government that the voice of the people spoken through the ballot-box purifies the men elected, and that the selection of a lawyer to the bench develops all the weakness of human nature that he may have had before. In the divine government purification precedes election. In the human government election precedes purification. I don't believe a lawyer's any more honest when they make him a Judge than he was before. They call him a lawyer until he becomes a Judge, then he is spoken of as a dist nguished jurist."—San Francisco Chronicle.

"NOTHING should be done hastily," cries one who wants to be considered a philosopher; but a man has only to get hold of a hot poker to realize that the philosopher is wrong.

HE—"And now, Sarah, what kind of an engagement ring would you like?" She—"Oh, gold, I guess, Tom; I am so tired of wearing imitation gold for engagements."

HUMOR.

A HOTEL should never advertise "but "it stands without arrival."

WHEN does a man impose upon himself? When he turns his memory.

A MAN may be ashamed of the fashion of his nose, although he follows it.

THERE is a time for all things. The time to leave is when a young lady says you low the walking.

KISSES are the finest food of smacks to sail down the stream of life with, although taking a buss is not bad.

IT is a bad idea to make one enemy in order to secure two friends, for, long after the friends have forgotten you, the enemy holds you in active recollection.—Arkansaw Traveler.

CONSCIENCE! who signs herself "Nervous Girl" writes to ask is it as can tell her of any remedy to cure a tickling sensation about the feet. Certainly; ask him to cut his mustache off.—Lynn Union.

THEY were parting at the door; the rain was falling, and she was afraid that he would get wet and take cold. "I think you should ride home," she said; "take a car or a bus." "I'm just going to take a hack," he said, and he did, as bold as brass.—Boston Courier.

THE most industrious letters are the lazes. The most extensive letters are the ones that have the longest tails. The most egotistical letters are the I's. The most letters—the J's. The poorest letters—the O's. The greatest bores—the Twos. The sensible letters are the ones that have the chorus.

Mr. St. John entered the railway service in 1862, as clerk in the general ticket office of the Long Island Railroad. On July 4, 1865, he became attached to the Rock Island General Ticket Department, progressing through various grades until on June 1, 1879, he was appointed General Passenger and Ticket Agent, a position he has continued to hold to date.

The vacancy made by Mr. St. John's advancement promotes Mr. E. A. Holbrook to the position of General, and Mr. George E. Smith to that of Assistant General Passenger Agent. Both gentlemen deserve the recognition thus given, and will doubtless make equally good records in the future as in the past.—Chicago Times.

Sweet Tranquilizer of the Nerves.

The great brain-pacifier of the nerves is a medicine which remedies their supersensitiveness by invigorating them. Over-tension of the nervous always weakens. Whatever, therefore, is a tonic, not a sedative, The latter is a temporary relief, but leaves the nerves disconcerted and more immediate necessity exists for producing quietude. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the tranquilizer of the nerves by endowing them with the vigor requisite for their healthy being (nerve disorder is invariably the ordinary expression of general unhealthfulness) the ordinary impressions produced by ordinary causes, which, in a healthy state, do not disturb them, cease to produce them. If one shows them to sustain a degree of tension or morbid sensitiveness which they should not, they are unable to endure without its assistance. Sooner or later, the invigorating medicine will be withdrawn from the territory of business and pre-occupation, and the nervous system, which has been fortified by the invigorating and narcotic influence of the celebrated tonic will persist.

Deserved Promotions.

President R. R. Cable, of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway, announces the appointment of E. St. John as Assistant General Manager of that company. Some months ago Mr. St. John received the appointment of assistant to the General Manager, and then assumed the duties which fell to the position which he now takes. There will be but one comment on the gentleman's promotion, and that, that in qualification, ability, and just devotion to the interests of the corporation he has served so long and well he fully deserves the place he has so closely chosen to fill. In whatever capacity he has been tested, from the lowest round of the ladder up through the various grades, he has demonstrated his entire fitness for the duties and interests intrusted to his charge, and discharged every trust with that advancement on merit was also a certainty of the future. His record is one that he may well be proud of, and those other old-time competents who have crossed swords with him in the numerous tilts that have enlivened Western railway history in the past will be the first to concede his eminent fitness for any position embraced in the railway world. A close student of railway problems, a acute observer of passing events, forcible, and with a touch of combativeness, when the aggressive is the right method, he has made his influence felt at the right time and place. That he will be universally congratulated is assured, and, better still, there will be no touch of envy on his jealousy in the chorus.

Deserved Promotions.

When you visit or leave New York City, save your baggage express and $1 carriage hire, and stop at the Grand Union Hotel, opposite Grand Central Depot.

615 rooms, fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, $1 and upwards per day. European plan. Elevator. Restaurant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages, and elevated railroad to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first-class hotel in the city.

Important.

Drinking in Burmah.

A correspondent of the Indian Good Templar writes from Bhamo "Bhamo is a fearful place for cheap drink and heavy crime; the native manufacture what is called sham-sho, it is supposed to be made from rice and lime. One may form an idea of its power when I assure you that it will dissolve a Martini-Henry bullet in thirty minutes. It burns the inside out of those who drink it. We are glad to hear from the same source that determined efforts are being made by Burmah Good Templars to suppress the sale of this poison, and they have indeed that Government will take action shortly in the matter in their own interest, if not in that of the temperance cause. Among other doubtful mercies, Burmah will be favored with a revised edition of the Contagious Diseases Act."

The Weaker Sex

are commonly strengthened by the use of Dr. J. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription," which cures all female derangements, and is sold by druggists.

MISPLACED switches cause a great deal of trouble, not only to railroads but also in the family circle.

HALL'S Hair Renewer is cooling to the scalp and cures all itching eruptions.

FAT is a greasy pole.—Tuesday Philosopher. And it takes a deal of sand to climb it.—Merchant Traveler.

A PHYSICIAN, writing of extraordinary fecundity, says that when he was in practice in Northern Vermont he had the care of a family in which the mother had given birth to twenty-five children, having three pairs of twins in the crib at one time. This woman had two sisters who had borne respectively twenty and twenty-one children. "It is needless to say that all three families are poor in a financial sense," remarks the doctor.—Dr. Fowler's Health Monthly.

THE KIDNEYS

Are sure to be Healthy if the Liver Acts Properly.

If the Kidneys do not Act Properly the Poisonous Bile is not Thrown Off in the Urine, Which Then is Forced out of the Back and Loins, Flushing Heat, Chills, with disordered Stomach and Bowels.

I have suffered a thousand deaths and I pray with my last breathing of the great benefit to humanity that I have found.

SYNVITA BLACKBERRY BLOCKS, THE GREAT LIVER CURE FOR SUMMER AND FALL COMPLAINTS.

Price, 25c, 50c, and $1.00 per Bottle.

FOR SALE BY ALL MEDICINE DEALERS.

Beware of Imitations.

Advice to Consumptives.

On the appearance of the first symptoms, as general debility, loss of appetite, pallor of complexion, followed by night-sweats and cough, prompt measures of relief should be taken. Nothing will do more good than the large therefore use the great scrofulous or blood-purifier and strengthener, Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." Superior to cod liver oil as a nutritive, and unsurpassed as a pectoral. For weak lungs, spitting of blood, and kindred affections it has no equal. Sold by druggists. For Dr. Pierce's treatise on consumption, send 10 cents in stamps. World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main street, Buffalo, N. Y.

A MAINE doctor declares that he has the spirits of three hundred Indians under his control. He'll get the pin-pam sure.

Startling Weakness,

general and nervous debility, impaired memory, lack of self-confidence, premature loss of manly vigor and powers, are common results of excessive indulgence or youthful indiscretions and pernicious solitary practice. A medical work treating on these subjects, wrapped, sealed address, with 10 cents in stamps for postage. Peabody Medical Institute, or Wonders of a Human Life. It does not injure the teeth, cause headache or interfere with business. Sold by druggists, 25c.

It enriches and purifies the blood, stimulates the appetite, promotes digestion of food, relieves flatulence and belching and strengthens the muscles and nerves.

For Intermittent Fevers, Lassitude, Lack of Energy, etc., it has no equal.

The genuine has above trade-mark and crossed red lines on wrapper. Take no other. Ask only for BROWN'S CHEMICAL CO. BALTIMORE, MD.

$5 to $20 a day. Samples worth $1.00 FREE. Address STINSON & CO. Portland, Maine.

JAMS, JELLY,

Table Syrup, Mince Meat, Pickles, Ketchup, Curing and Spicing, Making be sweet wine—sound fun with every dime. Sent on receipt of 10 cents. Address

The Superior of WINTER PRESTO Strong, Ill.

FALSE, HARDS, FEET,

and all their imperfections, including Bunions, Corns, Ingrowing Nails, Sweating Feet, Chilblains, Chapped Hands, Rough Skin, Scaly Skin, Dry Skin, Shrivelled Skin, Chilly Skin, Shrunken Skin, Coarse Skin, Ugly Skin, Sore Skin, Hot Skin, Cold Skin, Wet Skin, Dry Skin, Thick Skin, Thin Skin, Hairy Skin, Smooth Skin, Rough Skin, Soft Skin, Hard Skin, Fair Skin, Dark Skin, Clean Skin, Dirty Skin, Healthy Skin, Diseased Skin, Skin Skin, Skin Skin, Skin

TRY DR. CROUTER'S DYSPEPSIA CURE,
For Indigestion, Nausea, Heartburn, Loss of Appetite, Etc.
If you want the best PILLS sold, ask for CROUTER'S ANTI-BILIOUS GRANULES. Manufactured by
G. W. Crouter Druggist.

Temperance Column.

Conducted by a Committee of the W. C. T. U.

OFFICERS.

President—Mrs. G. W. Jefferson.
First Vice President—Mrs. A. A. Cox.
Second Vice President—Mrs. L. E. Models.
Third Vice President—Mrs. R. Suffell.
Recording Secretary—Miss Julia Mason.
Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. L. E. Allen.
Treasurer—Mrs. C. J. Strang.

What is Prohibition?

BY W. JENNINGS DEMOREST.

The sages and philosophers of all ages, from the earliest history of the world down to the present time have devoted their best energies, time, and thought to the great and all-absorbing problem, how to secure most efficiently the prohibition of the evils to which our humanity is liable, and as all aspirations, all instincts, and passions are constantly clamoring for gratification, life itself being one endless struggle for gratification, it is both natural and inevitable that we should be constantly grasping after happiness, But while our instincts clamor for gratification, and our reasoning faculties often lead us on, we are constantly met with an imperative demand for prohibition. We find there is no such thing as unbridled, unchecked passion or impulse without destruction—in other words, prohibition is the safety valve and guide or necessary restraint for our life and civilization. Prohibition of the undue exercise of our susceptibilities is the one and most indispensable requisite both for the continuance of life or the enjoyments that are obtained in it. Relief from pain, suffering, misery, wretchedness, and the loss of every thing that makes life desirable, and even life itself, is dependent on the prohibition of wrong. All that we have and are and expect to be is dependent on prohibition. Prohibition is the Alpha and Omega, the grand cause of political, moral, and religious restraint. Prohibition controls our moral preceptions and justifies our claim to civilization. It furnishes bridges for our intelligent convictions over the bark river of our own selfishness and gives a thrill of pleasure to know that we are secure from the ravages of the many evils that would otherwise lay in wait.

Prominent in first, last, and always in every act of life in which our instincts and passions are involved, and this is just as true of ourselves per sonally as is true of a community or of nations. Prohibition keeps all the wheels of commerce adjusted so as to run without friction. Prohibition regulates the interests of society and makes it possible for human beings to live in harmony with each other. Prohibition adjusts the conflicting interests of all the nations of the globe, and the prohibition that God has put upon the whole universe keeps the worlds in their proper sphere, and, in fact, prohibition is God's will in exercise, his grand fiat. The essence of all God's power and attributes is embodied in the prohibition of evil for the security of good, or, in short, God's universal sovereignty. Prohibition, therefore, is one of the most far reaching, significant words in our language. All of God's dealings with his people in his word and in his love to the world is an evidence and embodiment of prohibition.

The first words of the decalogue are prohibition, the last words are prohibition, and the whole ten commandments, in only and proclaim prohibition as God's universal law to mankind. The basis and virtue of all laws, both human and divine, is prohibition, and prohibition of the liquor traffic now comes to us as the dawn of a new resurrection. It brings with its step only as to some the harbinger of a new development of virtue and christian civilization.

At present, the whole world is in a whirlpool of selfish and depraved indulgence of vitiated appetites and sordid greed for money, that has blunted conscience and sunk the people into a vortex of crime and wretchedness, that makes the horrors of pestilence and famine dwindle into insignificance when compared to the awful devastation that the liquor traffic has made of happy homes, and the destruction of the lives, health, and property of its victims. We hear the echoes of prohibition reverberating throughout the land, the moral and christian sentiment of the people sounding the death-knell of the greatest oppression and degradation that the world has yet known. The awful rum traffic, with its cohorts and emissaries of Satan, are also marshaling their forces in a united and determined conflict with a frenzied desperation to combat and destroy our civilization, but we are just as determined that prohibition shall succeed, and we know that with right and God on our side "one shall chase a thousand and two put ten thousand to flight." In the end, prohibition will triumph because it is right—manifesting will be put under the ban of prohibition because it is wrong.

We are to have prohibition because God and humanity has decreed that rum selling is a curse—a curse to our country, a curse to our homes, a curse to ourselves, and a curse to the rum seller. Wherefore, every claim and sentiment of virtue, intelligence, and religion demands the prohibition of the rum traffic. We demand prohibition for the security of our lives and fortunes and our honor. With high aspirations and heroic endeavor, we hail the signs of the times as harbingers of a new moral revolution that is to inaugurate the overthrow of the liquor traffic by prohibition.

"Prohibition—give rum to that poor same, While listening millions lisp its honest name, Speak! speak! it hinter lips and cheek; It is a holy word—speak it, oh speak!

The swelling ear, the callous heart awake, The rum-seller's consequence assail in gulps, Speak! speak! it hinter lips and cheek; And prohibition rule the peopled earth, Then shall the wrong, the slave, the martyr, weep, The based on truth, and truth has set free."

From Demorest's Monthly for August.

STAUFFER'S BROADCAST
Hand-Seeder.

This new invention possesses many qualities peculiarly adapted to farmers of this vicinity.

TEN REASONS:

1. It sows the roughest or smoothest soils.
2. It sows nearly all kinds of grain and seeds, large and small. Wheat, barley, clover, timothy, rutabaga, etc.
3. It sows any desired quantity. One-fourth pound of rutabaga seed can be spread over an acre of ground with perfect ease and accuracy.
4. It sows rapidly. With wheat it covers 40 feet to the round. Clover 42; clover and timothy mixed 36. Ten acres of clover sowed in 2½ hours.
5. It is not affected by quite a strong wind.
6. It is quickly adjusted to different quantities of grain.
7. It cannot clog.
8. It is easily operated.
9. It is cheap.
10. It is durable.

Patented by ISAAC STAUFFER, of Carpenter, Kosciusko Co., Mich. Sold by

UPRIGHT & EMREY,
Call and examine it. Charlevoix, Mich.

John Nicholls,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,
Manufacturer of and dealer in
HARDWOOD AND PINE
LUMBER!
ALSO
Dressed lumber, Oar Blades,
WHEEL TUNGUES, SPOKES, LATH, ETC.
LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER

MORTGAGE SALE.

Whereas, default has been made in the payment of the money secured by a mortgage made and dated the 4th day of December, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four, by Nancy Hoane to the Pine Lake Iron Company, a corporation created and existing under the laws of the state of Illinois, and doing business in the county of Charlevoix, in the state of Michigan, which said mortgage was in the office of the register of deeds of the said county of Charlevoix, in Book 3 of mortgages, at page 54, on the 1st day of January, in the year A. D. one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five, the said Pine Lake Iron Company has duly assigned said mortgage, and whereas, the said Pine Lake Iron Company, has duly assigned said mortgage, and whereas, the said Pine Lake Iron Company, has exercised and doth now exercise the option to it given in and by said mortgage, and has declared and doth hereby declare the whole amount of principal secured by and mentioned in said mortgage, to be now due and payable, and whereas, the said mortgage has become due, the amount claimed to be due on said mortgage at the date of this notice is one sum of one hundred and fifty-three dollars and ninety cents, and the further sum of thirty-five dollars as an attorney's fee in the foreclosure of said mortgage, which is the whole amount claimed to be due thereon, and no suit or proceeding at law or in chancery having been instituted to recover the debt now remaining secured by the said mortgage, or any part thereof, and the power of sale contained therein has become operative. Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale contained therein and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the amount aforesaid, and all costs and charges of sale and an attorney's fee in the foreclosure of said mortgage, which is the whole amount now claimed to be due on said mortgage, which is the whole amount claimed to be due thereon, and no suit or proceeding at law or in chancery having been instituted to recover the debt now remaining secured by the said mortgage, or any part thereof, whereby the power of sale contained therein has become operative, will be sold at public vendue, at the time and place of holding the circuit court in said county, on the 8th day of September, A. D. 1886, at one o'clock in the forenoon, all or so much of the premises described in said mortgage as may be necessary to satisfy the principal, interest, and costs in said cause, of the following described parcel of land, to wit: The northwest quarter (¼) of the northwest quarter (¼) of section twenty (20), in township thirty (30) north of range twenty (20) west, being in the township of South Arm, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, containing forty (40) acres of land according to the United States survey.

Dated this 4th day of June, A. D. 1886.

FRANK E. POGUE,
Circuit Court Commissioner,
Charlevoix County, Mich.

Cruikshank & Grier,
Solicitors for Complainant.
Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.

DEFAULT HAS BEEN MADE IN THE PAYMENT of the money secured by a mortgage made and dated the 6th day of December, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four, by Nancy Hoane to the Pine Lake Iron Company, a corporation created and existing under the laws of the state of Illinois, and doing business in the county of Charlevoix, in the state of Michigan, which said mortgage was in the office of the register of deeds of the said county of Charlevoix, in Book 3 of mortgages, at page 56, on the 1st day of January, in the year A. D. one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five, the said Pine Lake Iron Company has duly assigned said mortgage, and whereas, the said Pine Lake Iron Company, has duly assigned said mortgage, and whereas, the said Pine Lake Iron Company, has exercised and doth now exercise the option to it given in and by said mortgage, and has declared and doth hereby declare the whole amount of principal secured by and mentioned in said mortgage, to be now due and payable, and whereas, the said mortgage has become due, the amount claimed to be due on said mortgage at the date of this notice is one sum of one hundred and fifty-three dollars and ninety cents, and the further sum of thirty-five dollars as an attorney's fee in the foreclosure of said mortgage, which is the whole amount claimed to be due thereon, and no suit or proceeding at law or in chancery having been instituted to recover the debt now remaining secured by the said mortgage, or any part thereof, and the power of sale contained therein has become operative. Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale contained therein and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the amount aforesaid, and all costs and charges of sale and an attorney's fee in the foreclosure of said mortgage, which is the whole amount now claimed to be due on said mortgage, which is the whole amount claimed to be due thereon, and no suit or proceeding at law or in chancery having been instituted to recover the debt now remaining secured by the said mortgage, or any part thereof, whereby the power of sale contained therein has become operative, will be sold at public vendue, at the time and place of holding the circuit court in said county, on the 8th day of September, A. D. 1886, at one o'clock in the forenoon, all or so much of the premises described in said mortgage as may be necessary to satisfy the principal, interest, and costs in said cause, of the following described parcel of land, to wit: The northwest quarter (¼) of the northwest quarter (¼) of section twenty (20), in township thirty (30) north of range twenty (20) west, being in the township of South Arm, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, containing forty (40) acres of land according to the United States survey.

Dated this 4th day of June, A. D. 1886.

FRANK E. POGUE,
Circuit Court Commissioner,
Charlevoix County, Mich.

Cruikshank & Grier,
Solicitors for Complainant.
Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Default has been made in the payment of the money secured by a mortgage dated the 25th day of April, 1883, executed by Thomas J. Kirkland and Julia Ann Kirkland, to Elias C. Kirkland, which said mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds of Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 26th day of October, 1884, in liber 3 of mortgages, on page 36, and the said mortgagees having elected to consider the whole amount of said mortgage due, by reason of non-payment of the same at the date of this notice is the sum of five hundred and ninety-three dollars, principal and interest, and the further sum of thirty-five dollars as an attorney's fee, in the foreclosure of said mortgage, and no suit or proceeding at law or in equity has been commenced to recover the debt so secured, or any part thereof. Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and in pursuance of the statute, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by sale of the premises described in said mortgage, at public auction, to the highest bidder at the front door of Lewis' hotel (that being the last place of holding the circuit court in said county), in Boyne City, Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 8th day of September, A. D. 1886, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon. The premises are described in said mortgage as follows: All that certain piece or parcel of land situated in the township of Evangeline, county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, described as follows, to wit: The south half of the quarter (¼) section twenty-eight (28), township of Boyne City, north of range six (6) west, except seventy-five and one-half acres heretofore sold and conveyed off from the north side of said quarter section above described.

Dated June 8, A. D. 1886.

ELIAS C. KIRKLAND,
Mortgagee.

FAIRTHORP & GIBSON,
Attorneys for Mortgagee.
Charlevoix, Mich.

Detroit, Mackinac & Marquette Railroad.

"Mackinaw Short Line."

Only direct route between the East and South and the Upper Peninsula of Michigan.

Time Table taking effect June 21, 1886.

GOING WEST: Read down.	STATIONS.	GOING EAST: Read up.
†A. M. / †P. M.		†A. M. / †P. M.
3 30 / 8 00	....Detroit....	7 00 / 10 00
†P. M. / †A. M.		†P. M. / †A. M.
10 40 / 6 50	St. Ignace..	8 30 / 6 00
10 50 / 7 00	Gaudette..	8 18 / 5 48
4 20 / 10 45	Pickford..	6 18 / 3 38
4 30 / 10 55	Rexton..	6 08 / 3 28
4 50 / 11 15	Eckman..	5 48 / 3 08
5 00 / 11 25	Germfask..	5 38 / 2 58
5 20 / 11 45	Marquette..	5 18 / 2 38
†A. M. / †P. M.		†P. M. / †P. M.
8 00 / 12 25	Marquette..	12 45 / 1 30
8 06 / 12 31	Shingleton..	12 39 / 1 24
8 15 / 12 40	Munising..	12 30 / 1 15
8 35 / 1 00	Lake Superior..	12 05 / 12 45
8 45 / 1 10	Emmons..	11 55 / 12 35
8 50 / 1 15	Chatham..	11 50 / 12 30

Mixed train leaves Marquette at 6 00 p. m., arrives Marquette 8 30 p. m.; leaves Marquette 7 00 a. m., arrives 9 30 a. m.

CONNECTIONS:

(1) Via M. C. Co.'s boats, with Michigan Central and Grand Rapids & Indiana railroads, and Chicago & Milwaukee Transportation Line, and Cleveland, Mackinac & Detroit line steamers, for Detroit, Cleveland, Buffalo, and all points southeast and south. The boats of this line leave St. Ignace Monday and Wednesday morning, Thursday and Saturday. (2) With Wabash and Milwaukee lines at Sault Ste. Marie, Thursday and Saturday, and Wednesday and Sunday, for Duluth, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Winnipeg, etc., and points on Chicago and Northwestern railway.

Standard—Central time. †Daily. ‡Daily, except Sunday. *Stops on signal.

A. WATSON,
Gen'l Pass'r Agt. E. B. ALLEN,
Gen'l Pass & Ticket Agt.

HANNAH, LAY & CO.'S STEAMER LINE.

SEASON OF 1886.

CITY OF GRAND RAPIDS.

CAPT. O. E. WILSON.

GOING NORTH, Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, will leave Traverse City 1.45 p. m., Northport 3.30, Charlevoix 11.30, Petoskey 4.30 p. m., Harbor Springs 5.30 p. m., arrive Mackinaw City 7.00, Mackinac Island 7.45, arriving at Cheboygan 8.30 p. m.

GOING SOUTH, on Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays, will leave Mackinac Island 7.30, Mackinaw City 8.00, Harbor Springs 11.45 a. m., Cross Village 12.15, Harbor Springs 12.45 Petoskey 1.30 p. m., Charlevoix 2.45, Northport 5.15, arriving at Traverse City 7.45 P. M.

T. S. FAXTON
Gen'l Pass. & T. Agt.

GOING NORTH, Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays, will leave Traverse City 7.00 a. m., Torch Lake 9.15, Norwood 10.30, Charlevoix 11.45, Northport 1.15 p. m., Harbor Springs Cross Village 4.30, Mackinaw City 7.00. Mackinac Island 8.15, arriving at St. Ignace 8.45 p. m.

GOING SOUTH, Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, will leave St. Ignace 6.00 a. m., Mackinac Island 7.00, Mackinaw City 7.45, Cross Village 10.30, Harbor Springs 11.15 a. m., Petoskey 11.45, Charlevoix 2.45, Norwood 4.15, Torch Lake 5.30, arriving at Traverse City 7.45 P. M.

GOOD CONNECTIONS will be made at Traverse City and Petoskey with Grand Rapids and Indiana trains on the G. R. & I. R. R.; at St. Ignace with Michigan Central R. R.; at Mackinaw City and St. Ignace with the City of Traverse from Chicago every Wednesday morning; also on Wednesday evenings between Chicago and Mackinac, and on Fridays, Chicago and St. Ignace. At St. Ignace with the Detroit & Cleveland Steam Navigation Co.'s line of steamers, and with the steamer Peninsula for Sault Ste. Marie.

Traverse Bay Route.

STEAMER LOU. A. CUMMINGS—Capt. George Parks.

Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, leave Old Mission at 2.30 a. m., arriving at Traverse City 5.00 p. m., leave Traverse City 7.30 p. m., arrive Northport 8.30 p. m.

Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturdays, leave Northport at 7.30 a. m., arrive at Traverse City at 11.00 a. m., leave Traverse City 2.30 p. m., arrive at Old Mission 5.00 p. m.

The steamer stops at Elk Rapids once every day, and touches at Suttons Bay twice a day. Connections made at Northport with the City of Grand Rapids, and at Traverse City with G. R. & I. Railroad.

Harbor Springs, Petoskey, Charlevoix, and East Jordan.

STEAMER THOMAS HESLEP.

CAPT. R. VANDERKORF.

Morning—Leave Harbor Springs 7.00, Petoskey 8.00, Charlevoix 9.30, arrive East Jordan 11.30. Afternoon—Leave East Jordan 1.30, Charlevoix 3.45, Petoskey 5.30, arrive Harbor Springs 6.30. Stopping at intermediate points on the east side of the bay, north and south.

Charlevoix and East Jordan.

Steamer ROLLO—Capt. John Mason.

Morning—Leave Charlevoix 6.30, arrive East Jordan 8.00. leave East Jordan 9.00, arrive Charlevoix 11.00. Afternoon—Leave Charlevoix 2.00, arrive East Jordan 3.30; leave East Jordan 4.30, arrive Charlevoix 6.30. Stopping at intermediate points.

Steamer NORTH STAR—Capt. Mel. Thompson.

Morning—Leave East Jordan 6.30, arrive Charlevoix 8.30; leave Charlevoix 9.30, arrive East Jordan 11.30. Afternoon—Leave East Jordan 2.00, arrive Charlevoix 4.00; leave Charlevoix 5.00, arrive East Jordan 6.30. Stopping at intermediate points.

Charlevoix and Boyne.

Steamer CARL S. HELLER—Capt. Robert Orr.

Morning—Leave Charlevoix 8.00, arrive Boyne 8.30; leave Boyne 8.30, arrive Charlevoix 9.00. Afternoon—Leave Charlevoix 2.00, arrive Boyne 2.30; leave Boyne 3.00, arrive Charlevoix 3.30. Stopping at intermediate points.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Table in effect January, 1886.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5
Cincinnati..		7 35a	10 30p
Fort Wayne..	8 45pm	12 40p	3 50a
Fort Wayne..		2 40p	7 50a
Kalamazoo..		4 40p	9 40a
Battle Creek..		5 10p	10 10a
G.R. Junc..		6 00p	11 00a
G.R. & I. Junc..	6 00am	7 00p	11 00a
D.G.R. & M. Junc..	6 05	7 05p	11 05a
Howard City..	6 50	7 50p	11 50a
Sta. Rapids..	8 15	9 15p	1 15p
Reed City..	9 55	10 55p	2 55p
Cadillac..	10 45	11 45p	3 45p
Leaflet..	11 05	12 05a	4 05p
Cadillac..	11 05	12 05a	4 05p
Manistee..	11 40am	12 40p	5 40p
Kalkaska..		2 40p	7 50p
Grayling..		3 15p	8 25p
Wolverine..		5 40p	10 50p
Pellston..		6 20p	11 30p
Mackinaw City..		7 00p	12 10a

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6
Mackinaw City..		7 15am	2 20pm
Harbor Springs..		8 00	3 05
Petoskey..		8 15	3 20
Boyne Falls..		8 45	12 15
Alba..		9 00	12 30
Kalkaska..		9 35	1 05
Grayling..		10 05	1 35
Wolverine..		12 40pm	3 55
Gaylord..		1 20	4 35
Pellston..		2 50	6 05
Cheboygan..		3 20	6 40
Mackinaw City..		3 50	7 10
Manistee..	7 15am	3 40	10 40p
Cadillac..	8 10	4 35	11 35
Leaflet..	8 25	4 50	11 50
Cadillac..	8 25	4 50	11 50
Reed City..	9 00	5 25	12 25a
Big Rapids..	9 30	6 00	1 00
Howard City..	9 50	6 20	1 20
D.G.R. & M. Junc..	9 55	6 25	1 25
G.R. & I. Junc..	10 00	6 30	1 30
G.R. Junc..	10 05am	6 35pm	1 35am
Battle Creek..	10 45	7 15	2 15
Kalamazoo..	11 15	7 45	2 45
Fort Wayne..		12 10am	7 15am
Cincinnati..		7 05pm	1 15pm

C. L. LOCKWOOD, G. P. A., Chicago.
J. CROSS, Gen'l Superintendent.

THE LIGHT RUNNING
NEW HOME
SEWING MACHINE
HAS NO EQUAL.
PERFECT SATISFACTION.
New Home Sewing Machine Co.
ORANGE, MASS.
30 Union Square, N.Y. Chicago, Ill. St. Louis, Mo. Atlanta, Ga. Dallas, Tex. San Francisco, Cal.
FOR SALE BY
E. N. CLINK, East Jordan.

DE LAND & CO'S
CAPITAL SAL-AF
SALERATUS
SODA
For Baking Purposes.
Best in the World.
Sold by Upright & Emrey.

JAMES HEMMINGS,
On Mason St., third door west of Bank.
HOUSE PAINTER,
Caleiminer,
Paper Harger,
And Decorator.
PINE AND HARDWOOD FINISHING. GOOD WORK.

Heath, Francis & Co.
Builders and Jobbers,
Charlevoix, Mich.
Plans, Specifications, and material furnished, and houses built complete. Repairing and building done to order.
FINE FURNITURE
Built to order, and repairs of all kinds made on short notice. Fine Lumber work guaranteed.
Will take Lumber or Block wood in part payment for furniture. Shop on Antoine Street, west of Village Hall, Charlevoix, Mich.

THIS PAPER may be found on file at the office of Messrs. N. W. Ayer & Son, Advertising Agents, Philadelphia, where advertisements may be found for it in New York.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 160. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, AUGUST 5, 1886. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL
Published every Thursday,
BY CHAS. J. STRANG.
Office on Bridge Street,
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN
ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, MICH., AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.
WATCH YOUR ADDRESS LABEL.
It also informs the name on your address and indicates the time to which your subscription is paid. If it errors, you are requested to inform us.

BUSINESS CARDS.

ATTORNEYS.

A. PRICE & MARTIN, Attorneys at Law, Boyne City, Michigan, promptly attended to.

CRUIKSHANK & GRIER, Attorneys at Law and Solicitors in Chancery, Office in Dr. Cox Block, Charlevoix, Mich.
C. J. GRIER.

J. E. CALL, Attorney at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agent, Lake St., east of postoffice, Petoskey, Mich.

A. J. SWEEZEY, Attorney at Law and Judge of Probate, Office in Dr. Cox Block, Charlevoix, Mich. Will attend to all business promptly attended to.

A. J. SWEEZEY, Attorney at Law and Judge of Probate Office in Dr. Cox Block, Charlevoix, Mich. Will attend to all business promptly attended to.

WILD EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

ALBERT DENNER, Attorney at Law and Notary Public, Office in Dr. Cox Block, Charlevoix, Mich.

O. E. MERSER, Attorney at Law and Solicitor in Chancery, Petoskey, Mich. Collections and Conveyancing a Specialty.

W. H. BARRETT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

W. W. MOORE, Attorney and Solicitor, East Jordan, Mich. Collections a Specialty.

CHURCHES.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH—Sunday services as follows: Preaching every Sabbath morning at 10 o'clock, followed by Sunday school at 11 o'clock. Prayer meeting every Sabbath evening at 6 o'clock. Sunday evening preaching service at 7 o'clock. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock. W. H. MCALPINE, Clerk.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH—Sunday services as follows: Preaching every Sabbath morning at 10 o'clock, followed by Sunday school at 11 o'clock. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock. J. TAYLOR ALLEN, Clerk.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer and praise meeting Thursday evening at 7:00 o'clock. J. T. DIGMAN, pastor.

DENTISTRY.

N. J. PERRY, Dentist. Office at Wedel's Drug Store. CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

D. BUFFIELD, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, and Domestic Cases, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HORACE S. HASKIN, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

G. A. R.—Foster Post No. 119, meets second and fourth Saturdays of each month. C. W. MOORE, Adjt.

I. O. O. F.—Round Lake Lodge, No. 299, meets every Wednesday evening, in their hall.

I. O. G. T.—Charlevoix Temple of Honor No. 1, meets every Thursday evening at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. L.—True Blues No. 127, meet Saturday on or before each full moon, at their hall.

MASONIC.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 305, meets Tuesday on or before full moon, at their hall.

Citizens' National Bank,
Brown & Co's Bank of Charlevoix
CAPITAL $50,000.
Drafts drawn direct upon the principal cities of the world. Collections receive prompt attention. Interest allowed on time deposits.
CORRESPONDENTS.—Chase National Bank, New York. National Bank of Commerce, St. Louis. Fourth National Bank, Grand Rapids.

WELL DIGGING.
I am prepared to dig, drive, and repair wells of all kinds, and guarantee satisfaction. Leave orders with Stockman & Hallock.
E. W. BENNETT.
Charlevoix, Mich.

Jos. Beauvais
BOAT-BUILDER.
The Best Modeled, Easiest Rowing, and Best Sailing Boats in Northern Michigan, for the price. Give me a Trial. I am bound to Please.

Boat Livery
In connection with shop.
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

Heath, Francis & Co.
Builders and Jobbers,
Charlevoix, Mich.
Plans, Specifications, and material furnished, and houses built complete. Repairing and building done to order.
FINE FURNITURE
Built to order, and repairs of all kinds made on short notice. Fine Lumber work guaranteed.
Will take Lumber or Block wood in part payment for furniture. Shop on Antoine Street, west of Village Hall, Charlevoix, Mich.

1872. 1886.
DR. G. W. CROUTER,
Drugs, Stationery and Wall Paper.
Dental Office in Rear of Drug Store.

TEN CENTS
ADVERTISEMENTS of three lines or less will be inserted in this column for
TEN CENTS
each insertion. (This type will average seven words to a line.) Each additional line, three cents each insertion.

FOR SALE.—Gentle pony, broken to ride or drive. Can be handled by children. Will be sold cheap. L. D. BARTHOLOMEW.

FOR SALE.—A nice little business, for a lady or gentleman. Terms easy. Inquire of Oliver Newman House. Inquire of J. J. KANE.

FOR SALE.—Cheap, Horse, Harness, and Spring Wagon. Inquire of J. J. KANE.

LETTER HEADS, Note Heads, Statements, Bill Heads, etc., neat, cheap, and quick, at the JOURNAL Office.

WOOD WANTED on subscription. "Money cannot be paid for wood." We will take all that comes.

MY WIFE, Good, Wife-Make our acquaintance is wanted for this paper in every town and school district in the adjoining counties. For further information call or address this office.

Terrace Farm
J. R. & J. S. DIXON
Dairy, Vegetable, and Stock Farm. Thoroughbred and Grade Holsteins a specialty.

COMMERCIAL HOUSE
D. B. JERRUE, Proprietor.
East Jordan, Michigan.
Entirely rebuilt and refurnished. First-class Sample Room for agents. Good Stable in Connection with the House.

FARMERS' HOTEL,
WM. RANGER, MANAGER.
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN
Excellent accommodation for steady boarders and for farmers and their families who want a good dinner. Good stable for feeding teams. Farmers are invited to make this hotel their home with my usual work as the same is made.
WM. RANGER.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,
RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.
Charlevoix Michigan.
Place location in town, giving good view of lakes and resorts. Express office, and headquarters for Boyne City & Eastern R. R. Special accommodations for commercial travelers adjoining hotel.

F. W. WILCOX,
Boat Livery,
At Bridge Street House and at Red Boat House, on south side of Round Lake.
All kinds of Boats, the best as well as the cheapest.
YOUR PATRONAGE SOLICITED.

Millinery and Fancy Goods!
A Splendid Line of Ribbons, Ladies' Gloves, Zephyrs, Laces, Ladies' Fine Underwear, and Stamping Goods always on hand at Lowest Prices.
Smith & Cooper,
At the Ingleside.

WM. J. STEVENSON,
HORSE-SHOEING,
Wagon Shop,
BLACKSMITHING, ETC.
Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture my own wagons, of the best material, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.
SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.
☞ THE OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale. 12

Poster Printing
Quick and Cheap,
At the Journal Office.

Around the County.

Boyne City.

A potato famine exists here.

A social hop at Advance to-night.

A picnic in the park for Thursday next is talked of.

Mr. W. Coon, took a run down to Charlevoix Tuesday.

The Messrs. Morgan will burn another kiln of brick in a few days.

"Hal" Livingston, the gem of a visit to his brother, at Bowmanville, Ontario.

The recent rains have prolonged the raspberry season, and beautiful berries now sell at 5 cents per quart.

Will Lewis has about five hundred as nice trout as a person would want to clap their eyes on, many of which will measure from 12 to 15 inches.

Roller skating is the principal pastime here now. Since the present proprietor assumed control of the rink, this exhilarating exercise has become very popular.

Farmers in this vicinity are busy harvesting. While we have seen some very good fields of wheat and oats, the crop on the whole, will, we believe, be below the average.

The four-oared crew had met with an accident recently, through a shot caving in on it. One or two ribs were broken and other damage done. Now that she is incapacitated the crew will evidently want to practice.

A few of those who did not go to Bay View on Sunday held a private camp meeting in the park in the afternoon. Unexpectedly, however, a clerical gentleman appeared on the scene and delivered a short but instructive address from which it is hoped, they derived much benefit.

Miss Stella and Master Harold Ashers from Ontario on Friday morning last. Miss Stella has not decided whether she will remain or not, altho' she rather fancies the appearance of the village and surroundings; still she does not feel inclined to throw up a good situation of teaching in Ontario for an uncertainty here. Her sister Maud, however, will remain with the family.

The board of supervisors met at Boyne Falls on Friday last but we have not heard that the county seat question is yet settled, if indeed it will be at all satisfactorily before another election is held. While your correspondent believes that this place is fairly entitled to the county seat would it not be better for our citizens to yield a point and let the vote again taken and this vexed question forever settled.

So far no person has been able to name over one third of the eighty different varieties of wood used in the construction of the new boat built by boatbuilder Cook. We are under the impression that a friend would have to keep in the intends to let no person have the boat but the one who can point out and name correctly the eighty varieties used, for an expert would hardly be able to name them, so many appearing almost similar to one another. The boat, however, is a beauty and this village should feel proud of her proficient boatbuilder.

Things looked gloomy on Sunday morning for the excursion to Bay View via the Clara Belle. Previous to seven o'clock there had been several heavy showers of rain, but about 7.15 it cleared up and all Sol sends his appearance, at the same hour last Saturday morning, and thousands of the sterner sex and fairer sex of more mature years began to arrive on the dock and in a short time there was a very respectable number on board the boat—about seventy five leaving here, which number was increased to 125 before leaving Charlevoix. After a couple of hours pleasant ride on lake Michigan, the beautifully situated resort, Bay View was reached. Here the crowd landed, many wending their way to the camp meeting ground, while others went sight-seeing. About five o'clock the Clara Belle started on her return trip and as the lake was somewhat rough, seasickness was to be expected. A few on board got sick and excited that they put life preservers on and turned to be ready lously awaiting the moment that they would be swept overboard or the boat go down. But the Clara Belle is a staunch lake boat and has braved some of the worst storms that ever swept over lake Michigan, consequently she brought all safe back to their homes. Those who went with others that did not go, hope that Capt. O'Neil will soon arrange for another Sunday trip either to Charlevoix or some other resort on lake Michigan.

Dr. Pierce's Magic Pain Oil is Good for both internal and external pain, Good for sprains, thick and foul sores, and swollen joints.

Good for cuts, bruises, made by knives, scissors, and accidental destructive agents.

Good for sunburns, scalds, and rheumatism's terrible pangs. Sold by Perry Wood and by G. W. Crouter.

P. B. Wachtel for Auditor General.

For several weeks the Democratic papers in different parts of the State, and more particularly in northern Michigan, have been urging the name of Philip B. Wachtel of this place, as a candidate for Auditor General. While the Democrat has been anxious to speak in his behalf, we have been silent in deference to Mr. Wachtel's own wishes. He was reluctant to become a candidate and when the unanimous unsolicited endorsements by the press and the host of personal letters from leading democrats indicated that he was the first choice of his party for the position, he still refused to permit his name to be used until his friends insisted upon bringing him forward as a representative of northern Michigan, and the man most likely to secure the recognition due this portion of the state. He has at last yielded to the solicitations of his friends so far as to consent that his name shall be presented for the consideration of his party, although he will make no effort to secure the nomination.

Now that he has consented to take the nomination if it comes to him unsolicited as the wish of his party, the Democrat takes pleasure in urging Philip B. Wachtel, as the candidate of northern Michigan for auditor general. Auditor General, form the letters of his name. He pushed the check aside, and began to copy some words from a book which lay on the table before him. He did this with his usual facility. But the moment he attempted to write his name to them he was powerless. Alarmed at what he thought was a symptom of some serious brain disease, he threw down his pen, and rising from his chair, walked several times up and down the floor, trying to analyze his feelings. There was no pain in his head, his thoughts were collected, and there was no excitement except that developed by the curious circumstance which had just occurred.

Determined if possible to overcome the difficulty, he again essayed to sign the check, and, to his great relief, accomplished the undertaking without the slightest apparent effort. Emboldened by his success, he tried a second time to write his name, but a second time he found it impossible to do so. Reflecting upon the matter, he recalled the fact that it was only after he had paced the floor that he had been able to write his name. So he walked across the room two or three times, and then found he could make the signature with entire ease. Further experience showed him that it was not the walking that was necessary, but that it was essential that he should turn around three times. Without these preliminary gyrations it was impossible for him to write his name, though perfectly able to write page after page of other matter.

THE JOURNAL
BY CHAS. J. STRANG.
CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

EASTERN.

Stephen Brodie, the bootblack who leaped from the Brooklyn bridge, has been offered $100 per week by a Bowery museum while awaiting trial for attempted suicide.

On the farm of Robert Bonner, along the Hudson River, Maud S. created a quarter-mile in 30½ seconds.

The death is announced of Hubert O. Thompson, who had for several years been leader of the County Democracy in New York, and a very conspicuous figure in the politics of that city and State. Mr. Thompson was comparatively a young man, being less than 28 years of age, but had filled a number of important offices, and was one of the most clever and adroit political managers that Gotham had known in many years. He was a man of education and accomplishments.

Mrs. John Prill, of Pittsburgh, becoming alarmed during a storm, destroyed her sight by sprinkling her face with sulphuric acid, instead of the holy water she sought.

Charles F. Conant, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury under Mr. Bristow, died last week at Chicago, Ills.

A liquor-dealer in Boston undertook to stop to Providence several cases of porcelain cups filled with whisky. The carelessness of a drayman exposed the scheme to the authorities.

The hop crop of New York is reported a complete failure, and growers are destroying their yards. Where one-quarter of an average yield was expected not a pound will be picked.

WESTERN.

At New Albany, Ind., Prof. J. G. Stunk killed Charles Hoover and seriously wounded his father. The tragedy arose from the dead man's memory with Mrs. Stunk.

Andrew Green, a colored man, was hanged at Denver, in presence of 15,000 persons, for the murder of a street-car driver last May.

Maj. R. E. Fleming, one of the Dakota Railroad Commissioners, says that 1,500,000 bushels of wheat have been destroyed by storms in Dakota, and that the yield of the Territory will not be over 12,000,000 bushels.

The Charles W. Allen Tobacco Company of Chicago has failed. The liabilities are set down at $275,000 and assets about $240,000. The eight-hour agitation, it is understood, contributed to bring about the failure.

Cattlemen who have been over the ranges of Northern and Central Wyoming report that feed exists are improving, and that the calf crop is more than an average one. The hay crop is small but of first-class quality. Other reports say that the Territory is overstocked and can feed no more cattle. Governor Warren has lifted the quarantine against Missouri cattle.

Captain Price, of the Fifth Cavalry, is organizing a party of intruders from Oklahoma, several of whom he has handed over to the civil authorities.

Harry L. Gillmer, a painter, testified at the snarshal trial at Chicago that at the time of the Haymarket massacre he saw August Spies light a match and ignite the fuse of a bomb, which was tossed into the street by a man whom he recognized from a photograph as Rudolph Schnaubelt. Among the groups in the alley leaving the fatal bomb was Adolph Fischer. The testimony created quite a sensation, and the defense endeavored to rattle the witness by a long and severe cross-examination, but no per jurciously stuck to his story and refused to be tripped up by the adroit lawyers.

The defalcation of Colonel Bolton in the Chicago Postoffice has left a shortage of $15,000, which amount is contained to his bed by nervous prostration.

SOUTHERN.

The public execution of Joseph Jump drew to Gallatin, Mo., a crowd estimated at 3,000 people, including scores of children. The hangman at Fort Leavenworth, Ark., swung off a white man and a negro for murder committed in the Indian Territory.

"Professor" E. Leon, of Mansfield, Ohio, crossed the chasm at Tallulah in a tub, near Atlanta, Ga., on an inch and a half rope, 1,000 feet long and suspended 1,200 feet above the rapids.

On the Exposition grounds in New Orleans, eight thousand colored citizens of the Gulf States celebrated the thirty-ninth anniversary of the independence of Liberia.

It is rumored that a syndicate is being formed in Kentucky the object of which is to buy up all the whiskey of the crop of 1884.

Taken as a whole, crops in Texas are reported better than last year.

Advices from the growing cotton in six States show that east of the Mississippi River there is likely to be a decrease of from 15 to 25 per cent. from the yield of last year. The best reports come from Arkansas and Texas, where the crop ends fair to be large.

WASHINGTON.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue, in a preliminary report of the operations of the service for the year ending with June, states the income over the preceding period at $4,461,724. Illinois heads the list with $297,602,203. Vermont brings up the rear with $93,369.

The latest intelligence from Secretary Morgan, says a Washington telegram, is to the effect that he is steadily improving. Considerable stress has been laid upon the fact that the Secretary bettered his recent relapse by persisting in going to the department daily. A friend of the Secretary said to-day that for many years past Mr. Manning had been troubled with a weak ankle, which prevented him from walking a great deal, and, in addition, had been so constantly annoyed and stopped on the streets by officeseekers that he was compelled in self defense to use his carriage.

There were 3,482 postoffices established last year and 1,120 discontinued, the total number June 30 last being 50,014, of which 2,265 are Presidential. During the year 9,112 appointments were made on resignations and commissions expired, and 9,566 on removals and suspensions, and changes from other causes swelled the total number to 22,747.

Mrs. Folsom, the President's mother-in-law, is a guest at the White House.

A delegation of Apaches, including Chief Chaco, had an audience with the President last week.

POLITICAL.

The Probibitionists of Wisconsin held their State Convention at Madison, and nominated the following ticket: For Governor, John M. Olin, of Madison; Lieutenant-Governor, Dr. Charles Alexander, of Eau Claire; Secretary of State, C. M. Blackman, of Whitewater; Treasurer, A. C. Merryman, of Waukesha; Railroad Commissioner, A. A. Allan, of Cumberland; Insurance Commissioner, A. F. Parker, of Manston; State Superintendent, Prof. J. J. Blaine, of Beloit. A platform was adopted which demands a State and national prohibitory law and their enforcement by a thoroughly symmetrical party; declares that the prohibition party has passed the days of compromise, and will neither seek nor accept affiliation with parties that may promise temporary advantages; expresses sympathy with the efforts of wage-workers to better their condition, but declares that total abstinence for the individual and the prohibition of the liquor traffic by the State is at the bottom of labor reform.

Gen. Gordon was nominated for Governor by the Georgia State Democratic Convention with a rush which resembled the dashing character of his campaign. When the nominations were reached the delegates stood upon the chairs and cheered until their throats were hoarse. Only two delegates remained obdurate. Gen. Gordon was brought into the hall and received an ovation.

The Michigan Prohibition State Convention met at Lansing, and nominated the following ticket: For Governor, Samuel Dickie, of Albion; Lieutenant Governor, Charles Mosher, of Mackerville; Secretary of State, John Evans, of Bellevue; State Treasurer, A. C. Fisher, of Detroit; Auditor General, S. D. Williams, of Saginaw; Attorney General, J. R. Laing, of Flint; Commissioner of the Land Office, Myron H. Walker, of Grand Rapids; Superintendent of Public Instruction, David Bonds, of Manistee; member of the State Board of Education, O. E. Downing, of Ionia. The convention was attended by 600 delegates. Woman suffrage received full indorsement.

The Connecticut Prohibitionists in convention at Hartford nominated a full State ticket, headed by the Rev. Samuel Baker for Governor.

Congressman Thomas was renominated by the Republican Congressional Convention at Cairo, Ill., on the ninetieth ballot.

In the Erie (Pa.) district the Republicans have nominated C. W. Mackey for Congress.

The Labor party of Wisconsin has issued a call for a State convention, to place an independent ticket in the field.

At a Republican caucus of the members of both houses of the California Legislature it was resolved to elect a United States Senator to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator Miller, the ballot-box stuffer, prosecuted Senator Hearst', the present incumbent.

A Republican conference at Parkersburg, W. Va., attended by 300 delegates, adopted a resolution favoring the submission of a prohibitory amendment to a vote of the people.

THE INDUSTRIAL OUTLOOK.

The Pars Rubber-Shoe Company, of South Farmington, Mass., have shut down indefinitely for repairs, throwing 1,100 hands out of work.

The Western Furniture Manufacturers' Association have agreed upon an advance in prices of not less than 10 per cent. on the other day report.

The miners employed by the new coal-mining syndicate which operates a mine in East St. Louis last week, and decided to demand two cents a bushel, top weight. In case the demand is refused they will strike.

The great rolling-mill strike at Philadelphia, involving over 1,500 men, has been settled.

Striking Italians attacked Hungarian railway laborers, between Alpha and Hazelton, Pa., 400 men participating in the affair. The Italians drove their enemies to the woods, and stopped all work on the road. Several of the Hungarians were wounded, and three of them are said to be dying.

RAILROAD INTELLIGENCE.

The Southern Pacific Company is actively negotiating for the control of the Shreveport road and the Shreveport-Grelton of the Queen and Crescent system, for a double route through the Mississippi Valley.

The Illinois Railroad and Warehouse Commission has decided, in the case of Alexander Heim against the Illinois, Indiana & Iowa Ry., that a railroad company has no right to sell coal.

The Illinois Central Road has purchased 4 acres and contiguous for dock ter for its extension to Freeport, on which work is to commence by September 1.

It is reported that the shops of the Wisconsin Central will be moved to Wausau.

Work has commenced on the Ohio Railway of ninety-two miles, linking Akron with Tuscarawas, Ohio, the Baltimore and Ohio.

The Illinois Central Road is making contracts at Freeport for bridge work for a line to Dubuque, Madison, Wisconsin.

The Rock Island will run three harvest excursions via the Albert Lea route under the following conditions: Tickets to be sold Aug. 18, Sept. 1 and 22, to the Indian points and at the following rates fro. Chicago: Ekton, Dak., and return, $11; Waterbury, Dak., and return, $12; Le Mours, Dak., and return, $12; Jamestown, Dak., and return, $12; Bismarck, Dak., and return, $20; Dickinson, Dak., and return, $20; Gladstone, Man., and return, $17; Grand Forks, N. Dak., and return, $17.50; Devil's Lake, Dak., and return, $18.50. Tickets to be limited to twenty days from date of issue.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Advices from the far South test report that intense excitement existed at El Paso over the Cutting imprisonment affair. The Mexicans were massing troops at Paso del Norte, fully prepared to do battle at a moment's notice. There was a large body of United States troops at El Paso, and none are going south. Editor Cutting was still in prison, and it was said that an attempt would be made to execute him.

The contest for the base-ball championship among the clubs of the National League is a hot one. Detroit has won 17 games, Providence 16, New York 45, Philadelphia, Boston, St. Louis, Kansas City, and Washington follow with games won in the order named. The St. Louis team of the Association leads in the race for the pennant.

The leaders in the revolutionary movement in Tuxuillejas, Mexico, have been badly defeated near the Guatemala frontier. The loss is not given.

Suicide: William Dean, aged seventy, drowned himself in the river at Dubuque. Nearly heartsicker, manager of the Indian Manufacturing Company, committed suicide at San Francisco, blowing out his darling character of his campaign. When the nominations were reached the delegates stood upon the chairs and cheered until their throats were hoarse. Only two delegates remained obdurate. Gen. Gordon was brought into the hall and received an ovation.

The Michigan Prohibition State Convention met at Lansing, and nominated the following ticket: For Governor, Samuel Dickie, of Albion; Lieutenant Governor, Charles Mosher, of Mackerville; Secretary of State, John Evans, of Bellevue; State Treasurer, A. C. Fisher, of Detroit; Auditor General, S. D. Williams, of Saginaw; Attorney General, J. R. Laing, of Flint; Commissioner of the Land Office, Myron H. Walker, of Grand Rapids; Superintendent of Public Instruction, David Bonds, of Manistee; member of the State Board of Education, O. E. Downing, of Ionia. The convention was attended by 600 delegates. Woman suffrage received full indorsement.

The Connecticut Prohibitionists in convention at Hartford nominated a full State ticket, headed by the Rev. Samuel Baker for Governor.

Congressman Thomas was renominated by the Republican Congressional Convention at Cairo, Ill., on the ninetieth.

In the Erie (Pa.) district the Republicans have nominated C. W. Mackey for Congress.

The Labor party of Wisconsin has issued a call for a State convention, to place an independent ticket in the field.

At a Republican caucus of the members of both houses of the California Legislature it was resolved to elect a United States Senator to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator Miller, the ballot-box stuffer, prosecuted Senator Hearst', the present incumbent.

A Republican conference at Parkersburg, W. Va., attended by 300 delegates, adopted a resolution favoring the submission of a prohibitory amendment to a vote of the people.

LATER NEWS ITEMS.

The testimony of Dr. Murphy in the anarchist trial at Chicago was of a sensational character. The Tribune, of Monday, gives a report of the trial, saying:

Had the testimony of Dr. Murphy been to a mere amount of financial gain in the anarchists' trial he would have received the honorarium of the citizens by the exoneration of Dr. J. B. Murphy. The latter's harrowing tale of the agony of the officers from the wounds of the bomb burst under square the night of the 4th of May last, was the most thrilling of all the testimony in the court room. The prisoners seem to feel keenly their position as the cause of slaughter was denied. The minutest details of the injury were narrated by the surgeon described in the wounds of the wounds received during agonies of Barrett, McPhee and others. He also explained that many of the injuries officers are inadmissible for life; and, not a little of the sympathy felt for many members of the jury, related their experience of the wounded men who continued to return to their duties.

Counsel asked the witness to describe the Martynn's statement was clear and complete. Schnaubelt's testimony was of the most impressive character. He said that he had no power and no right to investigate the conduct of our policemen. He was a mere member of the band and knew nothing of the designs of a party at the request of his friend, Spies, to throw a bomb into the police ranks. He had no right to question the wisdom of the act, and had no right to know that it was to be thrown. He also testified that the bomb was given to him by Spies, and that he had no power and no right to investigate the conduct of our policemen. He was a mere member of the band and knew nothing of the designs of a party at the request of his friend, Spies, to throw a bomb into the police ranks. He had no right to question the wisdom of the act, and had no right to know that it was to be thrown. The testimony of the surgeons examined summed up the injuries of the officers, and were not cross-examined. The defense did not wish to have the surgeons cross-examined, as it would only tend to make the case worse, in view of the fact that many of the officers who were shot down, and two are not expect to survive. Captain Ward, who was shot through the lungs, testified that he was on the bomb thrown by Schnaubelt was a superior officer, and he was ordered to disperse the crowd. He was one member of the crowd of counselling the transgressors. Captain Bonfield, who was shot through the bowels, testified that the "black dynamite" was thrown by Schnaubelt, and that he was ordered to disperse the crowd. Captain Bonfield and Captain Ward were the only officers who testified to the "black dynamite" which Lingg loaded his bombs with. The testimony of Captain Bonfield and Captain Ward was in direct contradiction to the testimony of Captain Bonfield, who testified that he was ordered to disperse the crowd. The testimony of Captain Bonfield and Captain Ward was in direct contradiction to the testimony of Captain Bonfield, who testified that he was ordered to disperse the crowd. The testimony of Captain Bonfield and Captain Ward was in direct contradiction to the testimony of Captain Bonfield, who testified that he was ordered to disperse the crowd.

The Illinois Central Road is making contracts at Freeport for bridge work for a line to Dubuque, Madison, Wisconsin.

The Rock Island will run three harvest excursions via the Albert Lea route under the following conditions: Tickets to be sold Aug. 18, Sept. 1 and 22, to the Indian points and at the following rates fro. Chicago: Ekton, Dak., and return, $11; Waterbury, Dak., and return, $12; Le Mours, Dak., and return, $12; Jamestown, Dak., and return, $19; Bismarck, Dak., and return, $20; Dickinson, Dak., and return, $20; Gladstone, Man., and return, $17; Grand Forks, N. Dak., and return, $17.50; Devil's Lake, Dak., and return, $18.50. Tickets to be limited to twenty days from date of issue.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Advices from the far South test report that intense excitement existed at El Paso over the Cutting imprisonment affair. The Mexicans were massing troops at Paso del Norte, fully prepared to do battle at a moment's notice. There was a large body of United States troops at El Paso, and none are going south. Editor Cutting was still in prison, and it was said that an attempt would be made to execute him.

The contest for the base-ball championship among the clubs of the National League is a hot one. Detroit has won 17 games, Providence 16, New York 45, Philadelphia, Boston, St. Louis, Kansas City, and Washington follow with games won in the order named. The St. Louis team of the Association leads in the race for the pennant.

The leaders in the revolutionary movement in Tuxuillejas, Mexico, have been badly defeated near the Guatemala frontier. The loss is not given.

Suicide: William Dean, aged seventy, drowned himself in the river at Dubuque. Nearly heartsicker, manager of the Indian Manufacturing Company, committed suicide at San Francisco, blowing out his darling character of his campaign. When the nominations were reached the delegates stood upon the chairs and cheered until their throats were hoarse. Only two delegates remained obdurate. Gen. Gordon was brought into the hall and received an ovation.

The Michigan Prohibition State Convention met at Lansing, and nominated the following ticket: For Governor, Samuel Dickie, of Albion; Lieutenant Governor, Charles Mosher, of Mackerville; Secretary of State, John Evans, of Bellevue; State Treasurer, A. C. Fisher, of Detroit; Auditor General, S. D. Williams, of Saginaw; Attorney General, J. R. Laing, of Flint; Commissioner of the Land Office, Myron H. Walker, of Grand Rapids; Superintendent of Public Instruction, David Bonds, of Manistee; member of the State Board of Education, O. E. Downing, of Ionia. The convention was attended by 600 delegates. Woman suffrage received full indorsement.

The Connecticut Prohibitionists in convention at Hartford nominated a full State ticket, headed by the Rev. Samuel Baker for Governor.

Congressman Thomas was renominated by the Republican Congressional Convention at Cairo, Ill., on the ninetieth.

In the Erie (Pa.) district the Republicans have nominated C. W. Mackey for Congress.

The Labor party of Wisconsin has issued a call for a State convention, to place an independent ticket in the field.

At a Republican caucus of the members of both houses of the California Legislature it was resolved to elect a United States Senator to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator Miller, the ballot-box stuffer, prosecuted Senator Hearst', the present incumbent.

A Republican conference at Parkersburg, W. Va., attended by 300 delegates, adopted a resolution favoring the submission of a prohibitory amendment to a vote of the people.

FOREIGN.

Upon his arrival in London Lord Rosebery was met by a great crowd, who welcomed him with hearty cheers. He called upon Lord Hartington and held an hour's conference with him. Lord Hartington promised Lord Salisbury a hearty support, but declined to join the Conservative Government. Lord Salisbury then wrote a letter to Osborne to receive the Queen's command to form a ministry.

In a London court, Cyrus W. Field was awarded damages of $25,000 and all costs against James Gordon Bennett, for libel.

Serious conflicts took place at Amsterdam between the populace and police and troops, arising from the suppression of a dancing gamo on Sunday. Eighteen policemen were disarmed and beaten, and several others pasted, sending two socialists. The problem of games is the killing one in Amsterdam, and it is said that the crowd, a degrading past no pop. lular among the lower classes.

The Czar and Czarina, while at Moscow, kissed the hands of the Queen of Greece and Princess Princess Princess

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - - MICHIGAN.

Democratic State Convention.

The Democratic State Convention to nominate candidates for state officers, and for the transaction of such other business as may come before the convention, will be held in Redmond's Opera House, at the City of Grand Rapids, on Wednesday, August 18, 1886,

AT 11 O'CLOCK A. M.

Each county is entitled to one delegate for each 100 votes cast for Governor at the last general election, and one for every fraction of not less than 200 votes. Every organized county is entitled to at least two delegates, and under the rules adopted a delegate must be a resident of the county he represents.

JOHN J. ENRIGHT,
Chairman.
H. F. PENNINGTON,
Secretary.

Charlevoix county is entitled to four delegates.

Democratic Congressional Convention.

The Democratic electors of the Ninth Congressional District of Michigan are hereby notified that a convention will be held at Rose's Hall, IN THE CITY OF BIG RAPIDS, ON WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 1, AT 3 O'CLOCK, P. M., for the purpose of putting in nomination a candidate for Congress from the Ninth Congressional District, and for transaction of any other business that may properly come before said convention. On the basis of one delegate for each 500 votes cast for Governor at the last general election, and one for every fraction of not less than 200 votes, the various counties comprising the said Congressional District will be entitled to representation as follows:

	Votes '84.	No. of Dels.
Antrim	1973	4
Charlevoix	2054	4
Kalkaska	1025	2
Lake	1306	3
Manistee	2355	5
Mason	2562	5
Mecosta	1457	3
Missaukee	870	2
Newaygo	2669	5
Oceana	4270	8
Osceola	2534	5
Ottawa	2806	5
Wexford	2295	5
Total		51

WM. P. NISBETT, Mecosta Co., Ch'm.
H. J. Harty, Manistee.
Geo. Goodrell, Mason.
Daniel E. Sweet, Newaygo.
Lou. E. Morris, Manistee.
John B. Salsbury, Antrim.
Democratic Cong'l. Com.

Democratic County Convention.

A democratic county convention will be held at THE VILLAGE HALL, in Charlevoix on Friday, the 13th day of August, A. D. 1886, at 1 o'clock, p. m., for the purpose of electing delegates to the democratic state convention to be held at Grand Rapids, on Aug. 18, 1886, and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the meeting. Each township is entitled to delegates to said convention as follows:

	Vote for Gov. 1884.	No. of Dele-gates.
Bear Lake	56	1
Boyne Valley	120	2
Chandler	43	1
Charlevoix	314	5
Evangeline	208	3
Hayes	159	3
Hudson	146	3
Marion	102	2
Melrose	54	1
Norwood	102	2
South Arm	36	1
Round Lake	44	1
Wilson	198	3

J. MILO EATON,
Chairman.
C. J. STRANG,
Secretary, Democratic County Committee.

TILDEN DEAD.

Yesterday's Detroit Journal announces that Samuel J. Tilden died yesterday morning at 8:45.

The County Seat.

The board of supervisors, at their special meeting at Boyne Falls last Friday, voted to accept the proposition made by Mr. Waldron in regard to the free use of the Wall building for county offices so long as they may be desired, and we understand the county property will be moved to that place soon, there being no building on lot 1, (the point designated in the resolution locating the county seat) suitable to be used for county purposes.

Mr. Waldron also agrees to build a county jail costing not less than $600, and if the county should at any time vote to locate the county seat on what is known as court house square of the plat of the village of Bay Springs and build a permanent court house, worth at least $12,000, he will give three thousand dollars towards the building.

If this arrangement is finally endorsed by the people, the county will be the recipient of property equivalent in value to several thousand dollars, besides having large, pleasant rooms, with good safe vaults to go into now, without any waiting. The only feature of the matter that we have occasion to regret is that it probably forever bars out Charlevoix from any chance to get the county seat back within her limits, or to any point nearer. But there is satisfaction in the fact that the board acted by the people and not fully endorse the actions of the board in instituted to make the infamous canvas last spring, one of whom has admitted that the transaction cost him his best friends in Charlevoix, all his friends in East Jordan and Boyne Falls, and that he made none in Boyne City.

There let it rest.

Democracy and Reform.

Since the iniquities of republican administrations laid the foundations of that party's overthrow, the democracy has gone into the elections with the watchword of "reform." That reform was needed has been since 1872, especially, well known. But that the democracy would bring that reform has been the subject of republican jest and insinuations. With that watchword the democracy has, however, continued to fight, and with it a victory was won.

But the laugh has changed places. The democracy has shown itself true to its pledges—and the first party in 25 years of this government to redeem after election those that it made before its lease upon power was granted. The dispatchmen have been overhauled and giving that moral airing that they so badly needed. Expenses have been reduced and $20,000,000 already saved in that line to the government. More reform has been collected and less money has been spent in collecting it. The business movements of the administration have been upon a simple and accurate basis. The people's rights have been maintained against the aggressions of a star chamber house of lords. The people's money has been saved by the wise use of the veto in preventing unworthy men from draining the treasury through the carelessness of congress or the dereliction of congressmen. In fact the democracy's administration has been square business simply performed.

Civil service reform has been promised in every republican platform, and before election Ay Hubbell blackmailed every government employee of a two per cent of his salary. The democracy also promised civil service reform. It is redeeming its pledge.

No wonder that the people trust the democratic party and are rallying to its standard. Vouchsafing in its underlying principles equal rights to all, and by practice ensuring the people of its loyalty to its pledges, the democracy stands as the party of principle and the party to be trusted.
—Kalamazoo Gazette.

NOTES AND NEWS.

The state press generally concede that Philip B. Wachtel, of Petoskey, is the best and strongest man possible to nominate for auditor general on the democratic ticket.

The mention of Philip B. Wachtel of Petoskey, for auditor general on the democratic ticket, finds favor on all hands. Mr. Wachtel is one of the pillars of northern Michigan, is a gentleman widely known, and composed of the material which constitutes a popular candidate.—Big Rapids Herald.

As far as we can learn the Democrats of the 10th congressional district have only one candidate for a place on the state ticket this fall, and that is, P. B. Wachtel, of Petoskey, whom the Democrat recently put forward, and whose name was so favorably received by the press. The district richly deserves recognition, and there is no man in the district who deserves better of his party than Mr. Wachtel. We think there is no reasonable doubt of his nomination without a struggle. It is a curious and interesting fact that Tip Alpin, ex-postmaster of West Bay City, is the most prominent candidate for the nomination for auditor general on the republican ticket. Thus it is altogether probable that the candidates for this office will be from the 10th congressional district, but we will wager that Wachtel can lay Tip out flat.—Cheboygan Democrat.

The democratic congressional committee for the ninth district have issued a call for the democratic congressional convention for Big Rapids, on September 1st. It is the desire of the committee to make this the largest convention yet held in the district and to that end ask the various county conventions to be held throughout the district to elect their local and representative men as delegates, and make a point to select such as will put themselves to personal inconvenience, if needs be, to attend. A full representation from every county and representative men means action that may prove potent to the democratic party of the ninth district in the coming contest. A full convention, with all the different shades of opinion, views and opinions, and doubtless result in the selection of a candidate on which the opposition can unite as one man, and send to congress one who will truly represent the best interests of the common people.—Big Rapids Herald.

BROKEN DOWN INVALIDS.

Probably never in the history of such Medicines has any article met success equal to that which has been conferred upon Dr. Price's Celery and Cough Cure. Thousands of hopeless cases of coughs, colds, and consumption have yielded to this truly marvelous discovery. For this reason we feel warranted in placing our reputation and money on its merits. Sold by Perry Weed and Jos. W. Crane.

A Bull and a Bicycle.

There is an old half-mile racing track on the Fry farm, two miles from Elkton, Pa. It has been used but little for several years, but last summer a number of young men who owned good road horses had the track put in order to exercise their horses on, the roads in the vicinity not being in good condition. During the past week Farmer Fry has had a three-year-old blooded bull tied in the lot where the track is situated. The bull had never manifested an ugly disposition, and never took any notice of the driving or noises around the track, although he stood near it. On Friday last a young man named Stephen Pickens, a nephew of Fry, who lived in a neighboring village, went to visit his uncle. He recently purchased a bicycle, and rode to Fry's on his machine. The same afternoon he went on the race track for a spin. He had gone but twice around the track when he heard the bull bellowing behind him. Looking back over his shoulder he saw the bull following him at the top of his speed, and only a few feet behind him. Pickens ran his bicycle as fast as he could, supposing that he could easily distance the bicycle bull, but he had not yet become an expert on the wheel, and he found that the best he could do was to keep only just so far ahead of the animal. The bull kept his position until he had chased the bicycle twice around the track, when he began to fall behind. Pickens had been shouting at the top of his lungs for help, but the farm house is nearly a mile from the track, and no one heard him. When he saw the bull begin to weaken, as he supposed, he thought he had escaped all danger and could get for enough out of the way to permit his making his way out of the lot with safety. On looking back, however, he saw the bull bearing down on him by a close shave on the track, and the next moment the animal struck the bicycle with his head lowered, and machine, rider and all, were hurled into the grass at the side of the track. Pickens does not remember how he extricated himself from his wheel, but when he recovered himself he was on the opposite side of the lot, three rods from the track. The bull had evidently been dazed also by the shock, for he was turning around and around in a circle near the spot and shaking his head in a curious manner. A few moments afterward he seemed to recover himself, and walked slowly away as if nothing had happened. Pickens had received some bad bruises and scratches, but no serious injury. He carried back to the farm house, and his uncle went to the rescue of the bicycle, which was badly wrecked. The bull, which had never seen a bicycle before, had evidently become enraged at its strange appearance in his domain, and had broken the rope by which he was tied to a stake and started in pursuit of it.—New York Times.

In the matter of perquisites in England the rules with the servants are strictly observed. The valet gets his discount on the tailor's bill, the butler and bootmakers bills; the cook on the butcher's and fishmonger's and green grocer's; the butler on the wines; in, too, has the empty bottles, so that you may not commonly by retaining or returning them. The coachman is entitled to the perquisite on forage, as well as on the hire of carriages and horses, and in London need people hire at least their horses, leaving their own in the country.

Sore Eyes

The eyes are always in sympathy with the body, and afford a considerable share of its condition. When the eyes become weak, and the lids inflamed and sore, it is an evidence that the system has become disordered by Scrofula, for which Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best known remedy.

Scrofula, which produced a painful inflammation in my eyes, caused me much suffering for a number of years. By the advice of a physician I commenced taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. After using this medicine a short time I was completely

Cured

My eyes are now in a splendid condition, and I am as well and strong as ever.—Mrs. William Gage, Concord, N. H.

For a number of years I was troubled with a humor in my eyes, and was unable to obtain any relief until I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This medicine has effected a complete cure, and I believe it to be the best of blood purifiers.—C. E. Upton, Nashua, N. H.

From childhood, and until within a few months, I have been afflicted with Weak and Sore Eyes. I have tried the famous complaints, with beneficial results. Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and consider it the best blood purifier.—Mrs. C. Phillips, Glover, Vt.

I suffered for a year with inflammation in my left eye. Three ulcers formed on the ball, depriving me of sight, and causing great pain. After trying many other remedies, to no purpose, my friends induced to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and, three bottles of this medicine, have been entirely cured. My sight has been restored, and there is no sign of inflammation, sore, or ulcer in my eyes.—Reuben T. Bowen, Sugar Tree Ridge, Ohio.

By Taking

My daughter, ten years old, was afflicted with Scrofulous Sore Eyes. During the last two years she never saw light of any kind. Physicians of the highest standing exerted their skill, but with no permanent success. On the recommendation of a friend I purchased a bottle of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, with my daughter commenced taking. Before she had used the third bottle her sight was restored, and she can now look steadily at a brilliant light without pain. Her cure is complete.—W. E. Cutlerbend, Evangeline, Shelby City, Ky.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists. Price $1, six bottles $5.

The Circus

Commences Next Week.

I am going to receive a large invoice of CLOTHING, bought from one of the leading houses in Rochester, N. Y., which I am going to sell at Prices that will draw me trade from all around the county.

I think the best advertisement a merchant can have is to have his goods advertise him in Good Fits and Prices that cannot be beat.

GEO. W. MILLER.

Summer Announcement.

TO THE LADIES:

We have just received a fresh invoice of summer goods in all such styles as are much desirable at this time of year, comprising India Linons, Percales, plain and figured Nainsooks, Mauilla cloth and Batiste, all of which are the leading wash fabrics.

We have also lately added to our stock a full line of ladies' nursin underwear, infants' robes, chemises, corset covers, etc.

The Peerless woven wire busties may be found at our store in all shapes manufactured.

Our glove stock is being continually replenished. We have an elegant line of plain and undressed kids, silk, and jersey gloves.

Our trimmings comprise everything new and desirable, having plain, stripe, and brocade velvets, jet trimmings, and rosary beads.

We will offer until closed out at big reductions, all our parasols, shawls, light goods, prints, and ginghams.

Call and get our August fashion sheet, and ask us to show you our bargains.

F. W. CRAINE & CO.

PERRY WEED,

DRUGGIST AND STATIONER,

OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

HENRY C. COOPER

Undertaker!

CHARLEVOIX MICHIGAN.

Coffins, Caskets, and Trimmings Always in Stock.

Come and See my Stock of Furniture.

ALL ORDERS BY TELEPHONE RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION

Come and See our Immense Stock of

BOOTS AND SHOES.

FOX & MILLER.

A Large Stock of

Furniture!

IN

Oak, Maple, Ash, and Cherry,

JUST RECEIVED BY THE

PINE LAKE IRON COMPANY

IRONTON, MICH.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., Aug. 5, 1886.

PRODUCE MARKET.

Hay, loose, per ton $12 baled, $18
Corn, per bu. 65c.
Oats, 45 to 50c.
Feed, per ton, $20.
Pork, $13 ⅌ bbl, 7c ⅌ lb.
Salt, ⅌ bbl, $1.25.
Syrup, "Gold Medal," 50c ⅌ gal.
Canned Tomatoes, 15c
Canned Peaches, 15 to 20c.
Coffee, Java and Mocca, 35c.
Farmer's Produce at Upright & Emrey's.

UPRIGHT EMREY & Co.

☞A splendid line of Boots and Shoes, for ladies and gents, boys, girls and misses. More on the road.

☞A magnificent lot of Dress Goods arrived recently, and we offer them at the very lowest figures.

☞Hosiery in all styles a specialty, for both ladies and gents—best line in town.

☞New Groceries received almost every day.

☞Both Dinner and Tea Sets in Bakered Ware at cost.

☞If you want some Choice But ter go to Upright & Emrey's.

☞Fresh Kalamazoo celery at Jefferies' market.

☞Best fresh butter at Jefferies' market.

Local Notes and News.

Bay Springs property is rising in value.

The fish tug Wayne Isbell was in port on Tuesday.

O. J. Wheat has added a new porch to his residence on Clinton street.

Mail will come by stage from Petoskey hereafter, instead of by boat, arriving at about 12:30.

The Gracie Barker was in the harbor yesterday to have some work done on her machinery.

The Champlain carried a large excursion party to Elk Rapids and Old Mission last Saturday.

C. R. Bellinger has succeeding to say this week about eye glasses. Read it, then go and examine his stock.

The steamers Friant, Cummings, and Clara Belle gave excursion to Petoskey and Bay View last Sunday.

A lady remarked this week that democratic newspapers under a carpet were the nearest moth-proof of any she could get.

The Friant gave an excursion to Beaver Island yesterday, and carried her full complement of passengers. A better and brighter day could not have been had.

Bishop Gillespie sends telegram that sickness prevents keeping his appointment on Sunday next. Rev. M. Jones, of Kalamazoo, will officate for him at the opera hall at 10.30 a. m. and 4.30 p. m.

Edwin Meredith, of Batavia, Ill., a reporter here, has a copy one candidate for a place on the state ticket this fall, and that is, P. B. Wachtel, of Petoskey, whom the Democrat recently put forward, and whose name was so favorably received by the press. The district richly deserves recognition, and there is no man in the district who deserves better of his party than Mr. Wachtel. We think there is no reasonable doubt of his nomination without a struggle. It is a curious and interesting fact that Tip Alpin, ex-postmaster of West Bay City, is the most prominent candidate for the nomination for auditor general on the republican ticket. Thus it is altogether probable that the candidates for this office will be from the 10th congressional district, but we will wager that Wachtel can lay Tip out flat.—Cheboygan Democrat.

The democratic congressional committee for the ninth district have issued a call for the democratic congressional convention for Big Rapids, on September 1st. It is the desire of the committee to make this the largest convention yet held in the district and to that end ask the various county conventions to be held throughout the district to elect their local and representative men as delegates, and make a point to select such as will put themselves to personal inconvenience, if needs be, to attend. A full representation from every county and representative men means action that may prove potent to the democratic party of the ninth district in the coming contest. A full convention, with all the different shades of opinion, views and opinions, and doubtless result in the selection of a candidate on which the opposition can unite as one man, and send to congress one who will truly represent the best interests of the common people.—Big Rapids Herald.

Wilson.

Mr. Rowland's mother, from near Cadillac, is visiting her children in this vicinity.

Mrs. Barrett spent two days visiting her daughter, Mrs. Earl, at Kalkaska, recently.

Mrs. Albert Kenny and daughter are stopping with her mother, Mrs. Jones, for an indefinite period. Albert has gone west prospecting.

Miss Mabel Smith was thrown from her horse as she was out riding on Friday last, and seriously hurt, but she was able to be removed home the next day, and is now recovering.

Ben Healey has at last decided "it is not good for man to live alone," and took unto himself a wife—Miss Ellen Gravond—last week. May prosperity and happiness attend them.

Burgess.

Rev. B. H. Whitman is here for a short stay.

Frank Sneethen has a force of men at work cutting down fallow.

Mr. Bedwin, of Eveline, is visiting his son E. Bedwin, of Hayes.

Mr. Bates, who has been visiting with his sons four months, started for Flint on Tuesday.

Big excitement at Horton's Bay over supernatural appearances on Frank Coleman's place.

At the greenback caucus held at Gibson's school house, Alden Chamberlain, Wm. B. Sayers, and George Willis, were elected as delegates to the county convention.

Barnard.

Miss Aldrich, of Petoskey, is hear visiting at Mr. Cannon's.

Farmers are through haying and report the crop very light.

Mr. and Mrs. John Shapton, jr., are happy over a young son which arrived Sunday.

Mrs. John Shapton returned home from Canada last week accompanied by her daughter Mrs. Hoyt.

A large number of Barnardites attended the picnic at Hoyt's Wednesday and report an enjoyable time.

Ironton.

The ladies of the Congregational church at Ironton intend giving an ice cream festival and bazaar during the second week in August. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

The Rev. C. P. VanAuken preached a grand sermon to an attentive audience at the M. E. church. Mr. VanAuken was accompanied by Mr. Colby, who was much interested in our work here.

We had a very pleasant time at our Sunday school picnic on Friday, at Horton's Bay, going over on the Clara Belle, at eight o'clock and returning at six in the evening.

Shall we have a Railroad?

A. R. Upright has a letter from a gentleman in Ohio, offering to take fifty-five per cent of the first mortgage bonds of a railroad company with a capital of not less than $15,000 per mile, for a road from Charlevoix southward to Clare, or Farwell. The question arises, can the balance be secured along the line?

Purely Personal.

Henry Barth arrived home from Chicago this week.

W. M. Gow, of Cadillac, was in town last Thursday.

Mrs. A. Beebe has been visiting at Mrs. Sine's the past week.

Rev. J. K. Fuller returned last week to his home in Vermont.

Old uncle John Miller, of Evangeline, made us a call this morning.

Geo. Wrisley has gone to Lake Linden, Houghton county, to work.

W. W. Washburn and family returned to Charlevoix to live this week.

W. Wheaton, of the Cadillac Express, called on the JOURNAL this morning.

H. H. Miller, late of East Jordan, has accepted a "situation" in the Land Enterprise.

Albert Moeller, of the Monto Publishing Co., of Canton, Ohio, is at L. E. Allen's.

Mrs. Geo. L. White, of Mancelona, was the guest of her son Nelson, over Sunday.

Dr. E. E. Knapp, of Saginaw, arrived last evening, for a visit with L. E. Allen.

Mrs. Jessie Smith McGibney is spending a few days with her relatives in Charlevoix.

Mrs. Carrie Hilton goes in St. Louis, Mich., this week, to visit relatives and friends.

Mrs. S. C. Hiter and son, of St. Louis, Mo., are visiting with the family of E. E. Madge.

Mrs. Capt. Walton, of Chicago, is stopping with the family of A. J. Madge for a few days.

A. J. Emrey, jr., arrived last week for his annual summer visit with his sons, in Charlevoix.

Miss Mary A. Pierson, teacher in the public schools, of Youngstown, Ohio, is at L. E. Allen's for her summer vacation.

J. H. Hendee, and wife, of Jackson, who have been visiting their daughter, Mrs. A. M. Parmenter, expect to return home early next week.

Will McLennan, a former Charlevoix boy, now a student at Evanston College, Ills., will preach at the M. E. church next Sunday morning and evening.

Charlie Kelley's clothes fit him closer Monday morning than before in several years. The cause was a bouncing baby girl which took up her residence with him that morning. Mother and child doing well.

Kalamazoo Gazette, 30th ult.: Judge Mills arrived home from Charlevoix yesterday morning in response to a call from the bar. He wrote an opinion in the Clark case yesterday, and will return north Saturday. . . . Judge Sisson left for Charlevoix yesterday morning. He survived the base ball contest. . . . Mr. Geo. Bacon leaves for Charlevoix this evening.

Shipments.

July 29—Schr. Mesaingford, 3,700 ties, Upright & Emrey, to Racine.
29—Schr. Bert Barnes, 100 cords wood, O. Olsen, to Milwaukee.
29—Schr. J. C. Bauer, 120 cords wood, P. B. Newton, to Milwaukee.
29—Schr. H. G. Cleveland, 450 tons pig iron, R. M. Chirch, to Cleveland.
29—Schr. Arrow, 25 cords slabs, Wm. Tooley to Milwaukee.
30—Schr. John L. Green, 65 cords wood, D. Buchanan, to Sheboygan.
31—Schr. Evening Star, 200,000 feet hardwood lumber, Glenn & Porter, to Chicago.
31—Schr. Lunette, 120 cords wood, 15 cords bark, E. M. Clark, to Milwaukee.
Aug. 3—Schr. Dan Mahoe, 40 cords wood, 125 cords bark, Geo. Burnham & Sons, to Milwaukee.
5—Schr. Sea Gull, 40 cords bark, O. J. Smith, to Milwaukee.
4—Schr. Fleetwing, 45 cords bark, Carpenter Bartholomew & Co. to Milwaukee.

The following is a summary of the shipments from the port of Charlevoix for the week ending Wednesday evening, and for the corresponding week of 1885:

	1886.	1885.
Hardwood lumber, feet	318,000	293,000
Railroad ties	3,700	4,500
Wood, cords	160	430
Bark, cords		45
Shingles, M	225	400
Pig iron, tons		870
Flour, bbls. pounds		8,800

Alpena county, Mich., marts reports the timber business it has opened the bridge during the month of July as follows:

Steamers, including tugs	445
Schooners	140
Barges, tows	30
Fish boats	50
Total	665

The remedy which most successfully combats malarial disorders, is Ayer's Ague Cure. It is a purely vegetable compound, and contains neither quinine nor any other dangerous ingredient. Warranted to cure chills and fever.

CHARLEVOIX

Savings Bank

Organized under the General Banking Law of the State of Michigan.

Henry Bennett, President.
John Nicholls, Vice President.
F. A. Smith, Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

Henry Bennett, O. D. Wood,
John Nicholls, A. Putten
A. L. Lipsitz, F. A. Smith, A. Fox.

CAPITAL, $25,000
Surplus, 2,000

The liabilities of Stockholders in all state banks as provided in Art. XIX, Sec. 40 of Revised Statutes of the State of Michigan, is double the amount of stock taken, making a guaranteed fund of $50,000 in this bank, which is a security for the transaction of every legitimate branch of banking business extended to our customers, on terms as favorable as are consistent with safety.

Drafts drawn direct on the leading commercial cities of the world in large or small amounts. Money to loan on approved paper. Exchange bought and sold. Certificates of deposit issued bearing interest.

We respectfully solicit your patronage.

CORRESPONDENTS:

NATIONAL PARK BANK.....NEW YORK.
COMMERCIAL NAT. BANK.....CHICAGO.
NATIONAL CITY BANK.....GRAND RAPIDS.
DETROIT NATIONAL BANK.....DETROIT.

Gift Schemes Not Required

TO SELL OUR GOODS.

All so-called "Gifts" are paid for by the Customer, and dearly too.

We offer Genuine Bargains in

NEW DRESS GOODS,

CASHMERES,

Tricots, Henrietts, Beaverettes, Serges, Striped Seersuckers, Piques, Ottomans Mikados, Jersey Jackets, Broadheads, Lawns, Boucle Jackets.

And a Full Line of Staple

DRY GOODS & GROCERIES

At prices lower than the Lowest.

Many of our Goods were bought during the recent excitement caused by the strikes, and we were enabled to buy at our own figures. We are offering values not to be obtained elsewhere, that stock of is replenished and fully up to the high standard we endeavor to maintain. When others tell you groceries are higher, do not believe them. Our prices are lower than ever.

GROCERIES

LIME, CEMENT, STUCCO, AND PLASTERING HAIR

Always on hand.

J. L. HURD & CO.

Bargains! Bargains!!

IN ALL

SUMMER GOODS,

AT

ROSENTHAL & SON'S.

The time is nearing at hand when we shall have to clear our counters and shelves for our fall supplies. To this end we have decided to sell all our Summer Goods way down at prices to suit everybody. Straw Hats, Straw Hats, in every style, shape, and at all prices. Flannel Shirts in all colors, just what you want to wear now-a-days, closing out very cheap.

Just give us a call and we are sure to suit you.

Respectfully yours

ROSENTHAL & SON.

Something New. More Light.

The Rochester double and triple Burner makes the Whitest and Best Light known.

THE Sherwin William's PAINTS.

Stoves, Hardware, Tinware, Notions, Fishing Tackle. The "double action easy Force Pump." Job and Tin Work.

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW & CO.

The above Eye-glass invented by the Johnston Optical Co., of Detroit, Mich., combines the best features of all others.

1st. The lenses can be placed far enough away that the eye-lashes will not touch them, a thing not always easy to do with other eye-glasses.

2d. The guards are set so as to clasp the nose both above and below which prevents slipping and falling off.

3d. The pressure is on the fleshy part of the nose above the bone, which prevents irritation.

4th. The lever feature secures its perfect adjustment to the nose, and its easy opening.

5th. The lenses are set at right angles to line of vision.

6th. They can be worn safely without cord or chain as there is no danger of falling off.

7th. The lenses are found to be the easiest eye-glass in the market.

C. R. BELLINGER,
Optician and Jeweler, Charlevoix, Mich.

Charlevoix Manufacturing Company,

MANUFACTURERS OF

Sash, Doors and Blinds,

Scroll Work and Window and Building of all Descriptions.

Power, Building and Scroll Work a Specialty.

Kept in Stock and Made and Put Up to Order.

A GOOD STOCK OF

PINE LUMBER ALWAYS ON HAND.

Also Contractors, Builders, and General Jobbers.

CHARLEVOIX MICHIGAN

LEAVE YOUR ORDERS FOR

JOB WORK

AT THIS OFFICE.

MISS L. SPAULDING.

MILLINERY

and Fancy Goods.

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

New Grocery!

Cor. Antrim and Grant Streets.

A. J. MUDGE

Would respectfully announce to the people of Charlevoix and vicinity, especially to the residents of the northern part of town and intending to from the south, that he has opened a stock of Groceries in his building on the corner of Antrim and Grant streets, and requests all to give him a trial.

BUTTER AND EGGS WANTED.

Owing to Special Rates in Photographic Stock, I will continue to make Cabinet Photographs at $4.00 per Dozen Until further notice.

Dave Bradbeer,
Photographer.
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

MARIE.

BY ALICE M. BRADFORD.

Now hasten, O, hasten, my darling,
Home, love, from the rippling and roar of the sea,
I'm waiting, my beautiful dreamer,
I miss thee, I miss thee, Marie.

An, why set thee sighed, my lost one?
Pale waves over thy pathway are sweeping
Angry with a moan. How the ocean moans,
And beat with their sandowy hands.

Oh, call to me, dear, over the billows;
My boating shall flutter to me;
Oh, come, come, fair light I would see!
Hasten, O, hasten, O, my heaven!
I need thee, I need thee, Marie.

I lift for thy voice, and its music,
Oh, sweeter than the cooing of doves,
Oh, come with snowy-tipped fingers,
Return now my treasure—Marie.

Come, sweet one, press lightly my forehead,
Ah, ye but the spray of the sea,
Awake from thy ocean-pocked slumber,
And smile through the shadows—Marie.

Ah, never again from the ocean
My boating shall flutter to me;
But over the tide I shall greet thee,
And smile, smile, my angel Marie.

Appleton, Wis.

MY WIFE'S PET.

BY ELSON HERSH.

He was not her dog.
But she thought he was, which amounted to the same thing.

She fondled him as affectionately as though she had owned the sole proprietary right in him. She looked upon him with undisguised pride. She put him through all her little tricks with an enthusiasm that could not abate nor repetition.

The truth is, my wife was fond of dogs. She liked animals in general and dogs in particular. And the dogs liked her. The feeling was mutually complete understanding between her and them was something absolutely wonderful. In the nine years of our married life I had never seen a dog that would not make friends with my wife on first sight, without waiting for a formal introduction.

Hopkins, our neighbor across the street, once bought a German mastiff for a watch-dog. The German mastiff is by nature the most ferocious and blood-thirsty of dogs. Hopkins' was uncommonly savage. The brute had a mouth like a roll-scuttle, and his voice was a growl that gave a distance of many blocks from one sound, summer and winter.

He was a valuable dog in this respect. The Hopkinses called him "Cyclone," because destruction marked his path. It would eat nothing but chunks of raw meat, and it was so dangerous to get within range of its ravenous maw that they had to stand off and feed him with a pitchfork. Of course they kept him chained all day, and when he was loosed at night no one ever ventured out of the house.

Well, one day my wife went over to the Hopkinses, and "Cyclone" saw her. He was fastened with a giant-size log-chain, but he broke away and rushed toward my wife. The Hopkins women fled into the second story of the house and screamed. They expected to hear a halloon view of human sacrifice right there. But the brute did not come off as advertised. What "Cyclone" had given a practical illustration of the second axiom in Euclid by reversing the shortest possible distance between his kennel and the spot where my wife stood, he stopped. He looked into my wife's face and my wife smiled. From that moment the huge brute was changed dog. He rubbed up against my wife, fawned at her feet, fell on his back, and lost part of his dignity in an hideous growl. When "Cyclone" had given a practical illustration of the second axiom in Euclid by covering the shortest possible distance between his kennel and the spot where my wife stood, he stopped. He looked into my wife's face and my wife smiled. From that moment the huge brute was changed dog. He rubbed up against my wife, fawned at her feet, fell on his back, and lost part of his dignity in an hideous growl. When "Cyclone" had given a practical illustration of the second axiom in Euclid by covering the shortest possible distance between his kennel and the spot where my wife stood, he stopped. He looked into my wife's face and my wife smiled. From that moment the huge brute was changed dog. He rubbed up against my wife, fawned at her feet, fell on his back, and lost part of his dignity in an hideous growl.

But I digress.

Notwithstanding my wife's remarkable fondness for dogs, she never had a dog which she could call her own until I got one. Her time started to speak of. As I said before, the dog in question was really not her dog, but she thought he was, and when my wife makes up her mind on a point of that kind the matter is settled to all practical intents and purposes. Just here, it may be proper for me to explain how my wife came by the dog. It happened like this:

My wife has for many years been a leading member of a well-known humane society. She has always been President of an association for the prevention of cruelty to angle-worms. This association has accomplished a great work, not only in protecting the worms but in restricting the ruthless slaughter of fish owing to scarcity of bait. In view of its successful work in this direction, the association recently passed a set of resolutions declaring the belief of its members "that the gratifying decrease noted in fishermen's lies this season is due principally, in an indirect way, to the association's far-reaching efforts."

She has also taken an active part in the work of an association organized exclusively to the amelioration of the condition of the canine race. It is made phenomenal strides the last two seasons. Year before last it raised a dollar, now in successful operation, for washing white poodles without getting soap in their eyes, and last year it devoted the greater part of its time to the consideration of a painless process of removing fleas from dogs without killing the fleas. The organization is still busy with this work.

From her connection with these societies my wife's fondness for the brute creation in general, and dogs in particular became known to all our friends. Among others were the boys in the office. They at once began to manifest great interest in animal life. They attended several meetings, at which my wife delivered addresses, and after she had been down to the office and talked to them two or three times they joined the Association for the Prevention of Cruelty to Angle-worms and the Society for the Amelioration of the Condition of the Canine Race, in a body.

After this thing had been going on some time the head clerk in the office came in one evening, with a smile on his face and a dog at his heels. He said the dog was for my wife. He thought she would like it, and he wanted me to take the dog home. I objected at first, but the clerk insisted. I am the senior partner in the firm, but when the head clerk insists he generally carries his point. I would regret with scorn and indignation an insinuation that I am afraid of that man, yet he rarely requests anything that is not granted. He is a valuable man around the office, and it is his way.

So I took the dog home.

He was a good-looking dog of the cocker-spaniel variety. He had unusually long silken ears, and eyes that spoke with silent eloquence. He had was handsome enough to have made the rest of the dog jealous. There was no trace of guile in his face, and that dog was capable of the basest ingratitude.

But I anticipate.

I got home with the dog about eleven o'clock that night. My wife had retired before we reached the house. She is not in the habit of rising to greet me, under ordinary circumstances, but as soon as she became aware of the dog's presence she got up. In fact she devoted the greater part of the night to welcoming him into the family circle. The head-clerk had shown me how to fetch, sit, shake hands, roll over, his prayers, and a dozen other tricks, and I had taught the dog tricks; but before we retired that night my wife devoted an hour my wife discovered that the dog had to be taught how to sleep. Among other things she found that he could, at her command, feign deafness, and that he could perform the pretty trick of taking his long silken ears in his teeth and, without other assistance, lying them behind his head, and she was particularly pleased my wife; he would do this with his left ear in 37 seconds at times as "Pocahontas," "Sweet Violets," "Sea-Shore" and the "Maiden's Wish," at the same barking the accompaniment to them.

I had nearly neglected to mention the name of the dog's second. It was one of the coldest Saturday nights last winter I ever spent, and I was almost frozen when I got home. Such was by no means the case with the dog, and the weather played a most important part in future developments.

After continuing to welcome the dog until a late hour, my wife made a bed for him of my clothes, and such soft material as was near at hand. The dog came to bed, first carrying an extra scuttle of coal in the bagpipes he proved him from taking cold. Early the next morning she was astir. So was the dog. He had brought something at home by this time, and I never saw my wife more pleased over any visitor in the house, not excepting her own mother. Breakfast was unusually late that morning, but as it was Sunday, and as I have made it a rule never to find fault around the house on that way since my wife once went into hysterics because I was late for a meal, I did not complain. Besides, I saw my wife was enjoying the dog's company, and I did not feel like casting a shadow over her unusually good spirits. The dog, as I said, took her attentions kindly. He seemed perfectly content, and my wife remarked that for a strange dog he was extremely sociable. This pleased her, for she said she had noticed that most dogs in a new family were inclined to be bashful and diffident; but she thought this dog would be willing to stay with us right along, and began to think so, too, he made himself so thoroughly at home. He ate to which he brushed a bisque vase off the escritoire with his tail, overturned my wife's work-basket, and helped himself to a bone from the table while we were at breakfast, would have convinced a total stranger that he had been a member of the family for years. After breakfast I suggested that the dog might not be accustomed to continual confinement in the house, and that perhaps it would be well to let him have a little exercise outdoors. My wife objected at first. She feared he might get his feet wet and contract rheumatism. I pointed out the improbability of such a calamity, in view of the fact that many dogs are obliged to be hustle around all winter for a living. I also told her that the cocker-spaniel was fond of water in any form, and especially of snow. This seemed to convince her. She opened the door and called to the dog, but he evinced no desire to leave a comfortable nest which he had made for himself of my best coat on an ottoman.

My wife at once intimated that I evidently was not so fondish as I might be with the babies of that breed of dog. After she had closed the door, however, the dog changed his mind. I made no verbal or written concessions, and she permitted him to go.

He jumped out of the window, barked a good upon him, and cautioned him not to stay long enough to catch cold. The dog seemed to understand perfectly. He barked on the threshold and bounded off, and seldom have seen such an expression, even upon the face of a human being, as came upon a dog's face. I shall never forget that look. His great, eloquent eyes beamed with affection and gratitude. They said, as plainly as words could have said: "Oh, my master, I am so happy! I am never thankful enough; a whole life of love and devotion could not repay you! Kick me, I will be back in fifteen minutes."

Yet, as I have before hinted, that dog was capable of the basest ingratitude. His smile was the smile of deceit. His affection was, like Prince Lorenzo's gayety, all upon the exterior.

That dog never returned.

At the end of fifteen minutes my wife began to worry. When half an hour had elapsed she became seriously alarmed. An hour had passed she was greatly agitated. At the end of two hours she declared positively to the amelioration of the condition of the canine race. It has made phenomenal strides the last two seasons. Year before last it raised a dollar, now in successful operation, for washing white poodles without getting soap in their eyes, and last year it devoted the greater part of its time to the consideration of a painless process of removing fleas from dogs without killing the fleas. The organization is still busy with this work.

From her connection with these societies my wife's fondness for the brute creation in general, and dogs in particular became known to all our friends. Among others were the boys in the office. They at once began to manifest great interest in animal life. They attended several meetings, at which my wife delivered addresses, and after she had been down to the office and talked to them two or three times they joined the Association for the Prevention of Cruelty to Angle-worms and the Society for the Amelioration of the Condition of the Canine Race, in a body.

After this thing had been going on some time the head clerk in the office came in one evening, with a smile on his face and a dog at his heels. He said the dog was for my wife. He thought she would like it, and he wanted me to take the dog home. I objected at first, but the clerk insisted. I am the senior partner in the firm, but when the head clerk insists he generally carries his point. I would regret with scorn and indignation an insinuation that I am afraid of that man, yet he rarely requests anything that is not granted. He is a valuable man around the office, and it is his way.

So I took the dog home.

He was a good-looking dog of the cocker-spaniel variety. He had unusually long silken ears, and eyes that spoke with silent eloquence. He had was handsome enough to have made the rest of the dog jealous. There was no trace of guile in his face, and that dog was capable of the basest ingratitude.

But I anticipate.

I got home with the dog about eleven o'clock that night. My wife had retired before we reached the house. She is not in the habit of rising to greet me, under ordinary circumstances, but as soon as she became aware of the dogs presence she got up. In fact she devoted the greater part of the night to welcoming him into the family circle. The head-clerk had shown me how to fetch, sit, shake hands, roll over, his prayers, and a dozen other tricks, and I had taught the dog tricks; but before we retired that night my wife discovered that the dog had to be taught how to sleep. Among other things she found that he could, at her command, feign deafness, and that he could perform the pretty trick of taking his long silken ears in his teeth and, without other assistance, lying them behind his head, and she was particularly pleased my wife; he would do this with his left ear in 37 seconds at times as "Pocahontas," "Sweet Violets," "Sea-Shore" and the "Maiden's Wish," at the same barking the accompaniment to them.

I had nearly neglected to mention the name of the dog's second. It was one of the coldest Saturday nights last winter I ever spent, and I was almost frozen when I got home. Such was by no means the case with the dog, and the weather played a most important part in future developments.

After continuing to welcome the dog until a late hour, my wife made a bed for him of my clothes, and such soft material as was near at hand. The dog came to bed, first carrying an extra scuttle of coal in the bagpipes to prevent him from taking cold. Early the next morning she was astir. So was the dog. He had brought something at home by this time, and I never saw my wife more pleased over any visitor in the house, not excepting her own mother. Breakfast was unusually late that morning, but as it was Sunday, and as I have made it a rule never to find fault around the house on that way since my wife once went into hysterics because I was late for a meal, I did not complain. Besides, I saw my wife was enjoying the dog's company, and I did not feel like casting a shadow over her unusually good spirits. The dog, as I said, took her attentions kindly. He seemed perfectly content, and my wife remarked that for a strange dog he was extremely sociable. This pleased her, for she said she had noticed that most dogs in a new family were inclined to be bashful and diffident; but she thought this dog would be willing to stay with us right along, and began to think so, too, he made himself so thoroughly at home. He ate to which he brushed a bisque vase off the escritoire with his tail, overturned my wife's work-basket, and helped himself to a bone from the table while we were at breakfast, would have convinced a total stranger that he had been a member of the family for years. After breakfast I suggested that the dog might not be accustomed to continual confinement in the house, and that perhaps it would be well to let him have a little exercise outdoors. My wife objected at first. She feared he might get his feet wet and contract rheumatism. I pointed out the improbability of such a calamity, in view of the fact that many dogs are obliged to be hustle around all winter for a living. I also told her that the cocker-spaniel was fond of water in any form, and especially of snow. This seemed to convince her. She opened the door and called to the dog, but he evinced no desire to leave a comfortable nest which he had made for himself of my best coat on an ottoman.

My wife at once intimated that I evidently was not so fondish as I might be with the babies of that breed of dog. After she had closed the door, however, the dog changed his mind. I made no verbal or written concessions, and she permitted him to go.

He jumped out of the window, barked a good deal upon the door, and cautioned him not to stay long enough to catch cold. The dog seemed to understand perfectly. He barked on the threshold and bounded off, and seldom have seen such an expression, even upon the face of a human being, as came upon a dog's face. I shall never forget that look. His great, eloquent eyes beamed with affection and gratitude. They said, as plainly as words could have said: "Oh, my master, I am so happy! I am never thankful enough; a whole life of love and devotion could not repay you! Kick me, I will be back in fifteen minutes."

Yet, as I have before hinted, that dog was capable of the basest ingratitude. His smile was the smile of deceit. His affection was, like Prince Lorenzo's gayety, all upon the exterior.

That dog never returned.

At the end of fifteen minutes my wife began to worry. When half an hour had elapsed she became seriously alarmed. An hour had passed she was greatly agitated. At the end of two hours she declared positively to my suggestion to let the dog out, in the first place, was made in a tentative way. I made that suggestion on purpose, and that she knew it when she let him out. He did not never come back. She said she and felt certain of it. I would feel that an sinister motive in the matter, and inquired, in my sharp, cutting way, why she had let the dog out at all if she knew he would not return. She seemed hurt by this query. She said it was aching brutality to mention it. I did not discuss the matter further.

There are two windows in the front sitting-room that face upon the street. After my wife had made sure the dog was not in the back yard she stationed herself at one of these windows to watch for him. Anxious to remove her suspicions as to the sincerity of my feeling toward the dog, I took up a cushion at the other window. I attempted at first to relieve her by encouraging remarks and hopeful reflections upon the dog's absence, but she went out in the cold and chilled. One of the hitherto strong traits of woman was raging out of doors. But for the howling of the wind as it madly tossed the snow, or the barking of a dog in the distance, the solemn silence of our vigil was unbroken. Every time a dog barked, up went my wife's window, and out went her head. Of course I imitated the example. I never before had noticed that our neighborhood contained a greater number of dogs than any other quarter of town. I do not even now believe that it does, yet it seemed to that day. It seemed to be populated principally with dogs. I never saw so many dogs in the street in one day in my life as passed our house that cold Sunday, and the barking dogs in the distance apparently outnumbered the double procession that tried by from two directions. At intervals of three to five seconds the voice of some new dog would be heard, her door, and each time up went two windows and out went two heads. Once my wife saw a dog four blocks up the street that she thought looked like the faithless cocker-spaniel, before I could remove, she had thrown a rubber over her head, and without other wraps rushed out into the wicked storm. Naturally, by the time she reached the second block the dog was gone. She had hardly got back into the house, chilled through as she was, when she heard another bark. Up went the window again. There was the same dog she had been chasing up street. This time he was three blocks down the street. Out shot my wife once more in her partially unfinished dress. When she reached the street the dog had again disappeared.

This sort of thing continued all Sunday. The raising of two windows and popping out of two heads was continued all that sombre day, and three times we had to eat cold lunch because my wife was too anxious to be recovering that dog.

The next day my wife was down with a heavy cold, contracted from her constant exposure to the cold, and her cold developed into a critical case of tonsilitis. Two days later I went to bed with a cold, and the next morning my wife was down with tonsilitis. Two days later I went to bed with tonsilitis, and the next morning my wife was down with a cold. Our misfortunes made us forgetful of our neighbors. From that time we began to improve. At the end of the second week my wife was well enough to get up, and I got about again a day later. In the course of the next ten days we were both fully restored to health. When the doctor heard of our recovery he sent in a bill for $25, which I refused to pay, and which is still in the courts. I had, however, to pay $50 for drugs.

There never will be another dog in our family, and I never feel quite sure in my own mind beyond the peradventure of a doubt, that my wife does not occasionally think of me, not even the baked alternative of a dog-house. But I have given the latter to be a remote contingency. I believe that my wife would never bother about a commonplace subject in the house. Since we adopted the dog she has never made any reference to the cause, although I feel convinced that she thinks of it and dwells on it with equal frequency, if not, perhaps, with exactly the same emotions of my wife's dog.

The Hairy Covering of the Gorilla.

The hairy coat of the gorilla consists of long, thick, straight or stiffly curved hairs, and also of shorter, finer, and curled woolly hair. On the crown of the head the hair is somewhat stiff, from twelve to twelve inches in length, and it becomes erect under the influence of anger. While the eyes and fore part of the chin are only clothed with short, stiff hairs, they grow gradually on the back part of the chin like a beard to forelock. The hairs which turn outward from the sides of the face and on the neck are thirty or more millimeters long, and the longest of the hairs are from 150 to 150 millimeters long, hanging down on the upper arms and the back. In the middle of the back, where the hair is from fifty to seventy millimeters long, it turns inward as far as the bend of the elbow. In a line by a great distance it grows in an upward direction. On the back of the forearm it again grows downward. In the middle or the forearm, where the hair is shorter, a parting of the hair takes place, as one meets with in the front of the radius, while the other Replenishing an Empty Treasury.

"Sumthin' am got to be done," seriously remarked Pre-idest White to the Minster Street School of Philosophy. "De resun am dat de treasury am empty, an' de dags what owns de place am howlin' for his cash."

"Hu' we travel?" asked Juniper Williams.

"I rant see no odder way," sadly replied the President.

"Sposin' we git er new member what'll pay de rent," suggested Fishworm Smith.

"Dat's bizness; but who am de person what wants to jine?"

"Hop Wang. He keeps a laundry down——"

"We wants no Chinermen 'in dis revo club," interrupted Faraway Johnson with some warmth.

"In cose we don't," responded Smith; "but what's wrong with letttin' er Chinerman pay de rent, an' den boomin' him?"

"Ah!" said the President; and all looked relieved.

"Wait erbout fo' minits," said Smith, leaving the room.

The four minutes lengthened into fifteen, and the opinion was expressed that dat Chinaman was broke, and had to go out to borrow his initiation fee, but Smith finally returned with his pay.

"If Mistah Wang's good enough fo' dolyers, de purvesigh'nt now hab no fees erbout it," he said, as he entered and announced the Pres dent.

"Dat's dolyer bizness," responded Wang.

"Dat's de price."

"Well, dat's right; me pay alice sumee black Mellicn sum."

After looking the money away in his vest pocket, the President said: "Jedges Jones out to borrow a pair of scissors."

"What yo' swine to do wif 'em?" asked Juniper Williams.

"Swine to cut off Mistah Wang's pig-tail. De rules er dis yere orgiknisation say dat every member jumi' hav sho' hair."

"Oh, yes, I fo'got," replied Williams, beginning to see through the scheme.

"Outlee off my pig-tail, sceam-a Wang, looking scared. "No, no; I can't go back to China!"

"Ain't help dat," said the President, sternly. "Rules am rules."

"Me want my pig-tail dollee back, or me hav yes allesbat."

"Ah! do ye mean by talkin' dat way to de President?" Faraway asked Juniper Williams. "I'll cat yo' wif er razer."

He reached into his look-leg as he made the threat, and Wang, frightened at the idea, ran down stairs and fled headed for Seventh street. After mutual concessions the meeting adjourned, Sparacus White then squared accounts with the landlord and the Minster Street School of Philosophy will continue business as usual.—Philadelphia North American.

The Abuse of Silence.

A man and wife enjoying a walk together, or a quiet evening spent in confidential and affectionate conversation, is a beautiful sight before God and man. But too often the picture is reversed. He saunters out with her, careless and unintentionally scarcely uttering a word. Is not this, to say the least, a great abuse of the science of silence?

In the hour of absence and of solitude, the husband is impressed with a sense of the amiable disposition and demeanor of his wife. Her unwearied endeavors to promote and perpetuate his happiness, and of its being his bounden duty to show, by the most unequivocal expressions of attachment and of tenderness, his full approbation of her assiduity and faithfulness. But too often these expressions of approbation are not forthcoming, and, with a mistaken silence, he shrinks from bestowing his wife, and represses those few words of praise which she so well deserves, and would so much delight to excite. "My master is all very well," said the wife, "but I wish he had a little way when he is pleased."

"In politics," said Tayton, "nothing is so absurd as rancor." In the same way we may say that nothing is so absurd in married life as the silent husband. Reynolds, in his "Life and Times," tells of a free and easy person who passed three festive days at the seat of Lord Malmsbury and Hardwicke, and without any invitation, convinced (as proved to be the case), that, my lord and his lady not being on speaking terms, each would suspect the other had asked him. A soft answer turns away wrath, and when a wife or husband is vexed, the best way is nothing like letting a sulk out drop. The silence is indeed golden. But the silence persisted in is an instrument of deadly torture. "A wise man by his words maketh himself heard; a fool by his silence."

SIRAH boy to water's sulkier: "Do you always carry dat face?"

From Mr. B.: "Certainly not." Mr. S. B.: "Then you must get awfully wet sometimes."

Mr. F.: "Cause we says she doesn't think you have sense enough to go in when it rains."—Boston Courier.

DE JONES—I wish I could afford to board at a better place than Mrs. Grimblank's Snitkins.—Why, there's no use in a man's quarreling with his bread and butter, as the saying goes. Snitkins—Yes, particularly the butter. I wish she'd know better than to quarrel with anything so strong as that!

POLITICIAN (pointing to a passer-by, and addressing a friend): "There goes the man we want for chairman of the committee." Friend—"Who, Patterson? Why, he is rather deaf." Politician—"That's what we want for chairman. He belongs to our fetion, and won't hear any motion that is not in our interest. Besides, whenever he happens to be on the right side, I can be sure he will hear me."

Humor.

GOOD staying qualities—the girl with a small waist.

"Put well backed with silver," as the looking glass said.

TREATING to chants—expecting to get to heaven by singing.

A MAN who starts a newspaper will the expectation that his relatives will subscribe for it is well qualified for a position somewhere as a rusher in those angels fear to tread.—Eutaw Bell.

WHAT'S the population of Chicago? asked a gentleman of a citizen. "Not less than 700,000 souls," he replied. "But I want the total population. Not simply those with souls."

"I AM surprised at the appearance of your friend B. He looks wretched. Do you know if he has been disappointed in love?" "No; he has been disappointed in marriage."

AN Irishman in a strange town stood looking at a strange vessel. "Where are you from, pay?" "Dogera, sir, I'm from anywhere but here," he replied, "and I'll soon be from here, too, sir."

BETSY, an old colored cook, was rushing around the kitchen, when her mistress asked her if she was well. "No, ma'am, not 'zactly," said Betsy, "but, do fac' is, I don't feel sufficiehn 'nough to get out of my own way."

GRATITUDE.

How common is ingratitude
Whose memory of benefits
And they are gone, and really good
Is but a transient thought.
Whose memory of benefits
Is shorter than the flash over sets.
—Boston Courier.

MRS. JOHNSTON, after attending a country church in winter, remarked that the text was very appropriate, but somehow the parson did not refer to it in his sermon. The text, as it caught the eye of all the sad and bitter incidents of our home-life.

"Here baby Carry close," her blue eyes to open them no more on a mother's face. They arrayed her in white, folded her fragile fingers upon the last spring blossoms, and in the night time we caught the rustling of the angel's wings who had come to bear her away to the bosom of the dear Christ.

It was there that Mary brought her lover, one summer's day, when she found that his heart was her home. The friends of her childhood were slow and dropped upon her clasped hands, but she gave them her blessing and the daughter went out to distant land.

Little children play around her knee now, but she often turns from them to stick yearning for mother's room.

The autumn sunlight streamed in with a golden glow, the evening we heard that Charley, our soldier boy was killed. Comrades wrote that he died like a brave man, and as a pirate was on every tongue, we said, "Mother, you can't come bring in the first sorry hours of bereavement?

"Bring my boy in here," said mother, "and let him lie beside his father."

We bore the dear form upon the sofa, and kneeling down, where she had knelt on his neck at parting.

The home once so with chilled voices is now peopled with ghosts. Their garments rustle in dimly lighted halls, their footsteps echo on vacant stairs, their voices murmur in deserted chambers, and when we are sitting firelight flickers on the walls they come stepping into mother's room, all, who are gone, the dead and the living.

The dear old folks see these choose for other, and when the last call of hour, mother will call me Charley, or Mary, or Hattie. I thought it was Mary's step upon the threshold.

They, too, will soon be gone.

In the fair mansion to which they hasten will there be one room home-like, where the lines erring mother dren will gather and find comfort as the years roll? Is mother's room?"—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Worse than Poison.

Boy to father:—"What is that you are reading about in the paper?"

Father—"This is the speech I wrote for Col. Bibb."

Boy—"What are you going to do with it?"

Father—"I am going to keep it and use it against him during the next campaign."

Boy—"How can you when you write it yourself?"

Father—"My son, nearly every speech a man makes contains utterances that will damn him in politics. I tell you that cold print is worse than poison."—Arkansaw Traveler.

Not Acquainted.

Talk about busy men, who leave home early and get back after dark, and never see their children—man of that sort was hurrying away one morning, when he found that his little boy had got up before him, and was lying on the sidewalk. He told the child to go in. Child wouldn't. Man spanked him, and went to business. Child went in, howling. The mother said, "What's the matter?" "Your father hit me," blubbered the youngster. "What man?" "That man that stays here Sundays."—Boston Post.

Easily Answered.

At a lecture on "The Decline of Literature," the eloquent orator shouted: "Where are the Chaucers, and Shakspeares, and Miltons, and Spensers, and Macaulays? Where are they?"

"And a voice answered sadly from the gallery:

"All dead."—Exchange.

WHEN a man's mug of lager overflows, it is because his ale is too big for his schooner.

THE present is a bright speck between the darkness of the future and the twilight of the past.

Mother's Room.

The dear old room with its windows open to the west.

There we children would stand tiptoe, and watch the cloud-ships sailing over phantom seas to a far-off fairy land, whither we, too, would some day voyage.

And the sheen of that wonderful sea of purple and gold cast a rosy gleam upon the white walls, played at hide and seek amid the lights and shadows thrown by the strict, around Shakspeare and his friends, laughed at the solemn clock on the mantel-piece, and rested like an armed upon mother's brown hair.

It was a homely room, for odds and ends of former times had a touched knack of collecting there.

Lads and lassies were never banished to the nursery in those days, so the carpet was always faded, oftentimes patched, but the children might romp over it as they pleased.

The floor was strewn with armless rag-dolls, worn-out balls, blow-guns, bits of twine, blue-back spelling-books, and the other worldly possessions of old-fashioned children.

The chairs! Well, no such chairs can be found now in upholsterers' shops. There was the capacious arm-chair, with its worn green linen, which we called "Sleepy Hollow," and for which there was always a scrabble in father's absence. Mother's favorite seat was a low rocking chair by the south window—overlooking the beds of violets and heartsease. Split-bottomed chairs, with and without rockers, invited the weary to seek rest. A home-made chintz-covered lounge sat in the corner, while quaint little stools, gay with patch-work covers, tried to hide themselves in every nook. That room was the scene of all the sad and bitter incidents of our home-life.

"Here baby Carry close," her blue eyes to open them no more on a mother's face. They arrayed her in white, folded her fragile fingers upon the last spring blossoms, and in the night time we caught the rustling of the angel's wings who had come to bear her away to the bosom of the dear Christ.

"Sleep, Darrow M. Rettine.

—Pastor M. E. Church, So. Fairfield, Va."

TIRE AND DOCTORS' BILLS SAVED by using Hunter's Universal Liver Regulator in the House.

"I have found Simmons Liver Regulator the best family medicine I ever used for anything that may happen, have used it in Indigestion, Colic, Bilious ness, and found it to relieve immediately. After taking a hearty supper, if, on going to bed, I take a tablespoonful of the fat, I never feel the effects of the supper eaten.

"OVID G. SPARKS,

"Ex-Mayor Macon, Ga."

ONLY GENUINE

Has on J. H. Zeilin & Co. stamp on front of Wrapper.

J. H. Zeilin & Co., Sole Proprietors.

Price, $1.00. PHILADELPHIA, PA.

PERRY DAVIS'

PAIN-KILLER

IS RECOMMENDED BY

Physicians, Ministers, Missionaries, Managers of Factories, Steamboats, Plantations, Nurses in Hospitals—in short everybody, everywhere, who has ever given it a trial.

TAKES INTERNALLY, IT WILL BE FOUND A WARM AND CLEAN FRIEND

SUDDEN COLDS, CHILLS, PAINS IN THE STOMACH, CRAMPS, SUMMER AND BOWEL COMPLAINTS, SORE THROAT, &c.

APPLIED EXTERNALLY, IT IS THE MOST EFFECTIVE AND BEST LINIMENT ON EARTH FOR CURING SPRAINS, BRUISES, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, TOOTHACHE, ACHE, BURNS, FROST BITES, &c.

Prices, 25c, 50c, and $1.00 per Bottle.

FOR SALE BY ALL MEDICINE DEALERS.

Beware of Imitations.

Somebody's Child.

Somebody's child is dying—dying with the flush of hope on his young face, and somebody's mother is thinking of the time when she saw the first spot on his white neck, or large eye brightened in consumption was no cure for consumption. Reader, if you could be your neighbor's, take the Pantheon word to the mother's heart before it is too late. Yet her last consumption is curable; that men are living to day whom the physicians pronounced incurable, because one long and keen almost destroyed by the agency of the Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, has cured hundreds; surgeons and physicians, hydrophobia, and other medicines in curing this disease. Sold by druggists.

"A SPOTTED adder" is a name grimly given by the Boston Record to defaulting cashiers.

Dr. Pierce's "Pellets"—the original "Little Liver Pills" (sugar-coated)—cure sick and bilious headache, sour stomach, and bilious attacks. By druggists.

"YOU may find me guilty, gentlemen," said the criminal to the jury, "but, just the same, that's not my conviction."

ACCA, is its most malignant form, is cured by Allen's Lung Balsam.

HE is a miss guided youth who does everything his sweetheart asks him to do.

MAY a luxuriant head of hair is produced by Hall's Hair Renewer.

CONTEMPT of court—When the younger brother makes faces at his sister's lover.

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

FAULTLESS FAMILY MEDICINE

"I have used Simmons Liver Regulator for many years, having made it my only Family Medicine. My mother before she was very partial to it. It is a safe, good and reliable medicine for any disorder of the system, and if used in time is a great preventive of sickness. I cannot recommend it too highly to friends, and shall continue to do so."

"Pastor M. E. Church, So. Fairfield, Va."

TIME AND DOCTORS' BILLS SAVED by using Hunter's Universal Liver Regulator in the House.

"I have found Simmons Liver Regulator the best family medicine I ever used for anything that may happen, have used it in Indigestion, Colic, Bilious ness, and found it to relieve immediately. After taking a hearty supper, if, on going to bed, I take a tablespoonful of the fat, I never feel the effects of the supper eaten.

"OVID G. SPARKS,

"Ex-Mayor Macon, Ga."

ONLY GENUINE

Has on J. H. Zeilin & Co. stamp on front of Wrapper.

J. H. Zeilin & Co., Sole Proprietors.

Price, $1.00. PHILADELPHIA, PA.

TOWER'S FISH BRAND SLICKER Is the Best Waterproof Coat Ever Made.

PATENTS U. S. & L. Lacey, Patent Attorneys, Washington, D. C. Send for Circular.

CONSUMPTION. Lyon's Patent Metallic Heel Stiffeners Keep new boots and shoes from running over. Sold by shoe and hardware dealers.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

C.N.U. No. 21-86.

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS, kindly mention this paper.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS WILL CURE

HEADACHE
INDIGESTION BILIOUSNESS DYSPEPSIA NERVOUS PROSTRATION MALARIA CHILLS AND FEVERS
TIRED FEELING
GENERAL DEBILITY
PAIN IN THE BACK & SIDES
IMPURE BLOOD
CONSTIPATION
FEMALE INFIRMITIES RHEUMATISM NEURALGIA
KIDNEY AND LIVER TROUBLES

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS

The Genuine has Trade Mark and crossed Red Lines on wrapper.

TAKE NO OTHER.

JAMS, JELLY,

Tutty Fruit, Fruit Syrups, Cordials, Cream and Soda Nectar for Soda Fountains, Cocoanut, Mixed Candies, Fine Confectionery, Fine Chocolates, Cocoa, Chocolate, Fancy Boxes, Fancy Baskets, Fancy Goods, Holiday Goods.

ADVERTISERS Send 10 cents to Geo. P. Rowell & Co., Newspaper Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce St.), New York, for 100-page pamphlet. Contains lists of 3000 newspapers, and estimates showing the cost of advertising.

A FORTUNE Sent free to any person who will work for us. Capital not required. We will pay you from $5 to $10 per day in your own locality. Nothing like it for the world. Some have made over $50 in a day. Reader, if you want business of your own, address, TRUE & CO., Augusta, Maine.

LORD & THOMAS.

JONES SCALE PAYS THE FREIGHT Catalogue Free. JONES OF BINGHAMTON, BINGHAMTON, N. Y. $60.

ON 30 DAYS' TRIAL. SEND FOR THIS ELASTIC TRUSS. This is the Best Truss ever invented. It is a perfect Retainer, and will last a lifetime. Unlike other Trusses, it does not chafe or gall the most tender skin. It is Self-Adjusting, and can be worn by the most delicate person without inconvenience. It retains the rupture under all circumstances, and will do so until a cure is effected. It is easy, durable, and cheap. Sent by mail. Circulars free. Address, BINGHAM & CO., Sole Manufacturers, Detroit, Mich.

PRINTERS WANTED.

Printers competent to take charge of weekly newspaper offices can hear of permanent situations in good Western towns, where liberal wages will be paid, by addressing the SIOUX CITY NEWSPAPER UNION, 216 Douglas St., Sioux City, Iowa.

SYNUTIA BLACKBERRY BLOCKS. THE GREAT DIARRHŒA CHECKER. Get Checkerboard and Dice Gratis. FREE! The latest and cheapest game. Sells at sight. Agents wanted everywhere. Sample Blocks, Checkerboard and Dice, 25 cents. Address, SYNUTIA MFG. CO., Cincinnati, O.

FRAZER AXLE GREASE. Best in the World. Get the genuine. Universally known as the Best. Manufactured by FRAZER & TRASK, SOLD EVERYWHERE.

LE PAGE'S GLUES Celebrated for 40 years. Strongest and Best in the World. Mending Articles of Daily Use. At the New Orleans Exposition it received the highest prize, 1600 Pounds TO A SQUARE INCH. TWO GOLD MEDALS. LE PAGE'S LIQUID GLUE, Prepared and Ready for Use. RUSSIA CEMENT CO., Gloucester, Mass.

WANTED BY THE GARVANZA LAND COMPANY OF LOS ANGELES, CAL., Carpenters, Masons, Brick-Makers, Plasterers, Laborers of all kinds, Carpenters and Board. Hands wanted to work on Farms, Vineyards, Orchards, Ranches, Gardens, Dairies, Stock Ranches, Poultry Ranches, Bee Ranches, Fruit Ranches, Nurseries, Flower Farms, Seed Farms, Bee Farms, Poultry Farms, Laborers of all kinds, furnished to those who wish to employ them. Prices charged in lots and cared for until employed. Wages, $1 to $3 per day; Masons and Plasterers, $2 to $3 per day; Laborers, $2 to $3 per month and board. Hands wanted to work on Farms

TRY DR. CROUTER'S DYSPEPSIA CURE,
For Indigestion, Nausea, Heartburn, Loss of Appetite, Etc.
If you want the best PILLS sold, ask for CROUTER'S ANTI-BILLOUS GRANULES. Manufactured by

G. W. Crouter, Druggist.

Temperance Column.

Conducted by a Committee of the W. C. T. U.

OFFICERS.

President—Mrs. G. W. Jefferis.
First Vice President—Mrs. C. F. Cook.
Second Vice President—Mrs. L. S. Madge.
Third Vice President—Mrs. J. Sharp.
Recording Secretary—Miss Julia Mason.
Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. L. A. Allen.
Treasurer—Mrs. C. J. Strong.

What is Prohibition?

The Infamy of the Liquor Traffic.

BY W. JENNINGS DEMOREST.

The liquor traffic is the prolific source of a large proportion of the misery that now exists in the world, and also the instigator and inciting cause of nearly all the crimes to individuals and their perverted appetites, but we always find that allurement is a much stronger incentive to intoxication than deliberation, therefore we go to the fountain-head and charge this crime and misery to the rum-seller, this debasing and curse of others, this foul and terrible incubus that weighs so heavily on the purest and best homes of our country, that destroys our business, pauperizes the people and sends thousands of the best men of our country to untimely graves, and leaves behind a well of anguish from broken hearts and helpless orphans. These arsenals of rot and debauchery that put our lives and property in constant jeopardy, that fills our jails and prisons, and causes a stream of crime and wretchedness to flow like molten lava over the best interests of our country. All these and much more are the direct and immediate results of the wicked, and mercenary crime of rum-selling, a crime that has been tolerated and sanctioned through the influence of our social surroundings, large money interests, together with the ignorance of the people as to the nature of the vile compounds foisted on them, and the clamor of the perverted appetites of its many victims.

The people are sovereign in authority and have absolute control of this monster evil, and are therefore responsible to each other for the continuation of this awful devastation that is being constantly perpetrated by these rum-sellers. In our sovereign capacity we are guilty of sustaining these outrages on the property, the lives, the health and the welfare of the community.

WHAT IS OUR DUTY IN REFERENCE TO IT?

Sustaining the crime of rum-selling either by our vote, our sanction, or our silence, makes us morally responsible for all the crime and misery that flows from the traffic. Our not doing is one of our worst faults.

It is all hollow mockery to make any pretense of consecrations exhortation and yet tolerate this infamous business.

It will not do for us to say that it will jeopardize our social standing and injure our influence, or cut us off from the sympathy of some of our friends. Such namby pamby nonsense may give an easy way to evade the active duties demanded of us as the sacrifice of time and money, but this will not secure the conscious satisfaction of duty done.

We may say if we can only jog along in the old beaten track and leave the good old party ammunition lifeless as all our political rights without any special effort of ours, we will be satisfied. Such nasty and evasion morality does not deserve recognition, and certainly has no claim to being progressive active.

THE APARENTE INSUFFICIENCY OF MORAL OBLIGATION.

The milk and water people that would sit down in listless inactivity and expect to have the benefit of others energy without any effort of theirs, and say: "My soul, sober sal ma' sing herself away to everlasting ——A way with such sentiments! Away with fake-warm religion would-be like feeding your children with sugar plums to give them muscular power.

No energy, no real will power, no determination to succeed by mental or moral effort. It is well said that providence helps those who help themselves. That is what God gave us brains for to use them, that is all there is in life, the use we make of it, as it is progression only in the cause of right and justice that secures victory in the end.

Most of the people delude themselves with the conviction that when they are acting according to their sympathies they are doing their highest duty, but as our sympathies are often mere flickering passion, and are not always truthful, we should lay on our guard and not be deceived with feelings merely, these often lead us into difficulty. The common sympathy we often have for the degradation and misery that is produced by alcoholic liquors is a laudable exercise of our sensibilities and compassionate feelings, and sometimes when properly bestowed, may produce an alleviation of the drunkard's misery, and perhaps an entire reclamation; but, as often happens, the allurements are so powerful, and the appetite so clamorous, the drunkard sinks again and again until death finally ends his course.

THE ONLY REMEDY.

The only effective and permanent reform that we can advocate, with positive assurance that it will be successful, is the entire and complete annihilation of the liquor traffic by prohibition.

This may not appear so feasible at first, but the clamors of a suffering humanity, made imperiled by the exercise of the moral and christian sentiment there is in the community, will accumulate force and power in proportion to the time and effort that is devoted to it.—From Demorest's Monthly for July.

Saved by a Broken Wire.

On reading an extract going the rounds of the papers which shows how Jefferson Davis received the news of the assassination of Lincoln and what he said about E. M. Stanton, the then Secretary of War, Mr. Hudson Taylor, who at that time kept a bookstore in Washington, and who was a bosom friend of Secretary Stanton, said to-day: "The morning after the assassination of Lincoln it was stated in newspaper articles that two gentlemen who were walking leisurely along near Stanton's house at 8 o'clock on the night of the tragedy, the hour fixed for the attacks on Seward and Johnson, saw a tall man with a high hat hurry off Stanton's stoop, and though they remarked it as singular gave it only a passing notice. The next morning when I made my usual call on Stanton he said, after reading the article referred to: 'I was tired out last night and went home early, and was in the back room playing with the children when these gentlemen saw that man hurry off my stoop. If the door-bell had been rung it would have been answered and the man admitted, and I have no doubt I would have been attacked. But the bell wire was broken a day or two before, and though we had endeavored to have it repaired, the bell-hanger had put it off because of a pressure of orders.'

"When I went back to the store after this interview with Mr. Stanton," said Mr. Taylor, "I mentioned the matter to one of my clerks, who exclaimed quickly: 'That is so. I know, because at 7 o'clock last night I went to Mr. Stanton's house with a book, and pulled and pulled the bell-knob, but got no response. I stepped into the vestibule, and, looking up, saw the broken bell-wire, and, reaching up, pulled it, when the bell answered and asked, 'How did you ring the bell?' and expressed surprise, and added, 'It has been broken a day or two and has annoyed us much.' We all agreed, including Mr. Stanton, that if that bell-wire had been in working order Mr. Stanton would have been assassinated, for the man had evidently pulled on the bell-knob several times, and, getting no response, became frightened and fled."—Poughkeepsie Correspondence.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Whereas, default having been made in the payment of a certain mortgage made and dated on the 4th day of December, A. D., one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four, and executed by Walter Manley and Lucinda, his wife, to the Pine Lake Iron Company, a corporate creation and existing under the laws of the state of Illinois, and duly recorded in the county of Charlevoix, in the state of Michigan, on the 5th day of December, A. D. 1884, in the register of deeds of the said county of Charlevoix, in Liber 8 of mortgages, at page 405, on the 8th day of September, in the year A. D., one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four, and the said Pine Lake Iron Company, since whose, the amount claimed to be due on said mortgage at the date of this notice is the sum of one hundred and fifty dollars and forty-five cents, which is claimed to be the first installment of principal and interest on said mortgage, and no proceeding at law or in equity having been instituted to recover the debt now remaining secured by the said mortgage or any part thereof, whereby the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative: Now therefore, notice is hereby given that in pursuance of the statute in such case provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described, at public auction, to the highest bidder at the front door of the Town Hall in the village of Boyne City, in the county of Charlevoix and state of Michigan, which is the place of holding the circuit court in said county, on Wednesday, the 8th day of September, A. D. 1886, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, to pay the debt and all legal costs and charges of foreclosure, and the attorney fee allowed in said mortgage, to wit: Lots one (1) and two (2) in block twelve (12) in the Pine Lake Iron Company's plat of Boyne as duly recorded, situate in the village of Boyne, Charlevoix county, Michigan.

Dated June 9th, A. D. 1886.

PINE LAKE IRON COMPANY,
Mortgagee.

CRUCKSHANK & GRIER,
Attorneys for Mortgagee,
Charlevoix, Mich.

CHANCERY SALE.—In pursuance and by virtue of an order and decree of the circuit court for the county of Charlevoix, in chancery, made and entered on the twenty-fourth day of the fifth day of January, in the year A. D. 1886, in a certain cause therein pending, wherein Ella Hart is complainant and Frank Hart and Phebe Hart are defendants, Notice is hereby given that I, the undersigned, circuit court commissioner in and for said county of Charlevoix, will, in the Village of Boyne in said county, on the twelfth day of July, A. D. 1886, at the place of holding the circuit court in said county, sell at public vendue, to the highest bidder, the lands, described and situated in said county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, to wit: The northwest quarter (¼) of the northwest quarter (¼) of section twenty-four (24), in township twenty (20) north, in range ten (10) west, being in the township of South Arm, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, and containing forty (40) acres of land according to the government survey thereof.

Dated July 9th, A. D. 1886.

FRANK E. FOGG,
Circuit Court Commissioner,
Charlevoix County, Mich.
Crutckshank & Grier,
Solicitors for Complainant,
Charlevoix, Michigan.

STAUFFER'S BROADCAST
Hand-Seeder.

This new invention possesses many qualities peculiarly adapted to farmers of this vicinity.

TEN REASONS:

1. It sows the roughest or smoothest soils.
2. It sows evenly all kinds of grain and seeds, large and small. Wheat, oats, clover, timothy, rutabaga, etc.
3. It sows any desired quantity. One-fourth pound of rutabaga seed can be spread over an acre of ground with perfect ease and accuracy.
4. It sows rapidly. With wheat it covers 40 feet to the round. Clover or timothy, mixed 36. Ten acres of clover sowed in 2½ hours.
5. It is not affected by quite a strong wind.
6. It is quickly adjusted to different quantities of grain.
7. It cannot clog.
8. It is easily operated.
9. It is cheap.
10. It is durable.

Patented by ISAAC STAUFFER, of Carpenter, Kismet Co., Mich. Sold by

UPRIGHT & EMREY,
Call and examine it. Charlevoix, Mich

John Nicholls,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,
Manufacturer of and dealer in
HARDWOOD AND PINE
LUMBER!
ALSO
Dressed lumber, Oar Blades,
WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.
LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER

A Full Stock of
Jewelry and Silverware,
Optical Goods, Etc.
C. R. BELLINGER,
Charlevoix, Mich.

Corns, Bunions, Inverted Nails, Sore Nipples, Sore Shoulders, Sore Backs, Galls, Scratches, Sore Throat, Sore Chest, Lame Back, Rheumatism, Sore Muscles, Cut, Bruised, Burned, Scalded, Chapped, Chilblains, Chilled Parts, Frost Bites, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Chilled Parts, Frost Bites, Chapped Hands, Cracked Heels, Piles, Inflammation, Soreness, Lameness, Stiffness, Soreness, Lameness, Stiffness, Pain, Inflammation, Piles, Cracked Heels, Chapped Hands, Frost Bites, Chilled Parts, Chilblains, Chapped Hands, Cracked Heels, Piles, Inflammation, Soreness, Lameness, Stiffness, Pain, Inflammation, Piles, Cracked Heels, Chapped Hands, Frost Bites, Chilled Parts, Chilblains, Chapped Hands, Cracked Heels, Piles, Inflammation, Soreness, Lameness, Stiffness

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

EASTERN.

A mail-pouch containing money and securities of the value of $80,000 was recently stolen between New York and Pittsburgh. The authorities have no clew.

Henry Punsley suicided in Brooklyn by severing the arteries of his wrist. He left a note which said: "It makes me laugh to think I am lying here dying in this miserable condition while I have a brother a millionaire."

Fire destroyed the Indian Orchard Mills Company's cotton factory at Springfield, Mass. Loss $300,000.

The Baptist Church at St. Clair, Pa., was blown up with dynamite. It is thought to have been the work of prosecuted liquor sellers.

A Philadelphia yacht with a pleasure party on board capsized near Sandy Hook. Six women and one man were drowned—Mrs. T. Hoad Stevens, Miss Mamie F. Stevens and Mrs. Henry Asbing, her daughters; Messrs Bessie and Emma Merritt, Miss Maud Instland, and Mr. Chester Clark.

John Irwin & Bro.'s lumber yard at Conversville, Pa., was burned, 1,500,000 feet of pine lumber being destroyed. The fire, it is thought, was of incendiary origin.

There was a light fall of snow at Rome, N. Y., on the 31 inst. The signal-service observer on Mount Washington reports the ground covered to the depth of one and a half inches.

It is reported from Watch Hill, R. I., that Secretary Manning has almost wholly recovered his health.

WESTERN.

In the trial of the Chicago anarchists on Saturday, the 31st ult., the prosecution read article from the Arbeiter-Zeitung, the socialistic organ, and exhalted the red and black flags of the anarchists, and there rested. The attorneys for the defense offered a motion to have Neebe discharged, which motion was overruled. Attorney Salomon then made the opening address for the defense. There were two leading points in his argument: 1. There cannot be conspiracy without a principal. The State must prove that somebody was a principal in committing murder before it can convict others as accessories. 2. The defendants did not throw the bomb, therefore they are not guilty. It is estimated that the trials of the anarchist conspirators for connection with the bayonnet murders will cost Cook County and Chicago about $100,000.

In the Des Moines River, near Mount Zion, Iowa, five children were drowned while bathing. Three of the unfortunates belonged to the Confederate army, has offered his services Col. Smith, of Cuba-ne, offers a brigade of ten regiments.* An Eagle Pass dispatch says that by order of Gen. Ireland County Judge Hoffstetter, Sheriff Oglesby, and Deputy Sheriff Diaz have been arrested, charged with being concerned in the illegal capture and delivery of President Arrieta to the pirates at Piedras Negras. They were released on $1,000 bail each.

Two constitutional amendments will be voted on at the State election in Georgia in October. Should they pass, Confederate soldiers will be placed on a permanent pension list.

WASHINGTON.

The new one-dollar certificate will bear a copy of the Stuart portrait of Martha Washington. A portrait of Gen. Hancock will adorn the one-dollar certificate.

Treasurer Jordan reports that the public debt was reduced during July to the extent of $9,000,003. Following is the official statement:

INTEREST-BEARING DEBT.
Bonds at 4½ per cent	$9,000,000
Bonds at 4 per cent	732,300,650
Refunding certificates at 4 per cent	10,017,350
Navy pension fund at 3 per cent	14,000,000
Pacific Railroad bonds, six per cent	64,623,512
Total	$1,330,641,512
Interest	5,257,522
Total	$1,335,899,034
DEBT ON WHICH INTEREST HAS CEASED SINCE MATURITY.
Principal	3,374,745
Interest	293,128
Total	3,667,873
DEBT BEARING NO INTEREST.
Old debt and bonds issued prior to 1861	836,738
Certificates of deposit	19,915,000
Gold certificates	34,845,900
Silver certificates	32,204,024
Fractional currency	8,005,027
Total	95,806,689
TOTAL DEBT.
Principal	1,434,937,596
Interest	8,868,651
Total	1,443,806,247
Less cash in treasury available for redemption of the debt	195,205,443
Less cash held for redemption of U. S. notes	100,000,000
Total	295,205,443
Total debt less available cash money on hand	1,148,600,804
Net cash in the treasury	9,626,357
Debt less cash in Treasury July 1, 1885	1,138,974,447
Debt less cash in Treasury July 31, 1885	1,138,136,393
Decrease of debt during the month	838,054
CERTIFICATES OF DEPOSIT AVAILABLE FOR REDEMPTION OF PUBLIC DEBT.
Gold legal tender certificates held as cash for redemption of certificates	34,718,507
Silver held for silver certificates authorized	32,204,024
Gold held for certificates of deposit	32,204,024
Cash held for redemption of deposits	19,155,000
Interest unpaid	12,873,507
Interest thereon	2,647
Total available for redemption of the debt	1,295,265,441
RESERVE FUND.
Held for redemption of U. S. notes act Jan. 14, 1875, and July 12, 1882	$100,000,000
Certificates for notes issued on the deposit	38,984,000
Silver coin	247,000
Total	139,231,000
Outstanding legal tenders	346,681,016
Net cash balance on hand	948,584,425

LATER NEWS ITEMS.

A yachtcontaining eight persons was capsized in a sudden squall off Portland, Me., and capsized, some of the unfortunates being drowned. Five of the victims were children and two adults. Their names were: Wellington Masters, aged 70; Jane Masters, his wife, aged 69; Benjamin Whitten, aged 14; Maud Whitten, aged 12; Harry Cleveland, aged 7; Emma Cleveland, aged 11; Jane Masters, aged 2. All were twisted, Mr. Masters being grandfather of them all. Little James Cleveland, aged 10, leaped overboard and escaped the sinkon that carried the party down. His father rescued him. When the yacht capsized Mrs. Cleveland, in the other yacht, fainted, and when her husband got on board again he found that the shock had deprived her of her reason.

An attempt was made to rob the express car on the Boston limit near Bainbridge, Ind. Baggageman J. P. Winchester was shot in the breast by the would-be robber, who was afterward driven from the train. Winchester's wound is serious.

Indians in the vicinity of Mandan, Morton county, D. T., are causing the settlers great uneasiness by their depredations. The Indians are entirely in the center of the whites and taking whatever they fancy. The proposed establishment of Fort Lincoln has made the Indians very uneasy.

Eugene Field, new Parliament met on the 5th inst. Arthur Wellesley Peel was re-elected Speaker. At a conference of the Liberal Unionists Lord Hartington, who presided, proposed that all attempts of hostility toward the adherents of the late government be abandoned. The Liberal sections should support Gladstone's proposition for the appointment of useful legislation and opposing all proposals looking to the separation of the empire. He said the consolidation of the party was only a matter of time. Mr. Chamberlain delivered a speech in which he said he would willingly accept the leadership of Lord Hartington, with whom he was on entire and cordial sympathy. He declared that his action in Lord Hartington proposed would speedily restore the unity of the party. The minutes, he said, were the real victors at the conference. Mr. Parnell's remarks were received with enthusiastic cheers.

Consensus adjourned sine die at 4 o'clock p. m. on Thursday, Aug. 6. Senator Plumb, from the committee appointed on the bill for the repeal of the pre-emption and timber-culture laws, reported a disagreement. The usual resolution of thanks to the Presidents of the Senate and House for the able, impartial and courteous consideration of the public business, was adopted. The report of the second Monetary Conference was received in December. The Indian appropriation bill was passed. The Senate passed the bill to place the Marine Hospital building at Fort Scott, Kan., and 15 acres of land at Fort Leavenworth. The Senate did not act upon the "surplus" resolution before adjournment. A large number of bills were passed, and a large number killed. The committee appointed by the House to wait on the President and Senate, reported that they had waited upon the President and presented to him the concurrent resolution of the two Houses, and he informed them that he had no further communication to make. The committee appointed by the Senate reported that they had waited on the President and presented to him the concurrent resolution of the two Houses, and he informed them that he had no further communication to make. A large number of bills were passed, the most important being the Indian appropriation bill, giving land in severalty to Indians on certain reservations, and providing for the appropriation for allotments. President Cleveland sent a message to the Senate, stating that he had signed the bill for the repeal of the pre-emption and timber-culture laws, and giving his reasons therefor. The President says that many meritorious claims have been addressed to him for the purpose of obtaining my approval of the bill, and have been influenced by local or personal considerations. The President says: "Yet the earnest solicitude of the honest and patriotic citizens of the United States that the public lands be made free to the actual settlers, and the fear that the bill, if not approved, would not be followed by renewing the country's protection against the evils which it was urged would result from its operation, have caused me to withhold my signature from the bill, and giving my reasons for my action in withholding it, I feel that I owe to those who have addressed to him for the purpose of obtaining my approval of the bill, and have been influenced by local or personal considerations, the duty of a full and frank avowal of the reasons which have caused me to withhold my approval."

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

Democratic State Convention.

The Democratic State Convention to nominate candidates for State officers, and for the transaction of such other business as may come before the convention, will be held in Redmond's Opera House, at the City of Grand Rapids, on Wednesday, August 18, 1886,

AT 11 O'CLOCK A. M.

Each county is entitled to one delegate for each 200 votes cast for Governor at the last general election, and one for every fraction of not less than 200 votes. Every organized county is entitled to at least two delegates, and under the rules adopted a delegate must be a resident of the county he represents.

JOHN J. ENRIGHT,
Chairman.

H. F. PENNINGTON,
Secretary.

Charlevoix county is entitled to four delegates.

Democratic Congressional Convention.

The Democratic electors of the Ninth Congressional District of Michigan (we hereby notify that a convention will be held at HOOP'S HALL, THE CITY OF BOYNE RAPIDS, ON WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 1, AT 10 O'CLOCK A. M., for the purpose of putting in nomination a candidate for Congress from the Ninth Congressional District, and to transact(?) any other business that may properly come before said convention. On the basis of one delegate for each 300 votes cast for Governor at the last general election, and one for every fraction of not less than 200 votes, the various counties comprising the said Congressional District will be entitled to representation as follows:

	Votes cast.	No. of Del.
Antrim	1,010	4
Charlevoix	903	4
Clare	1,308	5
Chippewa	1,128	5
Emmet	1,767	7
Kalkaska	290	2
Mecosta	1,401	6
Montcalm	2,379	9
Mackinaw	675	3
Newaygo	1,603	6
Oceola	1,024	4
Oceana	1,756	7
Wexford	1,205	5
Total		56

WM. P. NISBETT, Mecosta Co., Ch'n.
H. J. HOYT, Muskegon,
THOS. HOWARD,
DANIEL E. SOPER, Newaygo,
JOHN E. MORRISS, Montcalm,
JOHN E. SAVAGE, Antrim,
Secretaries.

Democratic County Convention.

A democratic county convention will be held at THE GRAND HALL, in Charlevoix on Friday, the 13th day of August, A. D. 1886, at 1 o'clock, p. m., for the purpose of electing delegates to the democratic state convention, to be held at Grand Rapids, on Aug. 18, 1886, and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the meeting. Each township is entitled to delegates to said convention as follows:

	Vote for Nor. of Gov. 1884.	Dele-gates
Bear Lake	56	1
Boyne Valley	59	1
Charlevoix	214	2
Charlevoix	214	2
Chandler	32	1
Evangeline	73	1
Eveline	159	2
Hayes	126	2
Hudson	97	1
Marion	102	1
Norwood	44	1
Resort	92	1
South Arm	56	1
Springvale	44	1
Wilson	41	1

J. MILO EATON,
Chairman.
C. J. STRANG,
Secretary, Democratic County Committee.

Greenback County Convention.

The greenback county convention to nominate candidates for county officers will be held at CITY HALL in Boyne City, on Thursday, Sept. 2, 1886, at 10 o'clock a. m., also to reorganize the county committee and fix the basis of representation for future conventions, and elect delegates to the congressional senatorial and representative conventions yet to be held this year. The several townships in the county will be entitled to the following number of delegates:

Bear Lake, 2. Boyne Valley, 2. Chandler, 2. Charlevoix, 3. Evangeline, 3. Eveline, 3. Hayes, 2. Hudson, 2. Marion, 2. Melrose, 2. Norwood, 2. Resort, 2. South Arm, 2. Springvale, 2. Wilson, 2.

By order of committee.

T. J. HILL, Chairman.
E. H. SHEPARD, Secretary.

Dated Aug. 5, 1886.

P. H. Wachtel for Auditor General.

Harbor Springs Independent.

We have heretofore spoken in favor of the nomination of Mr. Wachtel for the office of auditor general, and have published numerous extracts from fusion exchanges, showing that he is the unanimous choice of the allied parties of northern Michigan, and that his candidacy meets with general favor in all parts of the state. This week we publish from the Petoskey Democrat a strong editorial setting forth the reasons why Mr. Wachtel's friends will claim the nomination as a right, and why it is policy for the democratic convention to nominate him.

We take pleasure in heartily endorsing every claim made by the Democrat in behalf of northern Michigan and our candidate.

We believe Mr. Wachtel is the strongest man either party can nominate. He is a man of splendid business talents, fine executive ability and of lofty worth. No man in northern Michigan more fully commands the respect and confidence of the people regardless of party, and no democrat in Michigan has stronger claims upon his party.

Mr. Wachtel is an energetic, enthusiastic and thorough campaigner, and will command the united and hearty support of both democrats and greenbackers. He is a man of unimpeachable integrity, and his name will add strength to the ticket.

One reason why he is the most available candidate was overlooked by the Democrat. For years he has been a leading citizen of the leading summer resort in the country. By his a business man and as president of Petoskey he has unequalled opportunities for forming personal acquaintances covering every section in the state and we do not believe there is a man in Michigan who has a wider circle of warm personal friends.

It may seem presumptuous for a national to offer advice to the democrats; but we are anxious to see the republican party completely overthrown in Michigan, and for this reason we want the Democrats as well as the nationalists, to nominate their strongest men. And believing that the strongest man that either of the allies can nominate for auditor general is Philip H. Wachtel, of Petoskey, we hope to see him nominated next Wednesday.

NOTES AND NEWS.

The Lansing JOURNAL is booming Geo. L. Yaple for governor on the fusion ticket.

There is no opposition to P. B. Wachtel for auditor general, and he will doubtless secure the nomination.

Of course we should like very much to see this part of the state represented on the ticket and the mention of Mr. P. B. Wachtel, of Petoskey, for auditor general, pleases us, and if the convention shall nominate him we believe it will help the ticket in this part of the state." Eagle.

Traverse Herald: One of the most important decisions made by a circuit judge in a long time, was rendered by Judge Ramsdell, a few days ago, in the case of the receiver of the defunct Mutual Insurance Co. of Grand Rapids vs. John Wilhelm, of this place. It will be remembered, especially by the victims here, that this company failed, and the policy holders were called upon to make good the losses and obligations of the company. Quite a number, here, and elsewhere, paid, rather than fight. Mr. Wilhelm fought. Norris & Uhl, of Grand Rapids, were for plaintiff, and Pratt, Hatch, & Davis, of this place, for defendant. The decision was in favor of the defendant and involved the declaring of the law under which the company was organized and doing business unconstitutional. This question has never we believe, been raised before in the state. It is quite probable that the case may be carried to the supreme court. At any rate, it will quite effectually stop further collection of assessments from policy holders by defunct fraudulent insurance companies.

Forest Fire.

Last Monday night about 10 o'clock, a general alarm of fire was given, and from that time till morning most of the able bodied men of the town fought and watched the fire on A. C. Newman's farm southeast of town to try to keep it from destroying any buildings.

Tuesday morning the wind stiffened a good deal, and the flames renewed their activity, and for a little time threatened certain destruction to the town. At nine o'clock the fire department was called out, and the hand engine was taken to the lake near A. C. Newman's house. By its aid the fire was kept from crossing an open space to the village proper.

The boys remained most of the day, and the fire is still smouldering, though liable to break out with a favorable wind.

Mr. Newman lost one old barn, and a lot of growing crops, besides fences, etc.

A Novel Lecture.

A rare treat is promised the people of Charlevoix and vincinity in a lecture which is to be delivered in the Congregational church on some evening soon to be announced. The object of the lecture is to secure a bell for the church. It has been prepared by Mr. J. S. Smithson, now residing in Charlevoix, at great pains and much expense, and has been delivered several times in Chicago. It is highly instructive and while it is of a religious character it is eminently entertaining. It is needless to say that the curiosity that may be inspired by the subject, "Charlie," will not be disappointed. Admission will be by ticket. Further announcements will give full particulars.

Baptist Church.

The regular services of the Baptist church are held in the hall over Craine's store, every Sunday morning at 10:30; evening 7:30. Sunday school immediately after morning service. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7:30. All are welcome

WILLIS G. CLARK, pastor.

Grove Meeting.

Grove meeting at Black's school house, next Sunday at 3 o'clock, the pastor, Rev. Adam Clarke, and Rev. Will McLennan are expected to be present. A good meeting is anticipated. Everybody come.

East Jordan.

An excursion party from Elk Rapids, visited this place Aug. 8th, on the steamer Morley.

Miss Belle Hansen, of Greenville, who has been visiting at East Jordan, left for Manesseus last Friday.

H. F. Pennington and family, of Charlotte, who have been resorting at East Jordan, returned to their home on Friday.

The lawn party given by Miss Bessie Barbour, last Thursday evening, was a very pleasant and enjoyable affair.

Episcopal service, conducted by Rev. A. C. Bancroft, was held in the Presbyterian church, Sunday morning and evening.

Will E. Palmiter, the popular and efficient postoffice clerk, leaves tomorrow morning for an extended visit to Lapeer, Oxford, and Detroit.

Upright & Emrey, whose saw-mill at Rock Elm was burned a short time ago, have rented the Monroe mill, at South Arm, and have already commenced business there.

Mr. A. M. Emery and wife, of Lansing, who are resorting in northern Michigan, called on East Jordan friends last Thursday. They will return to their home September 1st.

Mr. Geo. P. Martin, of Lansing, who has been visiting northern Michigan in search of a location for a bank, was so favorably impressed by this place that he has decided to locate here immediately.

Our hotels are thronged with visitors, which gives them the old time appearance of life and activity, and truly if "Daniel" cannot entertain you in first-class style, then the time is lost in visiting Northern Michigan. These are echoes from those who have been at the Commercial.

Our town is being overrun and imposed upon, or rather the merchants are, by those disgraceful street peddlers. They have no license, will come in and shout, or rather yell, the poor dupes who become their victims, and then laugh in their sleeves at both those they have beaten and the business men, who are compelled to keep up the town by paying all the numerous expenses of a small place. We must be incorporated and shut off this nuisance at once.

Ironton.

Mrs. Blatchford and friends of the Chicago Resort, have kindly planned an entertainment on Friday evening, August 13th, at the company's store, for the benefit of the church. A cordial invitation is extended to all friends.

"Item."

If the tax payers of Hayes don't have any worse expense to meet, than to pay the poor orders issued by the present supervisor, they will be more fortunate than they have been for several years past. ALL GREEN.

AYER'S Sugar-Coated Cathartic PILLS.

If the Liver becomes torpid, it is the cause of many diseases. Disease is caused by the bowels are constipated, or if the stomach fails to perform its functions properly, use Ayer's Pills. They are mild and sure.

For some years I was a victim to Liver Complaint, in consequence of which I suffered from General Debility and Indigestion. A few boxes of Ayer's Pills restored me to perfect health.—W. T. Bragaw, Henderson, N. Y.

For years I have relied more upon Ayer's Pills than anything else, to my bowels. These Pills are mild in action, and do their work thoroughly. I have used them with good effect, in cases of Dysmenorrhœa, Sick Headache, and Dyspepsia.—G. F. Miller, Attleborough, Mass.

Regulate

Ayer's Pills cured me of Stomach and Liver troubles, from which I was suffered for years. I consider them the best pills made, and would not be without them.—Morris Gates, Dansville, N. Y.

I was attacked with Bilious Fever, which was followed by Jaundice, and was so dangerously ill that my friends despaired of my recovery. I commenced taking Ayer's Pills, and soon regained my customary strength and vigor.—John C. Portlock, Lowndes, Alabama.

Last spring I suffered greatly from a troublesome tumor on my side. In spite of every effort to cure this excretion, it increased until the flesh became entirely raw. I was troubled, at the same time, with Indigestion, and dreadful pains in

The Bowels.

By the advice of a friend I began taking Ayer's Pills, and, for the first time I was free from pain. My food digested properly, the sores on my body commenced healing, and, in less than three months, I was cured.—Samuel D. White, Atlanta, Ga.

I have long used Ayer's Pills, in my family, and believe them to be the best pills made.—S. C. Darden, Darden, Miss.

My wife and little girl were taken with Dysentery a few days ago, and I at once began giving them small doses of Ayer's Pills, thinking I would call a doctor if the disease became any worse. In a short time the bloody discharges stopped, all pain went away, and health was restored.—Theodore Edling, Richmond, Va.

Ayer's Pills,

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Sold by all Dealers in Medicine.

N.W. AYER & SON
ADVERTISING AGENTS BUILDING
Cor. Chestnut and Eighth Sts.,
Receive Advertisements for this Paper.
ESTIMATES at LOWEST CASH RATES FREE
Send 10c. for AYER & SON'S MANUAL

The Circus

Commences Next Week.

I am going to receive a large invoice of CLOTHING, bought from one of the leading houses in Rochester, N. Y., which I am going to sell at Prices that will draw me trade from all around the county.

I think the best advertisement a merchant can have is to have his goods advertise him in Good Fits and Prices that cannot be beat.

GEO. W. MILLER.

Summer Announcement.

TO THE LADIES:

We have just receive a fresh invoice of summer goods in all such styles as are most desirable at this time of year, comprising India Linens, Percales, plain and figured Nainsooks, Manilla cloth and Batiste, all of which are the leading wash fabrics.

We have also lately added to our stock a full line of ladies' nunsin underwear, infants' robes, chemise, corset covers, etc.

The Peerless woven wire bustles may be found at our store in all shapes and sizes.

Our glove stock is being continually replenished. We have an elegant line of plain and embroidered kids, silk, and jersey gloves.

Our trimmings comprise everything new and desirable, having plain, striped, and brocade velvets, jet trimmings, and rosary beads.

We will offer our closed out at big reductions, all our parasols, shawls, light goods, prints, and ginghams.

Call and get our August fashion sheet, and ask us to show you our bargains.

F. W. CRAINE & CO.

PERRY WEED,

DRUGGIST AND STATIONER,

OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

HENRY C. COOPER

Undertaker!

CHARLEVOIX MICHIGAN.

Coffins, Caskets, and Trimmings Always in Stock.

Come and See my Stock of Furniture.

ALL ORDERS BY TELEPHONE RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION

Come and See our Immense Stock of

BOOTS AND SHOES.

FOX & MILLER.

A Large Stock of

Furniture!

IN

Oak, Maple, Ash, and Cherry,

JUST RECEIVED BY THE

PINE LAKE IRON COMPANY

IRONTON, MICH.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., Aug. 12, 1886.

PRODUCE MARKET.

Hay, loose, per ton $12; bailed, $18
Corn, per bu. 45c.
Oats, 40 c.
Feed, per cwt. 75c.
Pork, $12 per bbl. To 7½ lb.
Salt, $1 bbl.
Syrup, "Imperial gal." 50c ⅌ gal.
Canned Tomatoes, 7c.
Canned Peaches, 15 to 20c.
Coffee, Java and Mocha, 35c.
Farmer's Produce at Upright & Emrey's.

UPRIGHT, EMREY & CO.

☞A splendid line of Boots and Shoes, for ladies, misses, gents, boys, girls and misses. Prices on the cheap.

☞A magnificent lot of Dress Goods arrived recently, and we offer them at the very lowest figures.

☞Hosiery in all styles a specialty, for both ladies and gents—best line in town.

☞New Groceries received almost every day.

☞Both Dinner and Tea Sets in Enamel Ware—pretty.

☞If you want some Choice But ter go to Upright & Emrey's.

☞Fresh Kalamazoo celery at Jefferies' market.

☞Best fresh butter at Jefferies' market.

Local Notes and News.

Is your house insured?

Rain is needed very much.

Insurance business is booming this dry weather.

Schubert Club at opera house next Tuesday evening.

The Friant now gives about four excursions a week.

A lt. Upright lost 30 tons of hay by fire last Monday.

The yacht Countess, of Chicago, was in port last Saturday.

Democratic county convention at Village Hall to-morrow.

James Inwood has a new sidewalk on the south side of his lot.

Alex. Cameron gave his house a new coat of paint last week.

Nearly the whole town turned out Monday night to watch the fire.

Monday approached very near to being the hottest day of the season.

Forest fires are raging in this vicinity on account of the dry weather.

The steam barge Philetus Sawyer, of Green Bay, is in port this morning.

Shipping business is picking up, about ten schooners arriving on Sunday.

The Friant is billed for another excursion to Beaver Island to-morrow.

The yacht Tokantha is receiving numerous repairs at Campbell's slip yard.

Long & Draper, of South Arm, are contracted with the Gaylords for shingles.

A lt Washburn has sold the yacht Water Witch to J. I. Atkins, of Petoskey.

The date of Baldwin and Manceloua should be a warning to be very careful of fire.

The Fenton's excursion to Mackinaw Island last Saturday was well patronized.

E. F. Mudge has just completed an addition to John Kelly's residence on Antrim street.

The fish tug Sea Wing was hauled up for repairs at Campbell's shipyard last week.

The Lansing Journal predicts that the prohibitionists will poll about 20,000 votes in November.

The river and harbor bill has been approved, but Charlevoix was left out without an appropriation.

The ladies of the Congregational church are serving ice cream to-day, three doors north of postoffice.

J. F. Smith is out again and can be found at Fox & Miller's, ready to do any repairing of boots or shoes.

The Rehnborg flouring mill continues to fill large orders of their ease flour for parties up the lake.

The ladies of the M. E. church are serving ice cream to-day, at the rooms one door south of postoffice.

The ladies of the Baptist church will serve ice cream at Mrs. U. Y. Cook's next Friday afternoon and evening.

Last Tuesday, Baldwin, Lake county, was wiped out of existence by fire, the county losing all its records, files and property.

The Champlain took 400 tons of pig iron to Chicago last Saturday, part of it from St. Ignace, and part from Ironton.

J. L. Hurd & Co., want your eyes and ears again this week. He has lectures of importance to tell the CASH readers.

One of the attractions on our streets on Tuesday was a collection of tropical birds, that did some marvelous tricks.

The boat house belonging to the Kalamazoo resort grounds has received a new roof and other improvements and repairs.

We neglected last week to state that a good substantial sidewalk was laid in front of the opera block and Odd Fellows hall.

J. T. Kirkpatrick has made plans for a neat little church for the Congregational society at Eastport, to be erected this summer.

One of the largest scows on the lakes is hauled out for repairs at Washburn's shipyard. She belongs to the iron company at Ironton.

Rev. R. Moreton conducted a bible reading at J. S. Smithson's last Thursday afternoon, and another at the Chicago club house Monday afternoon.

Rev. J. T. Iddings announces a grove meeting in another column, which he hopes to make one of the important events of the summer in religious work.

Rev. J. W. Bancroft, of Hastings, will hold Episcopal service at the opera house next Sunday morning at 10:30 and at 4:00 in the afternoon, all are welcome.

Three bright (?) young ladies chewed gum most industriously all through service at one of our churches Sunday evening, to the annoyance of those who sat near to them.

A touching scene occured during the fire at Manessions, when a young man, whose little baby had died the day before was noticed half dressed, carrying the remains of his child to a place of safety.

The season is at hand when the green cucumber and the grocer undertaker thereof will have their annual tussle, and as a lover of our kind, we repeat the warning of the late lamented Josh Billings, "Don't ete Q kumbers, thals Wup."

It having been ascertained that the women vote in Washington Territory to a large part of it, can be depended on to support the liquor traffic, it is supposed there will be no further opposition to woman suffrage there.—Portland Oregonian.

Monday's fire is said to have been started Sunday afternoon by some boys who stole some eggs, and went to the woods to roast them. There are several lads in town who would be much benefited by a term in the reform school at Lansing.

The Clara Belle will run an excursion to Bay Springs on Friday evening to accommodate those wishing to attend the ball at the Waldron House. She will leave Charlevoix at 7:30 p. m. All those wishing to spend a pleasant evening swinging the light fantastic should go.

A correspondent from Petoskey to one of the Grand Rapids daily papers says: "The concert given by the Schubert Club, of Grand Rapids, at the Arlington on Tuesday night was a grand success. The audience was large and enthusiastic, and the singing was very fine indeed."

"For bargains, follow these tracks." This legend, with a lot of tracks of men, women, and children, adorns the sidewalk near the the bridge, and lead one to H. C. Cooper's furniture store, where he has just added a large stock of new goods to his already fine assortment. Go and see him.

Last Friday morning Manceloua was scourged by fire, nearly every business house in the place being destroyed, as well as the postoffice, both printing offices, and a large number of private residences. The loss will reach nearly $100,000, only partially insured. Supposed to be incendiary.

E. H. Green has just received from the Michigan Portrait Co., of Charlotte, a fine accurate life size protrait of his late wife. The picture shows her when in perfect health, and Mr. Green pronounces it so life like and perfect as can be expected in a picture. A. D. Bradbeer secured the work for him.

J. T. Kirkpatrick has made plans and specifications for a two-story building to be erected by the citizens of Boyne City on the lot designated as the county seat, for county purposes. It will be 26x48 feet, with offices and jail on first floor, and court room above. The cost will be about $3,000, and it is to be completed by September 30th.

The series of articles by prominent men of the country in the Graphic News, of Cincinnati, is attracting great attention and is called forth praise. In the issue of the 31st, the Hon. Cassius M. Clay, of Kentucky, ex-U. S. Minister to Russia, and one of the ablest statesmen of the land, wrote upon "Forests and rainfall." The subject is an especially interesting one, and is most effectively handled.

None of our daily exchanges, in referring to the harbor appropriation bill make any reference to an appropriation for Charlevoix, although the items for other harbors around us are given. The inference is that Charlevoix was stricken out before the final passage of the bill. If it is a fact, there will be some expression of dissatisfaction with our congressman not conducive to a re election.

The following is the program of commencement week at Michigan state agricultural college, for 1886: Sunday, August 15, 3 p. m., baccalaureate address by President Willits. Tuesday, August 17, 8 p. m., lecture, Rev. Dr. Washington Gladden. Wednesday, August 18, 10 a. m., commencement exercises. Wednesday, August 18, 8 to 10 p. m., president's reception.

Mrs. Rachael Bailey, of Hastings, one of the vice-presidents of the state W. C. T. U. of Michigan, now stopping with Mrs. A. G. Aldrich, recently gave a temperance address at East Jordan, which has received much favorable mention by all who heard it. Mrs. Bailey is to engage more or less in the temperance work in northern Michigan this fall, and none should fail to hear her at first opportunity.

The steam launch so much talked of is now ready and waiting for her machinery,—the Shipman kerosene engine. The hull is six feet beam and 32 feet keel, and will be a beauty in the water. Jos. Beauvais, the builder is pushing the boat building business, and will increase the capacity of his shop to make everything wanted for these waters. We shall say more of the boat after she is afloat.

The appointment of Dr. Pope has been rescinded at the M. E. church and instead there will be substituted the Gospel of Sacred Song, by Mrs. Rev. S. W. Spencer, of the east, who will assist in the song at the morning service; and assisted by her daughters, soprano, 15 years old, and contralto, 12 years old, will give a gospel song service in the evening, beginning at 8:00 o'clock. A free Sunday evening sacred concert to which all are invited.

The "Schubert Club" of Grand Rapids, is billed for an entertainment at Bartholomew's opera house, on Tuesday evening, Aug 17th, consisting a recent entertainment by this company in Traverse City, the Herald says: "The concert given by the Schubert Club of Grand Rapids, at Liberty Hall, Tuesday evening, was one of the finest musical entertainments ever given in Traverse City. The audiences were all immensely pleased. The great reputation of the club had led us to expect so much that there was danger, as there always is under such circumstances, of disappointment. But such was not the case here. The young men composing the club made many friends here, who will always be glad to give them welcome to Traverse City.

Shipments.

Aug. 5—Schr. Grace M. Tiler, 100 cords wood, 140 cords bark, Wm. Lewis, to Chicago.
6—Schr. Alvin Bronson, 40 cords wood, 140 cords bark, F. J. Meech, to Milwaukee.
7—Schr. T. V. Avery, 50 cords wood, Perkins to Chicago.
7—Schr Lottie Monroe, 65 cords bark, W. L. French, to Kenosha.
7—Tug Sea Wing, 130 fish nets, and sinkers, Davis & Co., to Algoma.
7—Schr. F. M. Smith, 65 cords bark, R. Tolfree, to Milwaukee.
7—Schr. Stampede, 250,000 feet hardwood lumber, Pine Lake Lumber Co., to Sheboygan.
8—Schr. Lucette, 130 cords wood, P. Tracy, to Milwaukee.
8—Schr. Charlie Marshal, 40 cords wood, 100 cords bark, Upright & Emrey, to Chicago.
9—Schr. Green Bay, 250 cords bark, French & Sutton, to Kenosha.
9—Schr. Siarna, 140 cords bark, 100 cords wood, to Anderson, to Milwaukee.
10—Schr. John L. Green, 70 cords wood, N. P. Peterson, to Milwaukee.
10—John C. Bauer, 130 cords wood, John Wright to Milwaukee.

The following is a summary of the shipments from port of Charlevoix for the week ending Wednesday evening, and for the corresponding week of last year:

	1886.	1885.
Hardwood lumber, feet	470,000	250,000
Wood, cords	1,122	50
Bark, cords	1,500	225
Cedar posts		700
Fence rails, pieces		6,000

Ayer's Sarsaparilla is designed for those who need a medicine to purify their blood. No other preparation so well meets this want. It increases the appetite and rejuvenates the whole system. Its record for forty years is one of constant triumph over disease.

CHARLEVOIX

Savings Bank

Organized under the General Banking Law of the State of Michigan.

Henry Bennett, President.
John Nicholls, Vice President.
F. A. Smith, Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

Henry Bennett, O. D. Wood
John Nicholls, A. Buttars.
A. R. Upright, F. A. Smith, A. Fox.

CAPITAL, $25,000
Surplus, 2,000

The liability of Stockholders in all state banks as provided in Act 3174, Sec. 40 of Revised Statutes of the State of Michigan, is double the amount of stock taken, making a guaranteed fund of $50,000 pledged for the security of those for the transaction of every legitimate branch of Banking business extended to our customers on terms as favorable as are consistent with safety.

Drafts drawn direct on the leading commercial cities of the world in large or small amounts. Money taken on approved paper. Exchange bought and sold. Certificates of deposit issued bearing interest.

We respectfully solicit your patronage.

CORRESPONDENTS:

NATIONAL PARK BANK.....NEW YORK.
COMMERCIAL NAT. BANK.....CHICAGO.
NATIONAL CITY BANK.....GRAND RAPIDS.
DETROIT NATIONAL BANK.....DETROIT.

LEAVE YOUR ORDERS FOR

JOB WORK

AT THIS OFFICE.

DRY GOODS!

We offer for the next few days Great Bargains in all

---SUMMER DRESS GOODS----

Shawls, White Goods, Parasols, Silk and Thread Gloves, Hosiery, Straw Hats, etc.

NEW LINE OF BROADHEAD DRESS GOODS,

Just received and marked at very low prices.

Jersey and Boucle Jackets, Very Cheap.

Staple & Fancy Groceries,

In great variety and at correct prices. The finest line of

Teas, Coffees, Spices.

PLANTATION JAVA COFFEE, - BEST IN THE WORLD.

Farmers will consult their own interests in buying our FACTORY-FILLED DAIRY SALT.

J. L. HURD & CO.

Bargains! Bargains!! IN ALL

SUMMER GOODS,

AT

ROSENTHAL & SON'S.

The time is nearing at hand when we shall have to clear our counters and shelves for our fall supplies. To this end we have decided to sell all Summer Goods way down at prices to suit everybody. Straw Hats, Straw Hats, in every style, shape, and at all prices. Flanned Shirts in all colors, just what you want to wear now-a-days, closing out very cheap.

Just give us a call and we are sure to suit you.

Respectfully yours

ROSENTHAL & SON.

Something New. More Light.

The Rochester double and triple Burner makes the Whitest and Best Light known.

THE Sherwin William's PAINTS.

Stoves, Hardware, Tinware, Notions, Fishing Tackle. The "double action easy Force Pump." Job and Tin Work.

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW & CO.

The above Eye-glass invented by the Johnston Optical Co., of Detroit, Mich., combines the best features of all others.

1st. The lenses can be placed far enough away that the eyelashes will not touch them, a thing not always easy to do with other eye-glasses.

2d. The lever, which is attached to the nose bridge, makes eyelashes which prevents stinging and falling off.

3d. The pressure is on the fleshy part of the nose above the bone, which prevents irritation.

4th. The lever is so adjusted that it will not interest in the nose when large or small.

5th. The lenses are set at right angles to line of vision.

6th. The glass be worn safely without cord or chain, and will not fall off, even if tried.

7th. No wonder they are the easiest eyeglass in the market.

C. R. BELLINGER,
Optician and Jeweler, Charlevoix, Mich.

MISS L. SPAULDING.

MILLINERY

and Fancy Goods.

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

New Grocery!

Cor. Antrim and Grant Streets.

A. J. MUDGE

Would respectfully announce to the people of Charlevoix and vicinity, especially to the residents of the southwestern part of town, and all coming in from the south, that he has opened a stock of Groceries in his building on the corner of Antrim and Grant streets, and requests all to give him a trial

BUTTER AND EGGS WANTED

Charlevoix Manufacturing Company,

MANUFACTURERS OF

Sash, Doors, and Blinds,

Screen Doors and Windows, and Moldings of all Description.

Newels, Posts, Balusters, and Stair Rails, of Soft and Hard Wood, Kept in Stock and Made and Put Up to Order.

FINE AND BASSWOOD SIDING.

Also Contractors, Builders, and General Jobbers.

Estimates Cheerfully and Promptly Given upon Application.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

Owing to Special Rates in Photographic Stock, I will continue to make

Cabinet Photographs at $4.00 per Dozen

Until further notice.

Dave Bradbeer,

Photographer,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

A PASSING CLOUD.

BY NATHAN D. URNER.

An angry flush suffused her cheek,
Her lips quivered, but she did not speak,
But turned away, my pulsate morning.
Resentment filled my breast in turn,
"So be it, then!" I cried, "and burn
My letters if you choose, this morning."

"Ay, that will I, without a sigh!"
She mocked. "The waning months draw nigh
When never loves are meet in order.
No more by truth-plight are we bound
Than birds in spring-time love have found;
Much joy may your false vows afford her!"

A swift light through my blindness broke,
"Why, Mary, of all wild mistakes,"
I cry, "Know you what you are making!
The lady to whom you refer—"
"No more, sir; brazen coquette for her!
The plaguer you're so fond of breaking!"

Just here the lady crossed our path,
And, embarrassed by Mary's wrath,
She stayed her in her grace and kissed her,
Ere I, for laughing, found the pun,
Of language to this intuition
The lovely stranger as my sister.

"I see you have not met before—
Mary, my sister Eleanor!
Pray love her, though despair's my sentence!"

Shame and surprise filled Mary's face
As she returned dear Nell's embrace,
And relented on her mock resistance.

"Oh, Rob, forgive the and mistake;
I saw you kiss her by the lake
And thought you would be my fetters."
I clasped her with a joyous laugh;
Yet in her soft ear whispered still,
"Shall you, then, hide to turn my letters?

TRY DR. CROUTER'S DYSPEPSIA CURE,
For Indigestion, Nausea, Heartburn, Loss of Appetite, Etc.
If you want the best PILLS sold, ask for CROUTER'S ANTI-BILIOUS GRANULES. Manufactured by
G. W. Crouter, Druggist.

An Adventure With a Tiger.

One afternoon, as I was returning from the forest with my men, who had been telling trees, walking in line one behind the other, as is their custom, a tiger suddenly slipped from the jungle bordering the road, and in a moment struck down a youth a few yards before me. I dared not fire for fear of striking the youth; but his father, who was walking just in front of him, armed with a spear, dashed on it and gave it a right willing thrust, which, with the bloodcurdling group, made it quit its hold, when it sprang into the thick jungle. It was all the work of a moment; the stroke of its paw did not seem to be tremendous, but the claws of the brute had penetrated so deeply into the chest and shoulder of the youth that he survived scarcely a quarter of an hour after being carried into the village.

* * * As expected, the tiger attempted to scrape up the body the night after its burial. Next night, and for several others, I watched the grave, but the tiger did not keep tryst with me; but when I was not there it never failed to come. I therefore assisted them to construct a snare to catch it on its first return. A fence was made at all such places as there was a possibility of approach to the grave, leaving on the clear road a very conspicuous open gate, across which a thin cord was loosely drawn, connected with a green bamboo some thirty feet long, bent by the strength of several men into a bow, at whose extremity a sharp spear was so arranged as to be shot athwart the entrance gate on the release of the bamboo by the tiger pressing with his breast on the twig-like cord in his way. Every night for six days the trap was reset without the tiger's appearance. The seventh it was left unset, as apparently useless. Next morning it was found that the tiger had been within the inclosure, and I saw it faithfully set in the evening. The following morning I was awakened by a great clattering outside the Bala, and, starting up to learn the cause of the uproar, I was informed that the trap had shot in the night, and the spear had been broken off, but the tiger had not been found. I was soon among the eager crowd who had actual to beat the woods. It was evident from the blood on the spear-shaft that it was badly wounded, and could not be far off. We had little need, however, of gun or spear, for some thirty yards in the forest we found the warm body of the feline. Transfixed from side to side, it had cleared the high fence with one gigantic bound, and had fallen dead where it lay.—Harry Parkes.

The Author of Mrs. Peixada.

Sidney Luska is the nom de plume of Harry Harland, a young man just turned of his twenties, who until within a few weeks has been a clerk in the Surrogate's office in this city. He is a friend of Arthur Stedman, younger son of Mr. Edmund C. Stedman, and the youth takes a great interest in his career, believing that if he is not possessed of genius, he at least has a great deal of talent. I think myself that there is a brilliant future before Mr. Harland. He is somewhat exuberant now, but that is because he is young, which is not necessarily a fatal quality, nor one that will not be outgrown. Mr. Harland is not only young, but he is enthusiastic and excitable. He loves a thing to distraction, or he hates it. There are no half-way measures with him. He does everything with a rush and a push, as he wrote his first novel. As has already been stated that story was written between the unnatural hours of 3 and 8 a. m. the author retiring at 7 o'clock in order to get up at 3 and begin his work. His eyes show the effect of this unkind treatment, for they have a look of having been burned out. But since he left the Surrogate's office he has changed his hours. He goes to bed at a reasonable time, and takes his breakfast at a reasonable hour, then retires to his room, which overlooks the East River, with Blackwell's Island and Hell Gate in full view. He is so delighted with his new life that he can hardly contain himself, and he feels like playing leap-frog over the backs of chairs all the time, but instead of doing this he buckles down to his desk and writes, which he thinks is almost as much fun as leap-frog.—New York Correspondent Philadelphia Press.

Do Not Fret.

"Every one of those doors creaks so horribly that it almost sets one mad" exclaimed a tired housekeeper who was trying to rest after the labors of a wearisome day. Now this was not the first, perhaps it was the twentieth time she had made the same, or a similar remark, about the creaking of the doors, when with the aid of a bottle of oil and a feather, she might have made them swing noiselessly, and saved herself all the annoyance she had suffered.

It is a great deal easier to make suggestions than to follow them; but it seems to me that the "golden rule" for housekeepers might be this: "If any thing goes wrong, for which there is a remedy, apply it as soon as possible; if there is absolutely no remedy do not fret, but make the best of it."

I believe that often, it is not the work that makes us feel so thoroughly weary at the end of the week, as worrying over it. I remember of fretting a good deal over some Thanksgiving pies, complaining that I always spoiled them in putting in too much of one thing or another. I was my sister quietly remarked that perhaps I put too much anxiety into them. I saw the point, and resolved henceforth to do the best I could with my cooking and to worry less over results. Of course I had afterwards better success and far more peace of mind.

There are days in the experience of every housekeeper when every thing seems determined to go wrong, and a perfect avalanche of little troubles and perplexities seem to overwhelm one. Then indeed is she that riteth her spirit better than he that taketh a city."

But how often at the close of such a day have we looked back and seen that all came right at last in spite of our forebodings, and we have wished so much that we could have been so unfretted and sweet-tempered through it all.

It is so natural to magnify little troubles instead of remembering that they are not worth fretting about. If at breakfast the biscuits are a little too yellow, and the steak a trifle overdone, in almost every case no one will be troubled about it if you are not.

If the coffee is not just exactly right no one will notice it unless you call attention to it, by some disparaging remark. Especially should we guard against a habit of fretting because of the discomfort it causes those about us and the bad influence it has upon them. If the busy housekeeper frets the children do the same, and the servants also, for nothing is more contagious, and we have anything but a happy household.

However badly things may go, nothing is gained by worrying over them, and if we cannot be always bright and cheerful, we can at least endeavor judicially till the storm passes over and the sunshine returns, as it surely will in season.—Marian Hepburne, in Good Housekeeping.

The Harmonists.

George Rapp, founder of the sect of Harmonists, in Pennsylvania, was born in Wurtemberg, Germany, in 1770, and died at Economy, Pa., in 1847. Believing that he had a divine call, and was charged with the restoration of the Christian religion to its original purity, he organized a community on the model of the primitive church, holding goods in common. A difficulty with the government in regard to worship impelled Rapp to transplant his community in 1803 from Wurtemberg to the United States. They settled first in Butler county, Pa., where they founded the village of Harmony, and employed themselves in agriculture and manufactures. They acquired considerable wealth, and in 1815 removed to the Territory of Indiana, where they purchased a tract of 37,000 acres on the Wabash. The settlement of New Harmony here prospered even more than their former establishment, but in 1824 they sold their property to Robert Owen and emigrated to Beaver county, Pa., where the town of Economy was laid out on the right bank of the Ohio, seventeen miles northwest of Pittsburg. There was a secession of about 200 members in 1832. It is an agricultural and manufacturing community. Members of both sexes are admitted, but they do not marry. They profess Protestantism, observe strict morality, and pay much attention to education. Litigation has begun in Pittsburg over the estate of Rapp, involving some $17,000,000.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made and dated on the 6th day of September in the year A. D. one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four, and executed by Walter Mossey and Amelia Mossey, of Charlevoix county, Michigan, parties of the first part, to Ezra Rich, of Chicago, in the state of Illinois, and doing business in the county of Cook, in the state of Michigan, which mortgage was recorded in the office of the register of deeds for the said county of Charlevoix, in Liber 2 of mortgages, at page 96, on the 9th day of September, A. D. one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four, and the said mortgage is now owned by the said Pine Lake Iron Company, and whereas, the amount claimed to be due on said mortgage at the date of this notice is the sum of one thousand four hundred and forty-two dollars and forty-five cents ($1442.45) which is the first instalment of principle secured by said mortgage with the interest thereon, and a further sum of fifteen dollars as an attorney fee in case of default in the foreclosure of said mortgage, which is the whole amount of the first instalment of said mortgage with the interest thereon, and it all that is sought to be collected by the foreclosure thereof, and no suit or proceeding at law or in chancery having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof, whereby the power of sale contained therein has become operative. Now therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale contained therein and in pursuance of the statute in such case provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described at public auction to the highest bidder at the front door of the Town Hall in the township of Charlevoix, in the county of Charlevoix, in the state of Michigan, which is the place of holding the circuit court for said county, on Wednesday, the 8th day of September, A. D. 1886, at ten (10) o'clock in the forenoon, which premises are described as follows, to wit: All that tract or parcel of land lying and being in the township of Charlevoix, county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, and described as follows, viz: All the south west quarter (¼) section twenty-eight (28), township thirty-four (34) north of range five (5) west, excepting that one acre and one fourth (1¼) acres heretofore sold and conveyed off from the north side of said quarter section above described.

Dated June 10, A. D. 1886.

ELLIOT KIRKLAND, Mortgagee.

PAULTHORP & GEORGE, Attorneys for Mortgagee.
Petoskey, Michigan.

Detroit, Mackinac & Marquette Railroad
"Mackinaw Short Line."

Only direct route between the East and South and the Upper Peninsula of Michigan.
Time Table taking effect June 21, 1886.

GOING WEST. Read down.		STATIONS.	GOING EAST. Read up.
† A. M.	‡ P. M.	Detroit	† A. M.	‡ P. M.
7 00	2 00		9 00	5 00
7 P. M.	M.		P. M.	A. M.
4 25	8 00	St. Ignace	6 35	7 40
4 37	8 52	Newberry	6 21	7 48
4 45	9 05	Dollar	6 15	7 55
4 26	10 42	Brevoort	4 15	12 15
4 00	11 40	Lake	4 15	12 15
1 05	12 40	Marquette	2 10	10 20
A. M.	A. M.		A. M.	P. M.
8 00	12 50	Marquette	12 00	8 00
8 50	1 40	Negaunee	11 10	7 10
	4 10	L. Ann	10 40
	4 35	Ishpeming	10 15
	5 00	Palmer	9 50

Mixed train leaves St. Ignace at 7.00 a. m., arrives Marquette 5.00 p. m., leaves Marquette 7.00 a. m., arrives St. Ignace 5.00 p. m.

CONNECTIONS.

(1) Via M. T. Co.'s boats, with Michigan Central and Grand Rapids & Indiana railroads, and with the elegant sidewheel steamers of the Detroit & Cleveland Steam Navigation Line, for Detroit, Cleveland and all points in the east. Steamers leave St. Ignace daily, except Sundays, for Detroit, Monday, Wednesday morning, Thursday and Saturday. Leave Detroit for St. Ignace, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. Wilmanbee and all above points. (2) With M. H. & A. railroad at Marquette for Palmer, Ishpeming, etc., and points on Chicago and Northwestern railway.

Standard time, Detroit, Mackinac, Chicago.

A. WATSON,
Gen'l Sup't. Gen'l Pass. & Ticket Agt.

HANNAH, LAY & CO.'S STEAMER LINE.
SEASON OF 1886.

CITY OF GRAND RAPIDS.
CAPT. O. E. WEBER.

GOING NORTH, Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, will leave Traverse City, 7.00 a. m., Northport, 7.45, Charlevoix, 11.30, Petoskey 1.00 p. m., Harbor Springs, 2.00, Cross Village, 3.30, Mackinaw City, 7.00 p. m.

GOING SOUTH, Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, will leave St. Ignace at 10 a. m., Mackinaw City, 12.30 p. m., Cross Village, 2.00, Village 3.30, Harbor Springs 4.30, Petoskey 5.30, arrive Charlevoix, 6.30, Northport, 8.30, arrive at Traverse City, 7.45.

T. S. PAXTON
CAPT. A. G. ALDRICH.

GOING NORTH, Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays, will leave Traverse City 7.00 a. m., Northport, 9.00, Charlevoix, 11.30, Petoskey 1.00, Harbor Springs 2.00, Cross Village 3.30, Mackinaw City 7.00 p. m., arrive Island 7.45, arrive at Alpena 8.30, P. M.

GOING SOUTH, Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, will leave St. Ignace at 10 a. m., Mackinaw City, 12.30 p. m., Cross Village, 2.00, Village 3.30, Harbor Springs 4.30, Petoskey 5.30, arrive Charlevoix, 6.30, Northport, 8.30, arrive at Traverse City, 7.45.

GOOD CONNECTIONS will be made at Traverse City and Petoskey with both day and night trains on the T. & A. A. R. R. Steamers will Michigan central R. R.; also on Monday morning for Chicago, and on Wednesday for Chicago and the east, via G. R. & I. R. R. northbound, and on Wednesday evenings between Port T. & Chicago. Also at Traverse City for Traverse to Chicago. At St. Ignace with the Detroit, Mackinac & Marquette R. R. Steamers leave with the steamer Minnie M., for Sault St. Marie.

Traverse Bay Route.

Steamer LOU. A. CUMMINGS—Capt. George Roberts.

Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, leave Old Mission at 6.00 a. m., arriving at Traverse City 7.00 p. m.; leave Traverse City 2.30 p. m., arrive Old Mission 3.30 p. m.

Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays, leave Northport at 5.00 a. m., arrive at Traverse City at 11.00 a. m., leave Traverse City 2.30 p. m., arrive at Old Mission 3.00 p. m.

Connections made at Grand Rapids once every day, and Queen and Autocrat lines twice a day. Connections made at Northport with the City of Grand Rapids, and at Traverse City with G. R. & I. Railroad.

Harbor Springs, Petoskey, Charlevoix, and East Jordan.

STEAMER THOMAS FRIANT.

Sailing Schedule.

Morning.—Leave Harbor Springs 7.00, Petoskey 7.30, arrive Charlevoix 8.30. Afternoon, 3.00, leave Charlevoix 4.30, arrive Harbor Springs 5.30, Charlevoix 4.00, Petoskey 5.30, arrive Harbor Springs 6.30.

Close connections at Petoskey with G. R. & I. R. R. trains, north and south.

Charlevoix and East Jordan.

Steamer GAZELLE—Capt. John Mason.

Morning—Leave Charlevoix 8.30, arrive East Jordan 9.30; leave East Jordan 9.00, arrive Charlevoix 10. Afternoon—Leave Charlevoix 4.00, arrive East Jordan 4.30; leave East Jordan 4.50, arrive Charlevoix 5.30. Stopping at intermediate points.

Steamer NORTH STAR—Capt. Mac. Thompson.

Morning—Leave East Jordan 8.30, arrive Charlevoix 9.30; leave Charlevoix 9.30, arrive East Jordan 11.30. Afternoon—Leave East Jordan 2.00, arrive Charlevoix 3.00; leave Charlevoix 3.30, arrive East Jordan 5.30. Stopping at intermediate points.

Charlevoix and Boyne.

Steamer CLARA BELLE—Capt. Robert O'Neil.

Morning—Leave Charlevoix 6.30, arrive Boyne 8.30; leave Boyne 9.00, arrive Charlevoix 11.00. Afternoon—Leave Charlevoix 2.30, arrive Boyne 4.00; leave Boyne 4.30, arrive Charlevoix 6.30. Stopping at intermediate points.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made and dated on the 5th day of October, 1884, executed by Thomas J. Daly and Laura J. Daly, his wife, to Ezra Kirkland, which said mortgage was recorded in the office of the register of deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 30th day of October, 1884, in liber 2 of mortgages, at page 50, on the said mortgage being elected to consider the whole amount due because of said default, the amount claimed to be due at the date of this notice is the sum of five hundred and twenty-five dollars and twenty-five cents, and the further sum of thirty dollars as an attorney's fee, stipulated for in said mortgage, and no suit at law or in equity having been instituted to recover the debt so secured or any part thereof, and the power of sale having been given that by virtue of the power so delegated in said mortgage and in pursuance of the statute, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described, at public auction, to the highest bidder at the front door of the Town Hall that being the last place of holding the circuit court in the county of Boyne City, Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 6th day of September, 1886, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon. The premises described in said mortgage as follows: All that tract or parcel of land lying and being in the township of Evangeline, county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, and described as follows, viz: All the south west quarter (¼) section twenty-eight (28), township thirty-four (34) north of range five (5) west, excepting that one and one fourth (1¼) acres heretofore sold and conveyed off from the north side of said quarter section above described.

Dated June 10, A. D. 1886.

ELLIOT KIRKLAND, Mortgagee.

PAULTHORP & GEORGE, Attorneys for Mortgagee.
Petoskey, Michigan.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Table in effect January, 1886.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Cincinnati, lv.		7 35am		7 30pm
Fort Wayne, ar.	6 50pm	2 40pm		1 30pm
Fort Wayne, lv.		2 45pm		1 35pm
Kalamazoo, ar.		6 45		5 35
Kalamazoo, lv.		7 00		5 50
Grand Rapids, ar.		8 15		7 05
Grand Rapids, lv.	7 45am	8 20pm	8 30am	8 15
Big Rapids, ar.	9 15		10 15	9 45
Mancelona, ar.	12 05		12 45pm	2 30
Gaylord, ar.	1 15		1 45	3 30
Cheboygan, ar.	2 00		2 30	4 15
Mackinaw City, ar.	3 20		3 45	5 30
St. Ignace, ar.	11 45am		12 00m	8 00
Petoskey, ar.			5 25	11 15
Bay View, ar.			5 40	11 30
Harbor Springs, ar.			5 45	11 35
Mackinaw City, lv.			9 30pm	1 00am

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6	No. 8
Mackinaw City, lv.	7 15am	1 50pm
Harbor Springs, lv.
Petoskey, lv.	8 05
Bay View, lv.	8 14
Petoskey, lv.	8 20	2 15
Cross Village, lv.	9 05	3 00
Wilson, lv.	11 35am	5 30
Mackinaw City, ar.	12 00m	6 00
St. Ignace, ar.	12 00m	6 00pm
Cadillac, lv.	7 00		8 00am	5 00
Lake City, lv.	8 55		10 00	6 55
Reed City, lv.	9 20		10 35	7 20
Big Rapids, lv.	9 50		11 05	7 50
Howard City, lv.	10 05		11 20	8 05
Edmore, lv.	10 20		11 35	8 20
Ionia, lv.	10 45		12 00m	8 45
Lowell, lv.	11 00		12 15pm	9 00
Grand Rapids, ar.	11 45		1 00	9 45
Grand Rapids, lv.	7 25am	3 30	11 45	3 00pm
Kalamazoo, ar.	8 20	4 25	12 45pm	4 00
Kalamazoo, lv.	8 35	4 40	1 00	4 15
Fort Wayne, ar.	12 40pm	11 20	5 20pm	10 00pm
Fort Wayne, lv.	12 45	11 25	5 25	10 05
Cincinnati, ar.	7 00pm	7 25am		5 15am

C. L. LOCKWOOD, G. P. & T. Agent.
Grand Rapids, Mich.

THE LIGHT RUNNING SIMPLE NEW HOME SEWING MACHINE HAS NO EQUAL. PERFECT SATISFACTION
New Home Sewing Machine Co.
30 Union Square, N.Y. Chicago, Ill. St. Louis, Mo. Atlanta, Ga. Dallas, Tex. San Francisco, Cal.
FOR SALE BY
E. N. CLINK, East Jordan.

DE LAND & CO'S CAPITAL SAL RATUS SODA
For Baking Purposes. Best in the World.
Sold by Upright & Emery.

JAMES HEMMINGS,
On Mason St., third door west of State, Charlevoix.
HOUSE PAINTER,
Calciminer,
Paper Harger,
And Decorator.
PINE AND HARDWOOD FINISHING. GOOD WORK.
At the Old Stand.
A. J. McLeod
Can be found at the old stand with a
FULL STOCK OF MEATS
of all kinds
At Wholesale and Retail.
HIDES, PELTS & PAY STOCK WANTED.

STAUFFER'S BROADCAST
Hand-Seeder.
This new invention possesses many qualities previously unknown to other two strands.
TEN REASONS:
1. It sows the roughest or smoothest soils.
2. It sows every all kinds of grain and seeds, large and small. Wheat, barley, clover, timothy, rata bags, etc.
3. It sows any desired quantity. One-fourth pound of rata bags seed can be spread over an area of ground with perfect ease and accuracy.
4. It sows rapidly. With wheat it covers as fast as the hand. Clover, timothy, clover and timothy mixed 36. Ten acres of clover sown in 3 hours.
5. It is not affected by quite a strong wind.
6. It is quickly adjusted to different quantities of grain.
7. It cleanses clog.
8. It is easily operated.
9. It is cheap.
10. It is durable.
Patented by Isaac STAUFFER, of Carpenter, Sumnet Co., Mich. Sold by
UPRIGHT & EMREY,
Call and examine it. Charlevoix, Mich.

John Nicholls,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,
Manufacturer of and dealer in
HARDWOOD AND PINE
LUMBER!
ALSO
Dressed lumber, Oar Blades,
WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.
LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER

A Full Stock of
Jewelry and Silverware,
Optical Goods, Etc.
C. R. BELLINGER,
Charlevoix, Mich.

Glasses Fitted Free. Warranted to suit the most critical. We carry only the celebrated Chicago Spectacles. Sold only by the Regular Traveling Optician. Albert A. Hale, Chicago. Sold by Druggists. Price $1.00.
For Sale by F. G. HINES & CO., Charlevoix.

THIS PAPER may be found on file at Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce St.), where advertising contracts can be secured for it in NEW YORK.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 162. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, AUGUST 19, 1886. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL
Publishes every Thursday,
BY CHAS. J. STANG.
Office on Bridge Street,
CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN
ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, MICH. AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.
WATCH YOUR ADDRESS LABEL.
On the following the name on your address label indicates the time to which your subscription is paid. If in arrears, you are requested to pay up.

BUSINESS CARDS.

ATTORNEYS.

ARTHUR E. MARTIN, Attorney at Law, Boyne City. Collections promptly attended to.

CROUGHTON & GRIEER, Attorneys at Law and Proceedings in Chancery. Office in Hubbard's Block, CHARLEVOIX, MICH. L. J. GRIER.

DAY & CALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents. Lake St., east of postoffice, PETOSKEY, MICH.

FRED W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor, Real Estate, Collections promptly attended to. MONEY TO LOAN.

J. NEWBERRY, Attorney at Law and Judge of Probate of Emmet Co., Petoskey, Mich.

MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

OSCAR F. WISNER, Attorney at Law and Notary Public, Office, Cushman's Block, Water St., Boston Block, East Jordan, Mich.

D. M. MORE, Attorney and Solicitor, East Jordan. Admiralty Specialty.

ZACHARY, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

CHURCHES.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7.00 p. m. Sunday school at 12 m. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7.00 o'clock. All seats free. Rev. J. Green's hall, over F. W. Cramer & Co.'s store. W. G. CLARK, pastor.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7.00 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7.00 o'clock. C. P. VAN AUKEN, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7.00 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer and praise meeting Thursday evening at 7.00 o'clock. J. T. JOHNSON, pastor.

DENTISTRY

N. J. PERRY, Dentist.
Office at Weed's Drug Store.
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

BUFFIELD, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Pocket Cases, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

PHYSICIANS.

L. LEWIS, M.D., Physician and Surgeon. Office in the Lewis Block, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. J. PRESTON, M.D., Surgeon and Homeopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

CHARLES S. HARSHA, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

C. A. E.—Baxter Post, No. 115, meets second and fourth Tuesday each month at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Round Lake Lodge, No. 299, meets every Wednesday evening, in their hall.

F. & A. M.—Charlevoix Lodge, No. 341, meets Thursday every month at Odd Fellows' hall.

K. O. T. M.—Boyne Lake Tent, No. 1, meets every Saturday on call from the Commander.

MASONIC.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 290, meets Friday on or before full moon, at their hall.

W. F. BROWN, Sec'y. W. A. BROWN, Ass't Cashier.
Brown & Co's Bank of Charlevoix
CAPITAL, $25,000.
Drafts drawn direct upon the principal cities of the world.
Interest allowed on time deposits.
Loans accommodated to parties in Charlevoix and vicinity.
REFERENCE: Chicago National Bank, New York First National Bank, Detroit First National Bank, Detroit National Bank, Grand Rapids.

WELL DIGGING.
I am prepared to dig, drive, and repair wells of all kinds, and guarantee satisfaction. Leave orders with Stockman & Wilcox.
E. W. BENNETT,
Charlevoix, Mich.

Jos. Beauvais
BOAT-BUILDER.
The Best Modeled, Easiest Rowing, and Best Sailing Boats in Northern Michigan, for the Lowest Price. Give me a Trial. I am Found to Please.

Boat Livery
In connection with shop.
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

Heath, Francis & Co.
Builders and Jobbers,
Charlevoix, Mich.
Plans, Specifications, and material furnished. Houses built complete. Repairing and rebuilding done to order.

FINE FURNITURE
Built to order, and repairs of all kinds made neatly and promptly. Also a full line of Coffins, Caskets, and Burial Robes. First-class work guaranteed.
Will take Lumber or Block wood in part payment for Furniture. Shop on alley in rear of Village Hall, Charlevoix, Mich.

1872. DR. G. W. CROUTER, 1886.
Drugs, Stationery and Wall Paper.
Dental Office in Rear of Drug Store.

ADVERTISEMENTS of three lines or less will be inserted in this column for each insertion. This rate will not be for three months for a line. Each additional line, each insertion, 25 cents.

JOB PRINTING of every description executed at the JOURNAL OFFICE. Stock, neat, cheap, and up-to-date.

LETTER HEADS, Note Heads, Statements, Bills, Envelopes, neat, cheap, and quick, at the JOURNAL OFFICE.

VIEWS OF CHARLEVOIX 50 heavy mounted, 9x12 inches, suitable for frames, for sale at the office, 25 cts. each.

WOOD WANTED in exchange for subscription, at the highest market price, in small quantities, or on subscription account.

WANTED.—A Good, Wide-Awake one-horse Agent in every town and school district in this county. For further information call on or address this office.

Terrace Farm
J. R. & J. S. DIXON
Charlevoix, Mich.
Dairy, Vegetable and Stock Farm. Undoubtedly the Finest Grade HOLSTEIN in existence.

COMMERCIAL HOUSE
D. B. J. SHRUM, Proprietor.
East Jordan, Michigan.
Entire Rebuilt and Refurnished. First-class Sample Room for agents. Good Stable in Connection with the House. 32

FARMERS' HOTEL,
WM. SANGER, MANAGER.
CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN
Excellent accommodations for traveling boarders and for farmers with their families who want a good dinner. Good stabling in connection.
The management of this house will not interfere with any usual work at the season's trade.
WM. SANGER.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,
RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.
Charlevoix - Michigan.
Finest location in town, giving good view of the lake and river. Express office and tourist headquarters for Petoskey and Elk Rapids Stages. Special rates to parties from one to several weeks. Stabling for horses.

F. W. WILCOX,
Boat Livery,
At Bridge Street House and at Bed Boat House, on south side of Round Lake.
All kinds of Boats, the best as well as the cheapest.
YOUR PATRONAGE SOLICITED.

Millinery and Fancy Goods!
A Splendid Line of Ribbons, Ladies' Gloves, Zephyrs, Laces, Ladies' Fine Underwear, and Stamping Goods always on hand at Lowest Prices.
Smith & Cooper,
At the Ingleside

WM. J. STEVENSON,
HORSE-SHOEING,
Wagon Shop,
BLACKSMITHING, ETC.
Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I keep constantly on hand wagons, of the best manufacture, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine prices before purchasing elsewhere.
SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARNGLDROW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

THE OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale. 42

Poster Printing
Quick and Cheap,
At the Journal Office.

Around the County.

Boyne City.

Weather slightly cooler.

Adieu, to the Statesman.

The U. S. hotel is full of guests.

Winter is coming and Phil Bedour and wife will go south.

A telephone line now connects Bay Springs with this borough.

Dr. A. W. Nicholson will drive the quail for the Boyne Citizen.

A dance at Forest Lake rink on Thursday next, the 26th inst.

M. G. Cook took a sail to Petoskey in his pleasure yacht, Lulu B., last Saturday.

The hall at the Waldron house Friday night was not so well attended as previous ones.

Boone's saw mill at Bay Springs is now running and a goodly number of idle hands found work there.

The Friant brought in a large excursion party from Petoskey, Harbor Springs, and Charlevoix, on Wednesday.

The greenback county convention meets at Lewis' Hall, on Sept. 2, to nominate candidates for county offices.

Postmaster Steele's store at Advance is rapidly nearing completion and adds much to the appearance of that hamlet.

Sam Thatcher, county clerk, will move into Mr. Geo. Beardsley's house on the south bank of the Boyne, shortly.

Work on the new village hall is progressing rapidly and by September 25th, it is expected, will be ready for occupancy.

The heavy rain of Sunday afternoon and night quenched the forest fires in this vicinity, and otherwise was very acceptable.

Not to be outdone by her neighbors, Mrs. D. Stevenson presented her husband with a bouncing baby boy last Thursday, next.

A dance took place at Forest Lake rink on Wednesday and was moderately well patronized. Cutter's cornet band furnished the music.

Mr. Geo. Peardsley and county clerk Thatcher went down to Charlevoix Monday. Their friends there are always ready to welcome him.

Markets—potatoes, $1 per bush.; apples, 75 cts. per bush.; butter, 10 cts. per lb.; eggs, 15 cts. per dozen; hay, $10 per ton; green corn, 15 cts. per dozen.

Some boys have begun the unlawful practice of shooting game out of season. Duck and grouse can be lawfully hunted and killed after September 1st.

It is expected that the railroad from Bay Springs and through this place to Boyne Falls, will be completed in two weeks. The first train will likely be run by September 1st.

Boyne City had a big fire scare on Thursday afternoon and night last and but for the honest and brave citizens the north part of the town would undoubtedly now be a bed of ashes.

The schooners T. Y. Avery and Helen Pratt, loaded wood and bark for R. R. Perkins; G. A. Marsh, wood and bark for W. J. Lewis, and Mowry, wood and bark for C. C. Batchelor, last week.

Mr. Mills talks of building a trout and carp pond on his farm, south of here. We hope he will carry out his ideas and when he gets it completed and well stocked with fish, will invite the reporter over to inspect it.

Phil Bedour has sold out his trucking business to Messrs. Miley & Chapin, two popular young men of this place. The new firm took possession Monday morning. In future the paper will appear under the name of "The Boyne Citizen" Success.

The popular steam yacht Clara Belle, will run an excursion from this place to Charlevoix, on Saturday, August 28th, leaving Redpath's dock at 9 o'clock a. m., calling at Bay Springs, Advance, and Ingleside. Arriving at Charlevoix at 11:30. Return will leave Charlevoix at 4 o'clock. This will give all the opportunity of taking in the sights at that beautiful summer resort, on of spending the day along the beach on the shore of lake Michigan.

Ironton.

An entertainment under the auspices of the "Chimney Club" was given last Friday evening, August 13, for benefit of the Congregational church and it proved to be a great success; both as regards pleasure and in a financial way. $50 was cleared and we feel that we owe a debt of gratitude to our many friends, who not only aided us by the 25c. but made the effort to be with us. To both "Resorts" and to our friends in Charlevoix, we say a hearty "Thank you," especially would we express our appreciation of Mrs. N. S. Blatchford's kindness, under whose supervision the tableaux were arranged, and also to Mr. VanAuken who worked with a will.

The program was as follows:

PART I.

Piano Solo.....Miss Lulu Bogue.
Song.....Mrs. Aldrich.
Reading, "Lily's Withered Heart"
.....Mrs. N. S. Blatchford.
Duet, "The Hunters Song"
.....Misses Adams and Harmon.
"Two Studies"—Berchet.....Miss Busby.
Ballad.....Miss Harmon.

PART II.

Reading, "The Witch's Daughter," illustrated by tableaux vivant.....Mrs. N. S. Blatchford.
Duet, "Company."—Adams. Miss E. E. Adams.

The ladies held a bazaar Thursday afternoon and evening of this week. All interested in a good work are invited.

Burgess.

Mrs. Zillah Gibson and her sister started for Chicago Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Kane and family are visiting friends in East Jordan.

Clara Kane, who has been quite sick, is getting better under the treatment of Dr. Lewis.

The dance at Loren Hamlin's last Friday evening was highly enjoyed by those who were there.

Mrs. Leed's, who has been at her father's, Mr. Gibson's, visiting, returns home to Louisville, Ky., this week.

The rain has put out the fires that have been raging for the last two or three weeks and which have done considerable damage.

Died, August 8th, at the residence of its grand parents, in Hayes, Morell W. Long, infant son of Morell and Lottie Long, aged eleven weeks and four days.

Wilson.

Robert and Cyrus Norton have decided to buy H. Warner's water power and wheel.

Marion Hankins gave a "chop" at his large new barn last Friday evening.

John T. Wilks was visited by friends and relatives from Eastport last week.

Thomas Shepard's barn was struck by lightning last Thursday night, and burned to the ground, including a lot of hay. No insurance.

Joseph Vetrabik's barn burned two weeks ago. One horse was burned.

Barnard.

Everybody is busy and happy.

Everything is improved by the rain.

Farmers are busy gathering in the golden grain.

Mr. Isaac Ager is expected home from New York this week.

Mrs. West, two daughters and son returned to their home in Grand Rapids last week.

A large audience listened to a very interesting sermon by Mr. Smithson, last Sunday.

How an Alphabet is Developed.

Suppose that some ancient of Asia, after having for ages drawn an ox pounds of seed wheat to an acre of ground will produce a better crop than the usual one and a half to two bushels, the world has been wasting an immense amount of money every year in ruining its supply of bread. Averaging this country, from 30,000,000 to 40,000,000 bushels of unnecessary seed wheat were sown last year, from which no return was received. If the facts are as stated, farmers who raise wheat can not get abreast of the facts any too soon.

Broken Down Invalids.

Probably never in the history of rough Medicines has any article met success equal to that which has been showered upon Dr. Price's great cough cure. Thousands of hopeless cases of coughs, colds, and consumption have yielded to this truly miraculous discovery. For this reason we feel warranted in staking our reputation and money on its merits. Sold by Perry Weed and Dr. G. W. Crouter.

Dr. Peter's Magic Pain Oil is

Good for both internal and external pain.
Good for sprains, bruises, and bite bugs, and swollen joints.
Good for wounds made by knives, scissors, and implements of destruction.
Good for

THE JOURNAL
BY CHAS. J. STRANG.
CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

EASTERN.

The assessors of Boston have discovered property worth $210,500,000. The rate of taxation is $12.70 per $1,000.

The Grand Jury at New York has found indictments against Rollin M. Squire, Commissioner of Public Works, and Maurice B. Flynn, the contractor.

Capt. Frank D. Longsford, of Gloucester, Mass., was impaled by a sword-fish which he had harpooned. He will probably die.

Near Erie, Pa., Mrs. Kreider and her three daughters were drowned while doing the family washing in a creek. The youngest fell into the stream, and the others were lost in the endeavor to rescue her.

While bathing three daughters of Henry Wyman, a fisherman of Fair Haven, Cuyahoga County, New York, were drowned off Brown Point.

Lewis Beach, Representative from the Fifteenth Congressional District of New York, died at Cornwall, N. Y., aged 51.

Gen. D. E. Sickles proposes soon to reply to the charges contained in a letter from Gen. Meade, recently published for the first time.

Dr. Frank Hamilton, who attended President Garfield, died at New York, aged 75 years. He was one of the most noted physicians in New York.

WESTERN.

A Milwaukee dispatch says: "The forest fires along the Wisconsin Central Road are said to be mainly between Stevens Point and Phillips, and every town within that space is liable to be swept away. A heavy pine belt in the vicinity of Necedah, along the St. Paul track, is on fire for miles. The greater part of the village of Saint Ste. Marie was burned."

A Detroit dispatch reports: "Forest fires are raging along the Michigan Central Railroad. Cheboygan has been several days surrounded by forest fires, and at times very much fighting of flames has been done. The mills at Sherman City were burned. It is impossible to estimate the amount of damage done to farm property, but the fragmentary tales which come in are very harrowing. The trouble is not confined to the line of the Michigan Central alone, but is spread over the entire northern part of the State, including all the timber regions north of a line running from Saginaw across to Muskegon."

The name of Sterling Morton of Nebraska is mentioned in connection with the Austrian mission.

The Secretary of the Interior has affirmed the decision of the General Land Office holding for cancellation certain preemption entries in the Duluth district on the ground that they were fraudulently made in the interest of the John Martin Lumber Company.

On a farm near Jefferson, Wis., five persons were instantly killed and two others fatally scalded by the explosion of the boiler of a threshing machine.

Harvey Martin, with his wife and two children, of Weaver, A. T., started from that place for Fort Fetterman, Dak., for a visit. Not being heard from, a search was instituted, which resulted in the finding of the charred remains of the entire family between Vulture Mine and Phœnix, Arizona. Martin was known to have had $1,000 with him, realized from the sale of his ranch. He was waylaid by robbers, the entire family murdered, and the remains burned to cover the crime.

A rich petroleum well has been discovered in the vicinity of Livermore, Cal.

The window-glass works of Weatherby & Wells, at Meadville, Pa., valued at $50,000, were burned. The flames originated from sparks from a locomotive.

SOUTHERN.

Willis Hudson was executed at Fort Gibson, for the murder of Marion Williams in August, 1884.

Cattle are dying of a disease said to be Texas fever in Clark County, Missouri.

A railroad collision near Ashland, Ky., resulted in killing four persons and injuring two others.

John W. Stevenson, who had been Senator and Representative in Congress and Governor of Kentucky, has passed away at the age of 74 years.

Henry Yelleski, a declared anarchist, committed suicide by drowning near New Orleans.

Gov. Ireland, of Texas, has issued a proclamation asking for relief for the drought sufferers.

The rice crop of Louisiana is the best ever produced.

Adolphus Parker, a 16-year-old boy, who with four men robbed the Valley route train, near Little Rock, Ark., in December, 1884, and was sent to prison for the crime, has been pardoned by the Governor of Arkansas.

WASHINGTON.

The grand total of the appropriations made during the last session of Congress is $104,795,776.

Fitz-John Porter has been placed on the retired list of the army, with the rank of Colonel.

It is reported from Washington that at a meeting of the Cabinet it was decided to call in a large amount of bonds, in accordance with the sinking fund act, which, when the President had failed to sign, The first call will be for $15,000,000.

The President has appointed Thomas Cooper to be Collector of Internal Revenue for the Eighth District of Illinois, and Nelson F. Ayres to be Collector of Internal Revenue for the district of Kansas. These were nominations upon which the Senate failed to act.

Ex-Governor Glick, now Pension Agent at Topeka, is said to be the coming Commissioner of Pensions, vice General John C. Black.

Commissioner Miller has begun preparations for carrying into effect the oleomargarine bill.

The President appointed Charles A. Ward to be Collector of Customs for the district of Huron, Mich., vice William Harbert, suspended; Smith M. Palmer, Register of the Land Office, at Salina, Kan., vice John M. Hodge, suspended; O. F. Scarl, of Kansas, Receiver of Public Moneys at Salina, Kan., vice Harper R. Cunningham, suspended. Daniel Haggerty, of Baltimore, has been appointed Assistant Superintendent of Railway Mail Services, and will be assigned to duty in the office of Second Assistant Postmaster General Knott. The Postmaster General has appointed the following Postoffice Inspectors: E. K. Theobald, Los Angeles, Cal.; R. B. Munroe, Oakland, Cal.; T. J. Beames, Jacksonville, Ore.; A. H. French, Denver, Col.

An Associated Press dispatch from Washington says: The State Department is very glad so much has been said in the newspapers about the Cutting affair. An official who ought to know what is going forward said that the following would probably be the outcome of the whole matter: "After all the forms of trial have been gone through with and Cutting has been formally disposed of by the Chihuahua authorities President Diaz will probably, as he has a perfect right to do, under the Mexican constitution. When Cutting is at liberty then will be the proper time to consider the methods that have been pursued toward him. The Mexican authorities claim to have followed a course of law, while we claim that they have not. With Cutting at liberty the whole matter is a proper subject for arbitration. It is absurd to suppose that there will be war over so trivial an affair and so cheap an adventure."

POLITICAL.

Nashville (Tenn.) dispatch: "Returns from the State elections show Democratic gains. The Democratic State ticket is elected by 32,000 and possibly 40,000. The successful candidates for the Supreme Court bench are Peter Turney, Franklin County; W. C. Caldwell, Gibson; W. H. Burton, Montgomery; R. E. Snodgrass, Hamilton; W. C. Fulton, Shelby."

President Cleveland has reappointed W. C. Matthews, the Albany colored man, as Recorder of Deeds for the District of Columbia.

Daniel Magone, of Ogdensburg, N. Y., has been appointed to be Collector of Customs of the Port of New York, vice Edward C. Holden, resigned.

W. J. Jeffries, of Henry County, Iowa, a Greenbacker, and E. L. Burton, of Wapello, and J. C. Mitchell, of Lucas, Democrats, were nominated for District Judges by the Iowa Democrats and Greenbackers at Oskaloosa, the two parties uniting.

The Democrats of the First Missouri District renominated William H. Ashely by acclamation. W. Harrison was nominated by the Republicans to oppose Hatch. The Prohibitionists of the Fourteenth Illinois District nominated Isaac G. M. Goode for Congress. R. R. Link was nominated for Congress by the Prohibitionists of the Nineteenth Illinois District.

Indiana Democrats, in convention at Indianapolis, nominated the following ticket: John C. Nelson, of Cass County, for Lieutenant Governor; John R. Coffroth, of Tippecanoe, for State Court Judge; R. W. Moss, of Monroe, for Secretary of State; C. A. Mason, of Allen, for Auditor; Thomas B. Byrne, of Vanderburg, for Treasurer; Martin T. Krueger, of La Porte, for Clerk Supreme Court; H. D. McMullen, of Delaware, for Attorney General. The platform adopted indorses the administration of President Cleveland, declares for a tariff for revenue only, applauds the forfeiture of railroad land grants by Congress, and opposes sumptuary laws.

New York Greenbackers will hold a State Convention at Albany Sept. 22, and probably nominate Judge J. Tinker for Judge of the Court of Appeals—the only State officer to be elected this fall.

Nominated for Congress: 12th Ohio District, Gen. T. W. Bonner, Democrat; 19th Ohio, R. R. Taylor, Republican; 3d Missouri, C. H. Manson, Democrat; 1st Virginia, Thomas Croxton, Democrat; 6th Iowa, James B. Weaver, Democ-Greenback.

A meeting of the New York Republican State Committee was held last week, at which it was decided not to hold any State convention this year.

THE INDUSTRIAL OUTLOOK.

The miners employed by the new coal-mining syndicate which operates a majority of the mines in southern Illinois met in Fort St. Louis last week, and decided to demand two cents a bushel, top weight. In case the demand is refused they will strike.

The great rolling-mill strike at Philadelphia, involving over 1,500 men, has been settled.

Leading Knights of Labor are discussing the propriety of reorganizing the management of the order. The plan most favored is to give Mr. Powderly, or whoever may be at the head, the privilege of selecting the members of the General Executive Board. The matter will be considered at the Richmond convention in October.

The county commissioners at Parsons, Kansas, have released the executive committee of the Knights of Labor, who have served their sentence in jail and are stable to pay the fines imposed.

RAILROAD INTELLIGENCE.

The railway Commissioners of Massachusetts we warm in their recommendation of a section of Meigs Elevated Road, across bridge, built with one rail and passing around sharp curves.

The statement of the Indiana, Bloomington and Western Railroad shows the earnings for the week ending July 31, 1886, to be $65,252.67; 1885, $48,949.62. Increase, $21,303.05.

The Burlington and Northern Road announces its purpose to put on limited trains next October, to run from Chicago to St. Paul in twelve hours.

A committee of three leading shippers of Rockford, Ill., has been appointed to trip the location through that city of the Chicago and Madison branch of the Illinois Central Road.

The Southern Pacific Road is soon to commence running sleeping-cars direct from Atlanta to San Francisco, a distance of three thousand miles.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The apprehensions of a war between the United States and Mexico appear to be confined to excitable persons along the Rio Grande border, says a Washington dispatch. The representatives at Washington of the two Governments do not furnish any information to justify the alarming rumors that are current. On the contrary, the Secretary of State and Minister are both very confident that the differences will be settled by peaceful means, and that they will be settled speedily. Governor Ireland has received a telegram from Tucson, Arizona, saying: "Arizona does not want your action demanding protection for American citizens, and will furnish 1,000 men subject to your call." Governor Ireland, in his telegram, says he city is full of excitement, and 1,000 men could be raised there for a war with Mexico. A nonmeeting passed resolutions favoring an immediate declaration of war. El Paso has three volunteer companies, fully armed and equipped with the best improved fire-arms, contributed by local merchants. A Washington telegram says: "The last demand for the release of Cutting was made on the State of Chihuahua and not on Mexico, so that there cannot be any question as to jurisdiction or authority. Secretary Bayard expresses himself as very much in earnest in his efforts to have the Mexican understand that he means what he says." A City of Mexico dispatch says: "The news of the sentence of Cutting was received here without surprise, but it is not generally believed that he will serve out his sentence. The leading newspapers are discussing the case in its legal aspects, and without excitement."

A letter, hitherto unpublished, written by Gen. George G. Meade, commander of the Army of the Potomac, in relation to the victory at Gettysburg, and which, with complete fairness, shows the weaknesses of his subordinates, is published in the Philadelphia papers, is a most important chapter in the controversy concerning Gen. Schoe'cnsel's conduct in the battle. Gen. Meade holds Gen. Sickles responsible for virtually losing the battle of Gettysburg, for strictly new evidence of Gen. Ewell (Confederate) ability and of the wisdom of the Pipe Creek order, and explains why Gen. Butterfield, Gen. Hooker's chief of staff, happened to be relieved from duty by Gen. Meade.

A number of arrests have been made in Tamaqua, Pa., for conspiracy to defraud the city by means of false schedules. It is alleged that prominent city officials are implicated, and that frauds amounting had for years by which the municipality has lost heavily have been committed.

The annual convention of the National Association of Bankers was held at Boston. Ex-Secretary Fairchild, who delivered the annual address, T. W. Hart, of Boston, made the address of welcome. A letter was read from ex-Secretary Manning, and ex-Mayor McCulloch urging the association to favor the free coinage of silver and silver legal tender. There were other addresses from prominent financiers.

FOREIGN.

The policy of Mr. Gladstone's following, says a London dispatch, is that again the dissenting Liberals repent in dust and ashes, and Parliamentary rules be so amended as to accept the leadership of Gladstone on Mr. Gladstone's own terms, renewed friendship will be impossible.

It is stated that at the Belfast ship yard between the Protestants and the Catholics, only a number of men were so severly hurt that they had to be removed to hospitals. The Inspector General of the Irish constabulary was ordered to proceed to the city to preserve the peace, and the troopers were ordered to Belfast.

During the riots in progress at Belfast, Ireland, eleven persons have been killed, and over one hundred seriously wounded. A Belfast dispatch says:

The city, owing to the week and ruin of business, presents a miserable aspect. In appearance it is similar to that of Paris after the Commune. Hundreds of men have been rioting for the five days between two places, which will never be heard of or counted. Hundreds will be laid up, and swell the aggregate number of wounded. Hundreds will be thrown out of employment, and swell the number of children wounded. The heaviest fighting has taken place in the Shankill district. It was waged in regular guerrilla fashion. The Catholics, driven out of their district by fire, fell back on the Protestants, and made a determined opposite, in which they lost very heavily. The Protestants are filled with resentment against those who fired their homes, and are burning for revenge. Hundreds of Catholics have left their work, and are in great and growing destitution. The Protestants are in a state of fanatical excitement, in which they have no mercy for the Catholics. The Catholics are filled with resentment against those who were fully occupied in the city. Sixty-one Catholics were burned down, many of whom were killed. One woman was crazed over losses to a most threatening fashion. The Protestants are now in a state of frenzy, after which nearly supervening to extenuation, and the Catholics are in a state of despair, and are at the point of the desperate.

The London Times says editorially: "The riots in Belfast have almost risen to the level of a civil war. The Government has no inner idea or weakness in dealing with the situation—it will be all over with the Government if it does not. The Government is not blind to the fact that there are faults on both sides. It places the blame where it has the responsibility of the actual outrages."

The home office at London has received information that a number of dynamiters have left the United States for Paris, with the view of entering England secretly and doing vast damage.

Six laborers were killed at New Ross, Ireland, by the collapse of a railway tunnel.

Mr. Matthews, Home Secretary for Ireland, has been re-elected to the House of Commons for East Birmingham without opposition.

LATER NEWS ITEMS.

A terrible triple tragedy occurred at Graysville, Tenn., twenty miles from Chattanooga. The Rev. F. M. Bacon and John Davis, the latter a prominent citizen, had a difficulty over the attentions of Davis to Bacon's daughter. The young lady's brother attempted to whip Davis, and the latter beat him to death, crushing his skull with a stone. At this juncture the minister drew a knife and attacked Davis. Both men fought with knives, and each was mortally wounded.

The 146th call for the redemption of bonds has been issued. It is for $10,000,000 of the three per cent. loan of 1882.

The receipts of the Government since July 1 have been nearly $4,000,000 in excess of the receipts during the same month last year.

Major S. W. Clark, whose removal as Recorder of the General Land Office was announced by Commissioner Sparks, has been suspended.

Dr. J. H. McLean, the millionaire patent medicine manufacturer of St. Louis, is dead.

Logan C. Murray was chosen President of the American Bankers' Association.

The Grand Lodge of Knights of Pythias, A. O. U. W., held its annual session at Erie, Pa. The Knights prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors at their meetings, and will not accept any manufacturer or dealer in liquors for membership.

Banks and trust companies in New York are loaning all their money at 6 per cent.

The 4th annual election of the Virginia Railway and Navigation Company, held at Portland, Elijah Smith was successful in leading the list of Directors.

The laboring people of Canada are highly indignant because the Warden of the Kingston Penitentiary has ordered the unloading vessels during a strike by free citizens of labor-saving appliances.

In anti-Jewish riots in Kieff, Russia, the houses of many Hebrews were wrecked.

Louise Michel has been sentenced in Paris to four months' imprisonment and a fine of 100 francs for "seditious language."

In the Tennessee Democratic Convention, at Nashville, Robert L. Taylor was nominated for Governor on the fifteenth ballot. His brother had previously been nominated for Governor by the Republican State Convention. A resolution was adopted indorsing the administration of President Cleveland. After a three days' session at Galveston, the Texas Democratic State Convention nominated Gen. L. C. Rice for Governor. The convention adopted a platform which, after reciting the usual commonplaces, concludes by demanding the forfeiture of all land grants, and declares it to be the duty of the Government to protect the laboring American from against the unlawful alien scry or at'ustans.

A Democratic mass convention at Kendallville, Indiana, placed Henry G. Stanley in the field against the regular nominee, Judge Lowry. The Democrats of the Seventeenth Ohio District nominated David C. Keefer, and in the Sixth Ohio District selected William D. Hill. George W. Ray was nominated by the Democrats of the Sixth Sen'n Carolina District. Hon. John Calderon has been nominated for Congress by the Republicans of the Ninth Michigan District. Hon. W. C. Oates was renominated for Congress by the Democrats in the Third Alabama District. Hon. Jos. H. Outhwaite, of Ohio, has been renominated Hon. C. F. Joseph, of Ohio, has been renominated, and Hon. Jas. Kerr, of Indiana, renominated, and nominated in the First North Carolina District.

THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK.
BEEVES	$4.50	@5.75
HOGS	3.60	@4.00
WHEAT—No. 1 White	1.00	@1.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	84	@ 84
CORN—No. 2	.56	@ .56
OATS—No. 2	.36	@ .36
PORK—Mess	9.50	@10.00
CHICAGO.
BEEVES—Choice to Prime Steers	3.90	@ 4.25
Good Shipping	4.00	@ 4.50
HOGS—Shipping Grades	3.50	@ 3.70
FLOUR—Spring Wheat	4.50	@ 4.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.75	@ .75
CORN—No. 2	.42	@ .42½
OATS—No. 2	.25	@ .25½
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	.17	@ .19
CHEESE—Full Cream, Cheddar	.07	@ .07½
Full Cream, Flat	.07	@ .07½
EGGS—Fresh, per doz	.14	@ .14½
POTATOES—New, per bu	1.75	@ 2.25
PORK—Mess, per bbl	8.75	@ 8.80
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—Cash	.74	@ .75
CORN—No. 3	.37	@ .37½
OATS—No. 2	.27	@ .28
RYE—No. 1	.57	@ .58
PORK—Mess	9.50	@10.00
TOLEDO.
WHEAT—Cash	.78	@ .78
CORN—No. 2	.44	@ .44½
OATS—No. 2	.28	@ .28½
DETROIT.
BEEF CATTLE	4.00	@ 5.25
SHEEP	3.00	@ 4.00
WHEAT—No. 1 White	.80	@ .80
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	.45	@ .45½
OATS—No. 2 White	.28	@ .28½
ST. LOUIS.
WHEAT—No. 2	.76	@ .77
CORN—No. 2	.36	@ .37
OATS—No. 2	.26	@ .26½
PORK—Mess	10.00	@10.25
CINCINNATI.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.78	@ .79½
CORN—No. 2	.38	@ .39
OATS—No. 2	.28	@ .29
PORK—Mess	10.00	@10.25
BUFFALO.
WHEAT—No. 1 Hard	.84	@ .85
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	.48	@ .48½
OATS—No. 2	.28	@ .29
INDIANAPOLIS.
BEEVES	3.50	@ 4.50
HOGS—Mixed	3.50	@ 3.75
SHEEP	2.25	@ 4.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.74½	@ .74½
CORN—No. 2	.39	@ .41
OATS—No. 2	.27	@ .27½
EAST LIBERTY.
CATTLE—Best	5.00	@ 5.40
Common	3.75	@ 4.75
HOGS—Best	3.75	@ 4.00
Common	3.50	@ 3.60
SHEEP	3.87	@ 4.35

LABOR AND LABORERS.

News and Notes of Interest to Both the Employers and the Employed.

Workingmen Drifting Into Politics—The Industrial World and the Labor Market.

There is a very strong drift among the workingmen toward political action. This feeling is stronger in the West than in the East. Experience, however, shows that they would prefer to throw their votes to the politicians they denounce than vote to one of their own number. In Texas politics is the absorbing question among workingmen. In several cities of Kansas political tickets have been put up by wage-workers.

District Assembly No. 65, Knights of Labor, at Albany, became so large that a division was necessary. The political sycees of Chicago have organized an annual. There are 53 local assemblies in Cincinnati, and the order is expanding. Local Assembly No. 7103 is doing good missionary work in Colorado. There are 9,000 members in good standing in District Assembly No. 3 of Pittsburgh. The Brickslayers International Union has 16 local assemblies and 16,000 members. The Singer Sewing Machine Company of New York is endeavoring to make terms with the striking employes. The National Bakers' Union has forty branches and a membership of 18,000. The printers of New York will turn out 5,000 more. The Knights of Labor in Kansas Americans simply to "spread the principles of the order." Knights of Labor in Kansas are making a strong fight against the Chicago Knights of Labor. The

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

Democratic Congressional Convention.

The Democratic electors of the Ninth Congressional District of Michigan are hereby notified that a convention will be held at ROOT'S HALL IN THE CITY OF BIG RAPIDS, ON WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 1, AT 10 O'CLOCK, P. M., for the purpose of putting in nomination a candidate for Congress from the Ninth Congressional District, and the transaction of any other business that may properly come before said convention. On the basis of one delegate for each 300 votes cast for Governor at the last general election, and one for every fraction of not less than 200 votes, the various counties comprising the said Congressional District will be entitled to representation as follows:

	Votes	No. of Dels.
Antrim	1823	6
Charlevoix	918	4
Kalkaska	1025	4
Oceana	1728	6
Manistee	1728	6
Mason	3385	7
Lake	1217	4
Muskegon	4404	14
Newaygo	450	2
Oceana	6025	21
Osceola	2024	8
Wexford	2058	8
Total	23457	76

WM. P. NISBETT, Mecosta Co., Ch'n.
H. J. HOYT, Muskegon.
GEO. GOODSELL, Mason.
DANIEL F. SLIPER, Newaygo.
JOHN W. BURNS, Manistee.
JOHN E. SAVAGE, Antrim,
Memorialist Comp'l Com.

Greenback County Convention.

The greenback county convention to nominate candidates for county officers will be held at Lewis hall in Boyne City, on Thursday, Sept. 2, 1886, at 10 o'clock, a. m., also to reorganize the county committee and fix the basis of representation for future conventions, and elect delegates to the congressional senatorial and representative conventions yet to be held this year. The several townships in the county will be entitled to the following number of delegates:

Bear Lake, 2; Boyne Valley 2; Chandler, 2; Charlevoix, 3; Evangeline, 2; Eveline, 3; Hayes, 1; Hudson, 2; Marion, 2; Melrose, 2; Norwood, 2; Resort, 3; South Arm, 2; Springvale, 2; Wilson, 2.

By order of committee.

T. J. HILLS, Chairman.
E. H. SHEPARD, Secretary.
Dated Aug. 4, 1886.

Greenback Caucus.

There will be a caucus at Murray school house Aug 28, at 4 o'clock, p. m., to elect delegates to county convention at Boyne City, Sept. 4, at 10 o'clock, a. m. By order of committee.

YAPLE FOR GOVERNOR.

The state convention yesterday at Grand Rapids named Gen. L. Yaple of Mendon, for governor; Solomon L. Curry, of Ishpeming, for lieutenant governor; Col. Farrar, of Macomb, for auditor general; P. B. Wachtel, of Petoskey, for secretary of state; Bayard, of Bay City, for state treasurer; W. D. Fuller, of Newaygo, for commissioner of the state land office; and David Parsons, of Detroit, for superintendent of public instruction. The balance of the ticket we have not received. Fusion was accomplished in a most satisfactory manner. The resolutions were adopted amid great enthusiasm.

Democratic County Convention.

At the county convention held at the village hall last Friday, S. G. Isaman was made chairman, and C. J. Grier secretary. The following were elected as delegates to the respective conventions:

To the state convention at Grand Rapids,—A. D. Cruickshank, J. Milo Eaton, R. F. Ingalls, and D. B. Jerrue.

To the congressional convention at Big Rapids—Chas. J. Strang, S. G. Isman, E. D. Earlbanker, and Howard Pinnigin.

To the senatorial convention—A. E. Moore, E. C. Pinttepiece, and F. J. Smith.

To the representative convention—C. J. Grier, Pat. Walsh, Frank Martinek, Fred Vitlo, A. E. Nowe, A. A. Watson, and D. D. Elliot.

A committee of five, consisting of J. Milo Eaton, A. D. Cruickshank, R. F. Ingalls, D. B. Jerrue, and F. J. Smith, was appointed to confer with the greenback county committee with reference to a basis of fusion on the county ticket this fall.

The convention then adjourned.

NOTES AND NEWS.

Gen. B. M. Cutcheon was re-nominated by acclamation for another term in congress by the convention at Reed City last Friday.

The republicans of the ninth congressional district have renominated Mr. Cutcheon but they will find it a different thing when they attempt to elect him. The democrats and laboring men will have something to say about that.—Kalamazoo Gazette.

Frank Conger, postmaster at Washington and son of Senator Conger, has been playing the role of the offensive partisan and it is said that President Cleveland has decided that his official head must come off in consequence. Frank has been utilizing his spare hours from manipulating the mails to writing letters to various Michigan republicans in favor his father's re-election as United States senator. A good democrat will manage the Washington post office just as judiciously and to better record with the policy of the administration.—Kalamazoo Gazette.

Mr. Tilden's ingrained public spirit and kindness of disposition were both illustrated by his legacies. After providing for those of his own household, he gave the rest to mankind. And he gave it in no obstinate, opinionated temper, tying it up in hard knots of legal red tape, limiting, if not destroying, its usefulness by iron-clad conditions. He left it free to be dispensed in accordance with the best judgment of his friends and trustees, only indicating in a general way the channels through which he would be pleased to have his bounty flow. He thus left behind him proofs of a generous heart and a liberal, reasonable mind.—Free Press.

Nearly all the Republican speakers and campaign managers are rushing to the rescue of Maine. Maine is Blaine's own state, and of course must be saved at all hazards. But the confession that Blaine's own state is in danger and in need of salvation is a curious one for the party leaders to make. To save it by such tremendous exertions as that one remove from losing it. Indeed, there is more risk than in losing it. For if it lost without all this fuss its loss could be charged up to apathy, "off years," etc. But if it is lost in spite of the very flower of the republican party the loss will be a tragedy like the last charge of the Old Guard at Waterloo.—Free Press.

It will scarcely do to jump to the conclusion that the president's veto of private pension bills are going to furnish good grounds for making republican capital in the elections. It must be remembered that he does not veto all these bills, nor even half nor a quarter of them, but only such ones as he thinks he has good grounds for vetoing. If he makes mistakes, and vetoes such as really ought to have passed, an issue can be made against him on these. But it is not at all certain that the great body of the people will condemn a disposition to cut down the too prevalent extravagance of congress in voting away the king's money, especially in private bills.—Lansing Republican.

Mr. H. D. Pugh has been appointed postmaster at Lansing in place of Geo. P. Sanford, rejected by the senate. Mr. Pugh has always been a democrat faithful to the principles of his party and energetic in laboring for its welfare. As secretary of the state central committee his counsels promoted concord and his good work helped to secure results. His capacity has been tried in such important offices as county clerk of Ingham county, clerk of the supreme court of Michigan and deputy commissioner of insurance, all of which he filled with ability. We fear, however, that the rejection of Mr. Sanford will re-open a local political quarrel that has had a bad effect on the democracy of that congressional district, if not the whole state.

STORY OF A SHIP.

The drowning accident on the Potomac recently removes one of the group of idle and ordinary sons of famous public men who congregate in this city. Young Jefferson, the son of the volcanic Jim as a name, was drown twice, so many others are by his father's genius, and found a livelihood by helping his father in odes and mids. It will be remembered that a few years ago he was made the target of a woman's sue, she claiming that he was the father of her illegitimate child. The scandal blew over, however, a place being found for the women in one of the departments. Jefferson acted gallantly in the matter, as he usually does, and it may perhaps be said of him that "naught in life became him like the leaving it." As a writer it is, he was once a rather unfortunate type. It is not in itself that they are the sons of distinguished men, in it is a very often their misfortune. Several times we recently occur to one who dwells a moment on this subject. There is Ben Hill's son, for instance, who lounged about Washington on his father's death. Senator Blaine has a son here who is a very disorderlike specimen. Sheridan's Vanderbilt has done a thing in art and is indicative. Sherman's son, now dead, Gallatin, was a quiet young man, who makes no attempt to trade on his father's reputation. Young Jim Lamar is his father's exact, only more so. In none of the cases named does the father's talents seem to have been transmitted to the offspring.—Detroit Tribune.

A Canadian Excursion Steamer in Trouble at Kinkiuse.

MACKINAC ISLAND, August 16.—The Canadian excursion steamer Frances Smith was seized to-day as she landed at the dock with her weekly excursion from Collingwood by Collector Watson, of Grand Haven. The last two trips of the boat she neglected to go to St. Ignace and take out her papers before clearing, so to-day, as she was expected, the Collector and Deputy Warren, of St. Ignace, were on hand and took charge of her, removed her engine bars and put her in charge of two custodians. The Canadians are badly worked up over the affair and the passengers take another boat for home to-morrow.

The excuse of the captain and clerk was that under the former Collectors they were not compelled to obey the strict letter of the law.

Partyism in the United States.

The ways of politicians are as freaky and undeterminable as are the ways of women. Before the state department had time to move in the matter of the Mexican unpleasantness Republican Congressmen and Republican journalists were hot for a rigorous demanding even if war were to follow. But the moment it became apparent that the administration was in deadly earnest the republican ardor cooled. The shout now goes forth from the opposition that it is best to go slow, and unseemly to browbeat a weak sister.—Philadelphia Record.

Mr. Longfellow's first salary as a professor at Harvard was $700, and the corporation at first declined to dignify the position with any higher title than that of instructor. When he was called to Harvard university, it was at a salary of $1,000. He wrote his first poem at 14, and there was not much in it to indicate prosperity, or to afford promise of the future that was afterward realized. Bryant, it will be remembered, wrote "Thanatopsis" when he was 18 years old, and it is doubtful if he ever excelled it in his after work. Longfellow had an extraordinary preparation for his duties as professor, having passed three years in Europe before he took his place at Bowdoin, and two more in the same travel before he assumed his duties at Harvard. He was 32 years of age when he received the first of his appointments, and 28 when he entered upon the other.

Active, Pushing and Reliable.

Dr. G. W. Crouter is always be prepared upon to carry in stock the purest and best goods, and sustain the reputation of being active, pushing, and reliable, by recommending articles with well established merit and such as are popular. Having the agency for celebrated Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, colds and coughs, will sell it on a positive guarantee. It will surely cure any and every affection of throat, lungs, or chest, and in order to prove our faith, we ask you to call and get a trial bottle free.

Don't fill the system with quinine, to prevent or cure fever and ague. Ayer's Ague Cure is a specific for this disease, and has been warranted to produce quietness, deafness, headache, or other disorders.

The First Sign

Of failing health, whether in the form of Night Sweats and Nervousness, or in a sense of General Weariness and Loss of Appetite, should suggest the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This preparation is most effective for giving tone and strength to the enfeebled system, promoting the digestion and assimilation of food, restoring the nervous forces to their normal condition, and for purifying, enriching, and vitalizing the blood.

Failing Health.

Ten years ago my health began to fail. I was troubled with a distressing Cough, Night Sweats, Weakness, and Nervousness. I tried various remedies prescribed by different physicians, but became so weak that I could not go up stairs without stopping to rest. My friends recommended me to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which I did, and I am now as healthy and strong as ever.—Mrs. L. L. Williams, Alexandria, Minn.

I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla in my family, for Scrofula, and know, if it is taken faithfully, that it will thoroughly eradicate this terrible disease. I have also prescribed it as a tonic, as well as an alterative, and must say that I honestly believe it to be the best blood medicine ever compounded.—E. F. Fowler, D. D. S., M. D., Greenville, Tenn.

Dyspepsia Cured.

It would be impossible for me to describe what I suffered from Indigestion and Headache up to the time I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was under the care of six physicians and tried a great many kinds of medicines, but never obtained relief from those who treated. After taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla for a short time, my troubles all disappeared, and my stomach performs its duties more perfectly. Today my health is completely restored.—Mary Harley, Springfield, Mass.

I have been greatly benefited by the prompt use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It tones and invigorates the system, regulates the action of the liver, and stimulates the organs and functions of elimination. It is, without doubt, the most reliable and purifier yet discovered.—H. D. Johnson, 583 Atlantic ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

Prepared by Dr. J. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

GOLD [illegible]

The Circus

Commences Next Week.

I am going to receive a large invoice of CLOTHING, bought from one of the leading houses in Rochester, N. Y., which I am going to sell at Prices that will draw me trade from all around the county.

I think the best advertisement a merchant can have is to have his goods advertise him in Good Fits and Prices that cannot be beat.

GEO. W. MILLER.

Summer Announcement.

TO THE LADIES:

We have just received a fresh invoice of summer goods in all such styles as are most desirable at this time of year, comprising India Linens, Percales, plain and figured Nainsooks, Manilla cloth and Batists, all of which are the leading wash fabrics.

We have also lately added to our stock a full line of ladies' muslin underwear, infants' robes, chemise, corset covers, etc.

The Peerless woven wire bustles may be found at our store in all shapes manufactured.

Our glove stock is being continually replenished. We have an elegant line of plain and undressed kids, silk, and jersey gloves.

Our trimmings comprise everything new and desirable, having plain, stripe, and brocade velvets, jet trimmings, and rosary beads.

We will offer until closed out at big reductions, all our parasols, shawls, light goods, prints, and ginghams.

Call and get our August fashion sheet, and ask us to show you our bargains.

F. W. CRAINE & CO.

PERRY WEED,
DRUGGIST AND STATIONER,
OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

HENRY C. COOPER
Undertaker!
CHARLEVOIX MICHIGAN.
Coffins, Caskets, and Trimmings Always in Stock.
Come and See my Stock of Furniture.
ALL ORDERS BY TELEPHONE RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION

Come and See our Immense Stock of

BOOTS AND SHOES.

FOX & MILLER.

A Large Stock of

Furniture!

IN

Oak, Maple, Ash, and Cherry,

JUST RECEIVED BY THE

PINE LAKE IRON COMPANY

IRONTON, MICH.

PRODUCE MARKET.

Hay, loose, per ton $12; baled, $13
Corn, per bu. 65c.
Oats, 15 to 20c.
Feed, per ton, $20.
Pork, $13 ⅌ bbl, 7c ⅌ lb.
Salt, ⅌ bbl, $1.25
Syrup, "Gold Medal," 50c ⅌ gal.
Canned Tomatoes, 12c.
Canned Peaches, 15 to 20c.
Coffee, Java and Mocca, 35c.
Farmer's Produce at Upright & Emrey's.

UPRIGHT EMREY & Co.

☞ A splendid line of Boots and Shoes, for ladies and gents, boys, girls and misses. More on the road.

☞ A magnificent lot of Dress Goods arrived recently, and we offer them at the very lowest figures.

☞ Hosiery in all styles a specialty, for both ladies and gents—best line in town.

☞ New Groceries received almost

EXTRA!

THE JOURNAL

Friday Morning, Aug. 20.

Thos. Smith in Jail.

Yesterday afternoon nearly every able-bodied man in Marion township was armed and out searching for Thos. Smith, the conviction being strong in every mind that he was the murderer.

Last night, just at dark he was seen in the woods south of Charlevoix, and during the evening he was found near the residence of his brother-in-law, Mr. Horace Hull. It having been reported that he had threatened to kill Mr. Hull, it is supposed that he came for that purpose. The alarm was given, and deputy sheriff Cooper, and a number of citizens started to catch him, and did get with in a few feet of him, but he escaped, and took to the woods.

Within a short time two or three hundred men were in pursuit, and he was driven from one hiding place to another till about three o'clock this morning, when he was found hiding near Eaton's factory on Pine lake. He again started to run, but this time the boys were too quick for him, and surrounded him. John Cooper grabbed him before he could shoot, and held his arms until his revolver was taken away from him, when he was hustled into a wagon and taken to jail.

There was a strong disposition to lynch him, and he was taken from the wagon once for that purpose, but John Ward and some others advised law and order, and he was permitted to be taken to jail. It is believed that the party of searchers who were Anderson's nearest neighbors would not have listened to any counsels of moderation, and would have strung him up to the first tree in spite of the sheriff.

The sheriff had offered a reward of $100 for Smith's capture, and this is to be given to the widow.

The funeral services of Mr. Anderson were held at his house yesterday afternoon, and was attended by all his neighbors and friends for miles around, except those who were searching for the murderer. Rev. J. T. Iddings conducted the service.

Rosenthal & Son have a new advertisement in this issue.

In the last Boyne Sleteeman P. A. Bashor announces the sale of the office, business, and good will of the paper to Miley & Chapin, of Boyne. We understand that its name is to be changed by the new firm, and the new paper divorced as much as possible from the unsavory reputation of the old.

The Manceloua Herald saved a job press and a small amount of type from the fire, and has not missed an issue, although last week's paper was slightly reduced in size. In addition to a full description of the fire a cut showing the burned district was given. Pluck wins, and Shearer has a full share.

The Chippewa County Democrat came to hand this week so changed that we could not recognize it. It is enlarged to a six column quarto, with an entire new dress of type—both body and display, and printed on a new Chicago Taylor steam press. We congratulate Bro. Stuart on the evidences of his prosperity.

Mr. Isaac Stauffer, a prominent farmer of Cir[illegible] received an order[illegible] for one of his threshers." He filled the order yesterday morning, by shipping his old ram, weighing 180 lbs, to a beauty. This is the sheep industry of Cheboygan.—Democrat.

Wilkinson's talk on "Can[illegible] Congregational church worth saving, he illustrated almost every phase of the character as brought out in the discussion, and told the audience he should let them draw the advantage of them[illegible] he would. The house was packed, though not crowded. [illegible] are found a state deposit[illegible] no means proves that people of iron there. On the contrary it is one of the many [illegible] the presence of iron ore [illegible] y of Norwood. Basing [illegible] upon the indications we [illegible] efts in paying quantities [illegible] none in that faith until [illegible] is demonstrated.—Pro[illegible]

[illegible] Silsby steam fire en[illegible] Charlevoix fire depart[illegible] rth on A. G. R. & I [illegible] his morning. The en[illegible] and "Charlevoix" and [illegible] ed with a very pretty [illegible] on which was reeled [illegible] dred feet of new cotton [illegible] ffit was viewed with [illegible] great by members of [illegible] partment and quite a [illegible] ber of citizens.—Cadillac [illegible]

[illegible] me to subscribe for the [illegible] NAL, religiously and [illegible] the best paper in the [illegible] fall campaign is near [illegible] things are going to be [illegible] d interesting. If any [illegible] ters know themselves [illegible] on subscription, now [illegible] say up. We want all [illegible] e can get. Let every [illegible] to the front and do [illegible] The whole country [illegible]

[illegible] union temperance [illegible] I. E. Church, on Sun[illegible] st, at the regular hour [illegible] under the auspices of [illegible] Mrs. I. A. Bunker, of [illegible] dent of the 34 Dist, [illegible] ddress of the evening. [illegible] ister of our towns[illegible] ch. This will be her [illegible] Charlevoix. She is in [illegible] ess among the W. C. [illegible] Michigan, and never [illegible] audiences. Let all [illegible] er.

[illegible] ecome to have satis[illegible] tion that Charlevoix [illegible] the harbor appropri[illegible] boys the Sentinel is [illegible] have not seen the [illegible] port of this bill nor [illegible] ron who has read it [illegible] with whom we have [illegible] it simply assumed [illegible] cause it was in the [illegible] e and ought by right [illegible] Until the proof is [illegible] al believe that char[illegible] ed.

[illegible] the pharmacy depart[illegible] Michigan University [illegible] ose druggist about [illegible] his store in preparing [illegible] is what the druggist [illegible] ean Six years keep [illegible] ive you a brief Dis[illegible] usiness Perhaps you [illegible] ature of a drug store [illegible] s some Liquor busi[illegible] ness. By the Drink [illegible] Drunkenness [illegible] to three Thousand Per year some clerks objected to the back Room trade—Give you the facts in the case so that You will not be disappointed your board By the week will cost you from $5.50 to $8 a week now if you accept this position Answer by telegraph At once as I kneed a clerk very bad & must have one as soon as possible."

Young, old, and middle aged, all experience the wonderful beneficial effects of Ayers Sarsaparilla. Young children suffering from sore eyes, sore ears, scald head, or with any scrofulous taint, become healthy and strong by the use of this medicine. Six bottles, $5.

COLD BLOODED MURDER.

N. P. Anderson, of Marion, Shot and Instantly Killed.

Yesterday noon it was reported here that N. P. Anderson had dropped dead, of heart disease, while working in the harvest field. Dr. Lewis was called to make an examination, at which it was found that Anderson had been shot, the ball entering the left shoulder and coming out under and through the lower part of the right shoulder blade.

His little daughter had just taken him a lunch, and was on her way back to the house, when she heard the report of a gun. His wife, also, was outside of the house and heard the shot. One of the neighbors saw smoke in the direction from which the shot was afterward supposed to have been fired. On examination, tracks were found leading to a stump, about 16 rods distant and somewhat elevated from where Anderson fell. These tracks were followed back into a swamp, and are easily identified. Sheriff Bordan was sent for, but being out of town, it was nearly five o'clock when he arrived.

Suspicion rests on Thos. Smith, and the papers are issued for his arrest, but when the sheriff visited the house he was not to be found. It is currently reported that Smith threatened to shoot Anderson, who was highway commissioner, on account of differences growing out of some road matter, and John Ward and Wm. Black have also been threatened for the same cause. As a consequence, the feeling against him is intense, and if he is found to-day it is doubtful if enough would be left of him for the officers to deal with.

Shipments.

Aug. 13—Schr. Radical, 100 cords bark, J. B. Barnes, to Chicago.

12—Schr. Sea Gem, 88 cords bark, 10 cords wood, O. J. Smith, to Milwaukee.

13—Schr. Helen Pratt, 110 cords wood, 110 cords bark, Perkins to Chicago.

13—Schr. George E. Marsh, 97 cords wood, 125 cords bark, Wm. Downer, to Chicago.

13—Schr. E. E. Blake, 200 cords bark, Upright & Emrey to Chicago.

15—Prop. Fabrius Sawyer, 120 cords wood, 200 cords bark, W. H. Downer, to Chicago.

15—Schr. Rockingbird, 1,200 cedar ties, Upright & Emrey, Racine.

14—A. J. Mowatt, 124 cords bark, 80 cords wood, W. H. Horn to Chicago.

16—Schr. Fort Burgess, 100 cords wood, O. Oberg, to Milwaukee.

16—Schr. Sheridan, 115,000 feet hard wood Lumber, Bear Lake Lumber Co., to Sheboygan.

16—Scow, Otter, 40 cords wood, 100 cords bark, French & Sutton, to Kenosha.

16—Prop. H. Fauly, 154 cords wood, A. E. Johnston, to Milwaukee.

16—Scow, John L. Green, 76 cords wood, N. P. Peterson to Milwaukee.

The following is a summary of the shipments from the port of Charlevoix for the week ending Wednesday evening, and for the corresponding week of last:

	1886.	1886.
Hardwood lumber, feet	96,000	110,000
Railroad ties		9,500
Cedar ties	140	177
Bark, cords	978	1,400
Fresh fish, pounds		5,800

M. E. Church.

Next Sunday the last quarterly meeting of this year, Rev. W. H. Stinchcomb will preach Saturday evening, and Sunday morning, and Rev. Adam Clark, will preach Sunday evening.

A Card.

Mr. and Mrs. I. S. Wonder, and Mr. Morse Long return their sincere thanks to their kind neighbors and friends for their kindness and sympathy in their recent affliction.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The Best Salve in the world for cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Dr. G. W. Crouter.

Wonderful Cures.

Dr. G. W. Crouter, retail druggist of Charlevoix, Mich., says: We have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery, Electric Bitters and Bucklen's Arnica Salve for six years. Have never handled remedies that sell as well, or give such universal satisfaction. There have been some wonderful cures effected by these medicines in this city. Several cases of protracted consumption have been entirely cured by use of a few bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery, taken in connection with Electric Bitters. We guarantee them always. Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter.

CHARLEVOIX
Savings Bank

Organized under the General Banking Law of the State of Michigan.

Henry Bennett, President.
John Nicholls, Vice President.
F. A. Smith, Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

Henry Bennett, O. D. Wood.
John Nicholls, A. Bustard.
A. R. Upright, A. Fox.
F. A. Smith.

CAPITAL, $25,000
Surplus, 2,000

The liabilities of Stockholders in all State Banks and Trust Companies, are doubled for the security of the depositors of Michigan, in consideration of stock taken, making a guaranteed capital and security to depositors. Superior facilities for the transaction of every description of banking business. Interest allowed on time deposits. Drafts on Boston or Europe, and exchange on towns in Germany, for sale at current rates.

Drafts drawn direct on the leading commercial cities of the world in large or small amounts, payable at our approved paper. Exchange bought and sold. Certificates of deposit issued bearing interest.

We respectfully solicit your patronage.

CORRESPONDENTS:

NATIONAL PARK BANK, NEW YORK.
COMMERCIAL NATIONAL, CHICAGO.
NATIONAL CITY BANK, CHICAGO.
DETROIT NATIONAL BANK, DETROIT.

DRY GOODS!

We offer for the next few days Great Bargains in all

----SUMMER DRESS GOODS----

Shawls, White Goods, Parasols, Silk and Thread Gloves, Hosiery, Straw Hats, etc.

NEW LINE OF BROADHEAD DRESS GOODS, Just received and marked at very low prices.

Jersey and Boucle Jackets, Very Cheap.

Staple & Fancy Groceries,

In great variety and at correct prices. The finest line of

Teas, Coffees, Spices.

PLANTATION JAVA COFFEE. - BEST IN THE WORLD.

Farmers will consult their own interests in buying our FACTORY-FILLED DAIRY SLT.

J. L. HURD & CO.

WE MUST

DISPOSE OF THEM!!

Our Large Stock of SUMMER GOODS will have to be sold at any price. Large invoices of Fall and Winter Goods are on the way, and we must have the room.

Clothing, Hats, Caps and Flannel Shirts at Great Bargains.

☞ CALL AND SEE US ☜

ROSENTHAL & SON.

Something New. More Light.

The Rochester double and triple Burner makes the Whitest and Best Light known.

THE Sherwin William's PAINTS.

Stoves, Hardware, Tinware, Notions, Fishing Tackle. The "double action easy Force Pump." Job and Tin Work

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW & CO.

The Above Eyeglass invented by the Johnston Optical Co., of Detroit, Mich., combines the best features of all others.

1st. The frames can be spaced far enough away that the eyeglasses will not touch them, a thing all others do not do, and hence other eyeglasses.

2d. The guards are so set as to clasp the nose back under eyebrows which prevents slipping and falling off.

3d. Above measure is on the fleshy part of the nose which is much softer which prevents irritation.

4th. The lever features insure its perfect adjustment to the nose whether it be high or low.

5th. The levers are set at right angles to line of vision.

6th. Lens can be worn safely with hot or cold or drafts as there is no danger of falling off.

7th. We warrant them to be the easiest eyeglass in the market.

C. R. BILLINGER,
Optician and Jeweler, Charlevoix, Mich.

MISS L. SPAULDING.

MILLINERY

and Fancy Goods.

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

New Grocery!

Cor. Antrim and Grant Streets.

A. J. MUDGE

Would respectfully announce to the people of Charlevoix and vicinity, especially to the residents of the southwestern part of town, that he is coming in from the south, that he has opened a stock of Groceries in his building on the corner of Antrim and Grant streets, and requests all to give him a trial.

BUTTER AND EGGS WANTED

Charlevoix Manufacturing Company,

MANUFACTURERS OF

Sash, Doors, and Blinds,

Newell Posts, Balusters, Mouldings and Mouldings of all Descriptions.

Scroll Work and Window Frames.

FINE AND COMMON LUMBER.

Also Contractors, Builders and Dealers in Sash, Doors and Blinds, Flooring, Ceiling, Siding, Shingles, Lath, Pickets, Posts, Sash and Hard Wood.

A GOOD STOCK OF DRY LUMBER ALWAYS ON HAND.

Summer Cottages a Specialty.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

LEAVE YOUR ORDERS FOR

JOB WORK

AT THIS OFFICE.

Owing to Special Rates in Photographic Stock, I will continue to make Cabinet Photographs at $4.00 per Dozen Until further notice.

Dave Bradbeer,
Photographer,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

Democratic Congressional Convention.

The Democratic electors of the Ninth Congressional District of Michigan are hereby notified that a convention will be held at Hoop's HALL IN THE CITY OF BIG RAPIDS, ON WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, AT 10 O'CLOCK, A. M., for the purpose of putting in nomination a candidate for Congress from the Ninth Congressional District, and the transaction of any other business that may properly come before said convention. On the basis of one delegate for each 300 votes cast for Governor at the last general election, and one for every fraction of not less than 100 votes, the various counties comprising the said Congressional District will be entitled to representation as follows:

	Votes cast.	No. of Delegates
Antrim	1623	5
Charlevoix	1018	4
Kalkaska	1025	3
Lake	1016	3
Manistee	2305	7
Mason	2582	8
Mecosta	1891	6
Muskegon	4759	12
Newaygo	4229	11
Oceola	2324	7
Wexford	1665	5
Wyoming	2255	5
Total		76

WM. P. NISBETT, Chairman Dem. Co. Ctte.
H. J. HOPP, Secy.
GEO. GOODSELL, Mg'r.
DAVID S. SOPER, Newaygo.
LOU. E. MORRIS, Manistee.
JOHN H. SAYWARD, Antrim.
Democratic Congl. Com.

Greenback County Convention.

The greenback county convention to nominate candidates for county officers will be held at Lewis hall in Boyne City, on Tuesday, Sept. 7, 1886, at 10 o'clock a. m., also to re-organize the county committee and to the basis of representation for future conventions, and elect delegates to the congressional senatorial and representative conventions yet to be held this year. The several townships in the county will be entitled to the following number of delegates:

Bear Lake, 2; Boyne Valley 2; Charlevoix, 2; Chatfield, 2; Evangeline, 2; Eveline, 3; Hayes, 3; Hudson, 2; Marion, 2; Melrose, 2; Norwood, 2; Resort, 2; South Arm, 2; Springvale, 2; Wilson, 2.

By order of committee.

T. J. HILL, Chairman.
E. H. SHEPARD, Secretary.
Dated Aug. 5, 1886.

Greenback Caucus.

There will be a caucus at Murray school house Aug 28, at 2 o'clock, p. m., to elect delegates to county convention at Boyne City, Sept. 7, at 10 o'clock a. m.

By order of committee.

YAPLE FOR GOVERNOR.

The state convention yesterday at Grand Rapids named Geo. L. Yaple of Mendon, for governor; Solomon L. Curry, of Ishpeming, for lieutenant governor; Col. Farrar, of Macomb, for auditor general; P. B. Wachtel, of Potosky, for secretary of state; Bayard, of Bay City, for state treasurer; W. D. Fuller, of Newaygo, for commissioner of the state land office; and David Parsons of Detroit, for superintendent of public instruction. The balance of the ticket we have not received. Fusion was accomplished in a most satisfactory manner. The resolutions were adopted amid great enthusiasm.

Democratic County Convention.

At the county convention held at the village hall last Friday, S. G. Inman was made chairman, and C. J. Grier secretary. The following were elected as delegates to the respective conventions.

To the state convention at Grand Rapids—A. D. Gruickshank, J. Mile Eaton, R. F. Ingalls, and D. B. Jerrue.

To the congressional convention at Big Rapids—Chas. J. Strang, S. G. Inman, L. D. Bartholomew, and Howard Finnigan.

To the senatorial convention—A. E. Martin, E. C. Pinttenger, and F. J. Smith.

To the representative convention—C. J. Grier, Pat. Walsh, Frank Hartlack, Fred Wilson, A. S. Noyes, A. A. Watkins, and O. D. Hilton.

A committee of five, consisting of J. Mile Eaton, A. D. Gruickshank, R. F. Ingalls, D. B. Jerrue, and F. J. Smith, was appointed to confer with the greenback county committee with reference to a basis of fusion on the county ticket this fall.

The convention then adjourned.

NOTES AND NEWS.

Gen. B. M. Cutcheon was re-nominated by acclamation for another term in congress by the convention at Reed City last Friday.

The republicans of the ninth congressional district have renominated Mr. Cutcheon but they will find it a different thing when they attempt to elect him. The democrats and laboring men will have something to say about that.—Kalamazoo Gazette.

Frank Conger, postmaster at Washington and son of Senator Conger, has been playing the role of the "offensive partisan" and it is said that President Cleveland has decided that his official head must come off in consequence. Frank has been utilizing his spare hours from manipulating the mails to writing letters to various Michigan republicansin favor of his father's re-election as United States senator. A good democrat will manage the Washington post office just as judiciously and in better accord with the policy of the administration.—Kalamazoo Gazette.

Mr. Tilden's ingrained public spirit and kindness of disposition were both illustrated by his legacies. After providing for those of his own household, he gave the rest to mankind. And he gave it in no obstinate, opinionated temper, tying it up in hard knots of legal red tape, limiting, if not destroying, its usefulness by iron-clad conditions. He left it free to be dispensed in accordance with the best judgment of his friends and trustees, only indicating in a general way the channels through which he would be pleased to have his bounty flow. He thus left behind him proofs of a generous heart and a liberal, reasonable mind.—Free Press.

Nearly all the Republican speakers and campaign managers are rushing to the rescue of Maine. Maine is Blaine's own state, and, of course, must be saved at all hazards. But the confession that Blaine's own state is in danger and in need of salvation is a curious one for the party leaders to make. To save it by such tremendous exertions is but one remove from losing it. Indeed, there is more than in losing it. For if lost without all this fuss its loss could be charged up to apathy, "off years," etc. But if it is lost in spite of the very pride of the republican party the loss will be a tragedy like the last charge of the Old Guard at Waterloo.—Free Press.

It will scarcely do to jump to the conclusion that the president's vetoes of private pension bills are going to furnish good grounds for making republican capital in the elections. It must be remembered that he does not veto all these bills, nor even half nor a quarter of them, but only such ones as he thinks he has good grounds for vetoing. If he makes mistakes, and vetoes such as really ought to have passed, an issue can be made against him on these. But it is not at all certain that the great body of the people will condemn a disposition to cut down the too prevalent extravagance of congress in voting away the king's money, especially in private bills.—Lansing Republican.

Mr. H. D. Pugh has been appointed postmaster at Lansing in place of Geo. P. Sanford, resigned by the senate. Mr. Pugh has always been a democrat faithful to the principles of his party and energetic in laboring for its welfare. As secretary of the state central committee his counsels promoted concord and his good work helped to secure victory. His capacity has been tried in such important offices as county clerk of Ingham county, clerk of the supreme court, commissioner of insurance, all of which he filled well, ably. We fear, however, that the rejection of Mr. Sanford will re open a local political quarrel that has had a bad effect on the democracy of that congressional district, if not the whole state.

STORE OF SENATORS.

The morning newspapers of Portsmouth, contain numerous accounts of bills and ordinary sons of Tuscan families who congregate in this city. Young Morgan, the son of the volunteer Aide-de-Camp, was drawn here, so many others are, by the fame's trollop, and found a lucrative employment in helping his father in his sale and sale. It will be remembered that a few years ago he was made the target of a woman's pen, she claiming that he was the father of her illegitimate child. The scandal blew over, however, a Prince being found for the women in one of the tenements. Morgan seems to claim in the coming season of his career, and it may perhaps be said of him that nothing in his life become him like the leaving it. As I have said, he was one of a rather unfortunate family, and is not to be held responsible for the sins of distinguished sires. In it is very much like misfortune. Several times was probably never in any way dwells a moment on his subject. There is Mr. Yeomans' son, for instance, who loitered about Washington in his father's stead. Senator Blaine has a son here who is a very Conservative specimen. Senator Yeomans' son does a little in art and is industrious. Senator now has Gary, Garfield's son is a quiet young man, who is not an attempt to trade on his father's reputation. Kelly, Mr. Lincoln's son, is a fine young man. In some of the cases named does the father's talent seem to have been transmitted to the offspring.—Washington Telegram.

A Canadian Excursion Steamer in Trouble at Mackinac.

MACKINAC ISLAND, August 16.—The Canadian excursion steamer Frances Smith was seized to-day as she lay moored at the dock with her weekly excursion from Collingwood by Collector Watson, of Grand Haven. The last two trips of the boat she neglected to go to St. Ignace and take out her papers before clearing, so to-day, as she was expected, the Collector and Deputy Warren, of St. Ignace, were on hand and took charge of her, removed her engine bars and put her in charge of two marshalls. The Canadians are badly worked up over the affair and the passengers take another boat for home to-morrow.

The excuse of the captain and clerk was that under the former Collectors they were not compelled to obey the strict letter of the law.

Partyism in the United states.

The ways of politicians are as freaky and undecipherable as are the ways of women. Before the state department had time to move in the matter of the Mexican implacaninnies Republican Congressmen and Republican journalists were hot for a rigorous accounting even if war were to follow. But the moment it became apparent that the administration was in deadly earnest the republican ardor cooled. The shout now goes forth from the opposition that it is best to go slow, and unseemly to browbeat a weak sister.—Philadelphia Record.

Mr. Longfellow's first salary as a professor at Bowdoin college was $800, and the corporation at first declined to dignity the position with any higher title than that of instructor. When he was called to Harvard university, it was at a salary of $1,500. He wrote his first poem at 14, and there was not much in it to indicate poverty, or to afford premonition of the future that was afterward realized. Bryant, it will be remembered, wrote "Thanatopsis" when he was 18 years old, and it is doubtful if he ever excelled it in his older work. Longfellow had an extraordinary preparation for his duties as professor, having passed three years in Europe before he took his place at Bowdoin, and two more in the same travel before he assumed his duties at Harvard. He was 22 years of age when he accepted the first of these positions, and 28 when he entered upon the other.

Active, Pushing and Reliable.

Dr. G. W. Crosier can always be relied upon to carry in stock the purest and best goods, and by the reputation he is being active, pushing, and reliable, by recommending articles that will establish merit and such as are popular. Having handled Electric Bitters, King's New Discovery for consumption, colds and coughs, we will sell it on a positive guarantee. It will surely cure any and every affection of throat, lungs, or chest, and in order to prove our claim, we ask you to call and get a trial bottle free.

Don't fill the system with quinine, to prevent or cure fever and ague. Ayer's Ague Cure is a specific for this disease, and leaves no poisons to produce dizziness, deafness, headache, or other disorders.

The First Sign

Of failing health, whether in the form of Slight Sore and Sorenessss, or in a sense of General Weariness and Loss of Appetite, should suggest the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This preparation is most effective for giving tone and strength to the enfeebled system, promoting the digestion and assimilation of food, restoring the nervous forces to their normal condition, and for purifying, invigorating, and vitalizing the blood.

Failing Health.

Ten years ago my health began to fail. I was troubled with Catarrhal Coughs, Night Sweats, Weakness, and Nervous ness. I tried various remedies, and prescribed by different physicians, but grew more weak that I could not go up stairs without stopping to rest. My friends recommended me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which I did, and I am now well and as strong as ever.—Mrs. E. L. Williams, Lynn, Mass.

I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla, in my family, for Scrofula, and know, if it is taken faithfully, that it will thoroughly eradicate this terrible disease. I have also prescribed it as a tonic, as well as an alterative, and must say that I honestly believe it to be the best blood medicine ever compounded.—W. F. Fowler, D. D. S., M. D., Greenville, Tenn.

Dyspepsia Cured.

It would be hopeless for me to describe what I suffered from Indigestion and Headache up to the time I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was under the care of various physicians and tried a great many kinds of medicine, but never obtained more than temporary relief. After taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla for a short time, my headache disappeared, and my stomach performed its duties more satisfactorily. Today my health is completely restored.—Mary Harley, Springfield, Mass.

I have been greatly benefited by the prompt use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It tones and invigorates the system, regulates the action of the digestive and secretive organs, and vitalizes the blood. It is, without doubt, the most reliable blood purifier yet discovered.—H. D. Johnson, 88 Atlantic ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

GOLD Bottle are genuine, but those who settle in Kansas City, Portland, Maine, will receive a gold dollar for the cork of any bottle of Ayer's Pills they may purchase of their druggist. Ayer's Pills are the best family cathartic. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is the best cough medicine. Ayer's Hair Vigor restores gray hair to its youthful color. Ayer's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood. These medicines are sold everywhere. Use no other. Some druggists may try to palm off inferior articles on you for the sake of a little extra profit. Let such go. Ask for Ayer's and take no other.

The Circus

Commences Next Week.

I am going to receive a large invoice of CLOTHING, bought from one of the leading houses in Rochester, N. Y., which I am going to sell at Prices that will draw me trade from all around the county.

I think the best advertisement a merchant can have is to have his goods advertise him in Good Fits and Prices that cannot be beat.

GEO. W. MILLER.

Summer

T

We have just received a as are much desirable as plain and figured Nainsoo ending wash fabrics.

We have also lately sel wear, infants' robes, chem The Peerless woven w manufactured.

Our glove stock is being of plain and undressed k Our trimmings comprise and broende velvets, jet tr Our linen department is bright goods, prints, and g Call and get our Aug gains.

F. W.

PER

DRUGGIST

OPERA BL

HENR

Und

CHAR

Coffins, Ca

Alv

Come and S

ALL ORDERS BY TE

Come and

BOOTS

FO

Furniture!

IN

Oak, Maple, Ash, and Cherry,

JUST RECEIVED BY THE

PINE LAKE IRON COMPANY

IRONTON, MICH.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., Aug. 19, 1886.

PRODUCE MARKET.

Hay, loose, per ton $12; baled, $18
Corn, per bu. 65c.
Oats, 35 to 36c.
Feed, per ton, $20.
Pork, $13 ₱ bbl, 7c ₱ lb.
Salt, ₱ bbl. $1.25.
Syrup, "Gold Medal," 50c ₱ gal.
Canned Tomatoes, 12c.
Canned Peaches, 15 to 20c.
Coffee, Java and Mocca, 35c.
Farmer's Produce at Upright & Emrey's.

UPRIGHT EMREY & Co.

☞ A splendid line of Boots and Shoes, for ladies and gents, boys, girls and misses. More on the road

☞ A magnificent lot of Dress Goods arrived recently, and we offer them at the very lowest figures.

☞ Hosiery in all styles a specialty, for both ladies and gents—best line in town.

☞ New Groceries received almost every day.

☞ Cloth Dinner and Tea Sets in Bohemian Ware at cost.

☞ If you want some Choice Butter go to Upright & Emrey's.

☞ Fresh Kalamazoo celery at Jefferies' market.

☞ Best fresh butter at Jefferies' market.

Local Notes and News.

New sidewalk in front of postoffice this week.

The recorders are beginning to skip homeward.

Notice the change in the advertisement of G. W. Crouter.

The reading room receives many compliments from resorters.

Miss Belle Scott has bought the entire stock of J. J. Kanagy & Son.

The receipts of J. S. Smithson's entertainment talk on "candies" amounted to $8.25.

We interfered with the Friant's excursion Sunday, and the attendance was light.

The new Silsby fire engine arrived Monday evening. It has not yet been tested.

Steve Bee's house, which he recently moved to Main street, has been repainted.

Frank Fox broke ground for a new residence on the lot adjoining Dr. Carleton's, Wednesday.

The Schubert club gave a fine concert to a good audience at the opera house Tuesday evening.

The steam barge John Pailey, of Milwaukee, arrived yesterday morn ing and went up Pine Lake.

F. W. Mayne is building a commodious residence on the north side of W. A. Brown's new house.

The North Star was hauled out for a new wheel and other repairs at Robinson's shipyard last Saturday.

C. Y. Cook and J. B. Meyker, have built a boat house on the upper front grounds near F. W. Wilcox's house.

John Litzan is preparing to move his harness shop to the north room of the Hall building, corner of Bridge and Antrim streets.

A regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held at the residence of Mrs. Mason, Friday, at 3 p. m. A full attendance is desired.

C. Peaslee, of Marion, while splitting wood Tuesday morning cut a gash in the hollow of his foot three inches long, cutting to the bone.

The tug D. Robertson, of Grand Haven, has been chartered temporarily to assure party making a tour of the Michigan lakes, was in port last Sunday.

Episcopal church services will be held hereafter in Oddfellows hall, services only in the morning on Sunday next, by Rev. Mr. Jones, of Kalamazoo.

The City of Grand Rapids arrived this morning at 9:30 having a government engineer party on board bound for Traverse City, under the auspices of the Lumbermen's cornet band.

Prof. S. J. Carter, of Chicago theological seminary will preach at Congregational church next Sunday morning. Subjects: "Our Domain," in the afternoon "Is it to be?"

The owner of a patent medicine, of New York, has recently contracted with a printer in an eastern city for supplying him with 40,000,000 copies of thirty-two pages, 100,000,000 circulars of four pages each. The price to be paid is $6,000.

Mrs. Jew S. W. Spencer's "evening with" at the M. E. church last evening was listened to by a large appreciative audience. Mrs Spencer is a good and pleasant voice, and her musical music strikes home to the hearts of the little girls won the admiration of the audience.

Rosenthal & Son have a new advertisement in this issue.

In the last Boyne Statesman P. A. Badour announces the sale of the office, business, and good will of the paper to Miley & Chapin, of Boyne. We understand that the name is to be changed by the new firm, and the new paper divorced as much as possible from the unsavory reputation of the old.

The Mancelona Herald saved a job press and a small amount of type from the fire, and has not missed an issue, although last week's paper was slightly reduced in size. In addition to a full description of the fire a cut showing the burned district was given. Flack wins, and Shasar has a full share.

The Chippewa County Democrat came to hand this week so changed that we could not recognize it. It is enlarged to a six column quarto, with an entire new dress of type—both body and display,—and printed on a new Chicago Taylor steam press. We congratulate Bro. Shisler on the evidence of his prosperity.

Mr. Isaac Stauffer, a prominent farmer at Carpenter, received an order from Kent county, for one of his fine "Shropshiredowns." He filled the order Tuesday morning, by shipping a 3 months old ram, weighing 90 pounds. He was a beauty! This speaks well for the sheep industry of Kent county.—Democrat.

In J. S. Smithson's talk on "Candies" at the Congregational church Monday evening, he illustrated almost every conceivable phase of human character as brought out in church work, and told the audience how each member should let their light shine to the advantage of themselves and the world. The house was well filled, though not crowded.

Yes, they have found a state deposit, but that by no means proves that there is no deposit of iron there. On the other hand it is one of the many indications of the presence of iron ore in the vicinity of Norwood. Basing our opinion upon the indications we believe ore exists in paying quantities and shall continue in that faith until the contrary is demonstrated.—Progress.

A handsome Silsby steam fire engine for the Charlevoix fire department went north on a G. R. & I freight train this morning. The engine was named "Charlevoix" and was accompanied with a very pretty horse cart upon which was reeled about five hundred feet of new cotton hose. The outfit was viewed with considerable interest by members of our city fire department and quite a number of our citizens.—Cadillac Express.

Now is the time to subscribe for the Charlevoix JOURNAL; religiously and politically it is the best paper in the county. The fall campaign is near at hand, and things are going to be warm, lively and interesting. If any of our subscribers know themselves to be in arrears on subscription, now is the time to pay up. We want all the dollars we can get. Let every democrat come to the front and do his whole duty. The whole country expects it of him.

There will be a union temperance service at the M. E. Church, on Sunday evening next, at the regular hour of service, held under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. Mrs. E. A. Bailey, of Hastings, President of the 3d District, will deliver the address of the evening. Mrs. Bailey is a sister of our townman Capt. Aldrich. This will be her first address in Charlevoix. She is in the foremost ranks among the W. C. T. U. women of Michigan, and never fails to please her audiences. Let all come and hear her.

The Sentinel seems to have satisfactory information that Charlevoix was included in the harbor appropriation bill. We hope the Sentinel is correct; but we have not seen the item in any report of the bill nor have met any person who has read it. Every person with whom we have talked in regard to it simply assumed that it was because it was in the original estimate and ought by right to be included. Until the proof is produced we shall believe that Charlevoix was omitted.

A student in the pharmacy department of the Michigan University wrote to a Kansas druggist about taking a place in his store as prescription clerk. This is what the druggist wrote back: "Dear Sir yours Received in Reply I will Give you a brief Discription of our business Perhaps you understand the nature of a drug store in kansas we Do some liquor business in a Rock Room. By the Drink our prescription trade Runs from two to three Thousand Pr year our soap clerk objects to the back Room trade Give you the facts in the case so that You will not be disapointed your board By the week will cost you from $3.50 to $8 a week now if you accept this position Answer by telegraph At once as i hired a clerk very bad At must have one as soon as possible."

Young, old, and middle aged, all experience the marked beneficial effects of Ayers Sarsaparilla. Young children suffering from sore eyes, sore ears, scald head, or with any scrofulous taint, become healthy and strong ? by the use of this medicine. Six bottles, $5.

COLD BLOODED MURDER.

N. P. Anderson, of Marion, Shot and Instantly Killed.

Yesterday noon it was reported here that N. P. Anderson had dropped dead, of heart disease, while working in the harvest field. Dr. Lewis was called to make an examination, at which it was found that Anderson had been shot, the ball entering the left shoulder and coming out under and through the lower part of the right shoulder blade.

His little daughter had just taken him a lunch, and was on her way back to the house, when she heard the report of a gun. His wife, also, was outside of the house and heard the shot. One of the neighbors saw smoke in the direction from which the shot was afterward supposed to have been fired. On examination, tracks were found leading to a stump, about 16 rods distant and somewhat elevated from where Anderson fell. These tracks were followed back into a swamp, and are easily identified. Sheriff Berlan was sent for, but being out of town, it was nearly five o'clock when he arrived.

Suspicion rests on Thos. Smith, and the papers are issued for his arrest, but when the sheriff visited the house he was not to be found. It is currently reported that Smith threatened to shoot Anderson, who was highway commissioner, on account of differences growing out of some road matter, and John Ward and Wm. Black have also been threatened for the same cause. As a consequence, the feeling against him is intense, and if he is found to-day it is doubtful if enough would be left of him for the officers to deal with.

Shipments.

AUG. 13—Schr. Radinal, 1m cords bark, J. E. Barnhart, to Chicago.
15—Schr. Sea Gem, 88 cords bark, 10 cords wood, O. J. Smith, to Milwaukee.
15—Schr. Helen Pratt, 110 cords wood, 110 cords bark, Perkins to Chicago.
15—Schr. George E. Morris, 97 cords wood, 125 cords bark, Wm. Bowers, to Chicago.
15—Schr. E. Blake, 230 cords bark, Upright & Emrey to Chicago.
15—Prop. Philetus Sawyer, 130 cords wood, 200 cords bark, W. H. Downer, to Chicago.
15—Schr. Mecklenberg, 3,500 cedar ties, Upright & Emrey, Racine.
15—A. J. Mowery, 120 cords bark, 80 cords wood, W. H. Horn to Chicago.
16—Schr. Burt Barnes, 100 cords wood, O. Olsen, to Milwaukee.
16—Schr. Sardinia, 110,000 feet hard wood lumber, Bear Lake Lumber Co., to Sheboygan.
16—Schr. Otter, 40 cords wood, 100 cords bark, French & Sutton, to Kenosha.
16—Prop. H. Purdy, 150 cords wood, A. E. Johnstone, to Milwaukee.
16—Schr. John L. Green, 70 cords wood, N. P. Peterson to Milwaukee.

The following is a summary of the shipments from the port of Charlevoix for the week ending Wednesday evening, and for our corresponding years of 1885:

	1886.	1885.
Hardwood lumber, feet	240,000	112,000
Railroad ties	110,000	110,000
Wood, cords	1,777	1,000
Bark, cords	978	1,100
Fresh fish, pounds		8,400

M. E. Church.

Next Sunday the last quarterly meeting of this year, Rev. W. H. Stuchcomb will preach Saturday evening, and Sunday morning, and Rev. Adam Clark, will preach Sunday evening.

A Card.

Mr. and Mrs. I. A. Webster, and Mr. Morrel Long return their sincere thanks to their kind neighbors and friends for their kindness and sympathy in their recent affliction.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The best Salve in the world for cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Dr. G. W. Crouter.

Wonderful Cures.

Dr. G. W. Crouter, retail druggist of Charlevoix, Mich., says: We have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery, Electric Bitters and Bucklen's Arnica Salve for six years. Have never handled remedies that sell as well, or give such universal satisfaction. There have been some wonderful cures effected by these medicines in this city. Several cases of pronounced consumption have been entirely cured by use of a few bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery, taken in connection with Electric Bitters. We guarantee them always. Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter.

CHARLEVOIX Savings Bank

Organized under the General Banking Law of the State of Michigan.

Henry Bennett, President.
John Nicholls, Vice President.
F. A. Smith, Cashier.

DIRECTORS.

Henry Bennett, O. D. Wood,
John Nicholls A. Buttars,
A. R. Upright, F. A. Smith. F. Fox.

CAPITAL, $25,000
Surplus, 5,000

The liabilities of Stockholders in all State banks as provided in Act. 278, Sec. 40 of Revised Statutes of the State of Michigan, is double, the amount of their stock, making a guarantee fund of $50,000 to depositors. Superior facilities for the transaction of a general banking business. Interest allowed on time deposits. Collections promptly made on terms as favorable as are consistent with safety.

Drafts drawn direct on the leading commercial cities of the world in large amounts. Money to loan on approved security. Exchange bought and sold. Certificates of deposit issued bearing interest.

We respectfully solicit your patronage.

CORRESPONDENTS.

NATIONAL PARK BANK.....NEW YORK.
COMMERCIAL NAT. BANK.....CHICAGO.
NATIONAL CITY BANK.....GRAND RAPIDS.
DETROIT NATIONAL BANK.....DETROIT.

DRY GOODS!

We offer for the next few days Great Bargains in all

----SUMMER DRESS GOODS----

Shawls, White Goods, Parasols, Silk and Thread Gloves, Hosiery, Straw Hats, etc.

NEW LINE OF BROADHEAD DRESS GOODS, Just received and marked at very low prices.

Jersey and Boucle Jackets, Very Cheap.

Staple & Fancy Groceries,

In great variety and at correct prices. The finest line of

Teas, Coffees, Spices.

PLANTATION JAVA COFFEE, - BEST IN THE WORLD.

Farmers will consult their own interests in buying our FACTORY-FILLED DAIRY SLT.

J. L. HURD & CO.

WE MUST DISPOSE OF THEM!!

Our Large Stock of SUMMER GOODS will have to be sold at any price. Large invoices of Fall and Winter Goods are on the way, and we must have the room.

Clothing, Hats, Caps and Flannel Shirts at Great Bargains.

☞ CALL AND SEE US ☜

ROSENTHAL & SON.

Something New. More Light.

The Rochester double and triple Burner makes the Whitest and Best Light known.

Sherwin William's PAINTS.

Stoves, Hardware, Tinware, Notions, Fishing Tackle. The "double action cony Force Pump." Job and Tin Work

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW & CO.

The above Eye-glass invented by the Johnston Optical Co., of Detroit, Mich., combines the following advantages:

1st. The frames can be placed far enough away that the eye-lashes will not touch them, a thing not always easy to do with other eye-glasses.

2d. The glasses are set so as to clasp the nose firmly, and prevent which prevents slipping and falling off.

3d. The pressure is on the fleshy part of the nose above the bone, which prevents irritation.

4th. The lever feature secures its perfect adjustment to the nose whether large or small.

5th. The lenses are set at right angles to line of vision.

6th. They can be worn safely without cord or chain as there is no danger of falling out.

7th. The frame is thought to be the easiest eye-glass in the market.

C. R. BELLINGER,
Optician and Jewelier, Charlevoix, Mich.

Charlevoix Manufacturing Company,

MANUFACTURERS OF

Sash, Doors, and Blinds,

Screen Doors and Windows, and Moldings of all Descriptions.

Norwell Feeds, Bauxite, and Shingle Nails. Kept in Stock and Made and Put Up to Order. Rough and Dressed Wood.

FINE AND COMMON LUMBER, SHINGLES, LATH, ALWAYS KEEPT IN STOCK.

Also Contractors, Builders, and General Jobbers.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

LEAVE YOUR ORDERS FOR

JOB WORK

AT THIS OFFICE.

MISS L. SPAULDING.

MILLINERY

and Fancy Goods.

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

New Grocery!

Cor. Antrim and Grant Streets.

A. J. MUDGE

Would respectfully announce to the people of Charlevoix and vicinity, especially to the residents of the southeastern part of town, and all coming in from the south, that he has opened a stock of Groceries on his building on the corner of Antrim and Grant streets, and respects all to give him a trial.

BUTTER AND EGGS WANTED

Owing to Special Rates in Photographic Stock, I will continue to make Cabinet Photographs at $4.00 per Dozen Until further notice.

Dave Bradbeer,
Photographer,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

AULD MEMORIES.

BY R. E. T.

Has you mile o' auld lang syne,
When U a slumber days were fine,
And the sun shone brighter far
Than he has ever done sin' syne?
I min' well the wee firm
Wha' we gaddled in the burn
Ah' wha' we did in the schule
On the noon.

Do ye min' the sunny breen
Wha' we gathered hips and sloes,
Wha' we fished in the pudd'ny lumber
A'wanting a rod o' cane,
Ay, for fear they wud be seen,
We gaed sneakin' home at even
And were licket for our pains,
Oh the noon.

What gleesome fun was there
Wi' our guaves o' hank and hare!
We played truant frae the schule
Because it was the fair.
We ran off to Paisley mill
And we were frightened for the bull,
And were frightened for the lass
On the noon.

Min' ye o' the miller's dam
Wha' we fished for minnows?
We said on the cruiers rich
And made their guns scream;
Then they chased us thro' the snaw
We took leg bail, sae sir a'?
But we did it ever again
On the noon.

Where are those bright hearts now,
That wun this min' sae leal and true?
Some has left life's troubled scene,
Some are yet struggling there,
Some are wanderers on life's sea,
Like a bairgie adrift
For they rose like the skylark
In the noon.

Now youth's sweet spring is past,
Life's autumn comes and is fast
Our summer day has passed aw',
Our winter comes fast
But, tho' long the night may seem,
We shall sleep wi' Mamma
Till we waken on the bright
Sabbath noon.

Nae temple we'll see there,
Nae in crook we may repair
To worship the Lord o Hosts,
Nae in the Sabbath
But we'll join the heavenly throng,
Ay, wi' voices sweet and strong,
We'll join the ever-enduring song
On yon morn.

Chicago, February, 1896.

A TRAVELING SALESMAN.

"Why, hello, Hammond! Turned up again."

"Yes, with you once more, Edelin. Not here on business this time, however; on the way back to New York."

He was a handsome and engaging fellow, this Harry Hammond, and his voice had a hearty freshness about it as he replied to the clerk in the office of the Mansion House, Baltimore, this crisp May evening on which our story opens.

For several years he had been one of the most valued travelers for the famous New York house of Smart & Main. He had finished Baltimore some weeks previous; had said good-by to the hotel clerk, with whom he had formed quite an acquaintance; and, on former occasions of the traveling season, Edelin (how many commercial travelers may readily recall that gentlemanly clerk's individuality!) had not expected to see him again for months.

Yet here was Hammond, sprung almost with the suddenness of a jack from a box, crisp in hand, and smilingly requesting:

"The same old room, Edelin, if it's vacant, please."

Something out of the usual course was transpiring within the life of the young traveler. He was of fine physique, manly countenance, affable manner, a fine conversationalist, without over-effuseness, 28 years of age, and—a bachelor. A well-kept man, too, was he, being a living example of the denial of the world's general opinion of men of his craft; for the opinion is unjustly popular that the commercial traveler is comprised, on an average, of mere mechanism, brass, foolish vanity, and dissolute attributes, selling by stereotyped persistency and obnoxious stupidousness, regarding the whole of a salary upon the Van Isalt, or dissipating whatever small balance there may be in riotous living along the road. The actual character, however, of this "average" should demand close study on the part of would-be censors. The profession involves a high order of intelligence, a superior quickness of perception, an essential keenness of business methods, a constantly proper care of person and morals, and a dignity in keeping with the commercial prominence of the firm they represent. Their contact with the world makes them a vast experience in men and methods, and the very roughness of the world imparts a polish of manner worthy of imitation by many who profess to be, but fall far short of, the title of gentlemen.

Many are the strange experiences that these working bees of the merchant hive tell!

But the most romantic of his own life was that which befell Hammond on his visit to the Mississippi City outlet in the season.

Among the merchants who had for some years brought regularly of Smart & Main was old Richard Girard, one of the "landmark" clothiers of Baltimore. Hammond was in favor with the old gentleman, and was acquainted with the handsome traveler at her father's immense establishment, who accustomed to greet him cordially whenever he came to the city.

Everyone must remember the extraordinary outlines of trade in the fall of '79, which was just the time that Hammond put in his appearance to take the merchant's order for the next season's stock.

He was requested to step into the private office at the rear, where Mr. Girard then was. But in a small ante-room he paused involuntarily, for a remarkable exclamation came to his ears in the voice of the beautiful Laura. She was evidently at her dressing her father, and her voice was almost sobbing:

"Dear father," she said, brokenly, "strive to bear up. Perhaps you are dissipating too much. This may be but a passing apprehension of yours—"

"No, no," interrupted his tremulous voice; "I fear it is already known on the street that I am on the verge of bankruptcy. I cannot see my way. Matters are indeed dark for me—. But there! I am sick at heart. I shall go home. I must have air." And abruptly he hurried forth to the street, without so much as noticing Hammond, who stood almost on the threshold.

"Miss Girard!"

He took a softly upon her as she stood there, sweeping silently.

"Mr. Hammond!" she exclaimed, startledly.

He quickly caused the door behind him, then for one instant regarded her without saying a word. He had always deemed her beautiful, but never was she so beautiful as now; pale in her sorrow and with the stain of tears upon her dark cheeks. Then he mastered the warm emotion of love that possessed him, and said:

"Pardon my intrusion, please; I had called to see your father. I regret that I have accidentally trespassed upon some private family grievance. I shall call again."

He bowed and left her. He hadn't, she might have been in his heart to say, he left it unsaid.

Straight to the Superintendent he went, and was hastily greeted:

"Ah, Hammond! We've been waiting for you. See!" and he produced a long list from an official-looking envelope.

"Just ready for me, boy? My samples came on ahead all right, then?"

"Yes, but Mr. Girard has ordered me to hold the list back—"

"Oh, that is all right. Let me have it. I have seen Mr. Girard."

(This was not altogether a fib!)

Obtaining the order list, he returned to his hotel. There was a letter awaiting him from Smart & Main. It inquired particularly about Richard Girard, who, the rumor from the agencies said, was not sound.

Hastily he telegraphed to the firm:

"O. K. My word for it."

In a letter to the firm he inclosed Girard's order list.

It was then near 2 o'clock p. m. At 6 he must leave for Western Pennsylvania, then toward Chicago.

Thousands of Laura Girard were haunting him. He resolved to attempt an interview with the beautiful girl before his departure, and his chance he readily divined.

Laura was "at home" to him when he called at the merchant's residence.

"Miss Girard, a second time I must beg of you to pardon my intrusion. But I have been this evening, and before I go, I have something to say that must be spoken. I was an unintentional listener to what passed in your father's office to-day. I know why your father gave up his wholesale business. I know why he is now in debt. I was an unintentional listener to what passed in your father's office to-day. I know why your father gave up his wholesale business. I know why he is now in debt. I know why he is now in debt. I know why he is now in debt

FINE WRITING PAPERS, ENVELOPES, CRAYON TABLES, RULED AND UNRULED

SCHOOL BOOKS and SCHOOL SUPPLIES!

☞ If you want to save money, buy of

G. W. Crouter, Druggist.

Temperance Column.

Conducted by a Committee of the W. C. T. U.

OFFICERS.

President—Mrs. G. W. Jefferies.
First Lady Vice President—Mrs. C. F. Cook.
Second Vice President—Mrs. L. E. Madge.
Third Vice President—Mrs. H. Sullivan.
Recording Secretary—Miss Julia Mason.
Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. L. E. Allen.
Treasurer—Mrs. C. J. Strang.

Department of Gospel Work for Lumbermen's Employes.

ERMA GREENGRASS,
Department Secretary.

Manistee, Mich., July, 1886.

To the Middle Ages.

In those old days it was possible for a woman to purchase a royal license to marry "whom she would," always granted with the proviso that it was not to be one of the King's enemies. Widows very often had recourse to this generous, maidenly mode rarely. With the former it might denote either an attachment to some particular person or a vow dooms not to be forced into re-marriage, but a spinster who was not a nun was never heard of in the Middle Ages. There were a very few old bachelors—rare phenomena—but an old maid was never seen outside the cloister. The nearest approach to it was in the case of a few ladies difficult to please, who delayed marriage until middle age was reached. It was rarely that this could be the case, since they were seldom allowed to please themselves. The color which was pretty certain not to be worn at a wedding was white, for white was the despised possible mourning, and was worn by widows immediately after bereavement. Medieval education was a very different thing to that of the present day. Among the higher classes both sons and daughters were sent into the service of a gentleman or lady, and educated in the necessary duties of gentle people. Why they were not taught at home is not quite clear; probably it was a better discipline to accustom yet stranger guardians'ship. A girl was expected to be perfect in housewifery, medicine, and some slight surgery. If fortunately placed, needlework, etc., sufficiently to read and write, also. The boys were trained in warlike arts, to ride, to shoot, etc.; most frequently the reading and writing were omitted in their case. Royal personages were obliged to study both reading and writing, and the royal signatures are interesting and often characteristic. Henry VIII.'s hand is very characteristic; doubtless, as Isaac Disraeli has said of him, "the split many a good pen." Mary wrote a pretty Italian hand, but rather sprawling and irregular. Queen could any lady write a more beautiful hand than her early Italian one of Elizabeth; and I hope no lady ever wrote any uglier than the horrible scrawl of her queenly years. The food, cookery, and medicine of the Middle Ages were also in a very bad state; they were most elaborate and astounding concoctions, with a emphasis on the last degree. Only iron constitutions, it would seem, could sustain such fearful admixtures of indigestible and unlikely food, yet our forefathers and mothers throve and grew lusty upon them.

Books Received.

Michigan Agricultural College annual catalogue, 1885-6.

☞ The Gospel News, the great western religious paper, will, in its issue of August 26th, devote a double page to the religious or spiritual, who expressed the prize in the civil war, by recently at Toronto. The man will be above in full regalia, and a picture of Harriet Douglass, the supreme chancellor of the order and grand commander of the uniformed divisions, will accompany the reader. Every subject of prize should get a copy of this edition.

☞ The September number of Demorest's Magazine is replete with interesting and instructive reading. Among the articles worthy of note are "Thirty Years in Journalism," by Jenny Jones; "The War of the Rose Poets on the People," by N. Jerusalem (humorous); "Your Friends in Charleston," Madame La Chaise, Her Hero Husband and Her Home," and "A Night Refuge in Paris." Mrs. Hall's serial increases in interest, and "The World's Progress" is highly suggestive. The other features of this popular magazine entitle it to a welcome in every household. The frontispiece is a beautiful oil picture of a charming child.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Whereas, default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made and dated on the 4th day of November in the year A. D. one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four, and executed by Mary Ann Hall, of the Village of Charlevoix, county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, which said mortgage was recorded in the office of the register of deeds of Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 5th day of November, 1884, in liber 2 of mortgages on page 68, and said mortgage having elected to consider the whole amount due secured by said mortgage, the amount claimed to be due at the date of this notice is the sum of one hundred and ninety-three dollars, principal and interest, and the further sum of thirty-five dollars as an attorney's fee, stipulated for in said mortgage, and no suit at law or in equity having been brought to recover the debt so secured or any part thereof, now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and in pursuance of the statute, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by sale of the premises therein described, at public auction, to the highest bidder at the front door of the house where the circuit court for the county of Charlevoix is now held, in the village of Boyne City, Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 6th day of September, 1886, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon. The premises are described in said mortgage as follows: All that certain piece or parcel of land situated in the township of Evangeline, county of Charlevoix and state of Michigan, and described as follows, viz: All the south west quarter (¼), section one (1), township thirty-four (34) north, range nine (9) west, containing twenty-two and four-tenths acres of land, more or less, except 10 rods in the north side of said quarter section above described.

Dated, June 26, A. D. 1886.

ELLEN U. KIRKLAND,
Mortgagee.

PALMBORE & CONLEY,
Attorneys for Mortgagee.
Petoskey, Michigan.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default has been made in the payment of the interest money secured by a mortgage dated the 26th day of October, 1881, executed by Thomas Duffy and Laura J. Duffy, his wife, to Elon U. Fairchild, which said mortgage was recorded in the office of the register of deeds of Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 27th day of October, 1881, in liber 2 of mortgages on page 68. And the said mortgage having elected to consider the whole amount due secured by said mortgage, the amount claimed to be due at the date of this notice is the sum of one hundred and ninety-three dollars, principal and interest, and the further sum of thirty-five dollars as an attorney's fee, stipulated for in said mortgage, and no suit at law or in equity having been brought to recover the debt so secured or any part thereof, now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and in pursuance of the statute, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by sale of the premises therein described, at public auction, to the highest bidder at the front door of the house where the circuit court for the county of Charlevoix is now held, in the village of Boyne City, Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 6th day of September, 1886, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon. The premises are described in said mortgage as follows: All that certain piece or parcel of land situated in the township of Evangeline, county of Charlevoix and state of Michigan, and described as follows, viz: All the south west quarter (¼), section one (1), township thirty-four (34) north, range nine (9) west, except twenty (20) rods in the north side of said quarter section above described.

Dated, June 26, A. D. 1886.

ELLEN U. KIRKLAND,
Mortgagee.

PALMBORE & CONLEY,
Attorneys for Mortgagee.
Petoskey, Michigan.

Detroit, Mackinac & Marquette Railroad.

"Mackinaw Short Line."

Only direct route between the East and South and the Upper Peninsula of Michigan.

Time Table taking effect June 13, 1886.

GOING WEST Read down.			STATIONS.	GOING EAST. Read up.
A. M.	P. M.			P. M.	A. M.
9 00	6 00		Detroit..	9 00
P. M.	P. M.			A. M.	A. M.
10 30	6 50		St. Ignace..	8 20	4 15
2 00	9 40		Gaylord..	4 50	11 00
2 56	9 40		Bay View..	3 55	11 38
3 10	10 00		Petoskey..	3 40	11 55
5 28	11 25		Au Train..	2 25	11 06
6 30	12 40		Marquette..	1 20	10 00
A. M.	P. M.			P. M.	P. M.
11 00	7 00		Marquette..	12 45	5 00
1 50	1 45		Ishpeming..	12 45	3 20
	2 45		Lake View..	12 15
	3 00		Houghton..	9 30
	6 35		Calumet..	8 00

Mixed train leaves St. Ignace at 7:00 a. m., arrives at Marquette at 6:00 p. m. Leaves Marquette at 7:00 a. m., arrives St. Ignace 6:00 p. m.

CONNECTIONS:

At Gaylord, with Mackinaw Division for Alpena and Grand Rapids. At Bay View, connects with steamers for Mackinaw City and Cheboygan. At Petoskey, with Lake Michigan and Lake Superior Division, for Harbor Springs, Charlevoix, Traverse City, Leland, Frankfort, Elberta, Manistee, Ludington, Grand Haven and Milwaukee. At Au Train, with Chicago and Northwestern Railway. At Marquette, with Lake Superior Division of Chicago and Northwestern Railway. At Ishpeming and Negaunee, with Ishpeming and Northern Railway. At Lake View, with Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic Railway. At Houghton and Hancock, with Mineral Range Railway. At Calumet, with Calumet and Hecla Mining Railway.

A. ALLEN, Gen'l Pass. & Ticket Agt.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Table in effect January, 1886.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5
		A. M.	P. M.
Cincinnati, Lv		7 35am	5 20
Fort Wayne, ar	6 40pm	12 05n	9 50
Fort Wayne, lv		4 40	9 55
Kendallville..		5 14	10 29
Kalamazoo, lv		9 00	2 00am
Otsego..		9 30	2 30
Otsego, lv	7 00am	9 35	2 35
Allegan..	7 35	10 05am	3 05
Plainwell..	7 45	10 15	3 15
Big Rapids..	9 10	11 45	4 45
Reed City, ar	9 55	12 30pm	5 30
Reed City, lv		2 45	7 30
Cadillac, ar	11 00	3 45	8 35
Walton, ar	11 45	4 30	9 20
Walton, lv	11 45am	4 40	9 25
Kalkaska..		5 20	10 05
Grayling..		6 05	10 50
Bowne Falls		6 40	11 20
Vanderbilt..		7 05	11 45
Harbor Springs		8 00	1 10
Mackinaw City		9 30pm	2 50

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6
		A. M.	P. M.
Mackinaw City		7 00am	3 00pm
Harbor Springs		8 35
Petoskey, lv		8 55	11 15
Bay View..		9 05	11 25
Walloon Lake		10 21	12 34am
Walloon..		10 30	12 40
Kalkaska..		11 05	1 15
Grayling..		11 45	1 55
Cadillac, ar		12 40pm	2 45am
Cadillac, lv		12 45	2 50
Reed City, ar		1 30	3 35
Reed City, lv		2 00	4 05
Big Rapids..	7 15am	2 45	4 50
Plainwell..	8 05	3 35	5 40
Otsego..	8 15	3 45	5 50
Otsego, lv	8 20am	3 50	5 55pm
Allegan..	8 50	4 20	6 25
Kalamazoo, lv	9 45	5 15	7 20
Kendallville..		8 40	10 45
Fort Wayne, ar		9 20	11 25
Fort Wayne, lv	1 00pm	11 40am	11 40pm
Cincinnati, ar	6 40	7 35	7 35am

C. L. LOCKWOOD, G. P. A.,
Grand Rapids, Mich.

THE LIGHT RUNNING

NEW HOME

SIMPLE · STRONG · SWIFT · QUIET · SURE

SEWING MACHINE

HAS NO EQUAL.

PERFECT SATISFACTION

New Home Sewing Machine Co.

ORANGE, MASS.

30 Union Square, N. Y. Chicago, Ill. St. Louis, Mo. Atlanta, Ga. Dallas, Tex. San Francisco, Cal.

FOR SALE BY

E. N. CLINK, East Jordan.

DE LAND & CO'S

CAP SAL AF ERATUS

SODA

For Baking Purposes.

Best in the World.

Sold by Upright & Emrey.

STAUFFER'S BROADCAST

Hand-Seeder.

This new invention possesses many qualities peculiarly adapted to the wants of this vicinity.

TEN REASONS:

1. It sows the roughest or smoothest seeds.
2. It sows evenly all kinds of grain and seeds, large and small. Wheat, barley, clover, timothy, rutabaga, etc.
3. It sows any desired quantity. One-fourth pound of rutabaga seed can be spread over an area of ground with perfect ease and accuracy.
4. It sows rapidly. With wheat it covers 45 feet to the round. Clover at clover and timothy mixed 36. Ten acres of clover sowed in 2½ hours.
5. It is not affected by quite a strong wind.
6. It is quickly adjusted to different quantities of grain.
7. It cannot clog.
8. It is simple and not overtaxed.
9. It is cheap.
10. It is durable.

Patented by ISAAC STAUFFER, of Carpenter, Emmet Co., Mich. Sold by

UPRIGHT & EMREY,
Call and examine it. Charlevoix, Mich.

John Nicholls,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Manufacturer of and dealer in

HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER!

ALSO

Dressed lumber, Oar Blades,

TWOEN TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER

A Full Stock of

Jewelry and Silverware

Optical Goods, Etc.

C. R. BELLINGER,

Charlevoix, Mich.

Clocks, Watches and Jewelry Repaired by Skilled Workmen.

Warranty Bk. Accompanies Each Watch.

Clocks Warranted 1 Year.

Albert & Lisk, Dealers in

Solid by Druggists. Price $1.00.

For Sale by F. G. HINTZ & CO., Charlevoix.

THIS PAPER may be found on file at Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce St.), where advertising contracts can be secured for it IN NEW YORK.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Table in effect January, 1886.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5
		A. M.	P. M.
Cincinnati, lv		7 35am	5 20
Fort Wayne, ar	6 40pm	12 05n	9 50
Fort Wayne, lv		4 40	9 55
Kendallville..		5 14	10 29
Kalamazoo, lv		9 00	2 00am
Otsego..		9 30	2 30
Otsego, lv	7 00am	9 35	2 35
Allegan..	7 35	10 05am	3 05
Plainwell..	7 45	10 15	3 15
Big Rapids..	9 10	11 45	4 45
Reed City, ar	9 55	12 30pm	5 30
Reed City, lv		2 45	7 30
Cadillac, ar	11 00	3 45	8 35
Walton, ar	11 45	4 30	9 20
Walton, lv	11 45am	4 40	9 25
Kalkaska..		5 20	10 05
Grayling..		6 05	10 50
Bowne Falls		6 40	11 20
Vanderbilt..		7 05	11 45
Harbor Springs		8 00	1 10
Mackinaw City		9 30pm	2 50

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6
		A. M.	P. M.
Mackinaw City		7 00am	3 00pm
Harbor Springs		8 35
Petoskey, lv		8 55	11 15
Bay View..		9 05	11 25
Walloon Lake		10 21	12 34am
Walloon..		10 30	12 40
Kalkaska..		11 05	1 15
Grayling..		11 45	1 55
Cadillac, ar		12 40pm	2 45am
Cadillac, lv		12 45	2 50
Reed City, ar		1 30	3 35
Reed City, lv		2 00	4 05
Big Rapids..	7 15am	2 45	4 50
Plainwell..	8 05	3 35	5 40
Otsego..	8 15	3 45	5 50
Otsego, lv	8 20am	3 50	5 55pm
Allegan..	8 50	4 20	6 25
Kalamazoo, lv	9 45	5 15	7 20
Kendallville..		8 40	10 45
Fort Wayne, ar		9 20	11 25
Fort Wayne, lv	1 00pm	11 40am	11 40pm
Cincinnati, ar	6 40	7 35	7 35am

C. L. LOCKWOOD, G. P. A.,
Grand Rapids, Mich.

CITY OF GRAND RAPIDS.

CAPT. O. E. WILBUR.

GOING NORTH. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, will leave Fourth City 7.00 a. m., Northport 9.30, Charlevoix 11.30, Petoskey 1.30 p. m., Harbor Springs 2.30, Cross Village 3.45, Mackinaw Island 7.45, arriving at St. Ignace 8.30 p. m.

GOING SOUTH. Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, will leave St. Ignace 6.00 a. m., Mackinaw Island 7.45, Cross Village 10.15, Harbor Springs 12.45, Petoskey 2.00, Charlevoix 3.15, Northport 5.15, Traverse City 7.45, arriving at Traverse City 7.45 p. m.

T. S. PAXTON

CAPT. A. G. ALDRICH.

GOING NORTH. Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays, will leave Traverse City at 2.00 p. m., Northport 3.30, Charlevoix 5.30, Petoskey 6.30, Harbor Springs 7.30, arriving at Mackinaw City 10.30 p. m.

GOING SOUTH. Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, will leave Mackinaw City 7.00 a. m., Harbor Springs 9.30, Petoskey 10.30, Charlevoix 11.30, Northport 1.30 p. m., arriving at Traverse City 3.30 p. m.

GOOD CONNECTIONS will be made at Traverse City and Mackinaw with both lines of steamers for the G. R. & I. R. R. at St. Ignace and Mackinaw City, with the D. L. & N. R. R. at Mackinaw City, and at Traverse City with the Chicago and the City of Grand Rapids going north, and the Northern Queen going south, and the City of Grand Rapids going south, and the City of Traverse City going north, and the City of Traverse City going south, and the City of Grand Rapids going north, and the steamer Minnie M. for Leland and St. Marys.

Traverse Bay Route.

STEAMER ALPENA, CAPT. CHARLES HOSTERMAN.

Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, leave Old Mission at 6.30 a. m., arriving at Traverse City 10.45 a. m., leave Traverse City 2.30 p. m., arrive Old Mission 6.30 p. m.

Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays, leave Northport at 7.00 a. m., arrive at Traverse City at 11.00 a. m., leave Traverse City 2.30 p. m., arrive Northport 6.30 p. m.

Connections made at Northport with Leland, Glen Arbor, Glen Haven, Glen Ellen, Fishermans Island, Pt. Pleasant, Frankfort, Elberta, Beulah, Benzonia, Crystal Lake, Manistee, and Ludington, and with the steamer Minnie M. for Leland, St. Marys.

Harbor Springs, Petoskey, Charlevoix, and East Jordan.

STEAMER THOMAS FRIANT.

CAPT. T. VANDERMEY.

Morning—Leave Harbor Springs 7.00, Petoskey 7.45, Charlevoix 9.30, arrive East Jordan 10.30.

Afternoon—Leave East Jordan 2.00, arrive Charlevoix 3.00, Petoskey 4.45, Harbor Springs 5.45.

Close connections at Petoskey with G. R. & I. R. R. trains, north and south.

Charlevoix and East Jordan.

Steamer GAZELLE—Capt. John Moore.

Morning—Leave Charlevoix 6.30, arrive East Jordan 7.30. Leave East Jordan 7.30, arrive Charlevoix 8.30.

Afternoon—Leave Charlevoix 2.30, arrive East Jordan 3.30. Leave East Jordan 4.00, arrive Charlevoix 5.00. Stopping at intermediate points.

Steamer NORTH STAR—Capt. Mel. Thompson.

Morning—Leave East Jordan 6.30, arrive Charlevoix 7.30, leave Charlevoix 8.30, arrive East Jordan 9.30.

Afternoon—Leave East Jordan 3.00, arrive Charlevoix 4.00, leave Charlevoix 4.30, arrive East Jordan 5.30. Stopping at intermediate points.

Charlevoix and Boyne.

Steamer CLARA BELLE—Capt. Robert Orvis.

Morning—Leave Charlevoix 6.30, arrive Boyne 8.30, leave Boyne 8.35, arrive Charlevoix 10.30.

Afternoon—Leave Charlevoix 2.00, arrive Boyne 4.00, leave Boyne 4.05, arrive Chr. Crooks 6.30. Stopping at intermediate points.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 163. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, AUGUST 26, 1886. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL

Published every Thursday,

BY CHAS J. STRANG.

Office on Bridge Street,

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX AS A SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

WATCH YOUR ADDRESS LABEL.

The date following the name on your address label indicates the time to which your subscription is paid. If in arrears, you are requested to pay up.

BUSINESS CARDS.

ATTORNEYS.

A. ARTHUR MARTIN, Attorney at Law, Boyne City. Collections promptly attended to.

CHUPKUSHANK & GRIEE, Attorneys at Law and Proctors in Admiralty. Office in Hubbard's Block, Charlevoix, Mich.

A. S. CHUPKUSHANK. C. J. GRIEE.

DEXTER CALL, Attorney at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents. Lake St., east of postoffice, Petoskey, Mich.

FRED W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor, Real Estate business promptly attended to. LOANING MONEY TO LOAN.

J. NEWBERRY, Attorney at Law and Judge of Probate of Emmet Co., Petoskey, Mich.

J. MILO KATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

OLIAF T. WERNER, Attorney at Law and United States Circuit Court Commissioner, Western District, East Jordan, Mich.

W. S. MOORE, Attorney and Solicitor, East Jordan. Abstracts a Specialty.

ZINA GARRETT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

CHURCHES.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7:30. All meetings held at Town hall, over F. W. Cousins & Co.'s store. O. G. CLARK, pastor.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:00 o'clock. J. VAN ALSTYNE, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:00 o'clock. W. H. BRADLEY, pastor.

DENTISTRY.

L. N. J. PERRY, Dentist.
Office at Wood's Drug Store.
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

HOMŒOPATHIC PHARMACY.

B. SUFFIELD, Homœopathic Medicines, Books, Domestic Cases, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

PHYSICIANS.

L. LEWIS, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office in Weston's Block, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. M. PRESTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homœopathic physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HORACE S. HASKINS, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

G. A. R.—Baxter Post No. 119, meets second Monday in each month at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Round Lake Lodge, No. 268, meets every Wednesday evening, in their hall.

K. O. T. M.—Boyne City Tent, No. 102, meets every Thursday every month at Odd Fellows' hall.

L. O. L.—True Blues No. 12, meet Saturday on or before full moon, in Odd Fellows' hall.

MASONIC—Charlevoix Lodge No. 295, meets Tuesday on or before full moon, at their hall.

W. F. BROWN, Cashier. W. A. BROWN, Ass't Cashier.

Brown & Co.'s Bank of Charlevoix.

CAPITAL, $25,000.

Drafts drawn direct upon the principal cities of the world. Collections receive prompt attention and remittances bought and sold. Tickets for sale from all points in Europe by best lines. Correspondents: Chicago, Merchants' Loan and Trust Co.; New York, First National Bank; Detroit, Merchants' and Manufacturers' National Bank; Detroit, First National Bank; Grand Rapids, Kent County Savings Bank.

WELL DIGGING.

I am prepared to dig, drive, and repair wells of all kinds, and guarantee satisfaction. Leave orders with Stockman & Inlings.

E. W. BENNETT,
Charlevoix, Mich.

HOUSE PAINTER,

Calciminer,

Paper Harger,

And Decorator

PINS AND HARDWOOD FINISHING, GOOD WORK.

At the Old Stand.

A. J. McLeod

Can be found at the old stand with a

FULL STOCK OF MEATS

Of all kinds

At Wholesale and Retail.

HIDES, PELTS & FAT STOCK WANTED.

Jos. Beauvais

BOAT-BUILDER.

The Best Modeled, Easiest Rowing, and Best Sailing Boats in Northern Michigan. Send for the Least Money. Give me a Trial. I am bound to Please.

Boat Livery

In connection with shop.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

Heath, Francis & Co.

Builders and Jobbers,

Charlevoix, Mich.

Plans, specifications, and material furnished, and houses built complete. Repairing and re-building done to order.

FINE FURNITURE

Built to order, and repairs of all kinds made on short notice. First-class work guaranteed.

Will take Lumber or Block wood in part payment for subjects. Shop on Antrim street, west of Village Hall, Charlevoix, Mich.

1872. 1886.

DR. G. W. CROUTER,

Drugs, Stationery and Wall Paper.

Dental Office in Rear of Drug Store.

The Winning Ticket.

Mr. Dickinson enters the campaign with everything in his favor.—Detroit Journal.

The republicans will everlastingly have to humn themselves to beat it.—Mt. Clemens Monitor (rep).

Yaple's nomination may be regarded as a mutual concession on the part of each of the parties to fusion.—Detroit Journal.

This will be another "Bee" Morse campaign. It will make the republicans very tired to think about it.—Louis Standard.

Weston and Field will make a team that will drive Yaple & Co. to the capitol of Michigan election day.—Big Rapids Herald.

The Evening News says the nomination of Yaple is a dark plot to kill him off. Well, Mr. News, rest assured if it is, George will die happy and among a host of friends.—Ionia Standard.

The nomination of Col. Farrar for auditor-general is a compliment to Macomb county and will be received with general enthusiasm. Good for the Colonel! We would support him were it not for the tax sales.—Mt. Clemens Monitor.

Capt. Dupont, Detroit—"I never heard such a speech as that by Y., he. Why, it was a regular gun—such big language; never hesitated for a word; and such ideas too. He appeared as though he was expressing a thought which had taken possession of his whole mind."

Ishpeming: The news of the nomination of Sol S. Curry, of this city, for lieutenant governor, was received here with enthusiasm. Mr. Curry has held a number of offices of trust, and is one of the most prominent democrats of the peninsula. He is about 40 years of age and worth $150,000.

Geo. L. Yaple, of Branch county, a greenbacker, heads the ticket. Mr. Curry is a man of large influence and high standing in Marquette county, and has represented his district in the legislature. He is a democrat of strong convictions and will add great strength to his ticket on this peninsula, in the coming struggle.—Marquette Journal.

Yaple represents the cause of the west and the cause of the laborer. His election would be an emphatic demand for a reduction of taxation, a tariff for revenue only, a free coinage of silver and the payment of the government debt, as though the whole state should take a good stroke of unite upon these issues.—Berrien Springs Journal.

Geo. L. Yaple and Samuel Dickie are representative young men. Each has the courage of his convictions, and there will be a manly, honest contest between them. Either would make a model governor, but circumstances compels us to inform Mr. Dickie that he can't get there. Mr. Yaple will lead him by at least 20,000 plurality.—Ionia Standard.

The claim seem predicted for Monday last failed to connect; but on Wednesday night it set in at Grand Rapids in form of a political burr, causing the anti-republicans to join one grand democratic party, standing together on the same candidates on one platform, to increase in strength from now on till November 2, when it will deluge the Michigan Club as effectually as the Red Sea swallowed up the hosts of Pharoah.—Big Rapids Herald.

The "Young man from Mendon," as the odorous Julius once called him, is worthy of any man's support, and will gather to the front the old and young of the allied parties. To us his name proclaims victory, for his campaign will be made on the principles in which he believes—and which he advocates with an eloquence rarely equaled. We have a standard bearer and a whole ticket of which we are justly proud, and we can fight for success with our whole heart, for success means the triumph of principles we love.—Ionia Democrat.

The election of I. M. Weston to the high office of chairman of the democratic state central committee not only gives western Michigan recognition but insures the carrying out of the campaign work so far so successfully inaugurated by the indefatigable and skilled young leader, J. Zurich, of Detroit, who declined a re-election. As in 1876, when Don M. Dickinson led the democratic host so vigorously and enthusiastically, so will the democrats go into battle to win under Weston's able leadership.—Big Rapids Herald.

As predicted by the Patriot, the outcome of the democratic and greenback conventions a Grand Rapids, is favorable for the overturn of the republican dynasty in this state. Win a man at the head of the ticket possessing all the attributes tending to make him popular with the masses as a governor, and who, though young, has proven his metal in the national house of representatives to an extent that called forth the respect and admiration of the democratic leaders; and a platform of live and wall defined issues, there can be little doubt as to the result of the contest.—Jackson Patriot.

In nominating George L. Yaple as a candidate for governor, they have chosen a standard bearer worthy of the principles enunciated, a man who cannot be bought or sold, nor swerved from the path of duty as he sees it. Although we had, selfishly, perhaps, desired to see him again nominated for congress in this district, as the proper person to officiate at the final political obsequies of Julius Cæsar, we admit the wisdom of the convention in choosing him as the standard bearer for the larger field of the state, and his presence and influence at the head of the ticket will assist some other candidate who represents the same principles, to achieve a victory for the people in this district.—Cassopolis Democrat.

It would not be amis if an artist could have been at hand to transfer to canvass the expression on the countenances of Dr. Foster Pratt and A. T. Metcalf, of Kalamazoo, and a few others, when Don M. Dickinson was nominated as chairman of the democratic state convention at Grand Rapids, especially after the latter, with that chivalrous abnegation of all selfishness which characterizes the man, offered to decline by substituting for himself that "gallant soldier, faithful legislator and honest democrat, Colonel N. B. Eldredge, of Lenawee"——— and the convention cried "No, no," and Dickinson was chosen by an overwhelming vote. Of course the twain incontinently decamped for home—Battle Creek Moon.

The democratic and greenback state conventions at Grand Rapids yesterday undoubtedly acted the part of wisdom, first in fusing, and, second, in their choice of candidates. Mr. Yaple for governor, will be a strong nominee, and he has many things in his favor. He cannot be identified with any ring or faction, he is a young man who will attract the young men to his side; he is from western Michigan which has not had a candidate in many years; he is a man upon whom democrats and greenbackers can heartily unite, and his ability is unquestioned. The renomination of S. S. Curry of the upper peninsula for the second place on the ticket was also a good stroke of policy which will doubtless gain the ticket many votes. The ticket is a strong one throughout.—Kalamazoo Herald.

"No more important event has occurred in the history of Michigan since the memorable gathering under the oaks at Jackson which inaugurated the birth of the once illustrious, but now corrupt and incompetent republican party. Such a result as that accomplished at Grand Rapids, is result fraught with so momentous a bearing upon the future destinies of that party, not only in Michigan, but throughout the entire nation, should cause universal rejoicing among the progressive, thinking, earnest men in both democratic and national parties. Democrats should rejoice because it inaugurated a new and important era in their history, and nationalists should rejoice because it indicates that their principles, for which they have soundly contended for the past ten years, have taken such deep and abiding root in the hearts of the people that the bigoted prejudices and traditions of the past cannot much longer prevail against them.—Ionia National.

The candidate for governor, Hon. Geo. L. Yaple, is one of the best selections that could possibly have been made, and will prove to be a tower of strength to the ticket. A more popular man among greenbackers and democrats could not well be found. In common with all greenbackers, we are glad that so great a measure of wisdom and patriotism governed the action of both bodies. Our democratic friends have evinced a spirit of patriotism and good sense in the course they have pursued by unanimously acted the part of wisdom, first in fusing, and, second, in their choice of candidates. Mr. Yaple for governor, will be a strong nominee, and he has many things in his favor. He cannot be identified with any ring or faction, he is a young man who will attract the young men to his side; he is from western Michigan which has not had a candidate in many years; he is a man upon whom democrats and greenbackers can heartily unite, and his ability is unquestioned. The renomination of S. S. Curry of the upper peninsula for the second place on the ticket was also a good stroke of policy which will doubtless gain the ticket many votes. The ticket is a strong one throughout.—Kalamazoo Herald.

"No more important event has occurred in the history of Michigan since the memorable gathering under the oaks at Jackson which inaugurated the birth of the once illustrious, but now corrupt and incompetent republican party. Such a result as that accomplished at Grand Rapids, is result fraught with so momentous a bearing upon the future destinies of that party, not only in Michigan, but throughout the entire nation, should cause universal rejoicing among the progressive, thinking, earnest men in both democratic and national parties. Democrats should rejoice because it inaugurated a new and important era in their history, and nationalists should rejoice because it indicates that their principles, for which they have soundly contended for the past ten years, have taken such deep and abiding root in the hearts of the people that the bigoted prejudices and traditions of the past cannot much longer prevail against them.—Ionia National.

The candidate for governor, Hon. Geo. L. Yaple, is one of the best selections that could possibly have been made, and will prove to be a tower of strength to the ticket. A more popular man among greenbackers and democrats could not well be found. In common with all greenbackers, we are glad that so great a measure of wisdom and patriotism governed the action of both bodies. Our democratic friends have evinced a spirit of patriotism and good sense in the course they have pursued by unanimously acted the part of wisdom, first in fusing, and, second, in their choice of candidates. Mr. Yaple for governor, will be a strong nominee, and he has many things in his favor. He cannot be identified with any ring or faction, he is a young man who will attract the young men to his side; he is from western Michigan which has not had a candidate in many years; he is a man upon whom democrats and greenbackers can heartily unite, and his ability is unquestioned. The renomination of S. S. Curry of the upper peninsula for the second place on the ticket was also a good stroke of policy which will doubtless gain the ticket many votes. The ticket is a strong one throughout.—Kalamazoo Herald.

F. W. WILCOX,

Boat Livery,

At Bridge Street House and at Red Boat House, on south side of Round Lake.

All kinds of Boats, the best as well as the cheapest.

YOUR PATRONAGE SOLICITED.

Millinery And Fancy Goods!

A Splendid Line of Ribbons, Ladies' Gloves, Zephyrs, Laces, Ladies' Fine Underwear, and Ladies' Hosiery Goods always on hand at Lowest Prices.

Smith & Cooper,

At the Ingleside.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

EASTERN.

A total of $46,396,50 has been subscribed for Mrs. General Hancock.

New York dry goods merchants are trying to get the railroads to reduce freight rates.

New York speculators claim that they are unable to borrow money at low rates of interest.

William Gray, Jr., one of the best known business men in Boston, is said to be a defaulter to the amount of half a million dollars. Gray was Treasurer of the Indian Orchard and Atlantic Cotton Mills in Boston, and landlord of all the funds.

Maurice H. Flynn has resigned his position as Chairman of the New York County Democracy in the Fourteenth Assembly District. Immediately after the Squire scandal was made public the City Executive Committee of the County Democracy expelled Flynn from its membership and requested the district organization to take similar action. The District Committee, however, defy "united to stand by their leader in his decrees and refused to recommend the action of the City Committee. Flynn's resignation settled the dispute that thus arose and probably definitely ends his career in politics. The Grand Jury has finished a new indictment against Squire and Flynn. It contains twenty-two counts. Mayor Grace has removed Senior from the office of Commissioner of Public Works.

William Gray, of Boston, the Treasurer of the Atlantic Mills Company, confesses that for charities he cannot him are true, and he has embezzled over half a million dollars. The bulk of his plunder has been invested in building operations in Roxbury.

The corpse of William Gray, Jr., the Boston defaulter, was found at Blue Hills, Mass., where he committed suicide. Gray's criminal operations caused the failure of Samuel B. Fayson, heretofore regarded as one of the wealthiest and best citizens of Boston. His liabilities are estimated at $250,000.

WESTERN.

The Chicago, Burlington and Northern Road, which has just been opened for freight traffic, has within ten months laid 250 miles of rail.

The City Council of Mobile has granted the right of way to the West Alabama road, which is to be completed to Jackson within six months.

At Mill Run, West Virginia, Mrs. Snoderly and four children were drowned by the swamping away of their house by a flood.

The Fish Commissioners of Missouri have sold 820,000 of five hundy State bonds at a premium which makes loss than 5 per cent. interest.

The Lake Shore officials report that within forty-four hours three attempts were made to wreck trains on the Ft. Wayne street yards, adjoining Chicago. A pre-pipe bomb was found on the tracks near South Chicago.

All but three buildings in the town of Newark, Sargent County, Dakota, were swept away by a cyclone. Four persons were killed and a number seriously injured.

Farmers of Tippecanoe County, Indiana, have been swindled out of considerable amounts of money by the introduction among them of counterfeit United States notes of different denomination. The spurious money is somewhat shorter than genuine bills.

Ex-Comptroller Thomas Reed, of Cleveland, Ohio, was killed by a frightful manner. He had been at the Congressional Convention of the Twentieth Ohio District, at Ravenna. While en route to Cleveland he leaned from the platform of his car, and his head was smashed by a girder on a bridge near Peninsula.

An additional shortage of $6,400 has been discovered in the accounts of Col. Bolton, the Chicago Postoffice defaulter. As a consequence he was rearrested and his bail fixed at $75,000, which he could not give and was therefore sent to jail.

SOUTHERN.

John W. Stevenson, who had been Senator and Representative in Congress and Governor of Kentucky, has passed away at the age of 74 years.

Gov. Ireland, of Texas, has issued a proclamation asking for relief for the drought sufferers.

Miss Mamie Little, from Savannah, arrived at Macon, Ga., and asked ex-Policeman Jim Moore for directions. He procured a hack for her, and, getting in himself, put his pistol to her head and compelled her submission. He took her to an assignation house, keeping her under cover of his pistol. Moore was arrested and jailed. An angry mob stormed the prison, battered down the doors, took Moore out, and, despite his piteous cries for mercy, hanged him to the limb of a tree.

Absolute destitution is said to prevail in the counties of Texas on account of the drought. The Commissioners of Shackelford County are employing farmers on the public roads, and a fund of $5,000 is being raised to lend without interest for the purchase of seed.

WASHINGTON.

The acting Secretary of the Treasury states that in the future bond calls will be based on the state of the Treasury, and that there has been no difference of opinion between himself and Treasurer Jordan.

John T. Doyle, of New York, has been appointed Secretary of the Civil-Service Commission.

It is understood that the mission of Gen. Sedgwick to Pass del Norte and Chihuahua is not in any sense of a diplomatic nature, but is undertaken at the request of the Secretary of State, for the purpose of examining into the fact and legal features of the Cutting case. His journey may be extended to the City of Mexico, but this point is left for future determination.

The Treasury Department has issued a warrant for nearly $1,000,000 to meet the deficiencies in the postal revenues in the last three years.

President Cleveland, accompanied by Mrs. Cleveland, Mrs. Folsom, and Colonel and Mrs. Lamont, left Washington on the 16th inst., for his summer vacation in the Adirondack Mountains.

An answer has been filed by the solicitors of Attorney General Garland to the bill recently filed by J. Harris Rogers against the ex-Senator Harris, and others for a settlement of the affairs of the Pan-Electric Telephone Company. The answer denies every material statement of the bill and calls attention to "the scandalous and impertinent matter" contained therein, which Mr. Garland declines to answer unless specifically ordered by the court. The Attorney General requests a length his connection with the Pan-Electric Company.

Hugh J. Mohan has been appointed Special Agent to the Lake Bureau.

It is rumored in Washington that Mr. Pendleton Watkins will soon be appointed Minister to Austria.

POLITICAL.

Ohio Democrats, in State Convention at Toledo, nominated John M. Pinkie for Secretary of State, M. D. Follett for Supreme Court Judge, J. W. Cruikshank for Supreme Court Clerk, L. D. Brown for Commissioner of Common Schools, and Louis Ludwig for member of the Board of Public Works. The platform adopted by the convention indorses the administration of President Cleveland; demands a thorough and just revision of the tariff laws; approves the policy of paying the Treasury surplus on the public debt; denounces any attempt to demonetize silver; approves the land grant forfeitures and anti-alien land acts; expresses sympathy for Ireland in the struggle for home rule; demands that all crimes against the ballot shall be vigorously punished; condemns "the partisan reorganizations of penal and benevolent institutions; eulogizes the character of Senator Payne, and favors arbitration in the settlement of labor troubles.

Pennsylvania Democrats assembled in State Convention at Harrisburg, and placed the following ticket in the field: Governor, Chauncey F. Black; Lieutenant Governor, R. E. Pickette; Congressman at large, Maxwell Stevenson; Secretary of Internal Affairs, J. Simpson Africa; Auditor, W. J. Brennan. The platform reaffirms the Chicago national platform, indorses President Cleveland, and laments the recent deaths of Tilden, Hendricks, McClellan, Seymour, and Hancock. The following is the tariff resolution in full:

We have a just and fair revision of the revenue laws in accordance with the letter and spirit of that declaration of Democratic principles, and in such revision care should be taken that such changes shall be made in a spirit of fairness to all interests and without destroying any industry in this land, that it may fairly compete with foreign labor, or without imposing lower rates of duty on the products of cheaper labor than are imposed upon the products of heavy taxed in consequence of the higher rate of wages prevailing in this country.

The Democratic and Greenback State Convention of Michigan met at Grand Rapids and named in the nomination of the Democrats for Governor, G. L. Yaple, Greenbacker; Lieutenant Governor, S. S. Curry, Democrat; Secretary of State, P. B. Wahlen, Democrat; Treasurer, William G. Baird, Greenbacker; Auditor General, Colons, J. D. Farrar, Democrat; Land Commissioner, William D. Failer, Greenbacker; Superintendent of Public Instruction, David Parsons, Democrat; member of Board of Education, J. W. Turner, Greenbacker; Attorney General, J. C. Burke, Democrat. The Democratic convention adopted a platform endorsing President Cleveland's administration; favoring liberal pensions for veterans of the war; demanding a revision of tariff laws; promoting the enactment of laws against contract labor; denouncing alien ownership of public lands. The financial plank in the platform reads: "We reiterate the policy of applying the surplus in the National Treasury, as fast as it may accumulate, to the payment of the national debt, relying as rapidly as possible the national bank circulation, and the direct issue by the National Government of legal-tender treasury notes, gold and silver coin, and coin certificates." The platform adopted by the Greenback convention approves the Jeffersonian idea of a strict construction of the Constitution of the United States, and, "as the Constitution expressly declares that Congress shall have power to coin (or create) money and regulate the value thereof, we demand that Congress should create money for the uniform measurement of all contracting of gold, silver, and paper, in sufficient quantity to meet the wants of the Government and the demands of commerce and trade, receivable alike for public and private debts, and the exercise of this power should not be delegated to private corporations or private individuals." Favors a tariff for revenue so adjusted as to afford protection to such industries as employ a low without creating monopoly of any kind.

THE INDUSTRIAL OUTLOOK.

The strike among the canal boatmen at New York is spreading rapidly. The Knights of Labor are backing the Boatmen's Union.

Carmen in the employ of the contractor for the Eau Claire Lumber Company's lumber, on the Chippewa River, struck for more pay. The men were allowed to go.

The Central Labor Union, of New York, elected J. P. Archibald as Marshal for the grand parade on September 7. Employers refused to abide by the choice, and threaten to parade independently with twenty thousand sympathizers.

In an interview at New York, Mr. T. V. Powderly is reported saying that the Richmond convention of Knights of Labor will be a democratic assembly in which no assistance will be tolerated, that the subject of strikes will be considered, that legislation will be enacted to protect knights from the lockouts and boycotts of employers, and keep industrial people in closer relationship and decided assemblies under State legislation, and that the mechanical and other laws of the order will be revised. In speaking of the rebuke of the order to political parties, Mr. Powderly is reported to have said:

The million men who are on the Knights of Labor are to-day studying the address of the convention. They are from well to do farmers, other callings, and of the parties of to-day do not represent the interests of the well and patriotic Americans who are the backbone of the country. The Knights of Labor, but monument of the intelligence of the American people the million men who are to-day one day co-operate with every thinking man who loves his country and for it the founders of the republic bled.

The strike in the Atlanta cotton mills has been amicably adjusted.

The jewelry manufacturers of Providence are working twelve to fifteen hours daily, and are employing more men than in any other city within five years.

An international union of brickmakers was then formed at Philadelphia. The union represents 120 trade unions, and includes the local associations of Chicago, St. Louis, Portland, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Boston.

RAILROAD INTELLIGENCE.

The introduction to "Poor's Railroad Manual for 1886," which has just been published, shows that 3,131 miles of road were constructed during the year. The total mileage for the whole country being now 1[illegible], The capital stocks of all railroads is $4,87,692,832; the amount of all roads equaled $772,968,833, against $720,604,[illegible] for 1884. The information says the last year undoubtedly marks a point of lower depression in the earnings of railroads in ratio to their cost and mileage than is likely to be witnessed for some years to come. Illinois Central Railroad earnings for the last week in August, 1886, $220,900; 1885, $192,[illegible].

The earnings of the Northern Pacific continue to increase over last year. The improvement comes almost wholly from a better local traffic, a branch of the business which has grown greatly in the past year, and from which heavy losses in other directions were made up. It is estimated that if lines in the Northern Pacific lost by the transcontinental fight and land loss more than $850,000, yet the increase in business was sufficient to overcome this and also a heavy increase in fixed charges.

MISCELLANEOUS.

An officer of the United States army, sent by General Sheridan, to investigate the army of Mexico, reports a standing force of 25,000 men, divided between four great armies. There are Ten new batteries of field guns have of late been distributed from Paris. There is a factory for small arms near the capital. Mexico is divided into three grand military school at Chapultepec, and the rank and file are the lowest of the poons. The food supply is scanty and of poor quality.

Arthur G. Sedgwick, Secretary Bayard's special envoy to Mexico, told a Washington reporter that he would go direct to El Paso, thence to Pass del Norte, where he would interview Cutting and hold a conference with the Mexican officials. He further said that he was instructed to assure Cutting of the protection of the Government if he is in the right. He will report to the Government at Washington in about fifteen days. There will be nothing further done in the matter until he reports or returns. He left the impression that the Government would adhere to its demand for Cutting's release.—An El Paso despatch says the Mexicans have kept a very stiff upper lip so far, but it looks as though they would like to get out of the Cutting business if they could do it without squarely backing down. The tone of the daily papers in the City of Mexico shows it. They will probably manage this by the Supreme Court of Chihuahua reversing the decision of the lower court at Paso del Norte and ordering the release of the prisoner, thereby avoiding any claim for heavy damages."

An attempt was made to assassinate the President of Uruguay as he was entering a theater at Montevideo. A slight bullet wound in the hand was the result. The assassin was attached by the crowd and so maltreated that he died shortly afterwards.

FOREIGN.

The Catholic newspapers of Belfast accuse the Orangemen of commencing Sunday's attack, while the Protestant papers say that the Orangemen acted in self-defense. Bands of Nationalists paraded the Protestant quarter of Dungannon, Ireland, during the night and commenced a fight. The police prevented a desperate fight by separating the combatants.

From Port Stanley, Falkland Islands, it is reported that the town was buried under 50,000 tons of peat some time ago. The avalanche occurred at night, and two persons, a woman and a child, were killed. The inhabitants thought the island was visited by a volcanic eruption and hastily left the town. Much property was destroyed.

The report of Christine Nilsson's marriage was premature. She says she will probably be married in September, as she is now waiting for a dispensation from Rome.

Williams, the London detective, refuses to pay a fine of £20 for obstructing the police in the Lisle case. He is in prison.

Japan has accepted the amendment of the United States Senate to the extradition treaty between the two countries. The two countries are now ready for the last step in the matter—the formal exchange of copies, after which the promulgation by the two Governments will immediately take place.

In many large establishments in Belfast, since the riots began, the Catholic employes have been forced to quit work.

Prince Alexander has been assured that Turkey would assist Bulgaria if attacked by Servia, and it is now learned in diplomatic circles that the outbreak of another conflict is imminent.

LATER NEWS ITEMS.

The cooper, C. D. Graham, again navigated the whirlpool rapids of Niagara in the presence of 10,000 persons. He took the trip from his barrel, and went down the river with his head protruding. P. J. Scott, the well-known fisherman, wanted to excel Graham, and attempted to swim the whirlpool rapids in a cork suit. His dead body was recovered at Lewiston, on the Canadian side.

The Missouri Democratic convention assembled at St. Louis and effected the following nominations: Supreme Judge, Theodore Brace; School Superintendent, W. E. Coleman; Railroad Commissioner, John H. Brecht. The platform indorses President Cleveland's administration; deprecates the prostration of the taking power to other objects than revenue; favors raising revenue; declares in favor of the regulation of the conduct of railroads by the State; declares in favor of a currency based on gold and silver moneys; opposes the land grant forfeitures; demands that a sympathy surplus be applied on the interest-bearing debt; pledges the Democracy of Missouri to the cause of Ireland and sympathy to Ireland.

The Nebraska State Prohibition Convention assembled at Lincoln with over four hundred delegates, representing forty-five counties. The adoption of a long platform the following ticket was put in nomination: Governor, H. W. Hardy, of Lancaster; Lieutenant Governor, E. B. Graham, of Douglas; Secretary of State, E. J. O'Neil, of Pawnee; Treasurer, A. J. Lewis, of Antelope; Auditor, J. E. Hooper, of Clay; Attorney General, Martin L. Brewer, of Saunders; Commissioner of Public Lands and Buildings, W. H. Adams; Superintendent of Public Instruction, A. A. Smith, of Burt. After the adjournment of the State convention the delegates from the several Congressional districts met and placed in nomination the following: For Congressman First District, George E. Bigelow, of Lancaster; Second Ward, T. S. Harrison, of Franklin; Third, W. G. Olinger, of Burt.

Chauncey F. Black, whom the Democrats of Pennsylvania have nominated for Governor, is a son of ex-Judge Jere Black, and was a student at Hiram College under General Garfield.

The Republican Congressional Convention in the second District of Iowa broke in two, the result being the nomination of Samuel J. Kirkwood and T. J. O'Brien.

In the Eighth District of Wisconsin W. T. Price was renominated.

G. W. McBride has been renominated for Congress by the Republicans of the Fifth District of Michigan.

The Republicans of the Second District of Michigan have nominated Captain E. P. Allen, of Ypsilanti, for Congress.

The Democrats of the Fifth Illinois Congressional District have nominated Hon. Joseph Gridden, the turb-wire millionaire of Dekalb.

The Republicans of the Eight Wisconsin Congressional District nominated the Hon. W. T. Price for re-election to the House of Representatives.

The Democrats of the Fifth Illinois Congressional District have placed in the field Joseph Gridden, the barb-wire millionaire of De Kalb.

The Republicans of the Eight Wisconsin Congressional District nominated the Hon. W. T. Price for re-election to the House of Representatives.

The Democrats of the Seventh Congressional District of Ohio nominated Hon. John Little.

The Democratic convention of Washington Territory indorsed the administration of President Cleveland and renominated Charles S. Voorhees for Congress.

The Greenbackers of the Ninth District of Iowa nominated Dr. Hatton for Congress.

Hall, Democrat, was nominated for Congress in Buchanan at the Greenback convention of the First District.

Chicago was been selected by the National Association of Ex-Prisoners of War as the place for their next reunion.

The Missouri, Iowa, and Nebraska Railway was sold at foreclosure by the Master in Chancery, T. DeWitt Talmage, of Philadelphia, was the purchaser, and $600,000 the price.

THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK.
BUTTER—
Hom	$4.26	@ 5.75
Western	.26	@ .29
WHEAT—No 1 White	.90	@ .92
No 2 Red	.86	@ .87½
CORN—No 2	.47	@ .47½
OATS—Mixed	.26	@ .27
PORK—Mess	10.50	@ 10.75
CHICAGO.
BEEVES—Choice to Prime Steers	5.00	@ 5.25
Fair to Good Shipping Steers	4.60	@ 4.90
Common	3.25	@ 3.75
HOGS—Shipping and Packers	3.80	@ 3.90
FLOUR—Extra Spring	4.25	@ 4.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.83	@ .83½
No. 2 Spring	.77	@ .78
OATS—No. 2	.26	@ .26½
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	.27	@ .28
CHEESE—Full Cream, Cheddar	.08	@ .08½
Full Cream, new	.07½	@ .07½
EGGS—Fresh	.17	@ .18
POTATOES—Per bu	.45	@ .50
PORK—Mess	8.00	@ 9.75
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—Cash	.77	@ .77½
CORN—No. 3	.47	@ .47½
OATS—No. 2	.26½	@ .26½
BARLEY—No. 2	.62	@ .63
PORK—Mess	9.50	@ 9.75
TOLEDO.
WHEAT—No. 2	.83	@ .83
CORN—No. 2	.47	@ .47½
OATS—No. 2	.26	@ .26½
DETROIT.
FLOUR—Choice	4.50	@ 4.75
WHEAT—No. 1	.83	@ .83½
WHEAT—Michigan Red	.83	@ .83½
CORN—No. 2	.47	@ .47½
OATS—No. 2 White	.26	@ .26½
ST. LOUIS.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.72	@ .72½
CORN—Mixed	.40	@ .40½
OATS—Mixed	.25	@ .25½
PORK—Mess	10.25	@10.75
CINCINNATI.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.77	@ .78
CORN—No. 2	.47	@ .44
OATS—No. 2	.27	@ .28
PORK—Mess	10.00	@10.25
LARD—Steam	6.00	@ 6.05
BUFFALO.
WHEAT—No. 1 Hard	.87	@ .88
CORN—No. 2	.50	@ .50½
CATTLE—Choice	4.50	@ 5.25
INDIANAPOLIS.
HOGS—Choice	3.80	@ 3.90
Heavy	3.70	@ 3.80
Mixed	3.50	@ 3.60
Light	3.40	@ 3.50
SHEEP—Common to Choice	2.50	@ 4.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.77	@ .78½
CORN—No. 2	.44	@ .44½
OATS—No. 2	.25	@ .27
EAST LIBERTY.
CATTLE—Best	4.60	@ 5.00
Fair	4.00	@ 5.00
HOGS—Common	3.75	@ 3.90
Good	4.12	@ 4.25
SHEEP—Fair	3.75	@ 4.00

LEGAL ORATORY.

Lawyers' Arguments and Pleas in the Case of the Chicago Anarchists.

Able Speeches of Messrs. Ingham and Foster for the Prosecution and the Defense.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

CHICAGO CORRESPONDENCE.

After nine days of speech-making, and fifty-two days of consideration, the case against the anarchist prisoners was submitted to the jury on Thursday afternoon. Capt. William F. Vander Voort, of the Eighth Ward Police Station, had his prisoner in his cell, and he plays was an able, eloquent, and ingenious one. Unfortunately for him and his clients, he was followed by Hon. Julius Grinnell, the State's Attorney, who made a speech of two days, which was the greatest effort of his great forensic power. Mr. Ingham's speech was a plea for mercy, and if facts can be considered with innocence defendants should be acquitted. Mr. Grinnell's speech was a plea for justice, and if facts can be considered with innocence defendants should be hanged

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

DEMOCRATIC NOMINATIONS.

State Ticket.

For Governor—
GEORGE L. YAPLE, of St. Joseph.

For Lieutenant-Governor—
SOLOMON S. CURRY, of Marquette.

For Secretary of State—
PHILLIP B. WACHTEL, of Kinnet.

For State Treasurer—
WILLIAM G. BEARD, of Bay.

For Auditor-General—
JUDSON S. FARRAR, of Macomb.

For Attorney General—
JOHN C. DONNELY, of Wayne.

For Commissioner of State Land Office—
WILLIAM D. FULLER, of Newaygo.

For Superintendent of Public Instruction—
DAVID PARSONS, of Wayne.

For Member of State Board of Education—
JEROME W. TUNNEY, of Shiawassee.

Democratic Congressional Convention.

The Democratic electors of the Ninth Congressional District of Michigan are hereby notified that a convention will be held at HOOP'S HALL, IN THE CITY OF BIG RAPIDS, ON WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 1, AT 3 O'CLOCK, P. M., for the purpose of putting in nomination a candidate for Congress from the Ninth Congressional District, and the transaction of any other business that may properly come before said convention. On the basis of one delegate for each 200 votes cast for Governor at the last general election, and one for every fraction of not less than 60 votes, the various counties comprising the said congressional district will be entitled to representations as follows:

	Votes cast.	No. of Delegates.
Antrim	1823	9
Charlevoix	2041	4
Calkaska	1935	2
Ionia	1798	9
Kalkaska	1056	5
Mason	2695	13
Mecosta	2468	12
Missaukee	870	5
Newaygo	6612	14
Oceana	4228	8
Osceola	2054	10
Wexford	2255	5
Total		78

WM. F. NISBETT, Mecosta Co., Ch'm.
H. J. HOYT, Muskegon.
GEO. GOODSELL, Mason.
DANIEL E. SOPER, Newaygo.
JOHN F. SCHANZ, Oceana.
JOHN B. SWANN, Antrim.
Democratic Cong'l. Com.

Greenback County Convention.

The greenback county convention to nominate candidates for county officers will be held at Lewis hall in Boyne City, on Thursday, Sept. 2, 1886, at 10 o'clock a. m., also to re-organize the county committee and fix the basis of representation for future conventions, and elect delegates to the congressional senatorial and representative conventions yet to be held this year. The several townships in the county will be entitled to the following number of delegates:

Star Lake, 0; Boyne Valley 2; Chandler, 2; Charlevoix, 3; Kenwaghne, 3; Eveline, 3; Hayes, 1; Hudson, 2; Marion, 2; Melrose, 2; Norwood, 2; Resort, 2; South Arm, 3; Springvale, 2; Wilson, 2.

By order of committee.

T. J. HILL, Chairman.
E. H. SHEPARD, Secretary.
Dated Aug. 2, 1886.

Greenback Caucus.

There will be a caucus at Murray school house Aug 28, at 3 o'clock p. m., to elect delegates to county convention at Hoyne City, Sept. 2, at 10 o'clock a. m.

By order of committee.

THE STATE TICKET.

Never in the history of the democratic party in this state has there been such unanimous expression of satisfaction with the ticket and platform presented to the people as with the one made at Grand Rapids last week. Both conventions were composed of representative young men of the entire state,—men of brain and nerve, representing the true wealth and practical active business of the state.

It is no longer the old democracy. The habiliments of the olden time have been thrown off and there is disclosed the ever youthful embodiment of principles that need not drink at its eternal fountain to retain its vigor in pertinency to a true democratic government.

Although in the division of the ticket as arranged by the conference committee, the office of governor fell to the greenbackers, with Geo. L. Yaple, of Mendon, at the head of the ticket the democrats are as well pleased and enthusiastic as if they had made the selection themselves. He is young in years, full of youth's energy and vitality, and in the language of a delegate "his wealth is above his ears." Eloquent and brilliant, Geo. L. Yaple is what is better, a man of right principle, a representative of the masses for whom he has been faithful to his conviction, no matter whether for personal gain or loss. Like the platform the leading candidate upon it is nothing if not vigorous, clear and true.

That popular democrat, Solomon S. Curry, will martial hosts of the upper peninsula democrats to the support of himself for lieutenant-governor and the gentleman with whom he is associated for the positions to which they have been assigned.

Phillip B. Wachtel, of Petoskey, was pushed by his friends for the office of auditor general, but he with drew in favor of Col. J. D. Farrar, of Macomb, a gallant veteran of the rebellion, and was given instead the office of secretary of state. Wachtel is another fair representative of the vigorous young democracy, which is just now coming nobly to the front in the affairs of state.

Wm. G. Beard, of Bay, is closely associated with with the cause of the laboring man at his home,—being a carpenter and joiner, now working at his trade, and a K. of L. in good standing.

The other members of the ticket are well known for their sterling worth and fidelity to principle, and will make intelligent, capable officers of the state. The whole ticket is exceptionally strong, well located geographically, and is that satisfactory that not a whisper of compaint arises anywhere.

The democratic platform is full and explicit, covering all the issues which can by any possibility be brought up in a campaign for the election of state officials. It is as frank as it is clear. There is no hickering, no straddling of issues, or begging of questions. It commends itself, not only to the masses of the party, but to the intelligent people of the state without distinction of party.

And next November this ticket will be triumphantly elected.

NOTES AND NEWS.

The fusion ticket is built to win.

Mrs. Martha Strickland, of St. Johns, was a delegate in the greenback state convention.

The election of L. M. Weston as chairman of the democratic state central committee gives satisfaction all over the state.

The Grand Rapids Leader says that the democrats built "a better platform than the greenbackers," and gave "a generous divide of the ticket."

The greenback congressional convention for the ninth district will be held in Big Rapids Sept. 1 (same day as the democratic convention,) instead of Sept. 8, as previously announced.

In Connecticut, the prohibition leaders repudiate the republicans, and denounce Hawley because, though a temperance man, he is a republican candidate. The truth is that the g. o. p. has played fast and loose with the prohibitory problem too long.

Cassopolis Democrat: "Nothing more clearly marks the decadence of the republican party than the fact that the young, intelligent men of the country, imbued with ideas of progress and and advancement, generally refuse to identify themselves with that moribund organization."

The outcome of the democratic convention means that the principles advocated by it will be pushed. It means that the people are running this campaign and have put up brains instead of boodle for the masses to support. There is no doubt of success.—Cheboygan Democrat.

Philip B. Wachtel, of Petoskey, is as much entitled to the solidar vote for secretary of state as if he were a battle-scarred veteran. Twice within three months he has stepped one side to give place to veteran soldiers,—first when he withdrew from the postoffice candidacy in favor of Col. J. D. Toll, and again last week at Grand Rapids, when he withdrew from the candidacy for auditor general in favor of Col. Judson S. Farrar, of Macomb.

United States senators are to be elected next winter in the following states: California, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Indiana, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Tennessee, Texas, Vermont, Virginia, West Virginia, and Wisconsin. Of these 16 are republican and 9 democratic.

The Detroit Evening News doesn't like the democratic platform, but says Yaple is a good man. "His own principles are so sound, his fidelity to them so unshaken and unsuspecting, and his personal character so free fom blemish that he may be able to win on his own personal merits without regard to the demerits of the administration for which he stands sponsor."

The Chicago Herald well says: To such leaders as Tilden, Seymour, and Thurman no less than to Jefferson, and, later, Marcy and Douglas, much of the marvelous vitality of the democratic party is due. They have given it a creed which, repudiated and ignored as it too often is by timeservers and ignoramuses, is nevertheless imperishable, and which will have adherents, by whatever name they may call themselves, as long as the republic lasts.

Democratic Platform.

Resolved, That the democracy of Michigan in convention assembled, sincerely deplore the recent death of those patriotic statesmen and eminent leaders of the democratic party, Hon. Allo Seymour, Gen. R. McClellan, W. S. Hancock, T. A. Hendricks and Samuel J. Tilden. Their illustrious services may serve as the example for those who shall succeed them, and the inspiration of leadership.

Resolved, That the administration of Grover Cleveland, by its vigor and firmness, and its independence is an given to considerations affecting the party rather than the public welfare, is a practical denial of the legitimacy of governing by means of federal appointments by the encouragement of those seeking through political intrigue, by its enforcement of the civil service law, and by insisting on and enforcing the practical application the great principle "a public office is a public trust" commends itself to the judgment and approval of all honest people.

Resolved, That though more than twenty years have passed since the war, we should not forget that a large number of the most patriotic and brave of the men who saved our country are still among us. That with increasing infirmity, the result of their privations and hardships, and we believe the general government should see to it that the pensions of the survivors of the war should be placed in abundant and disabled, not as a charity, but as a debt due them for indominable service rendered their country.

Resolved, That taxation of the people for other purposes than raising revenue for the expense of fair government economically administered is robbery under the form of law, and we are therefore in favor of a revision of the present tariff laws and its adjustment to a revenue basis.

Resolved, That the democracy of Michigan, believing the dignity of American labor, recognize the right of wage workers to the fostering care of government equal to the care due to legitimate industry in every walk of life shall be consistent with the duty of maintaining up the material interests of the state.

Resolved, That we pledge ourselves to legislation which shall forever debar convict labor from competing with the honest producers of the state, and to a tax which shall forbid for all time the introduction in our shores of cheap contract labor.

Resolved, That the rapid accumulation of real estate in this country by foreign corporations and syndicates demands a tribunal to a American tribunal and should be prohibited.

Resolved, That we pledge ourselves to endorse the policy of applying the surplus in the national treasury as fast as it may accumulate to the payment of the national debt, retiring as rapidly as practicable the national bank circulation, and the issue of a sufficient amount of national gold under treasury notes, gold and silver coin, and coin certificates.

Resolved, That we favor the adoption of measures providing for the health and safety of those employed in the mines, manufacturing, and building industries, and for accreditation to those engaged therein, of mining inspectors through lack of proper enforcement.

Resolved, That we demand the repeal of all class legislation under which monopolies have been fostered and protected.

The Verdict Unanimous.

W. D. Salt, druggist, Hippo, Ind., testifies: "I can recommend Electric Bitters as the very best remedy. Every bottle sold has given relief in every case. One man took six bottles and was cured of rheumatism of 10 years standing." Abraham Hare, druggist, Delphos, Ohio, affirms: "The best selling medicine I have ever handled in my 20 years experience, is Electric Bitters." Thousands of others have added their testimony, so that the verdict is unanimous that Electric Bitters do cure all diseases of the Liver, Kidneys or Blood. Only a half a dollar a bottle at Dr. A. G. Crouter's drug store.

If you desire to possess a beautiful complexion take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It cleanses and purifies the blood, and removes blotches and pimples, making the skin smooth and clear, giving it a bright and healthy appearance. Take it this month.

For Toilet Use.

Ayer's Hair Vigor keeps the hair soft and pliant, imparts to it the lustre and freshness of youth, causes it to grow luxuriantly, eradicates Dandruff, cures all scalp diseases, and is the most cleanly of all hair preparations.

AYER'S Hair Vigor has given me nearly bald for six years, during which time I have used many hair preparations, but without success. Indeed, what little hair I had, was growing thinner, until I tried Ayer's Hair Vigor. I used two bottles of the Vigor, and my head is now well covered with a new growth of hair. —Reuben Wright, Chapel, Peabody, Mass.

HAIR that has become weak, gray, thin and faded, may have new life and color restored to it by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. "My hair was thin, faded, and dry, and fell out in large quantities. Ayer's Hair Vigor stopped the falling, and restored my hair to its original color. As a dressing for the hair, this preparation has no equal.—Mary S. Hammond, Stillwater, Minn.

VIGOR, youth, and beauty, in the hair, depend upon the condition of the scalp, and may be preserved for an indefinite period by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. "A disease of the scalp caused my hair to become harsh and dry, and to fall out freely. Nothing I tried seemed to do any good. At last I commenced using Ayer's Hair Vigor. Three bottles of this preparation have restored my hair to its natural color, and it is as soft, fine, and pliant. My scalp is cured, and it is free from dandruff.—Mrs. E. H. Foss, Milwaukee, Wis.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

Sold by Druggists and Perfumers.

PERFECT SAFETY, prompt action, and wonderful curative properties, easily place Ayer's Pills at the head of the list of popular remedies for Sick and Nervous Headaches, Constipation, and all ailments originating in a disordered Liver.

I have been a great sufferer from Headache, and Ayer's Cathartic Pills are the only medicine that has ever given me relief. One dose of these Pills will usually move my bowels, and free my head from pain.—William A. Page, Richmond Va.

Ayer's Pills,

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Dealers in Medicine.

The Circus

Commences Next Week.

I am going to receive a large invoice of CLOTHING, bought from one of the leading houses in Rochester, N. Y., which I am going to sell at Prices that will draw me trade from all around the county.

I think the best advertisement a merchant can have is to have his goods advertise him in Good Fits and Prices that cannot be beat.

GEO. W. MILLER.

A New Departure

at

F. W. CRAINE & CO.'S

This week we have placed in our store

A BARGAIN TABLE!

And on which may at all times be found

Genuine Bargains

IN EVERYTHING PERTAINING TO OUR LINE.

By coming in and inspecting this department you will readily be convinced of its merit.

We are confident that our many patrons will appreciate this new departure, as we do just as we advertise.

LOOK OUT FOR BARGAINS AT

F. W. CRAINE & CO.'S.

PERRY WEED,

DRUGGIST AND STATIONER,

OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

HENRY C. COOPER

Undertaker!

CHARLEVOIX MICHIGAN.

Coffins, Caskets, and Trimmings Always in Stock.

Come and See my Stock of Furniture.

ALL ORDERS BY TELEPHONE RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION

Come and See our Immense Stock of

BOOTS AND SHOES.

FOX & MILLER.

A Large Stock of

Furniture!

IN

Oak, Maple, Ash, and Cherry,

JUST RECEIVED BY THE

PINE LAKE IRON COMPANY

IRONTON, MICH.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., Aug. 20, 1886.

PRODUCE MARKET.

Hay, loose, per ton $12; baled, $13
Corn, per bu. 65c.
Oats, 45 to 50c.
Feed, per ton, $20.
Pork, $13 ℔ bbl, 7c ℔ lb.
Salt, ℔ bbl, $1.25.
Syrup, "Gold Medal," 50c ℔ gal.
Canned Tomatoes, 12c.
Canned Peaches, 15 to 20c.
Coffee, Java and Mocca, 35c.
Farmer's Produce at Upright & Emrey's.

UPRIGHT EMREY & Co.

☞A splendid line of Boots and Shoes for ladies and gents, boys, girls and misses. More on the road.

☞A magnificent lot of Dress Goods arrived recently, and we offer patterns at the very lowest figures.

☞Hosiery in all styles a specialty, for both ladies and gents—best line in town.

☞New Groceries received almost every day.

☞Fish Dinner and Tea Sets in Colored Ware at cost.

☞If you want some Choice Butter go to Upright & Emrey's.

☞Best fresh butter at Jefferies' market.

Local Notes and News.

A new sidewalk in front of Brown's tank this week.

The revenue cutter Andy Johnson is in port to-day.

The shipments show renewed activity in business this week.

Craine & Co. have a mammoth spider web in their window.

F. W. Craine & Co. have something to say to our readers in this issue.

E. Carpenter caught 76 trout Thursday afternoon in Monroe creek.

The Friant gives another excursion to Cross Village to-morrow, (Friday).

Chas. Swallow has the frame up for a large new house on the south terrace.

The schooner Starke received a new topmast at Campbell's yard yesterday.

The steam yacht Unda, of Detroit, called at Charlevoix Wednesday, of this week.

John Litzan is well settled in his new rooms, corner Bridge and Clinton streets.

The Scranton & Watson lumber Co., of East Jordan, have made an assignment.

The fire departments were out for practice with the new engine Tuesday evening.

A. F. Myers will do the stone and brickwork for the new club house at the Charlevoix resort.

Sheriff Berdan offered a reward of $10 for Smith's capture, and this is to be given to the widow.

Look for a programme of the M. E. church benefit next week, something extra good may be expected.

The schooner Willard A. Smith is receiving a new cabin, and other repairs at Campbell's shipyard.

The Rev. C. F. Vanaken will occupy his pulpit at the Congregational church next Sunday morning.

The schooner Hattie Ross, of Detroit, and fishing tug Anspach, of Charlevoix, received calking repairs at Washburne's shipyard, Saturday.

Henry Barth has an agricultural steam power engine, from Emmet county, undergoing repairs at his boiler shop, on Newman street.

A message by telephone announces the nomination of C. G. Lane for governor, on the republican ticket. The convention is now in progress.

The Friant is billed for an excursion to Northport next Sunday, to give a chance to attend the camp-meeting there. Tickets 50 cents.

We are pleased to state that we have satisfactory proof that Charlevoix did get an appropriation of $10,000. We find the item in the Detroit Weekly Free Press.

The wire has been ordered and the poles are being set for the telephone line from Petoskey to Williamsburg. It is hoped to have the instruments in within two weeks.

Capt. J. L. Beaufoy, in charge of the life saving station at Grand Haven, was 47 years old Saturday, and the crew presented him with an elegant rocking chair and gold pen.

G. W. Crouter has put in a patent cash register. When a bell ring rings the cash drawer is opened, tells the amount of each and every purchase, and at night tells the exact amount that should have been put in during the day. Customers can see the total amount of their purchases while the clerks are making change. If any mistakes occur during the day this machine tells the exact amount. The effect will be to make the clerks extremely careful in making change.

The Silsby Steam Fire Engine Tried and "Not Found Wanting."

Last week we mentioned the arrival of the new Silsby steam fire engine. The delivery engineer, Mr. J. P. Teller, arrived Friday, and on Saturday the machine was tested to the satisfaction of the village council and the citizens of Charlevoix. In 3¼ minutes the steam gauge moved; her whistle was blown in 4½ minutes; 20 pounds of steam was indicated in five minutes, and water came from the nozzle in 7½ minutes. In 11 minutes from the starting of the fire, she threw water 100 feet through 50 feet of hose and a ¾ nozzle; through 200 feet of hose and a one inch nozzle, she threw water 192 feet (guarantee 125); with three lines of 200 feet of hose, she threw three streams 125 feet; with two lines of same length of hose combined upon a 1¼ nozzle, she threw 178 feet; the same with a 1¼ nozzle, she threw water 213 feet from the nozzle. About the same tests were gone her, drawing water from the river at the bridge, with no perceptible decrease of power. With 1,150 feet of hose she throw water 150 feet from the nozzle. She has plenty of boiler and easily makes more steam than can be used.

The machine is a No. 5, "crane neck," full nickle plated, strongly built, and is without doubt just what we need.

The council have accepted the machine and issued bonds for its payment.

Burgess.

Mrs. Celeste Hamlin, of Charlevoix, is visiting her parents and friends in Hayes.

Moses Cooper talks strongly of putting a saw mill at Oyster bay.

Mr. Edward Bartlett was hurt seriously last Saturday by the team starting while attempting to climb into a wagon.

Most everyone is through harvesting.

Next Monday is annual school meeting day.

Don't forget the greenback caucus at Murray's school house next Saturday, at 3 o'clock, p. m.

The vegetation begins to revive since the late rains.

Charles Hamlin starts for Kansas some time this week for a prolonged stay.

The new fire engine at Charlevoix last Saturday was plantly heard in Evangeline.

State Teachers' Institute.

The state teachers' institute for this county has been appointed by the superintendent of public instruction to be held at the high school rooms in Charlevoix during the week beginning Sept. 6. The conductor and instructors have not yet been named but able and efficient educators will be selected by the department. The accommodations for the institute are the best in county and no pains will be spared to make this a profitable and pleasant meeting. Teachers should avail themselves of this opportuniy to better prepare themselves for the work.

Board can be obtained at reduced rates. For any information needed address H. M. Enos, superintendent schools, Charlevoix, Mich.

Correspondence invited.

A Card of Thanks.

I desire, through the column, of your paper, to express my grateful thanks to the many friends who have so kindly lent to me and my family their aid and sympathy, in the sad affliction that has so suddenly come upon us through the death of my beloved husband.

MRS. N. F. ANDERSON.

Charlevoix, Aug. 21, 1886.

Episcopal Services.

Rev. Mr. Jones, of Kalamazoo, will officiate at the services to be held at Old Fellows hall on Sunday morning, Aug. 29th. All are welcome.

Barnard.

The farmers of Barnard are rejoicing over a fine rain.

Mrs. Robert Matchett rejoices over the arrival of a fine daughter.

Base Ball.

The "kids" of Harbor Springs and Charlevoix played yesterday, on the latter's grounds. Score, 20 to 2, in favor of Charlevoix.

Broken Down Invalids.

Probably never in the history of Cough Medicines has any article met success equal to that which has been showered upon Dr. Peter's Mountain Herb Cure. Thousands of hopeless cases of coughs, colds, and consumption have yielded to this truly miraculous discovery. For this reason we do not hesitate to recommend it to consumptives and invalids generally. Sold by Perry Weed and Dr. G. W. Crouter.

Buckinn's Arnica Salve.

The best Salve in the world for cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Dr. G. W. Crouter.

Dr. Peter's Magic Pain Oil is

Good for back strains and external pain.
Good for bruises, black and blue bruises, and wounds generally.
Good for women made by knives, scissors, and implements of destruction.
Good for neuralgia, toothache, and rheumatism's terrible torture. Sold by Perry Weed and Dr. G. W. Crouter.

There are a large number of pine and hemlock logs drifting about Pine and Round lakes which would prove quite remunerative to their owner if picked up before passing out into lake Michigan.

F. W. Craine goes to Cadillac this week, to take charge of the store there while Mr. Gow goes to New York, to buy new fall goods for both stores. It is safe to say that when he returns our ladies will have something rich and fine to select from.

The funeral services of Mr. Anderson were held at his house Thursday afternoon, and was attended by all his neighbors and friends for miles around, except those who were searching for the murderer. Rev. J. T. Iddings conducted the service.

At the Congregational church, last Sunday morning, Prof. S. I. Curtis of Chicago, delivered an address up on "Our Domain," presenting it in a mission light, and illustrating with a large chart the proportionate foreign population, and the missionary work already and yet to be done.

Mr. Justin Olney, of Chazy, Clinton county N. Y., father of Geo. Olney, of Charlevoix, died Aug. 10th, at the age of 83 years. Mr. Olney died within two and one-half miles of his birthplace, and where he had lived all his life. The farthest from home he ever went was 104 miles, and there but one.

Dr. H. A. Reynolds, the red ribbon temperance lecturer, will deliver a series of gospel temperance meetings under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. at the Congregational church, Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings Aug. 27, 28 and 29. The ladies hope to make this the beginning of a grand temperance revival in Charlevoix.

W. A. Brown and wife now occupy their new residence on north Bridge street. Situated as it is at the angle of the street, they have a view of the entire street looking southward from their front window. From the rear of the house they have an unobstructed view of Lake Michigan and the entrance to the harbor. On the first floor are a commodious hall, two large parlors and dining room connected by folding doors, a large bedroom, and a convenient kitchen. The bedroom is furnished with bath room and closet, and the kitchen with wall cupboards, flour chest, china closets, etc. On the second floor are four large bedrooms. In the basement there is a wood cellar, and a vegetable cellar. The interior of the house is finished in hardwood, (principally in light and dark birch, and pine) Eastlake patterns, and a handsome. An added charm in the home to Mrs. Brown, is the fact that most of the drapings are her own handiwork. The lambrequins and table scarfs in the front parlor are hand-painted, and are beautiful. Improvement will complete the improvements of the grounds, and they will have one of the most comfortable and complete homes in Charlevoix.

Thomas Smith Captured and Held for Trial.

Last Thursday afternoon nearly every able-bodied man in Marion township was armed and out searching for Thos. Smith, the convicted being strong in every mind that he was the murderer of Niles Anderson. Thursday night, just at dark he was seen in the woods south of Charlevoix, and during the evening he was found near the residence of his brother-in-law, Mr. Horace Hull. It having been reported that he had threatened to kill Mr. Hull, it is supposed that he came for that purpose. The alarm was given, and deputy sheriff Cooper, and a number of citizens started to catch him, and did get with in a few feet of him, but he escaped, and took to the woods.

Within a short time two or three hundred men were in pursuit, and he was driven from one hiding place to another till about three o'clock Friday morning, when he was found hiding near Eaton's factory on Pine lake. He again started to run, but this time the boys were too quick for him, and surrounded him. Instantly he was covered by a dozen rifles, and scared before he could even make an attempt to shoot. There was a strong disposition to lynch him, but a few present counseled adding the law and giving the man a trial, and this finally prevailed, and he was taken to jail.

On Saturday he was arraigned, and plead not guilty, and the case was continuated fixed for Wednesday afternoon, 25th.

At the hour for examination on Wednesday the court room was filled with interested spectators, but Smith waived examination, and was returned to jail, to appear for trial at the next term of the circuit court.

[We could fill two or three pages of the JOURNAL with stories of adventure in this capture, some of which would no doubt be very interesting but we have neither time nor space, necessary to do it well.]

M. E. Church.

Preaching next Sabbath morning by Rev. W. G. Clark, pastor of the Baptist church.

Young people's meeting at 7 o'clock.

Rev. Adam Clark will preach at Black's school house at 3 o'clock.

DRY GOODS!

We offer for the next few days Great Bargains in all

---SUMMER DRESS GOODS---

Shawls, White Goods, Parasols, Silk and Thread Gloves, Hosiery, Straw Hats, etc.

NEW LINE OF BROADHEAD DRESS GOODS,

Just received and marked at very low prices.

Jersey and Boucle Jackets, Very Cheap.

Staple & Fancy Groceries,

In great variety and at correct prices. The finest line of

Teas, Coffees, Spices.

PLANTATION JAVA COFFEE, - BEST IN THE WORLD.

Farmers will consult their own interests in buying our FACTORY-FILLED DAIRY SALT.

J. L. HURD & CO.

WE MUST DISPOSE OF THEM!!

Our Large Stock of SUMMER GOODS will have to be sold at any price. Large invoices of Fall and Winter Goods are on the way, and we must have the room.

Clothing, Hats, Caps and Flannel Shirts at Great Bargins.

☞ CALL AND SEE US ☜

ROSENTHAL & SON.

Something New. More Light.

The Rochester double and triple Burner makes the Whitest and Best Light known.

Sherwin William's PAINTS.

Stoves, Hardware, Tinware, Notions, Fishing Tackle. The "double action easy Force Pump." Job and Tin Work.

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW & CO.

Charlevoix Manufacturing Company,

MANUFACTURERS OF

Sash, Doors, and Blinds,

Screen Doors and Windows, and Mouldings of all Descriptions.

Newell Posts, Banisters, and Stair Rail, of Soft and Hard Wood, kept in Stock and Made and Put Up to Order.

A GOOD STOCK OF

PINE AND BASSWOOD SIDING,

FLOORING, CEILING, AND FINISHING LUMBER KEPT ON HAND.

Also Contractors, Builders, and General Jobbers.

Summer Cottages a Specialty.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

JUDICIOUS ADVERTISING

The above Eyeglasses invented by the Johnson Optical Co., of Detroit, Mich., combine the best features of all others.

1st. The bows are made of material far enough away that the eye-lashes will not touch them, a thing not always easy to do with other eye-glasses.

2d. The guards are set so as to clasp the nose back under eye-brows which prevents slipping off the nose.

3d. The pressure is on the fleshy part of the nose above the bone, which prevents irritation.

4th. The lever feature secures its perfect adjustment to the nose whether large or small.

5th. The lenses are set at right angles to line of sight.

6th. They can be worn safely without cord or chain by those in danger of falling off.

7th. We warrant them to be the easiest eyeglass in the market.

C. R. BELLINGER,

Optician and Jeweler, Charlevoix, Mich.

Harbor Springs, Petoskey, Charlevoix, and East Jordan.

STEAMER THOMAS FRIANT.

CAPT. E. VANDERBILT.

Morning—Leave Harbor Springs 7.00, Petoskey 8.00, Charlevoix 9.30, arrive East Jordan 11.30.

Afternoon—Leave East Jordan 1.30, Charlevoix 4.00, Petoskey 5.30, arrive Harbor Springs 6.30.

Close connections at Petoskey with G. R. & I. R. R. trains, north and south.

Charlevoix and East Jordan.

STEAMER GAZELLE—Capt. John Mason.

Morning—Leave Charlevoix 6.30, arrive East Jordan 7.30, leave East Jordan 8.00, arrive Charlevoix 9.00. A Noon—Leave Charlevoix 2.00, arrive East Jordan 4.00, leave East Jordan 4.30, arrive Charlevoix 6.00. Stopping at intermediate points.

STEAMER NORTH STAR—Capt. Mat. Thompson.

Morning—Leave East Jordan 6.30, arrive Charlevoix 8.30, leave Charlevoix 9.00, arrive East Jordan 11.00. Afternoon—Leave East Jordan 2.00, arrive Charlevoix 4.00, leave Charlevoix 4.30, arrive East Jordan 6.30. Stopping at intermediate points.

Charlevoix and Boyne,

Steamer CLARA BELLE—Capt. Robert O'Neil.

Morning—Leave Charlevoix 6.30, arrive Boyne City 8.30, leave Boyne City 9.00, arrive Charlevoix 11.00. Afternoon—Leave Charlevoix 2.30, arrive Boyne City 4.00, leave Boyne City 4.30, arrive Charlevoix 6.30. Stopping at intermediate points.

HANNAH, LAY & CO.'S STEAMER LINE.

SEASON OF 1886.

CITY OF GRAND RAPIDS,

CAPT. O. M. WEBB.

GOING NORTH, Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, will leave Traverse City 5.30 a. m. Northport 9.30, Charlevoix 11.30, Petoskey 1.30 p. m., Harbor Springs 3.00, East Jordan 5.30, Mackinaw City 7.00, Mackinac Island 8.00 p. m.

GOING SOUTH, Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays, will leave at Mackinac Island 6.00 a. m., Mackinaw City 7.00, Cross Village 10.30, Harbor Springs 12.45, Petoskey 1.45 p. m., Charlevoix 3.45, Northport 5.15, arriving at Traverse City 7.45 p. m.

T. S. PAXTON

CAPT. A. G. ALLMAN.

GOING NORTH, Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays, will leave Traverse City 7.00 a. m., Torch Lake 8.45, Norwood 10.30, Charlevoix 12, Petoskey 1.15 p. m., Harbor Springs 2.30, Cross Village 4.30, Mackinaw City 7.00, Mackinac Island 7.45, arriving at St. Ignace 8.30 p. m.

GOING SOUTH, Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, will leave St. Ignace 6.00 a. m., Mackinac Island 7.00, Mackinaw City 7.45, Cross Village 10.00, Harbor Springs 11.30, Petoskey 12.30, Charlevoix 2.30, Norwood 3.45, Torch Lake 5.30, arriving at Traverse City 7.45 p. m.

GOOD CONNECTIONS will be made at Traverse City and Petoskey with the best of all points in Northern Michigan.

Steamer NORTH STAR will ply between Mackinac Island and Petoskey, from Old Mission 8.00 a. m., arriving at Traverse City 10.30 a. m., leaving Traverse City 2.30 p. m., arriving at Old Mission 5.00 p. m.

Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays, Petoskey 7.00 a. m., arrive at Traverse City at 11.00 a. m., leave Traverse City 2.00 p. m., arrive at Old Mission 5.00 p. m.

Steamer CITY OF GRAND RAPIDS may every day, and Gazelle every day except Sunday, make connections made at Northport with R. & L. R. R., and at Traverse City with T. & A. R. R.

ADVERTISERS

can obtain estimates for advertising in any line of business or estimates on advertising space anywhere in Chicago, New York or Boston, at 41 to 49 Randolph Street, Chicago, where the Advertising Bureau of

LORD & THOMAS,

can be found.

THE EFFECT OF ABOLISHING PROTECTION.

BY HENRY GEORGE.

The futility and absurdity of protection have been sufficiently demonstrated. But when we come to consider the abolition of protection a claim for delay is always set up. It is said that since capital has been invested and industry organized upon the basis of protection it would be injurious and disastrous to abolish it at once, and that reformation must be gradual and slow. This plea, accepted and even urged, as it is, by many of the most conspicuous opponents of protection, is, nevertheless, one that will not not bear examination.

If protection be unjust—if it be, as it really is, an infringement of equal rights which gives certain citizens advantages at the expense of other citizens, then anything short of its absolute and immediate abolition involves a continuance of injustice. No one can acquire a vested right in injustice; no one can claim property in a privilege. To admit that rights and privileges which have no other basis than an act of the Legislature cannot at any time be taken away by the Legislature is to commit ourselves to the absurd doctrine that has been carried to such a length in Great Britain, where it is held that a sinecure cannot be abolished without buying out the incumbent, and that because a man's ancestors have enjoyed the privilege of living on other people, he and his descendants to the remotest time have acquired a moral right to live upon other people. The true doctrine—of which we might never, under any pretense, to yield one iota—is that enunciated in our Declaration of Independence, the self-evident doctrine that men are endowed by their Creator with equal and inalienable rights, and that no law or institution that denies or impairs this natural equality may at any time be allowed to abide. And the same sanitary lesson could be taught to-day by capitalists throughout the world that that practice is as element in the safety of investments, and that the man who trades upon the ignorance or enslavement of a people does so at his own peril. A few lessons, and every throne in Europe would topple, and every great standing army melt away.

Abolition, or free trade, is the only way in which the industries now protected could be treated with any fairness. The gradual abolition of protection would give rise to the same scrambling and pipe-laying and log-rolling which every tariff change brings about, and the stronger would save themselves at the expense of the weaker.

But further than this, the gradual abolition of protection would not only continue for a long time, though in a diminishing degree, the waste, loss, and vitiation inseparable from the system, but during all this period the anticipations of coming changes and the uncertainty in regard to them would continue to inspire insecurity and depress business, whereas, were protection abolished at once, the shock, whatever it might be, would soon be over, and exchange and industry could at once reorganize upon a sure basis. From on the theory that the abolition of protection involves temporary disaster, immediate abolition is as preferable to gradual abolition as amputation at one operation is to amputation by inches.

And to the working classes—the classes for whom those who deplore sudden change profess to have most concern—the difference would be greater still. It is always in the relative advantage of the poorer classes that any change involving disaster should be as sudden as possible, since the effects of delay in enabling people to give the richer classes opportunity to avoid it at their expense.

But, in truth, the talk about the commercial convulsions and industrial distress that would follow the abolition of protection, is as baseless as the yarn with which Southern slaveholders during the war attempted to keep their chattels from running away—that the Northern armies would sell them to Cuba; as baseless as the predictions of Republican politicians that the election of a Democratic President would paun the assumption of the rebel debt, if not the revival of the lost cause.

The notion that our manufactures would be unprofitable and our iron works closed, and our coal mines shut down by the abolition of protection is a notion akin to that of the coal wagging the locomotive that the goods to come from which are thus to deluge our markets, and how are they to be paid for? There is no positive power enough in Europe to supply them, to say nothing of the effect upon European prices of the demands of 60,000,000 people, who, head for head, consume more than those in the world. And since countries are not going to deluge us with the products of their labor, without demanding the products of our labor in payment, any increase in our imports that would be caused by the abolition of protection would involve a corresponding increase in exports.

The truth is that the change would not only be beneficial to our industries as large—four-fifths of which, at least, are not brought into competition with imported commodities—but it would be beneficial even to those industries which the tariff is supposed to protect. In those that are sheltered by home monopolies profits would be reduced; in those in which the tariff permits the use of inferior machinery and antiquated methods, better machinery would have to be provided, and better work be introduced; but in the great body of our manufacturing industries the effect would only be beneficial, the reduction in the cost of a material far more than compensating for the reduction in prices. And with a lower cost of production, foreign markets, from which our manufactures are now shut out, would be opened. If any industry would be "crushed," it could only be some industry now carried on at national loss.

The real truth that underlies all this talk of the disastrous effects of the sudden abolition of protection was well expressed in a conversation a friend of mine had a while ago with a large manufacturer who belongs to a combination which prevents competition at home while the tariff prevents competition from abroad. The manufacturer was howling against any meddling with the tariff, and dinning upon the man that would be brought upon the country by free trade.

"Yes," said my friend, who had been listening with an air of respectful and sympathetic attention, "I suppose if the tariff were abolished, you would immediately have to shut up your works."

"Well, not quite that," said the manufacturer. "We could go ahead, even with free trade; but then we couldn't get the same rents."

We may dismiss from our minds all fear of any disastrous result from the abolition of protection, no matter how sudden.

The increased rents which the removal of restrictions upon trade would give to the production of wealth would be felt in all directions. Instead of a collapse there would be a revivification of industry. Rings would be broken up, and there profits are now excessive they would come down; but production would go on under healthier conditions, and with greater energy. American manufactures would begin to find markets over the whole world. American ships would again sail the ocean. The Delaware would soon ring like the Clyde with the clash of riveting hammers, and the United States would rapidly take the first place in the industrial and commercial world to which her population and natural resources entitle her, but which is now occupied by England. While relief would be felt in all other taxes, legislation and administration would be improved, and governmental reforms be made easier.

TARIFF AND HOME RESOURCES.

(From the Indianapolis Sentinel.)

A contemporary says: "The idea of tariff duty at all is the development of home resources," and goes on to reason that the rates of tariff prices imposed by the operation of the protection idea would not add, but would remove competition, when prices would go up. This is a very fine theory and develops results that have always proven exactly opposite. It is the theory and memory of living men when this election triumph was used to persuade the Irish artisan that to remove the duty on foreign grain would allow the farmer with bread instead of rendering cheaper bread, but it was found that the farmers had been starving from the high price and scarcity of the staple, and the disappointed the assertion was true. But, in the argument, I drain was made free, and the world was invited to supply. This invitation was usually interpreted by setting American agriculture in the way to enhance prices, by that has contributed to make this the richest country on earth. But having a monopoly of grain, and cotton, and other products, we have not, however, let the world supply our wants, and we have gone to 15 per cent. beyond our own requirements and can not parrade the world for a foreign market. The gross is unfair, and in fact impossible, terms we have attempted to extort. Cultivate the home industry idea long enough and our labors must be limited to producing our own wants and no more by a home market. Social checks and balances this can not be applied except on the commonest principle.—Indianapolis Freeman.

The Protection Fetishism.

What good does protection do us at present time? That is a practical question, and one that should be easy to answer. First, as to the laboring man. The only way it can help him is by giving him high wages or cheap commodities. Does it give him high wages? The figures prove that it does not. The lowest wages in America are those paid by protected manufacturers, and they are just about the same as those paid in pauper England, while in those industries which cannot possibly be affected by protection wages are much higher. Any one inclined to doubt can verify the figures for himself. It should be clear that a tax cannot raise wages—and we see that it does not.

Does it give him cheap commodities? If it does it defeats its own object. That object is to guarantee high prices to home manufacturers, so as to enable them to compete with foreigners, and large profits mean high prices. If prices be not thus raised there is no protection. The idea is to compel men to buy home goods, and to do this we have to make it impossible for them to buy cheap imported goods. A comparison of prices of manufactured goods here and in England will show that, except in periods of great depression, when laboring men cannot afford to buy much of anything, our workmen do not get cheap commodities. And the tariff schedule shows that the heaviest tax is on the cheapest commodities.

If it be insisted that the prices are reduced to foreign level through domestic competition, the question comes why maintain the tariff when it fails to accomplish this end? Clearly it doesn't help the laboring man, and it lowers the price of the only thing he has to sell—his labor. Protection enriches every corporation.

As to the manufacturer. What the manufacturer wants above all things just now is, first, a market; second, free raw materials. Protection oppresses him of both. We have the home market—at least, we have it enough. We have a surplus of almost everything. We can supply the home demand. We must sell it abroad, and we can't sell it unless we can buy enough money to pay for it with their own products. But tariff forbids this. We have a surplus of articles of farm products would disappear if a million or so farmers were taken from manufactures. Perhaps it would, but would it be wise to increase the number of manufactures? Our factories can supply the home market. Our farmers can't. The rest of the time they are to be idle. Does we want more of this? We want the home market—and trade is simply an exchange of commodities—and we want everything that keeps us out of the markets of the world, and that adds the tax on raw materials. No other nation, no other land has such a tax, so what we do in the neutral market we have to compete with men who have been allowed to purchase their raw materials free. Hence it is not surprising that they can underbid us. We do compete, in a small way, but we do it by selling our goods cheaper to foreigners than we sell them at home. Thus it is that the tariff discriminates against home consumers. They are honored because we are the finest believers in protection should favor free raw materials. The man of the farmer and the general consumer is so that that it needs no argument to show the people who pay the largest portion of the taxes. The idea of maintaining heavy taxes being wrong to those who pay the most, it is good to shield a duty from capital.

It is needless to add that protection is not favor free raw material. The case of the manufacturer is so plain and so clear that it needs no argument. They are willing to pay the duty, to pay more for the tax, and it will not be maintained that the tariff taxes but a few people who pay them. A tax is just so much duty on the consumer.

It is probable that protection does benefit the iron industry. The place lands of Michigan and Wisconsin, and the coal measures of Ohio and Pennsylvania and the Hocking Valley, that regard it strike the idea that gets any good from it is very small. The great bulk of the profits go to the iron. To the great body of the American people, it is a burdensome tariff is an unmitigated curse.—Indianapolis Freeman.

DOES PROTECTION PROTECT?

Foreign Trade of the United States for the Last Fiscal Year.

The tables of our foreign trade for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1886, show a marked reaction against our illiberal policy. As the result of the imposition of prohibitory or other tariffs, they are moved to supply their wants from other sources. Liberality works both ways, and, while we have a duty upon foreign goods, we manufactures abroad, the export of our agricultural products, and the importation of our goods, we will be able to sell our products and buy such of the goods we need to be produced by our own people. But we have by this idea admirably succeeded in developing home industries for home use for now that they are developed. On every side we see rival industries, manufacturers, by every conceivable organization of effort and labor, to prevent home competition, by controlling prices and production, and to prevent free competition. We expect trade with the world we must trade with the world, for it cannot be so as continually and pay cash, when we have not only built a dozen powerful competitors who will trade on a basis of equality, but have exhausted our resources and we are, therefore, driven from foreign commerce, and nothing will be the more complete as our "idea" is carried out.

Suppose that the world is freed from our monopoly of raw materials it freed from our monopoly of raw materials it freed from our monopoly of raw materials it

FINE WRITING PAPERS, BOX PAPERS, CRAYON TABLES, RULED AND UNRULED.

SCHOOL BOOKS and SCHOOL SUPPLIES!

☞If you want to save money, buy of

G. W. Crouter, Druggist.

Temperance Column.

MISS L. SPAULDING.

Conducted by a Committee of the W. C. T. U.

OFFICERS.

President—Mrs. G. J. Ayres.
First Vice President—Mrs. C. J. Cook.
Second Vice President—Mrs. E. Wright.
Third Vice President—Mrs. R. Sagent.
Recording Secretary—Miss Julia Mason.
Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. L. E. Allen.
Treasurer—Mrs. C. J. Strang.

The First Martyr to the Cause of Temperance.

We have before alluded to the assassination of Rev. G. C. Haddock in Sioux City, Iowa. He was a pronounced temperance man. He believed in moral suasion. He pleaded with men and urged on them the duty and privilege of being free from the tyrannous of intemperance. He believed in Sinai, as well as Calvary. He believed the cross could not be seen unless a back-ground was held up also. He was one of the foremost in enforcing stringent temperance laws of Iowa. His life has been threatened repeatedly; but he never faltered. He seems to have had a premonition of his death. Writing to Dr. Edwards, of this city, editor of the Northwestern Christian Advocate (he was a Methodist), July 19, he said:

We are engaged in a desperate struggle here. It is dangerous for a man to take a radical stand for prohibition. It is currently rumored that a hundred men are under oath to burn the churches as soon as the saloons are closed. I have signed twenty-five complaints, and I believe I take my life in my hand in so doing. I believe we shall win eventually, though the fight will be long and desperate.

Mr. Haddock has won, and is doubtless to-day wearing his crown, though his body lies in the grave. At last accounts the assassin had not been apprehended. The minister was shot in the back at night, and though he lived five or ten minutes, he never spoke a word, but died in the gutter, his head on the sidewalk where he fell. He died at his post. He was engaged in the enforcement of law and order. He was not bitter toward any man, but was determined and would never brag nor run. He meant that judgment should be set in the earth, if he gave his life's blood to the work. The offering has been made, and, we doubt not, accepted.

Now it is often said the blood of the martyrs is seed of the church. When the friends of slavery shot down Owen Lovejoy, in Alton, Ill., they doubtless supposed they had helped their cause. That shot was heard around the world. It brought William Lloyd Garrison to his feet, and started Wendell Phillips in his anti-slavery course. It made a thousand abolitionists and heaved the cause forward. Lovejoy did more in his death than he ever accomplished during his life, though his life was devoted to the emancipation of the slaves.

It is easy to say that Mr. Haddock was a fanatic, but Christian civilization owes much to men who have been so stigmatized. The friends of temperance all over the country will rally to the cull that Iowa is now making. We do not believe there will be a saloon left in Sioux City, and very soon the dens of sin will be driven from the fair state which Mr. Haddock had adopted as his own. Iowa is clean and brave. She will stand by her defenders. She will enforce her prohibitory law, and smite all who oppose it. The cause will spread into Illinois and Nebraska, and very soon we shall hear no more about high license, and how easy it is to overcome the liquor interest if dealers will only pay for the privilege of killing men.—Advance.

J. W. Graves & Co. are the same awake dry goods firm of northern Michigan.

remember F. W. Clarke & Co.'s big bargain table. Don't forget it.

MILLINERY

and Fancy Goods.

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

New Grocery!

Cor. Antrim and Grant Streets.

A. J. MUDGE

Would respectfully announce to the people of Charlevoix and vicinity, especially to the residents of the southwestern part of town, and all coming in from the south, that he has opened a stock of Groceries in his building on the corner of Antrim and Grant streets, and requests all to give him a trial.

BUTTER AND EGGS WANTED

CHARLEVOIX

Savings Bank

Organized under the General Banking Law of the State of Michigan.

Henry Bennett, President.
John Nicholls, Vice President.

DIRECTORS:

Henry Bennett, O. D. Wood,
John Nicholls, A. Burtless,
A. R. Upright, A. Fox.
F. A. Smith, Cashier.

CAPITAL, $25,000
Surplus, 5,000

The liabilities of Stockholders in all State Banks of this state, by Act 215, Sec. 40 of Revised Statutes of the State of Michigan, is double the amount of stock held. This bank is organized under the General Banking Law of Michigan, for the transaction of every legitimate branch of Banking business extended to our customers on terms as favorable as are consistent with safety.

Drafts drawn direct on the leading commercial cities of the world in large or small amounts. Money to loan on approved paper. Exchange bought and sold. Certificates of deposit issued payable on demand.

We respectfully solicit your patronage.

CORRESPONDENTS:

NATIONAL PARK BANK.....NEW YORK.
NATIONAL CITY BANK.....CHICAGO.
NATIONAL CITY BANK.....GRAND RAPIDS.
DETROIT NATIONAL BANK.....DETROIT.

Owing to Special Rates in Photographic Stock, I will continue to make

Cabinet Photographs at $4.00 per Dozen

Until further notice.

Dave Bradbeer,

Photographer,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

GOLD

Bible sent free to any one who writes to Hallett & Co., Portland, Maine, who can furnish you employment that will fill your pocket with gold coin at a rate that will astonish you. Some have made over $10 in a day. Either sex, young or old. Capital required. You are your own paymaster. Many are absolutely sure of being made fortunate. All is new.

State Elections for the Year.

The following list will be found of interest and should be cut out for future reference:

Alabama elected state officers and legislature August 3; elects congressmen November 2.

Arkansas elects state officers and legislature September 6; congressmen November 2.

California elects state officers, legislature and congressmen Nov. 2.

Colorado elects state officers, legislature and congressmen Nov. 2.

Connecticut elects state officers, legislature and congressmen Nov. 2.

Delaware elects governor, legislature and congressmen November 2.

Florida elects legislature and congressmen November 2, and votes upon the proposed new constitution of the state which was framed by the convention which met in 1885.

Georgia elects state officers and legislature October 6; congressmen November 2, and votes upon a proposed amendment to the state constitution to abolish the contract system in the prisons of the state.

Indiana elects minor state officers and congressmen November 2.

Iowa elects minor state officers and congressmen November 2.

Kansas elects state officers, legislature and congressmen November 2.

Kentuckey elects congressmen November 2.

Louisiana elects congressmen November 2.

Maine elects governor, legislature and congressmen September 13.

Maryland elects congressmen November 2.

Massachusetts elects state officers, legislature and congressmen November 2.

Michigan elects state officers, legislature and congressmen November 2.

Minnesota elects state officers, legislature and congressmen November 2.

Mississippi elects governor, legislature and congressmen November 2.

Missouri elects minor state officers and congressmen November 2.

Nebraska elects state officers, legislature and congressmen November 2.

Nevada elects state officers, legislature and congressmen November 2.

New Hampshire elects governor, legislature and congressmen November 2.

New Jersey elects governor, legislature and congressmen November 2.

New York elects a judge of the court of appeals, assemblymen and congressmen November 2, and votes upon the question of holding a convention to revise the constitution of the state.

North Carolina elects justices of the supreme court, legislature and congressmen November 2.

Ohio elects minor state officers and congressmen November 2.

Oregon elected state officers, legislature and congressmen June 7.

Pennsylvania elects state officers, legislature and congressmen November 2.

Rhode Island elected state officers and legislature April 7, and ratified the proposed amendments to the constitution of the state, one of which prohibits the sale of intoxicating liquor, and the other admits foreign born union ex-soldiers and sailors to citizenship. Elects congressmen November 2.

South Carolina elects state officers, legislature and congressmen November 2.

Tennessee elected judges of the supreme court August 4; elects governor, legislature and congressmen November 2.

Texas elects state officers, legislature and congressmen November 2.

Vermont elects state officers, legislature and congressmen September 7.

Virginia elects congressmen Nov. 2 in east Virginia, elects legislature and congressmen November.

Wisconsin elects state officers, legislature and congressmen Nov 2.

The best medical authorities acknowledge the value of Ayer's Pills, and prescribe them with the utmost confidence, as the most effectual remedy for diseases caused by derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default has been made in the payment of the sum of two hundred dollars and fifty dollars, which is the sum now remaining unpaid upon a mortgage dated the 20th day of October, 1881, executed by Thomas J. Daily and Laura J. Daily his wife, to Elias D. Kirkland, which said mortgage was recorded in the office of the register of deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 8th day of November, 1881, in liber 3 of mortgages, on page 404. And the said mortgagee having elected to declare the whole amount due because of said default, and the mortgage being subject to foreclosure by this notice is hereby given that the sum of two hundred and ninety-three dollars, principal and interest, and the further sum of fifty-five dollars, an attorney's fee, stipulated for in said mortgage, and taxes if allowed by law, or in equity having been legally paid to recover the debt so secured or any part thereof, shall be bid at the sale of the premises given by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and in pursuance of the statute, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described, at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of Lewis Hall, in the village of Charlevoix, in said county, on the 8th day of November, 1886, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, all or so much thereof as may be necessary to raise the amount due to the said complainant for the principal and interest, costs and fees, viz: The following described parcel of land, to wit: The northwest quarter (¼) of the northwest quarter (¼) of section twelve (12), in township thirty-two (32), north of range seven (7) west, being in the township of Peaine, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, containing forty acres of land, according to the United States survey thereof.

Dated July 28th, A. D. 1886.

FRANK E. POGUE,
Circuit Court Commissioner,
Charlevoix County, Mich.

Crutchshank & Griffin,
Solicitors for Complainant,
Charlevoix, Michigan.

STAUFFER'S

BROADCAST

Hand-Seeder.

This new invention possesses many qualities peculiarly adapted to farmers of this vicinity.

TEN REASONS:

1. It sows the roughest or smoothest soils.
2. It sows evenly all kinds of grain and seeds, large and small. Wheat, barley, clover, timothy, rape, hops, etc.
3. It sows any desired quantity. One-fourth pound of rain hops seed can be spread over an acre of ground with perfect ease and accuracy.
4. It sows rapidly. With wheat it covers 8 feet to the round. Clover 42; clover and timothy mixed 40. Ten acres of clover sowed in 2½ hours.
5. It is not affected by quite a strong wind.
6. It is quickly adjusted to different quantities of grain.
7. It cannot clog.
8. It is easily operated.
9. It is cheap.
10. It is durable.

Patented by Isaac Stauffer, of Carpenter, Kennet Co., Mich. Sold by

UPRIGHT & EMREY,
Call and examine it. Charlevoix, Mich.

John Nicholls,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Manufacturer of and dealer in

HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER!

ALSO

Dressed lumber, Oar Blades,

WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

A Full Stock of

Jewelry and Silverware,

Optical Goods, Etc.

C. R. BELLINGER,

Charlevoix, Mich.

GUARANTEED TO WEAR TEN YEARS with ordinary use. Sold by all Clothiers and Gents' Furnishers everywhere. Manufactured only by the Boston Rubber Shoe Co.

BOSTON.

For sale by F. G. HINES & CO., Charlevoix.

THIS PAPER may be found on file at Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce St.), where advertising can be taken for it in NEW YORK.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Table in effect January, 1886.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Cincinnati, lv		7 25am	3 30pm
Fort Wayne, ar	6 30pm	12 05n	8 20pm
Kalamazoo, lv		2 55	6 45	6 00am
Battle Creek, lv		3 25	7 15	6 30
Kalamazoo, lv		3 45	7 35	6 50
G'd Rapids, ar		5 20pm	9 10	8 20
G'd Rapids, lv	7 00am		12 00n	2 30pm
Big Rapids, ar	7 15		12 30pm	3 00
Big Rapids, lv	7 15		1 45	3 20
Reed City, ar	8 10		2 40	4 20
Reed City, lv	8 20		2 50	4 30
Cadillac, ar	11 00		5 30	7 10
Cadillac, lv	11 05		5 40	7 20
Manistee, ar	11 45am		6 40	8 00
Kalkaska, lv			4 50	5 50
Mancelona, lv			5 20	6 20
Boyne Falls			5 39	6 39
Alma, ar			8 00	9 00
Harbor Springs, ar			1 30	1 40
Mackinaw City, ar			3 20pm	3 15am

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6	No. 8
Mackinaw City		7 15am	3 50pm
Harbor Springs		9 10
Petoskey, lv		9 35	11 15
Boyne Falls		10 21	12 01am
Alma, lv		10 21	12 01am
Mancelona		10 40	12 20
Kalkaska, lv		11 10	12 50
Cadillac, ar		12 05pm	1 45	2 00pm
Cadillac, lv	6 00am	12 15	1 55	2 05
Reed City, ar	6 50	1 00	2 40	2 50
Reed City, lv	7 00	1 30	3 00	3 20
Big Rapids, ar	7 45	2 15	3 45	4 05
Big Rapids, lv	7 55	2 25	3 55	4 15
Howard City	8 30	3 00	4 30	4 50
Ionia, ar	9 35	4 05	5 35	5 55
Ionia, lv	9 40	4 10	5 40	6 00
G'd Rapids, ar	9 50	4 20	5 50	6 10
G'd Rapids, lv	7 15am	10 40	3 00pm
Kalamazoo, ar	9 05	12 35pm	4 45
Battle Creek, lv	9 35	1 05	5 15	3 00pm
Kalamazoo, lv	9 55	1 25	5 35	3 20
Fort Wayne, ar	3 40pm	11 45		9 15pm
Fort Wayne, lv	1 00	12 10am
Cincinnati, ar	7 00	6 35am		3 00pm

C. L. LOCKWOOD, G. P. A.,
Grand Rapids, Mich.

THE LIGHT RUNNING

NEW HOME

SIMPLE STRONG SWIFT SILENT

SEWING MACHINE

HAS NO EQUAL.

PERFECT SATISFACTION

New Home Sewing Machine Co.

—ORANGE, MASS.—

30 Union Square, N. Y. Chicago, Ill. St. Louis, Mo. Atlanta, Ga. Dallas, Tex. San Francisco, Cal.

FOR SALE BY

H. N. CLINK, East Jordan.

DE LAND & CO'S

CAPITAL SALERATUS

SODA

For Baking Purposes.

Best in the World.

Sold by Upright & Emrey.

JAMES HEMMINGS,

On Mason St., third door west of State, Charlevoix

HOUSE PAINTER,

Calciminer,

Paper Hanger,

And Decorator.

PINS AND HARDWOOD FINISHING. GOOD WORK.

At the Old Stand.

A. J. McLeod

Can be found at the old stand with a

FULL STOCK OF MEATS

of all kinds

At Wholesale and Retail.

HIDES, PELTS & FAT STOCK WANTED.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 164. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 2, 1886. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL

Published every Thursday,

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

OFFICE: on Bridge Street,

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX MICH. AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

WATCH YOUR ADDRESS LABEL.

The date following the name on your address label indicates the time to which your subscription is paid. If it is arrears, you are requested to pay up.

BUSINESS CARDS.

ATTORNEYS.

ARTHUR E. MARTIN, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich. Collections promptly attended to.

CRUTCHSHANK & GRIFFIN, Attorneys at Law and Solicitors in Admiralty. Office in Bulkley Block, Charlevoix, Mich. C. J. GRIFFIN, A. D. CRUTCHSHANK.

DEY & CALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents. Lake St., east of postoffice, Petoskey, Mich.

NEIL W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor, Real Estate business promptly attended to. MONEY TO LOAN.

J. E. NEWCOMB, Attorney at Law and Judge of Probate of Emmet Co., Petoskey, Mich.

EMILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

OSCAR F. WISNER, Attorney at Law and Solicitor in Chancery. Civil Cases promptly attended to. Western District, East Jordan, Mich.

WM. MOORE, Attorney and Solicitor, East Jordan. Admiralty a Specialty.

Z. SIMBOTT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

CHURCHES.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at 12 m. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Seats free. All are cordially invited to attend. REV. J. H. HOOKER, pastor.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock. C. F. VAN AUKEN, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer and praise meeting Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock. J. T. HOOTMAN, pastor.

DENTISTRY.

N. J. PERRY, Dentist. Office at Weed's Drug Store. CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

B. SUFFIELD, Homeopathic Medicines, Books on Domestic Cases, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

PHYSICIANS.

L. LEWIS, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office in the Lewis block, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. M. PRESTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HORACE S. HARSHA, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix, Mich.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

G. A. R.—Baxter Post No. 119, meets second Monday in each month at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 381, meets every Wednesday evening, in their hall.

K. O. T. M.—Resort Tent No. 136, meets second and fourth Thursday evenings in each month.

I. O. L.—True Blue No. 122, meet Saturday on or before full moon, in Barnard school house.

MASONIC—Charlevoix Lodge No. 382, meets Saturday on or before full moon, in Emmet hall.

W. F. BROWN, President.
J. E. GAITHER, Cashier.

Brown & Co.'s Bank of Charlevoix

CAPITAL, $25,000.

Drafts drawn direct upon the principal cities of the world. Collections receive prompt attention. Good securities bought and sold. Tickets to and from all points in Europe by best lines. Correspondents—Importers and Traders National Bank, New York; National Bank, Chicago; Merchants and Manufacturers' National Bank, Detroit; Fourth National Bank, Grand Rapids.

WELL DIGGING.

I am prepared to dig, drive, and repair wells of all kinds, and guarantee satisfaction. Leave orders with Stockman & Gallagher.

E. W. BENNETT,
Charlevoix, Mich.

Jos. Beauvais

BOAT-BUILDER.

The Best Modeled, Easiest Rowing and Sailing Boats in Northern Michigan, for the Least Money. Give me a Trial. I am bound to Please.

Boat Livery

in connection with shop.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

Heath, Francis & Co.

Builders and Jobbers,

Charlevoix, Mich.

Plans, Specifications, and material furnished, and houses built complete. Repairing and rebuilding done to order.

FINE FURNITURE

Built to order, and repairs of all kinds made on short notice. First-class work guaranteed.

Will take Timber or Block wood in part payment for furniture. Shop on Lewis street, west of Village Hall, Charlevoix, Mich.

1872. 1886.

DR. G. W. CROUTER,

Drugs, Stationery and Wall Paper.

Dental Office in Rear of Drug Store.

ADVERTISEMENTS of three lines or more will be inserted in this column for each insertion. (This is about average seven words to a line.) Each additional line, three cents each insertion.

THREE CENTS

JOB HOGAN, House Painter and Interior Decorator, Charlevoix, Mich. Residence one door west of factory. 12

JOB PRINTING of every description executed promptly, neatly, artistically, and cheaply, at the JOURNAL Office.

LETTER HEADS, Note Heads, Statements, Bill Heads, Envelopes, Cards, Tags, and Stock, at the JOURNAL Office.

VIEWS OF CHARLEVOIX on heavy card stock, 25 cents per dozen, suitable for frames, for sale at this office, 5 cts. each.

WOOD WANTED on subscription. Parties intending to make a subscription to the JOURNAL during the summer season for winter, will take kindly to this method.

WANTED.—A Good, Wide-Awake correspondent is wanted for this paper in every town and school district in the adjoining counties. For further information call on or address this office

Terrace Farm

J. R. & J. S. DIXON

Charlevoix, Mich.

Dairy, Vegetable, and Stock Farm. THOROUGHBRED and Grade HOLSTEINS a specialty.

COMMERCIAL HOUSE

D. B. JERRUE, Proprietor.

East Jordan, Michigan.

Entirely rebuilt and refurnished. First-class Sample Room for agents. Good Stable in connection with the House. 25

FARMERS' HOTEL,

WM. SANGER, MANAGER,

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN

Excellent accommodations for steady boarders, and for farmers with their families who want a good dinner. Good stable for feeding teams. The management of this house will not interfere with any usual work at the season's trade.

WM. SANGER.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,

RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix - Michigan.

Finest location in town, giving good view of lakes and boats. Rooms, office, and bar quarters for Petoskey and Elk Rapids Stages. Sample room for commercial travelers adjoining hotel.

Millinery And Fancy Goods!

A Splendid Line of Ribbons, Ladies' Gloves, Zephyrs, Laces, Ladies' Fine Underwear, and Stamping Goods always on hand at Lowest Prices.

Smith & Cooper,

At the Ingleside.

WM. J. STEVENSON,

HORSE-SHOEING,

Wagon Shop,

BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture my own wagons, of the best material, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

☞ THE OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale. 12

The above Engraving, Invented by the Johnston Optical Co., of Detroit, Mich., combines the Finest Lenses in the world.

1st. The lenses can be placed far enough away that the eye-lashes will not touch them, a thing not always easy to do with other spectacles.

2d. The guards are not so as to chafe the nose and leave a sore, which prevents slipping and falling off.

3d. The pressure is on the fleshy part of the nose above the bone, which prevents irritation.

4th. The lever feature secures its perfect adjustment to the nose whether large or small.

5th. The lenses are set at right angles to line of vision.

6th. They can be worn safely without cord or chain as there is no danger of falling off.

7th. We warrant, them to be the finest glass in the market.

C. R. BELLINGER,

Optician and Jeweler, Charlevoix, Mich.

DEMOCRATIC NOMINATIONS.

State Ticket.

For Governor—
GEORGE L. YAPLE, of St. Joseph.

For Lieutenant-Governor—
SOLOMON S. CURRY, of Marquette.

For Secretary of State—
PHILLIP B. WACHTEL, of Emmet.

For State Treasurer—
WILLIAM G. BELL, of Ionia.

For Auditor-General—
JUDSON S. FARRAR, of Macomb.

For Attorney General—
JOHN C. DONNELLY, of Wayne.

For Commissioner of State Land Office—
WILLIAM D. FULLER, of Newaygo.

For Superintendent of Public Instruction—
DAVID PARSONS, of Wayne.

For Member of State Board of Education—
JEROME W. TURNER, of Shiawassee.

Congressional Ticket.

For Representative in Congress, Ninth District
LYMAN G. MASON, of Muskegon.

Democratic Platform.

Resolved, That the democracy of Michigan recognize the fact that the prosperity of the great mass of those interests dependent on the eminent leaders of the democratic party, Horace Greeley, Jno. R. Clifton, W. S. Hancock, Thos. A. Hendricks and Samuel J. Tilden. These illustrious services may serve as an example to those upon whom shall devolve the responsibilities of the future.

Resolved, That the administration of Grover Cleveland, by its vigor and thoroughness, by its economy, has given to the constituencies affecting public service over those merely political, a practical illustration of the wisdom and legitimacy of carrying into effect the democratic doctrine, by the discouragement of officeseeking, that public office is a trust, and that officeholders to preserve the land for actual settlers, to reduce the tariff, to prevent the waste of the public money, to public office as a public trust, commended itself to the judgment and approval of all honest people.

Resolved, That though more than twenty years have passed since the democratic party forged that a large number of that political and patriotic army that preserved to us an undivided country are still among us. That with increasing disability, the result of their privations and exposures, they still hold the ground gained, and should be cared fully with them and that the real pensioners of the war, the widows and children, and not a few half, but in a direct form for inestimable services rendered their country.

Resolved, That taxation of the people for the benefit of a few manufacturers, under the pretense of the government necessarily administered is robbery under the forms of law, and we are therefore in favor of a revision of the present tariff and its adjustment to a revenue basis.

Resolved, That the democracy of Michigan, believing in the dignity of American labor, recognize the right of large working bodies to the fostering care of government to the end that the industrial interests of the country of life shall be encouraged in its work of building up the material interests of the state.

Resolved, That we pledge ourselves to legislation which shall forever debar convict labor from competition with free labor throughout this country, and which shall forfeit for all time the franchises to our shores of cheap contract labor.

Resolved, That the ownership of real estate in this country by foreign corporations and non-resident aliens is injurious to American interests and should be prohibited.

Resolved, That we are in favor of the free coinage of gold and silver, at the present ratio.

Resolved, That as a party we endorse the policy of applying the surplus in the treasury annually as fast as it may accumulate to the payment of the public debt, and the application of the surplus under the existing law, and in lieu of the direct issue by the national government of legal tender treasury notes, to the payment of government certificates.

Resolved, That we favor the adoption of measures providing for the relief and force of those engaged in mining, manufacturing, and building industries, and for demonstration in those engaged therein receiving injuries through its employment.

Resolved, That we demand the repeal of all laws hostile to the rights of the manufacturers hard more Protected and Protected.

YAPLE'S ACCEPTANCE.

Below we publish the text of Mr. Yaple's speech, accepting the nomination for governor on the fusion ticket. After thanking the convention for the high honor conferred upon him Mr. Yaple said:

The democratic and greenback parties of Michigan are in all essential respects identical and purpose. They are both opposed to monopolies of every kind, but both are working for industrial and commercial freedom. They have both written in old another chapter to the history of liberty. Why should they not unite in a common fight against the common enemy—the party of monopolies, and the party of—the republican party. This union is the clasping of the right hand and left hand of labor. It is not the compromise of principles. It is not a surrender of principles. It is simply the massing of the forces of one army, the opposition to the republican party. The republican party is an organized conspiracy against the rights of labor; it is the tool of monopolies, themselves the creatures of class legislation; it is an obstruction in the path of industrial development and commercial liberty.

That great apostle of democracy, Victor Hugo, said, "The greatest problem for the state is, how to increase the purchasing power of labor," When labor prospers all things prosper, and the prosperity of labor is measured by its purchasing power, by the share it is able to secure of the fruits of civilization. The history of the republican party is blotted all over with vicious class laws operating to reduce the purchasing power, depreciating its value, and increasing the value of money, the power of capital—degrading man and elevating the dollar. Which is of the most value, a man or a dollar? Democracy answers the man. The education and development of man is the one object of government. The state exists for man, and not for the state. Manhood is the fine flower of democratic society.

We are living in the richest period of the world's history. Every year we are growing in wealth, but every year the proportion of that wealth, which goes to support producing labor is very decreasing. Art, science, every useful invention, all the best of nature, are democratic and work for the common good and common wealth. Our national progress tends to bring about equality and general diffusion of wealth, but by artificial restrictions and combinations—the unjustness of our system of class legislation—wealth is massed in centers and the lawful load of aristocracy wields the raptor of power. We know how to produce wealth. So does England, Germany and Russia. But the grandeur of America, like that of England, roots back to the sand and suffering of the army that achieved her material greatness, the army of laborers. The army needs no over-supplies, it is not on the amount of wealth, but on the distribution of it that the prosperity of a country depends. The policy of the republican party has been to provide labor with constantly increasing work, and constantly decreasing pay. Our laborers are not a particular class. They constitute the people, and their destiny is the fate of the republic. There can be no democracy until industry is free. There can be no general prosperity until every law which depreciates the purchasing power of labor and degrades the value of man, is blotted from the statutes of the nation.

The policy of the republican party is treason to the republic. It has farmed out prerogatives of government to private individuals and corporations to be prostituted to them to purposes of private gain. Its system of taxation and finance has been a system of transfer of public power to private control for private gain. It has armed one class with the power of issuing and controlling the volume of currency. The work of democracy is to restore the government to the people. It belongs to them and they will have it. In accepting your nomination I engage to enter the battle, already gloriously begun, for the removal of all obstructions from the path of industrial progress, to repeal all laws that shackle our wealth-producing forces, to stamp out the conspiracy of class interests against the common weal, to clear the way for genuine democracy. The victory won in the change of national administration is prophetic of the result. The courage and integrity of the administration, and the many reforms which it has inaugurated, deserve the approval and support of all. On the question of tariff and currency I have my own convictions. You know what they are. Those convictions are not for sale for any man's favor, or for any position on earth. They are growing convictions, and since the declaration of principles made to-day by the democratic party of Michigan they have grown rapidly. I have more faith and confidence than ever. Those old superstitions and superstitious which like polluted rags have disfigured the fair form of our country's greatness are fast passing away. Courage will gather the fruit of victory. But should we fail, even so, in the language of Sir Robert Peel, we have the satisfaction of reflecting that our object has been to mitigate monopoly, to increase the demand for industry, to remove restrictions on commerce, to equalize the burden of taxation, and to ameliorate the condition of those who labor.

Philip B. Wachtel.

In the nomination of P. B. Wachtel for office of secretary of state an honor has been bestowed upon northern Michigan in which every citizen, no matter what his politics, has a share. We congratulate the people of our section of the state that the old idea of its being a howling wilderness undeserving of any considerable political recognition is giving way to an appreciation of importance politically, as well as commercially. Mr. Wachtel's nomination is a high honor—as well as a deserved one—to him personally, but it is a higher one to the "neck of the woods." We all know that the different political parties are inclined to ignore this region, and Mr. Wachtel was put forward as the man put forward as the man most likely to secure recognition of our claims. The wisdom of the selection was shown by the enthusiastic support he received from every portion of the state, and his unanimous nomination by acclamation. Mr. Wachtel's friends had brought out his name for the position of auditor general, and had they insisted upon it he would have been nominated for that office. But when a genuine soldier was mentioned for the place in behalf of our country's brave defenders, Mr. Wachtel refused to be a candidate against him and with characteristic generosity and magnanimity insisted that his friends withdraw his name. When they complied with his request and gave their support to Col. Farrar, Mr. Wachtel became the choice of the whole convention as well as of northern Michigan, and he was nominated for secretary of state by the united votes of the convention.

The result was perfectly satisfactory to his friends. All that they asked was a recognition of northern Michigan and the eminent personal claims of our candidate. This was secured even in a higher degree than they asked for by his nomination for the more important position of secretary of state.

Of course it is not to be expected that the dyed-in-the-wool republican of these northern counties will vote for Mr. Wachtel, but notwithstanding they oppose him politically they can consistently rejoice at his nomination—just as we shall if one of our republican fellow-citizens is nominated at Grand Rapids to-morrow—and if he is elected, as we feel confident he will be, even the most bitter republicans will feel a satisfaction in the fact that he is one of us.

We call upon the fusionists of this part of the state to show their appreciation of the honor done us in Mr. Wachtel's nomination. Let us pull off our coats and work every hour from now until election for a sweeping victory. Let us roll up a grand majority for our own particular candidate. It is our duty to extend the hand of fellowship to our honest but mistaken republican brethren and lead them from the error of their way. And if they refuse to be converted, are wedded to their idols and reject salvation, we will have to run them into the swamp until after election.

Yaple, Wachtel, and victory, hip, hip, hurrah!—Harbor Springs Independent.

For Governor—George L. Yaple.

The candidate for governor, Hon. George L. Yaple is in the prime of a well rounded and richly endowed manhood. He is 35 years of age, and bears himself with the modesty that denotes the true gentleman. He is a graduate of the northwestern university at Evanston, Ill., and was admitted to the bar at the age of 21. He went back on his farm until he attained the age of 26, and then returned to the practice of his profession, winning high honors as a forcible advocate. In 1880 he ran for congress on the greenback ticket; in 1882 he was the fusion candidate for representative and defeated Julius Cæsar Burrows in a strong republican district. In 1884 he was again the fusion candidate, and although Blaine received over 2,000 majority in the district, Burrows obtained only 355 plurality over the brilliant young Mendon statesman. Mr. Yaple made a vigorous canvass each time, and won the love and admiration of his constituents. His splendid record in congress is well known. By his eloquent speeches on the Morrison tariff bill and the odious McPherson banking bill he won wide renown and his name became almost a household word in Michigan. We predict that his canvass for the governorship will be one of the most glorious and memorable political events of these stirring times. He has the courage of his convictions, and his expositions of the principles and purposes of the gallant allies who have nominated him will be distinguished for their breadth of thought, brilliancy of rhetoric, compactness of logic and electric potency of statement. He is the most powerful champion of the cause of popular rights in the northwest. The people are already beginning to enthusiastically rally around the standard of their brave young leader, and and our overwhelming victory next November is an assured fact.—Lansing Journal.

Shipments.

Aug. 26—Schr. Charlie Marshall, 50 cords wood, 198 cords bark, Empey, to Chicago.

28—Prop. J. H. Purdy, 140 cords wood, Johnston, to Milwaukee.

27—Schr. Cayahoga, 120 cords wood, H. Edwards, to Chicago.

27—Schr. H. T. Moore, 120,000 feet hardwood lumber, Pere Lake Lumber Co., to Sheboygan.

27—Schr. Ontario, 80 cords wood, O. J. Smith, to Milwaukee.

27—Schr. Burt Barns, 100 cords wood, O. Oberg to Milwaukee.

26—Schr. Lapotite, 150 cords wood, F. Thorp, to Milwaukee.

26—Schr. John L. Green, 75 cords wood, N. F. Peterson, to Milwaukee.

26—Schr. Black Hawk, 100 cords wood, Perkins to Milwaukee.

26—Schr. Jennie Weaver, 35 cords wood, 45 cords bark, J. H. Pierce, to Chicago.

The following is a summary of the shipments from the port of Charlevoix for the week ending Wednesday evening, and for the corresponding week of 1885:

	1886.	1885.
Hardwood lumber, feet.....	320,000	120,000
Wood, cords.....	495	300
Bark, cords.....	206	90
Fresh fish, pounds.....	6,500	5,500

Bridge-tender J. S. Martin reports the number of times he has opened the bridge during the month of August as follows:

Steamboats, including tugs.....	191
Sailing vessels.....	171
Fish boats.....	106
Steam Yachts.....	4
Pleasure boats.....	42
Total.....	514

Purely Personal.

Judge Newberry, of Petoskey, was in town yesterday.

E. S. Pratt, of Traverse City was in Charlevoix this week.

Mrs. David Grier, of Charlotte, is the guest of C. J. Grier and wife.

Frankfort Express: "Henry Emrey and wife, of Charlevoix, were in town Sunday night.

H. H. Everard, of the Kalamazoo Publishing Co., made us a brief call Monday morning, before his departure for home.

A Million Dollars.

Millions of dollars would be saved annually by the laraide of

THE JOURNAL
BY CHAS. J. STRANG.
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

EASTERN.

The President and his party are having a delightful time in the Adirondacks.

A fire at Earlville, N. Y., destroyed property to the value of $100,000.

It is claimed that ghouls made an effort to steal the body of W. H. Vanderbilt at Staten Island.

In a race near London, a mile was run by Mr. George in 4:12½, the fastest time on record.

ABIJO A. Lawrence, the Boston philanthropist and merchant, is dead. Mr. Lawrence was active as an abolitionist in the settlement of Kansas during the border troubles, and the city of Lawrence, Kansas, was named in his honor. He was a Whig candidate for the Governorship of Massachusetts before the war. He held many offices of trust in business, charitable, religious and educational institutions; was Treasurer of Harvard College from 1857 to 1862, and was also at one time Treasurer of the Episcopal Theological School at Cambridge.

Rev. James C. Beecher, of Connecticut, the youngest brother of Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, killed himself at the water-cure at Elmira, N. Y., on account of failing health. He was almost 50 years of age. During the war he was a chaplain, a Colonel, and a brevet Brigadier General.

WESTERN.

Albany (N. Y.) special, says: "It is stated here on what ought to be good authority, that Thomas F. Bender, of this city, has been appointed Public Printer by President Cleveland, and that the appointment will be made public shortly. Mr. Bender is Deputy Comptroller of the State of New York, and is personally known to President Cleveland. He has held his present position a number of years."

There was a thrilling scene in Barnum's Circus, at Madison, Wis. Mrs. Henry Reif's hot blow under a cage containing four panthers. When she stopped to pick up one of the animals caught her head in its paws, and lacerated her face in a frightful manner. A keeper was in the cage at the time, and attempted to beat the animal back but only succeeded in stirring the savage natures of the other three. They appeared ready to tear him, but he turned on them and succeeded in lashing them back. Mrs. Reif's wounds are serious.

The Hon. John Fitzgerald, the newly elected President of the Irish National League of America, was welcomed home at Lincoln, Neb., by fully 5,000 citizens and the music of instrumentals, brass whistles and bells. At the depot a procession was formed, headed by Gov. Dawes, Chief Justice Cobb, and Mayor Brock, and Mr. Fitzgerald was escorted to the opera house, where addresses of welcome were made by Gov. Dawes, Judge Cobb, Mayor Brock, and many other prominent citizens.

At a soldiers' reunion at Fort Wayne, Ind., attended by thirty thousand persons, a man with an artificial leg was stabbed in the low of a hand by one participant and of a thumb by another.

In the case of Dr. S. A. Richmond, who killed Colonel James W. Strong at St. Louis, on May 26, the jury returned a verdict declaring the defendant was insane at the time of the murder, and that he is at present of unsound mind.

SOUTHERN.

John W. Stevenson, who had been Senator and Representative in Congress and Governor of Kentucky, has passed away at the age of 74 years.

Gov. Ireland, of Texas, has issued a proclamation calling for relief for the drought sufferers.

Reports from Texas indicate that the recent storm was the most destructive ever known there. The wind attained a velocity of twenty-five miles an hour, and continued for eight hours. Every town along the western Gulf coast suffered severely. In Fort Worth forty houses were completely demolished and hundreds had their roofs blown off. From Indianola comes the sad dead news. Here the signal office was blown down, carrying with it Captain I. A. Reed, signal officer, and Dr. H. Rosencrans, of Elgin, 41, both of whom were lost. Fire broke out among the ruins and extended for blocks, destroying thirteen houses. The total loss in Texas is: Thirty-eight lives, $1,000,000 to crops, $5,400,000 to city and town property, and $900,000 to shipping and harbor improvements.

The City Council of Galveston has appropriated $10,000 for the relief of the sufferers by the storm, and citizens have subscribed $6,000. It is said that only three houses in Indianola escaped destruction, and nearly all the cattle and sheep on the island were drowned.

POLITICAL.

William L. Scott, of Erie, Pa., declined a renomination to Congress on account of the demands of his private business, but the Democratic convention paid no attention to his letter. The Republicans of the Seventh Iowa District nominated Maj. J. H. Conger. The Democrats of the Eleventh Illinois District nominated James H. Branyan. Allen D. Candler was nominated and by the Democrats of the Ninth Georgia District; W. H. Fyle by the Democrats of the Twenty-sixth Pennsylvania; Judge Thomas Wilson by the Democrats of the First Minnesota; J. C. Scranton by the Republicans of the Twelfth Pennsylvania; A. O. Crosier by the Prohibitionists of the Second Michigan; and D. H. Moulton by the workingmen of the First Maine District.

Ohio Republicans held their State convention at Columbus, and renominated Gov. Foraker, and nominated State officers as follows: Secretary of State, James S. Robinson, renominated; Supreme Judge, Marshall J. Williams, of Fayette; Supreme Court Clerk, U. H. Hoadly, of San Werl; School Commissioner, Eli T. Tappan, of Knox; member of the Board of Public Works, W. M. Mahr, of Richland. The platform condemns the administration for failing to keep its pledges to the people, for its conduct of the Canadian fisheries and Cutting cases, and for its removal of officials "upon the cowardly subterfuge of offensive partisanship;" favors the pensioning of all soldiers and the erection of homes for disabled veterans; demands a restoration of the soul tariff of 1867, and denounces the recent attempt to pass the Morrison bill through Congress; condemns the extravagance of the last State administration, and the failure of the United States Senate to investigate the charges against Senator Payne. Other planks express sympathy with the Irish home-rule movement, indorse Governor Foraker's administration and the action of the last Legislature, and declare the sorrow of all loyal people for the loss of Gen. Grant. The planks on the labor and liquor questions are low.

The Republican party just over stood as the friend of labor against all who would either enslave it or destroy its rights, declares the Cleveland platform, which will impose the laborer from dangerous foreign competition, and which will unfairly discriminate against labor with organized approval. Unswerving in our home rule principles, we demand such legislation as may insure to each State the full benefit of its own industry. We recognize the right of all men to organize to promote their interests and secure protection in every way that does not infringe upon the rights of others, and to this end we favor the enactment of such laws as will protect labor, the fund of which shall be a Cabinet office, a bureau of labor, with the usual functions, and publish statistical information relating to all departments of industry, including commerce, and the relations of capital to the nation. We demand that all officers, agents and employes of the United States, and all laws which provide for the proper security of life and property, be faithfully enforced.

Favoring as we do every legitimate and constitutional effort to lighten the burdens of taxation we invite resulting from the traffic in intoxicating liquors and recommend such action as will keep abreast with enlightened public sentiment. We favor the protection of our people by such a tariff as will secure to American labor the benefit of the home market, and practical legislation tending to that end.

The Iowa Republican convention at Des Moines renominated the State officers, with the exception of Auditor, for which place Orphen Lyons was selected. Following is the ticket: Secretary of State, F. D. Jackson; Treasurer, V. T. Twombly; Auditor, J. A. Lyons; Attorney General, A. J. Baker; Supreme Court Clerk, G. R. Tracy; Supreme Court Reporter, J. C. Davis. The platform declares that the Democratic national administration has failed to redeem any of its pledges to the people, and enumerates the President's vetoes; demands that the public domain be given only to actual settlers in limited quantities; opposes the acquisition of more land by the government alone; arraigns the Democratic majority in the present House of Representatives for not passing promptly the Cullom interstate commerce and Sioux City and St. Paul land grant forfeiture bills; urges Iowa Representatives in Congress to support the bill for the admission of Dakota; demands the enactment of laws giving all disabled veterans of the late war pensions, dating all pensions from the time when a soldier's disability began, and grant big pensions to all veterans of the Mexican war who are now dependent upon political disability; denounces political outrages committed at the South and in Northern cities; sympathizes with Ireland and Italy in toil. Other planks are as follows:

The Republican party, standing for that principle of equal citizenship to which is due the recognition of him over all other nations, and recognizing the necessity of protection against aggression, and the maintenance of our rights upon the seas, demands of our Government equal and exact justice between labor and capital. We demand legislation for American interests against competition with pauper labor and the importation of the refuse of the old and crowded labor of Europe.

The laws for the suppression of intemperance were created as a part of the police regulation of our State to obedience to the will of the people, and we hold that the duty devolves upon the official officers of this Democratic State to encourage resistance to those laws, and to enforce the penalties of the license clauses in regard to them, thereby nullifying social order and leading to perpetuation of lawlessness and crime. We hold that fully recognizing the right of the people to prohibit the traffic in liquors we are clear here which time by proper methods for the suppression of their sentiments, we insist that these laws and all other laws of this State shall be faithfully and fearlessly enforced.

Republican Congressional convention nominated J. R. Gillins for the Fourth District of Minnesota, Joseph G. Cannon for the Fifteenth District of Illinois, and Charles Churchill in the Sixteenth District. The Democrats of the Second Michigan District placed in the field Lewis H. Salisbury. W. C. Maybury declines a renomination from the Detroit district. Andrew B. White will not accept a nomination by the Republicans of the Twenty-eighth New York District.

WASHINGTON.

A statement issued by the Bureau of Statistics of the Treasury Department regarding immigration gives the total number of immigrants who arrived at the six principal ports of the United States during the month of July, 1885, at 37,548, an increase of 5,906 over the number arriving during the same month last year. During the seven months ended July 31, 1885, there arrived 229,213, a gain of more than during the corresponding period of 1885. The following table shows the number arriving from each of the countries named during the seven months:

England and Wales	29,967
Ireland	27,331
Scotland	5,242
Germany	42,227
France	6,726
British Provinces	29,797
Switzerland	3,247
Sweden and Norway	15,167
Denmark	3,159
The West Indies	1,024
Italy	11,027
Netherland	1,609
All other countries	4,123

THE INDUSTRIAL OUTLOOK.

Pittsburgh now has seven Bessemer furnaces; 38,000 are generally having the time of their lives that the builders are moving West to obtain work.

A new time-table calling for six trips instead of five, and increasing the number of hours, caused a strike of the Jewsbury street car line in New York.

The Pullman Car Company has bought the plant of the Car Manufacturing Company of Wilmington (Del.), and will at once proceed to enlarge the works and fit them for the company's Eastern headquarters for repairs and new work. The company will vacate its Elmira (N. Y.) works.

General Master Workman T. V. Powderly made an address in Knights of Labor at Wilkesbarre, Pa., an address in which he strongly denounced the rioting and violence carried on in the name of the Knights of Labor. He emphatically declared that he was not responsible for any political office, and would not accept the highest office in the United States if it were offered him. Mr. Powderly also said: "The anarchists will now shoot a foothold in the Knights of Labor. Anarchy is destructive to civil liberty, and no honest workman can afford to identify himself with an organization which has for its object the destruction of life and property."

MISCELLANEOUS.

The war feeling growing out of the Cutting case has entirely died out in Mexico, and it is thought the trouble will be amicably adjusted. An El Paso dispatch says: "It is understood that the Supreme Tribunal of Chihuahua will order the release of Jacob Cutting, the Texas editor, on the ground that his alleged offense was committed outside of the jurisdiction of Mexico."

A telegram from El Paso, Texas, gives the following account of the release of the man Cutting:

Cutting was taken before Judge Cantemoc, court in Paso del Norte, and released after the issuance of the writ of habeas corpus in Cutting's form. The decision of the court is based on the ground that the arrest of Cutting was illegal, because it was made on American soil. The court holding that this ended the case, Cutting was set free. The court refused Colling a copy of the decree.

It is said on the Mexican side of the story that the clause of the Mexican constitution which prohibits the publication of libelous matter in foreign channels in the Republic will be enforced against Cutting.

Colonel Cutting was at nearly no cost, Colonel Brigham, and a number of other Texans who went to his assistance, Colonel Cutting was by a corporal's guard across Mexico. Dunlin, the official interpreter, the Yaqui, and other Mexican officials entered the casino, and a lively scene ensued between the parties. The evidence was strong against Cutting. The latter, in reply to the charge of being a disturber, said to Dunlin: "Tell your chief I will meet the five principals in this matter when and where they desire, and the Colonel and Dunlin cried out in Spanish, "A new offense!" Dunlin then demanded the arrest of Cutting's American friends closed in around him and he was escorted over the bridge.

The convicted anarchists spend most of their time now, says a Chicago telegram, "They sleep fairly well, but are losing their appetite to some extent. Their friends, of course, are bringing them fruit, cake, and other delicacies. The jail officials have little fear that any of the convicted anarchists will attempt to commit suicide. Nevertheless, close watch is kept day and night. Unusual care is taken in inspecting whatever is taken to them by their friends lest it may be used for the purpose. Copies of the Arbeiter Zeitung arrived, although the Postmaster Hill having approved the order of Mayor Grace removing Rollin M. Squire from the office of Commissioner of Public Works of New York City, the Mayor has appointed Maj. Gen. John S. Newton, of the United States army, to the position. Gen. Newton is known chiefly for the success of his plans for the removal of the Hell Gate obstructions.

A large number of the leading manufacturers of the Western States met in Chicago last week to agree upon the wisest course to pursue so to convict labor. From one report received from various Secretaries of State, it appears that the boot and shoe, wagon, and machine industries are the most deeply concerned. The meeting organized a national anti-convict association, and adopted a constitution and by-laws. A resolution was adopted favoring Congressional action to prohibit the sale of prison made goods outside the State in which they were manufactured.

LATER NEWS ITEMS.

Michigan Republicans, in convention at Grand Rapids, nominated Cyrus G. Luce for Governor by acclamation; James H. McDonald, for Lieutenant Governor; J. R. Osmun, for Secretary of State; George L. Maltby, for Treasurer; Henry H. Aplin, for Auditor; Moses Taggert, for Attorney General; James M. Ten Eyck, for Commissioner of the Land Office; Joseph Estabrook, Superintendent of Public Instruction, and S. S. Babcock, for member of the State Board of Education. The platform, after eulogizing the Republican party, declares in favor of such a tariff as will best protect the interests of American wage-workers and the restoration of the tariff of 1867 on wool; opposes the importation of Chinese labor, the present system of contract labor, and the doctrines of the anarchists; favors the conversion of paper money into gold and the use of both gold and silver as free as consistent with sound principles of finance; indorses the organization of labor, and urges the enactment of arbitration laws. The platform also favors local option in temperance questions; opposes the granting of public domain to corporations or foreigners; indorses the policy of generous pensions to war veterans, and in this connection denounces President Cleveland's veto; favors the regulation of interstate commerce; demands the passage of laws for the suppression of polygamy, and their enforcement by the military if necessary; expresses sympathy with the Irish home-rule movement, and Democrat in Congress for refusing to admit Mr. Healy; and charges the party with incompetency in considering national affairs.

The Republican State convention of California met and renominated Associate Judges Patterson of San Joaquin, McFarland of Sacramento, and Hamilton of Alameda for the three vacancies on the Supreme Court bench. The platform favors free intelligent labor, says that on the wise legislation depends the prosperity of the State, and favors co-operation among laborers; favors the free coinage of silver; denounces the national administration for seeking to deprive the people of silver as a circulating medium; advocates the passage of laws absolutely restricting further immigration of Chinese, but claims for them now in the country under treaty stipulations the protection of the law.

The Democratic State Convention of North Carolina convened at Raleigh, and nominated W. N. H. Smith for Chief Justice, Thomas S. Ashe and A. S. Merrimon for Associate Justices. There are to be present Supreme Court Justices. The convention adopted no special platform or resolutions.

The Texas Republican State Convention met at Waco and nominated a full State ticket headed by A. M. Cochran, of Dallas, for Governor. The platform favors the submission of a prohibition amendment to the constitution; favors the free coinage of silver; denounces the rotten administration of the Interior Department; opposes the leasing of convicts, denounces the oppression of the corporations and laboring interests by monopolists, and favors the High educational bill.

Governor Hill having approved the order of Mayor Grace removing Rollin M. Squire from the office of Commissioner of Public Works of New York City, the Mayor has appointed Maj. Gen. John S. Newton, of the United States army, to the position. Gen. Newton is known chiefly for the success of his plans for the removal of the Hell Gate obstructions.

A large number of the leading manufacturers of the Western States met in Chicago last week to agree upon the wisest course to pursue so to convict labor. From one report received from various Secretaries of State, it appears that the boot and shoe, wagon, and machine industries are the most deeply concerned. The meeting organized a national anti-convict association, and adopted a constitution and by-laws. A resolution was adopted favoring Congressional action to prohibit the sale of prison made goods outside the State in which they were manufactured.

THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK.
BEEVES.....$6.00	@6.50
SHEEP.....4.00	@5.25
LAMBS.....5.00	@6.50
FLOUR—Winter Wheat.....3.00	@3.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red.....80	@ .80
CORN—No. 2.....35	@ .36
OATS—Mixed.....28	@ .29
PORK—Mess.....9.50	@9.75
CHICAGO.
BEEVES—Choice to Prime Steers.....5.00	@5.25
Common to Good Shipping Grades.....3.50	@4.75
HOGS—Extra Spring Grades.....4.00	@4.25
WHEAT—No. 2 Red.....68	@ .69
CORN—No. 2.....32	@ .32
OATS—No. 2.....22	@ .22
RYE—No. 2.....47	@ .47
BARLEY—Extra Choice.....56	@ .57
CHEESE—Full Cream, Cheddar.....08	@ .09
Full Cream, new.....08	@ .09
EGGS—Fresh.....17	@ .18
BUTTER—Dairy Rose, per lb.....12	@ .16
PORK—Mess.....9.25	@9.75
MILWAUKEE.
CORN—No. 2.....32	@ .32
OATS—No. 2.....22	@ .22
RYE—No. 2.....47	@ .47
PORK—Mess.....9.25	@9.75
TOLEDO.
WHEAT—No. 2.....80	@ .80
CORN—No. 2.....35	@ .36
OATS—No. 2.....27	@ .28
DETROIT.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red.....80	@ .80
CORN—No. 2.....35	@ .36
OATS—No. 2 White.....28	@ .29
ST. LOUIS.
WHEAT—No. 2.....77	@ .77
CORN—Mixed.....36	@ .36
OATS—Mixed.....26	@ .26
PORK—Mess.....10.00	@10.50
CINCINNATI.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red.....80	@ .81
CORN—No. 2.....41	@ .44
OATS—No. 2.....27	@ .28
PORK—Mess.....10.00	@10.50
BUFFALO.
WHEAT—No. 1 Hard.....86	@ .87
CORN—No. 2.....38	@ .39
OATS—No. 2 White.....30	@ .31
INDIANAPOLIS.
BEEVES.....4.00	@5.50
HOGS.....4.25	@5.00
SHEEP.....3.00	@5.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red.....77	@ .78
CORN—No. 2.....36	@ .37
OATS—No. 2.....27	@ .27
EAST LIBERTY.
CATTLE—Best.....5.00	@5.25
Common.....4.25	@4.75
HOGS.....4.50	@4.75
SHEEP.....3.75	@4.25

IN M'KIMMEY'S CAVE.

A Noted Ohio Outlaw's Career and Capture—His Clever Attempt to Escape.

Near Rocky Fork, about four miles from Barnesville, is a cave which, though a natural one, has an interesting history, says a correspondent of the Cleveland Plain Dealer. For newspaper readers have forgotten the terrible accounts of the daring and desperate deeds committed by Bob McKimmey, the notorious Western desperado and murderer, and his capture near Rocky Fork some years ago. McKimmey had all the natural resources of Rocky Fork as places of refuge when the detectives were on his trail. The cave to which I have referred bears the name of McKimmey's Cave. It is reached by climbing down the precipitous sides of the cliff in a beautiful and romantic portion of the surrounding grove. When a point fifty feet below the summit is reached, a huge rock is suddenly slanting in towards the rock abruptly, and waving evergreens, moss, and ferns, form a small hole in the rock opens its dark throat to the sun. Entering, a small chamber in the living rocks is discovered, to reach which it is necessary for one to humble himself on his hands and knees. Adjoining this is a second and pitch-dark chamber, in the direction of a small natural shelf in the rocky side of the cavern, near the roof. Here a man could hold an army at bay with the slightest weapon. The wretched McKimmey is said to have lived in this place while his pursuers were searching every foot of ground in the vicinity. The crude utensils with which McKimmey cooked his coarse food are still shown. He was a member of one of the most daring bands of robbers which ever infested Ohio. With Allen Crawford leader of the band, these desperadoes were a terror to a wide community, and many a ghastly tale of their deeds is related with a shudder by the aids of the quiet firesides in the lonely hamlets in the mountains on winter nights. Of McSimmey's final capture a former resident of Barnesville gives the following account:

"McKimmey was raised in this vicinity," said he, "but committed his crimes until he went West to Wyoming and Colorado. While there he became one of the most reckless and daring outlaws in the whole West; his deeds were on every tongue; his murders made every one shudder at the mention of his name. When he returned to Ohio he came back to the locality of his boyhood, and lost no time in joining a band of outlaws in this vicinity. A hundred dollars has that gang choked out of the farmers in this vicinity. Their deeds finally became so notorious and bold that something had to be done. Detective John T. Morris, of Springfield, undertook the job of breaking up the gang. He worked up the case in masterly style and finally compelled McKimmey to leave the vicinity. I remember he came well. One Thanksgiving day the word went around from farmhouse to farmhouse in the mountains that McKimmey was in Allen Grandstaff's cabin, a lonely and desolate little log house in a clearing in the hills. Nearly two hundred farmers grabbed their guns and made up a party to capture him. Armed with every conceivable weapon the number of the party formed a big circle around the cabin and gradually closed in on it. When they had completely surrounded McKimmey also surrounded himself at the door. One of the party, a young man named Jones, who was intimately acquainted with McKimmey, undertook to go and tell him how desperate small were his chances for escape. All held their breath as the young man entered the cabin. When he had gotten fairly inside McKimmey, with one of those flashes of genius which criminals often have in critical emergencies, suddenly seized him with a grip of iron and held him close to his body. He then calmly walked out of the door, nodding fast to Jones, and secure in the fact that no one would shoot for fear of hitting Jones. He walked in this way slowly toward the woods. The array of marksmen followed. In the centre of the walk through the woods a giant oak was reached. As McKimmey and Jones reached this tree, a number saw their chance for a shot. Just as McKimmey was walking behind the tree and while Jones was protected by its trunk, a number of rifles rang out and McKimmey fell, struck by several bullets. He was soon bound and taken to the Hillsboro jail, and, after his trial and conviction, sentenced to the Ohio penitentiary for life, where he is now one of the most noted convicts."

They Take Appalling Liberties.

"I can not travel on the cars at night," said Congressman Boyle of Pennsylvania.

"Why?" asked a colleague.

"Because I was in that dreadful accident at the Tompkins Hill last November," answered Mr. Boyle, and my for five hours under the wreck up to my neck in the freezing water. Don't you think that ought to account for my horror of railroad travel in the dark?"

"Yes, indeed," retorted his vicious companion, "and it also explains your aversion to cold water."

Congressmen take appalling liberties with each other.—New York Herald.

A CONSIDERABLE time after the recent burial of a number of men in a French mine, an attempt was made to investigate the condition of the wooden galleries by means of an electric photographic apparatus lowered through a small hole. A successful picture was finally secured, showed a man who had not been crushed, but had died of hunger.

PHOTOGRAPHY.

The Great Variety of Uses to Which This Modern Art Is Applied.

Photography has become a very important element in the study of astronomy. Surveys of the heavens, that would once have required a hundred years, in order to their completion, are now perfected in the course of a few weeks. Telescopic views of the planets are reproduced with requisite fidelity, and in the observations of the transits of Venus and the study of eclipses, the photograph has proved to be of inestimable value.

In almost every branch of natural science the art of photography plays an important part. Even in the microscopic investigations, where no one in the beginning would have supposed it could ever be used, it proves to be of the greatest service. One of the marvels that have been accomplished in this department is the transfer of the plate of animalcule in a state of motion. The instantaneous photographing of horses on the gallop was wonderful enough, but to arrest and make a picture of the convulsive movements of a creature invisible to the naked eye is a far greater wonder. The living germs which form part of the dust of our atmosphere, analyzed by heat as glass. I have not seen an Indian-rubber ball, even flattened, which is to be used for the purpose of keeping the heat rays to a focus. That there is a distinction between the rays of light and heat is evident from the fact that while a sheet of glass protects the face from the scorch of an ordinary wood fire it does not at all intercept the heat of the sun; while in both cases the rays of light pass through unimpeded.

The photographing of objects in rapid motion has been already referred to, and I am told that it has been applied to the setting of what sometimes a delicate question in horse-racing when two horses appear to strike the goal at the same moment—the instantaneous photographing of the animals in full speed settling the matter beyond dispute.

Our readers may have heard of "the rogues' gallery" to be seen in our large police stations, and consisting of an array of photographs depicting the features of the most prominent criminals in the community. In the banks of France it is a common thing to take the likeness of any suspicious-looking person who may happen to appear at the counter, by means of a camera constructed for the purpose, and which is hauled by the operator in such a way as to evite no suspicion. The application of photography to the detection of forgery is dependent upon the fact that, while two or more different inks may look precisely alike, when they are subjected to the photographic process, the peculiar character of each asserts itself in detail at once.

One of the latest and most marvellous things to be noticed is the results obtained by what are known as "composite pictures," by means of which the typical or generic face or figure is obtained, as distinguished from the individual. A dozen or fifteen coins, for instance, with the head of Alexander the Great impressed upon them, are placed in a frame, and reproduced on the same surface, resulting in the obliteration of all the features but such as are common to all, and bringing out in the end the true, ideal Alexander. A distinguished scientific professor has mingled some twenty faces, belonging to as many distinguished naturalists, and gives a remarkable likeness of one of the most prominent men in the same department of study, who lived during the last century.

SQUIRE HORBS' FILOSOFY.

[From the Chicago Ledger.]

EJEMY original ideah nox de wind outen symbolsh ob' ideah.

De tru religun am de wich hez its kreed in de hart insted ob de hed.

JUTIS am an unsercrenomins kallor. He nebber waits for an invitashun.

MEMORY am a seen in de oshun ob ther. It ketches de big fish, but lets de little wuns eskape.

SARCASIM am like ur wasp. It not only stings its victim, but it leaves ur unpleasan' odor behin'.

DEAN' be pokin' yo' ideahs at ebery bodsdy yo' meet. Popel hab got ur bad 'nuff 'pinyun ob yo' wideun' dat.

De gos problem. "De sins ob de ancestor am visited upon de offspring," am werdish in de kase ob de kat an' de fiddle.

It am not alwaz wot we sa dat gits us in trubble, sometimes it am wot we fale to sa. Wen we sin at er party, for instans.

Er dar am enny wariasbun in de temperatur ob Hadez, de mos' tropikal libraty wil sartinly be reserbed fo' de punstah.

A BITABS litterary reputashun depends kot so much upon noin' wot he ritte as upon noin' wot ler leah on de pirt ob de kritik.

De hart am de place wh happiness gits its washin' dun. It am not surcondit' sarkumstances dat fetch happiness, but we ourselves.

BEGERSIER is goin' up de faddah ob lif, dat it am alwaz sarte for go up wun rung' at er time. De man dat trize for skip er rung' or 2 am liable for loos his sootin' an' fal. De bes wa am for go up slow an' hartifly, alwaz keepin' er firm hold onter de laddah. Ef yo' neglek dis sum fellah 'bou yo' am liable for fal down 'gins yo' an' drag yo' down wid him. Dosn' git impasshun' Yo' kin nabber git in de top, but yo' kin' keep a goin' up, sa wun rung' er da, yo' wil fin' at de top yo' 2 3'ard 'bove dat yo' am er powful waze frun de bottum.

What time wuz Dunn, recently from Ohio, shot William Salisbury through the body, near Clare, and tried to shoot Lade Sherman. He then fled, but was captured and lodged in jail. Salisbury died.

MRS P. Henderson, a farmer of Marion, was shot dead by some unknown man. Suspicion points to a neighbor with whom the deceased had some trouble about the line fence. Henderson was highly respected in the community.

A party of hunters discovered a gun and the rotted remains of a man on the beach between Neanapum Point and Tobico Bay on Saginaw Bay. It is feared some hunter has perished in one of the severe storms which have taken place during the past few months.

The County Board of Equalization in Detroit recently sent a committee through the Upper Peninsula of Michigan to ascertain the value of assessing property. The result was a demand by Wyandotte County that its assessments be reduced $14,000,000, and that the other counties be increased $20,000,000.

During the burning of a cooper factory at Hoadsport, on Seneca Lake, a barrel was overturned and the oil ran on to the floor. A former rolled up his pantaloons legs, grabbed a rag, ran into the oil, and industriously greased his boots, leaving the dense smoke enveloping him and rosing above the roof.

A child of Albert Larabee, of Horton, while playing with a pipe, fell, forcing the stem under the tongue, making an ugly wound. The mother's family are afflicted with what physicians term hemorrhage aothaus. The slightest cut on members of the family will bleed for days, defying all efforts to check it. The child has bled profusely twice with short intervals, from the wound since the accident.

—Detroit Free Press. A correspondent writes to say that he considers it dishonest of the Detroit base-ball management to charge fifty cents to see a game, and it rain prevents play, to keep the fifty cents, and give no return for it. The correspondent is wrong. It is not dishonest, as proved by the fair warning that unfair weather may keep the game from being played. The spectator virtually lets fifty cents ride on the management that just won't rain. There is no question, however, that the managers are very lucky—lucky in this matter, and they are really very large losers by it. This well shows during the last two games with Toronto—the original fifty cents. If it had been announced that in case of rain a coupon ticket for the fifth inning, the ticket would be given to all spectators who asked for them, there is no question but every seat would have been filled as they were the first day. The managers are out from $2,000 to $4,000, and if they can stand that, why should our correspondent grow about fifty cents, which, after all, he did not lose?

MICHIGAN AFFAIRS.

—There has not been a death in Romeo for five months.

—A fire at Ludington destroyed Ward's shingle-mill and stock, valued at $25,000.

—A tame bear at Ithaca, fatally bit and clawed a little 5-year-old daughter of W. H. Beach.

—A crazy-quilt made by Miss Fannie Miller, aged 16 years, of Alpena, contains 5,112 pieces.

—Joshua Scattergood, aged 72 years, died at Ithaca. He was a resident of the State for fifty years.

—A Bay City man is suffering from a horrible type of hydrophobia in the jail, and will probably die.

—Professor Albert Tuthill failed to agree with Otto Lehre on the labor troubles, at Detroit, the latter shot him fatally.

—The Charlotte Common Council has appointed D. B. Ainger, E. Shepherd, and J. T. Wilson members of the Water Board.

—Some of the banks in Hastings hold note procured from farmers by Bohemian cut sharpers to the total amount of nearly $2,500.

—F. A. Seofield, of Ovid, has put in a $3,000 fire protection, and several people are tapping the main pipe for their own convenience.

—The number of Grand Army of the Republic posts in Michigan in good standing is 342; total number of members in good standing is 18,013.

—A new logging railroad, six miles long, building near Seney. It is to be used for transporting logs from one branch of the Manistique River to the other.

—The statement of the ore shipments from Escanaba, for the season shows: Lake Superior Range, 327,105 tons; Menominee, 507,962 tons. Total, 834,167 tons.

—The shingle mill of Thomas R. Lyons, at Ludington, was burned. The loss will amount to $16,000. There was no insurance. Half a million shingles shared the fate of the mill.

—When the alleged burglary case of H. H. Frost, ex-City Treasurer of Jackson, was called, there was no evidence upon which to hold the gentleman, and he was honorably discharged.

—A man named Dunn, recently from Ohio, shot William Salisbury through the body, near Clare, and tried to shoot Lade Sherman. He then fled, but was captured and lodged in jail. Salisbury died.

—MRS P. Henderson, a farmer of Marion, was shot dead by some unknown man. Suspicion points to a neighbor with whom the deceased had some trouble about the line fence. Henderson was highly respected in the community.

—A party of hunters discovered a gun and the rotted remains of a man on the beach between Neanapum Point and Tobico Bay on Saginaw Bay. It is feared some hunter has perished in one of the severe storms which have taken place during the past few months.

—The County Board of Equalization in Detroit recently sent a committee through the Upper Peninsula of Michigan to ascertain the value of assessing property. The result was a demand by Wyandotte County that its assessments be reduced $14,000,000, and that the other counties be increased $20,000,000.

—During the burning of a cooper factory at Hoadsport, on Seneca Lake, a barrel was overturned and the oil ran on to the floor. A former rolled up his pantaloons legs, grabbed a rag, ran into the oil, and industriously greased his boots, leaving the dense smoke enveloping him and rosing above the roof.

MOTHER-IN-LAW IN TURKEY.

The Importance of Her Office at the Bridal Bath.

[S. S. COX, in North American Review.]

The day is appointed for the bath. Great preparations are made. It is tacitly understood, though not expressed, what the bath party means. The cooks of both parties are kept busy for several days. They prepare dainty dishes, "dulcet syrups tinct with cinnamon," and sweetmeats of every description and flavor. The Turkish women, not unlike the "children of the grave shore," are very fond of confectionery. The greatest attention is paid, also, in procuring the rarest and most elegant suits for the bath. A competitive but friendly excitement arises between the families; for the Turks are as particular about their bathing clothes as the fashionable belle at Schwingen or Newport. Each person is to be furnished with a suit of the rarest quality. The bride, or the nominee for that function, is arrayed in her most elegant dress. She is gallanted in her best bravery of silk and satin, feredje and parasol, to the bath. She is accompanied by her mother and all the women of her house. The servants and slaves are summoned for this service, and the more numerous these are the more the display of luxury is enhanced. As soon as the parties meet there is a series of courtesies compliments. In this the Turkish people excel. Coffee and sherbet are served around to the company, which is seated on the divan. Amid clouds of smoke from narghilleh, pipe and cigarette, and with laughs and jangles which "makes old wrinkles come," the future mother-in-law is already seen herself by the nominee. She persuades her to talk. Unconscious of the object, the girl undergoes a skillful cross-examination. Her intellectual and moral character is thoroughly scrutinized. Her life, with its tastes and qualities, is winnowed. When the smoking ceremonies there is the disrobing in order to go into the interior of the bath. Then follows the bathing for the bath. The bath being intensely hot, the rolling is not embrons or extensive. It consists simply of a jog trowel around the waist covering the person down to the knees, and a second towel which is thrown over the shoulders like a sash. This last towel is taken off as soon as the interior of the bath is entered, as the heat and perspiration cause it to make it intolerable. Gibbon says that Zenobia, when led in triumph by Aurelian, almost fainted under the intolerable burden of jewelry. Not so with our maidens of the bridal bath. Her decorations are reserved for her trimphal entrance and entry into her new household. The hair is unloosened and flows over the shoulders. Each lady is taken care of by one or two servants; but the future mother-in-law alone quits the nominee. She makes thorough investigation until the bath is over. If, like the sisters of the Gorgons, the Graces who had but one eye and one tooth among the sisters of the Graces, among the entire sisterhood with which to go out and make calls, our nominee should be found wanting in these or any other prerequisites to healthy and beautiful motherhood, it is not reasonable to believe that the future mother-in-law would discover the flaw and announce the fact to her lord and husband?

In Mecca.

Ordinary pilgrims remain at Mecca from five to ten days after the completion of all the requisite ceremonial. Some, however, stay three or four months, while others, again, shelter there for years; but residence at the holy city is encouraged by Mohammedan authorities, nominally on the ground that it is unlawful to leave the respect due to the house of God; in reality, however, the difficulty of sojourning for any lengthened period in a town so ill calculated to support a large population, and the true cause of the objections raised against such a proceeding is remaining comfortably in sight of the holy of holies.

Among the pilgrims are many who are generally hired for a few weeks, but the poorer classes live in the numerous bazaars, built by rich and pious votaries for the benefit of such of their fellow-countrymen as cannot afford either to pay rent or to hire rooms. It not uncommonly happens, however, that the purpose of the founder is defeated, owing to the circumstance that the occupier has to pay the manager for the privilege of living rent free, and the highest bidder is pretty sure to win the day. Some tribals are reserved for the gentler sex. The welfare of the various peoples who flock to them is further protected by the presence of "gents" charged with the duty of protecting the interests of the respective nations to which they belong. There is also a hospital, but the accommodation is limited; and, in spite of every precaution, the condition of the poor is most miserable. Often, they get ill, scarce a soul cares to attend to the hapless wretches, who cannot at times procure even that trst necessary of life, water. Weak, sick, ill-fed, and homeless, they drag on a miserable existence in the streets, till death puts an end to the troubles which their fellow-creatures are unable or unwilling to assuage.

BAKING was a recognized profession in Rome 170 B. C., and a few years afterward some Greeks migrated to that city, obtained several privileges, and subsequently a monopoly of the trade. In England it is probable that the earliest professional bakers were the monks.

A CONSIDERABLE gain in the weight of beeks grown under the influence of electric current has been obtained in German experiments, with a smaller gain in the proportion of sugar.

Shad in Fresh Water.

A peculiar freak of nature is presented in the result that attended the experiment of stocking Lake Ontario with shad seven years ago. Millions of them were hatched, but they were dwarfs. None of them grow to over seven inches long and they are not fit to eat. They increase rapidly and have become a choice morsel of food for the pickerel and bass.—Niagara Falls Courier.

It's the man on the fence whif feels the first puff of a political breeze.

TO PROMOTE digestion, to keep the body healthy and the mind clear, take Ayer's Pills.

"WAITER, you can bring me a nice young chicken smothered in onions!" "No, sah. We does

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

Our republican friends who are usually jubilant in political matters are now downcast. They feel that it is not only possible but almost certain that their ticket will be defeated.

The Cheboygan Tribune whines about Don. M. Dickinson's "arrogant assumption of power," calls him "Boss Dickinson," etc. The principal trouble with the Tribune, however, is that since the days of Zach. Chandler there has been no man in the ranks of the republican party competent to be charged with any "arrogant assumption of power" in the management of the party.

After quoting the two financial planks in the democratic platform, the Harbor Springs Independent says: "A greenbacker who could ask for more wants the earth. The Michigan democracy have taken a long step in advance, and it will not be possible to retrace it. Henceforward the "fiat lunatics" will be ridiculed only from a republican standpoint."

Commenting on the state ticket, the Petoskey Democrat says: "The only mistake liable to occur is the one of feeling too secure in our position. We have nominated a ticket that will command the respect of every thinking man who has the best interest of this state at heart; but at the same time we must remember, that we have a foe to contend with, who is strong in organization, strong in monopolistic control, strong in money, strong in conceit and above all, strong in unprincipled methods of coercing the people. To contend with such a foe successfully, needs the united efforts of every man who would like to see monopolistic government forever crushed, and on its ruins erect a government of the people, for the people and by the people."

The financial planks of the democratic platform strikes the average greenbacker as being in the front rank of progressive thought and expression, and the party will rally unanimously to its support. The last Harbor Springs Independent says, "The democratic party of Michigan has taken a long step in the march of progress, and set a brilliant example for the democracy of the nation. The democratic platform is not a mass of meaningless platitudes. It is a series of unmistakable declarations ringing with the spirit of democracy. Hunkerism and moss grown fossilism has been replaced by the young, vigorous, earnest, honest democracy. Michigan democrats have shown that they are on the right side of all the vital issues of the day, and so long as they live up to the principles so bravely enunciated at Grand Rapids there is no honest man in Michigan who can not conscientiously and earnestly work with them, no matter what his antecedents called himself. In this the democracy of the union is ready to come up to the same high standard of old-fashioned Jeffersonian democracy there will be no need of any other party for men who believe in a government of the people, by the people, and for the people.

TWO PLATFORMS.

The democratic platform deplores the death of eminent democratic statesmen, endorses the administration of Grover Cleveland, demands justice and liberty in the granting of pensions to disabled soldiers, favors a revision of the tariff and its adjustment on a revenue basis to the actual needs of the government, believes in the dignity of American labor, pledges legislation which shall prevent convict labor from entering into competition with honest workingmen, insists that the ownership of real estate in this country by foreign corporations is injurious to American interests, favors the free coinage of gold and silver at present standards, endorses the policy of applying the surplus in the national treasury to the payment of the national debt, favors the direct issue of legal tender treasury notes and coin certificates, favors the adoption of measures providing for the health and safety of men engaged in mining and manufacturing industries, and demands the repeal of all class legislation under which monopolies have been fostered and protected.

The republican platform points with pride to the achievements of twenty-five years ago, reaffirms loyal adherence to the principles and policies of the party (with all its adherent corruptions), favors a high tariff, insists on a gold basis for money, favors arbitration of difficulties between employers and employees, opposes further importation of foreign labor under the contract system, straddles the convict labor issue, presents the same old constitutional prohibition chestnut for temperance voters, opposes the further granting of public land to foreign ownership, (why didn't they think of this years ago, before so much land had been granted to foreign holders?), denounces the present administration for the veto of private pension bills which they had themselves repeatedly rejected when they had entire control of the government, protests against the removal of republican soldiers from office, presents a fine play of words on the railroad question, rehashes the old polygamy chestnut, offers a caramel to the Irish, whines because Dakota was not admitted as a state, charges as gross incompetency the management of the national government which has saved to the people in reduced expenses over twenty millions a year, and in the more careful collection of revenue nearly as much more, exhibits an uncontrollable fear because the democratic and greenback parties in Michigan have agreed on a platform and ticket and about which there can be no differences of opinion, and whines because the national executive has not permitted them to keep all the offices.

SOP FOR PROHIBITIONISTS.

In the republican state convention, Geo. A. Farr, of Ottawa, offered as a minority report, a resolution, "that the republican party is in favor of the ultimate suppression of the liquor traffic and hereby affirms its doctrines of submission as incorporated in the platform of 1882 and 1884." In support of his position, Mr. Farr said: "Give us something to struggle for. We are proud of our party's past history, but no party can live on its ancestry. Remember that this temperance question is a Banquo's ghost that will not down." That apostle of temperance, Bob. Frazer, opposed the resolution, and for a little time the discussion was hot and threatened to disrupt the convention, but when it came to a vote the minority report was thrown overboard with a loud hurrah. And so the republican party has put itself on record as not a truly earnest temperance party.

For Representative in Congress, Ninth District—Lyman G. Mason.

In a joint convention of the democrats and greenbackers at big Rapids, yesterday afternoon, Lyman G. Mason, of Muskegon, was nominated by a rising vote, amidst unbounded enthusiasm.

The Nomination for State Treasurer.

The nomination of W. G. Beard, fusion candidate for the state treasurership, is considered a judicious one by all who know the man. "George," as he is familiarly known, was helping his father as a carpenter in Bay City as soon as he was old enough to shove a jackplane, and that was twenty years ago, when the third city was in its pioneer days. He was one of the first to take up greenbackism in the Saginaw valley, where it soon got a stronger foothold than in any part of the state during four years following 1878 he was register of deeds for Bay county. In 1885 he was elected treasurer of Bay City, a position he holds at the present time. He is prominent as a leader of the labor element in the Saginaw valley, and in the great strike of 1885 threw himself unreservedly into the breach, endeavoring to secure a speedy settlement of the trouble on one hand, while he counseled and restrained the men on the other. He organized and carried out the relief system which helped the men through the strike. He is short in stature about 35 years of age married, and has a large family. He will make a hustling campaign, and hopes to get the main strength of the knights of labor in his support.—Grand Rapids Leader.

The Republican Ticket.

The republican state convention held at Grand Rapids on Wednesday of last week. The delegates acted as if they were attending their own funeral and the general discouraged air of the convention, was strongly in contrast with those of the week previous.

On Thursday the following ticket was nominated:

Governor—Cyrus G. Luce, Branch.
Lieut. Governor—H. H. McDonald, Delta.
Secretary of state—Geo. H. Ossian, Wayne.
Auditor General—Henry R. Alpin, Bay.
Treasurer—Geo. L. Weitz, Alpena.
Land Commissioner—E. B. Dix, Berrien.
Attorney General—Moses Taggart, Ionia.
Superintendent of Public Instruction—J. Richards, Ingham.
Member of Board of Education—S. S. Babcock, Wayne.

Brace Up.

You are feeling depressed, your appetite is poor, you are bothered with headache, you are slightly nervous, and generally out of sorts, and want to brace up. Brace up, but not with stimulants, spring medicines, or bitters, which have for their basis very cheap, bad whiskey, and which stimulate you for an hour, and then leave you in worse condition than before. What you want is an alterative that will purify your blood, start healthy action of liver and bowels, restore your vitality, and give renewed health and strength. Such a medicine you will find in Electric Bitters, and only 50 cents a bottle at Dr. G. W. Crosier's drug store. 3

Most Excellent.

J. J. Atkins, chief of police, Knoxville, Tenn., writes: My family and I are benefitted by your most excellent medicine, Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, having found it to be all that you claim for it, desire to testify to its virtue. My friends to whom I have recommended it, praise it at every opportunity." Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption is guaranteed to cure coughs, colds, bronchitis, asthma, croup, and every affection of throat, chest and lungs. Trial bottles free at Dr. G. W. Crosier's drug store. Large size $1.00.

Money Refunded.

The true remedy has at last been discovered. It was long known in his practice as Dr. Pete's Lung Food for Consumption. It is now called Dr. Pete's 25-cent Cough Cure. It is the safest, the surest and best of all other coughs, cold, and consumption remedy, is half its equal. We warrant it and will promptly refund the money paid for it if a beneficial effect is not experienced by the time two-thirds of the contents of the bottle is used. Sold by Perry Weed and Dr. G. W. Crosier.

A Common Cold

Is often the beginning of serious affections of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes, and Lungs. Therefore, the importance of early and effective treatment cannot be overestimated. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral may always be relied upon for the speedy cure of a Cold or Cough.

Last January I was attacked with a severe Cold, which, by neglect and frequent exposures, became worse, finally settling on my lungs. A terrible cough soon followed, accompanied by pains in the chest, from which I suffered intensely. After trying various remedies, without obtaining relief, I commenced taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and was Speedily Cured.

I am satisfied that this remedy saved my life.—Jas. Webster, Pawtucket, R. I.

I contracted a severe cold, which suddenly developed into Pneumonia, presenting diagnostic and obstinate symptoms. My physician at once ordered the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. His instructions were followed, and the result was a rapid and permanent cure.—H. E. Simpson, Rogers Prairie, Texas.

Two years ago I suffered from a severe Cough which settled on my Lungs. I consulted various physicians, and took the medicine they prescribed, but it only afforded temporary relief. A friend then induced me to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After taking two bottles of this medicine I was cured. Since then I have given the Pectoral to my children, and consider it for Colds, Coughs, and all Throat and Lung diseases, ever used in my family.—Robert Vanderpool, Meadville, Pa.

The Best Remedy

Some time ago I took a slight Cold, which, being neglected, grew worse, and settled on my lungs. I had a hacking cough, and was very weak. Those who knew me best considered my life to be in great danger. I continued to suffer until I commenced using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Less than one bottle of this valuable medicine cured me, and I feel that I owe the preservation of my life to its curative powers.—Mrs. Ann Lockwood, Akron, New York.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is considered, here, the one great remedy for all diseases of the throat and lungs. There is no demand then any other medicine of its class.—J. F. Roberts, Magnolia, Ala.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

The Detroit Free Press

FREE

For the Campaign.

FIFTY CENTS

Will pay for the two best Newspapers published in the state of Michigan.

For 4 Mo's.

On receipt of the above amount we will send

The Charlevoix Journal

—And—

THE WEEKLY DETROIT FREE PRESS

to any address for FOUR MONTHS on trial.

Everybody knows The Free Press, it is published in the metropolis of the state, is a family newspaper, contains all news, is independent, fearless, original, spicy and entertaining, and should find a place in every household.

The Journal speaks for itself. It is a necessity to every resident of this section who wants a trustworthy guide on local affairs.

Subscriptions to under this offer will be accepted for only a limited time at this.

SUBSCRIBE AT ONCE.

Send orders to

THE JOURNAL,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

The Circus

Commences Next Week.

I am going to receive a large invoice of CLOTHING, bought from one of the leading houses in Rochester, N. Y., which I am going to sell at Prices that will draw me trade from all around the county.

I think the best advertisement a merchant can have is to have his goods advertise him in Good Fits and Prices that cannot be beat.

GEO. W. MILLER.

A New Departure

at

F. W. CRAINE & CO.'S

This week we have placed in our store

A BARGAIN TABLE!

And on which may at all times be found

Genuine Bargains

IN EVERYTHING PERTAINING TO OUR LINE.

By coming in and inspecting this department you will readily be convinced of its merit.

We are confident that our many patrons will appreciate this new departure, as we do just as we advertise.

LOOK OUT FOR BARGAINS AT
F. W. CRAINE & CO.'S.

PERRY WEED,

DRUGGIST AND STATIONER,

OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

HENRY C. COOPER

Undertaker!

CHARLEVOIX MICHIGAN.

Coffins, Caskets, and Trimmings Always in Stock.

Come and See my Stock of Furniture.

ALL ORDERS BY TELEPHONE RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION

Come and See our Immense Stock of

BOOTS AND SHOES.

FOX & MILLER.

A Large Stock of

Furniture!

IN

Oak, Maple, Ash, and Cherry,

JUST RECEIVED BY THE

PINE LAKE IRON COMPANY

IRONTON, MICH.

PRODUCE MARKET.

Hay, loose, per ton $12; baled, $18
Corn, per bu. 65c.
Oats, 45 to 50c.
Feed, per ton, $22.
Pork $15 ⅌ bbl, 7c ⅌ lb.
Salt, ⅌ bbl, $1.25.
Syrup, "Gold Medal," 50c ⅌ gal.
Canned Tomatoes, 12c.
Canned Peaches, 15 to 20c.
Coffee, Java and Mocca, 35c.
Farmer's Produce at Upright & Emrey's.

UPRIGHT EMREY & Co.

☞ A splendid line of Boots and Shoes, for ladies and gents, boys, girls and misses. More on the road.

☞ A magnificent lot of Dress Goods arrived recently, and we offer them at the very lowest figures.

☞ Hosiery in all styles a specialty, for both ladies and gents—best line in town.

☞ New Groceries received almost every day.

☞ Tea Dinner and Tea Sets in Colored Ware at cost.

☞ If you want some Choice Butter go to Upright & Emrey's.

☞ Remember, we give the Detroit Weekly Free Press FREE during the campaign to every new subscriber who will pay for at least four months in advance, in cash. Old subscribers who want the Weekly Free Press during the campaign can have the same terms by paying all arears to date, and at least four months in advance, in cash. You will get more papers by subscribing now, than if you wait.

☞ Fresh Kalamazoo celery at Jefferies' market.

☞ Best fresh butter at Jefferies' market.

Local Notes and News.

Wood wanted on subscription.

The Chicago club house closed yesterday.

Be sure and go to the Opera House Friday evening

Charlevoix county fruit is equal to the best in the market.

The public schools will commence on the 13th of September.

The tug Campbell is being repaired at Washburn's ship yard.

Nine loaded vessels lay in the Charlevoix harbor over Sunday.

E. M. Clark built a new wire fence in front of his residence this week.

The county board of examiners will meet at East Jordan on Sept. 24th.

Rosenthal & Son advertise a new stock of fall and winter cloaks, today.

The Friant's excursion to Northport on Sunday did not pan out well. Rain.

A noble dock for row boats has been built at the foot of Clinton street.

Charlevoix county cannot be excelled in the production of fine vegetables.

The Charlevoix county fair will be held at East Jordan, Sept. 22d, 23d, and 24th.

Capt. H. Willcox will put several of Pass' finest boats into his livery next year.

On account of the calo Monday and Tuesday, the Friant missed her regular runs.

The Detroit Weekly Free Press and Charlevoix JOURNAL for four months, only 50 cents.

Prof. W. H. Payne, of the state university of Michigan, will conduct the Institute next week.

A. Stewart is plastering and otherwise refitting his residence, corner of Mason and Grant streets.

Dr. Reynolds efforts in the temperance cause here last week were interesting and well appreciated.

The Menistique Sunday Sun has been doubled in size, more than doubling the quantity of reading matter.

The Detroit & Cleveland Steam Navigation Co. will put two more of their line of steamers to Charlevoix next season.

F. W. Willcox expects to spend part of next winter in Charlevoix, getting the cedar off some land he owns in this vicinity.

Prof. Hadlock closes his landary for the season this week. Next year he will make numerous improvements, and open early.

The number of marriages, births and deaths in Antrim county for the year 1885 are as follows: marriages, 86; births, 189; deaths 55.

The Anerioch was unable to make her regular trips to her fishing grounds Monday and Tuesday, on account of rough weather.

The annual meeting of school district No. 1, of the township of Charlevoix, is to be held at the school house, Monday, at 7:30 p. m.

We are sorry to learn of the death of Mrs. James Beauvais who died of consumption, yesterday morning.

P. Chartraud, of South Arm town ship, raised White Russian wheat with heads seven inches long, averaging 70 perfect kernels to a head.

The Mancelona Herald is out again, full size. It uses a ready-print inside, however, until its own new press can arrive from Chicago.

Observe the date on your address label. If you are in arrears, come and see us. We need every dollar that can be raised to meet bills now due.

The Enterprise is agitating a building and loan association for East Jordan. If they are a good thing, why can't Charlevoix have one, too?

The Library Magazine, for September, comes to us rich in valuable information. It contains productions from the pens of the best writers of the present day.

John O'Neil's fish-house on the north pier of Lake Michigan has been moved to the north side of Round lake, and attached as an addition to Mr. O'Neil's fish house there.

The East Jordan Enterprise claims information that the South Arm and Intermediate Lake railroad will be constructed and put in operation as soon as the snow is gone next spring.

The Boyne Citizen is out with a new head, and other noticeable improvements. We hope the Citizen will be kept within the pale of respectable journalism; as long as it is, we shall wish it unbounded success.

Rev. A. T. Waterman, of Detroit, will preach in the Congregational church next Sunday morning and evening. All interested in the supply of the pulpit during the absence of the pastor are earnestly desired to be present.

Rev Z. Grenell, of Detroit, occupied the pulpit of the Baptist church, last Sunday morning, and those who went expecting a good sermon were not disappointed. He illustrated many good points from the 23d Psalm and 5th verse.

J. V. Sine returned last week from Seul Choix, where he has been fishing this season. He will fish on this shore the balance of the season. He says he caught over eleven tons of fish, this summer.

At least once every fall John Ward remembers the gouter with a generous basketful of some of the finest fruit grown in the Traverse region. Last Saturday it was apples he brought and we feel safe in saying that no finer fruit has been seen in the Charlevoix market this year.

C. R. Bellinger has just received a choice assortment of ladies' and gentlemen's fine jewelry, consisting of ear-rings, breast-pins, finger rings, cedar buttons, cuff buttons, etc., of the very latest patterns. He also expects a large addition to his already fine stock of watches, clocks, and silver-ware, to arrive soon.

It is whispered that next year a steamboat equal in capacity and speed to the Friant will be put on the route between Charlevoix and Harbor Springs, leaving Charlevoix every morning and afternoon, making two trips a day. This will enable Charlevoix people to go to Petoskey and back the same day, which is now impossible.

The steamer Gazelle and tug Campbell collided in Round lake, Monday afternoon last. The Campbell had just landed a vessel at Stockman's dock and was passing out from behind the four vessels lying at Green's dock, when she was struck at right angles on the forward port quarter by the Gazelle, which was coming from the lake. The force of the Gazelle's bow carried the other craft in, and it was too late to evade the blow, hence the accident. Both boats were damaged to a considerable extent.

At Boyne Falls, last Friday, by the breaking of a scaffold in Wm Nelson's house, Charles Lamoreux, Robert Withers, and Jas. Mitchell fell nearly 20 feet to the ground and among a lot of timbers, etc., serious ly injuring them. Withers had several ribs broken, and was hurt so bad internally that he cannot be brought home and it may prove fatal. Robert Wilks was on the scaffold, but he caught hold of the frame of the building and held on until help arrived to get him down.

That great newspaper, the Traverse City Herald, devotes 12 columns of its space this week to the rise and progress of Traverse City schools. The first school taught there was by Miss Helen Goodale, aged 15, in 1858. Hannah, Lay & Co., always leaders in every work for the good of that section, agreed to give her $1 a week and board. The school was taught in a log building that had been used for a stable. Wonderful have been the changes since then. The "log village" has elegant school buildings to-day, 905 school children and an able corps of 15 teachers.

The State Teachers' Institute for Charlevoix county will be held at Charlevoix, commencing at 10 o'clock a. m., Monday, Sept. 6, and closing at 4 p. m. Friday, Sept. 10. Mr. H. M. Enos, Charlevoix local committee. The value of the instruction received at these Institutes is being very generally recognized by teacher and school officers. As a rule, it has been the experience of county examiners and other examining officers, that the most successful teachers are those who have availed themselves of the normal instruction offered by these local Institutes. The daily sessions of the institutes for this year will, as heretofore, be devoted exclusively to topics of special interest to teachers, presented by persons of extended practical experience as teachers, and who have made a special study of Institute work. The evening lectures will be of a popular character. The institute law allows teachers, whose schools are in session at the time appointed for the county Institute, held under direction of the state superintendent, to close their schools during the continuance of such Institute without forfeiting their wages for as many half-days as they are in attendance at the institute. This provision of law, and the fact that there will be no tuition or enrollment fee exacted, should insure the attendance of every teacher in the county who possesses the true professional spirit. Full particulars in regard to board, etc., may be obtained upon application to the local committee.

Public Schools Announcement.

The public schools of Charlevoix will open in all departments on Monday, September 13th.

Increased room and better facilities have been provided, and the efforts of the board and the teachers will be directed toward bringing the schools up to the highest standard of efficiency.

It is designed that the pupils of all grades shall be furnished thorough instruction in what will be of most practical value in life, while those designing to engage in teaching, or to enter higher institutions of learning, will find the course of study in the high school well adapted to their needs. The studies pursued here are universally required as preparatory to a collegiate course. With corresponding diligence and application, this preparation can be made as advantageously at home as in the preparatory classes of higher institutions, and at far less expense.

The methods of instruction are such as have received the highest endorsement of the department of public instruction, and eminent educators of the state. Upon these considerations the Charlevoix schools deserve, and we trust, will receive the hearty support of our own citizens, and a fair share of the patronage of the young people in the surrounding country who are desiring better advantages than can be enjoyed in the country schools.

It is to be hoped that the patrons and pupils will unite to secure the best results for the coming year. To this end it is desirable that pupils be prepared to enter at the beginning, and continue their studies without interruption. The loss of even a short time may put the pupil so far back as to make good work impossible. Almost every case of failure in school work can be traced directly or indirectly to this cause.

Let us all unite our efforts to insure a successful school year.

H. M. Enos, Supt.

Baptist Church.

Mr. D. A. Waterman, of Detroit, will speak upon the subject of Christian Education, next Sunday morning, at the Baptist place of worship, over Crainé's store.

Dr. Olney, of Ann Arbor, will conduct the evening services.

All who can attend these meetings are assured of a pleasant and profitable Sunday.

Parties desiring excursion to spend Sunday at Traverse City.

W. C. T. U.

The regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held on Friday next at the home of Mrs. J. T. Kirkpatrick. Matters of importance to be arranged. We desire the presence of each member of the society. Earnestly invite any and all ladies of the place to meet with us.

SECRETARY.

M. E. Church.

The pastor will preach next Sunday morning, and Rev. Adam Clark in the evening.

The three years' pastorate is about to close. Hear the concluding sermons.

Only 25 Cents

buys a perfect remedy for sour stomach, diarrhoea, worms, convulsions, feverishness, and loss of sleep. Try it. Dr. Pete's Magic Pain Oil. It effectually relieves external and internal pains. Sold by Perry Weed and Dr. G. W. Crosier.

When used according to directions, Ayer's Ague Cure is warranted to eradicate, from the system, Fever and Ague, Intermittent, Remittent and Bilious Fevers, and all malarial diseases. Try it.

Harbor Springs, Petoskey, Charlevoix, and East Jordan.

STEAMER THOMAS EWIART.

CAPT. E. VANDERVORT.

Morning—Leave Harbor Springs 7.00, Petoskey 8.00, Charlevoix 9.00, arrive East Jordan 11.30.
Afternoon—Leave East Jordan 1.45, arrive Charlevoix 4.00, Petoskey 5.30, arrive Harbor Springs 6.30.
Close connections at Petoskey with G. R. & I. R. R. trains, north and south.

DRY GOODS!

We offer for the next few days Great Bargains in all

—SUMMER DRESS GOODS—

Shawls, White Goods, Parasols, Silk and Thread Gloves, Hosiery, Straw Hats, etc.

NEW LINE OF BROADHEAD DRESS GOODS,

Just received and marked at very low prices.

Jersey and Boucle Jackets, Very Cheap.

Staple & Fancy Groceries,

In great variety and at correct prices. The finest line of

Teas, Coffees, Spices.

PLANTATION JAVA COFFEE, - BEST IN THE WORLD.

Farmers will consult their own interests in buying our FACTORY FILLED DAIRY SALT.

J. L. HURD & CO.

Cloaks ! Cloaks !!

Just Received, at

ROSENTHAL & SON'S,

The largest line of FALL and WINTER CLOAKS that ever was brought to Charlevoix. All styles in Short WRPS, New Markets and Street Jackets. Also a big line of CHILDREN'S CLOAKS. Now is the time to make your choice, as the assortment is large and prices are low. Be sure to come and see them, whether you buy or not,—no trouble to show goods.

ROSENTHAL & SON.

Something New. More Light.

The Rochester double and triple Burner makes the Whitest and Best Light known.

THE Sherwin William's PAINTS.

Stoves, Hardware, Tinware, Notions, Fishing Tackle. The "double action easy Force Pump." Job and Tin Work.

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW & CO.

Charlevoix Manufacturing Company,

MANUFACTURERS OF

Sash, Doors, and Blinds,

Screen Doors and Windows, and Mouldings of all Descriptions.

Newell Posts, Banisters, and Stair Rail, of Soft and Hard Wood, kept in Stock and Made and Put Up to Order.

A GOOD STOCK OF

FINE AND BASSWOOD SIDING,

CHEAP FOR CASH, OR PAYING LUMBER KEPT ON HAND.

Also Contractors, Builders, and General Jobbers.

Summer Cottages a Specialty.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

UNCLAIMED LETTERS.—The following is a list of letters remaining in the post-office at Charlevoix, Mich., for the week ending August 31, 1886. If not called for in one month they will be sent to the Dead Letter Office.

When calling for any of these please say "advertised."

Bertram, Jerome
Beach, Geo.
Bishop, Jerome H.
Bishop, Mrs. Jerome
Spencer, Miss M.
Bailey, Mrs. L.
Bailey, Mrs. A.
Belfie, Capt. M.
Connines, Yacht's
Craig, M. A. E.
Craig, John T.
Chandorkin, Mr. Jos.
Chandorkin, Jerome
Chatterton, Nelson
Chipman, Mrs. Jennie
Cooper, C. E.
Cooper, L. E.
Cook, Miss Rosa
Fraser, J. S.
Gykendall, G. B.
Hoag, Mrs. A. J.
Jones, Miss Ella
Dunham, Orson D.
Foote, Jas. Geo.
Fewell, Wm.
Green, Jas. H.
Gates, Mrs. H. J.
Gaylord, E. L.
Gray, Mrs. Arthur
Howe, W. S.
Hawley, Charles J
Hawley, Rev. Geo. F.
Hawley, Mrs. M.
Hanley, E. M.
Johnson, Jacob
Jones, J.
Lathrop, E. M.
Lamoreux, Peter
Lytle, Miss Libbie
Lindsay, John
Martin, Miss Flora L. 2
Martin, Miss Jessie Parsons
Miller, Steve Miller, Roy
Mason, W. H.
Mason, Mrs. C. R.
Norris, Mrs. Geo. S.
Norris, Miss Ada
Oliver, William
Pratt, Ira
Potts, A. J.
Peterson, Mela
Payne, C. E.
Rollins, J.
Stone, Edward C.
Skinner, Henry G.
Shelley, Miss Ella M.
Hessling, Jessie H.
Smith, T. L.
Sager, Mrs. E. C.
Sager, Chas. E.
Thomas, Mrs. S. G.
Gray, Wm.
Walker, John S.
Ward, W. J.
Worsbury, William H.
Wilkes, Mrs. M.
Hubble, Mr. W.
Young, Andrew

INDIAN TYPES.

Philip Nah-o-quam
Elizbah Willist
Moses Shaw-shaw-ee

CHAS. J. STRANG, P. M.

Charlevoix and East Jordan.

Steamer GAZELLE—Capt. John Mason.

Morning—Leave Charlevoix at 8.00, arrive East Jordan 9.30, leave East Jordan 9.00, arrive Charlevoix 10.30. Afternoon—Leave Charlevoix 1.00, arrive East Jordan 2.00, leave East Jordan 1.30, arrive Charlevoix 3.00. Stopping at intermediate points.

Steamer NORTH STAR—Capt. Mel. Thompson.

Morning—Leave East Jordan 6.30, arrive Charlevoix 7.30, leave Charlevoix 8.00, arrive East Jordan 9.30. Afternoon—Leave East Jordan 2.00, arrive Charlevoix 3.30, leave Charlevoix 4.30, arrive East Jordan 6.30. Stopping at intermediate points.

Charlevoix and Boyne.

Steamer CLARA BELLE—Capt. Robert O'Neil.

Morning—Leave Charlevoix 7.30, arrive Boyne 8.30, leave Boyne 9.00, arrive Charlevoix 10.00. Afternoon—Leave Charlevoix 3.00, arrive Boyne 4.00, leave Boyne 4.30, arrive Charlevoix 6.00. Stopping at intermediate points.

HANNAH, LAY & CO.'S STEAMER LINE,

STEAMER MARITANA.

CITY OF GRAND RAPIDS.

CAPT. C. H. WILKES.

GOING NORTH. Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, will leave at Charlevoix 6.00 a. m., Northport 8.30, Leelanau 9.30, City 10 a. m., Harbor Springs 11.30, Petoskey 1.30 p. m., Harbor Springs 2.30, Cross Village 4.30, Mackinaw City 7.30, arriving at St. Ignace 8.30 p. m.

GOING SOUTH. Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays, will leave St. Ignace 6.00 a. m., Mackinaw City 7.30, Cross Village 8.30, Harbor Springs 10.30, Petoskey 11.30, Leelanau 1.30 p. m., Harbor Springs 2.30, Northport 3.30, City 4.30, Leelanau 5.30, arriving at Charlevoix 6.30 p. m.

GOING NORTH. Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, will leave St. Ignace 6.00 a. m., Mackinaw City 7.30, Cross Village 8.30, Harbor Springs 12.45, Petoskey 1.45, Charlevoix at Noon, Leelanau, Traverse City 5.30, arriving at Traverse City 7.45 p. m.

GOOD CONNECTIONS will be made at Traverse City with the Northern Michigan Express for points on the G. R. & I. R. R. and St. Ignace with Michigan Central R. R. and St. Ignace with Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic R. R. for all points west. Also at Mackinaw City with Mackinaw Division C. & W. M. R. R. for Cheboygan and the City of Mackinaw. Also at Cross Village with stage for Harbor Springs, Petoskey and Bay View. Also at Northport with stage for Leland, Lake Leelanau, and the City of Traverse by Omnibus. Also at Charlevoix with Steamer Gazelle for East Jordan. Also at Harbor Springs with Steamer Thomas Ewiart for Petoskey, Charlevoix, and East Jordan.

Traverse Bay Route.

STEAMER CITY OF TRAVERSE—Capt. Wm. Mitchell.

Monday, Leave Northport 7.00, arrive Traverse City 10.00; leave Traverse City 2.00, arrive Northport 4.30 p. m.

Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays, leave Northport 7.00, arrive Traverse City 10.00; leave Traverse City 2.00, arrive Northport 4.30 p. m.

Wednesdays, Fridays, and Sundays, leave Northport 7.00, arrive Traverse City 10.00; leave Traverse City 2.00, arrive Northport 4.30 p. m.

The steamer stops at Elk Rapids every morning, and Omena—on Suttons Bay every day, except Sundays, when she leaves Traverse City at 2 p. m., arriving at Northport at 4.30, Elk Rapids, and at Traverse City with R. & I. Railroad.

ADVERTISERS can find out exactly what it will cost for any proposed line of newspaper advertising, by sending to Geo. P. Rowell & Co., Newspaper Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce St.), New York, 25 cents for 100-page pamphlet, containing lists of 3000 newspapers, and estimates showing cost of advertising in Chicago and vicinity, and rates of all 25 to 50 Dailies. Address as above.

LORD & THOMAS, Newspaper Advertising Agents of Chicago.

DOOMED ANARCHISTS.

How the Verdict Was Received by the Condemned Prisoners.

The Proceedings in Court, and the Scenes In and Around the Court House.

Spies Waves a Red Handkerchief, but Meets with a Cold Response.

The Prisoners Returned to Jail, and Locked Up in "Murderers' Row."

The Sheriff Orders the Death-watch to Be Placed Over the Condemned.

An Utterance of Attorney Foster Replied To by Inspector Bonfield.

[CHICAGO CORRESPONDENCE.]

It was past 9:15 o'clock Friday morning when the jury, in charge of Captain Schaack and three bailiffs, filed into the Criminal Court building and were locked up in one of the upper rooms. Friends of the prisoners did not occupy the seats in the center of the court-room that they had held during the trial, heretofore reserved for jaily spectators. The row of seats farthest removed from the Judge were occupied by a force of police officers. Next below, ranked in the order named, were, Henry Spies, Mrs. Spies, the prisoner's mother; Mina Spies, Chris Spies, and a young lady friend. Next below was Mrs. Parsons, with her children, who, as usual, was quite fashionably accompanied by a woman who has attended her throughout the trial. She was given a seat between the prisoners immediately in the rear. Whether this precaution was to guard against any extraordinary demonstration on the part of the prisoners, or not, it is not known, but the seat occupied by the woman in question was thus designed significant.

The ladies looked anxious, Mrs. and Miss Spies and Mrs. Parsons looked worn and though the latter tried to appear unconcerned, she betrayed her loss in reading the newspaper.

Mr. Foster was the first of the counsel to put in an appearance, arriving at 9:45. He was followed shortly afterward by Mr. Salomon.

The jury arrived at 9:30 o'clock and adjourned at the same moment Capt. Black and Mr. Zeisler, occupying the counsel table for the defendants' counsel.

Captain Black remarked to his wife when he entered, "I don't feel much like with the prisoners. They have seen the papers, and know what the verdict is, and I don't like to look them in the face," said the attorney, with a half tragic air. He declared that they would show no excitement.

Quite a number of attorneys, were allowed to come within the railing, which served to make the room a somewhat more crowded appearance.

The prisoners were brought into the court-room at 9:50 o'clock, and were seated at the extreme left of the room, facing the Judge, beside Inspector Bonfield, who was called to order at 9:44.

The prisoners were observable to the eye of no lazy row in the court room. They presented a picture of anxiety. Spies and Fielden looked paler than they arrived at 9:45 o'clock. There was impressive silence as they filed in.

Mrs. Black, wife of the chief counsel for the prisoners, who has been in court daily, proceeded to take her former seat near the prisoners, but Captain Black, who had left the room on the side of the jury room, Mrs. Black remarked to a newspaper reporter as she laid her package of newspapers down, "Well, they say I am all one against our more. They take it very well, I think."

When the jury passed Judge Gary entered, amidst silence. There was a whispered conversation between the Judge and Mr. Foster when the verdict was read, as follows:

We the jury find the defendants, August Spies, Michael Schwab, Samuel Fielden, Albert R. Parsons, and Louis Lingg guilty of murder in the manner and form as charged in the indictment, and fix the penalty at death. We find the defendant Oscar W. Neebe guilty of murder in manner and form as charged in the indictment, and fix the penalty at imprisonment for fifteen years.

Capt. Black asked that the jury be polled.

The prisoners answered with firm voices. Capt. Black said he desired to make a motion for a new trial.

Mr. Foster stated that he would be impossible to dispose of the motion during the present term, but by agreement the motion could be argued at the September term. This was opposed to by the defendants.

The Judge then asked the prisoners if they had any thing to say why sentence should not be pronounced upon them.

GENTLEMEN OF THE JURY: You have finished a long and tedious task, and I know that it has cost a very considerable sacrifice of time and some hardship. I hope that everything has been done that could possibly be done to make those sacrifices and hardships as mild as might be consistent.

I do not mean to say anything to entitle me to ask that you have tried or the verdict you have rendered, but men conspicuously serving as jurors, as you have done, deserve some recognition of the service you have performed, besides the meager compensation you have received.

The Freeman jury said: "The jury have deputed to me the only agreeable duty that it in our province to perform, and that is to thank the officer and the counsel for the defense and the prisoners for the courtesy and consideration as far as possible during our confinement. We thank you."

The other, with which the finding of the jury was received was preserved for a few moments, when Spies, with a red handkerchief in his thinker to the counsel for the courtesy extended himself and associates. There few people who witnessed the pathetic tones of voice, were listened to attentively by the spectators. The jury for some two days, court and the prisoners, which attracted no attention at that moment was being placed in another part of the room.

Two women were bent over a third, who seemed in a state of utter collapse. Her face was the color of death; her limbs trembled; and she was in a state of hysterical prostration. Then the women passed a covering around and fell back limp. She was Mrs. Schwab, Schwab's wife, and the second in tears, the women in tears and lamentations. Mrs. Ames and Mrs. Parsons left the court room, and went to console her, but in vain. Mrs. Schwab gave utterance to plaintive cries so full of grief and despair as to move to compassion everyone who heard the cries. Friends hastened to her side, but she was inconsolable. The jury passed out of the court room, and as she passed Mrs. Ames, and as she passed, and it seemed as if her heart was broken.

For a few seconds after the verdict was read a deathlike stillness prevailed; then, with a low murmur, the crowd in the court room began to disperse in groups. Mr. Foster finished up and was carried through the rear door to the Judge's waiting room, as was also Mrs. Parsons. Reporters darted through the doors and by the back, not heeding the commands of Judge Gary for everyone to remain seated. Every lawyer in the room rushed for the door, and a blank from the court house, was seized with men who were waiting for the verdict and stood in readiness to appeal the news.

Spies himself, who looked uncommonly jaded and worn, vanished quickly inside, pulled a red handkerchief out of his pocket and waved it in the direction of the prisoners' dock, as he came from the street. No response came back to him, however, but the air was cut with the glances of the crowd below, who seemed unanimously rejected at the verdict.

Fielden, who, in company with Mrs. Parsons walked up to Mr. Foster and warmly grasped his hand. No trace of emotion was visible on his solemnly composure. Mr. Foster expressed his sorrow that he had not been able to fight more than for his husband, but he should go with the hope of ultimate success on appeal.

The crowd retired outside for an hour after the reading of the verdict. At 10:30 o'clock Sheriff Fanchi sent word to the grand jury room that everything was in readiness for the jurors to come down. The jurors came down and stood waiting for them outside the door of the building, and after receiving their pay the jurors walked down the steps between a double row of police, and, entering the carriages, were driven away.

It is understood that the authorities are contemplate the immediate arrest of some prominent indirectly connected with the Haymarket tragedy for conspiracy, and that in this knowledge many of the active leaders, hearing the outcome of the verdict, are preparing to leave town.

How the Prisoners Received the Verdict.

When the prisoners entered the court room were shown to their new seats, near the east door. Parsons, attended by the crowd in the street, stopped and waved a red silk handkerchief out of the window until forced into his seat. Schwab, who was on the verge of collapse, sank upon the bench, falling a little as he also glanced into the street, and, turning to Parsons, said in English, "I wish I had spoken to you and made those fellows a speech." Fielden, who had been talking with Parsons, looked up at the policemen who were facing him, and half shouted, "I don't want to be hung at the tender mercies of thieving men with the remark, seto vous, 'I'd like to know what you think of that.' When the verdict was read, Spies, who had gone to the window, and whistled softly through his half-concealed lips. As the verdict was completed, Parsons bowed to the crowd, and making a sign to the effect that he was tired, sank into the window sill and leaned his head on his left hand, and clutching Parsons' arm, exclaimed in Spanish, "My God, I have to get 15 years." As the condemned Anarchists left the court room, they passed through the elevated iron passage-way connecting the court house with the jail. Spies looked pale, but retained their strength, Schwab tottered behind the court and dejected Parsons, who had some of his Texan nerve, but looked very pale. Fielden, who had lost his hat and lapel overcloak, accepted it from the jail, on the march from the court, he looked like a corpse, his manner nonchalance speaking unmistakable woe.

The court room was quickly evacuated, the remaining crowd on its feet the cheering throughout the street. Mrs. Parsons was met by some of the friends of the condemned men as she left and carrying as upon the defendants themselves.

Mrs. Parsons, Mrs. Schwab, Mrs. Spies, Mrs. Fischer

FINE WRITING PAPERS, BOX PAPERS, CRAYON TABLES, RULED AND UNRULED.

SCHOOL BOOKS and SCHOOL SUPPLIES!

☞ If you want to save money, buy of

G. W. Crouter, Druggist.

Temperance Column.

Conducted by a Committee of the W. C. T. U.

OFFICERS.

President—Mrs. G. W. Jefferis.
First Vice President—Mrs. C. T. Cash.
Second Vice President—Mrs. L. E. Madge.
Third Vice President—Mrs. R. Sedlitz.
Recording Secretary—Miss Julia Mason.
Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. E. Allen.
Treasurer—Mrs. C. J. Strang.

A Glorious Resurrection.

The present prohibition movement is the most promising and certainly the greatest epoch in the history of our country.

It does not require much of a prophet's vision to see the bright glimpses of the coming revolution that is so soon to sweep this curse of all curses, the liquor traffic, into the deep gulf of annihilation, and this revolution will do more to clarify and elevate the moral tone of the people and dignify our civilization than all other influences of a human character combined. This new departure that is now so certain to culminate into a grand uprising has taken most of the politicians by surprise. This radical and dignified crusade for a righteous modification of statute law to prohibit the liquor traffic has been the result of the defiant character of the rum-sellers, and their arrogant demands for concession and legal claims to respectability. The people are now determined, and their determination is taking a very active form.

Prohibition has been the rallying cry for young men and old men both of whom are forming into prohibition clubs all over the land. In New York, New Jersey, and all the New England states, and all over the west the people are hurrying forward with real and enthusiasm. The south are combined, and in every section of the country prohibitionists have live representatives in complete political organizations.

The church is taking an active political interest, and the atmosphere is full of prohibition everywhere. We now feel some of the inspiration that was prevalent when the grand old party first developed into life and shaped its life for the destruction of slavery. The lightning flashes of truth and the thunder of an awakened conscience are hurried along on a flood tide of a heroic enthusiasm. This epoch of moral revolution has developed into a mighty tide and strengthened every body, and that the prohibition party will be triumphant in the near future, is as certain as the tides ebb and flow; nothing can now stay its onward progress.

The fat of the people is: "The saloon must go."—From Democrat's Monthly for September.

Prohibition Booming.

The cause of prohibition is booming so efficiently and with such rapid progress that all ordinary calculations are at fault—hardly a single state is now without its full representative character made prominent in its several election districts.

Each state, county, and congressional district are holding conventions, and every town is alive with prohibition literature, and demanding prohibition literature. New recruits and converts with active demonstrations of a wide-spread enthusiasm are falling into the ranks, and it seems that we may expect a boom for prohibition this fall that will bring consternation in both republican and democratic parties. The Fisk boom in New Jersey is one of the marvels of our political times. It has now become so certain that Fisk will receive a majority of votes cast that there is hardly a question about it. This conceeded will prove one of the most astonishing developments ever brought about in the history of our country in so short a time, and gives promise of the possibility of carrying the next presidential election for prohibition with its glorious results to follow. Verily a new resurrection of moral and intellectual activity is taking possession of the minds of the people that means real progress, and that the saloon must go, and much quicker than we could at first have anticipated.—From Democrat's Monthly for September.

The Outlook for Prohibition.

The prospect that is now before the prohibition party for a grand success in the near future is much brighter than it was last year. Every voter is now canvassing the question, and it is very evident that a very large vote will be polled for prohibition by the very best elements taken from both of the old parties. From the best statistics that we are able to secure, we learn that the proportion will be about as follows: one-third from the ranks of democrats, and two-thirds from the republican. A wide-spread enthusiasm has sprung up among the people that demands the annihilation of the saloon, and as the curse of the liquor traffic has made itself more apparent by its arrogant claims to protection and respectability, the people are coming to be just as determined in their efforts to put the brand of infamy on the whole business by prohibition.—From Democrat's Monthly for September.

Cuba is Free.

Glorious news from Spain! Cuba is free!! We are rejoiced to find that the long delayed measure of justice has been accorded to the blacks of Cuba. The news comes in the following despatch:

MADRID, July, 28.—In the chamber of deputies to-day Senor Labra moved a resolution that the government free as soon as possible the remaining 20,000 slaves in Cuba. The government agreed to the resolution and it was passed unanimously. The president of the chamber congratulated the members on the "crowning of the glorious work of the abolition of slavery," which will soon set the remaining 20,000 slaves in the island free. Hurrah for Cuba! She now becomes a star of beauty in the grand galaxy of redeemed from the awful curse of human bondage. A final redemption from the curse of the liquor traffic will be the culmination of her great and glorious destiny as one of the gems of the ocean.—From Democrat's Monthly for September.

Around the County.

Wilson.

Rainy harvest weather.

Late oats and potatoes are coming on nicely.

Our farmers took advantage of the nice weather last week, and secured nearly all of the grain.

Miss Kitson's school closed on Friday last with appropriate exercises; also a company assembled at Frank Smith's in the evening where dancing was indulged in until a late hour.

Mrs. Harp was taken suddenly ill a few days ago, but is recovering.

This damp weather has a bad effect on Harry Hudkins, as he is affected with malaria.

Mr. and Mrs. Whiteford, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Vance and daughter were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Vance, last week.

Robert Shepherd and Rosa Cooke were married at the residence of Mrs. Durance, the bride's sister, at Charlevoix, about two weeks ago. We are glad to see this decided step taken by our bachelors. A word to the thoughtful is enough.

A buggy load of people from Boyne City were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hudkins, recently.

Messrs. Charlie and Dan Hudkins and John Shepherd have gone to the "north shore," Schoolcraft county. It is predicted that an extra mail carrier will have to be hired to carry the additional mail that will pour down from that region to the first mission of this vicinity.

J. R. Vance had the misfortune to lose his sawmill by fire about two weeks ago, in the early morning. As there was no fire near the mill at that time it looks mysterious. We hope Mr. Vance will be able to rebuild again, for the citizens here can ill afford to lose the mill, as it proved a benefit to all.

Communication.

The following communication, which explains itself, was sent to the Sentinel office August 11th, and a place for it was promised. As two issues of that paper have since appeared, and the communication has not been published, we are requested to give it a place in the JOURNAL:

Hayes, August 11th.

Editor of the Sentinel, Sir: It is too bad that one of our Hayesites is so badly worked up over the alleged rottenness of the republican party. Now, Brother Gynx, perhaps you, as a clerk, can explain how an order was issued for eight dollars to pay for one days' work at two dollars per day, and an account audited and an order drawn without the knowledge of the supervisor or justices of the townboard. As to the acts of the supervisor you with all others are invited to call and examine the township with thanks for your timely warning as to the mode of doing the business. And should we want advice in the future, will call on your wisdom, hoping we have a clerk with figures enough in his head to balance the several accounts and present the same to the people next spring, a thing we failed to have last township meeting, which may have seemed proper but was bad. J. A. B.

Disorders of the stomach, liver, and kidneys, can be cured by restoring the blood to a healthy condition, through its vitalizing and cleansing action of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It is the safest, most powerful, and most agreeable concentrated alterative available to the public.

CHARLEVOIX

Savings Bank

Organized under the General Banking Law of the State of Michigan.

Henry Bennett, President.
John Nicholls, Vice President;
F. A. Smith, Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

Henry Bennett, O. D. Wood,
John Nicholls, J. Buttars,
A. R. Upright, A. Fox,
F. A. Smith.

CAPITAL.....$25,000
Surplus.....2,500

The liabilities of Stockholders in all state banks as provided in Art. XII, Sec. 8 of the Revised Statutes of the State of Michigan, is double the amount of stock taken, making a guaranteed fund of $50,000 to depositors. Superior facilities for the transaction of all legitimate business of a banking business extended to our customers on terms as favorable as are consistent with safety.

Drafts drawn direct on the leading commercial cities of the world in large or small amounts.

Money to loan on approved security. Exchange bought and sold. Certificates of deposit issued bearing interest.

We respectfully solicit your patronage.

CORRESPONDENTS:

NATIONAL PARK BANK.....NEW YORK.
COMMERCIAL NAT. BANK.....CHICAGO.
NATIONAL CITY BANK.....GRAND RAPIDS.
DETROIT NATIONAL BANK.....DETROIT.

MISS L. SPAULDING.

MILLINERY

and Fancy Goods.

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

New Grocery!

Cor. Antrim and Grant Streets.

A. J. MUDGE

Would respectfully announce to the people of Charlevoix and vicinity, especially to the residents of the southwestern part of town, and all coming in from the south, that he has opened a stock of Groceries in his building on the corner of Antrim and Grant streets, and requests a call to give him a trial.

BUTTER AND EGGS WANTED

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default has been made in the payment of the sum of twenty-four hundred and eighty-four and 75-100 dollars and no suit or proceeding at law has been instituted to recover the debt now secured by a mortgage made and dated on the 5th day of September in the year A. D. one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four, and executed by Walter Mansey and Amelia Mansey, his wife, of the township of Charlevoix, county of Emmet and state of Michigan, parties of the first part, to Jerome Beardsley, late of the city of Detroit, in the state of Michigan, which said mortgage was recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the said county of Emmet, in Liber 2 of mortgages, on page 56, on the twelfth day of September, in the year A. D. one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four, and the said mortgage is now owned by the undersigned, the Dime Savings Bank, of Detroit, the amount claimed to be due on said mortgage at the date of this notice is the sum of two thousand five hundred dollars and forty-five cents ($2545) which is the first installment of principal owned by said mortgage with the interest thereon, and a further sum of fifteen dollars and seventy-five cents ($15.75) attorney fee as provided in said mortgage, which is the whole amount of the first installment of said mortgage with the interest thereon, and it is of that is sought to be collected by the foreclosure thereof, and no suit or proceeding at law has whatever having been instituted to recover the said debt or any part thereof, whereby the power of sale contained therein has become operative. Now therefore, notice is hereby given that in virtue of the power of sale contained therein and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by sale of the premises therein described at public auction to the highest bidder at the front door of the Town Hall in the township of South Arm, in the county of Charlevoix, state of Michigan, on the sixth day of September, A. D. 1886, at ten (10) o'clock in the forenoon, which premises are described in said mortgage as follows, viz: Lots nine (9), forty (40), and forty-one (41), in section twenty-six (26), in township forty (40) north, range eight (8) west, containing one hundred and twenty (120) acres, more or less, according to the township of Evelina, Charlevoix county, Michigan.

Dated June 19th, A. D. 1886.

PINE LAKE LUMBER COMPANY,
Mortgagee.

CRUICKSHANK & GRIER,
Attorneys for Mortgagee,
Charlevoix, Mich.

CHANCERY SALE.—In pursuance and by virtue of a decree and decree of the circuit court for the county of Charlevoix, in chancery, in the state of Michigan, made and dated on the fifth day of November in the year A. D. 1885, in a certain cause therein pending, wherein Jacob Shepler, of said county of Charlevoix, plaintiff, and Peter Hart and others, defendants, it is hereby given that I shall sell at public auction to the highest bidder, at the front door of Lewis' Hall, in the village of Boyne in said county of Charlevoix, on the 6th day of September, being the circuit court in said county, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, all or so much thereof as may be necessary to raise the amount due for the said complainant for principal, interest, and costs, including attorney's fee, and costs of sale, to wit, the northwest quarter (¼) of the southwest quarter (¼), of section twelve (12), in township forty-one (41) north, range eight (8) west, containing in the township of South Arm, in the county of Charlevoix, state of Michigan, forty and one-half (40 and ½) acres of land according to the United States survey thereof.

Dated July 28th, A. D. 1886.

FRANK E. PUGH,
Circuit Court Commissioner
of Charlevoix County, Mich.

Cruickshank & Grier,
Solicitors for Complainant,
Charlevoix, Michigan.

STAUFFER'S BROADCAST Hand-Seeder.

This new invention possesses many qualities peculiarly adapted to farmers and the trade.

TEN REASONS.

1. It sows evenly all kinds of grain and seeds, large and small. Wheat, barley, clover, timothy, rutabaga, etc.
2. It sows any desired quantity. One-fourth pound of rutabaga seed can be spread over as acre of ground with perfect ease and accuracy.
3. It sows rapidly. With wheat it covers 48 feet in the round. Clover, timothy and timothy mixed 36. Ten acres of clover sowed in 2½ hours.
4. It is not affected by quite a strong wind.
5. It is quickly adjusted to different quantities of grain.
7. It cannot clog.
8. It is easily repaired.
9. It is cheap.
10. It is durable.

Patented by ISAAC STAUFFER, of Carpenter, Emmet Co., Mich. Sold by

UPRIGHT & EMREY,
Call and examine it. Charlevoix, Mich.

John Nicholls,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,
MANUFACTURER OF AND DEALER IN
HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER!

ALSO
Dressed lumber, Oar Blades,
WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.
LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER

A Full Stock of
Jewelry and Silverware,
Optical Goods, Etc.
C. R. BELLINGER,
Charlevoix, Mich.

Clothing Cleaned, Repaired and Made over to Order. Prices Reasonable.
F. J. Lentz
Proctor Clothing Co.
Cleveland, Ohio.

We cordially recommend the above Clothing Co. to our patrons, believing the business to be fair and honorable.
Alcott & Lisk,
Nelson, N. Y.

Sold by Druggists. Price, $1.00.
For sale by F. G. HINES & CO., Charlevoix.

THIS PAPER may be found on file at Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce St.), where advertising can be taken for it in New York.

THE LIGHT RUNNING SIMPLE STRONG NEW HOME SWIFT SURE SEWING MACHINE HAS NO EQUAL. PERFECT SATISFACTION

New Home Sewing Machine Co.
—ORANGE, MASS.
30 Union Square, N. Y. Chicago, Ill. St. Louis, Mo. Atlanta, Ga. Dallas, Tex. San Francisco, Cal.
FOR SALE BY

E. N. CLINK, East Jordan.

Owing to Special Rates in Photographic Stock, I will continue to make
Cabinet Photographs at $4.00 per Dozen
Until further notice.
Dave Bradbeer,
Photographer,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

For Baking Purposes.
Best in the World.
Sold by Upright & Emrey.

JAMES HEMMINUS,
On Mason St., one door west of State, Charlevoix.
HOUSE PAINTER,
Calciminer,
Paper Harger,
And Decorator.
PINE AND HARDWOOD FINISHING. GOOD WORK.

At the Old Stand.

A. J. McLeod

Can be found at the old stand with a
FULL STOCK OF MEATS
Of all kinds
At Wholesale and Retail.

HIDES, PELTS & PAY STOCK WANTED

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 165. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1886. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL
Published every Thursday,
BY CHAS. J. STRANG.
Office on Bridge Street,
CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN
ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

WATCH YOUR ADDRESS LABEL.
The date following the name on your address label indicates the time to which your subscription is paid. If in arrears, you are requested to pay up.

BUSINESS CARDS.

ATTORNEYS.

ARTHUR E. MARTIN, Attorney at Law, Boyne City. Collections promptly attended to.

CHAS. CRUICKSHANK, Attorney at Law and Proctor in Admiralty. Office in Rooms, Charlevoix, Mich.
A. R. CRUICKSHANK. C. J. GRIER.

DEET & CALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Insurance Agents. Lake St., east of postoffice, Petoskey, Mich.

FRED W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor. Real Estate business promptly attended to. ☞ GOOD TO LOAN.

J. E. NEWBERRY, Attorney at Law and Judge of Probate of Emmet Co., Petoskey, Mich.

MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

OSCAR F. WISNER, Attorney at Law and Circuit Court Commissioner, Western District, East Jordan, Mich.

W. N. MOORE, Attorney and Solicitor, East Jordan. Admiralty a Specialty.

Z. S. GARBUTT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

CHURCHES.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7.30 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Tuesday evening at 7.30 o'clock. F. VAN ANDA, Pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7.30 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer and praise meeting Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. J. Y. BOINON, pastor.

DENTISTRY.

N. J. PERRY, Dentist.
Office at Wood's, long store.
CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

B. BUFFIELD, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Domestic Cures, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

PHYSICIANS.

L. LEWIS, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office at Mrs. Lewis', Charlevoix, Mich.

W. M. PRESTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HORACE S. HARSHA, Notary Public, Real Estate and Insurance Agent, Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

G. A. R. Department of Mich. Meets every Monday in each month at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Round Lake Lodge, No. 293, meets every Wednesday evening at Odd Fellows' hall.

K. O. T. M.—Rossel Tent No. 158, meets second and third Thursday evenings at Odd Fellows' hall.

O. U. A. M.—Iron Hills No. 157, meet Saturday on or before full moon, in Barnard's school house.

F. & A. M.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 296, meets Tuesday on or before full moon, at their hall.

W. P. BROWN, President. W. A. BROWN, Cash't Cashier.

Brown & Co's Bank of Charlevoix
Transacts a general banking business. Drafts drawn direct on the principal cities of Europe. Interest allowed on time deposits. Good securities bought and sold. Collections and loans all points in Europe by best lines. Correspondents—Chase National Bank, New York; First National Bank, Chicago; Merchants and Manufacturers' National Bank, Detroit; Fourth National Bank, Grand Rapids.

Around the County.

Burgess.

Change in the atmosphere.

Whitford's mill, at Undine, was burned last Saturday morning, supposed to be the work of an incendiary. He talks of rebuilding.

Another settler arrival in Hayes. This time it is a boy, at Charlie Howe's place.

Mrs. Meyers, who has been suffering with erysipelas, is recovering under the care of Dr. Lewis.

The noise of the festive threshing machine is heard in the country.

At the annual meeting in school district No. 4, Oscar Tillotson was re-elected as director, and school is to commence Sept. 20.

At school district No. 6, Geo. O. Scott was reelected as director, and school is to commence Sept. 13. The hopyard school district has not been heard from.

Ellsworth.

School closed on the Intermediate peninsula last week, with the best of feeling between the teacher, Mrs. Dellie, and her pupils.

Miss Minnie Dryer, of Eastport, closed a four-months term of school in the "Boss district," the 27th inst. The patrons of her school are well satisfied with her work. We will all miss her very much.

George Burns, of Charlevoix, brought a load of pleasure seekers to the lake, last Saturday. They had very good success fishing, and would have enjoyed themselves much more if it had not rained almost all day.

Frank Wrisley's baby is still improving under Dr. Bennet's care. We hope it will recover.

TO A TOUGH BOY.

Young man, I have watched you with unqualified admiration. The first time my eyes beheld you I saw at a glance that the aim and object of your existence was to be a tough boy, and you have since been my daily study, and each day has added to my delight in observing the rapid strides you are making towards your high, unwelding ideal.

I am pleased at the hearty-like devotion with which you struggle with the cigar at which your face pales, your head reels and your stomach trembles, but to which you adhere, nevertheless, with a more than Spartan firmness.

Again I am happy at the fine, manly instinct which leads you to make your choice slang and elegant profanity with your improving vocabulary, and I feel certain that the ladies, whom you are naturally proud to see you shun, must wish that you were their own offspring, or at least that their boys could have the benefit of your exemplary companionship.

I presume that you are up to the state of liquor, also. For I cannot think that one so munificent in all other respects would be so easily neglected in a thing so important as an element of toughness as to take a drink now and then, and drink only occasionally to get tipsy. Of course you do not like the taste of whisky any more than you delight in the flavor of tobacco. I understand that perfectly, and honor you all the more for your self denial. No worthy object can be achieved without more or less of self denial; and I make sure that one day you will be a great tough, and a tough of the highest and a competent drunkard.

Yes, young man, when you have marked out for yourself in life is perhaps not wholly without its rough and rugged places, but it is full of promise for yourself and others also.

The ruddy glow in your cheeks which betrays your youth—of which as a tough you are naturally ashamed—will shortly turn to the livid hue which marks the man, with a capital M, and you will step will after a time materialize into the elegant tough of that apotheosis of the tough boy, the dead beat. Your pearly teeth will long ere then have turned to a beautiful amber, or still more beautiful jet, if, indeed, you have not succeeded in casting them from you as reminders of childhood, and, therefore, unworthy of so transcendent a character as yourself.

In that happy day you will have risen above the few weaknesses which yet adhere to you. You will have overcome the foolish pride which causes you to wash your face every day of your life and which leads you to wear clothing fashionable in cut and devoid of tatters. You will also have risen above the sordid ambition of securing a name and a place in the world, or of reaching that station of affluence of which in your childish moments you still dream. In a word, you will have become the perfect being, the butterfly of worth, the ugly grub

And then the good you are destined to accomplish. In a few years you will have succeeded in demoralizing your stomach, and cracking your nerves, and wearing out your heart, and, in short, knocking out your entire physical system, that you will be a blessing of the fortunes of half a score of doctors, and should you succeed in finding a young woman fool enough to marry you, and should you have children, it will be your proud satisfaction to know that your greatness shall live after you, and that your children, thanks to their parent's toughness, shall in their turn greatly aid in making the medical profession a profitable one, so long—or, rather, so short—as they shall live.

Yes, young man, you are a noble creature. Keep on in your glorious career, and when your epitaph is written, a few years hence, let it consist only of these simple but proud words, "He was a tough."—Boston Transcript.

Grand Chief Arthur.

Twelve years ago the grand chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers resigned. His order was in just such a condition as Mr. Powderly, in his late address, said that the Knights of Labor are now in. There were too many strikes, and it was not possible for the chief engineer to control the membership. The great Pan-Handle trouble was on then, and every state, almost, had an engineer's strike. It was during this crisis that P. M. Arthur, the present grand chief, took the helm. He was radically conservative. He held that men should work until they found their differences could not be settled by arbitration, rather than strike until they were adjusted.

By a little diplomacy he fixed up the Pan-Handle trouble, and then made a tour of the country. Wherever he met the officers of the road he met were justified and work was resumed. In several instances he found the men had violated the principle of the organizations by striking without exhausting all resources. In such cases the men were forced to apologize to the company and go to work, or suffer the revocation of their charter. Mr. Arthur went all the way to Maine to defend an engineer who had been arrested for interfering with the mails by refusing to take out his engine. Although the man was liable, Mr. Arthur paid his fine and the expense of the trial, amounting to $3,000. Then he prosecuted to the bitter end a defaulter who had run away with funds belonging to the insurance department of the brotherhood. All this was a revelation to the order which had before believed that the grand chief was simply the boss striker. He was reelected and but few strikes followed. There never has been a strike on any road the engineers under Mr. Arthur after the company consented to an interview with him. He will always make concessions. The doctrine which he has taught the order is "come, let us reason together."

Grand Chief Arthur was in very good shape when the trouble arose in 1876 on the Grand Trunk road. Mr. Arthur went with his committee of thirty to Toronto, real, but his request for a conference was spurned with offensive words. He called his committee together and counseled them that during the strike which he was about to order no violence should be done to any one nor to property. No engine was to be "killed" nor derailed. Every engineer who was ordered by the company was to be taken down by the men by their contracting to pay him regular wages for doing nothing. The men struck, and for three days not a wheel was turned on the road. Then the company sent for Mr. Arthur and his committee and treated with them like kings, conceding everything. For eight years the brotherhood has not had a strike.

Mr. Arthur ran an engine from Albany to Schenectady on the New York Central for twenty years. His engine was the "William H. Vanderbilt," the crack engine of the road. It was then that he and sixteen other engineers were discharged for daring to ask for passes for their families. The Vanderbilts, in recognition then, but a few years later they were compelled to ask for enough more wages per day to pay fare for their wives. The same man who discharged them was glad to grant the increase. Mr. Arthur is very proud of his order, which is very extensive and wealthy. He does not believe in general orders—the banding together of engineers and fireman—but believes that every branch of skilled labor should look out for itself. He says America is proud of her railroad engineers. The brotherhood discharges for drunkenness and other offenses, and he says the traveler goes to bed in his sleeping-car in the darkest and stormiest night that ever blew with just as much confidence in his safety as he would at the finest hotel. This assurance, he believes, is largely due to the work of the brotherhood. Mr. Arthur's greatest work now is in editing his monthly magazine, whose circulation is world-wide, reaching 20,000 copies.

The Ubiquitous Crank.

And the crank! Oh, what a power he is, and how side and picturesque is the figure he cuts in the world! He is the man who stands between the genius of the two classes—the lunatic and the idiot—combining a part of each, exploding his honesty in furious gusts, and reforming us wherever he goes. He isn't distinct. He flies hither and thither, and while he never sinks into the easy and luxurious indifference of the driller or rises to the sublime height of the genius, he ranks second to the latter. His relation is as the humor of the world. He lies, steals, and levies on the world at the point of a pistol, at the beck of his always original and decided will, and always honestly.—Cleveland Plaindealer.

DR. G. W. CROUTER,

Drugs, Stationery and Wall Paper.

Dental Office in Rear of Drug Store.

ADVERTISEMENTS of three lines or less will be inserted in this column for each insertion. This type will average seven words to a line. For each additional line, three cents each insertion.

TEN CENTS

JOHN HOGAN, House Painter and Interior Decorator, Charlevoix, Mich. Residence one door west of Mansion. 13

JOB PRINTING of every description executed neatly, speedily, artistically, and cheaply, at the JOURNAL Office.

LUTHER HEADS, Note Heads, Statements, Bill Heads, etc., neat, cheap, and quick, at the JOURNAL Office.

VIEWS OF CHARLEVOIX on heavy cardboard, suitable for framing, for sale at this office, 5 cts. each.

WOOD WANTED on subscription. We take all that offers, at the highest price. We want it.

WANTED.—A Good, Wide-a-Wake or Progressive Agent for this paper in every town and county in the adjoining counties. For further information call on or address this office.

Terrace Farm

J. R. & J. S. DIXON
Charlevoix, Mich.
Dairy, Vegetable, and Stock Farming. Dairying and Grain Raising a specialty.

COMMERCIAL HOUSE

D. B. JERAUL, Proprietor.
East Jordan, Michigan.
Entirely rebuilt and refurnished. First-class Sample Room for agents. Good Stable in Connection with the House. 25

FARMERS' HOTEL,

WM. RANGER, MANAGER.
CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN
Excellent accommodations for transients boarders and for farmers with their families who want a pleasant home. Good stable for feeding teams. The management of this house will not interfere with my usual work at the mill. WM. RANGER.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,

Richard Cooper, Proprietor.
Charlevoix - Michigan.
Finest location in town, giving good view of lake and grounds. Express office, and headquarters for Petoskey and Elk Rapids stages. Large sample room for commercial travelers adjoining hotel.

Millinery And Fancy Goods!

A Splendid Line of Ribbons, Ladies' Gloves, Zephyrs, Laces, Ladies' Fine Underwear, and Stamping Goods always on hand at Lowest Prices.

Smith & Cooper
At the Ingleside.

WM. J. STEVENSON,
HORSE-SHOEING,

WELL, Wagon Shop,

BLACKSMITHING, ETC.
Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture my own wagons, of the best material, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.
SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.
☞The CHAMPION MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale. 12

The above Eye-glass invented by the Johnson Optical Co., of Detroit, Mich., combines all the advantages of a good glass.

1st. The little cam lever is so strong and way that the eye-lashes will not touch them, and yet always easy to do with other glasses.

2d. The guards are set so as to clasp the nose, giving a firmness which prevents slipping and "fidgeting."

3d. The pressure is on the fleshy part of the nose above the bone, which prevents irritation.

4th. The lower feature screws is perfect adjustment to the nose whether large or small.

5th. The lenses are set at right angles to the nose.

6th. They can be worn safely without cord or chain as there is no danger of falling off.

7th. We warrant them to be the easiest eyeglass in the market.

C. R. BELLINGER,
Optician and Jeweler, Charlevoix, Mich.

Jos. Beauvais

BOAT-BUILDER

The Best Modeled, Easiest Rowing, Best Sailing Boats in Northern Michigan, for the Least Money. Give me a Trial. I am bound to Please.

Boat Livery

In connection with shop.
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

Heath, Francis & Co.,
Builders and Jobbers,
Charlevoix, Mich.
Plans, Specifications, and material furnished, and houses built complete. Repairing and rebuilding done to order.

FINE FURNITURE
Built to order, and repairs of all kinds made on short notice. First-class work guaranteed.

Will take Lumber or Block wood in part payment for furniture. Rooms in Alpin's store, west of Village Hall, Charlevoix, Mich.

Purely Personal.

Gov. Buttars returned home from Lansing last Friday.

H. H. Miller, of the Leelanau Enterprise, was in town Friday.

Judge A. J. Mills, of Kalamazoo, returns to business to-day.

F. L. Lansway, of South Arm, is a candidate for county clerk.

C. G. Townsend, of the Kalamazoo Telegraph, is in town this week.

Mrs. Wm. Cross and daughter returned Tuesday from a six weeks visit with friends in Kalamazoo.

S. G. Inaman, of South Arm, was in attendance at the congressional convention at Big Rapids, last week.

A. D. Cruickshank, of Charlevoix, is the member of the ninth district congressional committee for this county.

John Chamberlain, of East Jordan, returned home Saturday from a month's visit with relatives in Lansing.

J. S. Sullivan returned Tuesday from his contemplated southern trip, the weather being extremely hot.—ibo for business.

Mrs. C. F. Van Auken is down with typhoid fever, but the doctors seem to have it under control, and hope for an early recovery.

Clement J. Strang, late local editor of the JOURNAL, has been nominated for surveyor of Cass County on the prohibition ticket.

George Grube, of Wisconsin, gave an exhibition of fancy skating at the rink last Saturday night. A good audience was in attendance.

Homer Trask, foreman of the Petoskey Record, and Miss Jessie Hastings, of Conway, were married Aug. 26th. Business will boom in the Record office now.

Mr. Gust Brown and Miss Ida M. Bresler, were married at Ypsilanti last evening at 8 o'clock. They will return to Charlevoix to live in a few days.

Miss Gladys Jefferies, late clerk at the postoffice, has resigned, and is attending the teacher's institute this week, preparatory to accepting a school this fall.

Mr. J. R. Stevenson, a brother of A. E. Stevenson, first-assistant postmaster general at Washington, was in town this week, and paid his compliments to this Charlevoix postoffice.

Frank Craine, of Charlevoix, is taking charge of Wm. M. Gow's fancy store in this city while the latter is absent buying goods at the east. Mr. Gow is interested with Mr. Craine in the Charlevoix store and will purchase a big stock for both establishments.—Cadillac Express.

Shipments.

Sept. 1—Schr. Stampede, 250,000 feet hardwood lumber, Pine Lake Lumber Co., to Sheboygan.

2—Schr. T. V. Avery, 190 cords wood, 100 cords bark, Perkins, to Chicago.

2—J. R. Newland, 80 cords bark, 20 cords wood, Wm. Dower, to Chicago.

3—Prop. John H. Pauly, 140 cords wood, Perkins, to Milwaukee.

3—Schr. Lottie Mason, 187,000 lumber, 17,000 feet hardwood lumber, Wilson Hoop Co. to Milwaukee.

3—Schr. A. J. Mowery, 5,526 cedar ties, W. H. Horn, to Chicago.

4—Schr. Success, 179 cords bark, W. H. Downer, to Chicago.

4—Schr. Avon Bronson, 150 cords wood, W. S. Stripp, to Milwaukee.

4—Schr. Gilbert Knapp, 165 cords bark, French and Sutton, to Kenosha.

5—Schr. Sea Gem, 75 cords wood, O. J. Smith, to Milwaukee.

4—Schr. W. H. Dunham, 130,000 feet hardwood lumber, Green & Porter, to Chicago.

6—Schr. Jessie Phillips, 175,000 feet hardwood lumber, Pine Lake lumber Co. to Chicago.

7—Schr. Sardinia, 115,000 feet hardwood lumber, Pine Lake Lumber Co. to Sheboygan.

8—Schr. Mecklenburg, 3,500 cedar ties, Upright & Emrey, to Milwaukee.

8—Schr. Narragansett, 500 tons pig iron, Pine Lake Iron Co., to Milwaukee.

8—Schr. F. M. Smith, 90 cords wood, E. Vollick, to Cleveland.

The following is a summary of the shipments from the port of Charlevoix for the week ending Wednesday evening, and for the corresponding week of 1885:

	1886.	1885.
Hardwood lumber, feet	1,000	67,500
Shingles	500,000	187,000
Hoops		157,000
Cedar posts	1,000	3,000
Cedar ties	9,526	8,000
Bark, cords	994	965
Pig iron, tons	1,267	965
Fresh fish, pounds	7,000	7,000

The Minister Was Not Disconcerted.

One of the ablest clergymen in Maine has the habit of often making a pause of several minutes in the midst of his remarks. This is seldom embarrassing to himself or to his audience, for when he resumes there is always something good enough to justify the wait. One Sunday a short time since he made an exchange of pulpits, and during his prayer he made one of his accustomed pauses. The organist had not, perhaps, been paying that strict attention which organists in general are accustomed to pay. He had, no doubt, been dreaming of some symphony which has never yet been vouchsafed to mortals to interpret. But the solemn silence roused him from his reverie. He listened. The stillness was going; the prayer was apparently done. His hands sought the keys, and music floated upon the air. The congregation was somewhat agitated, but not the reverend gentleman. He waited, still the last strain died away, and then, running, "We further beseech thee, O Lord," went on and brought the prayer to its proper conclusion. Again the tones of the organ were heard, but this time more softly sweet than before. The organist was now wide awake, but he preferred to pour forth his soul in the minor key.

Ayer's Ague cure acts directly on the liver and biliary apparatus, and drives out the malarial poison which induces liver complaint and bilious disorders. Warranted to cure, or money refunded. Try it.

☞It is a fact, F. W. Craine & Co. have got some big bargains in purchasing clocks and dry goods, cut on account of the earthquake excitement.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

EASTERN.

M. Champallion, of Paris, the son-in-law of Amelia Corbin, killed himself with a revolver on the Corbin farm, near Nepot, New Pampanic.

Slight shocks of earthquake visited points in North and South Carolina and Georgia.

Three laborers employed by the Pennsylvania Road at Sumner Hill crossed the tracks to avoid a train, and were killed by an engine moving in the opposite direction.

A terrible explosion occurred in the Fair Lawn Colliery, near Scranton, Pa., which resulted in the death of five men. Two others were seriously injured.

Nichols & Farnsworth, dealers in also manufacturing goods at Boston have suspended. The failure was brought about by the outside operations of Farnsworth. Liabilities are heavy.

The Commissioners of Immigration at Castle Garden, having been sternly criticised for admitting polygamists, have decided to recognize no more Mormon ship-loads, but deal only with individual immigrants.

WESTERN.

The woods in the vicinity of Decatur, Indiana, abound in wild turkeys. An engine on the Grand Rapids Road killed thirteen the other morning.

The dry-goods firm of Keane Brothers, of San Francisco, has made an assignment, with liabilities amounting to $250,000.

Gen. Miles has succeeded in removing the Warm Springs and Chiricahua Apaches from the Apache reservation to Fort Union, N. M., there to await the final disposition of them by the authorities at Washington. To accomplish this has been Gen. Miles' principal labor since he assumed command in Arizona.

The magazine of the Laflin & Rand Powder Company, located seven miles from the business heart of Chicago, was exploded by an electric bolt during the progress of a thunder storm. It contained 100,000 pounds of powder and 10,000 pounds of dynamite. One death has resulted, with four others likely to follow, besides which twenty-five persons were painfully injured. The shock was felt all over the city, and windows were shattered in buildings six miles distant from the scene of the explosion.

State Adjutant General Jamieson, of Missouri, has issued an order directing that no more militia companies be formed at present. This is in consequence of Judge Stover's recent ruling at Kansas City that the State militia officers cannot enforce discipline under the existing law. Steps will be taken for a revision of the statute by the next Legislature.

Reports of frost at various points in the Northwest caused an advance in corn and wheat in Chicago.

Seven months since Rosa Johnston, of Jamestown, O., filled herself with a revolver because of her seduction and desertion by Joseph Zeiner. At Jamestown, O., the other evening, Zeiner was sitting on a sofa in a hotel parlor, between two young ladies, when some person unknown blew out his brains with a shotgun loaded with slugs, fired through a window.

SOUTHERN.

John W. Stevenson, who had been Senator and Representative in Congress and Governor of Kentucky, has passed away at the age of 74 years.

Gov. Ireland, of Texas, has issued a proclamation asking for relief for the drought sufferers.

Sister Eulalie, Superioress of the Immaculate Academy, at Newport, Ky., was burned to death. She had been confined to her bed through sickness for some time. When the news of her death reached the convent, hangings of the conch caught fire from a lamp. She was widely known in the Catholic Church.

While a number of workmen were engaged in erecting a saw-mill on French Creek, near Buckhannon, W. Va., the structure collapsed, fatally injuring, David Barr, Thos. Baker, Fred Brown, and John Allman.

Lawrence M. Donovan, a New York pressman, jumped from the Brooklyn Bridge into the river and escaped injury. He was fined $10 and given a lecture by Judge Duffy. The jump was made on a wager of $100.

Indianola, Tex., is fast becoming depopulated, a great number of its people having decided to seek homes elsewhere.

Yellow fever is reported to exist at Buxar, Mex., a summer resort.

Colonel William Postmaster is Savannah, positively refuses to surrender his office to the new appointee, Captain George W. Lamar, who made a formal demand for possession.

WASHINGTON.

Acting Secretary of the Treasury Fairchild has issued regulations for the enforcement of the oleomargarine law. The ownership of marks and brands is made manifest and a form of bond to protect the users is given. Special stamps have been designed for the article.

The Treasury announces that it will redeem, on and after the 10th of September, any mutilated United States 3 per cent. bonds to any amount not exceeding $10,000,000, paying par and accrued interest.

A bill in equity has been filed in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia by G. C. Bestman, for Henry C. Spurgeon of Chicago, against Robert B. Vance, Acting Patents Commissioner, and Elish Gray for an injunction to restrain the issuing of a telephone patent to the latter.

Judge Thomas C. Manning, of Louisiana, has been appointed Minister to Mexico, succeeding Gen. Jackson. Judge Manning has been on the Supreme bench in his state for six years. He is not a politician, but is an earnest friend of Secretary Bayard.

The following is the statement of the public debt issued on the 1st of the month:

INTEREST-BEARING DEBT.
Bonds at 4½ per cent	$250,000,000
Bonds at 4 per cent	737,026,050
Bonds at 3 per cent	334,657,350
Refunding certificates at 4 per cent	199,090
Navy pension fund at 3 per cent	14,000,000
Pacific Railroad bonds at 6 per cent	64,623,512
Principal	$1,400,505,912
Interest	10,863,145
Total	$1,411,518,757
DEBT ON WHICH INTEREST HAS CEASED SINCE MATURITY.
Principal	$6,773,225
Interest	176,262
Total	$6,949,148
DEBT BEARING NO INTEREST.
Old demand and legal-tender notes	$346,738,391
Certificates of deposit	19,165,000
Gold certificates	74,608,347
Silver certificates	26,401,583
Fractional currency (less $6,953,954 estimated as lost or destroyed)	6,953,592
TOTAL DEBT.	$3,987,382
Principal	$1,737,993,527
Interest	10,036,408
Total	$1,746,582,135
Less cash items available for reduction	103,687,966
Less reserve held for redemption of U. S. notes	100,000,000
Total	$939,647,964
Total debt less available cash items	$1,454,594,169
Less cash in the Treasury	175,640,356
Debt less cash in Treasury Sept. 1, 1886	$1,378,953,813
Debt less cash in Treasury Aug. 1, 1886	1,390,087,272
Decrease of debt during the month	$11,133,459
CASH IN THE TREASURY AVAILABLE FOR REDUCTION OF PUBLIC DEBT.
Gold held for gold certificates	$77,696,587
Silver dollars held for silver certificates	29,015,796
U. S. notes held for certificates of deposit	19,165,000
Cash held for matured debt and interest unpaid	5,793,727
Fractional currency	3,963
Total available for reduction of the debt	$131,674,073
RESERVE FUND.
Held for redemption of U. S. notes, acts Jan. 14, 1875, and July 12, 1882	$100,000,000
Unavailable for reduction of the debt
Fractional silver coin	$27,345,941
Minor coin	3,021,661
Total	$30,367,602
Certificates held as cash	$26,778,415
Net cash balance on hand	18,796,284
Total cash in Treasury as shown by the Treasurer's general account	$474,372,623

POLITICAL.

Congressional nominations: Eighth Virginia District, Samuel Griffin, Democrat; First Maryland, Charles H. Gibson, Democrat; Fourth Texas, David B. Culberson, Democrat; Second Arkansas, C. E. Brooksbridge, Democrat; Ninth Ohio, J. C. Leavering, Democrat; Ninth Iowa, John H. Keatley, Democrat. The Illinois Prohibitionists have nominated George C. Christian in the First District, James W. Lee in the Second, J. L. Whitlock in the Third, and Dr. Gray in the Fourth.

In the California Republican State Convention John F. Swift was nominated, on the eighth ballot, for Governor. The convention completed the ticket by the nomination of R. W. Waterman, of San Bernardino, for Lieutenant Governor; W. S. Moore, Secretary of State; and J. H. Neff, State Treasurer.

Ex-Governor St. John, of Kansas, opened the Prohibition campaign in Maine at Calais, speaking for nearly two hours to a large audience.

The American Free-Trade League has issued an address to the tariff reformers of the country, urging prompt action in the Congressional districts looking to the choice of representatives in Congress who can be depended upon to support the removal of tariff taxation from all articles of necessity.

A New York dispatch says, on what is claimed to be good authority, that President Cleveland intends offering Senator John R. McPherson of New Jersey the position of Secretary of the Treasury after Manning's retirement a month hence.

The Republican State Convention of Illinois nominated John R. Tanner for Treasurer and Richard Edwards for Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Opposes the ownership of land by aliens, favors protection for American labor, urges the abolition of contract prison labor, arraigns the Federal administration for failing to keep its pledges, and expresses the hope that the Irish race will secure home rule.

Congressional nominations: Eighth Pennsylvania District, Daniel Kimmerer, Democrat; Third Ohio, E. S. Williams, Republican; Sixth Missouri, Odin Guinn, Republican; Fourteenth Illinois, J. H. Lewis, Republican; Thirteenth Illinois, J. A. Connolly, Republican; Thirteenth Pennsylvania, W. H. Shepard, Democrat; Twelfth Pennsylvania, J. H. Sawyer, Democrat; Fifteenth Illinois, William Lindsay, Democrat; First Iowa, John H. Gear, Republican; Tenth Virginia, Jacob Yost, Republican; Fifth Michigan, M. H. Foster, Democrat and Greenbacker; Ninth Michigan, T. G. Moore, Democrat and Greenbacker.

THE INDUSTRIAL OUTLOOK.

The American schooner A. R. Crittenden, with 450 barrels of mackerel on board was seized by the Canadian customs collector at Port Mulgrave, and held to await instructions from Ottawa. The schooner Legal Tender slipped away from a Canadian tug-water at Barrington Bay, refusing to obey an order to come to anchor.

President Diaz, of Mexico, has issued a decree enjoining upon subordinate officials greater care and prudence in the arrest of citizens of other countries on criminal or other pretexts.

Judge Veale, of Breckenridge, Texas, has arrived in Chicago, and appealed to the Board of Trade for the relief of citizens of Stephens County, whose crops have failed and whose cattle are dying.

Pittsburg special: "The glass bottle blowers of Pittsburgh are jubilant. With in two weeks three factories will resume, and the outlook for trade is more encouraging than it has been for five years."

The labor troubles which have kept the thirty-nine associated shoe factories of Brockton, Mass., idle for four weeks, have been settled through the efforts of a joint committee of fifteen. The manufacturers have had to yield nearly every point brought up.

Five men employed by the Belt Line Railway in New York were beaten so badly by a crowd of strikers, it was necessary to send them to a hospital.

The Knights of Labor have made a demand upon the New York Central Road to increase the wages of all track laborers and repairers.

Only twenty-five of the 500 persons employed in the Lee shoe shops at Athol, Mass., signed the circular requiring them not to join or engage in any strike or belong to any labor organization.

At a meeting of coal managers in New York it was decided to make an advance of 10 cents per ton on coal.

Pittsburgh reports more puddling furnaces lighted and less idle men to be seen in that city before. Due from Boston to the South for two thousand tons of agricultural implements.

There has been a general resumption of the green-glass bottle factories of the West. The fight against the use of imported bottles by brewers was won by the glass makers, and a lively trade is predicted.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The total number of failures in the United States reported to Bradstreet's last week was 190, against 199 the previous week, 146 the week last year, 169 in 1884, 176 in 1883, and 152 in 1882. Canada had 36 this week against 17 last week, and 4 last year. The total for the United States and Canada is 226, against 216 last week, and 150 last year.—So data in 4,659, against 2,693 last year—a decline of 1,025. In July the total was 4,907, as low as 1880 was 4,881, and in 1882 it was 4,635. Commercial journals report the movement of general merchandise for August as in many points exceeding the periods in former years.

The visible grain supply of the United States, as computed by the New York Produce Exchange, is: Wheat, 41,265,025 bushels; increase, 1,154,843 bushels. Corn, 11,770,779 bushels; increase, 838,354 bushels. Oats, 4,344,979 bushels; increase, 667,792 bushels. Rye, 571,564 bushels; increase, 36,564 bushels. Barley, 578,903 bushels; increase, 171,184 bushels.

A railroad will be built from Tuxpan to the City of Mexico, at a cost of $25,000,000, by English capitalists.

Sir Charles Dilke, traveling under the name of Dilke, accompanied by Lord Kingston, recently passed through Winnipeg. On their entry into the Northwest territories the mounted police seized their baggage because it contained liquor.

The American schooner Highland Light has been seized for fishing within the limit of Prince Edward Island. Dominion customs officers have been instructed to seize vessels from the United States must not be allowed to go from one Canadian port to another for cargoes.

FOREIGN.

The Afghan Commission has concluded seven thousand of the six thousand miles of the disputed territory to Russia and has reached to the Amoor of Afghanistan.

The drift of events in Europe indicates that one of the greatest wars of modern time is at hand. A special cable dispatch to the Chicago Tribune says:

First of all, the secret of the Francomalati interview, which appeared to have been made a mere social affair, is now fully revealed. M. de Giers urged Prince Bismarck earnestly, and, as the Russian Chancellor has since learned, he declined to commit himself, took the matter ad referendum, and telegraphed to Paris. The result was a telegram from Paris to Prince Lobanoff between Berlin, Vienna, Lond on and St. Petersburg, which has been received as an oracle before his unexpectedly hasty departure from Kissingen, but has not yet been published. The substance was not restrained from going to Bulgaria.

It is believed to be certain that the alliance of Germany, Austria, and England has carried Bulgaria, Roumelia and Servia with it, and that Sofia and Alexandria are to be the rallying centers for the Christian population of the Balkan peninsula, and will concentrate there with the view of an eventual kingdom of Bulgaria.

Underlying this plan is not the practical certainty that Russia will not, in the present circumstances, allow Bulgaria, and, not one, but two, Slavic states, to be created on her flank, and, if she should, Germany is bound, if she should, keep France in awe, and satisfy the Kaiser, whose scruples about the Bulgarian question are known, and the Russian Czar.

It is a delicate thing to predict such a vast combination, and we do not dream of doing it on our own responsibility, but it is a serious fact that such a combination has been in the political air some weeks before that war is inevitable.

China has sent nine heavily armed men-of-war to Corea to head off the alleged designs of Russia to establish a protectorate there.

At a meeting of Gladstonian members of Parliament in London a new aggressive policy in favor of home rule was decided upon.

During the riots in Belfast 222 policemen were injured, one fatally, twelve officers were seriously wounded, and one civilian was killed.

A London dispatch says that the war still continues in Wales. Meetings of farmers have been held, and there is a general understanding that payment of tithes will be resisted. In a village near Pontypridd, Glamorganshire, thirty farmers enrolled themselves as special constables to aid, their goods to be sold at public auction to pay the tithes.

A cable dispatch from Shanghai, China, says: "Advices from Ching-Too, the chief city of the province of Sze-Chuen, state that the natives of the eastern part of that province, all those of Northern China, China have risen against the Christians and are massacring them and destroying their property. This active persecution is attributed to the impudence of the English and American missionaries. In Cotchi China alone fifty Christians have been killed, their houses burned and their farms destroyed. In Sze-Chuen a general massacre of Christians is reported to be in progress, and they are killed wherever found. It is said that which villages occupied by Christians have been destroyed by fire and all lands occupied by the professors of that faith are being devastated."

LATER NEWS ITEMS.

In the Missouri Republican Convention, at Sedalia, J. A. Cravens was nominated for Judge of the Supreme Court, M. F. Bagby for State Superintendent, and S. W. Cosgrove for Railway Commissioner. The platform affirms that whenever any large number of voters petition the Legislature for the submission of an amendment providing a change in the organic law of the State it is the duty of that body to grant the petition; denounces the national administration for "its utter failure to originate any measure of relief whereby the expenses of the Government can be reduced, or the reduction of labor to capital more equitably adjusted, or by any other humanitarian measure in the interest of the people;" favors liberal pensions to Union soldiers, and denounces the President's pension veto and "the removal of ex-soldiers from office for partisan reasons."

Indiana Republicans met at Indianapolis, and put the following ticket in the field: For Lieutenant Governor, R. S. Robertson; Secretary of State, Charles A. Griffin; Auditor, Bruce Carr; Treasurer, J. A. Lemcke; Attorney General, L. T. Michener; Supreme Judge, Byron K. Elliott; clerk of Supreme Court, W. L. Noble; Superintendent of Public Instruction, A. C. La Follette. The platform favors "the maintenance of the principle of protection," the reduction of the legal tender of working hours wherever practicable," the enforcement of the civil-service law, the creation of a bureau of labor statistics, and opens the liquor question declares in favor of "such laws as will protect the people, and of a "system of prohibitory laws" if this was a new Pompeii without a Vesuvius, and without knowing that the terrible results of the earthquake shock that had swept Charleston, South Carolina, and shaken the country for a thousand miles in every direction, had not left the land blasted, cursing God and praying for death. The earthquake came at 9.51 yesterday morning, and in a few seconds 27,000 souls were in the grip of the darkest death. Mr. Kane was buried through the air and dashed against a tree, and he says he expected half a mile. Jesse Hall was hurled from the base of the unfortunate man's skull was fractured, and he died a few hours later. Mrs. Hall, Fleece of wood and Miss Gaston, of the same place, were also killed. The glasses all over his body, from which he had to be cut before he could be moved, and he says he was thrown from a Canadian tub, water, at Barrington Bay, refusing to obey an order to come to anchor.

President Diaz, of Mexico, has issued a decree enjoining upon subordinate officials greater care and prudence in the arrest of citizens of other countries on criminal or other pretexts.

Judge Veale, of Breckenridge, Texas, has arrived in Chicago, and appealed to the Board of Trade for the relief of citizens of Stephens County, whose crops have failed and whose cattle are dying.

Pittsburg special: "The glass bottle blowers of Pittsburgh are jubilant. With in two weeks three factories will resume, and the outlook for trade is more encouraging than it has been for five years."

THE INDUSTRIAL WORLD.

News and Notes of Interest to Manufacturers and Workingmen.

Colored Men Joining the Knights of Labor—Printers and Life Insurance, Etc.

There are two district assemblies of the Knights of Labor in Norfolk, Va., each with two subordinate local assemblies. Over half the membership is colored men, and they are very enthusiastic, and carry their religious zeal into the order. Race distinctions are disappearing among these workmen. Both political parties in Knights on their Congressional tickets. A co-operative labor-shop has been started there. A co-operative shoe has also been started at Danville, and a co-operative tobacco factory and a soap factory at Richmond. Only a few hundred of the 1,000 men formerly employed in the Norfolk Navy Yard are at work at present.

The co-operative movement is being considered in several other localities, but by no means is it the rage that it was a few years ago. Some day capitalists will probably be induced to try the plan of industrial partnership with labor. The experiment would be fair.

Less complaint is heard of idle labor throughout the country at this time than for years. Of course there are some men out of work, and a number of mechanics are returning from the West, but employment does seem to be increasing.

Not for thirty years not the best of feeling has existed between the puddlers of Eastern Pennsylvania and the manufacturers. The war, because the former could not manage their organization, and the latter could not and could not secure an advance in their wages. They have now made another attempt, and will make a hard fight to win.

The New York Central Labor Union became unwieldy and has been divided into ten separate branches or sections. Each section is composed of five delegates from each trade organization, and each section sends one delegate to form a Central Labor Union. Steps will now be taken to the central representative body to extend labor organization, "to mold public opinion," to adjust differences and to do many other things.

The 6,000 tobacco workers of New York have formed a union.

The printers, says the Philadelphia Record, are trying life insurance on the basis of 25 cents each on the death of any printer insured who is from 18 to 25 years of age, 50 cents on those from 26 to 35, 65 cents on those from 36 to 40, and 80 cents on those above 40 years of age. A certificate of good health and good habits is required from a practicing physician in the employ of the Typographical Benevolent Branch. No printer over 50 years of age is eligible.

The salesmen of New York City are flocking into labor unions. Grocery bookkeepers, machine clerks, and clothing-store clerks are well organized, and are pushing ahead to get everybody else in with them.

A new district assembly has been organized at Albany, N. Y., to which the union will be sent St. Paul, at which 20,000 people were present. The order now numbers 104,000, which will be used to build a hall.

A State assembly was organized in Georgia, and several new districts will be organized. A State assembly has been organized at St. Louis. Two new district assemblies have been organized and several are springing up all over the State.

Downtrodden Gaelic workmen take a black view of matters. One writer: "There is a crushing business depression everywhere." Poor Pelham! he had not pelf enough up with his store and rent bills to continue his business.

Some labor reformers in New York want to have a law passed exempting the homestead land up to $1,000 in value and for a reasonable time after, also exempting horses of the same value.

Arbitration the Best War.

It has been repeatedly mentioned in these columns that difficulties between employers and employed can, in a majority of cases, be averted by a better understanding on each side of the facts as seen by the other side (many such cases), and not friendly discussion of the whole question by representatives of both sides so as to do justice to the arguments presented, and concede all that is practicable where concession seems to be fairly demanded, will in most cases, if not almost always, lead to an amicable adjustment of what otherwise would develop into a conflict entailing heavy loss on both sides. Where such a conference fails to bring about an agreement there still remains the alternative of arbitration.

Whatever objections may be made to arbitration, and there are instances where grave difficulties lie in the way of one side or the other—the parties willing to accept a decision in any event, and the decision being unanimously in favor of the satisfaction in the thought that a great deal of life and misery has been averted, with the possibility of the same being true of property.

What is true of national disputes is equally true of industrial disputes, and especially those between employers and employed. Some one concession on one side may think its opponent unreasonable, and by so doing deprive himself of a benefit which maintains that view, refuses to consider the plea of the other side, and determines to maintain its position at all hazards, nothing can come of it but a conflict, rimonst to one side or the other, if successful, is a Pyrrhic victory; it is a Pyrrhic victory. It was for better for both that the parties had met each other at the beginning in a conciliatory spirit, and agreed to submit questions of difference to impartial arbitration.

—Cleveland Leader.

CHICAGO SHAKEN.

One Hundred Thousand Pounds of Powder and Dynamite Struck by Lightning.

All the Houses in the Vicinity Demolished by the Explosion Which Resulted.

One Girl Instantly Killed and Four Persons Injured So They Will Die.

Five Others Badly Hurt—Effects of the Explosion Felt at a Distance of Seven Miles.

[From the Chicago Daily News.]

At James Dalton's clock was beating his way through the rain on Archer road Sunday morning a lightning bolt shot out of the black northern sky, having seemingly selected him for the target of its wrath. The blinding sensation was followed by a peal of thunder so terrific and before he could breathe the prayer which one involuntarily by his lips he fell to the ground stunned. At the Brighton Park drug-store, a quarter of a mile west caused by the fire, and amassed into fragments among the debris of the building. Mr. Dalton's house was the home of Mr. Dalton's parents and sister, who when Dalmatock lay a community of houses was in all probability the largest in the place, extending dead and dying, while ten miles distant in the City of Chicago. Pieces of the building were found on the sidewalks of Archer avenue, in the yards of the neighbors and children were in a state of panic. Nothing if this was a new Pompeii without a Vesuvius, and without knowing that the terrible results of the earthquake shock that had swept Charleston, South Carolina, and shaken the country for a thousand miles in every direction, had not left the land blasted, cursing God and praying for death. The earthquake came at 9.51 yesterday morning, and in a few seconds 27,000 souls were in the grip of the darkest death. Mr. Kane was buried through the air and dashed against a tree, and he says he expected half a mile. Jesse Hall was hurled from the base of the unfortunate man's skull was fractured, and he died a few hours later. Mrs. Hall, Fleece of wood and Miss Gaston, of the same place, were also killed. The glasses all over his body, from which he had to be cut before he could be moved, and he says he was thrown from a Canadian tub, water, at Barrington Bay, refusing to obey an order to come to anchor.

President Diaz, of Mexico, has issued a decree enjoining upon subordinate officials greater care and prudence in the arrest of citizens of other countries on criminal or other pretexts.

Judge Veale, of Breckenridge, Texas, has arrived in Chicago, and appealed to the Board of Trade for the relief of citizens of Stephens County, whose crops have failed and whose cattle are dying.

Pittsburg special: "The glass bottle blowers of Pittsburgh are jubilant. With in two weeks three factories will resume, and

CHARLESTON'S WOE.

The South Carolina City Wrecked by Violent Earthquake Shocks.

Not a Hundred Houses Left Intact, and Scores of Persons Buried in the Ruins.

Fires Add Terror to the Scene—Fearful Sufferings of the People—A Survivor's Narrative.

The Business Portion of Summerville, S. C., Wrecked, and Many Persons Killed.

A terrible earthquake shock at Charleston, S. C., on the evening of Tuesday, the 31st ult., was felt at least twenty seconds, and in several of towns for miles. The first shock came from the southwest and lasted about ten seconds. At 9.50 p. m. During the twenty-four hours following, there were ten distinct shocks, but they were only the unheeding of the earth-waves. The disaster was brought by fire. No force may be inferred from the fact that the whole area of country between the Atlantic coast and the Mississippi River, as far to the north as Milwaukee, felt its power to a greater or lesser degree. Charleston, however, was the special victim of this elemental destruction. The city is substantially in ruins. Two-thirds of its houses are uninhabitable. What shocks have left standing the people do not go to them. Churches and other public buildings are in ruins. Railroads and telegraph lines are all in disorder. Two-thirds of the stores are in ruins. Between fifty and sixty lives are believed to have been lost, and the number of persons injured is much greater. Some are crushed to death in their houses, some were killed by falling walls, and others were killed by being struck by flying timbers. The disturbance was accompanied by a rumbling sound resembling the distant roar of a heavy train of cars, and it was followed by a sound, which, coming from deep in night clothes rushed from houses into the open air. The earth shook and bent and rolled towers, while the people in consternation ran hither and thither, screaming and uttering phrases. The negroes began a religious meeting in one of the churches, which was kept up all night. At Charleston, Summerville and Weaverville, N. C., several houses were shaken as though made of pasteboard. The shock was felt at Columbia, S. C., no less than sixteen distinct shocks were felt. The first shock was regarded as a great political calamity. Political feeling ran high, and the people were talking on the earth was the best and terrifying in the extreme. Chimneys were thrown down, and windows were broken, principally by toppling chimneys. Two rooms of the Governor's mansion were cracked. There were numbers of cases of nervous prostration, and people were in the streets all night. Some people left Columbia. A large political meeting was being held in the Court House. Speakers were on the stand. The walls of the Court House were cracked, and people rushed out. At Augusta, Ga., the shock was felt very severely. At Macon, Ga., at Murphysboro, Ill., the shock was quite severe. At Macon, the chandeliers swayed and hanging lamps were seen swinging like pendulums. At Augusta, Ga., the shock was felt 1 foot certain that a crisis will come to see that I am right."

Washington Opinion.

The appointment of the colored statesman from Albany as Recorder of Deeds still rankles in the bosoms of Washington politicians, notwithstanding the President's elaborate explanation of his motives. The Critic says:

The following is an exact copy of the President's letter on file in the office of the Executive Clerk of the Senate:

EXECUTIVE MANSION, United States.

To nominate James C. Matthews, of New York, to be the Recorder of Deeds in the District of Columbia, vice Frederick Douglass, resigned.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

Executive Mansion, Washington, D. C., March 1, 1886.

There are no "conditions" accompanying the President's letter as a "Democratic critic" writing for his says Douglass has resigned. The unhappy statement of the President in commissioning Matthews as Recorder of Deeds was, therefore, a mere piece of gratuitous impertinence. The President and Matthews under the penalties of sections 1771 and 1772 of the Revised Statutes, and the conditions are aggravated by the fact of Douglass's name already been repeated by the President.

The provisions of the Revised Statutes thus briefly invoked contain many penalties for secrets any appointment and attempts to exercise, and to induce other persons to exercise, or appointment, or claim a commission in violation of the provisions of the Revised Statutes, are fine of five years' imprisonment, and a fine of not more than $10,000. The prospect thus conjured up of the President and his faithful Matthews jumping together to the penitentiary or their ill-gotten gains is sufficient to make gratifying than otherwise to have so ill-conceived applicants for the recordership.

Illinois State Fair—Chicago Exposition.

The annual Illinois State Fair, which opens in Springfield on Tuesday, promises to be the most attractive and successful ever held. The Secretary of the Illinois State Board of Agriculture, under whose auspices the fair will be held, says the arrangements are perfect. The premiums in live-stock department have been largely increased, and exceed those of any fair ever held in this country. The exhibits already assured in each department far exceed the expectations of the new management. The hotel-keepers of Chicago have agreed to charge only regular rates during the fair, and the proprietors will be prepared to accommodate the throngs that should attend what promises to be one of the largest and most creditable agricultural and industrial exposures ever held in this country. There will be no cause for disputing the statement that the proprietors of the Chicago hotels can satisfactorily accommodate once people the business interests of any city on the continent. The thousands of extra coaches provided by the managers of the railroads centering in Chicago will insure adequate and rapid transit of visitors attending the fair.

The Chicago Interstate Exposition, which is now open, is said to be the best ever held. It is a more complete relief of the machinery, mechanics, mechanic ingenuity, art and skill, representing every sort of labor, than any of its predecessors. Never before has there been such a sharp demand for space, and in every feature the exhibition is most complete.

In the way of theatrical announcements, visitors to the Garden City will find a treat in the attractions offered by the management of McVicker's Theater, which is unquestionably the dramatic temple of the West. Mr. Louis James, one of the finest actors on the stage, plays there this week in a round of Shakspearean characters. He will be followed by Mr. William Redmond and Mrs. Thomas Barry, in Brougham's sparkling comedy, "Playing with Fire." Then comes the inimitable little Lotta, the most popular actress that ever trod the boards.

THE MATTHEWS CASE.

A Talk with the President About the Matter—The Feeling in Washington.

The New York Herald publishes a long interview with President Cleveland in regard to his appointment of Matthews to succeed Frederick Douglass as Recorder of Deeds for the District of Columbia. The President is stated to have said:

"I had only one object in appointing Mr. Matthews, namely: to put the best man I could find, that is, the best colored man, in the position. The colored race are developing a great many very able men. They have accomplished much in the face of great difficulties. I could not appoint them all, so I was compelled to use my best judgment to do a service to our colored fellow-citizens, and at the same time to give the appointment to a faithful and able man. I think Douglass's house, in Anacostia, is, I believe, thoroughly completed. He has a good education, and he achieved it in spite of many serious obstacles.

"He occupies a good position as a lawyer, and he has won it by right honest hard work. The place was sought for him, and intimately speaks of him most highly. What more can he require?"

"A colored Democrat," the reporter suggested, "is regarded as a novelty. I have even heard that one gentleman, well known in Washington, remarked that it would be regarded as a political anomaly, or even a monstrosity."

"Yes," he replied, "I believe there is some such opinion in the air. But it is not an opinion of which a man has any right to be proud. I am a Democrat as earnestly and as sincerely as any man in the country.

"Well, because the Southerners, who were their masters in the old days, were nearly all Democrats."

"Yes," replied the President, "but the last thirty years have brought changes in this country. The old relations are broken up, and the old times can never return. The North and the South are closely cemented by this fact. You yourselves are now the people who are preparing to the change of to-day. Why, I remember when I was a boy twenty-five years ago there was a feeling in the country that it would be felt all over Georgia, but no serious damage was done. Every four years these parties have a wrestling match. It is a hot fight throughout the country, and it is over. The feeling is not so bitter as it was. The country is growing naturally to support the administration in every section of the country, and government. Well, the colored people of the South are just beginning to feel the political responsibility imposed by the passages of the railroads centering in Chicago will insure adequate and rapid transit of visitors attending the fair.

The Chicago Interstate Exposition, which is now open, is said to be the best ever held. It is a more complete relief of the machinery, mechanics, mechanic ingenuity, art and skill, representing every sort of labor, than any of its predecessors. Never before has there been such a sharp demand for space, and in every feature the exhibition is most complete.

In the way of theatrical announcements, visitors to the Garden City will find a treat in the attractions offered by the management of McVicker's Theater, which is unquestionably the dramatic temple of the West. Mr. Louis James, one of the finest actors on the stage, plays there this week in a round of Shakspearean characters. He will be followed by Mr. William Redmond and Mrs. Thomas Barry, in Brougham's sparkling comedy, "Playing with Fire." Then comes the inimitable little Lotta, the most popular actress that ever trod the boards.

THE MATTHEWS CASE.

A Talk with the President About the Matter—The Feeling in Washington.

The New York Herald publishes a long interview with President Cleveland in regard to his appointment of Matthews to succeed Frederick Douglass as Recorder of Deeds for the District of Columbia. The President is stated to have said:

"I had only one object in appointing Mr. Matthews, namely: to put the best man I could find, that is, the best colored man, in the position. The colored race are developing a great many very able men. They have accomplished much in the face of great difficulties. I could not appoint them all, so I was compelled to use my best judgment to do a service to our colored fellow-citizens, and at the same time to give the appointment to a faithful and able man. I think Douglass's house, in Anacostia, is, I believe, thoroughly completed. He has a good education, and he achieved it in spite of many serious obstacles.

"He occupies a good position as a lawyer, and he has won it by right honest hard work. The place was sought for him, and intimately speaks of him most highly. What more can he require?"

"A colored Democrat," the reporter suggested, "is regarded as a novelty. I have even heard that one gentleman, well known in Washington, remarked that it would be regarded as a political anomaly, or even a monstrosity."

"Yes," he replied, "I believe there is some such opinion in the air. But it is not an opinion of which a man has any right to be proud. I am a Democrat as earnestly and as sincerely as any man in the country.

"Well, because the Southerners, who were their masters in the old days, were nearly all Democrats."

"Yes," replied the President, "but the last thirty years have brought changes in this country. The old relations are broken up, and the old times can never return. The North and the South are closely cemented by this fact. You yourselves are now the people who are preparing to the change of to-day. Why, I remember when I was a boy twenty-five years ago there was a feeling in the country that it would be felt all over Georgia, but no serious damage was done. Every four years these parties have a wrestling match. It is a hot fight throughout the country, and it is over. The feeling is not so bitter as it was. The country is growing naturally to support the administration in every section of the country, and government. Well, the colored people of the South are just beginning to feel the political responsibility imposed by the passages of the railroads centering in Chicago will insure adequate and rapid transit of visitors attending the fair.

The Chicago Interstate Exposition, which is now open, is said to be the best ever held. It is a more complete relief of the machinery, mechanics, mechanic ingenuity, art and skill, representing every sort of labor, than any of its predecessors. Never before has there been such a sharp demand for space, and in every feature the exhibition is most complete.

In the way of theatrical announcements, visitors to the Garden City will find a treat in the attractions offered by the management of McVicker's Theater, which is unquestionably the dramatic temple of the West. Mr. Louis James, one of the finest actors on the stage, plays there this week in a round of Shakspearean characters. He will be followed by Mr. William Redmond and Mrs. Thomas Barry, in Brougham's sparkling comedy, "Playing with Fire." Then comes the inimitable little Lotta, the most popular actress that ever trod the boards.

Chicago's Exposition.

The opulent and the colored statesman from Albany as Recorder of Deeds still rankles in the bosoms of Washington politicians, notwithstanding the President's elaborate explanation of his motives. The Critic says:

The following is an exact copy of the President's letter on file in the office of the Executive Clerk of the Senate:

EXECUTIVE MANSION, United States.

To nominate James C. Matthews, of New York, to be the Recorder of Deeds in the District of Columbia, vice Frederick Douglass, resigned.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

Executive Mansion, Washington, D. C., March 1, 1886.

There are no "conditions" accompanying the President's letter as a "Democratic critic" writing for his says Douglass has resigned. The unhappy statement of the President in commissioning Matthews as Recorder of Deeds was, therefore, a mere piece of gratuitous impertinence. The President and Matthews under the penalties of sections 1771 and 1772 of the Revised Statutes, and the conditions are aggravated by the fact of Douglass's name already been repeated by the President.

The provisions of the Revised Statutes thus briefly invoked contain many penalties for secrets any appointment and attempts to exercise, and to induce other persons to exercise, or appointment, or claim a commission in violation of the provisions of the Revised Statutes, are fine of five years' imprisonment, and a fine of not more than $10,000. The prospect thus conjured up of the President and his faithful Matthews jumping together to the penitentiary or their ill-gotten gains is sufficient to make gratifying than otherwise to have so ill-conceived applicants for the recordership.

Illinois State Fair—Chicago Exposition.

The annual Illinois State Fair, which opens in Springfield on Tuesday, promises to be the most attractive and successful ever held. The Secretary of the Illinois State Board of Agriculture, under whose auspices the fair will be held, says the arrangements are perfect. The premiums in live-stock department have been largely increased, and exceed those of any fair ever held in this country. The exhibits already assured in each department far exceed the expectations of the new management. The hotel-keepers of Chicago have agreed to charge only regular rates during the fair, and the proprietors will be prepared to accommodate the throngs that should attend what promises to be one of the largest and most creditable agricultural and industrial exposures ever held in this country. There will be no cause for disputing the statement that the proprietors of the Chicago hotels can satisfactorily accommodate once people the business interests of any city on the continent. The thousands of extra coaches provided by the managers of the railroads centering in Chicago will insure adequate and rapid transit of visitors attending the fair.

The Chicago Interstate Exposition, which is now open, is said to be the best ever held. It is a more complete relief of the machinery, mechanics, mechanic ingenuity, art and skill, representing every sort of labor, than any of its predecessors. Never before has there been such a sharp demand for space, and in every feature the exhibition is most complete.

In the way of theatrical announcements, visitors to the Garden City will find a treat in the attractions offered by the management of McVicker's Theater, which is unquestionably the dramatic temple of the West. Mr. Louis James, one of the finest actors on the stage, plays there this week in a round of Shakspearean characters. He will be followed by Mr. William Redmond and Mrs. Thomas Barry, in Brougham's sparkling comedy, "Playing with Fire." Then comes the inimitable little Lotta, the most popular actress that ever trod the boards.

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

DEMOCRATIC NOMINATIONS.

State Ticket.

For Governor—
GEORGE L. YAPLE, of St. Joseph.

For Lieutenant-Governor—
SOLOMON S. CURRY, of Marquette.

For Secretary of State—
PHILLIP B. WACHTEL, of Emmet.

For State Treasurer—
WILLIAM G. SEARD, of Bay.

For Auditor-General—
JUDSON S. FARRAR, of Macomb.

For Attorney-General—
JOHN C. DONNELLY, of Wayne.

For Commissioner of State Land Office—
WILLIAM D. FULLER, of Newaygo.

For Superintendent of Public Instruction—
DAVID PARSONS, of Wayne.

For Member of State Board of Education—
JEROME W. TURNER, of Kalamazoo.

Congressional Ticket.

For Representative in Congress, Ninth District
LYMAN G. MASON, of Muskegon.

Democratic Platform.

Resolved, That the democracy of Michigan in convention assembled, sincerely deplore the recent death of those patriotic statesmen and leaders of the Democratic party, Horatio Seymour, Geo. H. McClellan, W. S. Hancock, Geo. H. Pendleton, Thos. A. Hendricks, whose illustrious services may serve as an example for those who shall succeed them in the responsibility of leadership.

Resolved, That the administration of Grover Cleveland, by its vigor and its truthfulness, is the precursor it has given to considerations of public good, and its success in the cause of reform, by its practical details of the legitimacy of governing by the consent of the governed, by the disappointment of office-seeking through political intrigues; by its economy, by its care for the health and safety of the people, by its judicial administration, by its great principle, "public office is a public trust," commands itself to the judgment and approval of all honest people.

Resolved, That though more than twenty years have elapsed since the war, we should not forget that it was a war for the Union, and that our soldiers and sailors, who saved the Union, are still among us. That we, in recognition of disability, the result of their privations and sufferings, and we believe the general government should see to it that the pensioning of our soldiers should be accorded to wounded and disabled, not as a charity, but as a just debt owed for the valuable services rendered their country.

Resolved, That taxation of the people for their purses for the sole purpose of raising revenue for the expense of the government, economically administered is robbery under the forms of law, and we are therefore in favor of a revision of the present tariff laws and its adjustment to a revenue basis.

Resolved, That the democracy of Michigan, believing in the dignity of American citizenship, claim the right of wage workers to the fostering care of government to the end that the legitimate industry in every walk of life shall be encouraged, and that the laws of building up the material interests of the people.

Resolved, That we pledge ourselves to legislation which shall effectually defend our homes from competing with the honest producers of this country, and which shall forever bar all from the introduction to our shores of cheap contract labor.

Resolved, That the ownership of real estate by this country by foreign corporations and individuals alien to allegiance to American interests and should be prohibited.

Resolved, That we are in favor of the free coinage of gold and silver at the present standard.

Resolved, That as a party we endorse the policy of applying the surplus in the national treasury as fast as they accumulate to the payment of the national debt, thereby reducing the ability to enable the national bank circulation, and the direct issue by the national government of legal tender currency notes, gold and silver coin, and bank notes.

Resolved, That we favor the adoption of measures providing for the health and safety of those engaged in mining, manufacturing, building industries, and for demandings to those engaged therein receiving injuries through the neglect of their employers.

Resolved, That we call for the repeal of all class legislation under which monopolies have been fostered and protected.

Democratic Representative Convention.

A democratic representative convention will be held at Bartlodmeier's Opera House, Charlevoix, on Wednesday, the 22d day of September, A. D. 1886, at 10 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of nominating a candidate for representative to the legislature, from the Charlevoix district, and for the transaction of such other business as may come before the meeting. The various counties of the district are entitled to representation as follows, Antrim, 4; Charlevoix, 7; Manitou, 4. By order of committee,

J. MILO EATON,
Chairman.

Democratic County Convention.

A democratic county convention will be held at Boyne City, on Saturday, the 18th day of September, A. D. 1886, at 10 o'clock, a. m., for the purpose of nominating candidates for the various county offices and for the reorganization of the county committee.

The various townships are entitled to representation as follows:

Bear Lake, 2; Boyne Valley, 3; Chandler, 2; Charlevoix, 6; Evangeline, 3; Eveline, 5; Hayes, 3; Hudson, 2; Marion, 2; Melrose, 2; Norwood, 3; Resort, 2; South Arm, 6; Springvale, 2; Wilson, 2.

OSCAR J. STRANG, Chairman.
Secretary.

Wonder if there is any possible connection between the earthquake and alleged settling of the earth's crust, on the Atlantic coast, and the waterburst in Iowa which is deluging that country? Both occurred at nearly the same hour.

Phillip B. Wachtel for secretary of state will give satisfaction every where. He has grown up with Emmet county, has represented every element of progress since Petoskey was settled, and has done as much if not more than any other man to encourage the growth of democratic principles in that county.

The Pittsburg Times complains because this country has imported 572,000,000 pounds of tin plates, and intimates that if sufficient protective tariff had been levied the whole supply might have been manufactured here. The result of such action the price of tin to a point where a few Americans, now engaged in other industries, might make a greater profit by selling tin plates at a higher price. But how would the consumers of tin like to pay the increased price, just for the sake of encouraging an "infant industry?" One of the industries that enjoys the benefit of an export trade is that of canning fruits and vegetables, and a high tariff on tin plates would simply kill this established industry for the benefit of another now non-existing.

Our Candidate for Congress.

Hon. Lyman G. Mason is one of the most widely-known lumbermen and business men of Michigan. He has been for many years a prominent resident of Muskegon and a leading democrat. He is now about 60 years old, but has all the vigor and clearheadedness of a man twenty years his junior. He has not been an office-seeker and has only held few public places. He was the fifth district member of the constitutional convention of 1873. In 1880 he made a splendid run for senator in the strong republican district of Muskegon and Ottawa. Last spring he was elected mayor of his city by a handsom emajority.

Judson S. Farrar, the fusion nominee for auditor General, possesses all the requisite qualifications of honesty, ex-ability and faithfulness, has a brilliant record as a soldier, having served in the fifth Michigan volunteer infantry the fighting 5th, whereof he was for a long time the commanding officer, is at present register of deeds of Macomb county, which position he has held for nearly four years and to the entire satisfaction of the people of old Macomb, has held many public positions in all of which he has discharged the duties with thorough efficiency, is a member of the Old Crowd, a worker, a reader with a get-there gait, and has hosts of friends in all portions of Michigan who will see to it that he keeps up with the procession.—Saginawian.

Planting of Fruit-Trees.

If the acre has been enriched and ploughed twice deeply as I have already suggested, little more is necessary in planting than to excavate a hole large enough to receive the roots spread out in their natural positions. Should no such thorough and general preparation have been made, or if the ground is hard, poor, and stony, the owner will find it to his advantage to dig a good-sized hole three or four feet across and two deep, filling in and around the tree with fine rich surface soil. If he can obtain some thoroughly decomposed compost or manure, for instance, as the scrapings of a barn-yard, or rich black soil from an old pasture, to mix with the earth beneath and around the roots, the good effects will be seen speedily, but in no instance should raw manure from the stable, or anything that must decay before becoming plant food, be brought in contact with the roots. Again I repeat my caution against planting too deeply—one of the commonest and most fatal errors. Let the tree be set about as deeply as it stood before removal. If the tree be planted early in spring, as it should be, there will be moisture enough in the soil, but when planting is delayed until the ground has become rather dry and warm, a bucket of water poured about its roots when the whole has been nearly filled will be beneficial. Now that the tree is planted, any kind of coarse manure spread to the depth of two or three inches on the surface as a mulch is very useful. Stake at once to protect against the winds. Do not make the common mistake of planting too closely. Observe the area alloted by fully grown trees, and allow for the long outgrowing. Moreover, the shade about the house is not desirable. There should be space for plenty of air and sunshine. The fruit from one well-developed tree will often more than supply a family, for ten or fifteen barrels of apples is not an unusual yield. The standard apples should be thirty feet apart. Pears, the dwarfer growing cherries, plums, etc., can be grown in the intervening spaces. In ordering from the nurseries insist on straight, shapely, and young trees, say three years from the bud. Many trees that are sold out are small enough, but they are old and stunted. Also require that there should be an abendance of fibrous and unmutilated roots.—E. P. Roe, in Harper's Magazine for April.

What Postage-stamps Did.

The only good use I ever know postage-stamps put to was before the present crash. About 1860 there was a boy who went about law offices selling matches, etc. He was a bright, intelligent boy and professed himself anxious for an education. An old gentleman who stood high at the bar, wishing to test the boy's honesty on this point, told him if he would paper a good-sized closet adjoining his office with old postage-stamps he would pay for his education. The boy accepted the job to work and interested every lawyer on Court street, who saved all their stamps for him, and in due time the undertaking was accomplished and the agreement fulfilled on our part. What has become of the boy I do not know.—Boston Transcript.

Longevity of Butterflies.

A correspondent of the Times, referring to Sir John Lubbock's discovery of much greater longevity of ants than has hitherto been believed, thinks that the same may be true with regard to the butterfly, although the common notion is that the butterfly's life is a short and merry one. The correspondent, who writes from Bournemouth, then relates the following incident:

"On August 15 last a fine peacock butterfly flew into our house through the garden door, and was caught and put under a large bell glass. On the following day another came in, and was also put under the glass. They were supplied daily with fresh flowers and a few drops of raw honey, which they evidently much enjoyed. No. 1 died during a suddenly cold night; No. 2 lived until December 14. Whenever the sun shone upon their cage, which was placed on a table near a large window of plate glass, they opened their beautiful wings and flew about vigorously, occasionally resting on a flower to thrust their trunks deeply into its corolla, or standing over and sucking up the drops of honey. The extraordinarily sensitive nervous system of these little beauties was indicated by the most vibratile trembling of the wings directly the sunlight or the scent of fresh flowers reached them. When the sun was not out, they usually remained perfectly still with their wings closed, especially selecting to hang on the side or edge of a leaf. They showed great intelligence in distinguishing the freshly gathered flowers and in deciding that honey was the right thing to eat, and they have soon one of them scramble with considerably difficulty across the cage through a tangle of leaves and sticks, determined to get to a particular leaf on which he knew a drop of honey was. After some unsuccessful attempts to reach it, he hooked it down with one foot, then held it with another, until he could get the rest of his legs upon it, having done which he appeared satisfied, shut up his wings, and hung himself upon it, topsy-turvy, to rest. If he failed to do what he wished with one leg, he immediately tried another, appearing to think that, having six at his disposal, it was foolish to waste much time on any one. But he only used his most adroit pull on very special occasions. How long each butterfly had lived before it was caught I do not know, but No. 2 lived in its glass cage 121 days."

He Thought Well of It.

Amber was sometimes surprised at the gradeur of his mamma. He was proud of itself, and it is rather amusing to compare him to another composer, a contemporary of his, Spontini, who, at a dress rehearsal of one of his operas (I believe it was "Olympia,") appeared at the desk in grand costume, covered with all the decorations he was favored with. Approaching the desk slowly and majestically, he elevated his baton, fixed his eagle eyes on the full orchestra and chorus, and spoke as follows: "Gentlemen, this is the work which we are going to have the honor of performing in a masterpiece. Now then!"—Temple Bar.

The Appetite

May be increased, the Digestive organs strengthened, and the Bowels regulated, by taking Ayer's Pills. These Pills are purely vegetable in their composition. They contains neither calomel nor any other injurious drug, and may be taken with perfect safety by persons of all ages.

I was a great sufferer from Dyspepsia and Constipation, for, at times, my stomach became greatly debilitated, and was constantly affected by the Dyspepsia. Regulating the functions of my family doctor, who prescribed Ayer's various remedies, I soon got relief, and was thus temporary relief. I finally commenced using Ayer's Pills, in a short time my appetite and appetite improved. My bowels were regulated, and, by the time I finished the boxes of these pills my tendency to headaches had disappeared, and I became strong and well.—Darius M. Logan, Wilmington, Del.

I was troubled, for over a year, with Loss of Appetite, and Torpid Liver. I used Ayer's Pills, and, after taking a few doses, my appetite and a love of the exercise, strength and energy were restored.—C. O. Clark, Danbury, Conn.

Ayer's Pills are the best medicine known to me for regulating the bowels, and for all diseases caused by a disordered Stomach and Liver. I suffered for over three years with Headache, Indigestion, and Constipation. I had no appetite, and was weak and nervous most of the time.

BY USING three boxes of Ayer's Pills, and, at the same time dieting myself, I was completely cured. My digestive organs are now in good order, and I am in perfect health.—Philip Lemon, Sept. 2, 1885.

Ayer's Pills have benefited me wonderfully. For years I suffered from indigestion and Headache, was restless at night, and had a bad taste in the mouth every morning. After taking one box of Ayer's Pills, all these troubles disappeared, my food digested well, and my sleep was refreshed.—G. Tillinghast, Norway, Rockport, Mass.

I was cured of the Piles, by the use of Ayer's Pills. They not only relieved me of that painful disease, but gave me a renewed vigor, and restored my health.—John Lorenzo Sly, Suffolk, N. Y.

Ayer's Pills,

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers in Medicine.

GOLD Pills are scarce, but those who write to Ayer's Office, mentioning this paper, will receive, free, full directions, from which gold can be easily made, in any quantity, by any person who can read and write. Many are doing it. Address, in confidence, Ayer's Office, Lowell, Mass. Ayer's Pills are sold everywhere.

ADVERTISERS can obtain estimates on advertising space when in Chicago, will find it on file at the Advertising Agency of LORD & THOMAS.

The Circus

Commences Next Week.

I am going to receive a large invoice of CLOTHING, bought from one of the leading houses in Rochester, N. Y., which I am going to sell at Prices that will draw me trade from all around the county.

I think the best advertisement a merchant can have is to have his goods advertise him in Good Fits and Prices that cannot be beat.

GEO. W. MILLER.

THE EARTHQUAKE DID IT!

We mean we got a big bargain on all our cloak purchases. Our New York agent has taken advantage of the

GREAT EXCITEMENT!

And has written us that never before had we secured such an elegant line of

LADIES' MISSES' AND CHILDREN'S

CLOAKS

At Such LOW PRICES.

LADIES, DO NOT PURCHASE A CLOAK or Wrap of any kind until you have seen our goods and learned our prices, as they will soon be here.

A big line of everything in Dry Goods coming, wait for them.

Yours, very truly,

F. W. CRAINE & CO.

Come and See our Immense Stock of

BOOTS AND SHOES.

FOX & MILLER.

Something New. More Light.

The Rochester double and triple Burner takes the Whitest and Best Light known.

Sherwin William's PAINTS.

Stoves, Hardware, Tinware, Sporting Goods, Fishing Tackle. The double action easy Force Pump.* Job and Tin Work.

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW & CO.

STAUFFER'S BROADCAST

Hand-Seeder.

This new invention possesses many qualities peculiarly adapted to farmers of this vicinity.

TEN REASONS:

1. It sows the roughest or smoothest soils.
2. It sows evenly all kinds of grain and seeds, large and small. Wheat, barley, clover, timothy, ruta baga, etc.
3. It sows any desired quantity. One-fourth pound of ruta baga seed can be spread over an acre of ground with perfect ease, and accuracy.
4. It sows rapidly. Will sweep 12 feet at a time. Clover 40; clover and timothy mixed 25. Ten acres of clover sowed in 2½ hours.
5. It is not affected by quite a strong wind.
6. It is quickly adjusted to different quantities of grain.
7. It cannot clog.
8. It is easily operated.
9. It is always.
10. It is durable.

Patented by ISAAC STAUFFER, of Carpenter, Emmet Co., Mich. Sold by UPRIGHT & EMREY, Charlevoix, Mich.

Call and examine it.

Owing to Special Rates in Photographic Stock, I will continue to make Cabinet Photographs at $4.00 per Dozen Until further notice.

Dave Bradbeer, Photographer, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

THE JOURNAL

SUPPLEMENT.

Charlevoix, Mich., Sept. 9, 1886.

THE SOLDIER VOTE.

Charlevoix, Mich., Sept., 1886.

Editor JOURNAL:—Having a few words to say to the soldiers of Charlevoix county, I find no better means than through the columns of the JOURNAL. I was asked some time since how a soldier could consistently adhere to the democratic party? I smiled, saying the editors of republican papers who had never smelled gunpowder, were the only class of people who were possessed of sufficient cheek to ask such a question. However, I said I would enlighten his mind, and proceeded.

Soldiers enlisted and hired out to the government for thirteen dollars per month. This they had a right to expect would be paid them. But how were their expectations realized? This amount was reduced from time to time, until they were compelled to take only four dollars and ninety cents per month, or money depreciated to thirty cents on the dollar. Seventy cents of every dollar was held from them. And by whom? The republican party. And who for? The bondholder, who kept them in power at the expense of their privileges and sacrifices of their comfort, health, and life. Soldiers enlisted in good faith, believing that the government would be generous to wounded and disabled, not as a charity, but as a just debt owed for the valuable services rendered their country.

Resolved, That taxation of the people for their purses for the sole purpose of raising revenue for the expense of the government, economically administered is robbery under the forms of law, and we are therefore in favor of a revision of the present tariff laws and its adjustment to a revenue basis.

Resolved, That the democracy of Michigan, believing in the dignity of American citizenship, claim the right of wage workers to the fostering care of government to the end that the legitimate industry in every walk of life shall be encouraged, and that the laws of building up the material interests of the people.

Resolved, That we pledge ourselves to legislation which shall effectually defend our homes from competing with the honest producers of this country, and which shall forever bar all from the introduction to our shores of cheap contract labor.

Resolved, That the ownership of real estate in this country by foreign corporations and individuals alien to allegiance to American interests and should be prohibited.

Resolved, That we are in favor of the free coinage of gold and silver at the present standard.

Resolved, That as a party we endorse the policy of applying the surplus in the national treasury as fast as they accumulate to the payment of the national debt, thereby reducing the ability to enable the national bank circulation, and the direct issue by the national government of legal tender currency notes, gold and silver coin, and bank notes.

Resolved, That we favor the adoption of measures providing for the health and safety of those engaged in mining, manufacturing, building industries, and for demandings to those engaged therein receiving injuries through the neglect of their employers.

Resolved, That we call for the repeal of all class legislation under which monopolies have been fostered and protected.

Democrats! Soldiers! Shall we be cheated out of our just rights? Shall we be deceived by the promises of the republican party? Shall we be deceived by the promises of the republican party? Shall we be deceived by the promises of the republican party

DEATH VALLEY.

Its Surroundings Compared with the Dead Sea.

From time to time there are disputes as to whether any part of Death valley is really below the level of the sea. The latest observations show that a considerable portion lies below sea level. At the lowest point it is 110 feet below the level of the ocean. This is at a place about twenty miles southeast of Furnace creek. This depression extends north and south for a distance of sixteen or eighteen miles. The ground worked by the Eagle Borax company is 70 feet below sea level. This is four miles west of the deepest depression. The depression at Death valley is, however, far above that at the Dead sea, the surface of which is 1,312 feet below the level of the Mediterranean. The soundings of Lieut. Lynch showed the Dead sea to be 218 fathoms or about 1,300 feet deep in the deepest part; therefore, were its waters evaporated, as were those that once covered Death valley, there would exist a depression 2,612 feet below sea level. But at the Dead sea great attention does not exist side by side with great depression, as at Death valley. The cliffs of Judea, on the west of the Dead sea, are but from 1,000 to 1,500 feet high, while on the east the Mountains of Moab, which are a continuation of the Hauran range, have no peaks that rise to a height exceeding 3,000 feet. At Death valley, however, but fifteen miles away from the lowest part, rises on the west Telescope peak, which has an altitude of 10,937 feet above sea level and 11,041 feet above the lowest depression.

To get some idea of the depth of the bottom of Death valley we have but to observe the altitude of surrounding places that appear to be considerable depressions. Thus Walker lake is 5,000 feet above sea level. Mono lake, 6,370. Yosemite valley presents the appearance of a great depression, yet it is 4,060 feet above the level of the sea; and going to points to the eastward of Death valley, on the Colorado river, about the lowest point in the surrounding country, we find that the mouth of the Virgin Wash is 709 feet above sea level, and the mouth of the Rio Virgen 800. Although we have given 110 feet as the lowest point in Death valley, Col. R. S. Williamson, in his report on the geology of California, makes it 175 feet below sea level.

Although a dreary region enough, and very hot in summer, it is by no means the fearful place that many have described it as being. Death valley proper is about thirty miles long and ten miles wide; therefore were a man placed in the middle of it he would have to travel only about five miles to reach the hills by which it is surrounded.

Furnace creek, mentioned above, was so named for the reason that here were found the ruins of furnaces used by the Mormons during Buchanan's administration in 1857 for smelting lead for bullets. It is said that the lead mines in the place were known to the Indians long before any whites were in the country. The veins, which are of argentiferous galena, are found in the face of an almost perpendicular cliff, and are from one to five feet in width. The creek has its source in Hunter springs, and has a volume of about one hundred inches of water. In the distance of four or five miles, however, this dew sinks in the sands and is lost.

The place where the emigrants lost their lives in 1849 is not in Death valley, but at Lost Wagons springs, on the northern border of the valley. Many remains and wrecks of wagons still lie strewn about these springs, the water of which is strongly alkaline.

Some writers have described Death valley as being almost as fatal to life as was that which surrounded the fabled upas tree in the island of Java, asserting that birds that attempt to fly over the valley drop dead. A Mr. Hawkins, of California, seems to have been sent in this story. He says: "It has been stated that occasionally, to 'fix' a crow the valley drop dead. While the writer can not verify this by ocular proof, he has picked up at different times two little birds whose bodies were still quite warm, having evidently just dropped dead." Hawkins also says: "The dryness of the air is so excessive that moisture is withdrawn from the body faster than it can be supplied through the system. From this cause frequent cases of death have occurred when water was plenty, but which could not be drank fast enough to supply the drain caused by the desiccative power of the dry, hot air." We shall not dispute what Mr. Hawkins says of the death, but can not agree with him as to the cause. We are of the opinion that owing to the rapid evaporation of the large quantities of water drank the persons of whom he speaks were frozen to death.—Dayton (Nev.) News Reporter.

An Exploration by Rail.

It is proposed to have an attention to the results of a recent investigation and study of Mexico, with the intent of exhibiting its economic relation to the United States, and of helping to determine the desirability of the ratification on the part of the latter of a Mexican-American commercial treaty. The basis for this investigation and for such opinions as may be expressed has been: First, a somewhat extended exploration of Mexico, undertaken during the early months of the past year (1885), primarily with a view to health and recreation; and, secondly, a subsequent careful study (prompted by interest in what had been personally seen or heard) of the physical situation and history of the country, and its present political, industrial, and social condition. The journey, in any by-gone or present time, was mainly made upon a special train, over the whole length of the Mexican Central Railroad, over most of the Vera Cruz and City of Mexico and over a part of the Mexican National Railroads; the aggregate distance traversed within the territory of the republic being in excess of three thousand miles, the train running upon its own time, with its own equipment for eating and sleeping, and stopping long enough at every point of interest—city, town, hacienda, mine, or desert—to admit of its full and satisfactory exploration. It is safe, therefore, to say that such an opportunity for leisurely visiting and studying so much of Mexico had rarely, if ever, before been granted.—Hon. David A. Wells, in Popular Science Monthly for April.

Literary Truth in Russian Fiction.

It is the might of this literary truth, which is also spiritual truth, that has made the Russians so great in fiction, so potent to move the heart and the conscience. In another paper of the Review, on "Les Ecrivains Russes Contemporains," which we commend to any one interested to know the sources of the present universal literary movement, the writer says of Nicolai Gogol: "A realist in the best sense of the term, he has furnished a fit instrument for the thought and the art of our time; he has clearly foreseen its future; we have discerned the issue in Russia, at least of that exact study of phenomena and of men which he began. If any one doubts it, let him take this sentence, one of the last that fell from his pen, in The Confession of an Author: 'I have pursued life in its reality, not in the dreams of its imagination, and I have thus arrived at Him who is the source of life.'" The sentence is valuable to the reader of Tolstoi's last book, and is full of suggestion for all. In another place Gogol, who began to write realistically fifty years ago, said of himself and his public: "Thankless is the fate of the writer who ventures to show what passes at each moment under his eyes. The contemporary judge will treat his creations as low and useless; he will be assigned a despised rank among the writers who defame humanity; he will be denied all soul, heart, talent. The reader is revolted by the meanness of my heroes. He could have forgiven me if I had shown picturesque rascals; he cannot forgive me for showing him base ones."

The Russian criticism of 1856 was in fact as immature as much American criticism of 1886. It did not wish to see men and things in fiction as they really are; it wished to see them as the romancers had always made believe they were; it still cried for its Puss in Boots and its Jack the Giant-Killer, and would have them in some form or other.

The Russians who have followed Gogol and learned from him, see how the whole world must learn from them, that we needed those childish demands, and they form a group from which one can hardly turn to other literatures without feeling that he enters an atmosphere of feigning, of insincere performance and ignoble ideals. The French, with their convention of indecency, the English with their convention of propriety, alike dwindle—all except the colossal George Eliot woman—before these human, simple masters, who have no convention, but wish merely to be true.—W. D. Howells, in Harper's Magazine for April.

It Was the Dog.

"Do Judge?"

"Yes sir," said Justice Meech briskly looking over his glasses at a bearded negro who stood directly in front of the judicial bench.

"Kin I get a warrant fo' a dawg?" asked the negro, looking very anxious.

"Depends on what kind of a dog it is," answered the court.

"I live over heah on Fourth avenue, Judge, in a house where there is a family of twelve. We have a dawg which is a little the most dawg I'se ever seen. He barks all day and night. I can't rest no how, and you see I've got runs fo' his dead and can't get away from the critter. He worries us so we can't eat nuthinkin' but bacon."

"What's the dog's color?" the court asked.

"Dat ony Jedge."

"What's his breed?"

"That I can't say nuther, but I know his bark.

"Alto or tenor?" the court asked facetiously.

The complainant shook his head dubiously for a second and then he exclaim ed as if a bright idea had struck him, "I know what you mean Jedge! Yo' want to know if dat dawg will kill a rat or a rat. I wouldn't take my oath 'bout it, Jedge, but I know he'll killed de peace ob de yah niggah now! I want him killed. Gimme a warrant to do it will yo Jedge?"

"I can't do it; but if I were in your place I'd get even with that dog. I'd get half-a-dozen police court lawyers to come up to hovel against him—a country irritant as it were, and if the dog stands that an hour then I will venture to say he belongs to a bad family. You may get rid of the dog, too, by giving a bill of sale for him to some distant friend and let him begin replevin proceedings to get him away or, again, you might entice him to his death with a tempting juicy steak which you have previously inoculated with poison. And there is another remedy. You can move away to a point so distant that the bark of that dog will never reach you."

"Dat I can't move, Jedge. Yo' know how that is yo'self—a poor old man, all broke up with rumatis can't git up and git as he wants. But dat ony yo' must be suppressed. I can't stand it no longer, nohow."

"Well, I guess I can't do anything for you," exclaimed the Court, as he resumed his writing, and the rheumatic complainant left in high dudgeon.—Chicago Ivy Leaves.

Temperance Column.

CONDUCTED by a Committee of the W. C. T. U.

OFFICERS.

President—Mrs. G. W. Lewis.
First Vice President—Mrs. F. Cook.
Second Vice President—Mrs. L. E. Madge.
Third Vice President—Mrs. R. Sugden.
Recording Secretary—Miss Julia Wason.
Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. L. E. Allen.
Treasurer—Mrs. C. J. Strong.

Tobacco and Refinement.

BY PRESIDENT JOHN BASCOM, D.D., LL.D.

Many sages in various forms of philosophy, many saints in diverse phases of faith, have insisted on the conflict between lower and higher impulses in man, between the flesh and the spirit. We have some additional wisdom as to the best method of stilling this strife, as to the way in which the two sets of powers are to find their union in higher forms of work; but little strife there remains an early and unavoidable fact in moral and spiritual life. The trio of evil influences in Christianity is still the world, the flesh, and the devil. Certainly the use of tobacco belongs on the wrong side of this enduring struggle into which we all enter singly and collectively. It belongs to the flesh, and snacks, at times, of both the other two. This habit gains ground at the expense of emotional refinement and spiritual force.

We see this from the very nature of the habit. It has offensively and strongly the features of a sensual appetite. In the outset the organ rebels against the sickening and disgusting. When urged repeatedly with it, they pass over to it with an unwholesome election, and replace the first feeling of offense with a onerious demand. It adds to these two features of an unnatural appetite a third feature, which only familiarity hides from us. The use of tobacco is the turning aside of physical sensibilities from the direct function to an excitation wholly alien to them. It is no part of the office of the nose to receive snuff, or suffer its titillations; or of the gums to be the seats of an irritation made agreeable by chewing. It is not the purpose of either mouth or nostrils to convey smoke, or to be smoked. To put them to this office is to make the discovery of an abnormal—not to say abominable—way in which these sensibilities can be played upon. The chewing of tobacco may seem to be a little far in the cultural office of the organs engaged. Yet the perversion, after all, is the same, as there is in this use no purpose of mastication or nourishment; but the contents of the mouth are carefully to be ejected again, to the no small offense of bystanders. If the use of tobacco does not come under the head of an unnatural and unwholesome perversion of appetites, it is difficult to give any example of such an abuse.

To these considerations are to be added the great evils which attend this habit often gives to others. It passes from its least disagreeable forms by insensible gradations down, very far down, to the coarsest, grossest, and most intolerable abuse. It is difficult to understand how a refined man can accept the fellowship of a habit which adds so distinct an element of disgust and offense along the whole line of misery and vice. It is difficult to understand how a good man can be willing to endure the affliction of nauseous and injurious appetites; and how a clean man can be willing to unite himself to that great army of expectorants who defile the world in so many ways. The habit, we maintain, is a perversion of refinement, of propriety, and it leaves some trace of a disagreeable and truly vulgar kinship. Smoking is the least offensive use of tobacco; but one cannot long, in smoke, and frequent the society of those who do not smoke, without bearing in his clothes the stale odor of his disagreeable habit. Much worse than this, he breathes it out in every expiration. The sweet air of heaven is turned by him each instant into a malodorous incense of an offering on the altar of appetite. Whether he bears the kiss of his wife, or takes the nearest bum, or the words of prayer to the Spirit of spirits, both alike are under the intimidate suggestion of the taint of a physical system penetrated and permeated with tobacco. He himself, in coming his purity of a pure breath, loses the sense of wrong he is doing him own life and the lives of others yet he brings that sense afresh to every one who, with quicker sensibilities, approaches him.

This loss of the feeling of offense in an offensive appetite marks the important point in which the habit interferes with refinement and true culture. The smoker takes it patiently when a superior power sorts him out and bems him in, in a place not apart to this disagreeable indulgence as a smoking-car—bearing what traces of its love may. But when he is left to himself, on the street, in a public place, in legislative halls, he takes at once the precedence of his unkindly habit, and lets his neighbor make what shift he can to avoid the air which he sends forth from the recesses of his mouth, laden with disturbance to eyes, nostrils and lungs. There is scarcely a smoker to be found that does not, at some time, in a careless way, put upon others the discomfort of his habit. How can it be otherwise? He is driven by an exacting demand, whose disagreeable effects are very much hidden from him. The smoker loses the power to see himself as others see him. If those who use tobacco were decidedly in the minority, the habit would be thought to be a strange, outlandish, outrageous perversion of the decorum of life; and in its open indulgence, a surprising trespass on good taste and delicate consideration. I think we shall see this to be so if we consider the effect the habit of chewing, or smoking even, would have on our estimate of a refined woman? The union is almost an impossibility. Yet there is nothing but the nature of the habit that renders the use of tobacco unfit in a woman. It is superior purity and refinement only that banish it from such a presence.

We have something of this feeling, though unfortunately in a much less noble degree, in connection with the most noble-minded and venerable men. Veneration is weakened by this indulgence. The very mildest word we can apply to it is that of indulgence, and that highly apparitic carries an earthly odor with it wherever it extends. Old age casts no glamor over habits, but leaves them to stand on their own merits. The infirm old man who must needs have his snuff box, or tobacco-box, or pipe, is a less agreeable inmate of any home than he otherwise would be. His age and nature does not ascend heavenward in and by this smoke of sacrifice, but out of it, and in spite of it, if it ascends at all. Age should purge away the grossness of the flesh, should stand on tiptoe in the physical world, and, like a burnishing chrysalis, hold the wings of faith aerial. The best that can be said for tobacco under such conditions is, that it is the expiring appetite of an expiring body; one not held in subjection by the spirit, but one that has subjected the spirit to itself. The only fortune that remains to such a one is the fortune of escaping from himself. We can conceive of no refining process, that fits one as a pure gold for a New Jerusalem, that would not quickly, at the very outset, refine away this habit. The Divine Life does not flow through a tobacco field.

THE LIGHT RUNNING
SIMPLE STRONG
NEW HOME
SWIFT SILENT SURE
SEWING MACHINE
HAS NO EQUAL.
PERFECT SATISFACTION
New Home Sewing Machine Co.
—ORANGE, MASS.—
30 Union Square, N.Y. Chicago, Ill. St. Louis, Mo.
Atlanta, Ga. Dallas, Tex. San Francisco, Cal.
FOR SALE BY
E. N. CLINE, East Jordan.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Table in effect January, 1886.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Cincinnati, lv	.....	7 20am	7 30pm	.....
Fort Wayne, ar	6 40pm	3 40pm	1 20am	.....
Fort Wayne, lv	.....	3 45pm	1 25am	.....
Kalamazoo, ar	8 45	5 50	3 35	9 40am
Kalamazoo, lv	.....	5 55	3 50	12 05pm
Battle Creek, ar	.....	6 20	4 20	1 00
Battle Creek, lv	9 00pm	6 30pm	4 30	1 05
Jackson, ar	.....	.....	5 45	2 20
D G H & M ar	7 05am	.....	11 30am	5 05
Grand Rapids, ar	8 15	.....	12 45pm	6 15
Big Rapids *	9 10	.....	1 45pm	6 50
Reed City, ar	.....	.....	2 25	7 30
Cadillac, ar	9 55	.....	3 05	8 05
Walton	11 00	.....	4 15	9 10
Kalkaska, lv	11 45am	.....	5 00	9 55
Mancelona	.....	.....	5 30	10 25
Alpena, ar	.....	.....	9 00	11 30pm
Petoskey, ar	.....	.....	6 00	1 00
Harbor Springs	.....	.....	6 00	1 00
Mackinaw City	.....	.....	8 30pm	3 15am

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 6	No. 4	No. 8
Mackinaw City	.....	7 15am	3 00pm	.....
Harbor Springs	.....	.....	.....	.....
Petoskey, lv	.....	8 35	11 15	.....
Alpena Falls	.....	9 34	12 14am	.....
Mancelona	.....	10 21	12 54am	.....
Kalkaska	.....	11 00	1 30	.....
Walton	.....	11 37	2 05	3 15pm
Cadillac, ar	.....	12 37pm	3 05	4 15
Cadillac, lv	.....	12 45	3 10pm	4 20
Reed City, ar	.....	1 20	4 15am	5 20
Big Rapids	.....	2 00	5 45	6 05
Grand Rapids, ar	.....	3 50	8 40	7 50
D G H & M arrv	.....	4 55	10 15	10 12
Jackson, ar	.....	6 45	12 10pm	12 00am
Battle Creek, ar	7 15am	7 55	1 45	.....
Kalamazoo, ar	8 05	8 25	2 15	1 40pm
Kalamazoo, lv	9 52	8 30	2 20	1 45
Fort Wayne, ar	12 40pm	11 30	5 30pm	.....
Fort Wayne, lv	1 00	12 05pm	.....	3 15am
Cincinnati, ar	7 40pm	7 30am	.....	12 00pm

C. L. LOCKWOOD, G. T. Agent.
Grand Rapids, Mich.

Detroit, Mackinac & Marquette Railroad.

"Mackinaw Short Line."

Only direct route between the East and South and the Upper Peninsula of Michigan.

Time Table taking effect June 21, 1885.

GOING NORTH. Read down.

A. M.	P. M.
9 00	3 40

P. M.	A. M.
12 30	8 00
1 20	8 52
1 45	9 20
2 20	10 42
3 00	11 40
7 00	4 40

A. M.	P. M.
9 00	12 00
9 30	1 05
9 55	1 35
5 30	8 00
6 30	9 00
7 00	9 30

STATIONS.
Detroit
St. Ignace 1
Newberry
Soper
Rexton
Trout Creek
Marquette 2

GOING SOUTH. Read up.

A. M.	P. M.
7 00	2 00
7 30	2 30
8 05	3 05
9 35	4 35
10 35	5 35
11 05	6 05
4 15	10 15
5 15	11 15
5 45	11 45
8 20	2 20

(1) Via M. T. Co.'s boats, with Michigan Central and Grand Rapids & Indiana railways, with the elegant side-wheel steamers of the Detroit & Cleveland Steam Nav. Co. leaving port for Detroit, Cleveland and all points in Canada, immediately on arrival of train leaving St. Ignace at 9 00 a. m. daily except Sundays, Thursday and Saturday nights, and Sundays for Sault Ste. Marie, Duluth, Milwaukee and all shore points. (2) With M. H. & A. railroad for Republic, Michigamme, Crystal Falls, etc., and points on Chicago and Northwestern railway.

Standard—Central time. †Daily. ‡Daily, except Sunday. ‡Daily, except Saturday.

A. WATSON, Gen'l Sup't. GEO. P. PARK, Gen'l Pass. & Ticket Agt.

HANNAH, LAY & CO.'S STEAMER LINE.

SEASON OF 1886.

CITY OF GRAND RAPIDS,

CAPT. O. E. WILBUR.

GOING NORTH, Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, will leave Traverse City 7.00 a. m. touching at Northport, Leland, Glen Arbor, Glen Haven, arrive at Glen Ellen 10.00 a. m., Charlevoix 11.00, Mackinaw Island 7.45, arriving at Mackinaw City 8.30 p. m.

GOING SOUTH, Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays, leave Mackinaw City 7.00 a. m., Mackinaw Island 8.00, Charlevoix 9.00, Glen Ellen 10.00, Glen Haven 11.00, Glen Arbor 12.00, Leland 1.00, Northport 2.15, arriving at Traverse City 7.45 p. m.

T. S. PAXTON

CAPT. A. G. ALBISE.

GOING NORTH, Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays will leave Traverse City at 8 a. m., touching at Northport 10.30 a. m., Leland 12.00, Frankfort 1.30, Glen Arbor 2.30, Glen Haven 3.30, Cross Village 4.30, Mackinaw City 7.00, Mackinaw Island 7.30, arriving at Cheboygan 8.00 p. m.

GOING SOUTH, Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, will leave Cheboygan 6.00 a. m., Mackinaw Island 7.00, Mackinaw City 7.45, Cross Village 9.15, Harbor Springs 10.15, Petoskey 10.45, Glen Arbor 12.00, Leland 1.00, Northport 2.30, arriving at Traverse City 7.45 p. m.

GOOD CONNECTIONS will be made at Traverse City and Petoskey with both day and night trains on the G. R. & I. R. R. for all points North and South, and at Traverse City with the morning train leaving for the City of Traverse from Chicago and the City of Grand Rapids going north; and on Wednesday evenings inbound for T. S. Parties going south, will leave Traverse or Chicago, At St. Ignace with the Mackinaw Division of the Michigan Central R. R. for Mackinaw City, and with the steamer Minnie M. for Sault Ste. Marie.

Traverse Bay Route.

Steamer LOU A. CUMMINGS—Capt. George Roberts.

Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, leave Northport at 7.00 a. m., touching at Leland, Glen Arbor, Glen Haven, arrive at Glen Ellen 10.00 a. m., Charlevoix 11.30 a. m., arrive at Petoskey 12.00 m.

Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays, leave Northport at 7.00 a. m., arrive at Traverse City 12.00 m., leave Traverse City at 2 p. m., arrive at Glen Arbor 6.00 p. m.

Connections made at Northport with the City of Traverse City, and at Traverse City with G. R. & I. Railroad.

Charlevoix and East Jordan.

Steamer GAZELLE—Capt. John Sharp.

Morning—Leave Charlevoix 6.30, arrive East Jordan 8.30; leave East Jordan 9.00, arrive Charlevoix 11.00. Afternoon—Leave Charlevoix 4.00, leave S. Lynne Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, Thursday and Saturday nights, on return leave for Sault Ste. Marie, Duluth, Milwaukee and all shore points. (2) With M. H. & A. railroad for Republic, Michigamme, Crystal Falls, etc., and points on Chicago and Northwestern railway.

Standard—Central time. †Daily. ‡Daily, except Sunday. ‡Daily, except Saturday.

A. WATSON, Gen'l Sup't. GEO. P. PARK, Gen'l Pass. & Ticket Agt.

Charlevoix and Boyne.

Steamer CLARA BELLE—Capt. Robert O'Neil.

Morning—Leave Charlevoix 6.30, arrive East Jordan 7.30; leave East Jordan 8.00, arrive Charlevoix 9.00. Afternoon—Leave Charlevoix 4.00, arrive East Jordan 5.00; leave East Jordan 5.30, Charlevoix 6.00, Petoskey 7.00, arrive Harbor Springs 7.30. Close connections at Petoskey with G. R. & I. R. R. trains, north and south.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., Sept. 9, 1886.

PRODUCE MARKET.

Hay, loose, per ton $12; baled, $18
Corn, per bu. 65c.
Oats, 45 to 50c.
Feed, per ton, $22.
Pork, 3½ @ 4½ c. ℔ lb.
Salt, 70 bbl, $1.25.
Syrup, "Gold Medal," 50c ℔ gal.
Canned Tomatoes, 12c.
Canned Peaches, 15 to 20c.
Coffee, Java and Mocca, 35c.
Farmer's Produce at Upright & Emrey's.

UPRIGHT EMREY & Co.

☞A splendid line of Boots and Shoes, for ladies and gents, boys, girls and misses. More on the road.

☞A magnificent lot of Dress Goods arrived recently, and we offer them at the very lowest figures.

☞Hosiery in all styles a specialty, for both ladies and gents—best line in town.

☞New Groceries received almost every day.

☞Roth Dinner and Tea Sets in Colored Ware at cost.

☞If you want some Choice Butter go to Upright & Emrey's.

☞Remember, we give the Detroit Weekly Free Press FREE during the campaign to every new subscriber who will pay for at least four months in advance, in cash. Old subscribers who want the Weekly Free Press should remember that they can have the same terms by paying all arrears to date, and at least four months in advance, in cash. You will get more papers by subscribing now than if you wait.

☞For sale or to let on favorable terms, two hundred good grade sheep with real estate, adjoining of Jas. H. Stone, East Jordan, Mich.

☞Fresh Kalamazoo celery at Jefferies' market.

☞Best fresh butter at Jefferies' market.

Local Notes and News.

Ten pages this week.

Two more hot days this week.

Capt. Trudell has repainted the outside of his house.

H. Jordan is grading the terrace in front of his house.

F. W. Craine & Co. have a new advertisement this week.

Dave Bradleer expects to go to Mackinac Island Saturday, to make some stereoscopic views, to add to his already large collections of views.

J. F. Robinson has sold his farm known as the Inwood farm, to Geo. Cummings, of Sault Ste. Marie, for $3,850. Mr. Robinson will remove to Iowa.

If you want to patronize home industry and get a good article for your money at the same time, use the Rifenburg Milling Co.'s flour. We know it to be the best, and will use no other.

Divine service will be held at Odd Fellows, hall next Sunday morning and evening, and at Music hall, on the resort, at 4 in the afternoon, by Rev. C. T. Stout, of St. Johns church, Grand Rapids.

Postmaster General Vilas was at the Soo the other day and he his wife and daughter shot the rapids. Now let him fire the rascals as fast as he laved down the stream.—Democrat.

Observe the sell in another column for a county convention to be held in Boyne City, on Saturday, Sept. 18. There should be a full delegation from every township, as business of importance is to be transacted.

Rev. A. T. Waterman, of Ovid, delivered two excellent sermons at the Congregational church, last Sunday morning and evening. He will preach from the same pulpit again, next Sunday morning and evening, at the usual hours of service.

The school board of Charlevoix have increased the corps of teachers to six, raised and improved the grading, and at considerable expense have fitted the schools to accommodate non-resident pupils. We hope to see their efforts to improve the schools appreciated, and a large increase in the attendance follow.

Recollect that our offer of the Weekly Free Press free for four months to subscribers who pay at least fifty cents in cash in advance for the JOURNAL is made to get some money to pay bills now due, and will continue for only a short time. If you want the Free Press, now is your time to get it free.

At the annual school meeting in the Bernard district, R. Burns was re-elected moderator by a two thirds vote. This is his seventh term, and has been completed, will make 21 years of continuous service in that office. Mr. Burns was elected at the same meeting by a vote of thirty votes, to fill the vacancy in the office of assessor.

The D. L. & N. R. R. and the G. R. & I. R. R. give three excursions this week over their line from Detroit, Lansing and East Saginaw, via Howard City, arriving in Petoskey Thursday evening. This is the occasion, the Friant gives four excursions this week to Charlevoix and East Jordan, on her regular time, at 50 cents for the round trip.

Every child attending school next Monday morning will need a book, and some will need several new ones. Dr. Cronter has a full stock of every kind of book used in the county, as well as everything else in the line of school supplies. In his new advertisement on the eighth page, he mentions in detail some of the principal items of the stock. Read it, then go and see him.

Some of the honorable members of the K. K. excursion to the "soo" last week, had a most delightful (?) time. On account of the fog, the boat had to lay over eight six miles below the "soo," and not having sufficient sleeping accomodations, a large number of the excursionists had to sleep in a neighboring barn. However, this is only a little "spice" with the other pleasures of the excursion.

The date opposite the address on this paper indicates the time to which the subscriber has paid. If any one claims payment ahead of such date on their paper, it should be made known at the office at once, either in person or by letter. This is the only way the accounts can be kept straight. The person receiving the paper can see for himself each and every week whether we have received his money and given the proper credit.

L. D. Bartholomew has been making numerous additions and improvements to the house recently purchased of Byron See. Among other things he has built a large wood house and laundry, transformed the old woodroom into a well-furnished kitchen, put a concrete floor in the cellar, built a new cistern and well, and another chimney, added cresting and other ornaments to the roof, gables, etc., repainted the whole with bright colors on the outside. Mr. Bartholomew and Mr. J. B. Allen have no fence between their lots, and both working together have a front yard of which anyone might feel proud. With fence pumps and hose, and plenty of water they have succeeded in keeping the flowers and shrubbery bright and fresh during the dry, hot weather.

An exchange says: "We are acquainted with quite a number of persons who 'get more papers than I can read, now,' and don't want a local paper so long as they can borrow their neighbor's. The person always takes a "family journal, published in New York or somewhere, containing thrilling and blood-curdling romances, such as make the young ones desert home and yearn for the day when they can break away from home restraints and go out in the far west and become 'bad men,' and die with their boots on."

The sessions of the teachers' institute have been growing in interest during the week. About thirty-five have been enrolled up to the present time. This is not so many as were expected, but those in attendance are being excellently well paid. The evening lectures have been fairly well attended and very instructive. Prof. Payne's lecture on Tuesday evening, at the Congregational church, on "The Teacher as a Philanthropist," was listened to with intense interest. Mr. McLouth spoke at the M. E. church, last night, on "Some Natural Phenomena," and gave an instructive talk. The lessons close to-morrow afternoon. Next week we will give a full list of those in attendance.

The Traverse Journal gives the salutom men of that place the following bit of advice: "Don't you dare to keep open your respectable (?) pinces after 10 o'clock p. m., and on Sunday. We'll tell you why. The vigilance of policemen Ben is emphatically illustrated in the conviction of Antony Novotney, "Beer" Schmidt, and Jas. Baker within the last month for keeping their places open after improper hours. Novotney and Baker were each fined $25 and costs, and Schmidt was fined $35 and costs. For money, Traverse City allows you fifteen hours, six days in a week, to rob the innocent and weak-minded of their manhood and hard-earned wages, that should go for the support of your families—and, by the eternal—you must confine your devilish work to legitimate hours, or you will get toasted. Now this is a bit of friendly advice, and we hope you will take it as such."

One by one the young business men of Charlevoix come to the front with a residence finished and furnished with all the modern improvements of housebuilding. This week will show complete the new residence of F. A. Stutts, cashier of the Charlevoix Savings bank, built on the south terrace, from plans by Kirkpatrick. The building faces the north. From the porch one has an unobstructed view of Round lake, lake resorts, and all the whole business portion of the town. The lower floor are four rooms,—a parlor and parlor bed-room connected by double doors, a large dining room, and a comfortable kitchen furnished with wall cupboards, sleeks, sink, woodhouse, etc. In the northwest corner of the parlor is a bay window with clear and colored glass, and through which one has an unobstructed view of the resorts, Round lake, and the whole western part of the town. In the dining room, facing the east, is a large bay window. In the second story are three large bed-rooms, with large closets, and one room over the kitchen, which may be used for a bed-room or bath room. The ceilings are high, the doors and windows are rough, and are to be papered. The ceilings, baseboards, mouldings, etc., are dark brown, and some fine writings are brought out by the oil finish. The door of the sitting room, parlor, and parlor bed-room are finished with the Sherwin-Williams rosewood and new mahogany, which makes a rich appearance. The grounds are to be graded, and the terrace gives a more perfect finish this fall. Comfort and convenience have not been sacrificed for beauty, yet there is apparently nothing lacking for this latter feature. Frost can congratulate himself on adding one more monument to the substantial growth of Charlevoix.

Annual School Meeting.

At the annual school meeting on Monday night, the Upright ticket was elected director, J. Milo Eaton having declined to be a candidate for re-election.

The receipts and expenses for the year were as follows:

RECEIPTS.

Money on hand Sept. 1, 1885	$166 41
Received from primary school fund	69 30
Received from district fund	69 30
Received from district for tuition	22 50
Received from all other sources	14 50
Total	$342 01

EXPENSES.

Paid male teachers	$122 00
Paid female teachers	90 00
Paid for labor and fuel	31 41
Paid for all other purposes	48 60
Amount in hand Sept. 8, 1886	50 00
Total	$342 01

Estimates for the ensuing year were made, and the amounts voted as follows:

Teachers wages	$2,345 00
Janitor	125 00
Janitor	125 00
Contingent	150 00
Library	10 00

Whole number of children in the district, 360.

☞Ads for F. W. Craine & Co.'s bargain table.

DRY GOODS!

We offer for the next few days Great Bargains in all

----SUMMER DRESS GOODS----

Shawls, White Goods, Parasols, Silk and Thread Gloves, Hosiery, Straw Hats, etc.

NEW LINE OF BROADHEAD DRESS GOODS, Just received and marked at very low prices.

Jersey and Boucle Jackets, Very Cheap.

Staple & Fancy Groceries,

In great variety and at correct prices. The finest line of

Teas, Coffees, Spices.

PLANTATION JAVA COFFEE, - BEST IN THE WORLD.

Farmers will consult their own interests in buying our

FACTORY-FILLED DAIRY SALT.

J. L. HURD & CO.

Cloaks ! Cloaks !!

Just Received, at

ROSENTHAL & SON'S,

The largest line of FALL and WINTER CLOAKS that ever was brought to Charlevoix. All styles in Short Wraps, New Markets and Street Jackets. Also a big line of CHILDREN'S CLOAKS. Now is the time to make your choice, as the assortment is large and prices are low. Be sure to come and see them, whether you buy or not,—no trouble to show goods.

ROSENTHAL & SON.

Grace Sise Drowned.

Last Sunday afternoon, Grace Sise, aged eight years, started out "for a walk." At dark she had not returned, and a search was commenced. Several persons remembered having seen her at play in various places. At one time she was with some other children on the dock near the Bridge Street house. The search was continued all night by a large number of people. Monday morning, about nine o'clock her body was found in twelve feet of water, beneath an open space in the near the mill came near burning also.

As the engine room was situated on the north side of the mill, and the fire seemed to be in every part of the building at once, it is believed to be incendiary. No insurance.

Farewell Supper to the M. E. Pastor.

A farewell supper will be given at the M. E. church, on Friday night of this week, Sept. 10, in honor of the pastor and his lady, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Iddings, whose faithful and earnest labors in the cause of their Master, pastorate have much endeared them to the people. As this is the last chance many will have to meet them in a social position, a cordial invitation is extended to everybody in or near Charlevoix. Mrs. Meech and Mrs. L. E. Allen will assist Mr. and Mrs. Iddings in entertaining their friends, while the ladies of the church will serve a bountiful supper of chicken pie and other good things. Supper, 25 cts., served from five to nine, Friday evening.

A Cabinet's Fortunate Discovery.

Capt. Coleman, Schr. Wyoming, plying between Atlantic City and New York, had been afflicted with a cough so bad he was unable to sleep, and was badered to try Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption. It did not give him instant relief, but allayed the extreme soreness and irritation, his children were similarly affected and a single dose had the same happy effect. Dr. King's New Discovery is now the standard remedy in the Coleman household and on board the schooner. Free trial bottles of this standard remedy at Dr. G. W. Crosier's drug store.

Soldiers' Re-Union at Charlevoix.

HEADQUARTERS
BAYER POST, NO. 122, G. A. R.
CHARLEVOIX, MICH., Sept. 3, 1886.

The following named comrades are hereby detailed as a committee on arrangements for the Charlevoix County Soldiers' Re-Union, at Charlevoix, on September 15 and 16, viz: Byron See, Robert Miller, William Kalogy, John Litman, and S. W. Salter.

By order of
C. B. GLASS, Adjutant. E. H. GREEN, Commander.

Removed Her Tonsils.

Mrs. Phoebe Chesley, Peterson, Clay Co., Iowa, tells the following remarkable story, the truth of which is vouched for by the residents of the town: "I am 78 years old, have been troubled with kidney complaint and lameness for many years; could not dress myself without help. Now I am free and well as ever, and can do as she pleases. Dr. King's New Life Pills have made me newer my youth, and removed all pains and aches. My appetite is excellent and I feel young again." Try a

REDUCING TAXATION.

Some Facts and Figures for Farmers to Reflect Upon.

[From the Farmer.]

There is now in the United States Treasury a surplus of $270,000,000 lying idle. There is no use for this money. It can not be used to pay the expenses of the Government, because the Government's receipts are already $70,000,000 a year more than its expenses. It is not necessary to pay the bonds, because the ordinary revenues of the country will be enough to pay them as fast as they mature. It simply lies there and does nobody any good. It is that much taken needlessly from the people.

It got there because taxes are too high.

This state of things has been going on for five or six years. The useless surplus in the Treasury has been steadily increasing in spite of all the extravagant expenditure. Three Congresses have grappled with the problem and failed to solve it. The surplus keeps on piling up in the Treasury. Pretty soon it will become absolutely necessary that the taxes be reduced. They will have to be brought down to the level of the expenditures of the Government.

There are the best reasons why the farmers of the country should unanimously demand that the reduction should be in the direction of tariff taxes and not internal taxes.

It should be constantly borne in mind that the objects and effects of these taxes are two-fold. They raise a revenue for the Government and they are also levied for the avowed purpose of encouraging American industry. They are said to do this because being levied on certain articles brought from abroad, they make the price of those articles so high that their purchase here is discouraged. Consequently, it is said, that the purchase of similar articles made in this country is fostered. There are nearly 4,000 articles on which this tariff lays export taxes. Of these all, not a single duty does the average farmer a particle of good. There is an import duty on foreign grown wheat, but that is of no use whatever to the farmer, because he exports wheat, and nobody in America would import it if there were no tariff. There is not a commodity, which the average farmer produces, except perhaps wool, rice, and sugar—which are specialties—which could be imported into this country to any extent if there were not a particle of tariff. Consequently he has not the slightest interest in having any foreign products kept out of the country. Then he hasn't a solitary benefit to reap from the tariff, has he?

But they say that while the farmer can't be benefited directly by the tariff, he gets a nice, big benefit indirectly. They say that a great number of persons employed in manufacturing and mining are kept in prosperity by this tariff, and that without it they would be unable to sell anything.

Without stopping to enlarge upon the silicy of a proposition that supposes that even if all these people were to be thrown out of employment in an instant, they would all stop eating, there are two facts that completely destroy this next little argument.

In the first place, out of the 17,392,099 people engaged in all kinds of occupations in the United States in 1880, 7,670,493 were engaged in agriculture. Only 2,837,157 all told, were engaged in all kinds of manufacturing, mechanical, and mining pursuits. Not more than half of these can claim the slightest benefit from the tariff, because not more than half are engaged in producing articles that could be brought from other countries if there was not a bit of tariff.

The proposition, then, amounts to saying that the 7,670,493 persons engaged in agriculture depend for a livelihood upon the 1,170,000 engaged in producing articles protected by the tariff. Now, does any sane man believe that?

In the next place, we find that of the $2,000,000,000 worth of farm products raised in this country in 1880, people abroad consumed $183,000,000 worth, persons engaged in professional and personal services consumed $263,000,000, persons engaged in trade and transportation consumed $380,000,000, the farmers themselves consumed $1,170,000; persons engaged in making articles that could not be brought from abroad without a tariff consumed $330,000,000; and persons engaged in making articles that could be brought from abroad and who alone can claim the slightest benefit from the tariff consumed only $315,000,000, or 8½ per cent. of the whole amount raised.

So that if we admit that all the persons engaged in making articles that could be brought from abroad would be instantly and permanently thrown out of employment by reducing the tariff—if we admit that they would cease eating forever from that moment, the farmers of the whole country would lose just 8½ per cent. of their market. Now, is any sane man going to get much alarmed over that possibility?

But it is easy to show that the benefits the farmer would reap from a reduction of the tariff would far exceed the 8½ per cent. loss of market, which, admitting the above manifest absurdity, he might sustain.

For the last two or three years the prices Northwestern farmers have got for their wheat have scarcely cost them for raising it. Why? Because there has not been a sufficient demand for wheat. Wheat has been a drug in the market. Now, it is as plain as the noon on a man's face that if there is to be any further demand for wheat it must come from abroad. And it is just as plain that the only way to induce foreigners to buy more of what we have to sell is by buying more of what they have to sell in exchange. And the only way to bring that about is to break down the tariff barriers that prohibit foreign trade. If there is any reader of the Farmer who can pick a flaw in that reasoning I shall be very glad to hear from him.

But besides interfering with the demand from abroad which naturally exists for his products, the tariff cripples the farmer in another way. It is a two-edged sword, and it hits the farmer a clip every way it goes. While he gets lower prices for his products than he otherwise would, he has to pay more for what he buys. It is a mid-ocean proposition that every article he buys on which there is a protective tariff duty—his iron, nails, coolings, harness, implements, salt, glass and crockery, for instance—cost him more than it would if there were no tariff. For if these things can be made as cheaply in this country as abroad, what is the use of having any tariff duties upon them? If any reader of the Farmer thinks this isn't a common-sense and practical view of the matter I shall be glad to have him urge any objection to it that can be imagined.

In view of the fact that taxes must be reduced in some way or other, that the present tariff 150,000,000 working people are being taxed for the benefit of 1,000,000, and that 700,000,000 farmers are the victims of a system that injures them on every side and doesn't do them a particle of good, isn't it about time that the farmers got up and determined that the reduction shall be in the direction of the tariff duties and none other?

MINNESOTA.

LABOR IN PENNSYLVANIA.

Henry George's Investigations in the Coal Fields of That State.

[Jackson (Mich.) Patriot.]

Mr. Henry George, acting as a special commissioner for the North American Review, has been making a close personal investigation into the conditions of labor, especially mining labor, in Pennsylvania. He has prepared a series of papers on this subject, the first of which appears in the August number. It discloses a condition of affairs with respect to the poverty of the workingmen and the exactions of the bosses which is only equaled by the records of life in Connemara and Donegal. Mr. George, who has visited the region, declared, regards the condition of the miners in Pennsylvania as equally bad with that of the Irish peasantry. He finds that Pennsylvania is by nature a greatly favored State. It is "nearly twice as large as England and within one-seventh as large as Ireland." It has a population of 16 to the square mile, against 189 in Ireland and 481 in England. "It may be doubted," says Mr. George, "if there is on the earth's surface another area of 41,000 square miles which, considering all things, is better fitted by nature to yield a home to labor." In addition to such advantages, Pennsylvania has enjoyed a superiority in the gift of the bountiful mother by invoking the protection of a paternal Government.

"To satisfy Pennsylvania's plea for the protection of labor the whole foreign commerce of what would otherwise have been the greatest continuous nation of the world has been sacrificed, until now an American ship is becoming a curiosity on the deep sea. To give Pennsylvania what spirit-dealers would call a small profit of fifty cents per ton the railways on the Pacific States are compelled to pay $16 per ton more for rails, while sections of the country that use no Pennsylvania coal must, to assist producers in Pennsylvania, have pay on the coal they do use a duty larger than the original cost of mining."

Still, the conditions of labor in Pennsylvania "are anything but satisfactory, as is shown by the needless to say, unanimous report of strikes." Some of these strikes occur "from causes so trifling that they are ridiculous"—as, for instance, one provoked "by the action of one of other that the miners should not keep goats, and which, having been ended by the resignation of the anti-goat superintendent, has been celebrated by a local band in the song of 'Hopkins and the Goats.'" On this point Mr. George says: "It seemed to me to be thought of the policy of strikes and there seems to be a growing feeling that every material innovelty on the part of at least large systems of Pennsylvania workmen, the fact that they so often occur shows anything but just and wholesome conditions in the relations of labor. Men dependent upon their daily wages do not strike for the sheer pleasure of striking, and even from the reckless strikes, when they occur in any numbers, indicate a chronic irritation that can only proceed from real grievances."

Next to agriculture, coal mining is the greatest Pennsylvania industry. It employs 140,000 persons—somewhat more than two-thirds of them in the anthracite mines, and about half as many more in the bituminous mines. There are two ways of producing coal. The first is, of course, taking the highest average wages of miners, without loss of time, but also taking what they are actually able to make on a year, whether they have employment. The State "Bureau of Industrial Statistics" makes this comparison "of nominal" and "actual" wages per week for 1884:

ANTHRACITE MINES.	Theoretical.	Actual.
Miners on contract	$16.20	$8.84
Miners inside	15.60	8.52
Laborers inside	12.00	6.55
Laborers outside	8.40	4.34
BITUMINOUS MINES.	Theoretical.	Actual.
Miners	16.80	6.72
Laborers inside	12.00	6.00
Laborers outside	9.60	4.80

In the forthcoming report of 1885 it is estimated that the total actual earnings paid in wages in coal mining would, if divided equally among all returned as employed, giving $6.67 per week in anthracite mining, and $6.21 in bituminous mining. But out of the miner's wages must come the cost of mining supplies—powder, fuse, oil, cotton, etc.—and these must be bought of the company at from 20 to 100 per cent. more than the ordinary prices. Still worse, what the miners call the pluck-me store system is general in the Pennsylvania coal regions.

"These 'pluck-me' stores seem to well deserve be name the miners have given them, the prices charged in them running from 15 to 100 per cent. above ordinary retail rates, and probably average from 25 to 40 per cent. Quality, too, is sometimes a matter of serious grief, as when a miner bitterly complained to me that while from his wages the company charged 25 cents a pound for butter, 'strong enough to pull a car up a slope.' It is a fact that there are some company stores content to charge only ordinary prices, but in the course of conversations with miners representing pretty much all the mining districts of the State I never heard of one. In this case the company keeps a monopoly in the value of a deceased member of a mining firm, and this lady, who lives, I believe, in New York, enjoyed strict orders that prices shall not be higher than in ordinary stores.

"There is no avowed conspiracy," says Mr. George, "in dealing with labor as it is, but it nevertheless as effectually exists." As the miners put it, "If you go elsewhere to buy your powder you must go elsewhere to burn it."

In regard to the habitations of the miners, Mr. George finds that "As a rule, when the operators of the mine control the surface, and where they are not brought into competition with the owners of closely adjacent land upon which stores or dwellings can be built, they will neither sell nor lease building sites, the control of the land giving them the control of their men. The employes are lodged in dreary, monotonous rows of company houses, divided by thin partitions into from two to five compartments, from two to four small rooms. These houses are of wood, built in a cheap and flimsy manner, usually undesoiled inside and dilapidated outside. The only evidence that there is such a thing as paint in the world (as for whitewash, that seems to be unknown) is generally the company number painted in bold figures. * * * The rent of these houses dollars and the rent estates, ranging from $2.50 a month, the average being $3. * * * In these mining villages every one * * * is a tenant upon five days' notice. In some places no one is allowed to live in the village unless employed by the company, a young man born on the spot and still living with his parents being compelled to leave if he goes to work elsewhere than for the 'lord of the manor.'"

The power of the sole landlord enables the operator or superintendent to exercise such control as he cares to and may lead, instead, to, in exact defiance, goat laws, chicken laws, liquor laws, or any other laws the pleasure, short of the point of producing a general revolt."

According to Mr. George, the coal miners of Pennsylvania appear to live under conditions but very little better than those of chattel slaves. They are not, however, "what in this country we call peons," for, in a class "they are not allowed to run in debt to the company." Mr. George's exact meaning here is best comprehended by a page, in the following paragraph: "Strange as it may seem, I found in the mining regions of Pennsylvania to come across men who had never heard of Ireland and to read resolutions of Knights of Labor denouncing land grabbing in the far West. If the Pennsylvanian wishes to see a landlord in his power, he need not go to the Rocky Mountains, he need not go to the Mississippi. From many a mother area of 41,000 square miles which, considering all things, is better fitted by nature to yield a home to labor." In addition to such advantages, Pennsylvania has enjoyed a superiority in the gift of the bountiful mother by invoking the protection of a paternal Government.

"To satisfy Pennsylvania's plea for the protection of labor the whole foreign commerce of what would otherwise have been the greatest continuous nation of the world has been sacrificed, until now an American ship is becoming a curiosity on the deep sea. To give Pennsylvania what spirit-dealers would call a small profit of fifty cents per ton the railways on the Pacific States are compelled to pay $16 per ton more for rails, while sections of the country that use no Pennsylvania coal must, to assist producers in Pennsylvania, have pay on the coal they do use a duty larger than the original cost of mining."

PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

Specially for Working Men to Consider.

[From the Marsh Chunk (Pa.) Democrat.]

The reason why we can but very little of any stock in the so-called labor organizations is because; if what we read and hear of their movements and doings be true, in nine cases out of ten they do themselves and the cause of labor and business more harm than good. The agitation of the recent strikes alone amounts to millions, and every dollar of it is dead loss to labor.

Why it is that several millions of organized laboring men and long citizens entirely ignore the fact that there is one great bottom cause of the evils under which they labor, and that the remedy is in their hands, we do not pretend to know. Under the existing system of very high tariff—from thirty to fifty, twenty, twenty-five per cent. of the average earnings of working men go for taxes. If they would only think of this one fact—that they must work as an average from 7 to or 9 o'clock every morning to earn their tax money, and the remaining several hours of their day's work for themselves and families—they would at once organize the biggest and most effective strike ever witnessed in this country, not by stopping work, but by voting as one solid body for revenue reform, and against the stupendous high tariff taxation fraud under which they suffer.

AS TO NAILS.

A Problem That Sets the Head Swimming.

[From the Tax-Gatherer.]

Here's something that makes the head swim worse than the 13-14-15 puzzle that sent so many people to the insane asylum a few years ago. It is an account of the great discovery of a car-conductor who met at the Grand Pacific Hotel in Chicago on the 15th of June. The convention called itself the "Western Nail Association," and the account informs us that it is composed of all the nail manufacturers west of the Alleghany Mountains," over one hundred in all. The first business in order was the price of nails, and after discussing the business condition of the country, no one ch nge in the present cost of prices," and a resolution was then adopted to protect the nail manufacturers from foreign competition, and to make the tariff such that they can fix their own "cost of prices." Now, we suppose we are happy, but this particular small ate appears to be very miserable, being not satisfied with the profits we already have and pushing hopelessly to the poor house.

The reason for this wretched state of things is the competition of "pauper labor" of the Atlantic States. The president of the Western Nail Association declared it to be a monstrous fact that "Western manufacturers, fully with the Eastern manufacturers, who pay at least 50 per cent. less wages to their workmen." The Eastern manufacturers are actually able to sell their nails in the Chicago market at a less price than the goods could be manufactured for in the West, and solely because their labor was obtained at cheaper rates. If this is true it leads to a paradox like the following: If the nail manufacturers west of the Alleghany Mountains cannot compete with the nail manufacturers east of the Alleghany Mountains because the Eastern "pauper labor" wouldn't it be a good idea to "protect" the Western nail makers by a tariff on Eastern nails? And if the protective tariff on English nails, which the Eastern nail manufacturers declare absolutely necessary in order to enable them to pay "high wages," has, in fact, reduced Eastern wages so low that Western manufacturers can compete with them on nails, then, again, if the Alleghany Mountains are not high enough to protect the nail makers west of them against the ruinous competition of the Eastern pauper labor, what good are the Alleghany Mountains? Are they any more a protection to the nail makers west of them against the ruinous competition of the Eastern pauper labor than the Atlantic Ocean is to the manufacturers east of them, and which, if the Eastern nail manufacturers can place their goods in the Chicago market at a less price than the goods can be manufactured for in the West, and solely because their labor was obtained at cheaper rates? If this is true it leads to another paradox like the following: If the nail manufacturers west of the Alleghany Mountains cannot compete with the nail manufacturers east of the Alleghany Mountains because the Eastern "pauper labor" wouldn't it be a good idea to "protect" the Western nail makers by a tariff on Eastern nails? And if the protective tariff on English nails, which the Eastern nail manufacturers declare absolutely necessary in order to enable them to pay "high wages," has, in fact, reduced Eastern wages so low that Western manufacturers can compete with them on nails, then, again, if the Alleghany Mountains are not high enough to protect the nail makers west of them against the ruinous competition of the Eastern pauper labor, what good are the Alleghany Mountains? Are they any more a protection to the nail makers west of them against the ruinous competition of the Eastern pauper labor than the Atlantic Ocean is to the manufacturers east of them, and which, if the Eastern nail manufacturers can place their goods in the Chicago market at a less price than the goods can be manufactured in the West, solely because their labor was obtained at cheaper rates? If this is true it leads to another paradox like the following: If the nail manufacturers west of the Alleghany Mountains cannot compete with the nail manufacturers east of the Alleghany Mountains because the Eastern "pauper labor" wouldn't it be a good idea to "protect" the Western nail makers by a tariff on Eastern nails? And if the protective tariff on English nails, which the Eastern nail manufacturers declare absolutely necessary in order to enable them to pay "high wages," has, in fact, reduced Eastern wages so low that Western manufacturers can compete with them on nails, then, again, if the Alleghany Mountains are not high enough to protect the nail makers west of them against the ruinous competition of the Eastern pauper labor, what good are the Alleghany Mountains? Are they any more a protection to the nail makers west of them against the ruinous competition of the Eastern pauper labor than the Atlantic Ocean is to the manufacturers east of them, and which, if the Eastern nail manufacturers can place their goods in the Chicago market at a less price than the goods can be manufactured in the West, solely because their labor was obtained at cheaper rates? If this is true it leads to another paradox like the following: If the nail manufacturers west of the Alleghany Mountains cannot compete with the nail manufacturers east of the Alleghany Mountains because the Eastern "pauper labor" wouldn't it be a good idea to "protect" the Western nail makers by a tariff on Eastern nails? And if the protective tariff on English nails, which the Eastern nail manufacturers declare absolutely necessary in order to enable them to pay "high wages," has, in fact, reduced Eastern wages so low that Western manufacturers can compete with them on nails, then, again, if the Alleghany Mountains are not high enough to protect the nail makers west of them against the ruinous competition of the Eastern pauper labor, what good are the Alleghany Mountains? Are they any more a protection to the nail makers west of them against the ruinous competition of the Eastern pauper labor than the Atlantic Ocean is to the manufacturers east of them, and which, if the Eastern nail manufacturers can place their goods in the Chicago market at a less price than the goods could be manufactured for in the West, solely because their labor was obtained at cheaper rates? If this is true it leads to another paradox like the following: If the nail manufacturers west of the Alleghany Mountains cannot compete with the nail manufacturers east of the Alleghany Mountains because the Eastern "pauper labor" wouldn't it be a good idea to "protect" the Western nail makers by a tariff on Eastern nails? And if the protective tariff on English nails, which the Eastern nail manufacturers declare absolutely necessary in order to enable them to pay "high wages," has, in fact, reduced Eastern wages so low that Western manufacturers can compete with them on nails, then, again, if the Alleghany Mountains are not high enough to protect the nail makers west of them against the ruinous competition of the Eastern pauper labor, what good are the Alleghany Mountains? Are they any more a protection to the nail makers west of them against the ruinous competition of the Eastern pauper labor than the Atlantic Ocean is to the manufacturers east of them, and which, if the Eastern nail manufacturers can place their goods in the Chicago market at a less price than the goods can be manufactured

School Books
and
School Supplies

Our Prices are Rock Bottom, Lower than ever!

We have a full supply of every book used in the Charlevoix schools. Also a full supply for every school in the county.

Something New

In Scratch Books, Spelling Slips, Inks, Pens, Pencils, Rulers, Slates, Chalks, School Registers, Etc.

The largest stock of Blank Books in the county!

☞ If you want to save money, call at

G. W. CROUTER'S Drug & Stationery Store,

For supplies in general.

BOB TOOMBS' ORATION.

A Southerner's Description of its Effects on a New Englander.

Several months before the outbreak of the war Robert Toombs was booked for a speech in Atlanta. When the night came for the speech the streets swarmed with people streaming up to the court house. It so happened that I fell in with a New Englander, who was stopping at one of the hotels for a day or two, and as he expressed a desire to hear the great Georgian I took him along with me.

"You never heard Edward Everett, did you?" inquired my companion, as we started out.

"No," I replied, "but we think very highly of him down here."

"Yes, no doubt, but his style would not suit your people. He is always cold and dignified. He never rants. His elocution is simply perfect, and no living man equals him in precision of diction."

"I don't see how he can move the masses," I remarked.

The New Englander smiled superior.

"Therein lies the difference between your people and mine," he said. "You talk about a speaker moving the masses. With us the masses move the speaker. I mean that our masses are intelligent and think for themselves. They would laugh at a speaker who addressed them in the spread-eagle fashion. Now, I have been trained up under such orators as Everett, Sumner, Winthrop, and others of that school, and I must confess that while I am a democrat, I can not read the speeches of your famous southern orators without amusement. Your speakers owe the origin of their power to rant and gesticulation. They do not deal in facts and logic. Now, sir, no speaker living can move me."

"Wait until you hear Toombs," I broke out.

"My dear sir," said my New England companion, "I feel in advance that he will not please me. I am so constituted that I move such a judicial mind, as it were, that I can not help judging a speaker simply upon its merits as a logical argument. If it is only what you southerners call eloquence, it has no weight with me."

"All right," I responded rather shortly. "I trust you will not be bored to-night."

We walked on for some time in silence. The New Englander was a man of about 45, and his appearance combined what he had said of himself. He was as stiff as a figure cut out of cardboard. His eyes had a cold fixed stare. His thin lips were curled in a perpetual sneer. He seemed to have about as much life as a marble statue.

"What is that noise?" he asked.

"The people yelling for Toombs," I answered. "They are impatient."

"There is where you differ from us again," he said. "In my part of the country we are not demonstrative. We never lose our heads. It is a rare thing to hear boisterous applause at our public meetings. As for me, I never applaud."

I was disgusted with this icy egotism, and relapsed into silence. Arriving at the court-house we secured seats in the crowd. Fortunately there was plenty of room, as the meeting was held out doors. I gave myself up to the enjoyment of the occasion, and did not even take the trouble to look at my companion, who sat a seat or two back of me, facing west at his best. His indictment of the republicans and abolitionists was terrific. His words seemed to have wings of flames, and they went straight to the mark. Rising higher and higher with each flight of eloquence, he looked the very genius of revolution. The crowd was wild with thunder and flame.

The wild cheering of the audience did not annoy me. It was music to my ears, but toward the close of the speech I came to the conclusion that there must be a mistake just behind me. Such glorious yells I never heard in my life. Finally I shoved my position and managed to get a look at Atoms's proud admirer. Could I believe my eyes? Standing on a wooden bench, pounding with his cane, and shouting at the top of his voice stood my New England friend.

I stared at him in paralyzed amazement. This was the man who couldn't be moved, didn't care for eloquence, who never applauded! Knowing what did, the spectacle was ludicrous. In my stay. Once or twice natives have pointed out to me in the wide reaches of the river long, dark looking bodies reposing on sand banks in the far distance, which they said were crocodiles; but I am afraid they were crocodiles only in the imagination of my informants, and closer inspection (had we been able to make it) would have proved them very wooden—in fact, mere logs. A young one which has been shot near Luxor was offered to us for sale at that place. But the reptile is now very rarely seen below the second cataract at Wady Halfa. The noise of the steamers and the unceasing pursuit by tourists has made them seek quieter feeding grounds.

I am informed that every crocodile that is killed bears marks of having been shot at many times before. My informant told me of one he had seen which had marks of no less than twelve bullets on various parts of the hide, several of the bullets being actually lodged, flattened and distorted between the plates of his armor. The only vulnerable places are the back of the head and under the axilla. The inside of the mouth is covered with leeches. This accounts for a curious fact, which was observed by Herodotus 2,300 years ago, that wherever the crocodile is there will also be seen the black-headed and spur-winged plover, which feeds on leeches, and which are said even to venture into the open mouth of the crocodile as it basks on the sand in search of these creatures.

This bird was called by Herodotus the trochilus, and from its peculiar note is named zize by the Arabs of to-day, who, of course, have something to say about it. They assert that sometimes the crocodile, in its usual absent-minded way, forgetting that its little friend is picking his teeth for him, suddenly closes his capacious jaws and takes the zize prisoner. The Arabs say that the bird at once begins to pick the inside of the crocodile's mouth with his spurred pinions, to assist his companion's memory and remind him that he has not quite finished his dental operations.—M. Mydleton Tweey.

Facts About the Eye.

There is no cure for color blindness. The first case of color blindness was reported in 1777.

Color blindness is due to exhaustion of nerve fibers.

Four out of every 100 males and one in every 500 females are color blind.

It is no sign a man is color blind because he can not name every color.

The eye is the last organ to go from fifty to 90,000 small eyes. It is really composed of eyes.

We do not need light to see certain objects. A sharp block on the eyes often causes a man to "see stars."

The cause of color blindness, aside from natural causes, is the use of tobacco and diseases. It is in many cases hereditary.

The writer saw a man who was color blind into 100 colors and divide them into four groups, black, yellow, white and blue.

It is nonsense to believe there is any particular way to rub the eyes. It makes no difference whether you move from or toward the nose or up or down.

The eat, horse and birds have a third eyelid, which is generally used when from too much light. Man has a third eyelid in the corner of the eye, but it is undeveloped.

The defects of the eye are numerous, but we are pretty well satisfied with it. Every one has a blind spot in the eye. This is proved by closing one eye and looking at an object. We can not see it fully.

The use of the eye cups to change the form of the eye in cases of herpes and sight is ridiculous. They draw the eye out of shape and often cause blindness. Thousands of these cups are sold every year.—N. Y. Mail and Express.

A Million Dollars.

Millions of dollars would be saved annually by the trustees of every community, if, instead of calling a physician for every ailment, they were wise enough to get their sons an Golden Seal Bitters, a certain cure for all diseases arising from an impure state of the blood and all diseases of the liver, such as dyspepsia, rheumatism, dyspepsia, or indigestion, female irregularities, diseases of the kidneys and bladder, exposure and imprudence of life. No person can take these bitters according to instructions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair. Golden Seal Bitters numbers on its list of cures more than any other medicine known, and have already accorded a great celebrity, being used generally as a family medicine. Sold by Perry Weed and Dr. G. W. Crouter.

Money Refunded.

The true remedy has at last been discovered. For a long time it has been practiced in Dr. Price's Lung Food for Consumption. It is now called by Dr. Price's Accord Cough Cure. It is the safest, the surest and the best. No other cough, cold, and consumption remedy, is half its equal. We warrant it and will promptly refund the money paid for it if a beneficial effect is not experienced by the time two-thirds of the contents of the bottle is used. Sold by Perry Weed and Dr. G. W. Crouter.

Buckien's Arnica Salve.

The Best Salve in the world for cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Dr. G. W. Crouter.

Only 25 Cents

buys a perfect remedy for sour stomach, diarrhoea, worms, convulsions, feverishness, and loss of sleep. Try it. Dr. Price's Magic Pain Oil. It effectually relieves external and internal pain. Sold by Perry Weed and Dr. G. W. Crouter.

☞ Ladies, wait for F. W. Crane & Co.'s big line of fall and winter cloaks.

A Large Stock of

Furniture!

IN

Oak, Maple, Ash, and Cherry,

JUST RECEIVED BY THE

PINE LAKE IRON COMPANY

IRONTON, MICH.

HENRY C. COOPER

Undertaker!

CHARLEVOIX MICHIGAN.

Coffins, Caskets, and Trimmings Always in Stock.

Come and See my Stock of Furniture.

ALL ORDERS BY TELEPHONE RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION

Charlevoix Manufacturing Company,

MANUFACTURERS OF

Sash, Doors, and Blinds,

Screen Doors and Windows, and Mouldings of all Descriptions.

Newell Posts, Banisters, and Stair Rail, of Soft and Hard Wood, kept in Stock and Made and Put Up to Order.

A GOOD STOCK OF

PINE AND BASSWOOD SIDING,

FLOORING, CEILING, AND FINISHING LUMBER KEPT ON HAND.

Also Contractors, Builders, and General Jobbers.

Summer Cottages a Specialty.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

PERRY WEED,

DRUGGIST AND STATIONER,

OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

John Nicholls,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Manufacturer of and dealer in

HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER!

ALSO

Dressed lumber, Bar Blades,

WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

CHANCERY SALE.—In pursuance and by virtue of an order and decree of the circuit court for the county of Charlevoix, in chancery, in the state of Michigan, made and dated the 17th day of August, A. D. 1886, in a certain cause therein pending, wherein Alfred M. Talley is complainant, and Oliver Perry and Frank Perry are defendants, Notice is hereby given that I shall sell at public auction or vendue, to the highest bidder, at the front door of Lewis' Hall, in the Village of Boyne in said county of Charlevoix, on the 18th day of September, A. D. 1886, at the circuit court in said county, on Wednesday, September 15th, A. D. 1886, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, all or so much thereof as may be necessary to raise the amount of said decree, with interest and costs, principal, interest, and costs, namely, the following described parcel of land, to wit: The northwest quarter (¼) of the northwest quarter (¼) of section twelve (12), in township twenty (20) north, range five (5) west, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan.

Dated July 20, A. D. 1886.

FRANK E. FOGG,
Circuit Court Commissioner,
Charlevoix County, Mich.

Crutchshank & Grier,
Solicitors for Complainant,
Charlevoix, Michigan.

CHARLEVOIX

Savings Bank

Organized under the General Banking Law of Michigan.

Henry Bennett, President.
John Nicholls, Vice President;
F. A. Smith, Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

Henry Bennett, O. D. Wood,
John Nicholls, A. Bustard,
A. R. Upright, A. Fox,
F. A. Smith.

CAPITAL $25,000
Surplus 5,000

The liabilities of Stockholders in all State banks as provided in Art. XIII, Sec. 9 of Revised Statutes of the State of Michigan, is double the amount of stock taken, making a guaranteed fund of $50,000 to depositors. Superior facilities for the transaction of business. Accounts of Banking Houses extended to our customers on terms as favorable as are consistent with safety.

Drafts drawn direct on the leading commercial cities in Europe. Also on sale Steamship tickets to and from Liverpool, Exchange bought and sold. Collections and deposits receive prompt attention. We respectfully solicit your patronage.

CORRESPONDENTS:

NATIONAL PARK BANK ..... NEW YORK.
COMMERCIAL NAT. BANK ..... CHICAGO.
NATIONAL CITY BANK ..... GRAND RAPIDS.
DETROIT NATIONAL BANK ..... DETROIT.

New Grocery!

Cor. Antrim and Grant Streets.

A. J. MUDGE

Would respectfully announce to the people of Charlevoix and vicinity, especially to the residents of the southwestern part of town, and adjoining towns from the south, that he has opened a stock of Groceries in his building on the corner of Antrim and Grant streets, and requests all to give him a trial.

BUTTER AND EGGS WANTED

HOUSE PAINTER,

Calciminer,

Paper Harger,

And Decorator.

PINE AND HARDWOOD FINISHING. GOOD WORK.

At the Old Stand.

A. J. McLeod

Can be found at the old stand with a

FULL STOCK OF MEATS

Of all kinds

At Wholesale and Retail.

HIDES, PELTS & FAT STOCK WANTED

MISS L. SPAULDING.

MILLINERY

and Fancy Goods.

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 166. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 16, 1886. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL

Published every Thursday,
BY CHAS. J. STYRANOS.
Office on Bridge Street,
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX MICH. AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

WATCH YOUR ADDRESS LABEL. The date following the name on your address label indicates the time to which your subscription is paid. If it appears, you are requested to pay up.

BUSINESS CARDS.

ATTORNEYS.

A. HICE & MARTIN, Attorneys at Law, Boyne City. Collections promptly attended to.

CRUTCHSHANK & GRIER, Attorneys at Law and Proctors in Admiralty. Offices in Hotel Rix Block, Charlevoix, Mich.
A. S. CRUTCHSHANK. C. J. GRIER.

DART & CALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents. Lake St., east of postoffice, Petoskey, Mich.

FRED W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor. Real Estate in Antrim Co. for sale. Office in Ellsworth Block, Bellaire, Mich.

MONEY TO LOAN.

J. V. SINCLAIR, Attorney at Law and Judge of Probate of Emmet Co., Petoskey, Mich.

J. HIGGINS, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

O. J. PENNER, Attorney at Law and United States Circuit Court Commissioner, Boyne District, Fort Jordan, Mich.

W. S. MOORE, Attorney and Solicitor, East St. Jordan. Admiralty a Specialty.

L. GARRETT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

CHURCHES.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7:00. All meetings held at Green's hall, over F. W. Crane & Co.'s store. W. O. CLARK, pastor.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:00 o'clock. C. P. VAN ALSTINE, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Sunday school at 12:00 m. Class meeting at close of morning service. Prayer and praise meeting Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. J. T. INGHAM, pastor.

DENTISTRY.

N. J. PERRY, Dentist.
Office at Weed's Drug Store.
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

J. RUPPELL, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Domestic Cases, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

PHYSICIANS.

L. LEWIS M. D., Physician and Surgeon, Office for the Lewis Block, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. PRESTON, M. D., Physician and Homeopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HORACE S. HARRIS, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

G. A. R.—Baxter Post No. 119, meets second and fourth Saturdays in each month. Old Soldiers' hall. J. W. MCCUNE, Adjt.

I. O. O. F.—Round Lake Lodge, No. 295, meets every Wednesday evening, in their hall.

K. O. T. M.—Charlevoix Tent, No. 103, meets second Thursday every month at Odd Fellows' hall.

F. & A. M.—Boyne City Lodge, No. 197, meets Saturday on or before full moon, in Barnard school house.

MASONIC—Charlevoix Lodge No. 365, meets Saturday on or before full moon, in Green's hall.

W. F. STOWE, Cashier. W. A. BROWN, Ass't Cashier.

Bennett & Co.'s Bank of Charlevoix
CAPITAL, $25,000.

Drafts drawn on the principal cities of the world. Collections receive prompt attention. Good interest allowed on time deposits. Money to loan from six months to five years. Tickets to Europe, Liverpool, Glasgow, Queenstown, Bremen, Hamburg, Antwerp, Paris, Havre, Rotterdam, Amsterdam, Copenhagen, Christiania, Stockholm, Malmo, Gottenburg, Reykjavik, Hull, Londonderry, Belfast, Liverpool, Glasgow, Queenstown, Liverpool, Boston, New York, First National Bank, Chicago; Merchants' Manufacturers' National Bank, Detroit; First National Bank, Grand Rapids.

WELL DIGGING.

I am prepared to dig, drive, and repair wells of all kinds, and guarantee satisfaction. Leave orders with Bookman & Hodges.

E. W. BENNETT.
Charlevoix, Mich.

Jos. Beauvais

BOAT-BUILDER

The Best Modeled, Easiest Rowing, and Best Sailing Boats in Northern Michigan. Prices the Least Money. Give me a Trial. I am bound to Please.

Boat Livery

In connection with shop.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

Heath, Francis & Co.

Builders and Jobbers,

Charlevoix, Mich.

Plans, Specifications, and material furnished, and Contracts for Building taken on the building done in order.

FINE FURNITURE

Built to order, and repairs of all kinds made on short notice. First-class work guaranteed.

Will take Lumber or Block wood in part payment for furniture. Shop on Antrim street, west of Village Hall, Charlevoix, Mich.

1872. 1886.

DR. G. W. CROUTER,

Drugs, Stationery and Wall Paper.

Dental Office in Rear of Drug Store.

ADVERTISEMENTS of three lines or less will be inserted in this column for each insertion. (This type will average ten words to a line.) Each additional line, three cents each insertion.

TEN CENTS

A GOOD NURSE wanted immediately. Inquire at this office, or address Lock Box 5, Charlevoix.

JOB PRINTING of every description executed promptly, neatly, artistically, and cheaply, at the JOURNAL Office.

JOHN HOGAN, HOUSE PAINTER AND INTERIOR DECORATOR, Charlevoix. Mich. Residence one door west of factory. 156

LETTER HEADS, Note Heads, Statements, Envelopes, Bills of Lading, Tags, Receipt Books, at the JOURNAL Office.

VIEWS OF CHARLEVOIX on heavy cardboard, size 10 inches, suitable for framing, for sale at this office, 5 cts. each.

WANTED.—A Good, Wide-Awake Agent in each district in Michigan to take charge of our business. Address, with stamp, for particulars, address, Box 1, Charlevoix, Mich.

WANTED.—Men to cut posts and ties. Apply to GEORGE BURNS, livery barn, or JUDSON DIXON, Terrace Farm, Charlevoix.

WOOD WANTED on subscription. "In summer prepare for winter." We will take all that comes.

Terrace Farm

J. R. & J. S. DIXON
Charlevoix, Mich.

Dairy, Vegetable, and Stock Farm. TOBACCO BEEF AND GRASS BUTTERINE a specialty

COMMERCIAL HOUSE

D. B. JERRUE, Proprietor.

East Jordan, Michigan.

Entirely rebuilt and refurnished. First-class Sample Room for agents. Good Stable in Connection with the House.

FARMERS' HOTEL,

WM. RAMSER, MANAGER,
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

Excellent accommodations for sale boarders and for farmers with their families who want a good dinner. Good table for transient boarders. The management of this house will vie therewith my usual work at the mason's trade.
WM. RAMSER.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,

RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix Michigan.

Finest location in town, giving good view of lakes and resorts. Rooms, single or in suites, parlors, bathrooms and Elk Rapids Stages. Sample room for commercial travelers. Moderate rates.

Millinery and Fancy Goods!

A Splendid Line of Ribbons, Ladies' Gloves, Zephyrs, Laces, Ladies' Fine Underwear, and Stamping Goods always on hand at Lowest Prices.

Smith & Cooper,

At the Ingleside.

WM. J. STEVENSON,

HORSE-SHOEING,

Wagon Shop,

BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture my own wagons, of the best material, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

☞ The OSBORN MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale. 43

N. W. AYER & SON

ADVERTISING AGENTS

Nos. 730 & 732 Chestnut Street, PHILADELPHIA

Cor. Chestnut and Eighth Sts.

Receive Advertisements for this Paper.

ESTIMATES for INSERTING ADVERTISEMENTS Sent Free.

Send 10 Cts. for AYER & SON'S MANUAL.

Poster Printing

Quick and Cheap,

At the Journal Office.

Around the County.

Bayside.

Geo. O. Scott has a nephew, from near Rochester, N. Y., assisting at his place.

The new school house in district No. 1 is rapidly nearing completion, and they intend it will be finished in time for their winter term of school.

Old Mr. Saunby is killing five bucks each week, for Petoskey market.

Wm. B. Sayers has been quite sick with lumbago, but is some better now.

Miss Nellie Burnett commences teaching school in the young Chicago district, last Monday, and Miss Cora Chew at the same time in district No. 6.

School commences in district No. 4 the 20th. Teacher not yet engaged. Slight frost last Monday night.

Barnard.

Everything lovely again after the rain; the meadows look as green as in spring-time.

The hum of the threshing machine is again heard.

Crops are reported good, considering the dry summer.

Farmers are busy preparing for fall sowing.

Mr. Adam Clark started for Albion College Wednesday.

Mr. Thomas Thorp cut his wrist quite badly, while under-brushing, one day last week.

PHILIP B. WACHTEL.

Our Next Secretary of State.

Mr. Wachtel is a young man, in the full vigor of young energetic, enthusiastic manhood. He came here when Petoskey was but a small clearing in the almost impenetrable forest that surrounded Little Traverse Bay, but not discouraged, however, by the desolate appearance of the place he decided to cast his lot with the embryo village, and from that time on, no improvements of any importance have been made; no public enterprise undertaken; no educational or religious institution erected without receiving the aid, the influence or endorsement of Philip B. Wachtel.

Ever ready with a liberal hand to contribute to any enterprise tending towards the advancement of Petoskey or the welfare of its citizens; he has gained a place in the estimation of the people, equaled only by very few.

Mr. Wachtel found the people of Emmet county democratic in their political interest democratically; the county had no recognition outside of its own borders; it had no representation in the state conventions; what little political enthusiasm was manifested by the people, was of the republican persuasion, but through the indomitable energy and perseverance of Mr. Wachtel, and a few more energetic democrats, democracy in Emmet county began to awaken from its dormant condition; representatives were sent to the state conventions, who were received with the encouraging expression of "Where the devil did you come from?" So little was known of Emmet county in state politics that a delegate from there was considered an "abnormal" production.

But the politics of Emmet has been revolutionized; from an obscure position she has been brought forward as an important factor in state politics; and from a republican, she has been transformed into a democratic county, and the man who has done more than any other one man, to bring about this change, and lead Emmet county out of the darkness of republicanism, into the light of democracy, and from obscurity to prominence, is Philip B. Wachtel, for whom we solicit your votes. Unblemished in character, unswerving in his political fealty, indefatigable in labor, steadfast as a friend, honorable as an opponent and uncompromising as a foe, Philip B. Wachtel stands before the hearty support of every democrat and greenbacker in the state of Michigan.

At the state convention his friends desired that he should have the nomination for auditor general, but when they learned that Colonel Jas. S. Ferrar brought forward his name for that position, Mr. Wachtel commanded his friends to withdraw his name in favor of the gallant old soldier. That was the second time inside of three months that he had discarded his own interests, and stepped one side to give place to veteran soldiers, who withdrew from the postoffice candidacy in favor of Col. Isaac D. Toll, a veteran of the Mexican war. This willingness on his part, to give way to the soldiers' claims, and place their interests paramount to his own, should command for him the vote of every soldier. Ever ready and willing to sacrifice self-interests and self-aggrandizement for the benefit of his party in general; it was but right and just that the convention should unanimously give him the nomination for secretary of state, unasked for and unsolicited by him. With such a candidate to work for, the young men and the old, the silver grays and raven blacks; the snow whites and youthful blondes, can rally to his standard, feeling justly proud of the man for whom they labor; with such a candidate, northern Michigan can feel proud of the prestige she has gained, with Philip B. Wachtel as secretary of state, Michigan will be honored by the man.

Mr. Philip B. Wachtel, our nominee for secretary of state, is an American German and can speak his mother tongue fluently. His parents emigrated from Germany when both were still young, and settled in the wilds of western Pennsylvania. Fifty years ago that section of Pennsylvania was an impenetrable wilderness and they, in common with other early settlers, endured all the hardships and privations of frontier life. It was under these circumstances that "Phil" first saw the light of day. The convention at Grand Rapids builded, indeed wisely, selecting, not only its strongest timber from advantageous geographical quarters, and recognizing the trades, professions, soldiers, youth and advanced age in the composition of its ticket, but recognized different nationalities, and a true representative of the German people was named when Mr. Wachtel was nominated, which will add strength to the ticket everywhere.—Petoskey Democrat.

NOTES AND NEWS.

The republican platform commends Gov. Alger's administration as a wise one. It is only necessary to recall the attention of the laboring men of Michigan to the actions of that governor in the Saginaw strike. That was the policy of czar-like power and the arrogance of military force that the republican platform calls "wise." It may be "wise," yet it is not popular, and the votes of the Saginaw valley in November will say so.

Eighteen years ago the name of Cyrus G. Luce was presented to a republican convention as a candidate for governor. He was a farmer then in the true sense of the word. The party had no use for them or any other laboring man. Now that he has become a banker the party takes him in, as well in sheep's clothing, to hoodwink by the "farmer racket" the voters of Michigan. Does Luce like the sheep taken on as last resort?—Kalamazoo Gazette.

The republican party's single issue was anti-slavery, it was powered right and just that it be produced claimed from every pulpit in the anti-slavery states. There were no politics in that; but now when a minister of the gospel—prohibition—a subject of vast more importance than ever the slavery question—there are good old church members (republicans) who hold up their hands in holy horror and say "the pulpit should be kept free from politics. It makes a difference whose ox is gored.—Mason Democrat

If protection protects the laboring man, why is it that with an increase in population of 35 per cent since 1861, the increase of unemployed labor is over one thousand per cent? Why is it that colossal fortunes have been built up in a few years by a few manufacturers or dealers in the protected infant articles, while the rewards have grown poorer? How is it that Blaine, the arch protectionist entered congress with a few thousand dollars and came out with five millions? Protection taxes the great body of consumers for the benefit of the few monopolistic manufacturers.

President Cleveland's policy with reference to office-holders and their non-interference with conventions and elections is not a new one in the administration of the government. Daniel Webster, while secretary of state, issued instructions declaring that "persons employed under the government and paid for their services out of the public treasury, are not expected to take an active or officious part in attempts to influence the minds or votes of others." Yet to-day Daniel is regarded as a great statesman and has recently had another monument erected to his memory.

Six years of hard work on the farm followed Geo. L. Yaple's college days. Thus equipped with a practical knowledge of the great pursuit, he has spent succeeding years in economic and classical reading the result of which is apparent in the choice quotations which are ever ready to drop from his tongue. Michigan's republican governors with but few exceptions have been men only of money. The next governor will be a young man of energy and activity, the champion of labor and freedom, when to champion such causes was political death, and above all a practical student and scholar in the elements of government. Such a man will honor the executive chair as it has not been before honored of late.—Gazette.

In the forty-eighth congress the democracy compelled the forfeiture of 3,510,000 acres granted to the Oregon Central railroad; 200,000 acres granted to the Iron Mountain railroad, of Missouri, and 18,500,000 acres granted to the Texas Pacific. This grand total of 19,610,880 acres was increased by an addition in the forty-ninth congress of 30,971,300 acres, forfeited from the grants of the following roads: Atlantic & Pacific, 29,871,360; Tuscaloosa & Mobile, Mobile & New Orleans, Memphis & Charleston, Elyton & Board's Bluff, Savannah & Albany, New Orleans & State Line and Iron Mountain, of Arkansas, 7,000,000. This is a pretty good record of completed work for one congress and one session of another. In addition the democratic house has passed bills forfeiting 1,523,200 acres and there are bills on the calendar forfeiting 12,067,214 acres more.—Grand Rapids Democrat.

Purely Personal.

C. E. See is down with inflammation of the lungs.

F. W. Crane arrived home from Cadillac last Saturday morning.

Mr. Gard Brown and wife arrived home last Saturday morning.

Mrs. Chas. Kelly has gone to Ionia county to join her husband.

Mrs. D. A. Grier returned to her home in Charlotte last Thursday.

E. A. Foote, of Charlotte, was the guest of C. J. Grier on Tuesday.

Rev. J. T. Ingham started for the M. E. annual conference on Tuesday.

H. H. Vannorman, of Norwood, is quite sick, with recovery doubtful.

W. S. Johnson, of Sutton's Bay, made the JOURNAL a call yesterday.

Hampton Rich, of Ionia, is the guest of his daughter, Mrs. J. L. Hurd.

Miss Grace Lilsey, of Sutton's Bay, is a guest of Mrs. M. Lilsey this week.

Mr. Wm. Piper, of Merrillette, was a guest of C. J. Grier and wife over Sunday.

O. C. Ainsworth and family returned to their home in Sandwich, Ills., yesterday.

Mrs. J. Lilsey, of Sutton's Bay, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. M. Lilsey, this week.

John S. Dixon arrived home Monday morning from his visit in Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Rev. Adam Clark started yesterday for Albion where he will take a year's course in theology.

Robert Withers has recovered from his injuries at Boyne Falls, sufficiently to be brought home.

H. H. Chapman, of Boyne, was among our callers on Monday—the first time he has been down in over a year.

W. Watson, of Boyne, made us a call last Friday on his way home from officiating at the funeral of H. T. Nichols, of Town Lake.

R. A. Stone, of Kalamazoo, was in Charlevoix over Sunday, and Mrs. Stone and family returned to Kalamazoo with him this week.

The marriage of Miss Cora Wenham, of Grand Rapids to Dr. S. C. Graves, formerly of Charlevoix, is announced to occur October 27.

Miss Flora Nelson returned home from Wisconsin on the Lawrence Monday night, and resumed her duties in the Charlevoix school.

Mrs. W. H. VanAsken and two children, of Petoskey, and Mrs. T. A. Chapman, of Wind Windsor, (the latter a sister of Mrs. W. VanAsken) are attending Mrs. C. F. VanAsken during her illness.

Mrs. Adams, of Ironton is at present entertaining a distinguished guest, Madam Ludlow Chapman, of New York City. She is at present at the height of the profession in this country as a teacher of vocal culture. Madam has been on an extended tour through California and Yellowstone National Park. We hope she will gain much strength here for her winter's work.

Shipments.

Sept. 9—Schr. Charlotte Rush, 228 cords bark, W. L. French, to Kenosha.

11—Schr. Isaac Simmons, 4,000 ties, 40 cords wood, W. H. Downer, to Chicago.

11—Schr. Lapetite, 180 cords wood, F. Tharp, to Milwaukee.

11—Schr. Pinelwing, 20 cords wood, 32 cords bark, J. H. Wilson, to Milwaukee.

13—Schr. John L. Green, 70 cords wood, N. P. Peterson, to Milwaukee.

13—Schr. Augusta Ford, 175,000 feet hardwood lumber, Dwight & Co. to Detroit.

14—Scho. Black Hawk, 140 cords wood, R. H. Ferarro, to Milwaukee.

14—Schr. Cuba, 80,000 hoops, Wilson Hoop Co. to Manistee.

14—Schr. Sardinia, 120,000 feet elm lumber, Pine Lake Lumber Co. to Shebeyan.

15—Schr. Evening Star, 175,000 feet hardwood lumber, Gates & Porter, to Chicago.

15—Schr. Sea Gem, 60 cords wood, O. J. Smith to Milwaukee.

15—Schr. Lottie Mason, 50 cords slabs, I. H. Morehouse, to Milwaukee.

The following is a summary of the shipments from the port of Charlevoix for the week ending Wednesday evening, and for ten corresponding weeks of 1885:

	1885.	1886.
Hardwood lumber, feet	200,000	400,000
Shingles		300,000
Hardwood ties		1,000
Wood, cords	225	412
Bark, cords	640	354
Pig iron, tons	160
Fish, barrels		56

Good Results in Every Case.

W. A. Bradford, wholesale paper dealer of Chattanooga, Tenn., writes that he was serious ly afflicted with a severe cold that settled on his lungs; had tried many remedies without benefit. Being induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, did so and was entirely cured by use of a few bottles. Since which time he has used it in his family for all coughs and colds with best results. This is the experience of thousands whose lives have been saved by this wonderful discovery. Trial bottles free at Dr. G. W. Crouter's drug store.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

EASTERN.

Seven men were burned to death in a shanty near Scranton, Pa. They were Hungarians, and railroad employes.

The President's party returned to Saranac Inn, N. Y., after an absence of four days spent in the Dupper lake region. Mr. Cleveland killed a buck.

Ex-President Arthur's health continues to improve.

A kerosene explosion in the Erie yard at Jersey City caused the destruction of five Pullman coaches, the Northern freight shops, and a large amount of miscellaneous freight.

The Boston alcoy Mayflower beat the English cutter Galatea by twelve minutes in the first race of the contest for the America's cup, off Sandy Hook. The distance was thirty-eight miles. At the start there were fifty thousand spectators, and the yachts were followed by a dozen large excursion steamers.

WESTERN.

A fire at Zilwaukee, Michigan, destroyed a tract of twenty acres covered with ice sills and lumber belonging to Bliss & Brothers. The loss is estimated at nearly $200,000.

A ranchman who arrived at Tombstone reported that Geronimo had been captured, with forty bucks, squaws, and papooses, and that he was to Fort Bowie.

The eastern end of the Northern Pacific Railroad tunnel, under construction through the Cascade Mountains, in Oregon, caved in, and nine white laborers were buried under the chaos and earth.

The Indian chief Geronimo and other Indian captives arrived at Fort Bowie, A. T., in charge of Gen. Miles' command. There is great rejoicing in Arizona and New Mexico, and in old Mexico as well, at being relieved from the treachery of the Apaches. At Denver a mass meeting of 6,000 people passed resolutions congratulating Gen. Miles upon the successful issue of his campaign. The Territorial Democratic Convention adopted similar resolutions.

Henry J. Christoph, a wealthy Chicago banker, and a son-in-law of Conrad Seipp, the great brewer, drew out his brains in the presence of his young wife. He leaves an estate of over $1,000,000.

In a house on Twenty-sixth street, Chicago, Alonzo Speight and wife, who had been married but two days, were suffocated by gas from a stove. The fact was not known to the neighbors for twenty-four hours.

The Pinte Indians, of Nevada, having lately obtained liquor, are conducting themselves in such manner as to excite great alarm among the whites.

SOUTHERN.

It is known that thirty-seven persons lost their lives by the earthquake at Charleston, and as many more are reported seriously injured. The Acting Secretary of War has ordered tents sent by a revenue cutter to the distressed city. A subscription list in Baltimore was headed with $500 by the American. The New York Petroleum Exchange contributed an equal amount in a few minutes. The Western Union Telegraph Company offers to forward messages of money free of charge. The earthquake at Summerville, S. C., caused fissures in the earth, from which a foul of sulphurous smell exudes. Not a half dozen houses in the place are habitable, and the terror-stricken people are leaving for other points. At a joint meeting of the Charleston Exchange and Merchants' Exchange, the following was unanimously adopted:

To all Exchanges and Commercial Bodies:

Our warehouses, anchorages, wharves, railroads, rice-mills, and everything else necessary to our business, have been destroyed or are in worse order. We ask no further distress, grave danger, and suffering, but will not interfere with the dispatch of business.

A joint meeting also adopted resolutions to apply to the President and Congress for a liberal loan to aid the citizens of Charleston in rebuilding the city. The City Council at a meeting adopted the following:

Resolved, That we express to the numerous offers of assistance from all parts from our sister cities and from citizens of this and other States, the Mayor is authorized to state that great distress exists among our citizens in consequence of the earthquake and that we gratefully accept the aid this tendered us.

The several Catholic churches have been seriously injured. The Catholic schools have all sustained such damage as will not permit of studies being resumed. The injury to the county jail is said to be quite irreparable. Thirty-six prisoners escaped, six of whom have returned. "The most urgent need now," says a Charleston dispatch, "is for the early repair of the injured buildings, so as to make them habitable. High winds and heavy rain would bring many shattered buildings to the ground and injure the hundreds of residences which have defective roofs. The situation is still deplorable. Badly improvised tents, constructed principally of bed-clothing, are to be seen everywhere. Few persons have as yet slept indoors, and the houses are deserted as if plague-stricken. Thousands have slept with nothing but the canopy of heaven over them. After the panic and public nuisance were filled last night the inhabitants assembled overcoats, blankets, rugs, from fences over the sidewalks, and then passed the night. Many enjoyed repose under open umbrellas, the handles of which were stuck in the ground. The more aristocratic people camped in their own yards." The Queen of England sent a dispatch to President Cleveland expressing sympathy with the sufferers by the earthquake.

Charleston had another earthquake shock on the evening of the 4th inst., though less severe than that of the preceding night. Its direction was southeast to northwest, and it was accompanied by a roar of wind which seemed to recede after the shock had passed. Of course it intensified the feeling of terror among the people. "The day had passed in comparative quiet," says a Charleston dispatch, "and people were had homes to go to had to a great part returned to them, while others had determined to do likewise, when the fearful subterranean thunder and the dread shaking of the earth which within the last four days has so often startled the inhabitants again raised their fears and drove them back dejected to their open places of refuge. Upon the express the effect of this shock was simply appalling. The shrieks and yells, their lamentations and wailings, the shrill voices of the women, mingling with the peculiar guttural notes of the men, constituted a chorus infernally hideous. It seemed as if all the romance of an insane asylum had been let loose. Gradually the nervousness became less vigorous, and then were heard the wailing monotones in which the Southern negro expends joyous and supplicatory. Thus the night wore on, and blessed indeed was the dawn, which revealed new hopes to fatigued hearts. Showers of rain fell in the lower part of the city. They appeared to fall in a slanting direction from south to north. There were miracles of flint among them, and all were painfully alarmed and worn by the action of the water. Some few had sharp fractures, and had evidently been recently broken. The city experienced still another shock on the night of Sunday, the 5th. It was not very severe, lasting just two seconds, yet it caused the utmost alarm in the citizens. They were hoping the worst was over, and the various shocks had dashed their hopes. At Macon and Savannah the shocks were quite severe, and caused much alarm. At Savannah, as in Charleston, hundreds of people spend the nights in the open air, being afraid to go to sleep in their houses. Material aid for the sufferers continues to pour in. Thirty-six prisoners escaped, six of whom have returned. "The most urgent need now," says a Charleston dispatch, "is for the early repair of the injured buildings, so as to make them habitable. High winds and heavy rain would bring many shattered buildings to the ground and injure the hundreds of residences which have defective roofs. The situation is still deplorable. Badly improvised tents, constructed principally of bed-clothing, are to be seen everywhere. Few persons have as yet slept indoors, and the houses are deserted as if plague-stricken. Thousands have slept with nothing but the canopy of heaven over them. After the panic and public nuisance were filled last night the inhabitants assembled overcoats, blankets, rugs, from fences over the sidewalks, and then passed the night. Many enjoyed repose under open umbrellas, the handles of which were stuck in the ground. The more aristocratic people camped in their own yards." The Queen of England sent a dispatch to President Cleveland expressing sympathy with the sufferers by the earthquake.

Charleston had another earthquake shock on the evening of the 4th inst., though less severe than that of the preceding night. Its direction was southeast to northwest, and it was accompanied by a roar of wind which seemed to recede after the shock had passed. Of course it intensified the feeling of terror among the people. "The day had passed in comparative quiet," says a Charleston dispatch, "and people were had homes to go to had to a great part returned to them, while others had determined to do likewise, when the fearful subterranean thunder and the dread shaking of the earth which within the last four days has so often startled the inhabitants again raised their fears and drove them back dejected to their open places of refuge. Upon the express the effect of this shock was simply appalling. The shrieks and yells, their lamentations and wailings, the shrill voices of the women, mingling with the peculiar guttural notes of the men, constituted a chorus infernally hideous. It seemed as if all the romance of an insane asylum had been let loose. Gradually the nervousness became less vigorous, and then were heard the wailing monotones in which the Southern negro expends joyous and supplicatory. Thus the night wore on, and blessed indeed was the dawn, which revealed new hopes to fatigued hearts. Showers of rain fell in the lower part of the city. They appeared to fall in a slanting direction from south to north. There were miracles of flint among them, and all were painfully alarmed and worn by the action of the water. Some few had sharp fractures, and had evidently been recently broken. The city experienced still another shock on the night of Sunday, the 5th. It was not very severe, lasting just two seconds, yet it caused the utmost alarm in the citizens. They were hoping the worst was over, and the various shocks had dashed their hopes. At Macon and Savannah the shocks were quite severe, and caused much alarm. At Savannah as in Charleston, hundreds of people spend the nights in the open air, being afraid to go to sleep in their houses. Material aid for the sufferers continues to pour in. Thirty-six prisoners escaped, six of whom have returned. "The most urgent need now," says a Charleston dispatch, "is for the early repair of the injured buildings, so as to make them habitable. High winds and heavy rain would bring many shattered buildings to the ground and injure the hundreds of residences which have defective roofs. The situation is still deplorable. Badly improvised tents, constructed principally of bed-clothing, are to be seen everywhere. Few persons have as yet slept indoors, and the houses are deserted as if plague-stricken. Thousands have slept with nothing but the canopy of heaven over them. After the panic and public nuisance were filled last night the inhabitants assembled overcoats, blankets, rugs, from fences over the sidewalks, and then passed the night. Many enjoyed repose under open umbrellas, the handles of which were stuck in the ground. The more aristocratic people camped in their own yards." The Queen of England sent a dispatch to President Cleveland expressing sympathy with the sufferers by the earthquake.

Henry J. Christoph, a wealthy Chi-

NOT EXAGGERATED.

Previous Reports of the Damage at Charleston Are Fully Confirmed.

The Force of the Great Upheaval Apparent Upon Every Side.

A Description of Some of the Scenes Witnessed in the Stricken City.

Fissures in the Earth's Surface Vomit Forth Mud and Other Substances.

People Driven from Their Homes to Vacant Lots—Millions of Dollars Lost.

Extraordinary Phenomena Produced by the Earthquake at Sea.

Effect of the Unusual Disturbance Upon the Colored Populace of Charleston.

Origin of the Great Shake—Previous Subterranean Disturbances in the United States.

TAKING ACCOUNT.

A Glance at the Ruin Wrought by the Great Upheaval.

The people are gradually taking account of the details of the injury worked by the earthquake and the list of damage to property is starting, says a Charleston dispatch. A limited section in the south of the city is a sample of the whole. Standing at the Postoffice and looking west on almost impassable roadway of debris meets the eye. The building of the Chamber of Commerce is badly damaged, a portion of the south east wall having been thrown down by the violence of the shock, and the bulkiness of Washington hall appears cracked from top to bottom. The Postoffice building seems to be the least injured of any of the public buildings, the damage being confined to a little shake, and in general the mind resumes that Uncle Sam's money is safe. Passing on to the Hospitals pile along the river. The water in front of the hospital is still very muddy, and has evidently forced its way through the nonexistence evil of intemperance with the honest and earnest intent of overthrowing it by ownership of public conflicting, the hospitals conducted for their patronage and support. Both of the great political varties are combined for their patronage and support of the liquor question. The resolutions also recommend that the act of selling or dealing in liquors should be punished by disfranchisement.

Returns from Vermont show the election of sixteen Democrats to the Legislature. Ninety of the Republican members chosen favor the re-election of Senator Edmunds.

The Texas Prohibition State Con

LATER NEWS ITEMS.

United States Senator Platt presided over the Connecticut Republican State Convention, at Hartford. Phineas C. Lowther was nominated for Governor, and Thomas Gold Cummings for Lieutenant-Governor. The two hundred bods and mattresses were gone.

—The hotel and opera house recently burnt down at Hillsboro are being rebuilt.

—Frank Washington, formerly of Romeo, committed suicide at Oberlin, Ohio, last week.

—Alpena this year paves part of Dock, Water, River, Third, and Chisholm streets with wailings, the shrill voices of the women, mingling with the peculiar guttural notes of the men, constituted a chorus infernally hideous. It seemed as if all the romance of an insane asylum had been let loose. Gradually the nervousness became less vigorous, and then were heard the wailing monotones in which the Southern negro expends joyous and supplicatory. Thus the night wore on, and blessed indeed was the dawn, which revealed new hopes to fatigued hearts. Showers of rain fell in the lower part of the city. They appeared to fall in a slanting direction from south to north. There were miracles of flint among them, and all were painfully alarmed and worn by the action of the water. Some few had sharp fractures, and had evidently been recently broken. The city experienced still another shock on the night of Sunday, the 5th. It was not very severe, lasting just two seconds, yet it caused the utmost alarm in the citizens. They were hoping the worst was over, and the various shocks had dashed their hopes. At Macon and Savannah the shocks were quite severe, and caused much alarm. At Savannah as in Charleston, hundreds of people spend the nights in the open air, being afraid to go to sleep in their houses. Material aid for the sufferers continues to pour in. Thirty-six prisoners escaped, six of whom have returned. "The most urgent need now," says a Charleston dispatch, "is for the early repair of the injured buildings, so as to make them habitable. High winds and heavy rain would bring many shattered buildings to the ground and injure the hundreds of residences which have defective roofs. The situation is still deplorable. Badly improvised tents, constructed principally of bed-clothing, are to be seen everywhere. Few persons have as yet slept indoors, and the houses are deserted as if plague-stricken. Thousands have slept with nothing but the canopy of heaven over them. After the panic and public nuisance were filled last night the inhabitants assembled overcoats, blankets, rugs, from fences over the sidewalks, and then passed the night. Many enjoyed repose under open umbrellas, the handles of which were stuck in the ground. The more aristocratic people camped in their own yards." The Queen of England sent a dispatch to President Cleveland expressing sympathy with the sufferers by the earthquake.

Charleston had another earthquake shock on the evening of the 4th inst., though

---

MICHIGAN AFFAIRS.

—A shooting association has been formed by the young men of Bronson.

—The Jackson Gas Light Company has hundred bods and mattresses were gone.

—The hotel and opera house recently burnt down at Hillsboro are being rebuilt.

—Frank Washington, formerly of Romeo, committed suicide at Oberlin, Ohio, last week.

—Alpena this year paves part of Dock, Water, River, Third, and Chisholm streets

MISCELLANEOUS.

Business failures for the week numbered 173, against 185 the previous week.

The visible supply of wheat and corn for the week ending Saturday, Nov. 10, is as follows: Wheat, 42,000,000 bushels. Corn, 4,000,000 bushels. Corn has gained 1,000,000 bushels and corn increased 1,425,000 bushels.

It is editorial review of the political and commercial outlook, the Chicago Inter Ocean says:

There has been no disturbance in the prosperity of the country. The year has been in fact in all directions the most steadily more favorable each succeeding week of the summer. Disappointments have been more than made compensated by bounties of the season, and very generally distributed because the people have been in a state of mind to see the good side of it, for which they worked and contributed. Values have but rarely shown any decided tendencies to downward movement, and the price stocks have been reduced, the healthy tone of the money market, and the absence of any material or extraordinary reduction of the realized disappointing of future business, and the generally wholesome general situation of affairs, have kept the country in a state of mind to see the good side of it, for which they worked and contributed. Values have but rarely shown any decided tendencies to downward movement, and the price stocks have been reduced, the healthy tone of the money market, and the absence of any material or extraordinary reduction of the realized disappointing of future business, and the generally wholesome general situation of affairs, have kept the country in a state of mind

The Social Science Association, at its session at Saratoga, elected Purvel H. Wright, of Boston, President. Among the directors chosen are Horace White, Dorman B. Eaton, Richard T. Ely, Wayland Hyde, and George W. Cable.

Cyrus W. Field, who has just made a trip over the Canadian Pacific Road, pronounces the route more pleasant than the Northern Pacific, and declares the valley of the Red River of the North the finest agricultural country in the world.

FOREIGN.

The English Admiralty Office has issued orders to the commanders of all its war vessels along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts to report one at Halifax, to assist Canadian cruisers in protecting the fisheries.

The British Government has decided to erect barracks in the Canadian cities of Halifax and permanently increase the police force by five hundred men.

Germany has abandoned her right to establish a naval station in the Caroline Islands.

An estate near Lake Geneva has been purchased by James Gordon Bennett, who intends to build a villa on it.

Damage to the amount of $1,000,000 was caused by a fire in Paris and its environs by a hail-storm. The Bois de Vincennes suffered a forest pillaged by cannon-balls.

Acting under the new Socialistic Laws, the police of Berlin have suppressed five associations of workingmen.

General Bulier reports less lawlessness in the counties of Cork and Kerry than for several years. The feeling of demoralization among the peasantry is widespread.

Prince Alexander signed the deed of abdication and departed for Bulgaria on the 8th of September. A compact mass of people witnessed Alexander's departure from the palace, and thousands lined the route taken by him through the town. The Prince spoke up to his carriage, bowing to the people and saying: "Good-by, my brethren." The populace were much affected. Tears sprang to many eyes, and hearty wishes were expressed for the Prince's speedy return. Turkey formally declared that she will never consent to Russian occupation of Bulgaria, or Eastern Roumelia. Diplomatic circles in Europe think that Prince Alexander will be received by the Bulgarian National Assembly.

MICHIGAN AFFAIRS.

—A shooting association has been formed by the young men of Bronson.

—The Jackson Gas Light Company has

MISCELLANEOUS.

Business failures for the week numbered 173, against 185 the previous week.

The visible supply of wheat and corn for the week ending Saturday, Nov. 10, is as follows: Wheat, 42,000,000 bushels. Corn, 4,000,000 bushels. Corn has gained 1,000,000 bushels and corn increased 1,425,000 bushels.

Its editorial review of the political and commercial outlook, the Chicago Inter Ocean says:

There has been no disturbance in the prosperity of the country. The year has been in fact in all directions the most steadily more favorable each succeeding week of the summer. Disappointments have been more than made compensated by bounties of the season, and very generally distributed because the people have been in a state of mind to see the good side of it, for which they worked and contributed. Values have but rarely shown any decided tendencies to downward movement, and the price stocks have been reduced, the healthy tone of the money market, and the absence of any material or extraordinary reduction of the realized disappointing of future business, and the generally wholesome general situation of affairs, have kept the country in a state of mind

The Social Science Association, at its session at Saratoga, elected Purvel H. Wright, of Boston, President. Among the directors chosen are Horace White, Dorman B. Eaton, Richard T. Ely, Wayland Hyde, and George W. Cable.

Cyrus W. Field, who has just made a trip over the Canadian Pacific Road, pronounces the route more pleasant than the Northern Pacific, and declares the valley of the Red River of the North the finest agricultural country in the world.

THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK.

BEEVES	$4.60	@ 5.75
HOGS	4.75	@ 5.30
WHEAT—No. 2 White	.98	@ .99
CORN—No. 2	.52	@ .53
OATS—No. 2	.34	@ .35
PORK—New Mess	12.25	@12.75
CHICAGO.
BEEVES—Choice to Prime Steers	5.00	@ 5.50
Common to Good Steers	3.60	@ 4.75
Stockers	2.00	@ 3.25
HOGS—Shipping Grades	4.80	@ 5.05
FLOUR—Extra Spring	4.25	@ 4.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.77	@ .77½
No. 3 Red	.72	@ .73
No. 2 Spring	.76	@ .77
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	.28	@ .30
Choice Dairy	.22	@ .24
CHEESE—Full Cream, Cheddar	.09½	@ .10
EGGS—Fresh, per doz	.22	@ .23
POTATOES—Early Rose, per bu	.55	@ .14
PORK—Mess	10.00	@10.50
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—Cash	.76	@ .77
CORN—No. 3	.40	@ .41
OATS—No. 2	.33	@ .34
RYE—No. 1	.56	@ .57
PORK—Mess	10.00	@10.25
TOLEDO.
WHEAT—No. 2	.92	@ .92½
CORN—No. 2	.45	@ .45½
OATS—No. 2	.34	@ .34½
DETROIT.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	4.00	@ 4.00
HOGS	5.00	@ 5.00
CORN—No. 2	.45	@ .45½
OATS—No. 2 White	.35	@ .35½
ST. LOUIS.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.77	@ .77½
CORN—Mixed	.37	@ .37½
OATS—Mixed	.27	@ .28
PORK—New Mess	10.50	@11.00
CINCINNATI.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.77	@ .78
CORN—No. 2	.42	@ .43
OATS—No. 2	.34	@ .35
RYE—No. 2	.56	@ .57
PORK—Clear	8.25	@ 8.00
BUFFALO.
WHEAT—No. 1 Hard	.86	@ .87
CORN—No. 2	.46	@ .47
OATS—No. 2	.38	@ .39
BEEF CATTLE	4.00	@ 5.00
HOGS	4.75	@ 5.00
SHEEP	4.00	@ 5.00
INDIANAPOLIS.
BEEF CATTLE	3.00	@ 5.00
HOGS	4.75	@ 5.00
SHEEP	3.00	@ 4.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.76	@ .76½
CORN—No. 2	.36	@ .36½
OATS—No. 2	.30	@ .30½
EAST LIBERTY.
CATTLE—First	4.75	@ 5.00
Common	4.25	@ 5.00
HOGS—Choice Yorkers	5.00	@ 5.05
Common	4.50	@ 5.00
SHEEP—Choice	4.25	@ 4.50

NOT EXAGGERATED.

Previous Reports of the Damage at Charleston Are Fully Confirmed.

The Force of the Great Upheaval Apparent Upon Every Side.

A Description of Some of the Scenes Witnessed in the Stricken City.

Fissures in the Earth's Surface Vomit Forth Mud and Other Substances.

People Driven from Their Homes to Vacant Lots—Millions of Dollars Lost.

Extraordinary Phenomena Produced by the Earthquake at Sea.

Effect of the Unusual Disturbance Upon the Colored Populace of Charleston.

Origin of the Great Shake—Previous Subterranean Disturbances in the United States.

TAKING ACCOUNT.

A Glance at the Ruin Wrought by the Great Upheaval.

The people are gradually taking account of the details of the injury worked by the earthquake and the list of damage to property is starting, says a Charleston dispatch. A limited section in the south of the city is a sample of the whole. Standing at the Postoffice and looking west on almost impassable roadway of debris meets the eye. The building of the Chamber of Commerce is badly damaged, a portion of the south east wall having been thrown down by the violence of the shock, and the bulkiness of Washington hall appears cracked from top to bottom. The Postoffice building seems to be the least injured of any of the public buildings, the damage being confined to a little shake, and in general the mind resumes that Uncle Sam's money is safe. Passing on to the Hospitals pile along the river. The water in front of the hospital is still very muddy, and has evidently forced its way through the nonexistence evil of intemperance with the honest and earnest intent of overthrowing it by ownership of public conflicting, the hospitals conducted for their patronage and support. Both of the great political varties are combined for their patronage and support of the liquor question. The resolutions also recommend that the act of selling or dealing in liquors should be punished by disfranchisement.

Returns from Vermont show the election of sixteen Democrats to the Legislature. Ninety of the Republican members chosen favor the re-election of Senator Edmunds.

The Texas Prohibition State Con

NOT EXAGGERATED.

Previous Reports of the Damage at Charleston Are Fully Confirmed.

The Force of the Great Upheaval Apparent Upon Every Side.

A Description of Some of the Scenes Witnessed in the Stricken City.

Fissures in the Earth's Surface Vomit Forth Mud and Other Substances.

People Driven from Their Homes to Vacant Lots—Millions of Dollars Lost.

Extraordinary Phenomena Produced by the Earthquake at Sea.

Effect of the Unusual Disturbance Upon the Colored Populace of Charleston.

Origin of the Great Shake—Previous Subterranean Disturbances in the United States.

TAKING ACCOUNT.

A Glance at the Ruin Wrought by the Great Upheaval.

The people are gradually taking account of the details of the injury worked by the earthquake and the list of damage to property is starting, says a Charleston dispatch. A limited section in the south of the city is a sample of the whole. Standing at the Postoffice and looking west on almost impassable roadway of debris meets the eye. The building of the Chamber of Commerce is badly damaged, a portion of the south east wall having been thrown down by the violence of the shock, and the bulkiness of Washington hall appears cracked from top to bottom. The Postoffice building seems to be the least injured of any of the public buildings, the damage being confined to a little shake, and in general the mind resumes that Uncle Sam's money is safe. Passing on to the Hospitals pile along the river. The water in front of the hospital is still very muddy, and has evidently forced its way through the nonexistence evil of intemperance with the honest and earnest intent of overthrowing it by ownership of public conflicting, the hospitals conducted for their patronage and support. Both of the great political varties are combined for their patronage and support of the liquor question. The resolutions also recommend that the act of selling or dealing in liquors should be punished by disfranchisement.

Returns from Vermont show the election of sixteen Democrats to the Legislature. Ninety of the Republican members chosen favor the re-election of Senator Edmunds.

The Texas Prohibition State Con

---

tops of the highest elevations the mud could be seen. This latter fact indicated that the force of the earthquake had rather more than the depth that was at first thought to be the limit of the force.

The horror of the situation is augmented by the fact that the people during the Wednesday was more intensified by certain indications that were not observed in Charleston to any great extent. All during the day there was a peculiar feeling in the atmosphere, such, now and then, as people have felt during the intervals of about ten minutes, and was like the sounds of a boombardment at a great distance. The sounds were not so much distinguished by tremors of the earth, as it was only occasionally that the earth was felt to have subterranean tremors. A remarkable fact was noted in Summerville in respect to the fulling of the water in the interior of the wells. Nearly all of the wells had been at low water, and the application of the tremory surprise to the reduction of the national debt.

The Arizona Democratic Convention, at Tucson, nominated Marcus A. Smith, of Tombstone, for Delegate to Congress, and ex-Mayor Charles H. Strauss, of Tucson, for Superintendent of Public Instruction. It adopted a platform demanding the unlimited coinage of silver and the issuance of silver certificates, and was very eulogistic of President Cleveland and Secretary Lamar, as well as Gen. Zulic and Gen. Nelson A. Miles.

Congressional nominations: John M. Potter, Democrat, Sixth Michigan District; L. H. Ripley, Democrat, Sixth Michigan; Jewett H. Martin, Democrat, Eighth Michigan; David A. Rose, Prohibitionist, Fourth Michigan; Jas. T. Allison, Republican, Fourth Michigan; Thomas G. Morris, Democrat, Fourteenth Ohio; C. M. Bradshaw, Republican, Washington Territory; A. Logan Chipman, Democrat, First Michigan; William Shepherd, Republican, Thirteenth Ohio; John R. Neal, Democrat, Third Tennessee; Benj. G. Rose, Democrat, First Tennessee; P. T. Ochs, Democrat, Ninth Tennessee.

A dispatch from New Haven, Ct., states that as Colonel Hocking and Mr. Silas Ford were crossing the Connecticut in a small row-boat they struck something in the water. The next moment the boat was thrown several feet into the air and the two men were sent sprawling to the bottom of the boat. They heard a great noise in the water, and as soon as possible picked themselves up and looked around. For most of the trip saw an unmistakable marine reptile fully one hundred feet long, with its head at least ten feet out of the water. It was darting the water into a frothy white twenty feet of the boat. The men, although terribly frightened, recovered their oars and pulled desperately for the shore, shouting for help. By this time the monster had disappeared, but recently its head was seen emerging from the water until it was about twenty feet from the boat, and visible to all. It was passing rapidly up the river, and actually disappeared round the bend of a bluff.

Mayor Courtenay of Charleston says the expense of $100,000 is immediately required for that stricken city. The Lord Mayor of London has appealed to the British public for the Charleston people. New York has contributed $25,738. Boston has raised about $20,000. The proceeds in cash by Colonel J. A. Watson, of Milwaukee, for the treasurer of the Grand Army of the Republic be transmitted to forward $5,000 from its overflowing treasury.

Opponents of Benedict, the new Postmaster at New York, have renewed by the Senate.

William Sims & Co., New York lace importers, have failed for $100,000.

A great rush of Americans returning to Europe is reported from New York.

Professor Wiggins, of Ottawa, Ont., claims to have predicted the present earthquake disturbances in March, and declares that greater shocks will be felt before the end of November in the South California and South America.

The price of bar silver in London has advanced to 50 pence per ounce.

Twenty British soldiers, who participated in the recent riotous near Bry, Ire., have declared that they will perform no more duty of that sort. They have been placed in

---

MISCELLANEOUS.

Business failures for the week numbered 173, against 185 the previous week.

The visible supply of wheat and corn for the week ending Saturday, Nov. 10, is as follows: Wheat, 42,000,000 bushels. Corn, 4,000,000 bushels. Corn has gained 1,000,000 bushels and corn increased 1,425,000 bushels.

Its editorial review of the political and commercial outlook, the Chicago Inter Ocean says:

There has been no disturbance in the prosperity of the country. The year has been in fact in all directions the most steadily more favorable each succeeding week of the summer. Disappointments have been more than made compensated by bounties of the season, and very generally distributed because the people have been in a state of mind to see the good side of it, for which they worked and contributed. Values have but rarely shown any decided tendencies to downward movement, and the price stocks have been reduced, the healthy tone of the money market, and the absence of any material or extraordinary reduction of the realized disappointing of future business, and the generally wholesome general situation of affairs, have kept the country in a state of mind

The Social Science Association, at its session at Saratoga, elected Purvel H. Wright, of Boston, President. Among the directors chosen are Horace White, Dorman B. Eaton, Richard T. Ely, Wayland Hyde, and George W. Cable.

Cyrus W. Field, who has just made a trip over the Canadian Pacific Road, pronounces the route more pleasant than the Northern Pacific, and declares the valley of the Red River of the North the finest agricultural country in the world.

FOREIGN.

The English Admiralty Office has issued orders to the commanders of all its war vessels along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts to report one at Halifax, to assist Canadian cruisers in protecting the fisheries.

The British Government has decided to erect barracks in the Canadian cities of Halifax and permanently increase the police force by five hundred men.

Germany has abandoned her right to establish a naval station in the Caroline Islands.

An estate near Lake Geneva has been purchased by James Gordon Bennett, who intends to build a villa on it.

Damage to the amount of $1,000,000 was caused by a fire in Paris and its environs by a hail-storm. The Bois de Vincennes suffered a forest pillaged by cannon-balls.

Acting under the new Socialistic Laws, the police of Berlin have suppressed five associations of workingmen.

General Bulier reports less lawlessness in the counties of Cork and Kerry than for several years. The feeling of demoralization among the peasantry is widespread.

Prince Alexander signed the deed of abdication and departed for Bulgaria on the 8th of September. A compact mass of people witnessed Alexander's departure from the palace, and thousands lined the route taken by him through the town. The Prince spoke up to his carriage, bowing to the people and saying: "Good-by, my brethren." The populace were much affected. Tears sprang to many eyes, and hearty wishes were expressed for the Prince's speedy return. Turkey formally declared that she will never consent to Russian occupation of Bulgaria, or Eastern Roumelia. Diplomatic circles in Europe think that Prince Alexander will be received by the Bulgarian National Assembly.

DEMORALIZED NEGROES.

Effect of the Earthquake on the Colored People of Charleston.

It would be simply impossible to exaggerate the effect of the earthquake on the colored people of Charleston, says a Charleston dispatch. They fled from their houses, and in the dim twilight and thither through blinding clouds of rain and wind, which was shaken from thousand and stress again from the streets, they hurried to the open spaces, and there they made demonstrations of terrible outpouring of the soul with them in their funeral devotions, the sorrow they were crossing the Connecticut in a small row-boat they struck something in the water. The next moment the boat was thrown several feet into the air and the two men were sent sprawling to the bottom of the boat. They heard a great noise in the water, and as soon as possible picked themselves up and looked around. For most of the trip saw an unmistakable marine reptile fully one hundred feet long, with its head at least ten feet out of the water. It was darting the water into a frothy white twenty feet of the boat. The men, although terribly frightened, recovered their oars and pulled desperately for the shore, shouting for help. By this time the monster had disappeared, but recently its head was seen emerging from the water until it was about twenty feet from the boat, and visible to all. It was passing rapidly up the river, and actually disappeared round the bend of a bluff.

Mayor Courtenay of Charleston says the expense of $100,000 is immediately required for that stricken city. The Lord Mayor of London has appealed to the British public for the Charleston people. New York has contributed $25,738. Boston has raised about $20,000. The proceeds in cash by Colonel J. A. Watson, of Milwaukee, for the treasurer of the Grand Army of the Republic be transmitted to forward $5,000 from its overflowing treasury.

Opponents of Benedict, the new Postmaster at New York, have renewed by the Senate.

William Sims & Co., New York lace importers, have failed for $100,000.

A great rush of Americans returning to Europe is reported from New York.

Professor Wiggins, of Ottawa, Ont., claims to have predicted the present earthquake disturbances in March, and declares that greater shocks will be felt before the end of November in the South California and South America.

The price of bar silver in London has advanced to 50 pence per ounce.

Twenty British soldiers, who participated in the recent riotous near Bry, Ire., have declared that they will perform no more duty of that sort. They have been placed in

---

REPORTS NOT EXAGGERATED.

Stories Related by Eye-Witnesses of the Terrible Scene at Charleston.

"I was stopping at the Charleston Hotel," said Mr. Thomas H. Tobson, of Baltimore, to an Associated Press man, "when the first shock came. I was on the third floor. Before I, it my gas I found a note and supposed I was dreaming. I was trying to get up when the second shock came, and to place my hat on a bureau, and just then the house fell. I was thrown down, and I felt the mower's arms out and clung to the wooden bed-post. The house was shaking like a leaf, and I was thrown forward and backward by the force of fifteen or twenty inches at each shock. The house was falling to pieces, and shook the lights in the house all went out. I felt the house was going to fall, and I started to run, but I found I should be crushed if I got out of the house, and I got into the outside and groped my way to the Customhouse, which is a fireproof building. Other people in the house were in the same condition as I, and we had to grope our way in the dark. All sorts of sounds were made, which intensified the horror of the situation, which were accepted by the human soul with the greatest of dread. Screams and wail were heard from all sides. The people, who were also rushing blindly hither and thither, were in the greatest fear of the white man and the white woman in the time of danger was a sight to behold. Men and women, who had always worshipped their boy or girl, who was endeavored to stop their white friends as they ran, and to the original idea of the white man was forgotten with them until the "Judgment Day." Men who had never spoken to a white man took down on her knees and prayed with frantic energy the gods of some white lady's dress, and fainting women were strewn in scores on the sidewalks, and the people were in a state of mind to see the good side of it, for which they worked and contributed. Values have but rarely shown any decided tendencies to downward movement, and the price stocks have been reduced, the healthy tone of the money market, and the absence of any material or extraordinary reduction of the realized disappointing of future business, and the generally wholesome general situation of affairs, have kept the country in a state of mind

The Social Science Association, at its session at Saratoga, elected Purvel H. Wright, of Boston, President. Among the directors chosen are Horace White, Dorman B. Eaton, Richard T. Ely, Wayland Hyde, and George W. Cable.

Cyrus W. Field, who has just made a trip over the Canadian Pacific Road, pronounces the route more pleasant than the Northern Pacific, and declares the valley of the Red River of the North the finest agricultural country in the world.

FOREIGN.

The English Admiralty Office has issued orders to the commanders of all its war vessels along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts to report one at Halifax, to assist Canadian cruisers in protecting the fisheries.

The British Government has decided to erect barracks in the Canadian cities of Halifax and permanently increase the police force by five hundred men.

Germany has abandoned her right to establish a naval station in the Caroline Islands.

An estate near Lake Geneva has been purchased by James Gordon Bennett, who intends to build a villa on it.

Damage to the amount of $1,000,000 was caused by a fire in Paris and its environs by a hail-storm. The Bois de Vincennes suffered a forest pillaged by cannon-balls.

Acting under the new Socialistic Laws, the police of Berlin have suppressed five associations of workingmen.

General Bulier reports less lawlessness in the counties of Cork and Kerry than for several years. The feeling of demoralization among the peasantry is widespread.

Prince Alexander signed the deed of abdication and departed for Bulgaria on the 8th of September. A compact mass of people witnessed Alexander's departure from the palace, and thousands lined the route taken by him through the town. The Prince spoke up to his carriage, bowing to the people and saying: "Good-by, my brethren." The populace were much affected. Tears sprang to many eyes, and hearty wishes were expressed for the Prince's speedy return. Turkey formally declared that she will never consent to Russian occupation of Bulgaria, or Eastern Roumelia. Diplomatic circles in Europe think that Prince Alexander will be received by the Bulgarian National Assembly.

DEMORALIZED NEGROES.

Effect of the Earthquake on the Colored People of Charleston.

It would be simply impossible to exaggerate the effect of the earthquake on the colored people of Charleston, says a Charleston dispatch. They fled from their houses, and in the dim twilight and thither through blinding clouds of rain and wind, which was shaken from thousand and stress again from the streets, they hurried to the open spaces, and there they made demonstrations of terrible outpouring of the soul with them in their funeral devotions, the sorrow they were crossing the Connecticut in a small row-boat they struck something in the water. The next moment the boat was thrown several feet into the air and the two men were sent sprawling to the bottom of the boat. They heard a great noise in the water, and as soon as possible picked themselves up and looked around. For most of the trip saw an unmistakable marine reptile fully one hundred feet long, with its head at least ten

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

DEMOCRATIC NOMINATIONS.

State Ticket.

For Governor—
GEORGE L. YAPLE, of St. Joseph.

For Lieutenant-Governor—
SOLOMON S. CURRY, of Manistee.

For Secretary of State—
PHILLIP B. WACHTEL, of Emmet.

For State Treasurer—
WILLIAM G. BEARD, of Bay.

For Auditor-General—
JUDSON S. FARRAR, of Macomb.

For Attorney General—
JOHN C. DONNELLY, of Wayne.

For Commissioner of State Land Office—
WILLIAM D. FULLER, of Newaygo.

For Superintendent of Public Instruction—
DAVID PARSONS, of Wayne.

For Member of State Board of Education—
JEROME W. TURNER, of Shiawassee.

Congressional Ticket.

For Representative in Congress, Ninth District
LYMAN G. MASON, of Muskegon.

Democratic Platform.

Resolved, That the democracy of Michigan in convention assembled, sincerely deplore the untimely death of the illustrious statesman and eminent leader of the democratic party, Horatio Seymour, Geo. B. McClellan, W. Bayard, Thos. A. Hendricks and Samuel J. Tilden. Their illustrious services may serve as an example to those who shall desire the responsibilities of public office.

Resolved, That the administration of Grover Cleveland, by its vigor and thoroughness, by the precedence it has given to considerations affecting public virtue over those merely partisan; by its practical denial of the proposition that "to the victors belong the spoils of public office," by the discouragement it has given to those who seek through political intrigues, by its efforts to preserve the land for actual settlers, by restoring by practical administration the common school fund, by its public office is a public trust," commends itself to the judgement and approval of all honest people.

Resolved, That though more than twenty years have elapsed since the war, we should not forget that a large number of that gallant and patriotic army that preserved to us our undivided country are still living, and that, by their surviving disability, the result of their private toil and hardships, and we believe the general government should deal justly with them and that liberal pensions should be granted to wounded soldiers (not as a charity), but as a debt due them for inestimable services rendered their country.

Resolved, That taxation of the people for other purposes than raising revenue for the expenses of the government economically administered is tyrannical under the form of law, and we are therefore in favor of the repeal of the present unjust tariff and its adjustment to a revenue basis.

Resolved, That the democracy of Michigan, believing in the dignity of American labor, recognize the duty of protecting it, and the duty of government to the end that the legitimate industry in every walk of life shall be encouraged in its work of building up the material interests of the state.

Resolved, That we pledge ourselves to legislation which shall forever debar convict labor from competing with the honest producers of this country, and which shall forbid for all time the importation of convict made goods.

Resolved, That we favor the adoption of measures providing for the health and safety of those engaged in mining, manufacturing and building industries, and for remuneration to those engaged therein receiving injuries through lack of proper safeguards.

Resolved, That we demand the repeal of all class legislation under which monopolies have been fostered and protected.

Democratic Representative Convention.

A democratic representative convention will be held at Bartholomew's Opera House, Charlevoix, on Wednesday, the 22d day of September, A. D. 1886, at 10 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of nominating a candidate for representative in the legislature, from the Charlevoix district, and for the transaction of such other business as may come before the meeting. The various counties of the district are entitled to representation as follows: Antrim, 3; Charlevoix, 2; Emmet, 1. By order of committee,

J. MILO EATON, Chairman.

Democratic County Convention.

A democratic county convention will be held at Boyne City, on Saturday, the 18th day of September, A. D., 1886, at 10 o'clock, a. m., for the purpose of nominating candidates for the various county offices and for the reorganization of the county committee.

The various townships are entitled to representation as follows:

Bear Lake, 2; Boyne Valley, 2; Chandler, 2; Charlevoix, 4; Evangeline, 1; Freedom, 3; Hayes, 3; Hudson, 2; Marion, 2; Melrose, 3; Norwood, 3; Resort, 2; South Arm, 6; Springvale, 2; Wilson, 3.

CHAS. J. STRANG, Chairman.
J. MILO EATON, Secretary.

E. B. Lapham, of Rockford, formerly of the Fountain City house, Charlevoix, has deserted the republican party and joined the prohibitionists. He sets forth his reasons in a long letter, which reads like the declaration of independence.

"It is useless to deny the fact that the county ticket nominated yesterday by the republicans was shaped under the still potent influences of the late unpleasantness." "Now but one have harmony"—Sentinel. Why not add, "And we will have harmony if we have to fight for it."

The statement copied by one contemporary last week that the prohibitory liquor law enacted in 1876 "was enacted in 1855 by the first republican legislature that was ever chosen in Michigan, and was signed by Kingsly S. Bingham, the first republican governor of this state," claims the existence of the republican party at least two years in advance of the organization "under the oaks" at Jackson. However, if they want to father that law, let them do so; it was never good for anything anyway, and never in the least controled or restricted the traffic.

Judge O. W. Powers, of Kalamazoo, late associate justice of the supreme court of Utah, has accepted an engagement temporarily as editorial writer on the Grand Rapids Democrat. Judge Powers is well known to the democracy of Michigan as a brilliant orator and sound democrat. He is also a trenchant and forcible writer and will be heard from during the campaign. The Democrat already shows a marked improvement on its editorial page.

"The Convention was Harmonious."

And so it was. Dr. Nicholson took the chair with a tear in his eye and a "frog" in his throat, and murmured his regrets that some more able man had not been called to the distinguished position. He was too heartsick himself to cheer the convention with enthusiastic remarks and sat down to wait the pleasure of the delegates. Every delegate seemed possessed with a determination to do something desperate, and feared to speak his mind lest some word dropped would give his enemies undue advantage. And so they silently proceeded to vote by ballot for candidates for county officers.

Delegate Norton, of Evangeline, sounded the key-note when he proposed that the chairman of each delegation cast the vote of the township.

Delegate Strip, of Eveline, exhibited some of the pent-up wrath when he demanded that each delegate be allowed to cast his vote himself as he saw fit.

An informal ballot for sheriff gave Mr. Berdan 19 out of the 33, and a motion to make it unanimous met one faint No.

For register of deeds there were four ballots, the last one standing 18 for Upright, and 15 for Mooch. As the voting progressed, Mooch's friends became desperate, and scorched some promises that mean business for the other party.

The scenes enacted in this contest were marred with a little too much voting for prosecuting attorney, when R. L. Corbett had 17 votes on the third ballot, to 7 for Fred Mayne, and 9 for F. E. Fogg.

A motion was made to nominate Sam Thatcher for clerk by acclamation, but the convention wouldn't have it that way. On a ballot, Mr. Clow had 19, and Phil Lanway 9. Put Sam is a candidate just the same, when the time comes.

The balance of the ticket was nominated by acclamation.

When running the last coroner, F. E. Fogg was overcome by his feelings and named Dr. Nicholson, remarking that both coroners should be located at Boyne City, because it was central ly located, and besides, "after the second of November you will need them both there."

A motion to adjourn had hardly time to be put by the chair before the delegates had alloped.

Sure enough, the convention was harmonious, but all the sores won't heal by Nov. 2d.

The entire ticket is as follows:

Sheriff, H. Berdan, Charlevoix.
Register, A. R. Upright, Charlevoix.
Attorney, R. L. Corbett, Boyne City.
Clerk, A. W. Chase, Hayes.
Treasurer, H. C. Cooper, Charlevoix.
Commissioner, Z. N. Garfoot, Boyne City.
Surveyor, E. K. Robinson, Boyne Falls.
Coroners, Dr. Sanderson, Boyne City, Dr. Bennett South Arm.

Democratic Caucus.

At a caucus, held at the village hall last night, to elect six delegates to the county convention at Boyne City next Saturday, J. Milo Eaton was made chairman, and G. R. Sweetland secretary. The following delegates were elected: A. D. Cruickshank, J. B. Allen, G. E. Sweetland, A. J. McLeod, J. Milo Eaton, E. M. Clark. A township committee of three was named, as follows: G. J. Grier, J. Milo Eaton, and E. M. Clark.

Last week we announced that Clement J. Strang had been nominated for county surveyor on the prohibition ticket, in Cass county. The last issue of the Cassopolis Democrat has the following concerning the nomination:

C. J. Strang, was the republican candidate for county surveyor two years ago, and was nominated for the same position at the prohibition county convention last week. A Dowagiac correspondent of the Edwardsburg Argus says that Mr. Strang was not in the prohibition convention, knew nothing of his nomination, and had not fully decided to join them. He was waiting to see what might be the result of the convention of anti-saloon republicans in Chicago, but happening in Dowagiac last Saturday, he was mounted by the republican bosses of that place, rough shod, and informed he must publish a letter at once declining the prohibition nomination, or lose his standing in the republican party. This decided him, and he now openly announces his adhesion to the prohibition party, and says he will make prohibition speeches during the campaign.

A Million Dollars.

Millions of dollars would be saved annually by the health of every community, if, instead of calling a physician for every ailment, they were wise enough to put their trust in Golden Seal Bitters, a certain cure for all diseases arising from an impure state of the blood and liver, such as scrofula in its various forms, rheumatism, dyspepsia, or indigestion, female irregularities, diseases of the kidneys and bladder, exposure and imprudence of life. No person can take these bitters according to instructions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mercury, poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair. Golden Seal Bitters numbers on its list of cures more than any other medicine known, and have already acquired a world-wide reputation as a family and physic medicine. Sold by Perry Weed and Dr. G. W. Crouter.

Money Refunded.

The true remedy has at last been discovered. It was long known in his practice as Dr. Pete's Lung Food for Consumption. It is now called Dr. Pete's 25 cent Cough Cure. It is the safest, the surest and the best. No other cough, cold, or consumption remedy, it half its equal. We warrant it and will promptly refund the money paid for it if a beneficial effect is not experienced by the time two-thirds of the contents of the bottle is used. Sold by Perry Weed and Dr. G. W. Crouter.

Canker humors of every description, whether in the mouth, throat, or stomach, are expelled from the system by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. No other remedy can compare with this, as a cure for all diseases originating in impure or impoverished blood.

☞ Butterick's paper patterns at F. W. Craine & Co's.

☞ Ladies remember F. W. Craine & Co. keep Butterick's paper patterns. They are unsurpassed for accuracy.

☞ F. W. Craine & Co. have received a big line of shirting flannels and fine dress and trimmed flannels.

SCROFULA

Humors,

Erysipelas,

Canker, and

Catarrh,

Can be cured by purifying the blood with

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Price $1; six bottles, $5.

I do not believe that Ayer's Sarsaparilla is an equal as a remedy for Scrofulous Humors. It is pleasant to take, gives strength and vigor to the body, and produces a more permanent, lasting, result than any medicine I ever used.—E. Halsey, No. 1 Spring St., Portland, Me.

I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla, in my family, for Scrofula, and find, if it is taken faithfully, it will thoroughly eradicate the disease.—W. H. Fowler, M. D., Greeneville, Tenn.

For forty years I have suffered with Erysipelas. I have tried all sorts of remedies for my complaint, but found no relief until I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla. After taking ten bottles of this medicine I am completely cured.—Mary C. Alesbury, Rockport, Me.

I have suffered, for years, from Catarrh, which was so severe that it destroyed my appetite and weakened my system. After trying other remedies, and getting no relief, I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and, in a few months, was cured.—Susan L. Cook, 809 Adams St., Boston Highlands, Mass.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla is superior to any blood purifier that I have taken. I have taken it for Scrofula, Canker, and Erysipelas, and received much benefit from it. It is good, also, for a weak stomach.—Mrs. Jane Pelroe, South Bradford, Mass.

GOLD fields are scarce, but those who write to Hallett & Co., Portland, Maine, will find a business from which they can make from $5 to $25 daily, and upwards. Any one can do it. Great business that will pay more than ten times the work for the money. Some have made over $50 in a day. Either sex; all ages; no capital required. You are started free. Those who start at once are permanently set in easy circumstances. All is new.

ADVERTISERS can ascertain cost to contract on advertising space when in Chicago, all find it to be as to say Rerdick Sts., Advertising Agency of LORD & THOMAS.

THIS PAPER may be found on file at Chas. Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce St.), New York, where advertising may be made for it in THE CITY.

The Circus

Commences Next Week.

I am going to receive a large invoice of CLOTHING, bought from one of the leading houses in Rochester, N. Y., which I am going to sell at Prices that will draw me trade from all around the county.

I think the best advertisement a merchant can have is to have his goods advertise him in Good Fits and Prices that cannot be beat.

GEO. W. MILLER.

THE EARTHQUAKE DID IT!

We mean we got a big bargain on all our cloak purchases. Our New York agent has taken advantage of the

GREAT EXCITEMENT!

And has written us that never before had we secured such an elegant line of

LADIES' MISSES' AND CHILDREN'S

CLOAKS

At Such LOW PRICES.

LADIES, DO NOT PURCHASE A CLOAK or Wrap of any kind until you have seen our goods and learned our prices, as they will soon be here.

A big line of everything in Dry Goods coming, wait for them.

Yours, very truly,

F. W. CRAINE & CO.

Come and See our Immense Stock of

BOOTS AND SHOES.

FOX & MILLER.

More Room! More Goods!!

THE ROUND OAK

AND SQUARE BASE

Heating Stoves.

Complete Stock of Hardware!

VERY BEST PUMPS.

Job and Tin Work. L. D. BARTHOLOMEW & CO.

STAUFFER'S

BROADCAST

Hand-Seeder.

This new invention possesses many qualities peculiarly adapted to farmers of this vicinity.

TEN REASONS:

1. It sows the roughest or smoothest soils.
2. It sows evenly all kinds of seed, small, large and small. Wheat, barley, clover, timothy, flax, hops, etc.
3. It sows any desired quantity. One-fourth bushel of oats bags seed can be spread over an acre of ground with perfect ease and accuracy.
4. It sows rapidly. With wheat it covers 12 feet to the round. Clover etc. clover and timothy mixed 26. Ten acres of clover sowed in 2½ hours.
5. It is not affected by quite a strong wind.
6. It is quickly adjusted to different quantities of grain.
7. It cannot clog.
8. It is easily operated.
9. It is cheap.
10. It is durable.

Owing to Special Rates in Photographic Stock, I will continue to make Cabinet Photographs at $4.00 per Dozen Until further notice.

Dave Bradbeer,
Photographer,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Patented by ISAAC STAUFFER, of Carpenter, Emmet Co., Mich. Sold by

UPRIGHT & EMREY,
Charlevoix, Mich.

Call and examine it.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., Sept 16 1886.

PRODUCE MARKET.

Hay, loose, per ton $12; baled, $13
Corn, per bu. 65c.
Oats, 45 to 50c.
Feed, per ton, $22.
Pork, dressed 9 lbl, 7c ⅌ lb.
Salt, ⅌ bbl, $1.25.
Syrup, "Gold Medal," 50c ⅌ gal.
Canned Tomatoes, 12c.
Canned Peaches, 15 ⅌ 20c.
Coffee, Java and Mocha, 35c.
Farmer's Produce at Upright & Emrey's.

☞ Demorest's Monthly for October comes to us full to overflowing with good things.

No lady should be without this household guide, for while it amuses through its story department, it instructs and keeps its readers posted right up to the times. It teaches how to adorn home and make it beautiful by instructing the hands as well as the mind and heart. Every man who loves his home should see to it that his wife, mother, daughter or sister is provided with this progressive magazine, which combines the essentials of all others, and besides the magazine itself, which is all that could be desired, a coupon is found in every number entitling the holder to a selection of any pattern in that number and of any size. A subscriber may thus get patterns to fit to the amount of $3.60 each year. It is a mystery how the Demorest's can offer this.

☞ The best paper for the money, The Grand Rapids Daily Democrat at 50 cents a month, 14½ cents a week, by mail. The leading daily in Western Michigan, with the largest circulation. Try it.

UPRIGHT EMREY & Co.

☞ A splendid line of Boots and Shoes, for ladies and gents, boys, girls and misses. More on the road.

☞ A magnificent lot of Dress Goods arrived recently, and we offer them at the very lowest figures.

☞ Hosiery in all styles a specialty, for both ladies and gents—best line in town.

☞ New Groceries received almost every day.

☞ Both Dinner and Tea Sets in Bohemian Ware at cost.

☞ If you want some Choice Butter go to Upright & Emrey's.

☞ Remember, we give the Detroit Weekly Free Press FREE during the campaign to every new subscriber who will pay for at least four months in advance, in cash. Old subscribers who want the Weekly Free Press during the campaign can have the same terms by paying all arrears to date, and at least four months in advance, in cash. You will get more for your money by subscribing now, than if you wait.

☞ For sale or to let on favorable terms, two hundred good grade sheep at the ranch of the subscriber, in Clow Lake township, Ch. Co.

☞ Fresh Kalamazoo celery at Jeffories' market.

☞ Best fresh butter at Jeffories' market.

Local Notes and News.

We want some wood on subscription, cash paid.

The Manceloa Herald prints the tax list for Antrim county.

The revenue cutter Andy Johnson was in the harbor Thursday.

State senator W. H. Francis has bought the Frankfort Express.

Charlevoix county produces some of the finest plums grown in the state.

Gen. Cutcheon is advertised as one of the speakers at the Antrim county fair.

Look at L. D. Bartholomew's new illustrated advertisement on fourth page.

Boyne City raised $1,400 for school purposes at their annual meeting last week.

S. Dixon has just completed painting his house, a fine combination of colors.

Gen. Cutcheon will stand his fences at Row Lewiston, on the 17th (to-morrow evening).

On account of rain last Saturday, the Friant did not run her excursion to Cross Village.

Upright & Emrey have fitted up a very little office in the corner of their new warehouse.

W. Watson, of Boyne, remembered the JOURNAL this week with a box of fine apples and plums.

The Shipman engine for the new steam yacht arrived last Saturday morning, on the Friant.

The Traverse City school census shows 1,056 children of school age,—an increase of 40 over 1885.

Mitchel Le Croix, of Advance, has an apple tree on one side of which is an abundance of ripe apples, and upon the other a rich display of apple blossoms.

Joe Clark is building an addition in the rear of his grocery store, on corner of Antrim and State streets.

Mrs. M. Nowlan brought into our office, last Saturday morning, a branch of a crab apple tree two feet long, which contained seventy apples.

The farewell supper given by the ladies' society of the M. E. Church, for the benefit of the pastor, last Friday evening, was an enjoyable affair, and netted about $35.

The Harbor Springs Independent says that E. P. Roberts & Co., advertising the Gregg family remedies are newspaper dead beats, and our contemporaries will do well to drop them.

A council of Congregational churches has been called to meet on Friday, Sept. 17th, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, to receive the church at Ironton into the association.

The dedication of the Congregational church at Ironton will occur on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, Sept. 26th. A cordial invitation is hereby extended to friends.

Application will be made at the next session of the board of supervisors to have the township of Evangeline divided, and another township erected, to be known as the township of Alger.

The Bellaire Breeze raises a still small boom for A. K. Dougherty of Elk Rapids, for representative in the legislature, on the republican ticket. Dougherty is a high tariff advocate of the most pronounced type.

Amos Fox's new house will be another very prominent building in the growth of Charlevoix, it looks as it is where it will be one of the first to be seen by the stranger who arrives on any boat from the outside.

Hon. C. S. Hampton, editor of the Harbor Springs Independent, was married at Adrian, on Wednesday, to Miss Alida Russell, one of the fairest daughters of that city. We wish them long life and happiness.

The job for completing road on town line between Wilson and South Arm, known as Liscomb road, has been let to David Thompson for $100. This will greatly lessen the distance between Boyne City and East Jordan.

The Charlevoix county soldiers' reunion is in progress as we go to press. Gen. Cutcheon arrived on the Friant this morning, and was escorted to the Bridge street house by Baxter Post G. A. R., and the boys' cornet band.

W. H. Healy has left at this office a stool of second-crop oats, grown on land cleared since the first crop was harvested, sufficiently well headed to be worth cutting if the season should be favorable to maturing. He has two acres of them.

Our republican friends should not count for their own success on the mistakes of the opposition. The democrats and greenbackers propose to adjust their local differences, and will everywhere present a united front to the enemy on Nov. 2.

David Thompson has the job of grading the Lloyd hill, the bid being for $85. He is to take eight feet from the hill and run a true grade to the bottom. This will greatly lessen the difficulty of surmounting the old time obstruction. Mr. Thompson has 60 days in which to complete the job.—Citizen.

An alarm of fire from the school house last Saturday afternoon brought out the fire department in double-quick time. Happily, however, the fire was all in the furnace, but with the damper turned every room was full of smoke, hence the alarm. It served, however, to demonstrate that the boys can get out if they have occasion.

Yesterday's dailies contained dispatches announcing the loss of the steamer Ogdin Barnes, with 100 passengers. It is either a hoax, or else it is the S. B. Barker. At any rate the dispatches were badly mixed. The Gracie Barker is all right here, and Capt. Cryster says he don't feel as though he had been lost very bad.—Independent.

The fourth anniversary of the organization of the Congregational church will occur next Sunday, and in the evening Rev. C. F. VanAuken will deliver an anniversary sermon. In the four years of Mr. VanAuken's work, he has not only organized and established the church on a firm basis, financially and otherwise, but has done such missionary work round about as to give a strong healthy support to the society from the surrounding country. Mr. VanAuken expects to take a six months' vacation, to engage in missionary work, (traveling), during which time the pulpit will be supplied by Rev. A. T. Waterman, of Ord.

The Chicago summer resort at Charlevoix, Mich., closed on Wednesday, Sept. 1. The guests report the most enjoyable season since the opening of this favorite resort. Among the visitors have been Mr. Timothy Burr and family, Mr. I. R. Krum and family, of Bloomington, Ill.; U. S. Senator Anderson, of Kansas; Mr. Edward F. Uhl, of Grand Rapids, Mich.; Hon John P. Wilson and family, Mr. A. B. Mead, and Frank R. Rockwood and family, of Chicago. There are several pretty cottages at this resort owned by prominent Chicagoans, among whom are C. F. Gates, Mr. S. M. Moore, Mr. Edward N. Riley, Dr. Roswell G. Bogue and Mr. Kiaz Blatchford.—Elite News, Chicago.

Posters and premium lists are issued for the second annual fair of the Charlevoix county agricultural society, to be held at East Jordan, Sept. 22, 23 and 24. The fair is open to competition from Charlevoix, Emmet, Antrim, Grand Traverse, and Leelanau counties, and a fine exhibit is expected. The secretary has made arrangements with steamboat lines for excursion rates from Petoskey, Elk Rapids, Traverse City and intermediate points, and announces that hotel accommodations will be ample for all who can come. The annual address will be made by Maj. E. H. Green, of Charlevoix. Every effort is being made by the officers to have the fair an improvement over last year in every feature. Premium lists may be obtained at this office, or of John Nicholls.

Teachers' Examination.

At the special examination held at Charlevoix, on Friday last, there were 22 applicants for certificates. The following are the names of those who passed: N. N. Card, O. L. Card, William J. Pearson, Minnie A. Kane, Stella Kane, Allie M. Madlem, Charles Adams, Addie Lewis, George Potts, Lillian Mills, Attie D. Crane, Maggie O'Neill, Mattie O'Neill, Ada Cooper, Delia Porter, May Waterbury, Nettie Partlow, Gladys deFerris, Martha Messenger, and Thomas E. Goodrich.

Future examinations will occur as follows: At East Jordan, Friday the 24th day of September 1886. At Boyne City, Friday Oct. 29th, 1886. At Boyne City, Friday March 25th, 1887. At East Jordan, Friday April 29th 1887. All examinations to commence at 9 o'clock a. m., and candidates to furnish stationery.

Births and Deaths, 1885.

The Boyne Citizen prints the following as an official statement of the number of births and deaths, by townships, in the county, during the year 1885:

	Number of births	Number of deaths
Bear Lake	7	1
Boyne Valley	9	7
Charlevoix	16	17
Chandler	2	2
Evangeline	15	3
Freedom	3	3
Hayes	8	2
Hudson	4	1
Marion	11	1
Melrose	12	3
Resort	4	2
South Arm	2	2
Springvale	1	1
Wilson	13	1
Totals	107	60

A Pioneer Gone.

Reuben T. Nichols died at his home in Torch Lake, township Custer, Wednesday, Sept. 8th, aged 81 years. Mr. Nichols was a life-long adherent to, and a consistent worker for, the church of Latter Day Saints, and was buried with the ceremonies of that church, last Thursday afternoon, W. Watson, of Boyne City, officiating. Thirty years ago Mr. Nichols was a resident of Charlevoix county, but afterwards he moved to Wisconsin. In 1864 he settled at Torch Lake, where he has since lived to the time of his death.

Episcopal Services.

Divine services at Odd Fellows' hall Sunday next, morning and evening, by Rev. C. T. Stout, of Toledo. Come and you will be interested.

The Ladies' Church Guild gratefully acknowledge the receipt of $50 from D. G. Robinson, of Hastings, treasurer of the board of missions by direction of Bishop Gillespie, from a bequest of Mrs. Carter, for the church lot and building fund.

Charlevoix Teachers.

The following are the teachers in Charlevoix schools, with their respective grades and departments:

H. M. Enos, superintendent and high school.
Miss Ione M. Gage, assistant in high school and ninth grade.
Miss Flora Nelson, sixth, seventh and eighth grades.
Miss Maggie O'Neil, fourth and fifth grades.
Miss Lottie M. Hawes, second and third grades.
Miss May Waterbury, first grade.

An End to Bone Scraping.

Edward Shepherd, of Harrisburg, Ill., says: "Having received so much benefit from Electric Bitters, I feel it my duty to let all suffering humanity know it. Have had a running sore on my leg for eight years; my doctors told me I would have the bone scraped or leg amputated. I used, instead, three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and my leg is now sound and well." Electric Bitters is sold at 50 cts. a bottle, and Bucklen's Arnica Salve at 25c. per box by Dr. G. W. Crouter.

Books Received.

From Jas. L. Shoup, secretary, premium list of the second annual fair of the Chandler county agricultural society, to be held at East Jordan, Sept. 22, 23, and 24.

From E. L. Sprague, secretary, premium list of the ninth annual fair of the Grand Traverse county agricultural and industrial society, to be held at Traverse City, Sept. 28, 29, 30, and 31, and Oct. 1.

Take Ayer's Pills and be cured. Misery is a mild word to describe the sufferings of body and mind, caused by habitual constipation. A moderate use of Ayer's Pills will invariably regulate the bowels.

☞ Butterick's monthly fashion sheet at F. W. Craine & Co's. Call and get the September number.

DRY GOODS!

We offer for the next few days Great Bargains in all

—SUMMER DRESS GOODS—

Shawls, White Goods, Parasols, Silk and Thread Gloves, Hosiery, Straw Hats, etc.

NEW LINE OF BROADHEAD DRESS GOODS,

Just received and marked at very low prices.

Jersey and Boucle Jackets, Very Cheap.

Staple & Fancy Groceries,

In great variety and at correct prices. The finest line of

Teas, Coffees, Spices.

PLANTATION JAVA COFFEE, - BEST IN THE WORLD.

Farmers will consult their own interests in buying our

FACTORY-FILLED DAIRY SALT.

J. L. HURD & CO.

Cloaks! Cloaks!!

Just Received, at

ROSENTHAL & SON'S,

The largest line of FALL and WINTER CLOAKS that ever was brought to Charlevoix. All styles in Short Wraps, New Markets and Street Jackets. Also a big line of CHILDREN'S CLOAKS. Now is the time to make your choice, as the assortment is large and prices are low. Be sure to come and see them, whether you buy or not,—no trouble to show goods.

ROSENTHAL & SON.

The Villa Nazionale, Naples.

Naples has a most beautiful public park. It was laid out just one hundred years ago, and has been enlarged and embellished and improved, until now it is one of the most attractive pleasure-grounds in the world. The Villa Nazionale, as it is called, or more frequently La Villa, was formerly a narrow strip of land close to the sea, but, like the Hollanders, the Neapolitans wanted more room for their flower beds and promenades, and they forced the waters back, planting long avenues of trees where the waves once danced and rippled. The grounds are all arranged in the profusely ornamented style characteristic of Italy, and imported trees and shrubs mingle their green with the splendid foliage natural to this favored clime. The most noticeable are the magnificent palms, which spread their fan-like branches more than a hundred feet above the heads of the passersby. The statues which adorn the park are nearly numberless, but they are chiefly imitations of ancient and modern works, and are sadly wanting in the merits of the originals. Formerly the celebrated group of the Farnese Bull used to be in Villa, but it was removed to the museum for preservation, and replaced by a large antique basin from Pæstum. Virgil and Tasso have here temples to their honor. During the early part of the day the Villa is comparatively deserted, but in the afternoon or evening, when the daily concerts take place, the scene is one of life and gayety almost beyond description. An Italian crowd is the brightest and gayest to be seen anywhere this side of the gorgeous East; and the Neapolitans bring their worship of light, perfume, and color to its utmost culmination in their daily promenade in the Villa.

In the centre of the Villa stands a large white marble building, the celebrated Aquarium of Naples. It belongs to the Zoological Station, and was established by the German scientist, Dr. Sloarn for the purpose of facilitating a thorough scientific investigation of the animal and vegetable world of the Mediterranean. The greater part of the expense was borne by Dr. Dohrn himself, but the German government has repeatedly contributed large subsidies. Several prominent English naturalists have also prescented the institution with important sums.—M. E. Vandyke, in Harper's Magazine for April.

One of the most distinguished citizens of Atlanta—indeed, one of the most distinguished citizens of the State in his calling—has for years been in the habit of eating tobacco instead of simply chewing it. This gentleman is 65 odd years of age, and is in the most robust health, with a complexion as clear as that of an infant and an eye as keen as that of a hawk. He has none of the ailments of his age—no pains, no aches, no indigestion.—Atlanta (Ga.) Constitution.

New Grocery!

Cor. Antrim and Grant Streets.

A. J. MUDGE

Would respectfully announce to the people of Charlevoix and vicinity, especially to the residents of the southwestern part of town, and all coming in from the south, that he has opened a stock of Groceries in his building, on the corner of Antrim and Grant streets, and requests all to give him a trial.

BUTTER AND EGGS WANTED.

HANNAH, LAY & CO.'S STEAMER LINE,

SEASON OF 1886.

CITY OF GRAND RAPIDS,

CAPT. O. E. WILSON.

GOING NORTH, Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, will leave Traverse City 7.45 a. m. Northport 9.30, Charlevoix 11.30, Petoskey 1.30 Harbor Springs 2.30, Cross Village 4.30, Mackinaw City 7.00, Mackinaw Island 7.45, arriving at Mackinaw City 8.30 p. m.

GOING SOUTH, Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays, will leave St. Ignace at 8 a. m., Mackinaw Island 8.15, Mackinaw City, 7.45, Cross Village 10.15, Harbor Springs 12.15, Petoskey 1.30, Charlevoix 3.30, Northport 5.15, arriving at Traverse City 7.45 p. m.

T. S. PAXTON

CAPT. A. G. ALDRICH.

GOING NORTH, Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays will leave Traverse City 7.00 a. m., Torch Lake 9.45, Alden 10.30, Bellaire 11.00, Petoskey 1.30 p. m., Harbor Springs 3.00, Cross Village 4.30, Mackinaw City 7.00, Mackinaw Island 7.45, arriving at St. Ignace 8.30.

GOING SOUTH, Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, will leave St. Ignace at 8 a. m., Mackinaw Island 7.00, Mackinaw City 7.45, Cross Village 10.15, Harbor Springs 12.00, Petoskey 1.15 P. M., Charlevoix 2.45, Norwood 4.15, Torch Lake 5.00, arriving at Traverse City 7.45 p. m.

GOOD CONNECTIONS will be made at Traverse City and Petoskey with both day and night trains on the G. R. & I. R. R., at Mackinaw with Michigan Central R. R., also on Monday, Wednesday and Friday of Traverse City with Chicago and the City of Grand Rapids going north, and on Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday the T. S. Paxton going south, for Chicago via Traverse to Chicago, At St. Ignace with the Milwaukee & Chesapeake Steam Navigation Co's steamers, and with the steamer Minnie M., for Sault Ste. Marie.

Traverse Bay Route.

Steamer LOU A. CUMMINGS, Capt. George Ackerman.

Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, leave Old Mission at 6.00 a. m., arriving at Traverse City 1.00 p. m.; leave Traverse City 2.30 p. m., arrive Northport 4.30 p. m.

Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays, leave Northport 7.00 a. m., arrive Traverse City 9.30; at 11.00 a. m. leave Traverse City 2.30 p. m., arrive at Old Mission 5.00 p. m.

The steamer stops at Elk Rapids once every day, and Omena and Suttons Bay twice a day.

Connections are made at Northport with the City of Grand Rapids, and at Traverse City with C. & G. T. R. trains, north and south.

Harbor Springs, Petoskey, Charlevoix, and East Jordan.

STEAMER THOMAS FRIANT.

CAPT. E. VANDERBURG.

Morning—Leave Harbor Springs 7.00, Petoskey 8.00, Charlevoix 9.30, arrive East Jordan 11.00.

Afternoon—Leave East Jordan 1.30, Charlevoix 4.00, Petoskey 5.30, arrive Harbor Springs 6.00.

Close connections at Petoskey with G. R. & I. R. R. trains, north and south.

Charlevoix and Boyne.

Steamer CLARA BELLE—Capt. Robert Wall.

Morning—Leave Charlevoix 8.00, arrive Boyne City 9.00. Leave 9.00, arrive Charlevoix 11.00.

Afternoon—Leave Charlevoix 2.00, arrive Boyne 3.00; leave Boyne 3.30, arrive Charlevoix 4.30. Stopping at intermediate points.

The above Eyeglass invented by the Johnston Optical Co., of Detroit, Mich., combines the best features of all others.

1st. The lenses can be placed through nearer that the eye-lashes will not touch them, a thing that no other can will claim for them.

2d. The guards are set so as to clasp the temple back under ear lobes, which prevents slipping and falling off.

3d. The pressure is on the fleshy part of the nose, a place which invariably invalidates.

4th. The lower frames secure to perfect adjustment to the lens, which is important.

5th. The lenses are set at right angles to line of vision.

6th. They can be worn without cord or chain, as there is no danger of falling off.

7th. We warrant the lens to be the easiest eyeglass in the world.

C. R. BELLINGER,
Optician and Jeweler, Clark's Block, Mich.

A WOOD NYMPH.

By WM. SALSBURY.

Two ruginish eyes as black as coal;
Two ruby lips that somewhere stole
Their color from the cherries; two Soft tresses, dark as elm-bark; and
A cheek within whose dimpled light
The blush of dawn repose;

A face, as like a dream divine—
'Twas such a form that pierced my spine
With mingled fear and wonder—
Then suddenly the vines were stirred,
And such a ripplingly laugh I heard
From out the bushes yonder.

I, old not move—entranced I stood
Within the shadows of the wood,
Lest in a dream elysian,
But while I dreamed the sprite or fay
Swift vanished from my sight away,
Like some enchanted vision.

I called to mind my boyhood dreams
Of wood nymphs by the haunted streams,
With vines and blossoms laden—
Of here in this secluded wood
Was one of real flesh and blood—
A veritable maiden.

Then and there made my mind
That laughter-loving fay I'd find—
I'd seek her lake and early;
I'd woo her with a lover's zeal and ow—
Yea, search to the land from south to shore
Until I caught her fairly.

Not long I sought—O, joy supreme!
Not long I searched—I found my dream
Half hid among the rushes;
Her foot hung over the clamoring tide
That kissed her feet and then fled to hide
Beneath her dark, blushing cheeks.

Ere she I wooed that maiden fair,
With vows of love, I paused to stare
O! how my heart leap sought her
I may not speak, O, friend, save this:
That twilight was an ace of bliss,
By Eliza's starlit water!

THE THREE LOVERS.

We had camped for the night by a clear stream. Our "flies" were stretched and we hurried to the water to bathe our tired limbs and aweary feet. Now we lounged around the camp-fire, wondering how long it would be before we could refresh and fortify our empty stomachs and appease the hunger that had deadened our strength and killed the enthusiasm of past days. We had done battle at Gettysburg, every man had been a hero. We had whipped Lee, and knew he was badly crippled and without sufficient ammunition. We had among ourselves argued and wondered why Meade did not follow up the advantage he had gained. We longed, prayed, hoped in vain for Hancock, Sickles, or Doubleday, or cool yet impetuous Stannard, to lead us on and then and there crush out the fearful strife; but it was not to be; the timid Meade, ever cautious, was doubly so now. He knew Lee was all "broke up," his ammunition gone, his army huddled together, demoralized in that little horseshoe bend of the Potomac; the swollen river on one side, hills on the other, he would have been easy game to bag; all along the roadside of his retreat we had found a stream with sick and wounded, dead horses, and abundant arms. Their flight was rapid, but fatally interrupted. As Byington said: "Lee had exhausted nearly all his ammunition in three days' battle and could not replenish." Scores of his regiments had not a dozen rounds, and could get no more. Nearly all his artillery was without ammunition. These facts were known to Meade and his men, and were discussed by the soldiers every day that Lee lay cooped up at Meade's mercy, his retreat cut off by the Potomac, which was running banks full at the time, and pontoons swept away. The timid Meade refused to attack Lee; staid right there four days, ate his boystole a couple of horses, made rafts and floated over the river at their leisure. Good Uncle said "Meade reminded him of an old woman trying to shoo her geese across the creek." As soon as Lee was across, then came the hot pursuit by Meade. We had had several engagements, and now, after a fierce battle and a forced march to this place, we lounged around, tired and hungry, awaiting "salt horses and hard tack," and the repetition of trumping and foolish, vain sacrifice of life.

"Well, boys," said Sergeant Dick, "if we can't eat, let us feed the ear with stories. I'll tell you a story. After I, you—"

Many laughable stories followed. We filled our pipes and lounged around the bivouac fire, enjoying ourselves.

"Come, Charley, spin us a yarn," said Robinson to our sergeant.

"Yes, let us have one," chorused the pipe-filled mouths.

"I know of none," said the sober Charley, in his low voice.

"Give us something or tempest," said Dick. "I suppose all are alike; nothing good; all fade; glory and fame are like dews, the rich repress the poor, and—and, well, only conquest of lovely woman and stolen love is sweet, and glorious, and sublime, worthy the earth's all else, fanciful."

"Boys, conquest and love of one self," said the clear, low voice of Sergeant Charley.

"Ha!" cried several pipe-filled mouths. "Two opinions."

"Or one's principles," said Charley.

"By Mars," exclaimed Dick, "that was noble said, and I believe it, but give us a story, Charley, see boy."

As Charley told it, I tell it to you. To day I retain the impression made, and will tell I cease to be.

"Well, boys, I am not much of a story teller. I am not one of the windy, talking kind. You know I was my 'diamond and chevrons' by acts, not words. To-night I am filled with an evil presentiment—and he rose his eyes heavenward. We did the same, and noticed that it was black as ebony, low mutterings of thunder, terror on a light breeze, came to our ears. "The indications," he continued, "are strong, and I speak about myself. I feel that there are but a few rounds of breath in my cartridge-box of life. Why I have been so distant, reserved, and reticent toward you all is one from pride or thought that I was too good for other companionship, but therefore you will know when I have finished my story. Back in Vermont among the mountains green, near the town of Montpelier, I often visited a friend of my father's. He had two sons about my age. I think they were the best and truest hearts I ever met. I loved them both. I was the son of a hardy, honest lumberman in Maine. They were of a wealthy aristocratic family, and they were imbued with the same views and 'principles or opinions' as their parents. They loved me because I was a model type of health, and versed in the arts of fishing, hunting and woodcraft. We spent our time away from home, seeking new fields and streams. What glorious times. What happy days among the mountains, on the lakes, in that gem State of Vermont. After all, boys, happy times and days bring clouds of trouble and sorrow. Man's life is like the glow of sunset clouds, all seem serene and beautiful, but back down below the horizon, there waiting, are dark clouds, with wild winds ready to hurl themselves into the sunset gleaming and destroy all its beauty and serenity. In our familiar hopes, the proudest, brightest, dearest wishes are crushed beneath the cruel iron heel of fate, and wrong may reign triumphant, and innocence stagger blinded and bruised through a wilderness of despair. Through that maze I labyrinth, bristling with sharp thorns of poverty, of kindness, and full of agony, the world goes on just the same, and we live to fade and suffer to-morrow. Yes, there is a woman in the story, boys, and such a woman." He paused a moment in deep thought, then shook himself together and continued: "I cannot describe her to you. I can only say Mary of Scots always came to my thoughts as I gazed into her beautiful eyes and face; her features were finely cut, her eye regally, laughingly beautiful. Her hair of a golden brown, worn long, tied with blue ribbon, her form fully developed, willowy, and graceful. Edith Warren was as beautiful as woman could be. She was, I believed, frank, truthful, and unaffected. You know boys, when love first sets in we see as through a glass, darkly. The film is strong, it is a passion that rules supreme and demands sacrifices complete, and they are given. Tom and Fred and I loved her. We became jealous, cold toward each other. Frank, poor boy, fell first and fled home. Well, Tom and I talked it over, met together, confessed our love for Edith, shook hands, swearing friendship, and we use all honorable means and endeavors to win her. At Edith's father was a humbug man, like my own, I thought my chances were better, and I was her equal in every education. Tom had the advantage of me in that he could recite Shakspeare, Burns, and Meredith; besides he had wealth. Edith's father did not hang heavy his lack of such assets. We filled her pink ears full of sweet words. She grew rosy, and her eyes changed like the stars; she was full of joy and fun, surely instilling with her witching laugh and ambiguous replies and sweet looks from her spacious eyes. I can see her plainly now just as she stood at the front door gate. With sad, mournful look and voice she bade me good-night and good-by. Well, boys, Tom, poor Tom, he asked all on his pocket-book and money on a word; he never told me anything, but I guessed it by his looks and silence. His eyes, great heaven! What a despairing look I beheld in them at far off, well, as she bade me good-by at the gate she said she would write me, and I mutely gave the meaning. As the stage started I cast one backward look. My heart sank as I saw my will know when I have finished my story. Back in Vermont among the mountains green, near the town of Montpelier, I often visited a friend of my father's. He had two sons about my age. I think they were the best and truest hearts I ever met. I loved them both. I was the son of a hardy, honest lumberman in Maine. They were of a wealthy aristocratic family, and they were imbued with the same views and 'principles or opinions' as their parents. They loved me because I was a model type of health, and versed in the arts of fishing, hunting and woodcraft. We spent our time away from home, seeking new fields and streams. What glorious times. What happy days among the mountains, on the lakes, in that gem State of Vermont. After all, boys, happy times and days bring clouds of trouble and sorrow. Man's life is like the glow of sunset clouds, all seem serene and beautiful, but back down below the horizon, there waiting, are dark clouds, with wild winds ready to hurl themselves into the sunset gleaming and destroy all its beauty and serenity. In our familiar hopes, the proudest, brightest, dearest wishes are crushed beneath the cruel iron heel of fate, and wrong may reign triumphant, and innocence stagger blinded and bruised through a wilderness of despair. Through that maze I labyrinth, bristling with sharp thorns of poverty, of kindness, and full of agony, the world goes on just the same, and we live to fade and suffer to-morrow. Yes, there is a woman in the story, boys, and such a woman." He paused a moment in deep thought, then shook himself together and continued: "I cannot describe her to you. I can only say Mary of Scots always came to my thoughts as I gazed into her beautiful eyes and face; her features were finely cut, her eye regally, laughingly beautiful. Her hair of a golden brown, worn long, tied with blue ribbon, her form fully developed, willowy, and graceful. Edith Warren was as beautiful as woman could be. She was, I believed, frank, truthful, and unaffected. You know boys, when love first sets in we see as through a glass, darkly. The film is strong, it is a passion that rules supreme and demands sacrifices complete, and they are given. Tom and Fred and I loved her. We became jealous, cold toward each other. Frank, poor boy, fell first and fled home. Well, Tom and I talked it over, met together, confessed our love for Edith, shook hands, swearing friendship, and we use all honorable means and endeavors to win her. At Edith's father was a humbug man, like my own, I thought my chances were better, and I was her equal in every education. Tom had the advantage of me in that he could recite Shakspeare, Burns, and Meredith; besides he had wealth. Edith's father did not hang heavy his lack of such assets. We filled her pink ears full of sweet words. She grew rosy, and her eyes changed like the stars; she was full of joy and fun, surely instilling with her witching laugh and ambiguous replies and sweet looks from her spacious eyes. I can see her plainly now just as she stood at the front door gate. With sad, mournful look and voice she bade me good-night and good-by. Well, boys, Tom, poor Tom, he sta

School Books and School Supplies

Our Prices are Rock Bottom, Lower than ever!

We have a full supply of every book used in the Charlevoix schools. Also a full supply for every school in the county.

Something New

In Scratch Books, Spelling Slips, Inks, Pens, Pencils, Rulers, Slates Chalks, School Registers, Etc.

The largest stock of Blank Books in the county!

☞ If you want to save money, call at

G. W. CROUTER'S Drug & Stationery Store,

For supplies in general

Temperance Column.

Conducted by a Committee of the W. C. T. U.

OFFICERS.

President—Mrs. G. W. Jefferis.
First Vice President—Mrs. C. T. Cook.
Second Vice President—Mrs. L. E. Mudge.
Third Vice President—Mrs. Jos. Sinclair.
Recording Secretary—Miss Jessie Bell.
Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. L. E. Allen.
Treasurer—Mrs. C. J. Strang.

Do They Think It Respectable!

In our metropolitan city not long since an artist was engaged in photographing the interior of houses. Of course he sought out elegant rooms. Among other places he found a saloon rich in its adornment, and beautiful to the eye. As he was adjusting his camera he asked the gentleman in charge if he would just remain in his position and be photographed, "Not for worlds," was the quick response, "I should be recognized, and I would not have that for anything!" So removing to another part of the room he left the man to go on with the picture. But there were mirrors in that gorgeous apartment that flashed and reflected the rays of light, and when the photograph was completed, lo! there stood a life-like semblance of that same young man.

It is needless to add that the picture was at once destroyed; but I wonder if it did not occur to the dealer in liquid poison that there are numberless mirr.rs along our streets and byways that are continually reflecting him and his lifework!

The timid young boy who sneaks through the back alley from his first glass; the more defiant youth who thinks he can take a glass behind his drink and not fall; the blear-eyed tippler who goes reeling from the ninth saloon den; the blighted home, the ragged children, the sad faced, broken-hearted wife and mother, all these are mirrors that hold up to public gaze in the full light of day the liquor dealer. Oh there are a thousand mirrors which neither tongue nor pen can describe, that are reflecting on enduring canvas his true lineaments, his deeds and their direful results!—Union Signal.

As It Should Be.

A very fashionable wedding took place recently in a town not far from Philadelphia. The bride was the daughter of a wealthy mill-owner, who employs about three thousand workmen. No money was spared to make the occasion one of joy and festivity. The mills were stopped, and the workmen formed a lane through which the bride, groom, and attendants walked from the bride's home to the church, and as many of them as possible crowded into the church to witness the ceremony. There was one thing absent that is considered almost essential in these days on such occasions—wine. The father of the bride has never allowed liquor to be sold in the town, and said that he would not allow it to be used on this occasion—his example in his own home should harmonize with his precept outside of it. When the bride drove away, men, women and child ren waved and wished her all joy.—Christian Union.

Buckien's Arnica Salve.

The Best Salve in the world for cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Dr. G. W. Crouter.

Only 25 Cents

buys a perfect remedy for sour stomach, diarrhoea, worms, convulsions, feverishness, and loss of sleep. Try it. Dr. Pete's Magic Pain Oil. It effectually relieves external and internal pain. Sold by Perry Weed and Dr. G. W. Crouter.

☞ Ladies appreciate goods of fine quality at low prices and say F. W. Craine & Co. is the place to buy.

☞ F. W. Craine & Co. keep the finest line of yarns, zephyrs, and fancy work goods in town.

A Fairy Cave.

A writer in the Gartenlaube contributes an article on the palaces and buildings of King Ludwig II. in the Bavarian highlands. The description given of the mysterious grotto in the Linderhof carries one in imagination to the splendors of the "Arabian Nights" caves. "It is a high, spacious stalactite cave, with many offsets, secret niches, and alcove recesses, before which you stand. From all corners, niches and clefts of the rock—from many recesses covered with colored glass, to right, to left, above, below—streams a sea light, now yellow, now green, now violet, rose, red or blue, suffusing all parts with an indescribable splendor. Above all its flaming beauty a rainbow spreads its lovely light. The principal cave is about fifteen meters in diameter, and ten meters high. From the background rushes like liquid silver, glittering and breaking into spray, a beautiful waterfall, which falls in babbling cascades down the face of the rock. It feels a little pool, occupying three-quarters of the floor of the cave, whose surface reflects the blending lights with enchanting beauty. On the lake is a golden skiff covered with rose ornaments, the binder part of which enlarges into a shell. Standing on the bow of this diminutive boat is Amor, spanning his bow. Right and left the boat is adorned with red coral. A pair of doves, whose bills are united in kisses, are shown in the act of alighting upon the left side of the boat. Two golden oars await the appearance of the mariner. Above the rock rests the bewitching siren, combing her golden waving locks with a golden comb. On the wall of the cave, too, is Rauch's beautiful picture of "Tannhauser Standing in the Lap of Venus." There is also a mirror three and one-half meters high and two meters broad. These plates were broken in transit before this one was safely affixed to the rock. Near the place where the mirror stands a small stair with wooden rails leads to the King's seat. It is a seat some two meters in length, the back part of which is formed out of a giant shell, while roses and rushes entwine it all around. Here Ludwig King II. loves to sit and gaze at once on pictures of life, love and beauty.

THE GRAND RAPIDS

DAILY DEMOCRAT

Is the popular paper of Western Michigan. Contains the associated press dispatches. Sent by mail at

50 CENTS A MONTH!

Only eleven and one-half cts. a week.

Try it.

The Detroit Free Press

FREE

For the Campaign.

FIFTY CENTS

Will pay for the two best Newspapers published in the State of Michigan

For 4 Mo's.

On receipt of the above amount we will send

The Charlevoix Journal

—And—

THE WEEKLY DETROIT FREE PRESS

to any address for FOUR MONTHS on trial.

Everybody knows The Free Press. It is published in the metropolis of the State, and, as a family newspaper, outranks all others. It is entertaining, newsy, orthodox, spicey and entertaining, and should find a place in every household.

The Journal speaks for itself. It is a second to every resident of this section who would keep himself posted on local affairs.

Subscriptions to both papers will be accepted for only a limited length of time.

SUBSCRIBE AT ONCE.

☞ Send order to

THE JOURNAL,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Old subscribers who desire the Free Press during the campaign can have it under the above offer by paying all arrears to date and at least four months in advance in cash.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Table in effect January, 1886.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Cincinnati, lv	.....	7 30am	7 30pm	.....
Fort Wayne, ar	8 40pm	1 40pm	1 00am	.....
Fort Wayne, lv	.....	1 50	1 15	8 40am
Kalamazoo, ar	.....	4 45	4 00	12 05pm
Kalamazoo, lv	.....	5 20	4 30	2 15
G'd Rapids, ar	.....	6 30pm	5 30	3 15
G'd Rapids, lv	7 00am	.....	7 30am	3 20
G'd T'k Jct, arr	7 45	.....	8 15	4 05
Howard City,	8 20	.....	11 44pm	4 38
Big Rapids,	9 12	.....	1 45	7 30
Reed City, ar	9 55	.....	2 50	7 50
Reed City, lv	.....	.....	2 55	8 00
Cadillac, ar	11 00	.....	4 45	9 35
Cadillac, lv	11 05	.....	4 55	9 40
Walton,	11 45am	.....	5 37	10 26
Kalkaska, lv	.....	.....	6 30	11 24
Kalkaska, ar	.....	.....	6 40	11 35am
Boyne Falls	.....	.....	7 00	1 04
Pelosky, ar	.....	.....	7 10	1 15
Harbor Springs,	.....	.....	8 10pm	2 15am
Mackinaw City	.....	.....	9 10pm	3 15am

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6	No. 8
Mackinaw City	.....	7 15am	3 00pm	.....
Harbor Springs,	.....	.....	4 00	.....
Pelosky, lv	8 34	.....	4 15	.....
Boyne Falls	8 44	.....	11 56	.....
Kalkaska	8 57	.....	12 14am	.....
Kalkaska	10 52	.....	1 28	.....
Walton	11 41	.....	2 21	.....
Cadillac, ar	12 20pm	.....	3 05	5 15pm
Cadillac, lv	12 40	.....	3 15am	5 30
Reed City, ar	1 30	.....	4 05	6 20
Reed City, lv	1 35	.....	7 18	7 50
Big Rapids	2 20	.....	8 05	8 40
Howard City	3 01	.....	9 01	9 13
G'd T'k Jct, arr	3 34	.....	9 41	9 50
G'd Rapids, ar	4 40	.....	11 00	10 20pm
G'd Rapids, lv	7 15am	3 30	11 45	.....
Kalamazoo, ar	8 05	4 35	12 45pm	.....
Kalamazoo, lv	9 10	7 50	1 00	.....
Fort Wayne, ar	12 30pm	11 30	3 30pm	.....
Fort Wayne, lv	1 00	12 05am	.....	3 55am
Cincinnati, ar	7 00pm	7 35am	.....	12 35pm

C. L. LOCKWOOD, G. T. AGNT.
Grand Rapids, Mich.

Detroit, Mackinac & Marquette Railroad.

"Mackinaw Short Line."

Only direct route between the East and South and the Upper Peninsula of Michigan.

Time Table taking effect June 13, 1886.

GOING WEST. Read down.		STATIONS.	GOING EAST. Read up.
†A. M.	†P. M.		†A. M.
7 00	2 00	Detroit		9 00
†P. M.	†A. M.		†P. M.	A. M.
10 20	2 00	St. Ignace	8 30	4 00
7 37	8 03	Newberry	6 33	1 41
7 05	7 30	Dafter	6 55	2 05
6 50	7 12	Rexford	7 10	2 20
5 35	11 31	Au Train	8 15	11 06
1 00	10 40	Marquette ‡	‡ 9 15	10 20
A. M.	P. M.		P. M.	P. M.
8 00	12 50	Marquette	7 00	6 10
1 05	4 55	Ishpeming	12 40	5 30
1 40	5 30	L'Anse	10 45
2 30		Houghton	9 20
3 00		Hancock	8 55

Mixed train leaves St. Ignace at 7:00 a. m., arrives Marquette 5:30 p. m. Leaves Marquette 7:00 a. m., arrives St. Ignace 5:10 p. m.

CONNECTIONS.

(1) Via M. T. Co.'s boats, with Michigan Central and Grand Rapids & Indiana rails, east, and with the elegant sidewheel steamers of the Detroit & Cleveland Steam Navigation company for points on the lower lakes, leaving Detroit daily, Sundays excepted, at 7:00 a. m. (2) Via M. T. Co.'s boats, with Michigan Central and Grand Rapids & Indiana rails, east, and with the elegant sidewheel steamers of the Detroit & Cleveland Steam Navigation company for Buffalo, Cleveland and all points in the east, southeast and south. The boats of this line leave Detroit daily, Sundays excepted, at 7:00 p. m. (3) Via M. T. Co.'s boats, with Wisconsin Central lines for all points in Northern Michigan. (4) With M. T. Co.'s boats for Sault Ste. Marie, Duluth, Minneapolis and all points west. (5) With D. L. & N. railroad for Gaylord, Alpena, Cheboygan, Petoskey and intermediate points.

Connections at Marquette with the Chicago & Northwestern R'y.

Connections at Ishpeming and Negaunee with the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul R'y.

Connections at Ironwood and Bessemer with the Chicago & Northwestern R'y, Wisconsin Central lines, Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic R'y, Ashland & Ironwood R'y, Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul R'y.

Connections at Duluth with the Northern Pacific R'y.

Connections at Watertown with the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul R'y.

Standard—Central time. *Daily. †Daily, except Sundays. ‡Daily, except Saturdays.

A. WATSON, Gen'l Supt. E. S. ALLEN, Gen'l Pass. & Ticket Agt.

THE STAR

A Newspaper supporting the Principles of the Democratic Administration.

Published in the City of New York,

WILLIAM DORSHEIMER,

Editor and Proprietor.

Daily, Sunday, and Weekly Editions.

THE WEEKLY STAR,

A Sixteen-page Newspaper, Issued Every Wednesday.

A clean, pure, bright and interesting FAMILY PAPER.

It combines the latest news, down to the hour of going to press;

Agricultural,
Market,
Fashion,
Household,
Political,
Financial and Commercial,
Poetical, Humorous and Editorial.

Departments, all under the direction of trained journalists of the highest ability. Its sixteen pages will be found crowded with good things from first to last.

TERMS OF THE WEEKLY STAR in Sixpence, FREE of postage in the United States and Canada, outside the limits of New York City:

For year,	$1 00
Clubs of Ten (and one extra to organizer),	10 00
Clubs of Fifteen (and one extra to organizer),	15 00
Clubs of Twenty (and one extra to organizer),	20 00

TERMS OF THE DAILY STAR in Sixpence:

Every day for one year (including Sunday),	$7 00
Every other day, one year,	4 00
Every day, six months,	2 50
Daily, without Sunday, six months,	2 00

Address, THE STAR,
98 and 98 North William St., New York.

Charlevoix and East Jordan.

Steamer GAZELLE—Capt. John Mason.

Morning—Leave Charlevoix 6:30, arrive East Jordan 6:50, leave East Jordan 7:00, arrive Charlevoix 11:00. Afternoon—Leave Charlevoix 2:00, arrive East Jordan 4:00, leave East Jordan 4:30, arrive Charlevoix 6:30. Stopping at intermediate points.

Steamer NORTH STAR—Capt. Mat. Thompson.

Morning—Leave East Jordan 6:30, arrive Charlevoix 8:30; leave Charlevoix 9:30, arrive East Jordan 11:30. Afternoon—Leave East Jordan 1:00, arrive Charlevoix 4:00; leave Charlevoix 4:30, arrive East Jordan 6:30. Stopping at intermediate points.

A Large Stock of

Furniture!

IN

Oak, Maple, Ash, and Cherry,

JUST RECEIVED BY THE

PINE LAKE IRON COMPANY

IRONTON, MICH.

HENRY C. COOPER

Undertaker!

CHARLEVOIX MICHIGAN.

Coffins, Caskets, and Trimmings Always in Stock.

Come and See my Stock of Furniture.

ALL ORDERS BY TELEPHONE RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION

Charlevoix Manufacturing Company,

MANUFACTURERS OF

Sash, Doors, and Blinds,

Screen Doors and Windows, and Mouldings of all Descriptions.

Newell Posts, Banisters, and Stair Rail, of Soft and Hard Wood, kept in Stock and Made and Put Up to Order.

A GOOD STOCK OF

PINE AND BASSWOOD SIDING,

FLOORING CEILING, AND FURNISHING LUMBER KEPT ON HAND.

Also Contractors, Builders, and General Jobbers.

Summer Cottages a Specialty.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN

PERRY WEED,

DRUGGIST AND STATIONER,

OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

CHARLEVOIX

Savings Bank

Organized under the General Banking Law of the State of Michigan.

Henry Bennett, President.
John Nicholls, Vice President;
F. A. Smith, Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

Henry Bennett,		O. D. Wood,
John Nicholls,		A. Buttars.
A. R. Upright.	F. A. Smith.	A. Fox.

CAPITAL, $52,000
Surplus, 2,000

The liabilities of Stockholders in all State banks as provided in Art. 10th, Sec. 40 of Revised Statutes of the State of Michigan, is double the Capital Stock and the Surplus. Also the Surplus fund of $52,000 is deposited with Trustees for the transaction of every legitimate branch of Banking business extended to our customers on terms as favorable as are consistent with safety.

Drafts drawn direct on the leading commercial cities of the world in large or small amounts. Money to loan on approved paper. Exchange bought and sold. Certificates of deposit issued bearing interest.

We respectfully solicit your patronage.

CORRESPONDENTS:

NATIONAL PARK BANK.....NEW YORK.
COMMERCIAL NAT. BANK.....CHICAGO.
NATIONAL CITY BANK.....GRAND RAPIDS.
DETROIT NATIONAL BANK.....DETROIT.

DE LAND & CO'S

CAPITAL SALERATUS

SODA

For Baking Purposes.

Beat in the World.

Sold by Upright & Emrey.

THIS PAPER may be found at Philadelphia, N. W. Ayer & Son's Newspaper Advertising Agency of Street, where Advertising contracts may be made for it in that city.

CHARLEVOIX

Savings Bank

Organized under the General Banking Law of the State of Michigan.

Henry Bennett, President.
John Nicholls, Vice President;
F. A. Smith, Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

Henry Bennett,		O. D. Wood,
John Nicholls		A. Buttars.
A. R. Upright.	F. A. Smith.	A. Fox.

CAPITAL, $52,000
Surplus, 2,000

The liabilities of Stockholders in all State banks as provided in Art. 10th, Sec. 40 of Revised Statutes of the State of Michigan, is double the Capital Stock and the Surplus. Also the Surplus fund of $52,000 is deposited with Trustees for the transaction of every legitimate branch of Banking business extended to our customers on terms as favorable as are consistent with safety.

Drafts drawn direct on the leading commercial cities of the world in large or small amounts. Money to loan on approved paper. Exchange bought and sold. Certificates of deposit issued bearing interest.

We respectfully solicit your patronage.

CORRESPONDENTS:

NATIONAL PARK BANK.....NEW YORK.
COMMERCIAL NAT. BANK.....CHICAGO.
NATIONAL CITY BANK.....GRAND RAPIDS.
DETROIT NATIONAL BANK.....DETROIT.

John Nicholls,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Manufacturer of and dealer in

HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER!

ALSO

Dressed lumber, Oar Blades,

WAGON TONGUES, SHOVELS, LATH, ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER

JAMES HEMMGIS,

On Mason St., third door west of State, Charlevoix.

HOUSE PAINTER,

Calciminer,

Paper Hanger,

And Decorator.

PINS AND HARDWOOD FINISHING. GOOD WORK.

At the Old Stand.

A. J. McLeod

Can be found at the old stand with a

FULL STOCK OF MEATS

Of all kinds

At Wholesale and Retail.

HIDES, PELTS & FAT STOCK WANTED

MISS L. SPAULDING

MILLINERY

and Fancy Goods.

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 167. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 23, 1886. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL

Published every Thursday,

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

Office on Bridge Street,

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

WATCH YOUR ADDRESS LABEL.

The date following the name on your address label indicates the time to which your subscription is paid. It is arrears, you are requested to pay up.

BUSINESS CARDS.

ATTORNEYS.

ARTHUR E. MARTIN, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Michigan. Carefully attended to.

NUTCH & HANK & GRIER, Attorneys at Law and Solicitors in Chancery. Office in Bates Block, Charlevoix, Mich.
A. E. NUTCH, C. J. HANK, C. J. GRIER.

DUNCAN CAMPBELL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents. Lake St., east of post-office, Petoskey, Mich.

FRED W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor at Law, Collections promptly attended to. Office in Court House, Lake St., east of post-office, Petoskey, Mich.

JOHN HOGAN, House Painter and Interior Decorator, Charlevoix, Mich. Residence one door west of factory.

LETTER HEADS, Note Heads, Statements, Bill Heads, etc., neat, clean and quick, at the JOURNAL Office.

WANTED—A Good, Wide-Awake correspondent in every township in this county. Apply to JOURNAL Office.

WANTED—Men to cut cords and ties. Apply to GEORGE BENNS, livery barn, or JAMES DIXON, Terrace Farm, Charlevoix.

Terrace Farm

J. R. & J. S. DIXON

Charlevoix, Mich.

Dairy, Vegetable and Stock Farmers. Thoroughbred and Grade Holsteins a specialty.

COMMERCIAL HOUSE

D. B. JERRUE, Proprietor.

East Jordan, Michigan.

Entirely rebuilt and refurnished. First-class Sample Room for agents. Good Stable in Connection with the House. 25

FARMERS' HOTEL,

T. M. SANDER, MANAGER.

CHARLEVOIX ..... MICHIGAN.

Special accommodations for commercial travelers and for farmers with their families who come to attend fairs. Good stable for feeding teams. The management of this house will not interfere with my usual work at the office in Traverse City.

WM. RANGER.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,

RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix Michigan.

Finest location in town, giving good view of lake and resort. Express office and headquarters for Pelosky, Petoskey, Bay Springs and Boyne City. Good sample room for commercial travelers adjoining hotel.

CHURCHES.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH—Sunday services 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7:00 o'clock. Seats free. Lake St., three blocks west of post-office.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH—Sunday services 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:00 o'clock. C. T. ANDREWS, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer and praise meeting every Sunday evening. Lake St.

J. V. JENNINGS, pastor.

DENTISTRY.

N. J. PERRY, Dentist.

Office at Weed's Drug Store,

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

H. SEFFRIED, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Domestic Cases, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

PHYSICIANS.

L. LEWIS M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office in the Lewis block, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. M. PRESTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HORACE S. HARSHA, Notary Public. Real Estate, Loans, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

G. A. R.—Post Dwyer, No. 384, meets second Monday in each month at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Round Lake Lodge, No. 263, meets every Wednesday evening, in Odd Fellows' hall.

K. O. T. M.—Resort Tent No. 138, meets second Tuesday every month at Odd Fellows' hall.

O. L. of T.—True Blues No. 127, meet Saturday on or before full moon, in Harwood school house.

MASONIC—Charlevoix Lodge No. 365, meets at Loveday on or before full moon, at their hall.

W. F. BROWN, Cashier. W. A. BROWN, Ass't Cashier.

Brown & Co's Bank of Charlevoix

STATE, SAVINGS.

Drafts drawn direct upon the principal cities of the world. Money received on deposit subject to check or certificate. Interest allowed on time deposits. Money to loan on approved paper. Exchange bought and sold. Collections promptly attended to. Interest allowed on deposits. Special attention given to business of parties at a distance. Our facilities for business are unsurpassed.

CORRESPONDENTS:

NATIONAL BANK OF COMMERCE.....NEW YORK.
NATIONAL BANK OF REPUBLIC.....CHICAGO.
NATIONAL BANK OF COMMERCE.....DETROIT.

WEEL DIGGING.

I am prepared to dig, drive, and repair wells of all kinds, and guarantee satisfaction. Leave orders with Stockman & Jennings.

E. W. BENNETT,
Charlevoix, Mich.

Jos. Beauvais

BOAT-BUILDER.

The Best Modeled, Easiest Rowing, and Best Sailing Boats in Northern Michigan, for the Least Money. Give me a Trial. I am bound to Please.

Boat Livery

In connection with shop.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

Heath, Francis & Co.

Builders and Jobbers,

Charlevoix, Mich.

Plans, Specifications, and material furnished, and houses built complete. Repairing and rebuilding done to order.

FINE FURNITURE

Will be made to order, and repairs of all kinds made on short notice. First-class work guaranteed.

Shop on Antrim street, west of Village Hall, Charlevoix, Mich.

1872. 1886.

DR. G. W. CROUTER,

Drugs, Stationery and Wall Paper.

Dental Office in Rear of Drug Store.

Republican caucus met at Frank Smith's, on Sept. 11th, and delegates were sent to the county convention.

Rev. D. F. Ellsworth and S. P. May went to their respective conferences, last week—M. E. and M. P.

Several weeks ago the township school board annexed part of Todd district to district No. 5, at the request of many residents.

School meeting in district No. 3 resulted in M. Hudkins being elected his own successor as assessor. A site for a school house was procured of Charles Hudkins, and the ground is now being cleared. We expect soon to see a school house worthy of the name.

Burgess.

A. Ross is about to purchase a combined seeder and harrow.

School commences in district No. 4, Sept. 27th. It is to be taught by Mr. Thomas Goodrich, a term of four months.

A. W. Chew, of Hayes, has received the republican nomination for county clerk. There are quite a number of probable candidates for that office.

I. S. Webster started for Grand Rapids Monday, to attend the eighth annual fair of the western Michigan agricultural and industrial society.

Elvin Hale has commenced to build a barn on his place.

Plenty of wet weather these days to make up for our dry season.

People are generally busy with fall seeding.

NOTES AND NEWS.

The treasury department has officially fixed the value of coins with hole punched through them as follows: Double eagles, $15; silver dollars, 75 cents; half dollars, 35 cents; quarter-dollars, 18 cents, and dimes 9 cents.

Every year the standard of journalism in this state is going higher and higher, and the editors who from lack of ability, never attempted to rise, not go ahead have the alternative of loading or giving away to some one with money and brains.—Cheboygan Democrat.

Do the voters of Michigan propose to go to the state of Indiana for a governor? Two-thirds of Mr. Luce's farm lies in Indiana and he does his business in Lagrange in that state. He and his brother own a bank in Lagrange, and have been doing loaning notes and working the Grange in the interest of his grandmother who has been his principal accomplice during the last few years.—Lansing Journal.

The policy of the republican party is treason to the republic. It has farmed out prerogatives of government to private individuals and corporations to be prostituted by them to purposes of private gain. Its system of taxation and finance has been a system of transfer of public power to private control for private gain. It has armed one class with the power of taxation and another class with the power of issuing and controling the volume of currency.—Geo. L. Yaple.

The republican nominee for governor says of his opponent: "Yaple is an estimable young man, clean character and conscientious. I know him well and esteem him. He is a close student and one of the finest orators in Michigan. Of course he is not like Horr or Burrows, for he prepares his speeches, but he makes a fine talk. I felt all along that he would be nominated, because the strongest fusion front could be presented with him." The next thing we hear Mr. Luce will be wagering some of his bank stock that Yaple will be elected.

The Money Market.

"See those two men?" asked a bank teller yesterday, as two gentlemen were leaving the bank, and when the reporter answered in the affirmative the teller continued, "They are the chief stockholders and the president and superintendent respectively of one of the largest manufacturing establishments in this city. They are looking for a loan of $10,000 on gilt edge security at five per cent, and they not only have just been refused here, but they say that there bid was declined at the bank where they are regular customers." "Why, what's the matter with the money market, anyhow?" "Nothing. It's as safe a deal as one could ask, but the trouble is there bid is too low. They don't realize that money is booming. Mark what I tell you. The money market has just begun one of the best seasons known in years and business in general this fall and winter is going to be something beautiful."—Free Press.

SAVED BY A CHINAMAN.

The dark days of the riots came on. Celestials were hiding in every conceivable place, some of them break ng for the prairies and open country or seeking refuge at the ranches of farmers within a dozen miles of the city. Among the fugitives was Ching Lee, with his place of business sacked and destroyed, and a howling mob hunting him down. He sought a hiding place in the wagon of a farmer living near Golden. Fearing almost to breathe, the terrified Celestial lay flat in the bottom of the wagon until the barn of Goldsmith, the ranchman, was reached. The latter, all unsuspecting of the living freight he had brought from town, unhitched, fed, and cared for his horses, and went into the house. Ching lay very quiet, listening to the retreating footsteps of the farmer. These had hardly died away before his quick ears caught other sounds, evidently coming from the corner of the barn.

"Sh!" said a voice, "he is not in the house."

"Do you think he brought much money back with him?" asked another voice.

"Yes; he took a great deal of stuff in town, and besides, I heard him say that, on account of the riots, he would draw his money out of the bank, as it would be safer at home."

Cowering down in the wagon, the Chinaman never moved until he saw in the dim twilight the figures of two men stealthily making their way through a small door cut in the large barn door, which they softly closed behind them. No sooner were they out of sight than Ching leaped quickly from the wagon and noiselessly passed through the little wicket, keeping, however, in the shadow of the barn; then crawling on his hands and knees across the open space, he arrived at a clump of bushes near the house. He saw one of the ruffians slowly raising one of the latches, while the other stood behind him with a large revolver cocked and with his finger on the trigger. Lying on the ground near him Ching saw a piece of heavy wood, evidently used as the handle of a pump, which was near by. Seizing this with both hands he rose from his crouching position and dealt the robber nearest him a terrible blow on the head, felling him to the ground. At the same moment there was a flash and a report, and the second robber fell to the ground with a groan. For a moment all was quiet; then the back door of the house was opened, and the farmer cautiously approached with the still smoking pistol in his hand. Seeing Ching in the moonlight, which now illuminated the scene, he covered him with his pistol. At this moment he caught sight of the two prostrate robbers. "Who are you, and what do you want?" he asked, addressing Ching. "Me Chinaman. Bad Merican man killee you and take money," said Ching, pointing to the men, who were beginning to show life.

"How did you get there?" asked Goldsmith.

"Me hide in your wagon; come from Denver."

Gradually the situation dawned upon the farmer, and, seeing the club, which was still grasped by Ching, and its terrible effect on one of the ruffians, he realized that the Chinaman had largely contributed toward saving his property, and perhaps his life, as it was the blow from his club and the cry of his victim as he fell which attracted his attention and caused him to shoot at the other burglar.

With the aid of Ching the two men were securely bound, it first having been ascertained that neither of them was dangerously wounded. They were taken to the city, and in due course of time, tried, convicted, and sentenced to ten years in Canon Penitentiary. Goldsmith offered in his gratitude a home to Ching, who, tired of the persecutions and terrors of the city, accepted the offer, and is today one of the best and most experienced farmers and fruit-growers in the country, being a permanent fixture at the Goldsmith ranch.—Denver News.

A TAIL-TOSSER.

"Sir up that mass of leaves," said my friend, as we passed a heap, the droppings from a large live oak. We had left the brook, that in the higher level was full, and were now following the narrow trail. Inserting my gun-barrel under the pile, out ran a black lizard about six inches in length. The hunter quickly stepped in front of it, when the little creature, seeing that it was surrounded, stopped, raised itself high on its short legs, and bowed its head several times, turning its eyes inquisitively upon us.

"I thought I saw one run under the leaves," said my companion, "and I want to show you another instance of a peculiar method of protection. This lizard is black because it lives upon the rocks, dark ones, in gloomy places, but down the valley you will find the same lizard on sunny roads very much lighter in hue—in fact, it also changes its colors, so that it is nearing to what I hope to show you. This fellow is a tail-loser; in other words, he can instantly, by a jerk of his body, shake off as much of his tail as occasion requires. You can easily see what a protection this is. An enemy in chase seizes the lizard by the tail, and the member is thrown off, and while the follower is engaged in devouring it the animal itself is off. This is quite remarkable, but there is more. The lizard can throw off its tail at will to distract the attention of the pursuer. Now, I will make the attack, and you watch the tail while I catch the body."

The lizard-hunter then began a series of movements with the switch that made the little animal, that was now pulling out its throat in anger or fear and showing a vivid metallic blue patch upon the side, dart about in an undecided way, looking vainly for a loophole of escape. Finally, when the lizard was fully aroused, the switch was brought down just behind it with extreme violence. A whisk of the black body, a gleam of metallic blue, and the lizard was gone, the hunter after it, while I stood with eyes riveted on what for a moment I considered a worm that had escaped from the mouth of the reptile. It was the tail, however, leaping up and down upon the leaves, twisting and contorting itself in a variety of positions and looking exactly like a worm that had been disturbed and was trying to show its displeasure. For fully two minutes this rejected member twisted and writhed and then gradually lost its seeming life. In the meantime the lizard had been captured and it was found that the tail had been tossed or cast almost at its base or where it joined the animal.

"You see the idea," said the hunter. "The lizard thought that he was about to be captured and that harsh measures were necessary, so in an instant he decided to part with his tail, hoping in this way to distract our attention from the body part which would run off. The tail is jerked off or tossed by a quick side motion of the body, and the moment it is severed the animal darts away so rapidly and naturally the pursuer stops to examine the leaping tail, that to a bird might seem a worm, and with any animal would arouse curiosity enough to delay it long enough for the lizard to escape.

"This fellow has had hard luck," continued the speaker, holding up the tail. "You see how much smaller a part of the tail is then the rest. The scales are more delicate, and it has a bluish cast quite different from the rest. That means that the lizard has been through this operation before, and this tail that it has just cast had not really attained its full growth."

"Then they reproduce them?" I asked.

"Certainly, or else where would be the benefit? The tail and all the bones grow again, and will an indefinite number of times. The only drawback is that it takes time, perhaps three months or more in summer, to attain its growth. Sometimes two tails are reproduced instead of one, but this is only in rare cases. In Asia some of the geckos are tail-losers, and a gecko has been seen to throw off its tail and then, as if desired itself, seize and swallow it."—Southern California Correspondence.

Uninformed.

A bright-eyed little girl of 9 years was on board a Kansas Pacific train bound for Denver. She had never before been beyond the limits of her eastern home and manifested unusual interest in all she saw.

The wide plains and the prairie dogs interested her, but she was most anxious to see a genuine specimen of that purely western product—a cowboy.

The train was waiting at a station in Kansas when the longed-for cowboy appeared. He was in typical specimen—wide sombrero, leather breeches, red flannel shirt, a belt filled with knives and pistols, and a desperate-looking character generally.

"There is a cowboy for you," whispered a gentleman to the little girl.

"What! that?" she asked in undisguised surprise and evident disappointment. "Why! I always thought a cowboy was part boy and part cow."—Detroit Free Press.

Don't Experiment.

You cannot afford to waste time in experimenting when your lungs are in danger. Consumption always seems, at first, only a cold. Do not permit any dealer to impose upon you with some cheap imitation of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, coughs and colds, but be sure you get the genuine. Because he can make more profit he may tell you he has something just as good, or just the same. But it will be discovered, but insist upon getting Dr. King's New Discovery, which is guaranteed to give relief in all throat, lung, and chest affections. Trial Bottles free at Dr. G. W. Crouter's.

Saved His Leg.

Mr. D. I. Wilcoxson, of Horse Cave, Ky., says he was, for many years, afflicted with phthisic, diabetes; the pains were almost unendurable and would sometimes absent from his business occasions. He tried electric bitters and got relief from first bottle and after taking six bottles was entirely cured, and had gained in flesh 8 pounds. Says he positively believes he would have died, had it not been for the relief afforded by Electric Bitters. Sold at 50 cents a bottle by Dr. G. W. Crouter.

When the system is debilit

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

EASTERN.

The litigation pending for the last six years between Jacob Rosse of Pittsburg, the inventor of the basic steel process, and the Bessemer Steel Company has been decided in favor of Mr. Rosse, and the Bessemer Company is ordered to pay the costs.

The hops in the principal counties of New York have been harvested, the yield being less than one-eighth of an average crop. The quality is reported as exceedingly poor.

At Irvington-on-the-Hudson, George J. Gould, eldest son of Jay Gould, the millionaire, was united in marriage to Miss Edith Kingdon, the actress, who arrived from Europe a few hours previous to the ceremony.

New York dispatch: "James G. Blaine Jr. has returned to this city and rejoined his bride. After their marriage the young couple went to Boston, where they remained two days. Young Blaine then started for his home, while his bride returned to this city. Mr. J. G. Blaine has declared his son, and has given him a liberal allowance to spend during the honeymoon."

Albert Hanson, a New York lad, has been placed in the Tombs for making an attempt to hop from the Brooklyn bridge.

On the Nickel-Plate Road, at Silver Creek, N. Y., an excursion train from Erie collided with a freight train from Buffalo. Twelve persons were killed and fourteen injured.

Fifty-three liquor-dealers have been indicted at Providence, R. I., for maintaining liquor nuisances.

A newspaper train on the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad made the run from Syracuse to Buffalo, a distance of 145 7-10 miles, in 190 minutes, actual running time. This is regarded as the fastest time ever made on a railroad.

WESTERN.

C. V. Holtzschuerr, a druggist of Creston, Ia., was found guilty in the Supreme Court on thirty separate counts of selling intoxicating liquors in violation of the pharmacy law, and fined $1,500 and costs.

Judge Honner, of Nebraska, has been fined for $50,000 damages by an ex-convict named Williams. The latter killed a father and son in Kearney County eleven years ago, and Honner was his counsel. A sentence of ten years' imprisonment was imposed in Buffalo County, where Williams did not wish to be tried, desiring a change of venue.

Mrs. Anna Leach of Cleveland, Ohio, attempted to light her fire with coal oil and set fire to her house. The house and three unfinished her dead body was found on the floor.

The authorities of La Porte County, Indiana, having within three months paid out $1,000 as bounty for wolf-dead scalps, and finding no decrease in the number of the pests, has decided to stop the leak in the treasury.

Gordon S. Hubbard, who has just died at Chicago, bound there in 1837, still employed by the American Fur Company as a clerk. Besides Fort Dearborn and the residence of John Kinzie there was only one log cabin. Some years afterward he established trading posts between the Kankakee and Sangamon Rivers, having learned the Indian language. In 1854, at the corner of Franklin and South Water streets, he built the first brick building in Chicago. In organizing a line of vessels to Buffalo he used Commodore Perry's flagship and the captured British flagship. He was born in Tuxnuah in 1802. He leaves a second wife, a son and daughter, and four aged sisters.

Miss Buckmeyer, of Geneva, Ill., 51 years of age, living by herself, was strangled by robbers, who set fire to her house and escaped. In the ruins of the building was found gold coin to the amount of $700.

A fire at Elgin, Ill., early in the morning, destroyed Dubois' Opera House, valued at $100,000. A merchant named Theodore F. Swan received fatal injuries from a falling window cap.

In the Detroit Methodist Episcopal Conference, at Adrian, Mich., the members placed themselves on record as opposed to all liquor laws that did not suppress the saloons.

The Howard County Bank at Glasgow, Mo., has failed, with alleged assets of $60,000. The President of the concern says the depositors will be paid in full.

WASHINGTON.

Thomas E. Benedict has taken charge of the Public Printer; office at Washington, having filed his bond for $100,000.

There have been 239,000,000 silver dollars coined under the Bland act.

The State Department at Washington has received no demand for the release of the Canada sealing vessels recently seized in the waters of Alaska.

The total value of the exports of cattle and hogs during the year 1886, were $1,281,723; 1885, $1,076,133; beef and pork products, August, 1886, $6,135,399; 1885, $6,051,189; dairy products, August, 1886, $1,398,087; 1885, $1,397,618.

The Director of the Mint has issued the following circular in regard to the issue of silver coins:

Five-cent nickel pieces and one-cent copper pieces will be forwarded in the order of application from the mint of the United States at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, to points reached by the Adams Express Company, free of transportation charges, upon the receipt of 200 or multiples thereof upon the usual requisition for collection by the Superintendent of the Mint, and upon the New York or Philadelphia, payable to his order, to points not reached by the Adams Express Company, and where delivery cannot be effected with the Government is thus imposed upon the recipient of the coin on the same terms as sent by registered mail at the applicant's risk, registry fee on the coin being paid to the Government. Orders for transportation at the risk of the applicant should express the acceptance of the risk.

S. H. Calhoun has been appointed Collector of Internal Revenue for Nebraska.

W. J. Davis, of Illinois, has been appointed Superintendent of the Indian Industrial School to be established at Grand Junction, Colorado.

The Treasury Department holds that the reimportation of domestic liquors must be governed by the particular proofs submitted to the local collector.

SOUTHERN.

A negro named Irwin Murray was hanged at Georgetown, Texas, to the presence of 6,000 people, for the murder of his wife in December last.

New Orleans had a $75,000 fire, which destroyed the clothing establishment of C. Lazard & Co.

Edward White, of Western Port, Md., was shot dead in the street by Daniel Johnson, a lunatic. The murderer was locked up. A number of citizens went to the jail, placed a rope around Johnson's neck, dragged him to the bridge that crosses the Potomac, and, after making fast the rope to the rail, hade him walk off. His neck was broken. The rope was cut, and the body floated away in the current.

It is said that $1,000,000 is needed but the necessary repairs on the houses of persons in Charleston who are unable to make their homes habitable. Gen. Lucius Fairchild, of Wisconsin, Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Army, who has been engaged at Charleston in investigating the necessities of the people, has issued an appeal to the Grand Army for assistance.

The acting Secretary of the Treasury has made another call for $15,000,000 in three per cent. bonds, and also offers to pay par and accrued for all securities of that class presented at the department.

RAILROAD INTELLIGENCE.

Grading has commenced on seventy-one miles of track, from Janesville to Evansville, Wis., by which the Chicago and Northwestern will gain fourteen miles between Chicago and St. Paul.

Californians have lately purchased in Utah and Nevada large quantities of wool, which they shipped by the Central Pacific Road to San Francisco at local rates and reshipped over the same tracks for Boston at 75 cents per hundred pounds.

Agents of the Illinois Central Road are reported to be purchasing right of way in Mississippi for a branch from Milwaukee. Rumors prevail that the Illinois Central will build a main trunk northward through Madison, and will also construct a branch between Janesville and Milwaukee.

It is stated that Jay Gould has virtually decided upon the construction of an extension of the Missouri Pacific from Wichita to the Rocky Mountains and Mexico. Surveyors are said to be now in the field locating the line. The terminus has not yet been decided upon, but will either be Pueblo or some point further south on the Canadian River, and at either one or the other point connection is to be made with the Denver and New Orleans Railroad.

POLITICAL.

The Republicans of New Hampshire, in convention at Concord, nominated Colonel Charles H. Sawyer for Governor. A platform was adopted which favors "honest money, as opposed to irredeemable paper currency and an unlimited silver coinage" the protection of American industry and capital; universal education, and the honest and economical adjustment of the affairs of both national and State government; the exclusion of paupers from the polls; the abolition of child labor in manufacturing and corporations; and the system to be peopled of constitutional prohibition amendments. President Cleveland is arraigned for vetoing the pension bills, and the Democratic party in Congress is censured for opposing Mormon and American commerce, and for its inactivity on the fisheries question.

J. P. Meagher presided over the Minnesota Democratic State Convention, at St. Paul, at which the following ticket was nominated: Governor, Dr. L. A. Ames; Lieutenant Governor, John Frank; Secretary of State, Loth Jaeger; Auditor, J. G. Lindberg; Treasurer, Henry Poehler; Attorney General, John H. Ives; Clerk Supreme Court, G. T. Grabner. The platform eulogizes President Cleveland's administration and denounces the Republican administration of State affairs. It demands a return of gold and silver coin of equal value, and proper convertible note either. It favors a revision of the tariff and its adjustment to a revenue basis, and the elevation of the Commissioner of Agriculture to a Cabinet office. The labor plank favors an eight-hour system, the establishment of a State labor bureau, legislation to secure the payment of wages, to improve the health and secure the safety of employes, and provide indemnification for injuries received, to prohibit child and female labor, and the seizure of public work by contract, to protect the people from miners and tax-title sharks, and to govern the arbitration of labor disputes. The importation of foreign contract labor and all compulsory legislation are denounced. Sympathy with the Irish patriots is expressed.

Judge L. R. Larsen, of East Claire, presided over the Wisconsin Democratic Convention, at Madison. Gilbert A. Woodward, of La Crosse, was nominated for Governor by acclamation. The remainder of the ticket is as follows: Lieutenant Governor, J. W. Putnam; Secretary of State, John C. Ludwig; Treasurer, John A. Johnson; Attorney General, George W. Bird; Superintendent of Schools, Edward McLaughlin; Railroad Commissioner, James Meehan; Insurance Commissioner, John Barrett. The platform adopted commends the administration of President Cleveland, approves the action of the House of Representatives in declaring forfeited immense land grants, demands the abolition of the convict contract labor system, opposes the importation of foreign contract labor, declares the party opposed to all monopolies, declares that the reduction of tariff to a revenue basis is a cardinal Democratic principle, and that the Democratic Congressmen who voted against considering a bill for reduction of tariff deserve no recognition in Democratic counsels. The plank on the temperance question is as follows:

The intemperate and excessive use of existing liquors is earnestly to be deplored, and we believe the liquor traffic should be regulated by reasonable and liberal license laws; but we repudiate the doctrine of sumptuary or prohibitory laws, sanctioned neither by local, designed exclusively for the benefit of the people of the personal habits of the citizens, as an excess of legislative power unwarranted by the principles of our free government, and violative of all free government, and justified by no practical results yet attained in the experience of mankind.

Congressman Lore has withdrawn from the contest for United States Senator from Delaware.

The Taylor brothers, rival candidates for Governor of Tennessee, occupied the same room in an hotel at Chattanooga, where they entertained their friends with familiar melodies on each side.

THE INDUSTRIAL OUTLOOK.

The stove-foundry employes of Philadelphia are on a strike. Manufacturers have plenty of orders, and it is thought a compromise will be effected.

The National Association of Stationers, meeting at Boston, elected the following officers: President, Frank A. Foster, New Haven; Vice President, H. O. Smith, New York; Secretary, C. C. Moore, Cincinnati; Treasurer, G. M. Barker, Nashua; Assistant Secretary, M. M. Walbridge, Chicago; Doorkeeper, Harry Knowlton, Detroit, Mich.

The British Trades-union Congress adopted resolutions against the employment of women and children, on the ground that it was causing idleness and poverty among thousands of men, by taking the bread from work.

About five hundred ironworkers and shipbuilders at Bath, Maine, struck on account of a reduction in wages.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Apache captives have gone to Florida in charge of General Miles. The Secretary of War has ordered that Geronimo, Nahdoko, and other leaders be imprisoned at San Antonio until a decision can be reached as to their mode of trial.

The Canadian Government has made a peremptory demand upon the United States for the release of the Canadian schooner Onward, recently seized in Alaskan waters by the United States revenue cutter Corwin. The demand declares that the claim of the United States is unfounded, and that the seizure was made in a foreign port, where the Corwin had no right to be. After the release of the Canadian schooner Onward, the Canadian Government has made a demand for the release of the Canadian sealer Grand Manan, and also of the Canadian schooner Onward, recently seized in Alaskan waters by the United States revenue cutter Corwin. The demand declares that the claim of the United States is unfounded, and that the seizure was made in a foreign port, where the Corwin had no right to be. After the release of the Canadian schooner Onward, the Canadian Government has made a demand for the release of the Canadian sealer Grand Manan, and also of the Canadian schooner Onward, recently seized in Alaskan waters by the United States revenue cutter Corwin. The demand declares that the claim of the United States is unfounded, and that the seizure was made in a foreign port, where the Corwin had no right to be.

LATER NEWS ITEMS.

A great rain-storm, in many sections accompanied by violent wind, swept over the Lower Michigan comes to have suffered more than any other State from the meteorological disturbance. In Livingston, Washtenaw, Wayne, Lenawee, and Monroe Counties the wind blew a hurricane, playing havoc with farm property, barns, wind-mills, fences and standing timber. At Howell four buildings were demolished and one man killed. At Brighton the German Lutheran Church was blown from its foundation, and the military buildings at Orchard Lake were destroyed. Flat Rock escaped damage by the storm dividing and passing in sections on each side of it. The western part of the city of Adrian was considerably damaged, though no fatalities are reported. There is a rumor that great havoc was wrought at Monroe, but as the wires were all prostrated by the elements no particulars are at hand at this writing. Indiana also suffered great damage from the chemical disturbance. Many buildings were unroofed at Terre Haute, and the loss is placed at $50,000. At Newport, Vermilion County, six buildings were wrecked, but, strange to say, no fatalities are reported. The damage along the Wabash valley to farm property is estimated at $100,000. The storm was felt in Illinois Chicago. In this city the roof was torn from Masonic Hall, and many houses were blown by the hailstorm, which were of unusual size. Shutters were torn off, trees were wrecked, stock killed, fences and trees levelled, and grain sacks scattered. The largest saw-mill in the United States, located at Chippewa Falls, Wis., worth $250,000, was destroyed by a stroke of lightning during the progress of the storm.

The Wisconsin Labor Party assembled in State Convention at Neenah, and nominated an out-and-out labor ticket, headed as follows: Governor, Colonel John B. Cochrane; Lieutenant Governor, George A. Ott; Secretary of State, J. F. Jaqueroz; State Treasurer, Frederick Hoeing; Attorney General, John E. Thomas; Railroad Commissioner, Henry Zaun; Superintendent of Public Instruction, J. E. Roberts; Insurance Commissioner, Ritter Stephens. The platform declares that the use of force in any form to settle disputes is utterly unjustifiable in a civilized community, whether advised by fanatical anarchists or practiced by corrupt politicians; favors the government control of money, land, means of communication, and public improvements; advocates labor bureaus conducted in the interests of the whole people; the simplification of laws to put one on each subject; arbitration in place of strikes; the prohibition of child and convict labor; opposes the importation of foreign contract labor, declares the party opposed to all monopolies, declares that the reduction of tariff to a revenue basis is a cardinal Democratic principle, and that the Democratic Congressmen who voted against considering a bill for reduction of tariff deserve no recognition in Democratic counsels. The plank on the temperance question is as follows:

The intemperate and excessive use of existing liquors is earnestly to be deplored, and we believe the liquor traffic should be regulated by reasonable and liberal license laws; but we repudiate the doctrine of sumptuary or prohibitory laws, sanctioned neither by local, designed exclusively for the benefit of the people of the personal habits of the citizens, as an excess of legislative power unwarranted by the principles of our free government, and violative of all free government, and justified by no practical results yet attained in the experience of mankind.

Congressman Lore has withdrawn from the contest for United States Senator from Delaware.

The Taylor brothers, rival candidates for Governor of Tennessee, occupied the same room in an hotel at Chattanooga, where they entertained their friends with familiar melodies on each side.

THE INDUSTRIAL OUTLOOK.

The stove-foundry employes of Philadelphia are on a strike. Manufacturers have plenty of orders, and it is thought a compromise will be effected.

The National Association of Stationers, meeting at Boston, elected the following officers: President, Frank A. Foster, New Haven; Vice President, H. O. Smith, New York; Secretary, C. C. Moore, Cincinnati; Treasurer, G. M. Barker, Nashua; Assistant Secretary, M. M. Walbridge, Chicago; Doorkeeper, Harry Knowlton, Detroit, Mich.

The British Trades-union Congress adopted resolutions against the employment of women and children, on the ground that it was causing idleness and poverty among thousands of men, by taking the bread from work.

About five hundred ironworkers and shipbuilders at Bath, Maine, struck on account of a reduction in wages.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Apache captives have gone to Florida in charge of General Miles. The Secretary of War has ordered that Geronimo, Nahdoko, and other leaders be imprisoned at San Antonio until a decision can be reached as to their mode of trial.

The Canadian Government has made a peremptory demand upon the United States for the release of the Canadian schooner Onward, recently seized in Alaskan waters by the United States revenue cutter Corwin. The demand declares that the claim of the United States is unfounded, and that the seizure was made in a foreign port, where the Corwin had no right to be. After the release of the Canadian schooner Onward, the Canadian Government has made a demand for the release of the Canadian sealer Grand Manan, and also of the Canadian schooner Onward, recently seized in Alaskan waters by the United States revenue cutter Corwin. The demand declares that the claim of the United States is unfounded, and that the seizure was made in a foreign port, where the Corwin had no right to be.

Close to the ice quarters of General Buller, in Ireland, a baby who had made some exclusives was unmercifully beaten by the women of a Catholic church where he appeared. A priest who subsequently baptized the unfortunate man to bear mass was denounced in bitter language.

Turkey, it is said, demands that England evacuate Egypt, and is backed by Russia.

One hundred excitement notices have been posted in Lord Annesley's tenants in County Down, Ireland.

Several Roman spies, disguised as priests, have been discovered in Germany.

Father Faly, a priest at Woodford, Ireland, who was confessed to six months' imprisonment for threatening a man in Kilcolgan, who made evictions, has been transferred to the jail at Galway on account of the excitement among the people.

Cholera is gaining ground in Austria. Turkey has ordered the establishment of a five days' quarantine against all arrivals from Austrian ports because of the existence of cholera in Buda-Pesth.

A French newspaper publishes a London telegram stating that England contains a grand coup d'etat, and will probably abandon Egypt a British possession.

Satisfactory assurances from France have caused the tension between that country and Germany to largely vanish.

BASE-BALL

A Lively Race Between Chicago and Detroit for the League Pennant.

The Chicago and Detroit Base-Ball Clubs are having a neck-and-neck race for the central championship pennant of the National League. The present leaders have a slight lead at present. The following table shows the standing of the eight clubs at this writing:

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

Clubs.	Games Won	Games Lost
Chicago	73	34
Detroit	72	35
New York	59	42
Philadelphia	56	45
Boston	56	46
Pittsburg	46	56
Kansas City	35	67
Washington	29	73
St. Louis	28	74

The St. Louis club has a long lead in the contest for the championship of the American Association, with Louisville, Pittsburgh, Brooklyn, Cincinnati, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and New York following in the order named.

Chicago has drawn another prize in the young catcher, Lewis Hardie, who, previous to the California League, was a catcher, sure thrower, good batter, and fast runner.

Kelly, Anson, and Brouthers are having a close contest for supremacy at the head of the League. They lead all the other batsmen, and are so close together that the position may almost be regarded as a tie. Anson has played in every game. Almost as much interest is taken in the result as in the contest for the championship.

REV. G. C. HADDOCK.

Sketch of the Temperance Advocate Murdered in Sioux City, Iowa.

Rev. George C. Haddock was born in Watertown, N. Y., in the year 1831. He received a fair education at the Black River Institute, of that place, where he was an industrious and exemplary student. After learning the printing business, he worked as a journeyman in various places for some years. He then settled down at Beaver Dam, Wis., where he published a paper. This was in 1855, four years after his marriage. In 1863 he entered the Methodist ministry in Wisconsin, Wis. He subsequently filled several appointments in Wisconsin. In 1869 he was appointed to Burlington, Iowa. After serving in that place and Fort Dodge, in October, 1885, he removed to Sioux City, where he was in charge when murdered. He was a man of powerful physique, full of energy and possessed of great ability, when opportunity was given, to hold himself against the world. Rev. G. C. Haddock's only child, a son, is practicing law at Oshkosh, Wis.

THE IRON HORSE.

The Enormous Railway Construction of the Present Year.

The railway construction for this year is something enormous. During the first eight months of the year there have been 9,473 miles of main line track, not including sidings, etc., in thirty-six of the forty-four States and Territories, upon 152 different lines of road. During 1885 there were only 3,131 miles of road built in the entire Dominion. This year the average has been, since July 1, nearly 20 miles of new track for every working day, and on 95 of the 165 lines mentioned work is still in progress. In addition to this, tracklaying is about to commence on a number of other lines which have the grading about completed. It is estimated that the total mileage for the year will largely exceed 6,000 miles, or nearly twice that of either 1884 or 1885. Kansas leads the way in activity in railway building this year, with 600 miles of rails, on eighteen different lines, having completed 300 miles, and the work continuing with unabated vigor. Texas has built more than 300 miles, and Wisconsin 325 miles. Nebraska has put down 300 miles and has completed in a nearly completed state to add several hundred miles to the total for the new year. Dakota has 240 miles of new track, and will make or complete the twelve snow lines. Florida leads the Southern States with a new mileage of 225 miles of track, which will be largely increased. The industry is now active in that country. In Michigan the yield will be nearly a full average, and Indiana will probably exceed the yield of a year ago. In Nebraska the yield will be fully 85 per cent. of an average yield.

The reports continue to indicate that early plant potatoes promise a fair yield, while nearly all late-planted potatoes are very poor, bringing generally less than one-fourth the usual yield. The average of

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

DEMOCRATIC NOMINATIONS.

State Ticket.

For Governor—
GEORGE L. YAPLE, of St. Joseph.

For Lieutenant-Governor—
SOLOMON S. CURRY, of Marquette.

For Secretary of State—
PHILLIP B. WACHTEL, of Emmet.

For State Treasurer—
WILLIAM G. BEARD, of Bay.

For Auditor-General—
JUDSON S. PARKER, of Macomb.

For Attorney General—
JOHN C. DONNELLY, of Wayne.

For Commissioner of State Land Office—
ALONZO T. FRIZBIE, of Livingston.

For Superintendent of Public Instruction—
DAVID PARSONS, of Wayne.

For Member of State Board of Education—
JEROME W. TURNER, of Shiawassee.

Congressional Ticket.

For Representative in Congress, Ninth District
LYMAN G. MASON, of Muskegon.

County Ticket.

For Sheriff—
DANIEL B. JERRUE, of South Arm.

For County Clerk—
WILLIAM F. PALMITER, of South Arm.

For County Treasurer—
ORLANDO BLAIR, of South Arm.

For Register of Deeds—
ELISHA H. SHEPARD, of Evangeline.

For Prosecuting Attorney—
MILTON M. BURNHAM, of South Arm.

For Circuit Court Commissioner—
ARTHUR E. MARTIN, of Evangeline.

For County Surveyor—
SIDNEY HAYDEN, of Eveline.

For Coroners—
DAVILLE D. HILTON, of Norwood.
ROBERT FINDLEY, of Boyne Valley.

Legislative Ticket.

For Representative in the State Legislature, Charlevoix District—
EDWIN S. NOBLE, of Elk Rapids.

Democratic Platform.

Resolved, That the democracy of Michigan in convention assembled, sincerely deplore the untimely death of those patriotic statesmen and eminent leaders of the Democratic party, Hon. Thos. A. Ferry, Hon. Chas. P. Ives, Hon. Thos. A. Hendricks and Hon. Wm. A. Eaton. Their illustrious services may serve as an example for those upon whom shall devolve the responsibility of leadership.

Resolved, That the administration of Grover Cleveland, by its vigor and thoroughness in the precedence it has given to the interests of suffering public service over those of partisans; by its practical denial of the proposition of governing by means of federal appointments; by the disbursement of office-seeking through the channels of civil service; by its efforts to preserve the land for actual settlers; by restoring by practical administration the great principle "a public office is a public trust," commends itself to the judgement and approval of the people.

Resolved, That though more than twenty years have elapsed since the war, we should not forget that a large number of our fellow citizens are still among us. That while our united country are still among us. That while our united country are still among us. That while our disability, the result of time privations and hardships, and we believe the general government should provide by with them and that the liberal pensions should be granted to wounded and disabled, not as a charity, but as a just return for inestimable services rendered their country.

Resolved, That taxation of the people for other purposes than raising revenue for the expenses of the government economically administered is robbery under the forms of the law; we are therefore in favor of a revision of the present unjust tariff and its adjustment to a revenue basis.

Resolved, That the democracy of Michigan, believing in the dignity of American labor, decapitalize the right of wage workers to the fostering care of government to the end that the profitable industry in every walk of life shall be encouraged, that the wealth, building up the material interests of the state.

Resolved, That we pledge ourselves to legislation which shall forever debar convict labor from competing with the honest producers of the country, and which shall forbid for all time the introduction to our shores of cheap contract labor.

Resolved, That the ownership of real estate in this country by foreign corporations and monopolists alone is injurious to American interests and should be prohibited.

Resolved, That we are in favor of the free coinage of gold and silver at the present standards.

Resolved, That as a party we endorse the policy of applying the surplus in the national treasury of the United States, remaining after payment of the national debt, sufficient to the payment of the interest upon the national bonds, and the interest upon the national government of legal tender treasury notes, gold and silver coin, and the bonds of the states.

Resolved, That we favor the adoption of measures providing for the protection of the lives of those engaged in mining, manufacturing and building industries, and for identification to be enforced through therein, requiring laborers through lack of proper safeguards.

Resolved, That we favor the repeal of all class legislation under which monopolies have been fostered and protected.

THE COUNTY CONVENTION.

At the convention at Boyne City last Saturday, to nominate county officers, A. D. Crooksbank was made chairman and N. N. Card secretary.

A committee of five on credentials was appointed, as follows: J. Milo Eaton, A. P. Hensley, B. F. Ingalls, F. Martinek, and Ava Smith. This committee reported delegates present as follows:

Bear Lake—D. Harrington, C. Hawkins.
Boyne Valley—S. M. Jones, E. Eddy.
Chandler—A. F. Blocks, Wm. Morton.
Charlevoix—A. D. Crooksbank, J. Milo Eaton, J. McLeod, G. E. Sweetland, J. E. Allen, F. M. Clark.
Evangeline—B. F. Ingalls, J. R. Fellows, H. Flanigan, John Webster, Chas. Hendricks.
Eveline—A. B. Noyes, A. Geers, Ava Smith, E. Newsom, R. Williams.
Hayes—F. J. Smith, I. Stauffer, H. S. Newson, Hudson—Geo. Lee.
Melrose—N. N. Card, Geo. Hawkins.
South Arm—R. J. Murphy, P. Walsh, S. G. Isaman, Frank Martinek, J. Monroe, Sr., W. Mullian.
Springvale—C. M. Reddo.
Wilson—Robert Shepard.

The committee of conference appointed at the July convention to arrange a division of the county ticket with the greenback party, reported that a division could probably be satisfactorily arranged.

Mr. Jerrue withdrew from that committee, and D. Harrington was substituted, and the committee instructed to confer further with the greenback party, then in session in Boyne City.

The convention then took a recess, till one o'clock.

On reassembling after dinner, a proposition was received from the greenback party to divide the ticket as follows: The democrats to nominate sheriff, prosecuting attorney, circuit court commissioner, surveyor, and one coroner. The greenback party to nominate register, treasurer, clerk, and one coroner.

After considerable discussion, this division was finally accepted, and the democratic portion of the ticket nominated as found at the head of this column.

A committee from the greenback convention reported their nominations, which were endorsed.

A county committee was then appointed, as follows:

Chairman—A. D. Crooksbank.
Secretary—G. E. Sweetland.
Bear Lake—D. Harrington.
Boyne Valley—O. H. Marsh.
Charlevoix—A. D. Crooksbank.
Chandler—J. Mackey.
Evangeline—R. M. Codwell.
Eveline—Ava Smith.
Hayes—R. S. Newson.
Hudson—to be supplied.
Marion—Ben Rice.
Melrose—A. A. Watkins.
Norwood—Ed. Cook.
Resort—J. Williams.
South Arm—S. G. Isaman.
Springvale—— Adams.
Wilson—Robert Shepard.

A vote of thanks was tendered J. Milo Eaton for his past services as chairman of the county committee.

THE REPRESENTATIVE CONVENTION.

The democratic and greenback parties of the Charlevoix representative district, composed of the counties of Antrim, Charlevoix, and Manitou, in joint convention assembled in Bartholomew's opera house, placed in nomination Mr. Edwin S. Noble, of Elk Rapids.

Mr. Noble is well known all over the district. He represents probably more business and capital than any other man in the district, is every way well qualified for the position, and has a host of friends wherever he is known.

The joint convention pledged to him their earnest and hearty support from now until election night.

A democratic representative committee was named, as follows: For Antrim county, Peter Jackson, of Mancelona; Charlevoix county, J. Milo Eaton, of Charlevoix; Manitou county, Jas. Dunlavy, of St. James.

The greenback party named W. R. Grant, of Mancelona, for Antrim county, and Jas. Washburn, of Charlevoix, for Charlevoix county. A committeeman for Manitou will be named in the future.

Another Bond Call.

The treasury department has issued another call for $15,000,000 of the three per cents. This brings the amount of called bonds up to $40,000,000, with $10,000,000 more that will be paid any time on presentation. The action of the treasury department in doing what it can to reduce the money locked up in the treasury deserves every commendation. Currency is in good demand and short supply. Under such circumstances not a penny more than necessary should be retained in the treasury. Every possible means should be taken to pay every debt that is payable to the end that the people may have their money when they most need it.

The success of the offer to pay bonds not called is such as to show that there are places to put money where it will earn more than three per cent. This in itself is a sure indication of a general revival of business. Six months ago no bonds could have been presented. Now the voluntary redemption is proceeding every day.

Lyman G. Mason.

The editor of the Mancelona Sentinel attended the convention which nominated Lyman G. Mason for congress and he speaks as follows of the gentleman: "Mr. Mason is no orator and makes no claim to that distinction, and yet his remarks were listened to with the closest attention, and he was repeatedly interrupted by cheers from the audience. To a stranger he appears as a sharp-shrewd business man, a man of intellect and brains, and to use a homely expression a man endowed with a good liberal supply of "horse sense," a worker and one who has entered the campaign to win. Of course, at this day and age of the world it is impossible to tell who is elected until after the votes are counted, but unless we are mistaken our old friend Byron M. Cutcheon will find a man after him during the campaign, who will have a sharp stick to punch him with every step that is taken."

Yaple Opens The Campaign.

Before a magnificent audience of nearly 3,000 people in Detroit on Thursday evening, George L. Yaple formally opened the fusion campaign in Michigan. It goes without saying that he delivered one of the most eloquent and masterly addresses ever heard within the historic walls of Young Men's Hall, the scene of nearly all the great political meetings that have been held in the metropolis of the state. The young leader was in good voice, and without any waste of words he proceeded at once to an exhaustive and earnest discussion of the great issues of the day. As he warmed to his subject, the effect of his burning words was electrical. Several times the vast audience half rose to its feet, and cheered him the echo. It was a grand triumph for "the boy from Mendon."—Lansing Journal.

The postmaster-general on Wednesday issued advertisements inviting proposals for the performance of service on all the star and steamboats routes, aggregating about $3,000,000 in the states of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, and Missouri from July 1, 1887, to June 30, 1891. Proposals will be received until 4 o'clock p. m. January 3, 1887. Awards will be made on or before February 23, 1887.

A Million Dollars.

Millions of dollars would be saved annually by the invalids of every community, if, instead of calling a physician for every ailment, they were wise enough to put their trust in Hop Bitters, a certain cure for all diseases arising from an impure state of the blood and liver, such as scrofula in its various forms, rheumatism, dyspepsia, or ineligestion, female irregularities, diseases of the kidneys and bladder, exposure and imprudence of life. No person can take these bitters according to instructions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair. Golden Seal Bitters numbers on its list of cures more than any other medicine known, and have already acquired a great celebrity, being used generally as a family medicine. Sold by Perry Wood and Dr. G. W. Crouter.

Money Refunded.

The true remedy has at last been discovered. It was long known in his practice as Dr. Price's Lung Food for Consumption. It is now called Dr. Price's 25-ct Cough Cure. It is the safest, the quickest, and the best. No other cough, cold, and consumption remedy, is half its equal. We have sold it for many years, and have never yet paid for it if a beneficial effect is not expected. Sold by Perry Wood and Dr. G. W. Crouter.

For Toilet Use.

Ayer's Hair Vigor keeps the hair soft and glossy, imparts to it the lustre and freshness of youth, causes it to grow luxuriantly, eradicates Dandruff, cures all scalp diseases, and is the most cleanly of all hair preparations.

AYER'S Hair Vigor has given me nearly half for six years, during which time I used many hair preparations, but none gave me satisfaction. I was little hair I had, was growing thinner, until I tried Ayer's Hair Vigor. I used two bottles of the Vigor, and my head is now well covered with a new growth of hair.—Judson B. Chapel, Peabody, Mass.

HAIR and hair, may have new life and color restored to it by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. ❊My hair was thin, faded, and dry, and fell out in large quantities. Ayer's Hair Vigor stopped the falling, and restored the hair to its original color. As a dressing for the hair, this preparation has no equal.—Mary J. Hammond, Sculvater, Minn.

VIGOR, youth, and beauty, in the glossy appearance of the hair, may be preserved for a long time by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. ❊A disease of the scalp caused my hair to become harsh and dry, and to fall out freely. Nothing I tried seemed to do any good until I commenced using Ayer's Hair Vigor. Three bottles of this preparation restored my hair to a healthy condition, and it is now soft and pliable. My scalp is cured, and it is also free from dandruff.—Mrs. E. R. Foss, Milwaukee, Wis.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

Sold by Druggists and Perfumers

PERFECT SAFETY, prompt action, and wonderful curative properties, easily place Ayer's Pills at the head of the list of cathartic medicines for the sick and sore. Sugar-coated, they are the most agreeable of all medicines. Ladies, children, and all delicate persons, can take them with perfect safety. They are the best family cathartic, because they do the work of a dose of any other cathartic. Ayer's Cathartic Pills are used by all classes, for all purposes, wherever pills are needed. Long-tried, well-known, and universally recommended, they need but a trial to prove their value. Sugar-coated, they are free from bitter taste, and are the easiest to take of all cathartic medicines. Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists in Medicine.

Ayer's Pills,

GOLD fields are scarce, but those who write to Hallett & Co., Portland, Maine, will find it to their advantage to learn that they can make from $5 to $25 a day. Either sex; any age; no capital required. You are started free. Those who start at work at once make handsome fortunes. All is new and wonderfully productive. Address as above.

ADVERTISERS or others, who wish to examine this paper, or obtain estimates for advertising space when in Chicago, will find it on file at 45 to 49 Sandolph St., Chicago. Advertising contracts can be made for it in New York at our Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce St.) LORD & THOMAS.

THIS PAPER may be found on file at Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce St.), New York, where advertising contracts may be made for it in that city.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., Sept 23 1886.

PRODUCE MARKET.

Hay, loose, per ton $12; bailed, $18
Corn, for bu. 65c.
Oats, 30 to 35c.
Feed, per ton, $22.
Pork, $12 ℔ bbl, 7c ℔ lb.
Salt, ℔ bbl, $1.25.
Syrup, "Gold Medal," 50c ℔ gal.
Canned Tomatoes, 12c.
Canned Peaches, 15 to 20c.
Coffee, Java and Moca, 30c.
Farmer's Produce at Upright & Emrey's.

UPRIGHT EMREY & Co.

☞A splendid line of Boots and Shoes, for ladies and gents, boys, girls and misses. More on the road.

☞A magnificent lot of Dress Goods arrived recently, and we offer them at the very lowest figures.

☞Hosiery in all styles a specialty, for both ladies and gents—best line in town.

☞New Groceries received almost every day.

☞Both Dinner and Tea Sets in Beloved Ware at cost.

☞If you want some Choice Butter go to Upright & Emrey's.

☞Jefferies' is the cheapest market in town. Everything clear down. Come back old friends and try it.

Local Notes and News.

The fair at East Jordan is in progress this week.

C. J. Lloyd and family left for home on Tuesday.

Judge J. L. Newberry, of Petoskey, was in town Saturday.

G. C. Mahon returned home to Ann Arbor on Tuesday.

C. J. Pailthorp, of Petoskey, was one of our callers last Friday.

Postmaster A. A. Watkins, of Clarion, made us a brief call on Wednesday.

The boys' band give an excursion to East Jordan on the Clara Belle tonight.

Judge Mills and family returned yesterday to their home in Kalamazoo.

E. B. Hodge will return to Charlevoix in a few days, to settle permanently.

Rev. J. T. Iddings will preach at Ashland school house next Sunday evening. All come.

H. W. Page returned to his home in Kalamazoo last week, after a prosperous season here.

Our esteemed contemporary swallows a large dish of crow first week, entitled "East Jordan."

Michael Himebaugh bought us a cabbage head last Saturday which weighed thirteen pounds.

The JOURNAL's job press made 13,000 impressions from Monday morning to Wednesday noon of this week.

Leslie Giddings has gone to Harper Springs, Lake Michigan, and Gracie Barker for the remainder of the season.

The boys band contemplate a series of open air concerts on pleasant evenings this fall and will take a subscription for their benefit.

B. Hudson, of Mancelona, made us a pleasant call for a brief while in Monday, while in town to attend the republican convention.

Rev. J. T. Iddings returned home from conference yesterday. He was reappointed to a charge this year, and will remain with us.

C. R. Bellinger has bought C. Dodd's agate works, and will have it removed to his jewelry shop and run it to its full capacity this winter.

G. V. Nash's son, about nine years old, who fell in a barn two or three week ago, injuring his spine, died yesterday. The remains will be taken to Appleton, Wis., for interment.

W. S. Stripp, of Eveline, threshed 900 bushels of wheat from 40 acres, with 25 acres more to hear from. And yet some people say this is not a good wheat country.

The Mancelona Herald is out in its own new type, and printed on a new power press. The way Sinnett has picked up since the fire shows that he is a hustler.

The clothing store of Rosenthal & Son will be closed from 6 p. m. Wednesday, Sept 29th, until 6 p. m. Saturday, Oct 2; also from 6 p. m., Friday, Oct. 8, until 6 p. m., Saturday, Oct. 9th, on account of holidays.

Divine service on Sunday next forenoon and evening, in Odd Fellows Hall, by Rev. Woodruff, of Elk Rapids. All are invited, and all interested are expected, as at this service will be determined what provisions will be made for winter services.

Wouldn't it be a proper thing for the younger element of Charlevoix's business men to organize a driving club association, fit up a race track, have a series of races during the spring and summer, and a horse fair here next fall. Who will start the ball rolling?

Rev. A. T. Waterman will occupy the Congregational pulpit next Sunday morning and evening, having accepted the call to serve the church during Mr. Van Auken's vacation.

On account of a failure to be ready, the Ironton Congregational church was not dedicated last Sunday. Everything is now ready for next Sunday afternoon Sept. 26th, at 3 o'clock, the dedicatory sermon will be delivered by either Rev. C. F. VanAuken or J. S. Stanhope.

Mr. F. E. Gregory, of this place, is now running the Riffenburg mill at Charlevoix as head miller, and will remove his family to that place in a few days. Mr. Gregory has made several changes in the machinery that has materially increased the capacity of the mill, and says it is doing excellent work.—Record.

Boyne Statesman: In making out the compilation of births and deaths for Charlevoix county, an account of which appeared in last week's Citizen, there was an error as to births for Charlevoix township, on account of misaid returns, which should have read 40 instead of 16. This would make the excess fo births over deaths there 23.

Mr. E. S. Noble, of Elk Rapids, who was placed in nomination for representative in the legislature at the joint convention yesterday is secretary and treasurer and a large stockholder in the Elk Rapids Iron Co., the Bangor Chemical Co., and Dexter & Noble, all together representing more capital and business than any other firm in the district. As a consequence, Mr. Noble is as much interested in and as well qualified to judge the work of good laws for the welfare and prosperity of this region, as any other man in the district. We predict his election by a good majority.

Rev. C. F. VanAuken delivered his closing sermon at the Congregational church last Sunday evening. He reviewed the organization and growth of the society, and its neighboring missions which have been a part of its regular work. The Charlevoix church was organized in 1882, one in Hayes in 1884, one in Merrion's Bay in 1885, and one in Ironton in 1886. Two church buildings have been completed,—one here, and one in ironton. The burden of Mr. VanAuken's address was that during all these years in this work he has had but one thought and purpose, and that was to present in the best manner possible the cause of Christ, and bring sinners to repentance. That he has firmly established this church and its auxiliary missions all must concede.

A Card.

Feeling that I have a just right to be proud of my army record and that this record should be seen and felt deep sympathy and indignation for persecuted humanity, in whatever quarter, and knowing that my character as a soldier has been maliciously assaulted through the column of the Charlevoix Sentinel, without cause in the least, I herewith ask the indulgence of the readers of the JOURNAL, and especially the soldiers of the late war. I am aware that the public in general care but little what a newspaper may say, pro or con., of any one. But when a newspaper attempts to traduce the character of one of the "boys in blue," it is certainly a different thing. My army record will show that I was neither a "bounty-jumper or a sutler," as Dr. Sentinel has insinuated. I hold two discharges and a non-commission. I served three years and eleven months, as my papers will show, and reference will show, in one company and regiment. My comrades of the regiment nearly all re-enlisted, making it a veteran volunteer command, viz: the 34th Ohio veteran volunteers. I served in Co D, of that regiment, with Luther Forney, of Keuton, Hardin county, Ohio, as captain. My enrollment took place on the 20th day of July, 1861, and my final discharge was received on the 12th day of June, 1865. I was taken prisoner at Winchester, West Va., July 24th, 1864, and remained in the "pens" seven months. Up to the time of my capture my name was never on the sick list, and excused from duty but twice by my captain, through indisposition. I was present at every engagement where in my company took part. I was among the 400 prisoners first exchanged after the long silence in the exchange department, caused by Secretary Stanton's disgraceful order to Commissioner Olds, forbidding further exchanges. This 400 prisoners comprised that boat load of human bones which comrade Cutcheon mentioned in his speech at the re-union here a few days ago. We arrived at Anapolis, Maryland, on the 23d of February, 1865, where we were "unloaded." I was compelled to remain in hospital three weeks after my exchange before being able to be sent to my home, at Bellevue, Huron county, Ohio, in which state and county I was born. My record as a soldier is without a blemish, and I feel proud of it. I can certainly sympathize with a community who are afflicted with a man so mean who will use the columns of his paper to, in the least, attempt to traduce the character of any one of the old "vets." A man who was not in the war cannot realize how sacred these matters are to the "old boys." They will overlook anything better than this, and I would simply say to the Sentinel that it may blunder upon some one some day, who is not as good natured as myself, and in printer's parlance, among the refuse "matter" thrown upon the "dead galley" will be found the name of one who was. I assure all who desire to call at my residence and inspect my papers will be welcome. I have them nicely framed and in full view.

Yours truly,
GEO. E. SWEETLAND.
Late of Co. D., 34th Reg. O. V. V. I.

References: Capt. Hiram Peck, Bellevue, O., Capt. Luther Forney, Keuton, Harden county, O., Capt. L. E. Merry, Bellevue, O., Capt. I. P. Grover, Toledo, O., Sergeant C. C. Cook, Bellevue, O., Private Seth Cook, Bellevue, Ohio, all of whom were members of my company.

The Chautauqua Literary and Scientific Circle.

Much interest has been awakened in the Chautauqua literary and scientific circle by those who have been in attendance at Bay View Assembly. The C. L. S. C. is one of the most useful, most enjoyable and remarkable institutions of this age, and we hope our young and progressive people will organize one in this place. This is matter everyone will approve, which can be made to succeed, and will have the co-operation of this paper. Mr. John M. Hall, of Flint, Mich., is superintendent of this department, and will be glad to give anyone who will write to him, information about the Chautauqua circle and how to organize. Its purpose is to give, by a simple and selected course of reading, the student's outlook into the world of learning. It is for young people wanting personal accomplishment and power, through the possession of knowledge; for parents who want to keep in sympathy with their children by pursuing their studies, for those who would like to convert the home into a library and reading circle; for everyone desiring to be intelligent about what has gone before, what is taking place, and what eminent people are saying about the great questions of to-day and to-morrow. The plan is to pursue the reading at home, supplemented by semi-monthly or weekly meetings of the members of the department these by the annual summer meetings at Bay View Assembly for all who can attend, and where for two weeks superb lectures, brilliant concerts, delightful readings, stereoptican lectures, graduation honors and commencement exercises, are the attractions fill the season. In the 150 circles in this state 2,000 readers are pursuing the course, while in the general circles over 100,000 names are enrolled. The work is undenominational but of a decided Christian character, and in large cities circles may be organized in neighborhoods, among acquaintances, or in the churches. In small towns one circle embracing all is better.

The Soldiers' Reunion.

Last Thursday the soldiers' reunion under the auspices of Baxter post G. A. R., was eminently successful in every feature.

Gen. Cutcheon arrived on the Fri and, and was escorted to the Bridge street house by Baxter post and the boys' band, under command of Senior Vice Commander, W. A. Atchison.

Walter Clifford, of Petoskey, City, arrived on the Clara Belle, and were escorted to the house.

On account of a rush of office work incident to publication day, we were unable to hear Gen. Cutcheon's address, but we understand that the house was crowded, and that the General talked an hour in the most pleasing manner, reviewing the scenes of strife and blood twenty five years ago.

The programme included also songs by the old soldiers, and brief remarks by comrades.

The attendance of soldiers and their friends was large, and altogether the services were a credit to Baxter post, and is one more item to show that the post never does anything by halves.

M. E. Church.

Rev. C. S. Fox, of Manistee, is to be the pastor, for the next year.

Rev. J. T. Iddings will live in Charlevoix and preach at Ashland and other points that may offer.

The new pastor will be here one week from next Sabbath.

It is said that Georgia's great swamp, the Okefenokee, can easily be reclaimed by drainage into the St. Mary's River, only a few miles distant, and a magnificent area of land made ready for the plow. Great sections of swamp land in Florida have been reclaimed by methodical drainage carried out by a company formed for the purpose.

An End to Bone Scrugging.

Edward Shepherd, of Harrisburg, Ill., says: "Having received so much benefit from Electric Bitters, I feel it my duty to let suffering humanity know it. Have had a running sore on my leg for eight years; my doctors told me I would have the bone scrugged or leg amputated. I used, instead, three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and my leg is now sound and well." Electric Bitters is sold at 50 cts. a bottle, and Bucklen's Arnica Salve at 25c. per box by Dr. G. W. Crouter.

The Circus

Commences Next Week.

I am going to receive a large invoice of CLOTHING, bought from one of the leading houses in Rochester, N. Y., which I am going to sell at Prices that will draw me trade from all around the county.

I think the best advertisement a merchant can have is to have his goods advertise him in Good Fits and Prices that cannot be beat.

GEO. W. MILLER.

THE EARTHQUAKE DID IT!

We mean we got a big bargain on all our cloak purchases. Our New York agent has taken advantage of the

GREAT EXCITEMENT!

And has written us that never before had we secured such an elegant line of

LADIES' MISSES' AND CHILDREN'S

CLOAKS

At Such LOW PRICES.

LADIES, DO NOT PURCHASE A CLOAK or Wrap of any kind until you have seen our goods and learned our prices, as they will soon be here. A big line of everything in Dry Goods coming, wait for them.

Yours, very truly,

F. W. CRAINE & CO.

Come and See our Immense Stock of

BOOTS AND SHOES.

FOX & MILLER.

More Room! More Goods!!

THE ROUND OAK

AND SQUARE BASE

Heating Stoves.

Complete Stock of Hardware!

VERY BEST PUMPS.

Job and Tin Work. L. D. BARTHOLOMEW & CO.

STAUFFER'S

BROADCAST

Hand-Seeder.

The new invention possesses many qualities peculiarly adapted to the use of this implement.

TEN REASONS:

1. It saves the roughest or smoothest soils.
2. It saves economically all kinds of grain and seeds, large and small. Wheat, barley, clover, timothy, peas, bugs, etc.
3. It sows any desired quantity. One-fourth pound of rutabaga seed can be spread over an acre of ground with perfect ease and accuracy.
4. It sows rapidly. With wheat it covers 48 feet to the round. Clover &c. clover and timothy mixed &c. Ten acres of clover sowed in 3½ hours.
5. It is not affected by quite a strong wind.
6. It is quickly adjusted to different quantities of grain.
7. It cannot clog.
8. It is easily operated.
9. It is cheap.
10. It is durable.

Patented by ISAAC STAUFFER, of Carpenter, Emmet Co., Mich. Sold by

UPRIGHT & EMREY,

Call and examine ! Charlevoix, Mich.

Owing to Special Rates in Photographic Stock, I will continue to make Cabinet Photographs at $4.00 per Dozen Until further notice.

Dave Bradbeer,

Photographer,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

DRY GOODS!

We offer for the next few days Great Bargains in all

—SUMMER DRESS GOODS—

Shawls, White Goods, Parasols, Silk and Thread Gloves, Hosiery, Straw Hats, etc.

NEW LINE OF BROADHEAD DRESS GOODS,

Just received and marked at very low prices.

Jersey and Boucle Jackets, Very Cheap.

Staple & Fancy Groceries,

In great variety and at correct prices. The finest line of

Teas, Coffees, Spices.

PLANTATION JAVA COFFEE, - BEST IN THE WORLD.

Farmers will consult their own interests in buying our

FACTORY-FILLED DAIRY SALT.

J. L. HURD & CO.

Cloaks! Cloaks!!

Just Received, at

ROSENTHAL & SON'S,

The largest line of FALL and WINTER CLOAKS that ever was brought to Charlevoix. All styles in Short Wraps, New Markets and Street Jackets. Also a big line of CHILDREN'S CLOAKS. Now is the time to make your choice, as the assortment is large and prices are low. Be sure to come and see them, whether you buy or not,—no trouble to show goods.

ROSENTHAL & SON.

Shipments.

Sept. 16—Schr. Jessie Phillips, 175,000 feet hard wood lumber, Pine Lake Lumber Co. to Chicago.
17—Schr. Bert Harness, 100 cords wood, O. Oberg, to Milwaukee.
18—Schr. Belle Brown, 4,500 cedar posts, 160 cords wood, Upright & Emrey, to Chicago.
18—Schr. Dan Mahoe, 140 cords wood, Gardnerham & Sons to Milwaukee.
18—Schr. Starke, 7,000 hemlock ties, F. J. Morech to Chicago.
18—Schr. J. A. Holmes, 110 cords wood, W. H. Downer, to Chicago.
18—Schr. Morningbird, 3,250 cedar ties, Upright & Emrey, to Milwaukee.
20—Schr. E. M. Saunton, 70 cords wood, 100 cords bark, W. H. Downer to Chicago.
22—Schr. John L. Ruger, 120 cords wood, F. B. Newton, to Milwaukee.
22—Schr. Lapetite, 135 cords wood, P. Thorp, to Milwaukee.
22—Schr. Stampede, 200,000 feet hardwood lumber, Pine Lake Lumber Co. to Kalamazoo.
23—Schr. Evaline, 175,000 feet hardwood lumber. Gleen & Porter, to Chicago.
23—Schr. John L. Green, 70 cords wood, N. P. Peterson, to Milwaukee.

The following is a summary of the shipments from the port of Charlevoix for the week ending Wednesday evening, and for the corresponding week of 1885:

	1886.	1885.
Hardwood lumber, feet	475,000	600,000
Railroad ties		10,700
Cedar posts		4,500
Wood, cords	555	905
Bark, cords	240	100
Fruit, bbls, pounds		500

Chinese Cheap Labor.

The wife of an acquaintance who reads the paper became imbued with the idea that it was wrong to patronize Chinese labor when white women were suffering for labor to earn their daily bread, and expressed her view to her husband, saying she knew a poor woman next door who would be glad to do their washing at $2 per week—they were paying the Chinaman $1.50. It was an advance, but white labor must be encouraged, so the washing was handed over to Mrs. Murphy. The husband met Ah Sam a few months after, and, feeling a little qualm of conscience and interest in him, inquired how he was getting along. Sam seemed to be in a cheerful state of mind, and answered: "Pass rate; plenty wash business. All same me do your washee, all same me catchee clothes." Mrs. Murphy house. She pay me one dollar hap week." It turned out that Mrs. Murphy had been giving the washing to Sam and paying him $1.50 a week, and making a profit of $1.50. Sam was restored, and that is about the way the world goes.—San Francisco Leader to New York Times.

When symptoms of malaria appear, in any form, take Ayer's Ague Cure. It will prevent a development of the germs of disease, and eradicate them from the system. A cure is warranted in every instance.

New Grocery!

Cor. Antrim and Grant Streets.

A. J. MUDGE

Would respectfully announce to the people of Charlevoix and vicinity, especially to the residents of the southwestern part of town, and all comers from the south, that he has opened a stock of Groceries in his building on the corner of Antrim and Grant streets, and requests all to give him a trial.

BUTTER AND EGGS WANTED

HANNAH, LAY & CO.'S STEAMER LINE,

SEASON OF 1886.

CITY OF GRAND RAPIDS,

CAPT. O. E. WILBER.

GOING NORTH, Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, will leave Traverse City 7.30, arrive Northport 9.30, Charlevoix 11.30, Petoskey 1.30 p. m., Harbor Springs 2.30, Cross Village 4.30, Mackinaw City 7.00, Mackinac Island 7.45, arrive at Mackinaw City 8.30 p. m.

GOING SOUTH, Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays, will leave Mackinaw City 7.30 a. m., Mackinac Island 8.00, Cross Village 10.15, Harbor Springs 12.45, Petoskey 1.45 p. m., Charlevoix 3.45, Northport 5.45, arriving at Traverse City 7.45 p. m.

GOOD CONNECTIONS will be made at Traverse City and Petoskey with the night and day trains on the G. R. & I. R. R., at Mackinaw City with Michigan Central R. R., and at Intermediate meetings between the City of Traverse from and Mackinaw City, the steamer Rapids going the T. S. Paxton going every other day, and Traverse to connect with the steamer City of Detroit & Cleveland Steam Navigation Co.'s Steamers, and with the steamer Minnie M., for Sault St. Marie.

Traverse Bay Route.

Steamer LOU A. CUMMINGS—Capt. George Rogers.

Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, leave Old Mission at 8.00 a. m., arrive Traverse City 10.00 a. m., leave Traverse City 2.00 p. m., arrive Northport 6.30 p. m.

Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays, leave Northport at 7.00 a. m., arrive at Traverse City at 11.00 a. m., leave Traverse City at 3.30 p. m., arrive at Old Mission at 7.30 p. m.

The steamer stops at Elk Rapids once every day, and Suttons and Natons Bay twice a day.

Connections are made at Northport with the City of Grand Rapids, and at Traverse City with the F. & P. M. Railroad.

Harbor Springs, Petoskey, Charlevoix, and East Jordan.

STEAMER THOMAS PRIANT.

CAPT. E. VANDUSEN.

Morning—Leave Harbor Springs 7.00, Petoskey 8.00, Charlevoix 9.30, arrive East Jordan 11.00.

Afternoon—Leave East Jordan 1.30, Charlevoix 4.00, Petoskey 5.30, arrive Harbor Springs 6.30.

Close connections at Petoskey with G. R. & I. R. R. trains, north and south.

Charlevoix and Boyne.

Steamer CLARA BELLE—Capt. Robert O'Neil.

Morning—Leave Charlevoix 6.30, arrive Boyne 8.30, leave Boyne 9.00, arrive Charlevoix 11.00.

Evening—Leave Charlevoix 2.00, arrive Boyne 4.00, leave Boyne 4.30, arrive Charlevoix 6.30.

Stopping at intermediate points.

The above Eyeglass invented by the John Hood Optical Co., of Chicago, is the most perfect for the business of all agents.

It is so constructed that it can be pinched far enough away that the eye lashes will not touch them, is easy and always easy to do with other eyeglasses.

It is so light that it will not leave a mark under your eyebrows, which prevents slipping and falling off.

It is so accurate in its fit that it never tires, after the lense, which prevents irritation of the eyes. Its Focal Feature secures its perfect instance to the eye under all circumstances.

The lenses are all of right quality and kind of vision.

Gents, They can be worn safely without cord or chain in the same manner as a pocket knife.

Ladies, I warrant them to be the easiest eyeglass in the world.

C. R. BELLINGER,

Optician and Jeweler, Charlevoix, Mich.

TARIFF REFORM.

Address of the American Free Trade League in Behalf of Reduced Taxation.

How the Opponents of the Protective System May Make Their Power Felt.

TO THE FRIENDS OF FREEDOM: The inability of a large Democratic majority in the National House of Representatives to pass a bill for tariff reform, looking only to the removal of a heavy burden of taxation from a few great industries, and the refusal of the representatives of the Republican party and their allies to even consider the abatement of tariff taxation in any direction, imperatively calls for aggressive and uncompromising political action by the friends of commercial freedom.

There can be no doubt that a majority of the American people, at present acting in unison with one or the other of the two great political parties, are convinced of the practicability and necessity of tariff reform, and the abolishment of the hitherto dominant policy of high, discriminating, and unnecessary taxation. A clear statement of the issue between the protectionists and the free-traders is of itself a demonstration of the truth of its assertion.

On the one side the advocates of "protection" start with the assumption that, under a free and republican form of government, the power of taxation may be lawfully used to aid private enterprises and build up private fortunes, on the false plea, now demonstrated by the hard logic of facts, that such legislation betters humanity and raises wages. For a long period they have endeavored to persuade the people that imposing heavy taxes on articles necessary to the processes of great domestic industries, for the benefit of special interests, of very small relative importance to the aggregate industrial interests of the whole country, was for years past our local policy has been practically dictated by the manufacturers of pig-iron and the growers of wool, although the aggregate value of the annual product of pig-iron and wool is not equal to the value of the annual egg and poultry crop of the country, and not to be compared with the value of the annual crop of either hay, wheat, corn, or cotton. Emboldened by long toleration, the demands of these special interests increase in audacity, as is shown in the recent proposition of Samuel J. Randall, their representative, to advance the duties on tin plate from 1 to 2½ cents per pound. This article is used largely for the preservation, by canning, of an excess of our meat, vegetables, fruit, fish, and oil products, which without such treatment could not be marketed, but would be wasted. To preserve dairy, fruit, fish, and oil products, which without such treatment could not be marketed, but would be wasted. To preserve dairy, fruit, fish, and oil products, which without such treatment could not be marketed, but would be wasted. The present duty, freights and commissions added, constitutes a bounty which would cover the entire amount of double the wages paid in the tin-plate industry in Great Britain. But the tin-plate manufacture is conducted at a minimum of profit the price of the plate being the lowest ever known in industry, the present tax is regarded as insufficient, and Mr. Randall proposes, in spite of an overflowing treasury, to increase this tax from six to an aggregate of fifteen million dollars, and collect it by adding to the cost of the preservation of meat, fish, and fruit the demands of an export market accordingly, the milk-pans and cans of every farmer, the cooking utensils and dinner pails of every workman, and the consumption of every dwelling-house and railroad car in the country—all for the benefit of a few iron manufacturers and capitalists in Pennsylvania.

On the other side, the principles of free-traders may be briefly stated as follows:

1. They demand that the whole system of Federal taxation be so reconstructed and readjusted that all the taxes which the people pay shall be received by the government, without the diversion of any part for the fostering of private interests.

2. That the promotion and true protection of domestic industry are to be found in the removal of all taxes from articles which constitute the foundation, or are necessary to the processes of our various industries, and that the incidence of taxation be restricted as far as possible to articles which are ready for final consumption, and of which the use is voluntary rather than necessary.

3. They claim that the abandonment of the present single, discriminating, and unnecessary taxes would not only so increase national revenue on a comparatively few articles, as to which taxes can be collected with the least interference with the freely chosen pursuits of the people, are the necessary steps to gradually insure to the country full industrial employment and high wages, abundant production and low cost, extended markets and a permanent revival of commercial activity.

The trade competitors of the United States are loaded down with debt and with the support of great standing armies, which in turn entail a burden of taxation so heavy as to impair their resources, cripple the energies of their people and increase the cost of their products. To successfully make the race for trade with nations thus handicapped, it is only necessary that the people of this country adopt a tax policy diametrically opposite. Other nations must then disband their armies and their soldiers to work, with better wages, to effort three times as much for the same reward, with a country rich in resources, so intelligent and active in respect to population, and so free in respect to government as the United States.

It is for such a result that the American Free Trade League invites the co-operation of the patriotic men of all political parties. The recent trial of strength in Congress shows that a change of a single district in behalf of the States from the side of the protectionists to the side of the free-traders is all that is required to reform the revenue system of the Government. It more than this number of districts a change of less than five per cent. in the votes will change the district. A comparatively small number of those opposed by conviction to a policy of taxation and restriction, asserting themselves actively, can thus produce the desired result. It is therefore essential that each friend of commercial freedom, in anticipation of the nominations in his Congressional district, shall determine, and as far as possible publicly declare his determination, not to vote for any candidate for Congress who is not opposed to a tariff for "protection," except where it is necessary to defeat, by letting an avowed protectionist opponent, a candidate who already Democracy by catering to monopolists and traders in special legislation on the one hand, while claiming support from the toiling tax-paying masses on the other. In what cases it may be best to put an independent candidate in the field, and at what other to abstain from voting, must be left to free-traders of each district to decide for themselves. Added to this, let every friend of the cause diligently strive to extend his local influence by diffusing sound economic literature and by promoting the organization of clubs of five or more persons in as many places as he can reach. Such a system requires no large expenditure of money and need not be necessarily dependent on the direction of any central organization. But such an organization will come and will be all the stronger from the multiplication and co-operation of independent, and in a large degree individual, action.

It is thus possible that tariff reform may be accomplished by force of public opinion within both parties, compelling the acquiescence of their leaders in power. But if the combined failures of the Democratic party in Congress, helped by liberty-loving Republicans, to carry any practical measures of tariff reform, continue to be met by the opposition of the Republican party organization, and by Democratic adhesion to Republican measures, it will be seen that the Democratic party which can not carry out its own principles, to submit it with a vote of freedom, and to compel the advocates of restriction to join together in a hard fight on the democratic form of republican government, if it requires at least one party, having the courage of its convictions, to carry it, which it can do by risking defeats in defense of its principles. The existing parties find in fear the vital issue of the day, the organization of a party which will furnish the omission for the wider party development that may prove necessary for the present independent action in the Congressional districts in which it may very purpose. The American Free Trade League have resolved to continue to exist, not in absolute majority, the number of free-trade voters in one of the two governmental districts is sufficiently large to hold the balance of power between candidates of the two great political parties, and it only remains with them, to whom this appeal is now made, to decide whether that power shall now be so dispensed as to cause it to make it both feared by politicians and respected by the people, or the first step be taken, and the battle will be unmistakably won.

David A. Wells, J. B. Sargent, A. W. Thomas, James L. Cowles, H. W. St. John, Henry W. Farnham, John J. Hunter, George M. Wallace, W. G. Sumner, of Connecticut.

W. Jones, J. H. Moore, A. L. Perry, Prescott Keyes, Samuel Eliot, of Massachusetts; Charles E. Allen, D. M. Ball, George E. Ward, Ira Steward, Henry A. Rider, J. P. Reynolds, of Rhode Island; Joseph C. Hornblower, of New Jersey; George F. Peabody, H. B. B. Stapler, Samuel Sloan, Jr., Jos. Dixon, Horace E. Deming, Horace Wells, Jr., Thos. Kinnicutt, A. Roney, G. H. Putnam, J. Shriver, S. W. Gretton, D. H. Chamberlain, Geo. Ehrhardt, Jos. Sadi, A. C. Hven, David Hays, Austin Wilson, of New York; David Drake Smith, Joseph A. McCreery, A. Bay—How does this matter of the tariff affect your profession?

Dr. F.—It affects it adversely and hinders the young and impecunious physician from procuring the necessary instrument to successfully practice his profession. In most there were in the United States seventy-one establishments engaged in the manufacture of surgical instruments and appliances, representing a capital of over $600,000 and employing 442 adult laborers.

Bay—Is it a standing argument with the high-tariff politicians, that protection enables the manufacturer to pay his employes much higher wages than we could afford. But does he do it? I think that any one who will carefully examine the census reports and tariff laws will find that the profits made by the proprietors of the "protected industries" with the small wages paid their employes will become convinced that all the profits accruing by virtue of the tariff go into the pockets of the capitalists. But suppose for a moment that wages were governed, to some extent by the tariff, what right has the Government to tax the people of the United States of this country from 25 to 45 per cent. on all surgical instruments, in order that less than 500 workmen may receive a few cents more on each day's labor? For instance, here is a utter, yet speculating, a very stupid—instrument as you see, but an indispensable one to every physician, and also a very costly one, thanks to a 45 per cent. tariff. The manufacturer has at what it is made and the skilled labor in making it did not cost exceeding $1, and probably not as much, yet it costs the physician $3.50. No matter what he says in this line, he must contribute from 25 to 45 per cent. in excess of its actual value to appease the insatiable appetite of that great political Moloch—the tariff. In fact, the tariff is as high on surgical instruments of all kinds that the physician must spend quite a little time to properly equip himself for the successful practice of his profession.

Bay—Please to cite some of the medicines affected by the high tariff.

Dr. F.—Yes, I can give you instances of some of the outrageous tariff levied on some of the most valuable medicines. Opium, the greatest boon to humanity that has ever been discovered, is taxed 75 cents a pound; morphine, $1 an ounce; quinine, 50 cents a pound; bromide of potassium, 50 cents a pound; bromide of potassium, 50 cents a pound; iodide of potassium, 25 cents a pound, and many other of the most important medicines in proportion. All this, mind you, for the avowed purpose of protecting our laborers from the competition of the pauper labor of Europe," but really for the purpose of robbing the people of the proceeds of their labor, putting the proceeds into the pockets of thirty-four bosses, three-fourths of whom, I think, will show. In 1880 there were employed in the manufacture of drugs and chemicals, 582 establishments representing a capital of over $27,000,000. There were employed in these establishments 4,000 adult laborers and 262 children. The total wages paid for the year was $1,157,165. Dividing this amount by the number of adult laborers and children the average wages were about $215 a year. The value of the product of these establishments for the year was over $28,000,000, the material used were valued at $24,000,000, adding to the wages paid, and deducting the whole from the value of the products and it leaves to these "protected industries" a clear profit of over $3,000,000, or an average profit to each establishment of about $11,000.

Bay—Dr. Ferguson, will you say what you think about the free importation of pauper labor and whether such free importation would interfere with the high tariff politicians have for the American laboring man?

Dr. F.—Yes, I will prefer a little better men when there is no tariff on the labor itself?

The preachers of the gospel of taxation should explain these things before setting on their claim to be the only friends of American workingmen.—Chicago Times.

Wages in America.

Mr. Henry Lee, at the recent annual meeting of the Cobden Club, referred to the widely spread belief that wages are exceptionally high in the United States. He said he had been in American mills, and knew perfectly well that the workmen there were worse off than the English hands. On the whole, he considered that American wages ought to be regarded as rather lower than here, because their rents were very much higher, and almost every article, even bread, was dearer than in England. He had recently had sent to him some tabulated returns of the wages paid to all classes of persons in New York, Massachusetts, and Illinois, together with the amounts the laboring men annually paid in taxes and for articles of food, etc. The information was supplied by the statistical agents of the different States, and on his comparing the figures with those in England he thought workmen decidedly had the advantage, and very considerably. The rent the American workmen paid for their houses was double what was paid here, and the cost of their necessities, etc., was much higher. In his own particular trade the wages paid was higher than the Americans received, but that protection did not necessarily mean high wages for the working classes, for in this country it was quite plain to his mind that the tendency of protection was to lower the wages there and to increase the price of manufactures by the hours of work in America were much longer—which was an important point to consider when they made comparisons between the two countries. Some mill-owners worked their hands sixty-six hours a week, while in Europe the hours were only fifty-four; and if they compared the usually paid for sixty-six hours with the English wage for the fifty-four hours, then the result of the comparison was greatly to the advantage of the Government of Good. It is possible that such facts as these will be handy for use in the near future.—Glasgow (Scotland) Mail.

Mr. Worsted and Uncle Sam.

Mr. Worsted—My yarns and cloths are made from wool manufactured by a slightly different process and a little harder than those of the manufacturers of other countries. Why should "foreign" pay one rate of duty at the Custom House and "domestic" another? The raw material all grows on sheep here.

Uncle Sam—Rather and these are both made from raw material, and we come to tariff on they are classed as different commodities.

Mr. W.—But the tax on wool is so high that foreign yarns are sold here cheaper than I can make them.

U. S.—How is that? Are you not down the protective rate on wool by your "wool on cheaper iron, and salt, and lumber, and other necessaries of life? I have no telling what evil might befall poor laboring men.

Mr. W.—If you attend to your own knitting, Mr. Worsted, I think I have enough to keep you busy. I will try and look after the protection I need myself. He does not appear to flourish under protective paternalism. Free wool or nothing. Good morning, sir.—The Record.

School Houses and Protection.

Before ten years have passed protection will have in New England as few friends as slavery has. Nothing is a revision of the tariff, which steadily appears more free trade, is the only salvation of the manufacturing interests of New England, and her representatives will have to join those of the West and South in an effort to reform the tariff in accordance with the spirit of the times.

Protection is a kind of a school house, whenever a school house is built. The army of protection is strengthened by every graduating class from college or university. Every discourse on the "Sermon on the Mount" is an attack on the system. Every mile of railroad breaks down some barrier which its advocates have constructed. Every new invention, every improvement in machinery, every reaper and mower, every discovery of an art or a gas was sent to the forces arrayed against the system of protection. It is doomed. All they can fondly can hope for it is a little longer to prolong its existence, to postpone for a few years the date of its abolition. The longer it is postponed the angrier grow its elements in opposition. What to-day can be peacefully and peacefully will come in time like a revolution. New England may choose between gradual emancipation and revolution, but it cannot make the false system perpetual.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Burdens Labor and Consumption.

By a protective tariff the Government virtually enters into partnership with the manufacturers, and levies a portion of its taxing power to build them up at the expense of all other classes. It does so, also, in doing this in places the burdens falling most heavily on the consumer are wholly on labor and consumption. The tariff on tin plate, that is paid on the product, makes its levies on what we can—tin cans. The Government should not lay a portion of these burdens on capital, instead, of only on consumption, there would be less injustice in the system of protective taxation.—Cleveland Leader.

Mr. BLAINE says: "If the farmers of the United States should refuse to share the burdens and break down the house market and home consumption, they would invite competition from those two great sources of supply, Russia and India." Mr. Blaine knows, or ought to know, that the American farmer is already fully exposed to this competition. The market which sets the price of their head is the open market of the world, where they are compelled, in spite of a high tariff, to compete with the wheat growers of India and Russia. Moreover, a protective tariff makes this competion harder to meet because it increases the cost of everything the farmer has to buy, and because it indirectly forces upon him a class of goods are taxed to encourage and favor our Russian and Indian wheat-growing rivals.—Chicago Times.

HUMOR.

Turn fall come early in Eden.

NOODLE-PAPERS—a death warrant.

AN apple pie is New England civilization with a crust on.

NO WOMAN can lace herself so tight as a man can drink himself.

IT is quite a mistake to imagine that a "split in the camp" occurs, as a rule, with "crack regiments."

"THIS is something I have just dashed off," said the farmer's wife as she took the butter from the churn.

THE publisher of a weekly paper in a small town who thinks he discovers a "crying need" of a daily is apt to find a need of crying if he starts one.—Texas Siftings.

AT a recent meeting of the Montana bar association a paper was read by a member of the bar on "The Revolver as a Means of Making Difficult Collections."—Estelline Bell.

UNDERTAKER—And what kind of trimmings will you have on the casket? Widow—None whatever: it is plain cotton. It was trimmed with lace.—Texas Siftings.

HARVEST was nearly wielding a root villainously poor game of bass. "Why, by the eight, gentlemen," he asked, "they are picked nine." Tom says he scorer, "Then," said the suffering spectator, "they are picked before they were ripe."—Burdette.

A TEXAS teacher was calling the roll, and as he called out "Robert Smith," Robert himself rusted in out of breath, and answered: "Here, sir!" "Robert, next time you must not answer to your name unless you are here." "Yes, sir, I'll try not to." "Yes, sir, I'll try not to."—Texas Siftings.

"CHARLEY," said young Mrs. Tucker to her husband, "I don't mind your drinking once in a while, as long as you get plenty of cloves, but I do hope you will always drink nice, pure steel whisky. I saw a sign in the street the other day which says, 'Whisky Sours,' and I know the stuff must be unhealthy after it sours."—Traveler.

HIGH-TONED PATIENT—"Well, Doctor, what kind of a glass eye are you going to give me?" Doctor—"Oh, one of the ordinary kind that will match your other optic." "Well, if it is the same to you, Doctor, I think I'd prefer a little better one than the ordinary kind. How would a diamond do?"—Texas Siftings.

"I SEE," he said, as he met an old soldier comrade, "that our generals are having a hot debate as to which of them contributed the most to win at the battle of Gettysburg. You were there, I believe?" "Yes, I was there to talk." "For why?" "Because I was a private soldier, and only had three bullets shot into me!"—Detroit Free Press.

"WHY can not we," said a long-headed citizen, "have a subterranean hotel at Niagara, underneath the American Falls, with a piazza looking out upon the vast sheet of falling water? All that is necessary is to sink a shaft on Goat Island, tunnel straight out under the channel, put in iron pillars if necessary, to support the ceiling, and construct any sort of an ornamental pavilion you please, facing the fall from the rear. What more delicious place can you imagine in which to pass a sultry afternoon? A dozen swallows are always flying out off from the spray by means of platforms, so that no danger of clothing can be able to stand off the disagreeably damp."—Buffalo Courier.

THE CATERPILLARS.

Boiree Elections.

Man at	Jed
Front gate,	"Stand pat."
Chanticleer,	Hay
Crows loud,	Is cheap
Jim cleans	Jim cleans
Takes seat,	Stone bedeed
Takes hat,	Tree
Eats bread,	Way yonder
Eats meat,	Go out
Kisses baby,	My name?
Kisses	Bob Ingersoll
Calls pa: says	Boston Globe
Pa says mama	Twenty thirty!
Pats Towser,	Group all
Pats cat.	Tariff

After Elections.

Flies by	All letters,
Front gate;	Days now
Now man—	All here
Chanticleer	Stone bed
Don't crow,	Shade tree,
Flies by	Pizzes for
Back door.	Next year.
Politics

—Pittsburgh Observer.

A Converted Colonel.

A West Virginian, noted as being dreadful slow pay, was in the city recently, and to prove his credentials, he called on Commissioner Miller to see about it. A day or two after the Congressman from his district also went to see the Commissioner.

"So Colonel Blank was here the other day?" he said, inquiringly.

"Yes," replied Mr. Miller, "he called to pay his respects."

"Why?" said the Congressman, in surprise.

"Yes, he did."

"Came up and paid his respects, did he?"

"Certainly," replied Mr. M., himself surprised at the Congressman.

"Didn't say anything to you about waiting till the first of the month, or calling around next week, or sending a boy to his office for a check, or anything like that?"

"Not a word."

"Well, by thunder, the Colonel must have got religion."—Washington Critic.

A RESIDENT of Minnesota, who has seen several severe tornadoes, says the most peculiar feature is the singular sucking movement. Buildings are sucked up into the colonic cairn, and come down scen in fragments.

Cloth from Chinese Nettles.

Grass cloth is likely to have a more extensive market than formerly. It is a Chinese production, specimens of which come to us generally in the shape of handkerchiefs. The material is a fiber, not grass, and a species of nettles. Those nettles are carefully cultivated in China, where they grow in great quantities, as they do in India and Ceylon. In India hitherto no marked attempt of cultivation has been made. They are free from the stinging character of the ordinary nettles. In Ceylon and India, where the plants grow wild, these nettles are cut just about the time of seeding and bleached by the assistance of the heavy night dews and the hot moldy sun, and the fibers gathered together and spun into ropes of thin twine, from which coarse matting is made. This primitive way of treating the nettles is not followed in China, and, indeed, the employment of the fiber silk for commercial purposes seems to be a Chinese secret. Not only is the texture of the cloth manufactured from this fiber very beautiful—it is generally higher priced by an upwards gloss and peculiar transparency—but it is extremely strong and durable. Belting for machinery has already been made with the China grass fiber, and on being tested it was found that it could bear a strain of 5,292 pounds to the inch, much whereas leather could only sustain a pressure of 4,249 pounds to the square inch. So soon as manufacturers and customers have had a sufficient time for experimenting, we may expect to see grass cloth very generally used.—Manufacturer and Builder.

An English Decision in Favor of an American Trade-Mark.

(From the New York Morning Journal.)

LONDON, ENGLAND, July 24, 1884.—(SPECIAL BY CABLE)—In the chancery division of the High Court of Justice, London, Vice-Chancellor Bacon has given his decision in favor of The Chamois A. Vogeler Company, of Baltimore, Maryland, in the action brought by that house against H. Churchill & Co., of Brisbane, Queensland. The case, which has been in progress here since September, 1884, grew out of an attempt of Churchill & Company to register a trade-mark containing the words "St. Patricks Oil" in connection with a medicinal preparation. This was promptly opposed by the Vogeler Company, who while admitting that the terms and device which were sought to be registered by Churchill & Co. were in no respect identical to the well known St. Jacobs Oil trade-marks, yet contended that a sufficient close similarity existed between the term St. Patricks and the term St. Jacobs to cause the Vogeler Co. to cause confusion in the minds of the public and lead to purchasers being deceived. In support of this position they submitted a very overwhelming amount of evidence from English, American, and Australian sources, with the result stated. Under the decision of the court, Churchill & Co. cannot register their mark and must pay costs of the case. This is the second trade-mark case in which the Vogeler Company in England within three years.

Meaning.

A city girl writes: "It is a fond dream of mine to become a farmer's wife and to meander with him down life's flowery pathway. Yes, that is a sweet thing to dream about, but when you have lived on the farm a little longer, the meandering business for a month or so, you will discover a wide chasm between the dream and the reality. I do not think of this about the time your husband meanders off and leaves you without wood, and you have to meander so and down the lane pulling splinters off the fence with which to cook dinner. And when you meander around in the wet clover in search of the cows, you will have a dim perception that fond dreams do not always pan out a hundred cents on the dollar, and that there are several meanderings in farm life that do not blend in the dreaming category. The meandering business on the farm is not what it is cracked up to be.—Kansas City Spoth.

Plant Dynamics.

The great force exerted by growing plants may be demonstrated by direct measurement. By an arrangement of harness and levers, President Clarke, of Amherst Agricultural College, made a growing squash register a pressure equal to thousands of pounds, when finally the harness broke. A tree in a graveyard at Hanover, Germany, has lifted more than five inches a block of stone containing twenty feet in inches.

DO NOT laugh at the gentleman with a bare poll, my son. It is not nearly so bad to have no hair on the top of the head as it would be to have a head that is bald on the inside.

Cheap Labor.

Among the 150 kinds of cloth Bound Dollar Volumes given away by the Rochester (N. Y.) American Rural Home for every $1 subscription so that great 8-page, 48-col., 16-year-old weekly sell 52 times, from 5.0 to 200 pages bound in cloth; acc.

Law Without Lawyers,	Dandelion's (Medical)
Farm Implements,	Cookery,
Farm Cyclopedia,	Horse Useful Paulding,
Farmers' Guide,	Stock Raising Morrow
Brooders Guide,	Hart,
Common Sense in Poultry,	People's Hist. of United
Bees,	States,
World Cyclopedia,	Universal History of
Manufacture of Spirituous	Rome,
Know,	Popular Hist. Civil War
	(both sides).

Any one book and paper one year, all postpaid, for $1.15! Satisfaction guaranteed. Reference: Hon. C. D. Parsons, Mayor of Rochester. Samples, 5c. Rural Home Co., Lib'l, Rochester, N. Y.

Important.

When you visit or leave New York City, save baggage, expressage, and $1 carriage hire, and stop at the Grand Union Hotel, opposite Grand Central Depot.

$3 rooms, fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, $1 and upwards per day. European plan. Elevator, ladies' entrance, filled with the rich and elegant furniture, and elevated railroad at the door. Rooms are better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first-class hotel in the city.

The Acropolis Plan.

The country man, who, according to Dr. W. A. Hammond, will soon be as bald as a Mormon patriarch, ought to take a personal interest in an experiment by which the citizens of Chattanooga, Tenn., are trying to solve the summer problem of the lower latitudes. Not every business man of the sunny South can afford to spend the mosquito season on the Yellowstone River; but cities blessed with the neighborhood of a good-sized hill (and Nature usually reserves to the mountain if the mountain should refuse to move) can build a "stem-winder" road, and find plenty of room for higher and higher "houses" as the mercury begins to crowd the atmosphere of the lower valleys. On the Lookout plateau there is room for a thousand villas, and within a year that plateau will have become the most accessible suburb of Chattanooga. Trains will have fun and regaters at the foot of the mountain, from where the trip to the clouds will be accomplished in less time than a foot passenger would need for the ascent of a steep-sided hillock. The city will then be divided into a night and day town, a health resort and business resort, a gregarious natives of ancient Greece seem to have known the advantages of that plan, for nearly every one of their cities had an acropolis, or acropolis, or hill suburb, a local Olympus, offering gods and men a refuge from the plagues of the lower world.

A large derrick-pole fell and severely injured the foot of mechanical engineer E. R. Hoyt at the New Mexico Exposition, Baltimore, Maryland, in the action brought by that house against H. Churchill & Co., of Brisbane, Queensland. The case, which has been in progress here since September, 1884, grew out of an attempt of Churchill & Company to register a trade-mark containing the words "St. Patricks Oil" in connection with a medicinal preparation. This was promptly opposed by the Vogeler Company, who while admitting that the terms and device which were sought to be registered by Churchill & Co. were in no respect identical to the well known St. Jacobs Oil trade-marks, yet contended that a sufficient close similarity existed between the term St. Patricks and the term St. Jacobs to cause the Vogeler Co. to cause confusion in the minds of the public and lead to purchasers being deceived. In support of this position they submitted a very overwhelming amount of evidence from English, American, and Australian sources, with the result stated. Under the decision of the court, Churchill & Co. cannot register their mark and must pay costs of the case. This is the second trade-mark case in which the Vogeler Company in England within three years.

AMERICA'S CANCER INSTITUTE.

Located at Aurora, Ill.—Its Popularity and Remarkable Cures.

The institution above referred to is presided over by Dr. P. L. Pond, who for many years has made the cure of cancer a special study and who, by reason of the wonderful success he has had in treating such cases, is universally regarded as one of the most eminent physicians in his chosen specialty in America.

One of the latest cures is that of Mrs. D. L. Shaw, of Dallas, Texas. She "suffered from malignant cancer for four years. I consulted the best physicians in Texas, who pronounced it 'only a tumor.' Growing worse and worse, on the advice of a prominent man who had been cured by him, I decided to visit Dr. Pond, though strongly against the wishes of relatives and friends. I realized that, advanced as my case was, it was a desperate one. The cancer measured twenty-seven inches in circumference, and (when finally removed) weighed two pounds. An painful day rapidly, have a good appetite, and have every reason to believe that I shall live to see my grandchildren. I regard my cure as remarkable, and urge all afflicted with cancer to consult Dr. Pond without delay."

The Doctor has hundreds of testimonials of strongest support. These, together with medical and full particulars, will be supplied free on application.

Fun at Home.

DO not be afraid of a little fun at home, good people. Do not shut up your house, lest the sun should fade your carpets; and your hearts, lest a laugh should shake down a few musty old cobwebs that are hanging there. Young people will have fun and relaxation somewhere; if they do not find it at home, or at home, they will seek it at other and less profitable places. Therefore let the fire burn brightly at home, let the lamp shine, and let the doors and windows be cheerful places. Amusements and games will make the homestead delightful with all those little sports and games we understand. Half an hour of merriment within doors, and merriment of a home, will drive away the blues, cares and annoyance during the day, and the best safeguard they can take with them into the world is the unseen influences of the bright little home sanctum.

* * * Pills for tumors, rupture and fistulæ, relieved and cured by improved methods. Book 10 cents in stamps. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

CROQUET was said to beget quarreling; and there is a great deal of racket about lawn tennis.—Boston Transcript.

USE Dr. Pierce's "Pellets" for all bilious attacks.

A DISHONEST man fails to make money. An honest man fails when he fails to make money.—New Orleans Picayune.

A Remedy for Lung Diseases.

Dr. Robt Newton, late President of the Eclectic College, of the City of New York, and formerly of Cincinnati, Ohio, says: "Dr. Wm. Hall's BALSAM very extensively in his practice, as many of his patients, now living, and restored to health, can testify, is a most valuable medicine, can amply testify. He always said that it was a specific remedy and to be considered merely as a patent medicine, but that it ought to be prescribed freely by every physician who was honest enough to use Cutting diseases. It cures Consumption, and all pectoral complaints."

"ROUGH ON ITCH."

"Rough on Itch" cures skin humors, eruptions, tetter, salt rheum, scald head, ringworm, itch, blains, itch, ivy poison, barber's itch. 50c. 1ax.

"ROUGH ON CATARRH"

corrects offensive odors at once. Complete cure of worst catarrhal cases; also recommended for diphtheria, sore throat, foul breath. 50c.

"ROUGH ON CORNS."

Why suffer Ethes? Immediate relief and complete cure for bunions, corns, warts, nails. Ask for cure for bunions, protruding, bleeding, or any form of corns. "Rough on Corns." 15c. 1ax.

MESSMAN'S Peptonized Beef Tonic, the only preparation of beef containing its entire nutritious properties. It contains the entire nutritious portion of the beef, including the albumen, liver invaluable for indigestion, dyspepsia, nervous prostration, wasting diseases, and general debility; also in all enfeebled conditions, whether from excessive mental or bodily exertion, overwork, or acute disease, particularly typhoid fever. Sold by druggists generally. Messmann, Hassard & Co., proprietors, New York. Sold by druggists.

"Rough on Rats" clears out Rats, Mice. 15c.

"Rough on Corns." Ease for soft corns, bunions. 15c.

"Rough on Toothache." Instant relief. 15c.

WELLS'S HAIR BALSAM.

The best hair dressing. Cleanse and beautify the hair. A fine dressing, not a dye. No gray hair, whiskers, mustaches, or eyebrows. Ladies' and gents' toilet. Stimulant, restorative, tonic, nutritive, and curative. Sold by druggists.

"ROUGH ON RIFE" PILLS

cure the blues, relieve bilious stomach, thick, coating tongue and overloaded bowels. Small pill, small dose, small price. 25c. Druggists.

"ROUGH ON PAIN."

Cures Toothache, Faceache, Headache, Backache, Pleurisy, Sprains, Bruises, Burns, Scalds, Cuts, Stings, Bites, Pains and Aches. 15c. 1ax.

A Sale of Beauty is a Joy Forever.

DR. T. FELIX GOURAUD'S

Oriental Cream or Magical Beautifier

Removes Tan, Sunburn, Freckles, Pimples, Blotches, Spots, Moles, Mole-Patches, Blackheads, Rash and Skin Diseases, and every blemish on beauty, and defies detection. It has stood the test of 40 years and is so harmless we taste it to be sure it is properly made. Accept no counterfeit of similar name. The distinguished Dr. L. A. Sayre says of a similar article: "As a chemist I should advise the ladies to avoid it." Gouraud's Powder (Poudre Subtile) removes superfluous hair without injury to the skin. Gouraud's Medicated Soap for the Toilet, Bath, or Nursery, unsurpassed for purity and delicacy. Gouraud's Pearl Powder, Rouge, Lily White, Ladies' Hand Glass, Ladies' Hand Mirror, Ladies' Hair Brush, Ladies' Comb, Ladies' Nail Polisher, Ladies' Nail Scissors, Ladies' Nail Tablets, Ladies' Nail Powder, Ladies' Nail Enamel, Ladies' Nail Lustre, Ladies' Nail Cleaner, Ladies' Nail Cleaner, Ladies' Nail Cleaner, Ladies' Nail Cleaner. Sold by all druggists and fancy goods dealers throughout the United States, Canada, and Europe. Beware of spurious imitations. Gouraud's Oriental Cream, or Magical Beautifier, is the only article of the kind. Ask for Gouraud's Oriental Cream, or Magical Beautifier

School Books and School Supplies

Our Prices are Rock Bottom, Lower than ever!

We have a full supply of every book used in the Charlevoix schools. Also a full supply for every school in the county.

Something New

In Scratch Books, Spelling Slips, Inks, Pens, Pencils, Rulers, Slates Chalks, School Registers, Etc.

The largest stock of Blank Books in the county!

☞ If you want to save money, call at

G. W. CROUTER'S Drug & Stationery Store.

For supplies in general.

Temperance Column.

Conducted by a Committee of the W. C. T. U.

OFFICERS.

President—Mrs. G. W. Jeffories.
First Vice President—Mrs. C. J. Cook.
Second Vice President—Mrs. L. E. Fudge.
Third Vice President—Mrs. N. Sagatoff.
Recording Secretary—Miss Julia Mason.
Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. L. E. Allen.
Treasurer—Mrs. C. J. Strang.

The Waste of Drink.

Investigation made by the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce, show that during the year ending August 31, 1885, there was consumed in Cincinnati, including Covington, Newport, and other suburbs, 553,985 barrels, or 17,175,535 gallons of malt liquors, or 47,050 gallons per day. For this liquor the Price Current estimates that people paid about $10,000,000, or $27,400 per day, or $25 per annum for each individual of the population, including children. In addition to this tax upon industry is the amount expended for spirituous liquors, cigars, tobacco, etc.

Ten millions of dollars! What would this sum do? It would purchase a thousand farms of a hundred acres each, or an equivalent to a territory twelve and a half miles square, lying in the best farming regions of Ohio or Kentucky, and other in proveneuia.

It would purchase ten thousand building lots in the suburbs of the great city where it was swallowed, and build on each of these a neat cottage of four or five rooms, and thus make a comfortable home for each of ten thousand laboring men's families of fifty thousand persons.

It would buy one hundred million pounds of meat, at ten cents per pound, enough to furnish an army of a hundred thousand men with the standard army ration for a year.

It would buy nearly two million barrels of the best grade of flour—enough to furnish a year's supply of bread for four hundred thousand people—more than the entire population of the cities named.

Is it any wonder that Cincinnati is in constant terror of riot and murder, fire and pillage, when such a flood of devil's broth as this money represents is annually poured down the throats of her citizens!

Let it be remembered that these statistics are for malt liquors alone, and do not include wines, etc., of which an enormous additional amount is consumed. Let it be remembered, also, that the statistics are not those of "temperance fanatics," but of a body of business men, who have collected them for business purposes.

What True Merit Will Do.

The unprecedented sale of Boehee's German Syrup within a few years, has astonished the world. It is without doubt the safest and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of coughs, colds, and the severest lung troubles. It acts so as entirely different principle from all the usual prescriptions given by physicians, as it does not dry up a cough and leave the disease still in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when these diseases make their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land. Price 75 cents, large bottles. eow1

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The Best Salve in the world for cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Dr. G. W. Crouter.

Only 25 Cents

buys a perfect remedy for sour stomach, diarrhœa, worms, convulsions, sleeplessness, and loss of sleep. Try it, Dr. Fahrney's Mag. Pain Oil. It effectually relieves external and internal pain. Sold by Perry Weed and Dr. G. W. Crouter.

☞ Butterick's paper patterns at F. W. Craine & Co.'s.

The Girl of the Period.

At 6 o'clock her flowers came; at 8 she and their sender were going to a card-party. "No, Jane, you need not open the box. Just peep in and see what color they are, then put them in refrigerator. Pink roses? Well, I will wear my new Chinese silk. I will sleep about an hour longer, then come and put up my back hair." And he had foolishly selected them with care and much expense. She did not even give them a glance, but closed her pretty eyes in sweetest slumber, unthoughtful of the roses that had bloomed for her.

That night she modestly thanked him, and murmured something about his delicate little attentions, etc., and he? Why, of course he believed her when she returned home with the prize, a bauble of beauty. She carefully removed them from over her sordid little heart, and told Jane that they would do to put in the window on the morrow. "For you know, Jane, mamma likes all the flowers the gentlemen have sent to be placed in the front window. She says it looks well, and shows that I am having attention, and I do have lots, don't I, Jane?"

Three foolish men each tenderly lifted a pink rose from over his heart that night, and thought of his "dear good girl" who had given it.

DE LAND & CO'S CAP SALERATUS SODA

For Baking Purposes. Best in the World.

Sold by Upright & Emrey.

The Detroit Free Press

FREE

For the Campaign.

FIFTY CENTS

Will pay for the two best Newspapers published in the State of Michigan

For 4 Mo's.

On receipt of the above amount we will send

The Charlevoix Journal

—And—

THE WEEKLY DETROIT FREE PRESS

to any address for FOUR MONTHS on trial.

Everybody Knows The Free Press. It is published in the metropolis of the state, and, as a family newspaper, ranks with the best. It is terrifying, sweet, original, vigorous and entertaining, and should find a place in every household.

The Journal speaks for itself. It is a necessity to every man who desires to keep himself well posted on local affairs. Subscriptions under this offer will be accepted for only a limited length of time.

SUBSCRIBE AT ONCE.

☞ Send order to

THE JOURNAL,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Old subscribers who desire the Free Press during the campaign can have it under the above offer by paying all arrears to date, and at least one months in advance in cash.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

TIME TABLE in EFFECT JANUARY, 1886.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Cincinnati, lv	.....	7 35am	7 50pm	.....
Fort Wayne, lv	.....	3 50	1 30am	.....
Fort Wayne, lv	.....	3 50	2 45	8 00am
Kalamazoo, lv	.....	8 45	7 30	12 25pm
Kalamazoo, ar	.....	9 10	8 00	1 15
Grand Rapids, ar	.....	9 20am	8 10	1 25
Grand Rapids, lv	7 00am	.....	11 30am	5 05
Big Rapids	7 15	.....	11 45	5 36
Howard City	8 20	.....	12 50pm	7 00
Elk Rapids	9 10	.....	1 45	8 20
Petoskey, ar	9 35	.....	2 10	8 50
Bond city, lv	.....	.....	9 25	8 10
Cadillac, ar	11 00	.....	4 40	9 55
Cadillac, lv	11 05	.....	4 45	4 40
Walton	11 43am	.....	5 40	10 36
Kalkaska	.....	.....	6 05	11 05
Mancelona	.....	.....	6 19	12 00am
Bayne Falls	.....	.....	6 32	12 24
Petoskey, ar	.....	.....	7 00	1 05
Harbor Springs	.....	.....	7 20	1 45
Mackinaw City	.....	.....	9 20pm	3 10am

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 6	No. 4	No. 8
Mackinaw City	.....	7 15am	3 50pm	.....
Harbor Springs	.....	.....	.....	.....
Petoskey, lv	8 35	.....	11 12	.....
Bayne Falls	8 52	.....	11 29	.....
Mancelona	9 21	.....	12 5am	.....
Kalkaska	9 32	.....	12 28	.....
Walton	9 57	.....	1 16	4 10pm
Cadillac, ar	12 40pm	.....	4 15	6 40
Cadillac, lv	12 45	6 10am	4 20	7 00
Bond city, lv	.....	.....	4 50	7 30
Petoskey, lv	2 20	.....	6 50	9 30
Elk Rapids	2 50	.....	8 05	9 55
Traverse City	3 45	.....	9 45	10 55
Howard City	4 15	.....	10 15	11 25
Big Rapids	4 53	.....	10 53	12 10pm
Grand Rapids, lv	7 15am	1 35	3 45	5 30am
Kalamazoo, ar	8 05	2 25	4 40pm	12 50pm
Kalamazoo, lv	8 10	2 30	4 50	.....
Fort Wayne, ar	12 40pm	11 10pm	3 30pm	.....
Fort Wayne, lv	12 45pm	11 15pm	.....	5 30am
Cincinnati, ar	7 30pm	7 35am	.....	12 50pm

C. L. LOCKWOOD, G. P. A., Grand Rapids, Mich.

Detroit, Mackinac & Marquette Railroad.

"Mackinaw Short Line."

Only direct route between the East and South and the Upper Peninsula of Michigan.

Time Table taking effect June 28, 1886.

GOING WEST. Read down.	STATIONS.	GOING EAST. Read up.
†A. M. ‡P. M.		†A. M.
9 00 6 40	Detroit	9 00
†P. M.	†A. M.	P. M. A. M.
12 20	St. Ignace L.	4 00
2 56	Nicolet	6 35
4 26	Seney	8 15
5 20	Gwinn	9 15
6 28	Au Train	11 06
7 00	Marquette 2	12 35
A. M.	P. M.	P. M.
8 00	Marquette	4 10
10 35	Ishpeming	1 45
11 10	L'Anse	12 45
8 20	Houghton	8 00
6 25	Calumet	6 15

Mixed train at 9 a. m. (ignace at 1 p. m.), lv. at Gwinn 2 p. m., arrive Marquette 7 p. m., arrive St Ignace 5.35 p. m.

(1) Via M. T. Co.'s boats, with Michigan Central and Grand Rapids & Indiana railroads, and the elegant sidewheel steamers of the Detroit and Cleveland Navigation company for Detroit, Cleveland and all points in the east southeast and south. The boats of this line leave St. Ignace Mondays and Wednesdays, Thursday and Saturday nights. (2) With railroads for Sault Ste. Marie, Ontonagon, Michacker and all here points. (3) With M. H. & O. R. R.

‡C. and ‡Daily on Chicago and Northwestern railway.

Standard—Central time. †Daily. ‡Daily, except Sundays. ‡Daily, except Saturday.

A. WATSON, Gen'l Sup't. E. W. ALLEN, Gen'l Pass. & Ticket Agt.

Charlevoix and East Jordan.

Steamer GAZELLE—Capt. John Mason.

Morning—Leave Charlevoix, 6.30, arrive East Jordan 8.30, leave East Jordan, 9.00, arrive Charlevoix 11.00. Afternoon—Leave Charlevoix 2.00, arrive East Jordan 4.00, leave East Jordan 4.30, arrive Charlevoix 6.30. Stopping at intermediate points.

Steamer NORTH STAR—Capt. Mel. Thompson.

Morning—Leave Charlevoix 7.00, arrive East Jordan 9.30; leave Charlevoix 9.30, arrive East Jordan 11.30. Afternoon—Leave Charlevoix 2.00, arrive Charlevoix 4.00; leave Charlevoix 4.30, arrive East Jordan 6.30. Stopping at intermediate points.

THE GRAND RAPIDS DAILY DEMOCRAT

Is the popular paper of Western Michigan. Contains the associated press dispatches. Sent by mail at

60 CENTS A MONTH!

Only eleven and one-half cts. a week.

Try it.

Millinery And Fancy Goods!

A Splendid Line of Ribbons, Ladies' Gloves, Zephyrs, Laces, Ladies' Fine Underwear, and Stamping Goods always on hand at Lowest Prices.

Smith & Cooper,

At the Ingleside.

WM. J. STEVENSON,

HORSE-SHOEING,

Wagon Shop,

BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture my own wagons, of the best material, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

☞ The OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale.

A Large Stock of

Furniture!

IN

Oak, Maple, Ash, and Cherry,

JUST RECEIVED BY THE

PINE LAKE IRON COMPANY

IRONTON, MICH.

HENRY C. COOPER

Undertaker!

CHARLEVOIX MICHIGAN.

Coffins, Caskets, and Trimmings Always in Stock.

Come and See my Stock of Furniture.

ALL ORDERS BY TELEPHONE RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION

Charlevoix Manufacturing Company,

MANUFACTURERS OF

Sash, Doors, and Blinds,

Screen Doors and Windows, and Mouldings of all Descriptions.

Newell Posts, Banisters, and Stair Rail, of Soft and Hard Wood, kept in Stock and Made and Put Up to Order.

A GOOD STOCK OF

FINE AND BASSWOOD SIDING,

FLOORING, CEILING, AND FINISHING LUMBER KEPT ON HAND.

Also Contractors, Builders, and General Jobbers.

Summer Cottages a Specialty.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

PERRY WEED,

DRUGGIST AND STATIONER,

OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

TEN YEARS AGO, on December 26th, 1877, The CHICAGO DAILY NEWS was founded. It was the pioneer of low-priced journalism in the west. From the first the controlling conviction of its managers has been that a "cheap paper" should be cheap only in price; that its news should be as fresh and complete, its editorial discussion, as able, and its general tone and character as pure and healthful as its best and highest-priced contemporary. This has been its ideal. How well it has succeeded in the actual attainment of so high a standard is best evidenced by the fact that it now regularly prints and sells over 150,000 papers a day,—a larger circulation than that of all other Chicago dailies combined.

The CHICAGO DAILY NEWS is an INDEPENDENT newspaper. It is not partisan. Neither is it a neutral. It is a paper of positive opinion, expressed without fear or favor. It seeks the patronage of people who love country more than party.

The CHICAGO DAILY NEWS is the only 2 cent paper in the west that is a member of the Associated Press. It prints ALL THE NEWS.

Sold by all news dealers at two cents per copy. Mailed to any address, postage prepaid, for six dollars per year, or for a shorter time at rate of fifty cents per month. Address Victor F. Lawson, Publisher The DAILY NEWS, 123 Fifth Ave., CHICAGO, ILL.

The CHICAGO WEEKLY NEWS—8 pages, 64 columns—is the largest dollar weekly in America.

☞ Old Newspapers for Sale.

John Nicholls,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Manufacturer of and dealer in

HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER!

ALSO

Dressed lumber, Oar Blades,

WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER

JAMES HEMMINGS,

On Mason St., third door west of State, Charlevoix,

HOUSE PAINTER,

Calciminer,

Paper Hanger,

And Decorator.

PINE AND HARDWOOD FINISHING. GOOD WORK.

At the Old Stand.

A. J. McLeod

Can be found at the old stand with a

FULL STOCK OF MEATS

Of all kinds

At Wholesale and Retail.

HIDES, PELTS & FAT STOCK WANTED

MISS L. SPAULDING.

MILLINERY

and Fancy Goods.

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 163. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 30, 1886. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL

Published every Thursday,

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

Office on Bridge Street,

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX MICH. AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

WATCH YOUR ADDRESS LABEL.

The date following the name on your address-label indicates the time to which your subscription is paid. If in arrears, you are requested to pay up.

BUSINESS CARDS.

ATTORNEYS.

A. HIRAM E. MARTIN, Attorney at Law, Boyne City. Collections promptly attended to.

CROUCH, HANK & GRIER, Attorneys at Law and Proctors in Admiralty. Office in Hill Block, Petoskey, Mich.
A. S. CROUCH. HANK. C. J. GRIER.

DEXTER GALL, Attorney at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents. Lake St., east of postoffice, Petoskey, Mich.

FRED W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor, Real Estate business promptly attended to. MONEY TO LOAN.

J. S. NEWBERRY, Attorney at Law and Judge of Probate of Emmet Co., Petoskey, Mich.

EMILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

CHAS. F. WISNER, Attorney at Law and Real Estate Agent. Special attention given to Western Homes, East Jordan, Mich.

W. MOORE, Attorney and Solicitor, East Jordan. Admiralty a Specialty.

ZACHARY T. SWIFT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

CHURCHES.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7.30 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7.30. All seatings held at Green's hall, over F. W. Craine & Co.'s store.
W. O. CLARK, pastor.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m., and 7.00 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7.00 o'clock.
C. P. VAN ACKER, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7.00 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer and praise meeting Thursday evening at 7 o'clock.
J. T. HOWIE, pastor.

DENTISTRY.

N. J. PERRY, Dentist. Office at Weed's Drug Store. CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

B. SUFFIELD, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Domestic Cases, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

PHYSICIANS.

L. LEWIS M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office in the Lewis block, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. M. PRESTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HORACE S. HARSHA, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

G. A. R.—Baxter Post No. 119, meets second Monday in each month at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Charlevoix Lodge, No. 395, meets every Wednesday evening, in their hall.

F. & A. M.—Lexington No. 128, meets second Thursday every month at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. G. T.—True Blues No. 157, meet Saturday on or before full moon, in Barnett's column.

MASONIC—Charlevoix Lodge No. 295, meets Tuesday on or before full moon, in their hall.

W. F. BROWN, Cashier. W. A. BROWN, Ass't Cashier.

Brown & Co's Bank of Charlevoix.

OFFICE AT BOYNE CITY, MICH.

Drafts drawn direct upon the principal cities of Europe. Conveyancing receive prompt attention. Foreign securities bought and sold. Tickets to and from all points in Europe by best lines. CORRESPONDENTS—Chicago, Illinois, National Bank. New York, First National Bank, Chicago; Merchants and Manufacturers' National Bank. Detroit, Fourth National Bank, Grand Rapids.

FARM FOR SALE 2½ miles south of Charlevoix, on State road, 10 will trade for house and lot in Charlevoix. Inquire at this office. 1613

JOB PRINTING of every description executed promptly, neatly, artistically, and cheaply, at the JOURNAL Office.

JOHN HOGAN, HOUSE PAINTER AND INTERIOR DECORATOR, Charlevoix, Mich. Residence one door west of Gallery.

LETTER HEADS, Note Heads, Statements, Bill Heads, etc., neat, cheap, and quick, at the JOURNAL Office.

VIEWS OF CHARLEVOIX on heavy cardboard, suitable for stereoscopic or frame, for sale at this office, 5 cts. each.

WANTED—A Good, Wide-Awake, enterprising agent in every town and school district in the adjoining country. For further information call on or address this office.

WANTED—Men to cut peels and lies. Apply to SPENCER BURNS, Dover lake, or JUNIUS DIXON, Terrace Farm, Charlevoix.

Terrace Farm

J. R. & J. S. DIXON

Charlevoix, Mich.

COMMERCIAL HOUSE

D. B. JERRUE, Proprietor.

East Jordan, Michigan

Entirely rebuilt and refurnished. First-class Sample Room for agents. Good Stable in Connection with the House. 75

FARMERS' HOTEL,

WM. RANGER, MANAGER,

CHARLEVOIX - - MICHIGAN.

Excellent accommodations for steady boarders. Farmers with their families who want a good place to board, will find it to their interest. The management of this house will not interfere with my usual work at the Shop. 1614

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,

RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix Michigan.

Finest location in town, giving good view of lake and depots. Express office and telegraph quarters for Petoskey and Elk Rapids stages. Good sample room for commercial travelers adjoining hotel.

CHARLEVOIX

Savings Bank

Organized under the General Banking Law of the State of Michigan.

Henry Bennett, President.
John Nicholls, Vice President;
F. A. Smith, Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

Henry Bennett, O. D. Wood,
John Nicholls, A. Bumsted,
A. E. Upright, A. Fox,
F. A. Smith.

CAPITAL, $25,000
Surplus, 2,000

The liabilities of Stockholders in all State Banks are doubled by the 13th Sec. of Revised Statutes of the State of Michigan, in a further amount of stock taken, making a guaranteed fund of $50,000 to deposit with. Superior facilities for the transaction of every legitimate branch of banking business extended to our customers on terms as favorable as are consistent with safety.

Drafts drawn direct on the leading commercial cities of the world in large or small amounts. Also, we deal in an approved paper. Exchange bought and sold. Certificates of deposit issued bearing interest.

We respectfully solicit your patronage.

CORRESPONDENTS:

NATIONAL PARK BANK.....New York.
COMMERCIAL NATIONAL BANK.....CHICAGO.
NATIONAL CITY BANK.....GRAND RAPIDS.
DETROIT NATIONAL BANK.....DETROIT.

MISS L. SPAULDING.

MILLINERY

and Fancy Goods.

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

Charlevoix and Boyne.

STEAMER CLARA BELLE—Capt. Robert O'Neil.

Morning—Leave Charlevoix 6.30, arrive Boyne 8.00, leave Boyne 8.30, arrive Charlevoix 10.00. Afternoon—Leave Charlevoix 2.30, arrive Boyne 4.00, leave Boyne 4.30, arrive Charlevoix 6.00. Stopping at intermediate points.

ADVERTISERS can find out the cost of a contemplated advertising space when in Chicago, by calling at the Advertising Agency of LORD & THOMAS.

1872. 1886.

DR. G. W. CROUTER,

Drugs, Stationery and Wall Paper.

Dental Office in Rear of Drug Store.

ADVERTISEMENTS of three lines or less will be inserted in this column for each insertion. Five cents per line for all words to a line. Each additional line, three cents each insertion.

TEN CENTS

FARM FOR SALE 2½ miles south of Charlevoix, on State road, 10 will trade for house and lot in Charlevoix. Inquire at this office. 1613

JOB PRINTING of every description executed promptly, neatly, artistically, and cheaply, at the JOURNAL Office.

JOHN HOGAN, HOUSE PAINTER AND INTERIOR DECORATOR, Charlevoix, Mich. Residence one door west of Gallery.

LETTER HEADS, Note Heads, Statements, Bill Heads, etc., neat, cheap, and quick, at the JOURNAL Office.

VIEWS OF CHARLEVOIX on heavy cardboard, suitable for stereoscopic or frame, for sale at this office, 5 cts. each.

WANTED—A Good, Wide-Awake, enterprising agent in every town and school district in the adjoining country. For further information call on or address this office.

WANTED—Men to cut peels and lies. Apply to SPENCER BURNS, Dover lake, or JUNIUS DIXON, Terrace Farm, Charlevoix.

Why the Upper Peninsula is Solid.

The following from the Hancock Copper Herald, the brightest and best weekly in the upper peninsula, a strictly independent paper, shows how the upper peninsula comes to be solid; shows how it is kept in line for the robber tariff; and why it is that the nine owners were so bitter in their opposition to the Knights of Labor, a purely educational order. It also shows the boasted regard of the republican party for a "free ballot and a fair count" to be a fraud.

"Let upper peninsula democrats watch the Gogebic region. This virgin portion of our favored common wealth has been chosen as the scene of great republican achievements in November. The will of the people must not be thwarted in the mining country. If the republicans are held down to open handed tactics in the upper peninsula the people will go to the Straits with a majority for Yapie that will deluge all Trans-Mackinac.—Detroit Free Press."

"How does the above strike the average reader? As a specimen of the "will of people" of the upper peninsula the majority against the candidates of the Democratic party can be increased a thousand or more, if they want to show their opinion of such an uncalled-for insult.—Portage Lake Mining Gazette."

"The editor of the Gazette is evidently not well acquainted with the inner history of upper peninsula politics, or is very blind to such facts as may have come to his knowledge. The Copper Herald happens to know of several instances where the abuse hinted at by the Free Press have occurred, instances where the laws of the state have been openly and flagrantly violated and the spirit of republican institutions put to shame. We saw, on the occasion of the state and congressional election of 1882, in one voting precinct in a certain county on this peninsula, as many as three hundred voters marched to the polls, in a body, and, having the ballots put into their hands by bosses, made to vote according as they were dictated to. These voters were ignorant Italians and Scandinavians, who had been brought to this country under the contract labor system. It may be possible that one article of their contract with the employers was that they should vote as the employer dictated! But that is it may, the fact remains that they were literally voted like so many automata. In the precinct referred to, one of the candidates for congress received over 400 votes, while his opponent managed, by some means not yet accounted for, to get the suffrages of two bold citizens. Nor is the case cited an isolated one. It has had many parallels in the history of upper peninsula politics. The shot gun may not have been a factor in determining the political complexion of Michigan, but there have been sections of this state where as complete a political terrorism has existed, as in Mississippi in the palmiest days of shot-gun rule. These are cold facts. The charges of the Free Press are not entirely without warrant. Let us not be insulted by the truth."

A Star Revealed.

Editor JOURNAL:—In the last week's Sentinel is published the following significant question. "Hadn't the Charlevoix county prohibitionists better indorse the democratic ticket for county officers?" In reply to this question we will just say that we much prefer a bold, frank, open enemy whose colors are always flying at the mast head to be seen and read of all men than one who has been for years carrying fire-water on one shoulder and cold water on the other all for the purpose of hoodwinking the people and gobbling up the spoils. Hadn't the gentlemen of the Sentinel and their candidate for congress, Gen. Cutcheon, better join the anti-saloon party? It would be much easier to hide their hypocrisy in gulling the dear people with high tax instead of high license. It's well known all over the ninth congressional district that two years ago Cutcheon was rampant on high license. Every time he got a chance he wrote to a friend in the south part of said district, saying that he had always been a prohibitionist. Will the Sentinel tell us which horn of the dilemma the General is hanging to, high license, high tax, or prohibition? Now gentlemen, this prohibition question is a vital one, and the people are swallowing it faster than Bonnie Boone could run bullets.

PROHIBITIONIST.

Naturalists now count no less than 1,870 different kinds of fishes in North American waters, of which 500 live in the rivers and lakes and 560 kinds belong to the Pacific. Of the remainder, 195 dwell only in the deep waters of the Atlantic and Gulf of Mexico, never approaching the shore or the surface.

REPORT OF THE STATE BOARD OF EQUALIZATION.

Statement, showing population for 1884, No. of acres of land assessed in 1886, aggregate of real and personal estate as assessed in 1886, aggregate of real and personal estate as equalized by boards of supervisors for 1886, amount added or deducted by state board of equalization, aggregate of real and personal estate as equalized by state board of equalization for 1886.

COUNTIES.	Population 1884.	No. Acres of Land Assessed, in 1886.	Aggregate of Real and Personal Estate, as assessed in 1886.	Aggregate of Real and Personal Estate, as Equalized by Boards of Supervisors, 1886.	Amount added or deducted by State Board of Equalization.	Aggregate of Real and Personal estate, as Equalized by State Board of Equalization for 1886.
Alcona	4,052	316,839.00	$1,879,175.00	$1,208,180.00	add $1,149,540.00	$2,308,000.00
Alger	.....	411,188.40	1,323,734.00	1,323,734.00	.....	1,323,734.00
Allegan	38,328	416,156.00	15,027,275.00	15,500,000.00	add 1,500,000.00	15,000,000.00
Alpena	12,710	598,582.47	3,410,792.00	.....	add 500,000.00	3,500,000.00
Antrim	9,990	286,916.52	3,683,281.00	3,267,786.00	add 250,000.00	3,500,000.00
Arenac	4,665	256,103.52	1,018,346.00	950,000.00	add 300,000.00	1,250,000.00
Baraga	6,000	156,160.00	1,000,000.00	1,000,000.00	add 250,000.00	1,250,000.00
Barry	29,767	363,363.52	16,077,420.00	16,028,500.00	add 1,000,000.00	17,000,000.00
Bay	51,176	276,055.52	34,500,565.00	33,500,000.00	add 2,000,000.00	35,500,000.00
Benzie	4,376	105,055.00	1,306,538.00	1,154,538.00	add 200,000.00	1,350,000.00
Berrien	37,915	352,942.00	15,793,536.00	13,097,953.00	add 3,702,047.00	17,000,000.00
Branch	29,931	352,942.00	15,793,536.00	15,000,000.00	add 2,000,000.00	17,000,000.00
Calhoun	46,576	420,660.00	21,071,205.00	21,071,205.00	add 4,000,000.00	25,000,000.00
Cass	21,26	396,955.00	15,756,887.00	15,000,000.00	add 4,928,045.00	20,000,000.00
Charlevoix	8,304	211,801.00	2,208,200.00	2,200,000.00	add 1,300,000.00	3,500,000.00
Cheboygan	9,972	418,091.00	3,204,250.00	3,300,000.00	add 200,000.00	3,500,000.00
Chippewa	19,606	1,000,000.00	3,447,100.00	3,500,000.00	add 1,000,000.00	4,500,000.00
Clare	8,409	317,760.00	1,070,156.00	1,000,000.00	add 500,000.00	1,500,000.00
Clinton	27,165	305,652.36	16,978,336.00	16,000,000.00	add 2,000,000.00	18,000,000.00
Crawford	2,380	306,720.07	1,068,294.00	1,000,000.00	add 500,000.00	1,500,000.00
Delta	9,907	550,192.23	2,023,512.00	2,017,033.45	add 982,966.55	3,000,000.00
Dickinson	8,000	1,000,000.00	2,538,340.00	2,500,000.00	add 500,000.00	3,000,000.00
Eaton	32,865	344,787.34	1,683,144.00	1,692,817.00	add 307,183.00	2,000,000.00
Emmet	27,154	305,425.00	19,672,085.00	19,672,085.00	add 2,327,915.00	21,000,000.00
Genesee	54,651	427,700.00	3,128,128.00	3,000,000.00	add 1,000,000.00	4,000,000.00
Gladwin	4,000	1,000,000.00	1,000,000.00	1,000,000.00	add 500,000.00	1,500,000.00
Gratiot	34,860	543,813.00	19,264,020.00	19,000,000.00	add 1,234,772.00	20,500,000.00
Hillsdale	31,605	392,625.00	19,672,085.00	19,000,000.00	add 1,000,000.00	20,000,000.00
Huron	34,455	1,126,120.00	4,000,000.00	4,000,000.00	add 500,000.00	4,500,000.00
Ingham	34,860	343,813.00	19,264,020.00	19,000,000.00	add 1,234,772.00	20,500,000.00
Ionia	32,652	389,929.00	15,000,000.00	14,962,219.00	add 1,037,781.00	16,000,000.00
Iosco	18,022	271,385.16	1,430,892.00	1,706,726.00	add 293,661.00	2,000,000.00
Isabella	.....	450,000.00	4,000,000.00	4,545,710.00	add 454,290.00	5,000,000.00
Jackson	50,071	456,904.44	4,272,338.00	3,585,000.00	add 1,455,000.00	4,500,000.00
Isle Royal	.....	No	Report.	.....	add 2,000,000.00	2,000,000.00
Kalamazoo	45,393	416,000.00	20,000,000.00	20,000,000.00	add 4,000,000.00	24,000,000.00
Kalkaska	2,417	176,470.00	20,283,356.00	20,171,665.00	add 3,828,335.00	24,000,000.00
Kent	84,848	1,000,000.00	24,484,000.00	24,000,000.00	add 1,000,000.00	25,000,000.00
Keweenaw	4,677	399,318.44	2,317,208.00	2,375,000.00	add 13,420,000.00	15,800,000.00
Lake	7,274	256,575.00	1,000,000.00	1,000,000.00	add 500,000.00	1,500,000.00
Lapeer	30,118	433,630.27	11,273,313.00	10,200,000.00	add 3,200,000.00	13,500,000.00
Leelanau	.....	92,000.00	1,000,000.00	1,000,000.00	add 500,000.00	1,500,000.00
Lenawee	49,324	465,705.00	27,600,455.00	27,603,553.00	add 356,447.00	28,000,000.00
Livingston	34,261	463,000.00	21,000,000.00	21,000,000.00	add 1,000,000.00	22,000,000.00
Luce	1,152	301,200.00	1,254,400.00	1,000,000.00	add 1,000,000.00	2,000,000.00
Mackinac	21,320	910,761.00	16,525,600.00	14,904,000.00	add 1,595,000.00	16,500,000.00
Macomb	32,381	374,407.75	5,971,201.00	5,000,000.00	add 1,000,000.00	6,000,000.00
Manistee	9,723	65,008.00	95,711.00	95,401.00	add 15,599.00	100,000.00
Marquette	34,776	1,000,000.00	19,000,000.00	19,000,000.00	add 1,000,000.00	20,000,000.00
Mason	15,431	395,136.00	3,325,000.00	3,325,000.00	add 675,000.00	4,000,000.00
Mecosta	20,652	359,817.81	5,975,712.00	5,956,987.00	add 43,013.00

THE JOURNAL
BY CHAS. J. STRANG.
CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

EASTERN.

The New York Chamber of Commerce has raised $50,000 for the Charleston sufferers.

Fires in Market and Front streets, Philadelphia, caused losses estimated at $400,000, with heavy insurance. A number of firemen narrowly escaped being buried under falling walls.

The Governors of seven of the original thirteen States gathered at Philadelphia to arrange for a fitting celebration next year of the centennial anniversary of the promulgation of the Federal Constitution. It is proposed to have every State in the Union send a regiment of militia.

Asher B. Durand, the oldest American painter of note, died at South Orange, N. J. He was born in 1796.

The nephews of the late S. J. Tilden have commenced a contest of the claims in the will of the deceased which gave a trust fund to New York City.

John L. Sullivan and Frank Heard, of Philadelphia, with hard gloves at Fitzsimmons's hot battle was stopped by the police in the second round, with Sullivan the winner.

A boat capsized at Cazenovia, N. Y., and three men perished.

Philadelphia's City Council has decided to impeach Mayor Smith on the charge of malfeasance in office.

Severe frosts, damaging to vegetation, are reported from Northern New Hampshire and Vermont.

Dr. S. Butterworn, a member of the Pennsylvania House of Representatives in 1885, made misrepresentations which drew $12,500 from the State Treasury, for which offense he has been fined $1,000 and sentenced to sixty days' imprisonment.

George M. Hartholomew of Hartford, President of the Charter Oak Life Insurance Company, is $132,000 short, and has disappeared. An application has been made for a receiver for the company.

WESTERN.

Ex-Governor Foster, of Ohio, is President of a company organized to convey natural gas from Findlay to Toledo, a distance of forty-five miles. The plant will cost $1,250,000.

The case of The United States vs. The Bell Telephone Company was begun Sept 20 at Cincinnati, Circuit Judge Jackson and District Judges Sage and Walker occupying the bench. Argument was begun against the jurisdiction of the court. Ex-Senator Thurman and ex-Senator Joseph E. McDonald are opposing counsel in the case. Mr. Thurman was screaded at Columbus, and in a speech said: "I shall never again hold office, never be able to reward friends or punish foes."

Bowman Paxton, a druggist, was lynched near Malden, Mo. He was being brought to Malden from Kennett, Mo., to be tried for the murder of a blacksmith, J. McGuilvery, and when within five miles of Malden a mob of seventy-five masked men met the sheriff's posse and demanded the prisoner. He was given up, and they hanged him to a tree.

Martin Irons, the leader of the late strike on the Missouri Pacific lines, will be tried at St. Louis on charge of complicity in tapping the telegraph wires running to the residence of Vice President Hoxie.

Over 3,000 cattle have been quar-antined in the vicinity of Chicago on account of the existence of pleuro-pneumonia. Hundreds or more head have been slaughtered.

Editor C. S. Hayes, of the Traver (Cal.) Tribune, was shot dead by some person unknown as he was chatting with his bedridden mother in a roadhouse at Lemoore, Cal. A man who was known to be jealous of Hayes has been arrested.

A mob broke into the County Jail at Modoc, Cal., and took out I. P. Synacon, charged with murder. The Sheriff mustered a posse, and a battle with the lynchers followed, but no lives were lost. The mob fled to the mountains and separated, one party taking the Gunnel Symmes, whom, it is supposed, they hanged and then buried.

Umpire Powers was mobbed in De-troit because of his decisions in the game between Detroit base ball game. After the game, which was lost by Detroit, a stone was thrown into one of the carriages containing the Chicago players, one of whom was injured by the missile. Two of the Chicago men attempted to capture the offender, but were beset by a crowd and menaced with sticks and umbrellas. Tom Ivy, Buffalo catcher, is the best Throughout players soon forced their way through the mob, and the incident was brought to a end.

The investigations by the Live-Stock Commissioners clearly establish that the disease among the distillery cattle in Chicago, which has resulted in the quarantine of several thousand, is the deadly pleuro-pneumonia.

SOUTHERN.

Three brothers named Morgan were drowned while bathing in the river near Chattanooga. The parents were at their university and the others were lost in their attempt to save his life.

Mayor Courtenay, of Charleston, by authority of the City Council, has issued a proclamation, in which he says that while the liberal and spontaneous contributions which have been received are gratefully acknowledged, it is evident they will be wholly insufficient to meet unexpected exigencies, and invokes additional aid for the stricken city. There was a slight shock of earthquake on the morning of the 17th inst.

Natchez, Miss., has voted to sub-scribe $225,000 to the capital stock of the New Orleans and Northwestern Road, which means the construction of the New Orleans, Natchez and Fort Scott Line, and the early construction of the transcontinental bridge.

Charleston and Summerville, S. C., were again shaken by earthquakes on the morning of Sept. 21, the vibrations being accompanied by heavy detonations, similar to the report of great cannon.

Arrearures' family asks $100,000 in-demnity of the Mexican Government for his murder.

WASHINGTON.

Plans and specifications for the new cruisers and gunboats, including the 870-ton gunboat, are completed and ready for the inspection of intending bidders.

John Roach, it is announced, will supply he a bidder for the contracts to build the new cruisers for the United States navy. The contracts will barely be given out before Congress is again in session.

The rumor that Secretary Manning may be appointed Minister to Austria grows in Washington. Two ones are sought, viz, that Mr. Manning may try certain American springs, and that the United States may have an envoy in finance in the field in the expected European controversy over the silver question.

Plans are ordered prepared for two sea-going, double-bottomed, 6,000 ton armored cruisers, authorized by the act of Aug. 3.

A gathering of the employes of the public printing office at Washington for the purpose of presenting Mr. E. Leander sent out short by the sudden death of Captain Ottenbacher.

The Land Office has received news of the seizure by Government agents of timber in Arizona, and Texas, and two were cutting south of the forty-ninth parallel.

President Cleveland, his wife, Mrs. Folsom and Colonel and Mrs. Lamont reached Washington Wednesday, Sept 22. Colonel Lamont announced to the newspaper men that the President had said he was glad to get back.

Commissioner of Pensions Black's report shows that there are 365,181 pensioners on the rolls, then being 1,320 survivors of the war of 1812, and 19,887 widows of the soldiers of that war. There was paid out for pensions during war year $45,506,000.

POLITICAL.

The official returns of the Maine election for Governor, embracing all except a few small towns, show that Robert Dunn, Republican, 68,817; Edwards, Democrat, 55,985; Clark, Prohibition, 2,822; scattering, 20. Bodwell over Edwards, 12,832.

Congressional nominations: Orman Brown, Republican, Twelfth Illinois District; Frank Hiscock, Republican, Twenty second New York; Charles R. Buckalew, Democrat, Eleventh Pennsylvania; John T. Bohan, Democrat, Tenth Tennessee; W. E. Robinson, Democrat, Sixth Tennessee; C. Newton, Democrat Fifth Louisiana; James Townsend, Republican, Twenty-first Ohio; R. W. Dunn, Republican, First Illinois; Andrew Halcen, Republican, Sixth Wisconsin; Lewis C. McComan, Republican, Sixth Maryland; William Elliott, Democrat, Seventh South Carolina; James Buckalin, Democrat, Eighth Wisconsin; John J. Washington, Democrat, Sixth Tennessee; John P. Sanborn, Republican, Seventh Minnesota.

Dr. A. C. Wedge, of Albert Lea, presided over the Minnesota Republican State Convention, at St. Paul. A. R. McGill was nominated for Governor, A. E. Lewis of McLeoud, Republican, nominated for Secretary of State, W. W. Braden for Auditor, Joseph Bolleiter for Treasurer, and R. K. Clapp for Attorney General. The platform adopted favors laws prohibiting railroad companies from furnishing passes to legislators; the establishment of a bureau of labor statistics; the payment of laborers in lawful money; equal rights to women for the same labor; the prohibition of the employment of children under 12 from working in mines, etc. It opposes prison labor. It favors the free coinage of silver, and declares that laws should be enacted making employers liable in damages to employes injured in their employment when the employes are negligent or not. It favors the reduction of the tariff on the necessaries of life, and declares in favor of civil service reform.

The committee appointed at the Na-tional Labor Convention to select a State ticket for Massachusetts met at Boston last week and agreed on the following: Governor, George E. McNeill, of Boston; Lieutenant Governor, Robert Howard, of Fall River; Secretary of State, A. A. Carleton, of Somerville; Treasurer and Receiver General, Frank K. Foster, of Haverhill; Auditor, F. J. Thompson, of Boston; Attorney General, Asa F. Hall, of Boston.

THE INDUSTRIAL OUTLOOK.

Charleston reports a scarcity of skilled brick layers and plasterers, where wages are at earthquake figures. The refugees are flocking to the city.

Austin Corbin has been elected Pre-sident of the Brooklyn Road. F. R. Gowen having resigned.

A jury in the Superior Court at Boston, Massachusetts, gave a verdict against the New York Central Sleeping-Car Company for the principal and interest of money stolen from a passenger by a crook.

Chester M. Dawes, of Chicago, has been appointed assistant solicitor of the Burlington Road.

MISCELLANEOUS.

There were 185 failures in the United States last week and thirty three in Canada, Dun's Review, in its review of the business situation, says:

The trade disturbers fall of an increased dis-position of merchandise, with a distinct and widespread fall in prices. Speculative prices for staple articles have fallen, and finished manufacturing articles are almost uniformly and decidedly low. Pure New England the extreme business is reported in excellent shape. Philadelphia reports satisfactory activity in most branches of the distributing trade, with no complaint of collections in any quarter. Kansas City reports the best business for several months, with Texas firmer. St. Louis finds still further improvement, with free buying in anticipation of higher prices. At Chicago there is decided uncertainty on active and firm movement, with the distributive trade especially well sustained. The usual movement at New Orleans has been very brisk with the receipts of cotton and other staples in excess of those of last year. From Chicago report comes that in important branches of trade surprise is expressed at the ease of Western and Northwestern collections. Some lines report a fair business, others complain of slow collections, while reports of collections generally have been received. Iowa trade centers report further satisfactory trade movements. Reports from St. Paul and Minneapolis of general trade of a satisfactory character. The dry goods trade of Boston is particularly prosperous. The bank clearings at 106 cities for the week amount to $856,000,000, compared with $728,993,164 last week, and with $826,553,539 in the week of 1885. The increase last week from the total of the preceding week was 3.15. Outside of New York the increase was 1.9. Nine cities show a decrease, and one the gain is 64 per cent. There is a marked revival of speculative activity in the New York stock Market. The general situation in one iron trade continues strong and prices are well maintained.

November 18 has been appointed Thanksgiving Day for Canada.

The visible supply of grain in the United States and Canada last week increased 2,000,000 bushels of wheat, 1,145,142 bushels of corn, 31,528 bushels of rye, and 192,088 bushels of barley, but there was a decrease of 3,759 bushels of oats.

England will make Esquimalt, a sea-port on Vancouver Island, an impregnable fortress and an important depot for war supplies.

RAILROAD INTELLIGENCE.

At the meeting of the Board of Di-rectors of the Northern Pacific Railroad, Henry Villard was re-elected President.

The Central Pacific Road is building two locomotives from each of an improved pattern, for next season's trains.

FOREIGN.

The Bulgarian Sobranje has voted a grant of $50,000 to purchase the property of Prince Alexander, rewarding sufficient to pay the claims of the national bank.

A patent has been taken out for an aerial ship by two British inventors, who hope to investigate the Congo and other countries with it.

The guaranty fund for the projected Paris Exhibition is being rapidly subscribed, and the total capital of $5,000,000 is now assured.

Three hundred Spanish soldiers re-volted in Madrid in consequence of a great parade in an encounter between the insurgents and the troops, in which several officers were killed and wounded. As a consequence of the outbreak martial law has been proclaimed.

In the prize fight near London, for $2,000 and the championship of the world, William Beach, of Australia, defeated Jacob Gaudaur, of St. Louis, by four lengths.

Subscription lists have been opened at all the American consulates in Germany for the benefit of the earthquake sufferers in Charleston, and liberal contributions are being made.

A Belfast (Ireland) dispatch reports that on Monday last a large gang of disguised men from Lurgan, Armagh, entered and marched through the streets as if to provoke a fight, and then fired upon the crowd assembled with volleys of stones and a desperate fight ensued, during which many on both sides were wounded. Subsequently the rioters formed mobs and police were kept up during the night. The rioters were dispersed by the police hard pressed, were obliged to flee, and were pursued by a howling mob armed with stones, but no further fight. A strong body of soldiers. Several houses near Lurgan, Queen's County, were fired into by moonlighters in search of arms. The moonlighters are believed to be well-dressed, polite gentlemen, the majority carrying revolvers of the newest kind of firearms. In broad daylight a company of men entered a house in Clark and carried several farm-horses to a neighboring town. They were successful in recovering them. Two arrests have been made.

Belfast dispatches give the following lively incidents of the recent rioting in that city:

Desultory rioting was kept up all through the night. Thirty Catholics were arrested on a charge of assaulting the police and soldiers. A number of persons were shot and a number of others injured. Not nearly so hot as before, because the Catholics, who had been driven out of their quarters, were all scattered, some of them assisting the police in duty at Falls Road. Four police were forced to retreat before a mob of Catholics, who had taken possession of a house, and, capturing a member on the way. While this was going on a Catholic man in a shirt and trousers was attacked with stones the Brick Welsh regiment of Fusiliers, and, when the soldiers were fired upon, they made a charge, capturing a dozen and driving the Catholics before them, wounding a great number of the rioters, and arresting two. Still another mob got into a row in the Falls Road district, and, singing "Boyne Water," overturned a passing car filled with Protestant workmen, who, armed with sticks, passenger, overwhelmed the mob, drove the seats and under one another, and, with the fleet-mate and sure-footed, Several Catholics were knocked down and trampled on. The military charged the rioters, and, in a few minutes, not a Catholic was to be seen in the district, mostly just out of the neighborhood and the whole turmoil.

The Bulgarian Sobranje has voted a grant of $50,000 to purchase the property of Prince Alexander, rewarding sufficient to pay the claims of the national bank.

A patent has been taken out for an aerial ship by two British inventors, who hope to investigate the Congo and other countries with it.

The guaranty fund for the projected Paris Exhibition is being rapidly subscribed, and the total capital of $5,000,000 is now assured.

Three hundred Spanish soldiers re-volted in Madrid in consequence of a great parade in an encounter between the insurgents and the troops, in which several officers were killed and wounded. As a consequence of the outbreak martial law has been proclaimed.

In the prize fight near London, for $2,000 and the championship of the world, William Beach, of Australia, defeated Jacob Gaudaur, of St. Louis, by four lengths.

Subscription lists have been opened at all the American consulates in Germany for the benefit of the earthquake sufferers in Charleston, and liberal contributions are being made.

A Belfast (Ireland) dispatch reports that on Monday last a large gang of disguised men from Lurgan, Armagh, entered and marched through the streets as if to provoke a fight, and then fired upon the crowd assembled with volleys of stones and a desperate fight ensued, during which many on both sides were wounded. Subsequently the rioters formed mobs and police were kept up during the night. The rioters were dispersed by the police hard pressed, were obliged to flee, and were pursued by a howling mob armed with stones, but no further fight. A strong body of soldiers. Several houses near Lurgan, Queen's County, were fired into by moonlighters in search of arms. The moonlighters are believed to be well-dressed, polite gentlemen, the majority carrying revolvers of the newest kind of firearms. In broad daylight a company of men entered a house in Clark and carried several farm-horses to a neighboring town. They were successful in recovering them. Two arrests have been made.

LATER NEWS ITEMS.

In Crawford County, Missouri, Mal-colm Logan, his wife, three children, and adopted child were murdered, it is supposed, by a person who sought to rob Mr. Logan of $1,300 he had recently received.

The date of the execution of Brooks, who murdered Pfeffer in a St. Louis hotel, has been postponed for sixty days, to permit of an appeal to the Supreme Court.

George M. Bartholomew, the Presi-dent of the Charter Oak Life Insurance Company, who has just disappeared from Hartford, not only owed that corporation several hundred thousand dollars, but managed to get into debt at the banks over $2,000,000.

In the matter of the recent grave dis-aster on the Nickel-Plate Road, a majority of the coroner's jury holds the conductor and engineer of the excursion train responsible, while the minority finds that the accident was caused by a misunderstanding of flag orders.

Hailstones five inches in circumfer-ence fell at Medina, Wis. Several thousand panes of glass were broken, and hundreds of birds were killed.

The strike of Western window glass workers, in progress since June, has been settled, and work resumed in all factories west of the Alleghanies.

Col. Hugh D. Gallagher, of Greene-ville, Ind., has been appointed Indian Agent at the Pine Ridge Agency in Dakota. He succeeds Major Mc Gillicuddy.

The Governor, Attorney General, and Live Stock Commissioner of Illinois, accompanied by Dr. Salmon, of Washington, and veterinarians from several States, spent a couple of days in Chicago investigating cases of pleuro-pneumonia in the distillery yards, and witnessed the slaughter of some infected cattle. It was decided that all the cattle in the infected stables, some 3,000 in number, should be condemned and the whole burned.

In Philadelphia Constable John B. Lloyd and Police Lieutenant D. B. Roche, both intoxicated, accompanied by a band of policemen and ward-workers, indulged in indiscriminate shooting at peaceful opponents in saloons and on the street. A negro was fatally wounded in the back, and Charles Perrott was beaten to insensibility with black jacks.

General Villeompa, the leader of the recent insurrection in Spain, has been arrested.

Two naturalized American citizens, who have been visiting their birthplace in Germany, have been ordered to leave the country.

Edward Solomon, Lillian Russell's husband, has been arrested in London on the charge of bigamy, preferred by his first wife.

SECURITY IN ENVELOPES.

Letters or envelopes which it is de-sired to protect against unauthorized opening (by moistening the pasted portion) may be securely sealed by using a solution of oxide of copper in ammonia as paste. This liquid has the facility of dissolving the cellulose. When applied to the paper it dissolves the cellulose on the surface, and on drying the two partially dissolved surfaces adhere indissolubly together. The same thing may be accomplished by using water glass (silicate of soda or potassa). In this case the chemical action is different, but when it is completed the pasted surfaces cohere as permanently as in the preceding case.

GLACIERS, the ice-rivers of lofty mountains, have been found to move onward from one or two inches to over fifty a day, the average being most common. The rate in winter is about half that of summer.

THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK.

BEEVES	$4.35	@ 5.75
WHEAT—No. 1 White	[illegible]	[illegible]
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	[illegible]	[illegible]
CORN—No. 2	[illegible]	[illegible]
OATS—No. 2	[illegible]	[illegible]
PORK—New Mess	11.25	@11.75

CHICAGO.

BEEVES—Choice to Prime Steers	5.00	@ 5.90
Good to Choice	4.60	@ 5.00
Common to Fair	3.75	@ 4.50
Hogs—Shipping Grades	4.40	@ 4.55
Hogs—Good to Choice Heavy	4.25	@ 4.35
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.74	@ .75
CORN—No. 2	.37	@ .37½
OATS—No. 2	.26	@ .26½
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	.25	@ .26
Fine Dairy	.16	@ .17
CHEESE—Full Cream, Cheddar	.09½	@ .10
EGGS—Fresh Laid	.17	@ .18
LARD	.06	@ .06½
POTATOES—Early Rose, per bu	.35	@ .40
PORK—Mess	9.75	@ 9.80

MILWAUKEE.

WHEAT—Cash	.72	@ .72½
OATS—No. 2	.26	@ .26
RYE—No. 1	.56	@ .56½
PORK—Mess	9.75	@10.25

TOLEDO.

WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.77½	@ .78½
CORN—No. 2	.37½	@ .38
OATS—No. 2	.26	@ .26½

DETROIT.

BEEF CATTLE	3.00	@ 4.50
HOGS	4.00	@ 4.35
SHEEP	3.00	@ 4.50
WHEAT—Michigan Red	.77	@ .78
CORN—No. 2	.37	@ .38
OATS—No. 2	.26	@ .26½

ST. LOUIS.

WHEAT—No. 2	.75	@ .76
CORN—No. 2	.33	@ .33½
OATS—No. 2	.25	@ .25½
PORK	10.25	@10.75

CINCINNATI.

WHEAT—No. 2	.77	@ .78
CORN—No. 2	.41	@ .41½
OATS—No. 2	.27	@ .27½
RYE—No. 2	.56	@ .57
LIVE HOGS	10.00	@10.25

BUFFALO.

WHEAT—No. 1 Hard	.80	@ .81
CORN—No. 2	.40	@ .40½
OATS—No. 2	.30	@ .30½
CATTLE	4.00	@ 5.50

INDIANAPOLIS.

BEEF CATTLE	3.00	@ 4.50
HOGS	4.35	@ 5.00
SHEEP	3.50	@ 4.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Mixed	.76	@ .76½
CORN—No. 2	.35½	@ .36
OATS—No. 2	.26	@ .26½

EAST LIBERTY.

CATTLE—Best	4.65	@ 4.85
Fair	4.35	@ 4.75
Common	3.50	@ 4.00
HOGS	4.50	@ 4.65
SHEEP	3.50	@ 4.50

States.	Cash sales.	Recorded entries.	Timber entries.
Alabama	2,000	1,000	1,000
Arkansas	34,901	29,000	5,000
California	37,275	17,000	1,000
California	32,493	47,140	16,000
Colorado	32,000	17,000	1,000
Dakota	196,000	180,000	1,000
Florida	1,000	1,000	1,000
Idaho	12,000	10,000	1,000
Iowa	400	900	500
Kansas	305,000	3,000,000	1,000
Louisiana	49,194	41,000	5,000
Michigan	40,000	40,000	1,000
Minnesota	135,000	90,000	6,000
Mississippi	31,000	50,000	1,000
Nebraska	200,000	200,000	1,000
Montana	12,000	18,000	4,000
Nevada	1,000	3,000	3,000
Oregon	1,000	1,000	1,000
New Mexico	117,000	67,000	1,000
Utah	1,000	1,000	1,000
Washington	9,000	5,000	2,000
Wisconsin	40,000	40,000	1,000
Wyoming	152,842	103,000	10,000
Total	1,777,699	3,941,140	1,000,000

THE HOG CROP.

Estimates of the National Agricultural Department

(Washington special.)

The September crop report, issued by the Department of Agriculture, says, in the aggregate, the number of hogs on farms at the beginning of the hog crop is 7[illegible] per cent. of the total number of hogs in the United States, and the average condition is 9[illegible] per cent. In both cases the figures are the lowest on record. The following figures give the number of hogs on farms in each of the States and Territories, and the average condition as to weight and condition, by States and Territories:

	Number.	Condition.
Maine	90	100
New Hampshire	95	100
Vermont	95	100
Massachusetts	95	100
Connecticut	95	100
New York	95	100
New Jersey	95	100
Pennsylvania	95	100
Delaware	95	100
Maryland	95	100
Virginia	95	100
West Virginia	95	100
North Carolina	95	100
South Carolina	95	100
Georgia	95	100
Florida	95	100
Alabama	95	100
Mississippi	95	100
Louisiana	95	100
Texas	95	100
Arkansas	95	100
Tennessee	95	100
Kentucky	95	100
Ohio	95	100
Michigan	95	100
Indiana	95	100
Illinois	95	100
Missouri	95	100
Kansas	95	100
Nebraska	95	100

Averaging these figures the number is 94.5 and vice, of last year, and the condition 94 per cent. of an average. The figures for all the States and Territories give the following percentage: Number, 95; condition, 100. Kansas reports more than hogs than last year, and states the condition at 97 per cent. Nebraska and Territories report slightly greater number of hogs than last year. Great Britain imports 362,834 fewer sides in 1886 than in 1885, falling off of 14 per cent. Ireland reports in 1886 the same number of swine as in 1884, and about 180,000 more than in 1885. The province of Ontario reports 86,155 swine in 1886, a decrease of 5,000 in 1885.

Labor and Laborers.

TWO HUNDRED carpenters in Bath, Maine, are on a strike against a reduction.

THE Cleveland Leader is now fighting a boycott movement. This is its second.

ONLY one person in every two hundred in New York City owns the house he lives in.

THE Dominion Government proposes to establish at once a Bureau of Labor Statistics at Ottawa.

A TYPOGRAPHICAL UNION, No. 12, of Baltimore, has selected that all non-union offices be boycotted.

A CO-OPERATIVE store company has been organized in Bloomington, Ill., with a capital of $10,000.

OFFICERS of the Window-Glass Workers Association are in New York working for the importation of contract workers from England.

TWELVE HUNDRED hands have been discharged in two weeks in the shoe factories of Lynn, Mass., by a Lynn method of boycotting.

THE Jack Tars of San Francisco, to the number of 1,000, members of the Coast Seamen's Union, are idle, and many signs are tied up.

LAND OFFICE STATISTICS.

A Statement of the Public Lands Disposed Of During the Last Fiscal Year.

(Washington special.)

The amount of public lands disposed of the past five years is 100,974,134 acres. This is equal to four States like Kentucky, four like Indiana, nearly three like Illinois, or one like California. It is a good deal larger than Great Britain and Ireland, and is equal to about three-fourths of France or Germany. On an average the United States has disposed of one Ireland per season for the past five years. The area disposed of last year was 26,974,134 acres, which is nearly a million acres more than the previous year, but nearly six million acres less than in 1884, when more than eleven million acres were disposed of in Dakota, Dakota, which in 1879-80 jumped far ahead of Kansas and which has been intensely settled ever since that time, has taken more than one-half of both these years. Nebraska dropped below a million acres in 1882 and 1883, but has risen above three million acres in each of the last three years, and has come rapidly into the front, partly because the extreme dry Dakota has spent much of its force, and partly because there has been some fault in Nebraska with the rush of settlers. Kansas fell from a million and a half acres in 1880 to less than a million in 1883, but has disposed of in Kansas nine hundred thousand in 1884, over three million in 1885, and three million and a half millions last year. Last year there were 1,000,000 acres of Indian lands sold and the total expenses $622,218. There were 37,869 cash sales, including commutations, desert-land entries, etc., covering 3,773,498 acres. In 1885 $5,757,000 was received. There were 61,628 homestead entries, covering 3,941,140 acres, for which $800,219 was received. There were 34,500 timber-culture entries, covering 5,389,593 acres, for which $486,616 was received. The following table shows the disposals for cash and bounty land warrants, and the disposals by laws by States and Territories for the year 1885-6:

Labor and Laborers.

TWO HUNDRED carpenters in Bath, Maine, are on a strike against a reduction.

THE Cleveland Leader is now fighting a boycott movement. This is its second.

ONLY one person in every two hundred in New York City owns the house he lives in.

THE Dominion Government proposes to establish at once a Bureau of Labor Statistics at Ottawa.

A TYPOGRAPHICAL UNION, No. 12, of Baltimore, has selected that all non-union offices be boycotted.

A CO-OPERATIVE store company has been organized in Bloomington, Ill., with a capital of $10,000.

OFFICERS of the Window-Glass Workers Association are in New York working for the importation of contract workers from England.

TWELVE HUNDRED hands have been discharged in two weeks in the shoe factories of Lynn, Mass., by a Lynn method of boycotting.

THE Jack Tars of San Francisco, to the number of 1,000, members of the Coast Seamen's Union, are idle, and many signs are tied up.

THE G. O. P.

Its Love and Sympathy for the Workingman—More of Blaine's Demagogy.

(From the Detroit Free Press.)

Mr. Blaine's appeal for the workingman's vote is a strikingly characteristic and illustrates so accurately the manner in which his party is accustomed to prove its claims to support that it is worth considering for a moment. We do not refer now to the stale claim that protection has given the g. o. p. a claim upon the workingman by raising his wages. That proposition has been contradicted so completely and successfully that even Blaine himself must laugh in his sleeve when he undertakes to present it to an intelligent audience. What we refer to now is the appeal he makes on the ground of fatherly interest of the Republican party in the welfare of the workingman.

In his Lewiston speech Mr. Blaine frankly admitted that the workingman had discontents and grievances which the State or the nation, or both, could remove. One first last occurred to him was the lack, in the Maine law making ten hours a working day, of a penalty to enforce the obligation of the law. That it was all wrong he seemed to have been the workingman whom told that ten hours was a day's work was entitled to the protection of the State and the use of its strong right arm to take the trouble to make a day's work when the time was up. And to show that the Republican party was in hearty sympathy with the workingman on this point he called their attention to the fact that the Republican candidate for Governor in his State had actually made a nomination had declared that the ten-hour law should be made obligatory and man delcoy upon all the people in the State.

Another grievance which caused his discontentedness, desert-land entries, etc., covering 3,773,498 acres. In 1885 $5,757,000 was received. There were 61,628 homestead entries, covering 3,941,140 acres, for which $800,219 was received. There were 34,500 timber-culture entries, covering 5,389,593 acres, for which $486,616 was received. The following table shows the disposals for cash and bounty land warrants, and the disposals by laws by States and Territories for the year 1885-6:

ROUNDS' SUCCESSOR.

Thomas E. Benedict, the New Public Printer.

Thomas E. Benedict was born at Warwick, Orange County, N. Y., in 1839. His education was obtained at the common school and at the Warwick Institute. He engaged in teaching during his early years, and dried thence into a railroad office, and finally into bookkeeping. He always had an affinity for printing offices, however, and, wherever he lived was sure to be an industrious correspondent of the local newspaper. He moved to Ulster County in 1861 as a bookkeeper of the Ulster Iron Rolling Mill, and in 1870 started the Kingsville Press in partnership with his brother, G. H. Benedict. The paper gained a reputation for its vigorous Democracy, and in 1875 the firm purchased The Banner of Liberty, which they conducted as a stanch Democratic weekly, aiming for it a circulation that extended to every State and Territory of the Union. In 1879 Mr. Benedict was elected to the New York Legislature, and was re-elected for four successive terms, each year being an increased majority. There he gained the confidence and friendship of Grover Cleveland, Daniel Manning, and other leading Democrats, and in 1884 was appointed Deputy Comptroller, which office he has since filled. He is known especially for his executive ability and unblemished integrity.

THE KNIGHTS' GROWTH.

Extending Their Organization Into Europe—A Cosmopolitan Gathering of Delegates for the Richmond Convention.

On the curious little five-sided brass buttons which designate the wearers as knights of labor, and which to-day decorate the lapels of thousands of men, there is a peculiar device which at once attracts attention. More conspicuous than any of the geometric devices which are interwoven to make up the emblem, is a diminutive representation of the globe, which is really understood as emblematical of the widespread scope of the order. The United States, where the order had its birth, is well known, do not by any means represent the boundaries of the Knights of Labor organization, for within the last two years Knights of Labor, or labor unions, or associations of the European countries have been enrolled as Knights of Labor. The organization of the window-sill and sill-ball making in the continental Europe was the first move on the other side of the water, and it is now claimed that there is scarcely one of that craft in the world which does not be a member of the order. Home directions to local assemblies have recently been issued by the laws, and the various other pamphlets which are necessary to carry on an extensive business, have to be translated into more or less of different languages, and more than one of the progressive members of the Executive Board are looking hopefully forward to the day when the emblem of the order will be recognized in all the nations of the far East, and the linguistic catalogue of the General Secretary-Treasurer will include this text-book language of the Chinese. The management of all the foreign branches of the order is vested in the General Executive Board of this country, and that little body of five men—Bailey, Berry, Hayes, and Turner, with Powderly as their Chairman—wields a power which is felt by laboring men upon both sides of the Atlantic Ocean.

The annual convention of the order, which meets this year in Richmond Va., will be the largest ever held, and probably the largest that ever will be held, as in future delegates will be chosen upon a different basis of representation. As provided for under the present regulations each district assembly entitles it to one representative for each 1,000 or majority fraction of 1,000 of its membership. The rapid growth of the order, which is fast spreading over the country, has made 1,000,000, increases the number of delegates to an extent not to make the national convention a cumbersome and unwieldy body, and it is future delegates will be reduced by increasing the constituency of each representative to 2,000, or 1,500 majority. The convention will open on Monday, October 4, and will probably continue for at least three days. Delegates will be in attendance from all parts of the United States and Canada. Mexico, Central America, and even South America will send their quota. European assemblies will also send representatives, and the convention will have a gathering of patriarchs and sages, colors, and nationalities such as has never before been seen in the quiet city of Richmond.

During the last year the Knights of Labor have made an invasion of the South, and the organization of white and colored laborers has progressed with remarkable rapidity. Thomas B. Barry, of the General Executive Board, has just returned from an extended tour in that section of the country, and expresses himself in enthusiastic terms of the beneficial results which will follow the organization of the plantation and mill hands of the South.

ODD-FELLOWS AND KNIGHTS.

Sovereign Grand Lodge of Odd-Fellows at Boston—Figures from the Reports.

Great Aggregation of Knights Templar at St. Louis—The Parade and the Drill.

Knights Templar.

There was an enormous attendance upon the triennial conclave of the Knights Templar in St. Louis. The grand parade was to have taken place Tuesday, September 21, but rain caused a postponement to Thursday. The city was gorgeously decorated for the occasion. "Some of the decorations along the line laid out for the parade were magnificent," says a correspondent. "Public buildings and business blocks were bright with part-colored bunting. Flags and pennants fluttered and fluttered from their fronts, and high up at the tapering peaks of their lofty flagstaffs. Masonic emblems and mottoes, fanciful figures, wrought out of bunting by the decorator's skill, and wreaths of beautiful evergreen adorned the streets. The great Court House was surrounded with garlands of evergreen suspended from high poles bearing the coats of arms of various States, and the arch of which graceful trees, colored pennants stretched to the ground. Immense pyramidal pillars of evergreen, crowned with Masonic emblems, stood on either side of the entrances to the great building, and directly over the entrance were fixed some circular embassies of bunting and evergreens.

One of the events of the conclave was the drill and concert at the fair grounds, which was witnessed by 75,000 people. The performances were quite spirited. The Detroit Commandery, of Detroit, Michigan, was the winner of the prize, a handsome silver cup, which was witnessed by 75,000 people. The Detroit Commandery, of Detroit, Michigan, was the winner of the prize, a handsome silver cup, which was presented by the Grand Commander of the State of Missouri, to the Detroit Commandery, of Detroit, Michigan,

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

DEMOCRATIC NOMINATIONS.

State Ticket.

For Governor—
GEORGE L. YAPLE, of St. Joseph.

For Lieutenant-Governor—
SOLOMON S. CUREY, of Marquette.

For Secretary of State—
PHILLIP B. WACHTEL, of Emmet.

For State Treasurer—
WILLIAM G. BEARD, of Bay.

For Auditor-General—
JUDSON S. FARRAR, of Macomb.

For Attorney General—
JOHN C. DONNELY, of Wayne.

For Commissioner of State Land Office—
ALONZO T. FRIZBIE, of Livingston.

For Superintendent of Public Instruction—
DAVID PARSONS, of Wayne.

For Member of State Board of Education—
JEROME W. TUNNEY, of Shiawassee.

Congressional Ticket.

For Representative in Congress, Ninth District
LYMAN G. MASON, of Muskegon.

Legislative Ticket.

For Representative in the State Legislature, Charlevoix District,
EDWIN S. NOBLE, of Elk Rapids.

County Ticket.

For Sheriff—
DANIEL B. JERRUE, of South Arm.

For County Clerk—
WILLIAM F. PALMITER, of South Arm.

For County Treasurer—
ORLANDO BLAIR, of South Arm.

For Register of Deeds—
ELISHA H. SHEPARD, of Evangeline.

For Prosecuting Attorney—
MILTON M. BURNHAM, of South Arm.

For Circuit Court Commissioner—
ARTHUR E. MARTIN, of Evangeline.

For County Surveyor—
SIDNEY HAYDEN, of Eveline.

For Coroners—
DEWITT D. HILTON, of Norwood.
ROBERT FINDLEY, of Boyne Valley.

Democratic Platform.

Resolved, That the democracy of Michigan in convention assembled, sincerely deplore the recent death of those patriotic statesmen and eminent leaders of the democratic party, Horatio Seymour, Thos. H. McOrlaine, W. A. Hancock, Thos. A. Hendricks and Samuel J. Tilden. Their illustrious services will ever be held in memory for those upon whom shall devolve the responsibility of leadership.

Resolved, That the administration of Grover Cleveland, by its vigor and thoroughness; by its courage and its wisdom, in the discussion of affecting public service, crept from partisan partisans; by its practical denial of the legitimacy of governing by means of federal appointments; by the discouragement of office-seeking through political intrigues; by its endeavors to preserve the land for actual settlers; by restoring by practical administration the Government property to public use in public trust; by economy itself in the judgement and approval of all honest people.

Resolved, That though more than twenty years have elapsed since the war, we should not forget this a large number of that gallant and patriotic army that preserved to us an undivided country, and that many of them are now suffering disability, the result of their privations and hardships, and we believe the general government should deal justly with them and that liberal pensions should be granted to wounded soldiers, not as a matter of charity, but as a debt due them, for inestimable services rendered their country.

Resolved, That taxation of the people for other purposes than raising revenue for the expenses of government economically administered is robbery under the forms of law, and we are therefore in favor of a revision of our present tariff and its adjustment to a revenue basis.

Resolved, That the democracy of Michigan, believing in the dignity of American labor, recognize the importance of a bureau of labor, having care of government to the end that the industrious industry in every walk of life shall be encouraged in its work of building up the material interests of the state.

Resolved, That we invite our compatriots in legislation which shall forever debar convicts from competing with the honest producers of the country, and we hold that failed for all time the introduction to our shores of cheap contract labor.

Resolved, That the ownership of real estate in this country by foreign corporations and non-resident aliens is injurious to American interests and should be prohibited.

Resolved, That we are in favor of the free coinage of gold and silver at the present standard.

Resolved, That we are a party we endorse the policy of applying the surplus in the national treasury as fast as it may accumulate to the payment of the national debt, because, as rapidly as the national debt is paid, the necessity for the direct taxes by the national government of legal tender currency notes, gold and silver coin, and coin certificates.

Resolved, That we favor the adoption of such measures as will protect the industry of those engaged in mining, manufacturing, rebuilding industries, and for identification to those engaged therein receiving bounties through lack of proper safeguards.

Resolved, That we demand the repeal of all class legislation under which monopolies have been created in our country.

Carlisle on Yaple.

A gentleman of Grand Rapids has obtained the following letter written by Hon. John G. Carlisle, of Kentucky, to a relative of Hon. Geo. L. Yaple on the occasion of his nomination for governor:

Covington, Ky., Sept. 11, 1886.

Hon. Alfred Yaple, Cincinnati, O.

Dear Sir:—Allow me to congratulate you upon the nomination of your talented young relative, Hon. Geo. L. Yaple, for the office of governor in the state of Michigan. As you know, he was a member of the house of representatives during my first term as speaker of that body, I had therefore, ample opportunity to observe his course as a public man and his demeanor as a gentleman. He came into the house a very young man, and without any prestige or conventions surroundings to give him an advantage over his associates who began their service at the same time, and yet it was not long before he began to attract more than usual attention. Perhaps this was partly attributable to the fact that his previous political affiliations had not been exclusively democratic, and there was naturally some curiosity to learn what his course would be. His position, however, was soon disclosed and was consistently maintained throughout. Upon all the great questions which divided the two leading parties in the house, he identified himself by his votes and speeches with the democratic majority, and his co-operation was so confidently relied upon as that of any other gentleman on the floor. Of course there are differences of opinion among democrats upon some public questions, and it may be that Mr. Yaple did not always vote upon these questions with the majority of the democratic members, but his general course was entirely satisfactory. His speech upon the tariff was one of the very best made in that congress, and gave him a wide reputation among the friends of revenue reform. I personally know that there were numerous demands for it from all parts of the country and that it was extensively circulated by democratic members.

If your friends in Michigan shall be so fortunate as to elect Mr. Yaple I am sure they will secure the services of a faithful and efficient officer, and that they will have no cause to be dissatisfied with his political course.

Yours truly,

J. G. CARLISLE.

NOTES AND NEWS.

It is proper to state that Mr. Mason has been a resident of Muskegon for 20 years, having aided in the growth and prosperity of a once small village to its present greatness as a city, of which he is at present its honored mayor. It is not saying too much, that no enterprise, tending to the interest of the 9th district has lacked Mr. Mason's undivided support, by way of money and influence. Having been in active business, aiding in railroad building and manufacturing, no man knows the wants of the people better than he, and no needed appropriation for lake coast improvements will lack his hearty support. The nominee is of a modest, retiring disposition, unlike that of his competitor, almost devoid of egotism, not an orator but a worker. We predict an easy victory.—Fremont Star.

Hon. Lyman G. Mason is one of the most widely known lumbermen and business men of Michigan. He has been for many years a prominent resident of Muskegon and a leading democrat. He is now about 60 years old, but has the vigor and clearheadedness of a man twenty years his junior. He has not been an office seeker and has held but few public places. He was the fifth district member of the constitutional convention of 1873. In 1880 he made a splendid run for senator in the strong republican district of Muskegon and Ottawa. Last spring he was elected mayor of his city by nearly 1,000 majority. Hon. Lyman G. Mason will be the next congressman from the 9th district.—Newaygo Tribune.

Hon. Free Estes, of Mt. Pleasant, adds his name to the swelling list of prominent republicans who find themselves unable to train under the Luce banner. Mr. Estes is a gentleman of high standing and influence in his district, and has represented his county with distinguished credit in the state legislature. He is one of the men a party can ill afford to lose; but the course of the G. O. P. proves such in Michigan that it must inevitably lose many such. Mr. Estes's definition of his position and vote will command attention.—Free Press.

KALAMAZOO, September 22.—The news of the nomination of ex Mayor Edwin W. De Yoe for state senator, by the joint democratic and greenback convention at Mendon this afternoon, is received here with warm greetings. A large number called on him this evening, extended congratulations and predicted his election. It is quite probable that Mayor Peyton Ranney will be pitted against him by the republicans. De Yoe defeated Ranney two years ago for mayor and can do the same thing in a canvass for the senatorship.

The history of the republican party is blotted all over with vicious class laws oppressing labor, decreasing its purchasing power, depreciating its value, and increasing the cost of money, the power of capital—degrading man and elevating the dollar.—Geo. L. Yaple.

Does It Pay?

Three-quarters of our people are troubled with dyspepsia or liver complaint in one form or other, which by misery of the disease has a depressing influence on the mind or body, preventing them from thinking or acting clearly in any matter of importance. Indigestion, coming of of food after eating, dyspepsia, sick headache, acidity of the stomach or any derangement of the stomach or liver (upon these the whole system of our physique depends) are specifically and effectually overcome by the use of Green's August Flower. The most stubborn cases have yielded to its influence, as thousands of letters received will testify. The immense sale of this medicine is another guarantee of its merits, (over a million and a half bottles sold last year) we ask, will it pay you to suffer from any of the above diseases when you can have immediate relief in this August Flower. Three doses will prove its worth. It is sold by all druggists and general dealers in all parts of the world. eow2

Life becomes almost a burden when the body is racked with the suffering which arises from scrofula. If any taint of this disease lurks in your blood, Ayer's Sarsaparilla will expel it. The entire system may be thoroughly renovated by taking this medicine.

☞ Everyone should call at F. W. Craine & Co.'s and examine their line of shirting flannels, at 25c.

☞ F. W. Craine & Co. sell the fence-lined sheeting shirting—none better.

The Second Annual Fair at East Jordan a Great Success.

When the hour arrived for opening the gates last Wednesday morning, the officers of the society, and the superintendent and managers were about as discouraged a lot of people as ever met. The week had been unfavorable, it had rained a great deal and was still raining, there was but a small exhibit, and no mercantile display, and the whole outlook was gloomy. Before noon, however, the clouds had broken away, letting down the bright sunlight and soon drying the streets. Stock and produce began to arrive, the spaces engaged for mercantile display filled up, everything was life and activity, and before night all the available space was well filled without crowding. Thursday morning opened bright, and long before noon the rink was literally packed with humanity, trying to see what this county could do in substantial products of the forest and soil.

The number of entries reached, and exceeded by about 100, that of last year, and the receipts for admission tickets exceeded their most sanguine expectations.

THE MERCANTILE EXHIBIT.

The front of the building was occupied by two firms: F. W. Craine Co., of Charlevoix, with a rich assortment of carpets, drapery, dry goods, etc., tastefully arranged; and C. W. Dunham & Co., of East Jordan, a well selected assortment from their large stock of furniture.

On the north side we found Mrs. Smith & Cooper, of Charlevoix, with an elegant stock of ladies' furnishing goods; also D. C. Loveday and H. L. Page, each with a full assortment of dry goods, stoves, etc.

On the south side, H. W. King occupied the first space with samples of groceries, crockery, glassware, etc. Next was F. E. Boesinger & Co., with stationery, books, shoes, etc.; John Chamberlin, with a line line of ladies' cloaks; "a leafless branch" from Glenn's store, showing dry goods, etc.; Mrs. Clark, millinery; a generous exhibit of clothing from C. G. Lewis' mammoth stock; a large case of boots and shoes from A. Heston's custom shop, (by the way, he can make as fine a finished sewed boot, or shoe as one would care to see); Mrs. Litney & Carr, of Charlevoix, with a large stock of millinery and ladies' goods for exhibit and sale, and a large case of jewelry from A. S. Monroe's stock.

MANUFACTURES.

The Wilson Hoop Co., of South Arm, first met the gaze of the visitor with a stock of samples from their factory, but this year did not roll out the hoops, with the interesting display of samples of four, meal, etc., from the Edenburg Milling Co., of Charlevoix, so near at hand. Archie Buttars had charge of this latter exhibit, and did some good work for the firm in showing the excellence of their product. The exhibit included loaves of bread and cake, made from their various grades of flour, which were truly magnificent specimens.

W. R. Kilborn, of Petoskey, was the only exhibitor of agricultural implements, and succeeded in taking a large number of orders.

Charlevoix county people should remember this, and be on hand for a share of the profits next year.

FRUIT.

In this exhibit was seen some of the finest and most tempting of our soil. There were 210 plates of apples, seven of pears, six of plums, two of grapes, and one each of quinces and peaches. Every specimen was large, well formed, and of unsurpassed fruit. Among the principal exhibitors in this department were Richard Knight, of Banks, with 23 plates; F. M. Gates, of Elk Rapids, with 28 varieties, Robert Trimble, of Norwood, with 22 plates, and Mr. Robinson, of Jordan, with a fine assortment. There may have been others with large exhibits; whose names we could not obtain.

There was also a fine display of canned fruits, jellies, etc.

VEGETABLES AND GRAIN.

This exhibit exceeded that of last year in many respects, and shows that Charlevoix county stands at the top in quality of production, and with a limited effort can discount other localities in quantity per acre, for the same outlay in cultivation.

Sol Isaman exhibited a dozen drumhead cabbages in his stock, specimens ever saw, and followed with a generous assortment of beets, carrots, corn, squashes, etc.

In the short time we had to see the exhibit we could not learn the names of owners of many exceptionally fine exhibits.

Of course Reinhart was there with samples of his red Wetherfield and yellow Danvers onions, which everyone pronounced them the finest in size and shape, and best matured of any exhibited.

The whole exhibit was one of which the people of this county may be proud.

LIVE STOCK.

This exhibit did not show the improvement over last year's fair that it should, but it came mostly from different exhibitors, and was enough to indicate that with a united effort we are not much behind some of the older counties in thoroughbred stock.

A. R. Upright of Charlevoix, was represented by fine herds of cattle sheep, and swine.

On account of other business, J. R. & J. S. Dixon's fine herds could not be exhibited.

ARTS, FANCY WORK, ETC.

The ever present Bradbeer was on hand with a rich display of photographic work. Dave never does any thing by halves, and his exhibit was an excellent advertisement for him.

E. N. Moblo, of East Jordan, was also handsomely represented in the same line.

Many of the paintings, and a large amount of the ladies' fancy needle work was the same as last year.

Master Harry Stevens made several interesting additions to his exhibit of maps and mechanical drawings, showing that the boy is devoting a good deal of thought to this work, and not in vain. We venture the prediction that he will some day stand very near to the top in his chosen profession.

Mrs. A Heston has a commendable pride in her samples of hair work, textile creations, and rugs, and also in the silk embroidery and lace edging by Winnie Heston.

MISCELLANEOUS.

W. H. Lanway exhibited pieces of petrified wood, reptiles, etc., picked in the Yellowstone park.

Mr. Wickel exhibited a piece of bark 18 inches thick taken from a tree in California 37 feet in diameter.

M. T. Kibby had a specimen of his invalid's spring bed on exhibition. Mr. Kibby claims to have one of the best articles for the sick in use.

NOTES.

The annual address of E. H. Green, on Friday, was an interesting portion of the exercises, and we regret that we have not time and space to print it.

The ladies of the W. C. T. U. and the M. E. church were represented by lunch rooms and dinner tables, and satisfied a large number of hungry stomachs.

The display of house plants and flowers was not so elaborate as a year ago, but embraced many handsome and valuable plants.

Money Refunded.

The true remedy has at last been discovered. It was long known in his practice as Dr. Pete's Lung Food for Consumption, it is now called Dr. Pete's 25-cent Cough Cure. It is the safest, the surest and the best. No other cough, cold, and consumption remedy, is half its equal. We guarantee it and will promptly refund the money paid for it if a beneficial effect is not experienced by the time two-thirds of the contents of the bottle is used. Sold by Perry Weed and Dr. G. W. Crosier.

☞ The best yarns, at six-bead-of low price, at F. W. Craine & Co.'s.

The Circus

Commences Next Week

I am going to receive a large invoice of CLOTHING, bought from one of the leading houses in Rochester, N. Y., which I am going to sell at Prices that will draw my trade from all around the county.

I think the best advertisement a merchant can have is to have his goods advertise him in Good Fits and Prices that cannot be beat.

GEO. W. MILLER.

THE EARTHQUAKE DID IT!

We mean we got a big bargain on all our cloak purchases. Our New York agent has taken advantage of the

GREAT EXCITEMENT

And has written us that never before had we secured such an elegant line of

LADIES' MISSES' AND CHILDREN'S

CLOAKS

At Such LOW PRICES.

LADIES, DO NOT PURCHASE A CLOAK or Wrap of any kind until you have seen our goods and prices, as they will soon be here. A big line of everything in Dry Goods coming, wait for them.

Yours, very truly,

F. W. CRAINE & CO.

Sore Eyes

The eyes are always in sympathy with the body, and afford an unerring index of its condition. When the eyes become weak, and the lids inflamed and sore, it is an evidence that the system has become disordered by Scrofula, for which Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best known remedy.

Scrofula, which produces a painful inflammation in my eyes, caused me much suffering for a number of years. By the advice of a physician I commenced taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. After using this medicine a short time I was completely

Cured

My eyes are now in a splendid condition, and I am as well and strong as ever.—Mrs. William Gage, Concord, N. H.

For a number of years I was troubled with a tumor in my eyes, and was unable to obtain any relief until I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This medicine has effected a complete cure, and I believe it to be the best of blood purifiers.—C. E. Upton, Nashua, N. H.

From childhood, and until within a few months, I have been afflicted with Weak and Sore Eyes. I have tried for these complaints, with beneficial results, Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and consider it a great blood purifier.—Mrs. C. Phillips, Glover, Vt.

I suffered for a year with inflammation in my left eye. There always formed on the ball, depriving me of sight, and causing great pain. After trying many other remedies, to no purpose, I was finally induced to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and three bottles of this medicine, have been entirely cured. My sight has been restored, and there is no sign of inflammation, sore, or ulcer in my eye.—Rennie T. Bowen, Sugar Tree Ridge, Ohio.

By Taking

My daughter, ten years old, was afflicted with Scrofulous Sore Eyes. During the last two years she never saw the end of her kind. Physicians of the highest ability exerted their skill, but with no permanent benefit. On the recommendation of a friend I purchased a bottle of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which my daughter commenced taking. Before she had used the third bottle her sight was restored, and she can now look steadily at a brilliant light without pain. Her cure is complete.—W. E. Sutherland, Evangelist, Shelby City, Ky.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

THE GRAND RAPIDS

DAILY DEMOCRAT

Is the popular paper of Western Michigan. Contains the associated press dispatches. Sent to mail at

50 CENTS A MONTH!

Only eleven and one-half cts. a week.

Try it.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., Sept 30, 1886.

PRODUCE MARKET.

Hay, loose, per ton $12; bailed, $13
Corn, per bu. 65c.
Oats, 30 to 35c.
Feed, per ton, $22.
Pork, 5½ @ 6½c. 7c @ lb.
Salt, 75 bbl, $1.25.
Syrup, "Gold Medal," 50c @ gal.
Canned Tomatoes, 12c.
Canned Peaches, 15 to 20c.
Coffee, Java and Mocca, 35c.
Farmer's Produce at Upright & Emrey's.

☞ UPRIGHT EMREY & Co.

☞ A splendid line of Boots and Shoes, for ladies and gents, boys, girls and misses. More on the road.

☞ A magnificent lot of Dress Goods arrived recently, and we offer them at the very lowest figures.

☞ Hosiery in all styles a specialty, for both ladies and gents—best line in town.

☞ New Groceries received almost every day.

☞ Both Dinner and Tea Sets in Bolered Ware at cost.

☞ If you want some Choice Butter go to Upright & Emrey's.

☞ Jefferies' is the cheapest market in town. Everything clear down. Come back old friends and try it.

☞ Clover and Timothy Seed, at L. D. Bartholomew & Co.'s.

Local Notes and News.

There can be no democracy until industry is free.—Geo. L. Yaple.

The Friant had a rough voyage over from Petoskey this morning.

This union is the clasping of the right hand and the left of labor.—Geo. L. Yaple.

Mrs. E. W. Auld, of Strathroy, Ont., is a guest of her daughter, Mrs. Dr. Crouter.

Which is of the most value, a man or a dollar? Democracy answers, the man.—Geo. L. Yaple.

My convictions are not for sale for any man's favor, or for any position on earth.—Geo. L. Yaple.

Rev. C. S. Fox, the new pastor, will preach at the M. E. church next Sunday morning and evening.

The schooner F. M. Smith brought in a cargo of lumber, and clearance papers for our merchants on her last trip.

It is not on the amount of wealth, but on the distribution of it that the prosperity of the country depends.—Geo. L. Yaple.

M. McDermott, of Hayes, lost a good horse last week. His neighbors started a subscription to help him get another.

Rev. J. T. Iddings, will preach at Ironton next Sunday at 11 o'clock a. m., and 7 o'clock p. m. Sunday school at 10 o'clock.

Our labors are not a particular class. They constitute the people and their destiny is the fate of the republic.—Geo. L. Yaple.

A Southern lady never divide his time between the bank and that homeing baby girl which arrived at his home last Sunday afternoon.

E. M. Clark is making numerous improvements about his premises, in the way of whitewashing, painting, and brightening up the whole with a coat of paint.

Nelson Ainslie and wife, and son Ward, started on Wednesday, for a trip to Chicago and northern Illinois. Mr. Ainslie, and wife will be absent five or four weeks.

W. S. Rathbone and wife, who have been stopping with F. J. Meech, during the past season, started, on Wednesday, for Chicago and from there on, intending ultimately to visit California.

A large congregation attended the services on Sunday morning and evening at the Congregational church. Rev. A. T. Waterman preached for the first time since accepting the call of the church.

W. R. Kilborn, of Petoskey, was a lonely exhibitor of agricultural implements at the fair. Charlevoix county dealers should not let the chance to exhibit their wares pass unnoticed another year.

The Charlevoix teachers association have prepared an interesting program for a meeting to be held at the high school room Oct. 8th and 9th beginning Friday evening at 7 o'clock and closing Saturday forenoon.

Mr. Smithson, of Chicago, has expended about $30 here in the way of a library of choice books and papers, for the use of his men at the camps during the coming winter. The selection of books was made at Dr. Crouter's store.

The Chinese students will give a concert and bazaar, and tea under the auspices of the ladies society of the M. E. church on Tuesday even ing Oct. 19th, at the opera house. Supper will be served by the ladies, and tea will be served, made as only the Chinese know how to make.

The policy of the republican party has been to provide labor with constantly increasing work, and constantly decreasing pay.—Geo. L. Yaple.

The education and development of man is the true object of government. The state exists for man, not man for the state.—Geo. L. Yaple.

A bullet-hole through one of the front windows of the Democrat office gives the local editor of that sheet some apprehensions that he has said something distasteful to somebody.—Cadillac Express.

The grandeur of America, like that of England, roots back in the want and suffering of the army that has achieved her material greatness, the army of laborers. That army needs better supplies.—Geo L. Yaple.

The republican party is an organized conspiracy against the rights of labor; it is the tool of monopolies, themselves the creatures of its own class legislation; it is an obstruction in the path of industrial development and commercial liberty.—Geo. L. Yaple.

John Marston, engaged in selling horses for Thos. Quinlan, at Petoskey, skipped by the light of the moon the other night, taking with him about $200 of Mr. Quinlan's money. He was captured in Detroit with $100 of the embezzled money and taken back to Petoskey.—Cadillac Express.

The prohibitionists of Charlevoix county are agitating the question in regard to calling a convention and nominating a county ticket. It is expected that Dr. L. S. Ellis, of Manistee, prohibition candidate for congress of this district, will be asked to come and speak here on the prohibition question soon.

Prof. C. N. Dewey closed his term of writing school last Monday evening. Two prizes were offered and awarded as follows: For best specimen of penmanship, at close of term, Miss May Papineau; for greatest improvement during term, Myrtle O'Neil. The whole term was so successful, that he will commence another next Monday evening.

"The gold watch recently presented to Capt. Beaman by the life saving crew is indeed a gem, and is well worth seeing. The engraving on the case represents the life boat going to the rescue of a wrecked vessel. The captain's name is prominently inscribed among the waves in the foreground. It is altogether a beautiful piece of mechanism."—Grand Haven Tribune.

In testing the current of Lake Michigan the engineers of the sewerage and sewage commission, about a month ago and 150 bottles thrown in to the lake along the steamboat routes. Engineer Hering has already received about forty of the cards inclosed in these bottles, and is satisfied that during a portion of the year there are currents in the lake flowing northward.—Muskegon News.

The republicans of Michigan have lost ground of late because they have lost none of malignity. In proof of this take the action of the eighth congressional district, which has renominated the funny man Hor. Belmont Herr Lyman G. Mason, democratic opponent, Mr. Timothy Ranney. The same battle is to be fought over again. Mr. Tarsney will have the prayers of an afflicted nation on his side.—Muskegon News.

J. S. Smithson is preparing for extensive lumbering operations this winter on sections 11, 12 and 13, Norwood, which he recently purchased of O. D. Wood. The product will include logs, ties, posts, and wood, this winter, and bark next spring. One camp is now nearly ready for business. It is expected that a large number of men will be employed, and their wages paid in cash, which will be a handsome thing for this portion of the county.

Our attention has been called to the fact that it is three weeks since the engine was out for service, and the engineer is so engaged that he cannot give it any amount of time and attention without losing his situation. The council should guard against such a state of affairs. The engine should have service at least once a week, and be properly cleaned and oiled. If this is not done, our investment is wasted. But no good man can give the engine the necessary attention without compensation, and a guarantee against loss of situation elsewhere.

The Congregational church at Ironton was dedicated last Sunday afternoon, according to announcement. A large party went up from Charlevoix on the Clara Belle. The house was completely filled, even to all the available "standing room." Rev. F. F. Vandusen had general charge of the services, prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Ranney, the scripture lesson read by Rev. A. T. Waterman, and the dedicatory sermon delivered by Mr. J. S. Smithson. Mr. S. gave one of his practical discourses, which could not fail to strike a responsive chord in the heart of every listener. Madam Caplani and Miss Adams each rendered solos, and together a duet, "The Lord's Prayer." The pulpit was appropriately decorated with flowers, one piece, a cross of pansies, being especially noticeable. A collection was taken to liquidate the small balance due.

Grand Traverse District Appointments.

At the Michigan M. E. conference, held in Kalamazoo last week, the following appointment were made for the Grand Traverse district, with Rev. W. R. Stinchcomb, of Traverse City, as presiding elder:

Bear Lake—A. J. Barclay.
Bellaire—D. A. Arwen.
Boyne—A. L. Thurston.
Cadillac—A. J. Eldred.
Cadillac Circuit—A. J. Paddock.
Central—J. F. Pierce.
Green Village—To be supplied.
Elk Rapids—O. J. Gidley.
Elmira—To be supplied.
Empire—To be supplied.
Fife Lake—J. Hewitt.
Frankfort and Manistee—G. W. Howe.
Harbor Springs—To be supplied—To be supplied.
Kalkaska—B. N. Middleton.
Lake City—J. M. Swift.
Leroy—To be supplied.
Mackinaw City—J. Ambrose.
Manistee—W. Ward.
Monroe Center—Wm. Paddock.
Northport and Northport Indian Mission.—To be supplied.
Norwood—J. Trindel.
Norwood—R. H. Robinson.
Ortisle—To be supplied.
Petoskey—G. W. Brown.
Petoskey Circuit—E. Wood.
Traverse City—Thomas J. Robinson.
Suttons—To be supplied.
South Arm and East Jordan—A. S. Robinson.
South Frankfort—J. Prudden.
Spencer Creek—A. W. Bushbee.
Traverse City—J. Ashley.
Traverse City Circuit—R. Shorts.
Williamsburg—S. W. Reid.

Shipments.

Sept. 25—Schr. Col. Cook, 50 tons pig iron, Pine Lake Iron Co., to Cleveland.
25—Schr. Starke, 90,000 feet hardwood lumber, Gleen & Porter to Chicago.
27—Schr. Jessie Fallitye, 180,000 feet hardwood lumber, John Nickson, to Chicago.
28—Schr. Dan Mahoe, 147 cords wood, Geo. Burnham & Sons, to Milwaukee.
28—Schr. John Baber, 6,000 tiles; Upright & Emrey, to Chicago.
28—Schr. Bert Barnes, 160 cords wood, O. Olsen, to Milwaukee.
29—Schr. Comanche, 130,000 feet hardwood lumber, C. J. Lloyd, to Detroit.
29—Schr. Gladiator, 40 cords wood, 100 cords lath, R. R. Perkins, to Chicago.
29—Schr. Charlotte Rush, 170,000 feet hardwood lumber, Gleen & Porter, to Chicago.
29—Prop. J. M. Ahrenfanger, 165,000 feet hardwood lumber, Gleen & Porter, to Chicago.
29—Evening Star, 180,000 feet hardwood lumber, Gleen & Porter to Chicago.

The following is a summary of the shipments from the port of Charlevoix for the week ending Wednesday evening, and for the corresponding week of 1885:

	1886.	1885.
Hardwood lumber, feet	1,000,000	1,024,000
Shingles	41,000	50,000
Hardwood ties	7,000	6,500
Sawed ties	3,000	500
Bark, cords	175	200
Pig iron, tons	50	50
Furniture, bedsets	1,200	1,000
Turnips, bushels	800
Fresh fish, pounds		1,500

A Dish That is Cracked up as a Dainty.

Here is the little bonne bouche I promised you last week. In making it don't forget that you are to buy calf's-foot jelly, ready for use, in bottles. Wash scrupulously clean two or three stalks of celery. Allow them to remain in salt and water for a short time, then remove all the coarser leaves and sticks and cut up those left for use into rather small pieces, and drain perfectly dry on a cloth. Place them in a stew-pan with a good-sized piece of butter, a pinch of pepper, not too much salt, a pinch of round mace, and a clove left whole. Let it just remain on the hob, where it can just simmer as long as possible, until the pieces brown, but by no means burn; then remove it from the rod now and then. Into a cupful of boiled calf's-foot jelly squeeze the juice of a lemon, and then throw the mixture into the stew-pan, which return to the hob, where it should remain until the celery is sufficiently tender; then put in the pan about a dozen oysters and the liquor belonging to them. Toe whole is ready to serve in a quarter of an hour.—Gold Gossip.

Spoke at the Wrong Time.

He was really a clerk in a grocery store, but on Sunday afternoon, mounted on a high horse, he looked as if he might be a member of congress. He was putting on more than usual dignity and grace, for there were several ladies on the sidewalk admiring him. He was in the mind that he was creating a great impression when a small boy on the sidewalk called out:

"Hey!"

He looked around. So did the young ladies.

"I say, mister," continued the boy, "last night you only gave me five cents dies for a quarter—I oughter got six."—Texas Siftings.

Married.

At the residence of the bride's parents in Elsie, on Thursday, Sept. 23, 1886, by Rev. Jas. A. Allen, Mr. William F. Lance to Miss Elma M. Ford, all of this village. The happy couple left on a trip to Grand Rapids and Charlevoix.—Elsie Sun. Mr. Lance and wife arrived in Charlevoix last Friday, and are visiting friends here this week. They will return home via Mackinaw.

Active, Pushing and Reliable.

Dr. G. W. Crosier can always be relied upon to carry in stock the purest and best goods, and sustain the reputation of being active, pushing, and reliable, by recommending articles with well-established merit and such as are popular. Having the agency for the celebrated Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, colds and coughs will sell it on a positive guarantee. It will surely cure any and every affection of throat, lungs, or chest, and in order to prove our claim, we ask you to call and get a trial bottle free.

☞ Butterick's patterns at F. W. Craine & Co's.

DRY GOODS!

We offer for the next few days Great Bargains in all

—SUMMER DRESS GOODS—

Shawls, White Goods, Parasols, Silk and Thread Gloves, Hosiery, Straw Hats, etc.

NEW LINE OF BROADHEAD DRESS GOODS, Just received and marked at very low prices.

Jersey and Boucle Jackets, Very Cheap.

Staple & Fancy Groceries,

In great variety and at correct prices. The finest line of

Teas, Coffees, Spices,

PLANTATION JAVA COFFEE, — BEST IN THE WORLD.

Farmers will consult their own interests in buying our

FACTORY-FILLED DAIRY SALT.

J. L. HURD & CO.

Cloaks! Cloaks!!

Just Received, at

ROSENTHAL & SON'S,

The largest line of FALL and WINTER CLOAKS that ever was brought to Charlevoix. All styles in Short Wraps, New Markets and Street Jackets. Also a big line of CHILDREN'S CLOAKS. Now is the time to make your choice, as the assortment is large and prices are low. Be sure to come and see them, whether you buy or not,—no trouble to show goods.

ROSENTHAL & SON.

WOMAN'S WAR.

Two Generals, Friends in the Field, Fall out at Home.

General Alfred Pleasanton is one of the most noted figures upon our street. He is slightly below medium height, and carries himself with the peculiar swing of a cavalryman. General Pleasanton never has been able to disguise the fact that he is a born soldier. He has the look of the military man from head to foot. His hair is now frosted nearly a pure white, and his mustaches and imperial are of a purple tinge. He still wears the black slouch hat of the style in vogue when he commanded the cavalry of the Army of the Potomac, and his favorite is a cape overcoat. The general is one of the most entertaining talkers in Washington. Speaking the other evening to your correspondent, he said: "Two of the greatest generals of the war were model husbands. Grant and Hancock, although able to command and hold in absolute obedience hundreds of thousands of men, took "back seats" when they were home. Perhaps you do not know how the unfriendly feeling rose between Grant and Hancock. It is a most interesting story, and extends back before the war, when Grant and Hancock were both young men. Both were stationed at St. Louis at the time I refer to, and neither had been married to great while. Mrs. Hancock came from a Southern family. Her feelings were all that way, while Mrs. Grant was intensely Northern. There never was any good feeling between Mrs. Grant and Mrs. Hancock. Mrs. Hancock snubbed Mrs. Grant, a fact which Mrs. Grant never forgave.

After the war Grant came to Washington with his family to establish his headquarters here. They went to Willard's hotel, but the bills were too high for the general's purse; so he told his wife that he would go to housekeeping, and asked her at the same time to select a proper residence. Mrs. Grant went out and finally decided that her husband, and he made out the necessary order. You see Grant outranked Hancock, and was entitled to the house according to precedent and established usage. Mrs. Hancock, however, was not to be outdone by Mrs. Grant, so she persuaded her husband to write a sharp note to the general. Then came Mrs. Grant's turn. She made up her mind to have that house or die, although there were a thousand houses just as good in the city, so she influenced her husband to reply in kind to Hancock. There was quite a correspondence, and of course Grant came out ahead and got the house. A few days afterward Grant and Hancock met in the street. Grant extended his hand as though nothing had happened, for he was too a man to bear ill will against another for some petty, foolish slap, but Hancock deliberately turned his back on him. When the assignment of divisions came later Grant sent Hancock way up in Minnesota, where he kept him six years. Meade was given the division of the Atlantic, with headquarters in Philadelphia or New York. As Meade was a Pennsylvanian he chose Philadelphia. After Meade's death Grant assigned Hancock to the command of the division of the Atlantic, with authority to establish his headquarters either at Philadelphia or New York, in precisely the same language as had been given to Meade. As Hancock was also a Pennsylvanian the Philadelphia people supposed that his headquarters would remain where they were. Mrs. Hancock, however, remembered that the Philadelphia people had chosen Meade a house in that city, and that they had neglected to plead remember her husband. She determined that the headquarters should be transferred to New York, and transferred to New York. Hancock to do this said. Women even have more to do in national affairs than you have any idea of.—Washington Correspondence Philadelphia News.

Lively Work.

An unusual feat of skill and endurance was performed in Detroit, March 12, by Martin J. Dunn, a blacksmith and horseshoer. Mr. Dunn, for a purse of $100, set out to surpass the record of John F. Silk, of Cincinnati, who in December, 1877, turned out 100 horseshoes in two hours, thirty-three minutes and thirty seconds.

In preparation for the work, Dunn had 100 bars of iron each one inch right length for a horseshoe, piled up near the first forge. The first were heated in three forges, with a helper at each. The bars of iron were heated somewhat at the first forge, passed on and heated more at the second forge and at the third and last forge brought to the right temperature for the hammer. When this stage was reached a boy was placed upon the anvil, seized by the tongs in the manner of Mr. Dunn and subjected to the ringing strokes of his hammer and the sledge wielded by his striker, Jay Sperle. The striker must be credited with a degree of skill hardly less than that of his principal, and with an equal amount of endurance. The mode of operation was to complete the shoe one-half the way around on each heat. The finished shoes were thus half-turned, cooled and nail-holes punched—the half edge completing formed—which finished the first round, so to speak. The last round Mr. Dunn occupied himself in dressing and perfecting the remaining half of each horseshoe, and when the last blow had been struck at the 100th shoe his task was completed.—Detroit Free Press.

John Nicholls,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Manufacturer of and dealer in

HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER!

ALSO

Dressed lumber, Oar Blades,

WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER

New Grocery!

Cor. Antrim and Grant Streets.

A. J. MUDGE

Would respectfully announce to the people of Charlevoix and vicinity, especially to the friends of the southern part of town, that he has opened a grocery in from the south, that he has opened a grocery in the premises in Antrim known as the corner of Antrim and Grant streets, and requests all to give him a trial.

BUTTER AND EGGS WANTED

THE DROUTH AND THE RAIN.

THE DROUTH.

Oh, good Lawd, de earf is mighty dry,
An' de drouth is so dubious—so sho',
An' de blistery jaybirds hop around an cry—
Ole Sun, he jes' a-lookin' down
Oh, an' he lookin' up an' he lookin' back
Lawd,
An' de drouth patch is parched till it's brown,
An' de sight is ever thing makes us feel so bad
Ole Sun, he jes' a-lookin' down an' he lookin' up
An' he lookin' back an' he lookin' yon,
Ole Sun, he jes' a-lookin' down an' he lookin' up
Tough-looking ear of corn ar hang' twine
Oh, good Lawd, he yer gone to let us die
Uncle dis hot yer blastin' sky?
An' de drouth, Lawd, hain't yer 'heabe
Ar' dry?
By sumfin' as down ar' shower o' rain?
Ah' yes! praise Marse Jesus,
An' we'll praise Marse Paul,
We'll praise Marse Jesus,
An' we'll praise Marse Saul.

THE RAIN.

Oh, de rain hain fell wid ar' hallelujah sound,
An' de good ears it's de bread,
An' my foot sinks inter de 'jovein' ground,
An' I 'member an' I 'member
De wahderfulness 'cause dis sumin o' de
Ar' yer tangle o' liaes' right yer
'Pears like it grows enough ar' lot' sleery horr—
He 'member ar' de yoldrow's sun,
De brilliar' cos' rashd, he is mighty happy now,
Ah' yes! praise Marse Jesus,
He's sittin' ar' de yoldrow's way from Thisy's house,
Thinks how I do boss ar' dis ole ranch,
Oh, good Lawd, yer ridiculous to dis
Ar' yer ole Marse Jesus,
An' dis, good Lawd, yer hab 'reabed
our pain
Fry sensibs' as down ar' shower o' rain.
An' we praise Marse Jesus,
Ah' we praise Marse Paul,
We praise Marse Jesus,
Ah' we praise Marse Saul.
—Lyde Brock, in Scribner.

A NIGHT IN A CAVERN.

BY WALTER CLARENCE.

CHAPTER I

I once found myself in that wretched position so immorosey and unaesthetically described by Washington Irving in his "Sketch Book," viz: confined by stress of weather at a country inn. Preliminary, my "rainy day at an inn" was shared by half a dozen other travelers, and merchants, who shared by others, loses half its sting.

It was in the days of traveling by stage, and the rain had fallen so heavy, and for so long a time, that the roads and streams were actually flooded, and washed away, and the coaches could not pass. We were in a pretty fix. There was no help for it, so we philosophically resolved to make ourselves as comfortable as possible under the circumstances. My companions in misfortune, were, I believe, without exception, of the class known as commercial travelers, or, to give them their more vulgar appellation, "bagmen," a class of men used to the vicissitudes of the "road," and from the very nature of their occupation, courteous, accommodating, and genial in their intercourse with others.

When the day closed in we sealed ourselves before the ample fireplace, and having called for the best of the home entertainment, soon became so social and cheerful that we forgot all about the weather, and ceased to vex our minds uselessly, in consequence of the unavoidable delay.

The song and jest were passed around, and as these men generally contrive to collect a fund of anecdotes in the course of their various peregrinations, the evening passed rapidly and pleasantly away. We sat up late, and I presume it was the approach of midnight which led some one of the party to turn the conversation into a channel of ghosts, goblins, and ghosts, and to the appearance of ghosts which they had heard from others, but no one ventured to avow that he had seen a ghost himself, and all relinked the idea of the reality of supernatural appearances; all but one elderly man, who had remained silent while the conversation was going forward. At length he spoke:

"Gentlemen," said he, "I once, like yourselves, ridiculed the idea of the appearance of ghosts, and I believe everybody does, though, at the same time, many who are most persistent in ridicule would shrink from passing through a lonely churchyard at midnight, or from passing a haunted house, alone, at any time, or from a ruined or deserted castle, in fact, from venturing pluck themselves in a position where, according to tradition, appariticns are most likely to be met with.

"I said I once ridiculed the idea of the appearance of ghosts. I do not mean to infer by this that I am now perfectly satisfied of their existence; but, if you please, I will relate an adventure which befel me many years ago, and what followed it, pledging my word that I will tell you nothing but the truth, and that leave it to yourselves to decide whether or not I have reason to be a believer in ghosts, or to cultivate things in heaven and earth that are known to our philosophy."

A general cheer was expressed to hear the old gentleman's story, and, after sitting silent for some moments, as if to collect his thoughts, he commenced as follows:

CHAPTER II.

"When I was a young man of nineteen or twenty, I paid a visit to a friend who resided at a place called Ashton. It was a romantic mansion, perched on the brow a city range of rocks, which rose to a height of 300 feet. The sea, at high water, dashed against the base of these cliffs with a thundering sound which could be distinctly heard in the town, and which, until I became accustomed to it, prevented me from sleeping; but, at low water, there was a narrow strip of sandy beach between the base of the cliffs and the sea. These cliffs were precipitous as well as lofty, ragged crags in some places jutting, as it in such a manner as to terrify strangers, and had then been the resort of the natives about or fall and crush them. They, however, had ceased to do so, as another horror had sprung into ever conceivable shape, and in many places there were huge, cavernous openings in the sides of the cliffs, which opened as if they might penetrate to a considerable distance, though all that could be discerned from the shore was the dark, gloomy opening. Toward nightfall the seals resorted to the cliffs in great numbers, and, after whirling for several minutes in extreme fright, utter up the whole, the most discordant screams, they would disappear in the caverns, and, I should think, sleep half their nights. Even as a boy, I was fond of free scenery, whether of a domestic or romantic character, and nothing pleased me better than to stroll along the seashore beneath these lofty precipices, on when the tide was high, to roam along the rugged pathway on their summit, and lie on the surf which dashed them, sometimes seeming to cause them to tremble with its mighty force, and I often sending the salt spray in showers, even to the top of the cliffs. I was, in fact, a boy of romantic temperament, I was fond of free scenery; and I have a fancy of my own that fitting description of scenery requires different conditions of the weather in order to be in perfection. The fields, and woods, and pasture lands, and the country village, situated in the forest valley, with the pointed spire of the church, towering above its humble neighbors; the farm-house, with its barns and out-houses, and granaries—in a word, all the accompaniments of a rural landscape—I prefer to see in sunshine—the sunshine, which, gilded by the bright, warm, mellow shine, but lately overhung range, with the jagged pinnacles towering above the clouds, and capped with perpetual snow, or the rugged, precipitous cliffs wind-girt the sea-shore, with, cross to perfection, the fields, and woods, and pasture lands, and the country village, situated in the forest valley, with the pointed spire of the church, towering above its barns and out-houses, and granaries—in a word, all the accompaniments of a rural landscape—I prefer to see in sunshine—the sunshine, which, gilded by the bright, warm, mellow shine, but lately overhung range, with the jagged pinnacles towering above the clouds, and capped with perpetual snow, or the rugged, precipitous cliffs wind-girt the sea-shore, with cross to perfection. The fields, and woods, and pasture lands, and the country village, situated in the forest valley, with the pointed spire of the church, towering above its barns and out-houses, and granaries—in a word, all the accompaniments of a rural landscape—I prefer to see in sunshine—the sunshine, which, gilded by the bright, warm, mellow shine, but lately overhung range, with the jagged pinnacles towering above the clouds, and capped with perpetual snow, or the rugged, precipitous cliffs wind-girt the sea-shore, with cross to perfection, or, should be seen when the wind is high and the sky is lowering, when the storm rages and the thunder rolls above and around them, and the forked lightning plays in their midst, in order that their sublime and grandeur may be fully appreciated.

"I mention these tastes of mine, that you may ramble on the coast, and, on one occasion, having started earlier than usual, I prolonged my walk to a greater distance than ever I had done before. A keen southeasterly wind was blowing, and a heavy rain was falling when I set out. I shivered as I felt my cloak and more closely around me, but, by walking rapidly, I soon got well warmed, and enjoyed the fresh, invigorating sensation, and stood watching the angry waves, which, driven inland by the storm, curled in overwhelming volumes, and then broke upon the beach with a noise like thunder, and dashed the seething surf around the rocky precipices, while the sea-birds, frightened from their nests, clinging out with discordant screams, and circling round seemed like the spirits that guided the storm, I felt that I was well repaid for my pains in coming.

"It was now late, and I thought the water in consequence of the high wind washed up to the base of the cliffs, so I, for the first time, made up my mind to return by the sands, and walk home, since I had taken the precaution to wear my wooden shoes, and, if I had no cause to fear wetting my feet, as I descended from the summit of the cliff, where I had been standing, and walked along close to the water's edge, thought it was strange, I see heavier than usual broke, it came rushing toward me so rapidly that I had nearly been deep in water, and was obliged to exert all my strength to keep my footing.

"I did, however, I enjoyed, and walking along with the wind at my back, I felt so elated at the idea of a wetting I should be subjected to, that I ran, rising into sounds and cries, and, when I had gained a good distance, I turned and staggered, as well as I could against the wind, and, by dint of hard labor, I succeeded in regaining my distance and I discovered that by return to the beach was out of the question. I therefore looked out for a convenient spot whereon to rest, and, after a minute's search, I found a projection that the cliff overhead, near the summit, jutted over so far out of the perpendicular as to render any attempt to scale it in this place out of the question. I thought it would be wiser plan to make the cavern, if cavern I could find, my place of rest, and, I, accordingly, turned back to reconnoitre.

"It opened a cold, stormy night in a dirty, damp hole in the side of a rock was by no means a pleasant prospect. But, I was wet and stodgy, and having often heard of but yet without seeing, the phosphorescent nature of the spice of romance in my disposition, I felt inclined to make the best of it, and, after more than otherwise, I thought how my friends would wonder what had become of me, and how they would be alarmed at my absence, when I made my appearance, and told my story, and what a great deal I would have to relate in after years.

"As I had anticipated, after scrambling, sometimes on my hands and knees, and nearly losing my footing, and, consequently, my temper, and descending for nearly a quarter of an hour, I found myself in a cavern of some size, in which I crept with the thankfulness as if I had been entering my palace of rest, and, as I sat down, the wind seem had increased with fearful rapidity and the rain pattered against the entrance. The wind howled, the sea roared beneath us, and, the rain fell in torrents, while a thunderclap that had long been brewing now burst over me in a awful suddenly, such heavy and of thunder reverberating among the cliffs, and the lightning flashed so vividly and continuously that the flash of one seemed to run into another, so that, if I had been in a place of safety, such a thing as a thunderstorm, I, I, I

School Books
and
School Supplies

Our Prices are Rock Bottom, Lower than ever!

We have a full supply of every book used in the Charlevoix schools. Also a full supply for every school in the county.

Something New

In Scratch Books, Spelling Slips, Inks, Pens, Pencils, Rulers, Slates Chalks, School Registers, Etc.

The largest stock of Blank Books in the county!

☞ If you want to save money, call at

G. W. CROUTER'S Drug & Stationery Store,

For supplies in general.

Communication from H. H. Chapman.

The following communication was written for the Boyne Citizen, but as you that paper refuses to give it a place, it is said to the JOURNAL that the facts may be given to the public.

Boyne City, Sept. 8th, 1886.

To the honorable editor of the Boyne Citizen:

Your spicy paper of Sept. 3d, 1886, makes it appear that I owe Dexter Niver one hundred dollars, according to Z. N. Garbutt's decision, August 26th, 1886. If you will do justice to every man, black, copper, white, rich or poor, you will place the facts of the case before the patrons of your paper, and allow them to judge for themselves if I owe Dexter Niver one cent. I am ready to back you or any honorable man to support the truth, if I have to stand alone. I think I have many more in this city that would justify me, if they could know the facts.

As an introduction to the following statement I would say, God has given Dexter Niver and his wife an average of natural beauty and business capacity. In 1883, Dexter Niver was foreman for me, which Ash F. Herron will support, which shows I believed he was capable of keeping accounts. He summoned me to appear before Z. N. Garbutt Aug. 26, 1886. I had no idea what it was for, as I knew that I could show by Niver's signature he owed me from $10 to $20. I begged of Garbutt not to let Niver bring me to trial without good security for costs. I showed Garbutt the lease, contract, and receipt, after showing him the facts as I will show you. He paid no attention to my just request, but made $13.10 cost, besides rendering a judgment against me for $100—which I appealed to a higher court. Dexter Niver's direct testimony, under oath, was: I paid $65 of Chapman, for the use of which I agreed to give him $5. for three months, at 10 per cent interest. I gave him my watch as security. The 2d of Aug., 1884, I paid him $35 at his hotel—no one present, took no receipt. Oct. 28th, 1884, I paid him $35. at my house—my wife was present, took no receipt. I paid $150. for the watch, was worth $100, when I let Chapman have it, & I got take any receipt. Cross examination: He had money about the 4th of August, paid Chapman $13. (which, according to his direct testimony and the written contract with his signature of Aug. 5th, 1883, was three days before he got the money). Niver says it might have been a month or six weeks before he asked for the watch after he had payed for it and asked again in April.

Niver's wife's direct testimony: She saw her husband give Mr. Chapman $35.; saw him count it, and he said it was all right and would credit the balance after paying for the watch on account.

I don't think my attorney cross-examined the beauty.

H. H. Chapman's direct testimony, as allowed by Z. N. Garbutt: 1st written Agreement—This is to certify that I have left my gold watch with Hiram B. Chapman, as security for forty-two dollars, for three months, for which I agree to pay said Chapman six or before that time, or pay ten per cent interest from date. If I don't redeem said watch at the time above-mentioned then said watch shall be said chapman's for the above amount. (This is a true copy, signed, Dexter Niver. Dated, Bay Springs, August 5th, 1884.

Z. N. Garbutt wants me give me back the original, and I got K. L. Corbett to make this copy for me.

H. B. Chapman, under oath, says Niver never paid him any money, as he and his wife testified under oath. Neither did Niver ever ask him for the watch, but he had at various times asked Niver to redeem the watch, after the watch had been forfeited by the written contract, as I did not want it (not knowing the watch was so valuable until after Niver's testimony, August 26th, 1886, and had the watch in my possession all the time—over two years).

Arthur K. Martin's testimony, under oath, (an honest man): Was Chapman's agent in 1883, called on Niver two different times or more, to get money due Chapman. Niver said he owed Chapman and would pay as soon as he could, or words to that effect, but said nothing about Chapman having a gold watch belonging to him, which I had held over eighteen months after Niver and his wife had swore they had paid me for it, without receipt or endorsement on the contract, which was in my pocket all the time until Z. N. Garbutt took it from me, Aug. 26th, 1886,—which shows he had more confidence in me than I had in him, or would trust any man living.)

Without any comment on the above testimony I will say, either H. B. Chapman or Dexter Niver and his wife are perjurers, which I leave to your judgment. But I don't think H. B. Chapman dare perjur himself if he wanted too, for fear that his family would find fault, as he also of them ever went to states prison and don't make any calculations of going, as K. K. is getting old and used up. If any one takes exception to the above, put him there if he is worthy or no good a home, as it would save his kind wife many hard tiffs, besides rubbing its legs in cold water and scratching his back, which he could do for himself any more.

Now, if you can find that Z. N. Garbutt has done justice with all the above facts before him, in forcing me to pay nine & a half dollars more, or appeal to the worthy judgment and making sure of his costs, call him a justice of the peace for I cannot respect him, neither do I fear him, for I think he is twisting his own rope, you tell what for). He now has it in his power to send me to the county court or pay black mail money. (which I have free different times) to be left quiet. But this is a fair warning: I am done, and if I live and regain my health, some, if not all, will be made public, as all I want is justice for all if we all go to Jackson.

I see no man in this county one cent. But, if Garbutt will issue him a summons without security for costs, come to me like a bold thief and you may pick five honorable business men in the county, and I will pay all they say I owe, and give you three dollars extra, (which would be about the amount of costs Garbut would get against me, in my making an appeal, or from R. R. Perkin's forced trial without bail). I know by four years' experience there are some honorable business men in the city, and Perkins is one of them, and I appeal to you for protection. It can be done, I am sure. I have some noted points to help purge your city from some of its impurities.

Now, to the honorable citizens of this city, if you will allow irreputable and unprincipled men to rule your village and town, it will not only keep a better class and capital out, but drive out what little capital you have, and then you will be dead as a rotten egg with a cracked shell.

This is my religion: Render unto Cesar what belongs to him, do to others as you would like them to do unto you in like circumstances; obey God by providing for your family and work less orably to do so. If you can't do it by honest toil then beg. If you can't succeed in the above, steal rather than starve them—enough only to pay can get work,—but never be guilty of perjury, or encourage it before God or man.

Respectfully, for the enlightenment and gratification of your readers.

H. H. CHAPMAN.

who will be on years old the 15th of this month—don't remember the hour.

Wonderful Cures.

Dr. G. W. Crouter, retail druggist of Charlevoix, Mich., says: We have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery Electric Bitters, and Bucklen's Arnica Salve for six years. Have never handled remedies that sell as well, or give such universal satisfaction. There have been some wonderful cures effected by these medicines in this city. Several cases of protracted consumption have been entirely cured by use of a few bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery, taken in connection with Electric Bitters. We guarantee them always. Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The Best Salve in the world for cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Dr. G. W. Crouter.

Only 25 Cents

buys a perfect remedy for sour stomach, diarrhoea, worms, convulsions, feverishness, and loss of sleep. Try it. Dr. Fob's Magic Pain Oil. It effectually relieves external and internal pain. Sold by Perry Weed and Dr. G. W. Crouter.

The Detroit Free Press

FREE

For the Campaign.

FIFTY CENTS

Will pay for the two best Newspapers published in the United States

For 4 Mos.

On receipt of the above amount we will send

The Charlevoix Journal

—And—

THE WEEKLY DETROIT FREE PRESS

to any address for FOUR MONTHS on trial

Everybody knows The Free Press. It is published in the metropolis of the State, and is a family newspaper, outranks all others. It is entirely free from scandal, sensation, and sensationalism, and should find a place in every household.

The Journal speaks for itself. It is a necessity to every resident of this county who wishes to keep himself posted on local affairs.

Subscriptions under this offer will be accepted for only a limited length of time.

SUBSCRIBE AT ONCE.

☞ Send order to

THE JOURNAL,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Old subscribers who desire to take The Press during the campaign can have it under the above offer by getting 50 arrears for 50c, and 50 back issues to advance in each.

Millinery And Fancy Goods!

A Splendid Line of Ribbons, Ladies' Gloves, Zephyrs, Laces, Ladies' Fine Underwear, and Stamping Goods always on hand at Lowest Prices.

Smith & Cooper,

At the Ingleside.

WM. J. STEVENSON,

HORSE-SHOEING,

Wagon Shop,

BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture my ironing, which is the best material, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

☞ The OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale. 13

The above Eye-glass invented by the Johnston Optical Co., of Detroit, Mich., combines the best features of all others.

1st. The lenses can be placed far enough away that the eye-lashes will not touch them, a thing that no other Eye-glass or Spectacle does.

2d. The guards are set so as to clasp the nose back under eye-brows which prevents slipping and falling off.

3d. The pressure on the fleshy part of the nose is so light that it does not leave a mark on it. The lens feature secures the perfect adjustment to the nose whether large or small.

4th. The lenses are set at right angles to line of vision.

5th. They can be worn safely without cord or chain, as there is no danger of falling off.

6th. We warrant them to be the easiest eye-glass in the market.

C. R. BELLINGER,

Optician and Jeweler, Charlevoix, Mich.

At the Old Stand.

A. J. McLeod

Can be found at the old stand with a

FULL STOCK OF MEATS

Of all kinds

At Wholesale and Retail.

HIDES, PELTS & FAT STOCK WANTED

JAMES HEMMINGS,

On Mason St., third door west of State, Charlevoix

HOUSE PAINTER,

Calciminer,

Paper Harger,

And Decorator.

PINE AND HARDWOOD FINISHING. GOOD WORK.

SODA

For Baking Purposes.

Best in the World.

Sold by Upright & Emrey.

Harbor Springs, Petoskey, Charlevoix, and East Jordan.

STEAMER THOMAS PRIANT.

CAPT. E. VANDERHOOF.

Morning—Leave Harbor Springs 7.00, Petoskey 8.00, Charlevoix 10.00, arrive East Jordan 12.00.

Afternoon—Leave East Jordan 1.30, Charlevoix 3.00, Petoskey 5.30, arrive Harbor Springs 6.00.

Close connections at Petoskey with G. R. & I. R. R. trains, north and south.

STAUFFER'S

BROADCAST

Hand-Seeder.

This new invention possesses many qualities peculiarly adapted to farmers at this vicinity.

TEN REASONS:

1. It sows the roughest or smoothest soils.
2. It sows evenly all kinds of grain and seeds, large and small. Wheat, barley, clover, timothy, rutabaga, etc.
3. It sows any desired quantity. One-fourth pound of rutabaga seed can be spread over an acre of ground with perfect ease and accuracy.
4. It sows rapidly. With wheat it covers 16 feet to the round. Clover or timothy mixed in. Ten acres of clover sowed in six hours.
5. It is not affected by quite a strong wind.
6. It is quickly adjusted to different quantities of grain.
7. It cannot clog.
8. It is easily operated.
9. It is cheap.
10. It is durable.

Patented by ISAAC STAUFFER, of Carpenter, Kalamet Co., Mich. Sold by

UPRIGHT & EMREY,

Call and examine 4 Charlevoix, Mich.

Owing to Special Rates in Photographic Stock, I will continue to make Cabinet Photographs at $4.00 per Dozen Until further notice.

Dave Bradbeer,

Photographer,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

More Room! More Goods!!

THE ROUND OAK

AND SQUARE BASE

Heating Stoves.

Complete Stock of Hardware!

VERY BEST PUMPS.

Job and Tin Work.

I. D. BARTHOLOMEW & CO.

Come and See our Immense Stock of

BOOTS AND SHOES.

FOX & MILLER.

HENRY C. COOPER

Undertaker!

CHARLEVOIX MICHIGAN.

Coffins, Caskets, and Trimmings Always in Stock.

Come and See my Stock of Furniture.

ALL ORDERS BY TELEPHONE RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION

Charlevoix Manufacturing Company,

MANUFACTURERS OF

Sash, Doors, and Blinds,

Screen Doors and Windows, and Mouldings of all Descriptions

Newell Posts, Banisters, and Stair Rail, of Soft and Hard Wood, kept in Stock and Made and Put Up to Order.

A GOOD STOCK OF

PINE AND BASSWOOD SIDING,

FLOORING, CEILING, AND FRAMING LUMBER KEPT ON HAND.

Also Contractors, Builders, and General Jobbers.

Summer Cottages a Specialty.

CHARLEVOIX. MICHIGAN.

PERRY WEED

DRUGGIST AND STATIONER,

OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

A Large Stock of

Furniture!

IN

Oak, Maple, Ash, and Cherry,

JUST RECEIVED BY THE

PINE LAKE IRON COMPANY

IRONTON, MICH.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 169. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, OCTOBER 7, 1886. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL

Published every Thursday,

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

Office on Bridge Street,

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX AS A SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

WATCH YOUR ADDRESS LABEL.

The date following the name on your address label indicates the time to which your subscription is paid. If in arrears, you are requested to pay up.

BUSINESS CARDS.

ATTORNEYS.

ARTHUR K. MARTIN, Attorney at Law, Boyne City. Collections promptly attended to.

CHICKERING & KELLY, Attorneys at Law, Practitioners in Admiralty. Office in Rowe Block, Charlevoix, Mich.
A. C. CHICKERING. C. J. KELLY.

ROBERT A. CALL, Attorney at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agent, Lake St., east of Post office, Petoskey, Mich. 1617

REID W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor, Real Estate business promptly attended to. Office on BOYNE CITY, MICH.

C. L. NEWBERRY, Attorney at Law and Judge of Probate of Antrim Co., Petoskey, Mich.

WILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

FRANK J. WISNER, Attorney at Law and Circuit Court Commissioner, Office in Court House, East Jordan, Mich.

W. S. MOORE, Attorney and Solicitor, East Jordan. Admiralty a Specialty.

Z. N. GARBUTT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

CHURCHES.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7.30 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7.30. All seats free. Rev. Geo. Gallup, pastor. Residence, Mt. Ave., Green Lake. H. G. CLARK, pastor.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m., and 7.00 p. m. Sunday school at 12 m. Prayer meeting every evening except Thursday evening at 7.00 o'clock. C. P. VAN ALYEA, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7.00 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7.00 o'clock. Seats free. Strangers always welcome. J. T. JOHNS, pastor.

DENTISTRY.

N. J. PERRY, Dentist. Office over Weed's Drug Store. CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

B. SUFFIELD, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Domestic Cases, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

PHYSICIANS.

L. LEWIS, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office in the Lewis block, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. PRESTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HORACE S. HARRIS, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

G. A. R.—Baxter Post No. 119, meets second Monday each month at Pettibone's Peninsular Hall.

I. O. O. F.—Round Lake Lodge, No. 265, meets every Wednesday evening in their hall.

K. O. T. M.—Reed Tent No. 19, meets second Thursday every month at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. G. T.—Charlevoix Lodge, No. 1, meets Tuesday or before full moon, in Barnard school house.

MASONIC—Charlevoix Lodge No. 382, meets on Tuesday on or before full moon, at Odd Fellows' hall.

W. F. BROWN, Cashier. W. A. BROWN, Asst. Cashier.

THE CITIZENS' BANK OF CHARLEVOIX

CAPITAL, $25,000

Drafts drawn on any of the principal cities of the world. Collections promptly attended to. Gold, Silver, Coupons, and Government Bonds bought and sold. Interest allowed on time deposits. Correspondents—Chase National Bank, New York; First National Bank, Chicago; Merchants' National Bank, Detroit; Fourth National Bank, Grand Rapids.

THE BOYNE CITY BANK

Drafts drawn direct on the leading commercial cities of the world. Interest allowed on time deposits. Collections promptly attended to. Exchange bought and sold. Certificates of deposit issued payable in Chicago.

We respectfully solicit your patronage.

CORRESPONDENTS.

NATIONAL PARK BANK.....NEW YORK.
NATIONAL BANK OF COMMERCE.....CHICAGO.
NATIONAL CITY BANK.....GRAND RAPIDS.
DETROIT NATIONAL BANK.....DETROIT.

Charlevoix and Boyne.

Steamer CLARA BELLE—Capt. Robert O'Neil.

Morning—Leave Charlevoix 6.30, arrive Boyne 7.00, leave Boyne 9.00, arrive Charlevoix 11.00.

Afternoon—Leave Charlevoix 2.00, arrive Boyne 2.30, leave Boyne 4.30, arrive Charlevoix 5.00.

Stopping at intermediate points.

1872. 1886.

DR. G. W. CROUTER,

Drugs, Stationery and Wall Paper,

Dental Office in Rear of Drug Store.

ADVERTISEMENTS of three lines or less will be inserted in this column for each insertion. (This type will average seven words to the line.) Each additional line, three cents each insertion.

TEN CENTS

FARM FOR SALE 2½ miles south of Charlevoix, on Stack road, for will trade for house and lot in Charlevoix. Inquire at this office. 167tf

JOB PRINTING of every description executed promptly neatly, artistically, and cheaply, at the JOURNAL office.

JOHN HOGAN, HOUSE PAINTER AND INTERIOR DECORATOR, Charlevoix, Mich. Residence one door west of factory. 136

FITCH HEABS, Note Heads, Statements, Bill Heads, Letter Heads, Envelopes, etc., at the JOURNAL office.

WANTED.—A Good, Wide-a-Wake correspondent is wanted for this paper in every town and school district in the adjoining counties. Liberal inducements. Call on or address this office.

WANTED.—Men to cut posts and ties. Apply to GEORGE BURNS, livery barn, or JUDD FALCON, Terrace Farm, Charlevoix.

Terrace Farm

J. R. & J. S. DIXON

Charlevoix, Mich.

Dairy, Vegetable, and Stock Farm. Thoroughbred and Grade HOLSTEINS a specialty

COMMERCIAL HOUSE

D. B. JERRUE, Proprietor.

East Jordan, Michigan.

Entirely refurnished and refurnished. First-class Sample Room for agents. Good Stable in Connection with the House. 73

FARMERS' HOTEL,

WM. SANGER, MANAGER,

CHARLEVOIX - MICHIGAN

Excellent accommodations for steady boarders and for farmers with their families who want a good dinner. Good stable for feeding teams. The management of this house will not interfere with the regular business of any trade.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,

RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix - Michigan.

Centrally located in town, giving good view of lake and resorts. Express office and headquarters for Petoskey and Elk Rapids stages. Good sample room for commercial travelers adjoining house.

WELL DIGGING.

I am prepared to dig, drive, and repair wells of all kinds, and guarantee satisfaction. Leave orders with Stockman & Co. 1tf

E. W. BENNETT,

Charlevoix, Mich.

MISS I. SPAULDING.

MILLINERY

and Fancy Goods.

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

Millinery And Fancy Goods!

A Splendid Line of Ribbons, Ladies' Gloves, Zephyrs, Laces, Ladies' Fine Underwear, and Stamping Goods always on hand at Lowest Prices.

Smith & Cooper,

At the Ingleside.

Jos. Beauvais

BOAT-BUILDER.

The Best Modeled, Easiest Rowing, and Best Sailing Boats in Northern Michigan, for the Least Money. Give me a Trial. I am bound to Please.

Boat Livery

In connection with shop.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

Putting up the Price.

As long ago as last March, when the anthracite coal committee met in New York and agreed on the output for the current year, it was announced by one of the members that before cold weather came on the price would be advanced $1 per ton. The amount of coal to which the committee limit ed the people was 35,000,000 tons. To increase the price of this quanity $1 a ton would be to levy a tax of $35,000,000 on the consumer.

It may be supposed that the body which has the power to make a decree of this kind has some official authority, but such is not the fact. It is made up of the presidents of the various coal roads, viz: Roberts, of the Pennsylvania; Wilbur, of the Lehigh Valley; Sloan, of the Lacawanna; Harris, of the Lehigh; King, of the Erie; Olyphant, of the Delaware & Hudson; Potts, of the Susquehanna; Tillinghast, of the Lehigh & Western; Hoyt, of the Pennsylvania Coal Company, and Keim of the Reading. Between them they represent a corporate capital of nearly $700,000,000. This is the parliament which taxes the American people without representation and almost without protest. When it advances the price of coal 25 cents a ton it levies a tax of $8,375,000 upon the consumers of that article. When it limits the production of coal it decrees that the miners in the anthracite region shall remain idle during six months of the year, and, besides that, it says to the people of the country who must be protected from the biting cold of winter that if the demand for coal exceeds the limit which they have fixed the supply is not to be increased but the price is to go up and up until the demand is brought within reasonable bounds.

What do the men who are now putting in their winter supply of coal in the western states think of it? Doesn't it look as though the protective tariff tax of 75 cents a ton should be repealed?—Chicago Herald.

The Coal Squeeze and Other Squeezes.

The appearance of the state of Pennsylvania on the scene with an evident purpose to take a hand in the coal squeezing business, will give pleasure to coal consumers all over the land. They have all felt since the notification was given of a purpose to tax them on this prime necessity for the benefit of the coal barons that it was a wicked and cruel thing; and they have also felt pretty generally that there was nothing to do but to submit. They will be delighted to find that there is at least a question as to the legality of the extortion; and they will pray earnestly that the great state of Pennsylvania may find strength in its legal arm to lay out the extortioners.

We wonder, however, if it will occur to the consumers generally or only to the more intelligent of them that what the coal barons are attempting to do directly the protected monopolists in other branches of the supply business have for years been doing, and still are doing indirectly. The coal barons are few in number and transact their business of squeezing the consumer with brutal frankness and openness. But it is no more essential that a woman than that which the lumber barons or steel barons of the country put upon the consumer. And if there really is any relief in the laws of Pennsylvania the coal squeeze is far less objectionable than the other squeezes. For the latter are sustained and buttressed by Federal law with a powerful political party and innumerable millions back of that.

Yet if the consumer is led to see clearly in the light of the coal squeeze the burdensomeness and inquity of these other squeezes—and it will be strange if he does not see it—he will also see that the remedy is in his own hand. There may be no great state to champion his cause and interpose its laws and constitution between him and his oppressor; but there is a mightier power. It is the power of the ballot before which oppressive and unjust laws and the parties that sustain them go down like grain before the reaper.—Free Press.

"The first Lucc pole of the campaign was raised at the Ionia reformatory. It is 90 feet high and has a big plow at the top."—Carroll's Weekly World.

During the campaign of 1882 the Ionia prison was under the control of the appointees of the republican party and the convicts were employed in making transparences to be carried in republican torch light processions.

In 1884, while Warden Waters was in control of the prison, no such disgraceful conduct was tolerated, nor was the institution used as a political machine to further the interests of the republican opposition.

In 1886 things have changed and Warden Watkins aided by his chief subordinates has early opened the campaign, as indicated by the above notice of pole raising, and before the canvass is over we expect to see the inmates of the prison not only engaged in painting political banners but marching behind them in republican processions.

We trust that the Insane Asylums will not be forgotten by our republican friends and as the board of control of the Soldiers' Home belongs to that party, it might be worth while to include that institution also.—Newaygo Tribune.

The Michigan Conference.

The Michigan Conference of the M. E. church has declared most emphatically in favor of the prohibition party by the adoption of the following report of a committee on temperance by a vote of 158 to 4. Sixteen not voting:

We cannot ignore the necessary political connection of the temperance question, which we must see look squarely in the face. God has now at last said this question of prohibition upon the conscience of every gospel minister and church member.—Can it be that membership in the gospel ministry absolves a man from his political duties? Are not God's watchmen, who are the sworn expositors of His will, ever to look into the tendencies of governmental policies? And when those tendencies are manifestly anti-christian are not we bound to throw all our influence against them? Must the christian minister remain in ignorance in regard to the politics of his country? Accompanying the report were the following resolutions:

WHEREAS, We believe that temperance reform will come through the people's votes, under the auspice of some political party; therefore,

Resolved, That we hail with joy the advent of any political organization which has, or shall, put on the whole armor of reform, and is determined to stamp out the vile liquor curse.

Resolved, That the growing enormity of the strong drink evil calls for the immediate concentration of the christian zeal, effort and firmness of the good men of all parties, who shall unite in the support of an anti-saloon party whose corner-stone shall be constitutional and statutory prohibition of the liquor traffic.

The Detroit conference also passed strong temperance resolutions but did not commit itself so thoroughly to the prohibition party as did the Michigan conference. Just what effect these conferences will have upon the vote cannot be told until after election.

Communication from Z. N. Garbutt.

EDITOR JOURNAL.—Sir, In the Journal of September 30th appears a communication from H. B. Chapman, in which he attempts to belittle me as a citizen and an officer by distorting and overdrawing the facts pertaining to a certain case between Mr. Chapman and Mr. Niver, tried before me as a justice of the peace, in regard to which with your liberal consent I desire to make a few explanations and corrections.

First, as to requirements of costs, I have made it a rule as a court, to always insist on the plaintiffs endorsing on the back of the writ, or on a proper showing made by the defendant. And if he fails to obtain it by reason of being unable to secure his bondsmen because he is a poor man I allow him to go to trial without. In the case referred too, I allowed the plaintiff one hour to obtain security, which together with his attorney he attempted to do, but failed, because he had no property with which to secure bondsmen, I have allowed him to proceed without.

Second. As to the evidence in the case, I will not go into it in detail, which I would have to do in order to correct all of the misstatements by the plaintiff in his communication, but sufficient to say this; It was a clear, consistent and consistent statement, by the plaintiff and his wife, on the one side, and a denial by Chapman on the other, which was made by him after first explaining to the court that he was hard of hearing and impaired. There was no inconsistencies relative to dates, Mr. Martin's testimony touched only on the question of indebtedness, while the question in the case was: Had the plaintiff ever redeemed the watch?

Third. As to refusing to let Chapman have the written instrument intrusted in evidence, I had no right to let him have it, as it was part of the records and files in the case, and he was so informed by his attorney at the time. After hearing the evidence, (none of which was written down by any one) and the argument of counsel, I decided in favor of the plaintiff for the reason that he had furnished a preponderance of evidence, inasmuch as he had produced two witnesses against one, none of whom were impeached. At the time of taking the appeal Chapman was informed by his attorney, R. L. Corbett, that he would have to secure additional evidence or again be defeated in the circuit court.

As to the truth of the statements herein made, I refer you to R. L. Corbett, attorney for Chapman. As to the reference to Mr. Perkins, I see no point as he has never been brought before for a bailable offence.

Yours truly,

Z. N. GARBUTT.

EDITOR JOURNAL.—Sir, I see in the communication from Mr. Chapman a reference made to R. R. Perkins that would imply that he had been unfairly dealt with by Z. N. Garbutt as justice of the peace. Allow me to say that I have acted as attorney for Mr. Perkins in every case, (which I believe is but one) he has had before Mr. Garbutt, and in that case our theory of the case prevail'ed to the entire satisfaction of Mr. Perkins and myself.

WILL A. NORTON,

Attorney for R. R. Perkins.

Wormley's Beef Tea and Terrapin.

Speaking of Garfield's illness reminds me of James Wormley, the noted negro caterer of Washington, who died a few months ago, leaving a fortune of more than $100,000, which he made in keeping hotel here. Mr. Wormley had a patent method of making beef tea, and he prepared much of it last food, taken by Charles Sumner and President Garfield. During Garfield's last days he used to take this beef tea every morning from his hotel to the White House, and Garfield relished it when he could eat nothing else. It was made by broiling the tenderloin of a porterhouse steak, and while the meat was yet smoking putting it into an iron receiver heated for the purpose. A crank was then turned, which brought hundreds of pounds of pressure on the steaming steak, causing every particle of its juice to stream forth. A little seasoning and the tea was ready. There was no water about it, and it was the pure juice of the beef. Mr. Wormley also made chicken broth for Garfield, and the chickens used came from his own farm near this city. His hotel was a high-priced one, and his dinners on special occasions cost as high as $100 a plate. He was especially noted as a terrapin cook, and he considered cooking such an art that he sent his son, who now manages the hotel, to Paris to take lessons of the noted cooks there.

Wormley was the first to introduce terrapin into England. He took them with him when he went along with Reverdy Johnson, who was the American Ambassador, as cook to the Legation. It is said that the terrapin did more to accomplish the ends of the United States than all of the speeches.—Washington Letter.

Wouldn't Argy.

Judge Gaffin discovered old Dennys standing near his kitchen window, talking to his cook.

"What are you doing there?" the judge demanded.

"Versin' wid de lady, sah. She wus me wife 'fore I married her."

"I can't help that, I don't want you to come around here."

"W'y so, boss? W'hut's I don't interfere wid yer?"

"You tramp down the flowers and eat all the cold victuals. That's what you do."

"W'y, boss, how kin I eat yer victuals? I ain't neber been in yer kitchen."

"Oh, I've seen the cook hand out pail after pail. What makes your mouth so greasy?"

"Perspiration, sah."

"Well, what makes that have bone stick out from under your coat?"

"Oh, I sees dat dar ain't no use argyin' wid yer. I doan min' argyin' wid a man dat's got p'ints an' gogaty, but I wouz waste mer bref wif er person what ain't got no reason erbout him."—Arkansas Traveller.

A Million Dollars.

Millions of dollars would be saved annually to the invalids of every community, if, instead of calling a physician for every ailment, they were wise enough to put their trust in Golden Seal Bitters, a certain cure for all diseases arising from an impure state of the blood and liver, such as scrofula in its various forms, rheumatism, dyspepsia, or indigestion, female irregularities, diseases of the kidneys and bladder, exposure and imprudence of life. No person can take these bitters according to instructions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair. Golden Seal Bitters restore on the 1st dose more than any other medicine known, and have already acquired a reputation equal to, and deservedly as a family medicine. Sold by Perry Weed and Dr. G. W. Crouter.

Money Refunded.

The true remedy has at last been discovered. It was long known in its practice as Dr. Fob's Lung Food for Consumption, it is now called Dr. Fobs's Lung Cough Cure. It is the safest, the surest and the best. No other cough, cold, and consumption remedy is half its equal. We warrant it and will promptly refund the money paid for it if a beneficial effect is not experienced by the time two-thirds of the contents of the bottle is used. Sold by Perry Weed and Dr. G. W. Crouter.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

EASTERN.

In union mine at Jaysville, N. Y., after a chute of dynamite had been fired, two men were killed by a fall of rock.

Bishop Shanahan, of Harrisburg, was attacked by congestion of the lungs, and died in a few hours.

In enlarging a cellar at Mahanoy City, Pa., workmen found an earthen jar containing several thousand dollars in gold. The widow who owns the residence made the excavators surrender what they had pocketed.

The conductor and engineer of the excursion train recently in collision at Silver Creek, N. Y., by which a number of lives were lost, have been indicted for manslaughter.

Colonel Charles C. Greene, ex-editor of the Boston Post, died at Boston last week, aged eighty-two. He was connected with several newspapers prior to 1862, when he founded the Post, with which paper he was connected for nearly a half century, retiring in 1879, at the age of seventy-five.

A session of the Board of Public Works at Jersey City was interrupted by the outspoken remarks of a reporter named Lenhart by Miss Bryant, one of the belles of the city, who has $250,000 in her own right. She was encored by a statement in the Evening Journal that she forged checks on her father. After vindicating herself she was serenaded at her residence by a large party of admirers.

Pleuro-pneumonia is reported to be raging among the cattle in Montgomery County, Pennsylvania.

WESTERN.

Lightning started a conflagration in the forests of the Yellowstone National Park, which is destroying immense tracts of timber.

The Indians of Leech Lake Reservation, in Minnesota, sold $10,000 worth of lumber this season, most of which is certain to be expended for whisky. Commissioner Wright and Larabee report that at White Oak Point they issued at the rate of an ax-head for fifteen years to a sawbarman for a sack of flour.

Pleuro-pneumonia was discovered last week near Akron, Ohio. Thirteen cattle have already died on a farm near there. The Governor of Iowa issued a proclamation quarantining the State against Illinois cattle on account of the reported prevalence of pleuro-pneumonia. A Chicago dispatch says: "The infected cattle in the distillery yards at Chicago are guarded by twenty-nine deputies employed by the Federal Government. The Commissioner of Agriculture is illing to pay $25,000 towards the slaughter of the animals now in quarantine, the Illinois authorities have but $50,000 available."

Gov. Rusk, of Wisconsin, has issued a quarantine proclamation against the importation of Illinois cattle.

Chicago elevators contain 8,561,628 bushels of wheat, 5,429,945 bushels of corn, 2,92,967 bushels of oats, 2,46,0 bushels of rye, and 68,579 bushels of barley; total, 16,128,254 bushels of all kinds of grain, against 16,583,271 bushels a year ago.

A passenger train on the Burlington Road broke a steel rail near Sugarcity, Ill., and several coaches were thrown down an embankment. Mrs. T. N. Baldwin, of Rock Falls, Ill., was killed, and fifteen others received serious injuries, and eleven others received bruises. A wrecking train was sent out from Aurora.

Counsel for the convicted anarchists of Chicago have filed a document setting forth the grounds upon which a new trial will be asked, accompanied by affidavits that two jurors had, previous to the trial, expressed opinions prejudicial to the defendants.

It is reported that Oklahoma is free from lawlessness, thieves and crooks, and that the leaders of the boomers have given assurances that there will be no further attempts to occupy that country in opposition to the present policy of the Government, forcedly Congressional action being awaited.

SOUTHERN.

A feud at Ash Flat, Arkansas, arising out of a difference at a dance, led to the poisoning of a well, by which twelve persons were prostrated. One of the wealthiest farmers in the county has been arrested for the crime.

A hurricane, with heavy rain, prevailed in southwestern Texas from the 21st to the 23d of September, the rain gauge indicating a fall of twenty-six inches. Two hundred houses were washed at Brownsville, rendering 300 persons homeless, while across the river, in Matamoras, 500 dwellings were destroyed, and thirty blocks of the city flooded. The people in both cities are in great distress. Wire dispatches of Texas were submerged, and the loss to property is very heavy.

Four shocks of earthquake were felt at Charleston on the 28th ult., one of them being accompanied by a detonation, and causing the people to rush into the streets. The shocks were felt over the west portion of the Government building that that entrance to the structure must be kept closed until repairs are made.

Commissioner Colman has received from Paraguay, Uruguay, a better and lasting impression of a disease prevailing there among cattle purchased at the Chicago yards.

Wiggins' earthquakes and tornadoes failed to materialize on the 26th ult., much to the relief and joy of the people along the South Atlantic and Gulf coasts. With the exception of light shocks at Petersburgh, Va., and Petersburg, Va., and a "mother" in Texas and North Louisiana, there were no subterranean or meteorological disturbances whatever. A Charleston dispatch says:

Wiggins prediction has had a marked effect on the emotional nature of the negroes, and the past four or five nights their churches have been filled with crowed congregations of frenzied worshipers. The effect of the shocks on the superstitious negroes has been fearful, and they seem to have determined to be taken to heaven at the first call. Prayer meetings are held every night, and the excitement is so great that many go into trances and have to be carried home on stretchers. Among the whites the religious sentiment has also been deeply aroused.

An Atlanta (Ga.) telegram says:

At daylight this morning the streets of Atlanta were filled with early risers. They found on every door and house signs announcing the hour passed and high water reached the people gave up their fears, and assembled in the churches. The aged people kept up their religious meetings until tonight. Many of the merchants did not go to their places of business to-day, their families refusing to let them. Throughout the day the streets and the houses of the people was the alvanion of the school children. The non-attendance was greater than ever before known, and the teachers reported the children who did attend night as well have been absent. The negroes from the country in the city were emptied of their usually all of their children, some on another, stated out that it the dreaded hour for the event had passed.

WASHINGTON.

Washington officials deny the reports of negotiations between Great Britain and the United States for a new Canadian treaty.

Acting Secretary of War has received a dispatch from the Indian Agent at the San Carlos Agency stating that the removal of the Apaches to Fort Thomas, Arizona, is a cause of rejoicing to the Indians left there, who are relieved of their fears of raids, and are afforded better opportunity for acquiring habits of industry.

Later information received at the National Agricultural Department regarding the chinch bug shows that in Illinois and Indiana chokes prevails generally. In the Southern States bugs are reported in several counties. In Ohio and Michigan the condition of the animals is fair. In some parts of Wisconsin farmers are afraid to keep bugs on account of cholera, and reports from Iowa are of a similar character in some cases. Cholera, pink-eye and measles are reported from Missouri, and in Nebraska the condition is considerably below the average. Kansas and Kentucky bugs are generally in good condition.

Assistant Secretary Fairchild has issued a call for the redemption of $15,000,000 of 5 per cent. bonds.

Commissioner Colman, of the Bureau of Agriculture, refuses to permit the sale of any of the infected cattle quarantined at Chicago. He has requested four eminent veterinarians in the Eastern States to proceed to Chicago and assist in ascertaining the condition of the quarantined herds.

POLITICAL.

The Democrats of New Jersey nominated R. I. Green, of Union County, for Governor. A platform was adopted which indorses the administration of President Cleveland, demands the amendment and enforcement of the immigration law so as to absolutely exclude contract labor, condemns immigration and coercion by striking workmen, favors the payment of arrears of pensions made in behalf of veteran soldiers, demands a prompt settlement of the disputes between this country and Great Britain, regarding the question, opposes all horizontal reductions of the tariff, denounces the reversal of policies by the administration, the conduct of the Cutting affair by the State Department, the failure of Congress to enact a bankruptcy law, to repeal the silver coinage law, and to provide for coast defenses. The liquor plank favors the strict enforcement of laws enacted to suppress intemperance, and the submission to the people of a prohibitory amendment to the constitution.

The Nebraska Republican Convention, which has presided over by Congressman A. S. Mercer, placed in the field the following ticket: Governor, Gen. John M. Thayer; Lieutenant Governor, H. H. Shedd; Secretary of State, G. L. Lane; Treasurer, G. H. Hillard; Auditor, H. A. Babcock; Attorney General, William A. Lane; Commissioner of Public Lands and Buildings, Joseph Sedlik; Superintendent of Public Instruction, George E. Lane. The platform favors the intelligent organization of the wage workers for all lawful purposes, but refuses to sanction anarchism or mob violence in the settlement of the differences between employers and employes, favors the regulation of interstate commerce by Congress, and demands a revision of laws by which aliens are allowed to own large bodies of land.

RAILROAD INTELLIGENCE.

At the meeting of the Board of Directors of the Northern Pacific Railroad, Robert Harris was re-elected President.

An engine using petroleum as fuel is successfully drawing trains between Cairo and Alexandria in Egypt.

Apparently authoritative reports are current at Winnipeg that the Canadian Pacific has obtained control of the Manitoba Railway.

The Chicago and Northwestern announces that the $2,000,000 Winona and St Peter bonds falling due Jan. 1, 1888, will be paid on presentation.

John D. Taylor, Treasurer of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, dies at Philadelphia.

The Omaha Road has reduced its local passenger rates to 3 cents per mile in Iowa, Dakota, Minnesota, and Wisconsin. The rate of freight carriage in Nebraska is fixed by law at 3½ cents per mile.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Texas fever has appeared among several herds of cattle in Saline County, Missouri.

A. C. Strong, a Knight Templar of Newburg, Ill., was robbed by a train at Chatsham, near St. Louis, Mo.

The Odd Fellows' Sovereign Grand Lodge, in session at Boston, adopted a report declaring it inexpedient to establish a home for orphans of Odd Fellows. The headquarters of the Sovereign Grand Lodge were located at Columbus, Ohio, by a vote of 76 to 75 over Chicago. The Knights Templar of St. Louis selected Washington as the place for the triennial conclave in October, 1888.

Business failures for the week in the United States and Canada numbered 182, against 183 the previous week.

A loss of $150,000 was sustained at Toronto by a fire which originated in the wholesale liquor house of Hardman & Hay, and extended to the adjoining buildings.

Lieutenant Henn, of the Galatea, express himself as satisfied that he has an chance with the Mayflower in any breeze in which she can carry her topsail, but he is anxious to learn what she can do in a gale without it.

In the Bay of St. John, N. T., the British schooner Summerset collided with the schooner Ivy Bun, cutting her in two. There were thirty-seven persons aboard the ill-fated craft, four of whom were drowned. The others were all rescued by clinging to the main rail of the Summerset, or were picked out of the water by her boats.

Gen. Booth, of the Salvation Army, has arrived at New York, and will inspect his forces in this country.

The twenty-sixth Triennial Convocation of the General Chapter of Royal Arch Masons of the United States has been in session at Washington, D. C.

The union crop throughout the country is reported by farmers and growers are holding for higher prices.

FOREIGN.

The British Government has decided to greatly increase the garrison at Belfast.

A railroad accident at Berlin three soldiers were killed and twenty wounded.

In a compartment of an underground railway carriage in Great Russell Street, the head of an important foreign house, was murdered by unknown persons. His watch and chain were not disturbed, but his purse had evidently been taken.

A series of nine explosions of fire-damp in a coal mine near Schalke, Germany, forty-five persons were killed and sixteen injured. An explosion of fire-damp occurred in Austria, was set on fire by lightning, and again prevented it from being quenched.

Six persons, including three Glasgow magistrates, were suffocated while viewing a coal cellar fire at Kirkcaldy quarries in Scotland.

Rumor has it that King Charles of Roumania may not unlikely be chosen Prince of Bulgaria, differences having arisen between the Bulgarians and Russians.

The Pope is actively pursuing his project to found an imperial university at the Laterau Palace for advanced scientific and literary studies on the part of the clergy.

The forcible collection of school fees in London is accompanied by cases where every scrap of household furniture has been seized and sold. The Radical clubs advise resistance to the law.

In the Federal Court at Buffalo four expressmakers from Binghamton were held in 1,000 each for an attempt to boycott non-union factories.

The agricultural population of Italy is so poverty stricken that it is certain that serious agrarian disturbances are threatened.

The speech of Queen Victoria proroguing Parliament until November 11 states that the relations of Great Britain are to be elected in accordance with the provisions of the treaty of Berlin and that a commission has been appointed to inquire into the failure of the recent acts respecting the tenure and the purchase of land in Ireland.

A spinners' strike at Burnly, England, which caused the stoppage of 20,000 spindles, has terminated, the workers accepting a reduction of 5 per cent. in wages.

The steamship Helvetia is to be with serious hermetically-sealed receivers to supply oil to Sweden, Denmark, Norway, and Holland, has reached Lisbon with her first cargo.

A band of discharged Chinese soldiers made a descent on the leading pawnshop in Hanoway and murdered the proprietor and forty-six of his employes. The robbers were all arrested.

A Berlin dispatch says that heavy frosts prevail throughout Germany. In Bavaria heavy snowfalls are reported.

LATER NEWS ITEMS.

Congressional nominations: Third Pennsylvania, Samuel J. Randall, Democrat; Fourteenth Illinois, William Voorhees, Democrat; Eighteenth Illinois, W. H. Moore, Prohibitionist; Eleventh Michigan, John Power, Democrat; Tenth Tennessee, Zach Taylor, Republican; Second Louisiana, Major Andrew Hero, Republican; Third New Jersey, William McMahon, Democrat; Seventh Massachusetts, Gen. William Cogswell, Republican; Tenth Massachusetts, William W. Rice, Republican; First Louisiana, T. G. Wilson, colored, Republican; Third Louisiana, J. E. Davidson colored, Republican; Thirty-fourth New York, G. G. Lansing, Republican; First Pennsylvania, John Chambers, Democrat; Second Pennsylvania, W. E. Thomas, Republican; Twenty-first Ohio, W. G. Smith, Democrat; Twenty-first Ohio, Martin A. Foran, Democrat; Twentieth Ohio, William Dorsey, Democrat; Eighteenth Ohio, W. H. Phelps, Democrat; Sixth Virginia, J. B. Page, Knights of Labor; Eighth Missouri, J. J. O'Neill, Democrat; Third Minnesota, J. I. McDonald, Democrat; Fourteenth New York, W. G. Stahlnecker, Democrat; First New Jersey, J. W. Wescott, Democrat; Fifteenth Illinois, A. J. Warner, Democrat; First Ohio, Benjamin Butterworth, Republican; Ninth Illinois, Charles E. Brown, Republican; Fourth Minnesota, Edmund Rice, Democrat; Twelfth Missouri, O. H. Filley, Republican; First Wisconsin, James R. Doolittle, Democrat; First Illinois, Silas Z. Cobb, Democrat; Twenty-first Pennsylvania, O. I. Jackson, Republican; Seventh South Carolina, Robert Smalls, Republican; Fourteenth New York, E. D. Nutting, Republican; Eighth Tennessee, S. W. Brown, Republican; Third Minnesota, R. B. Herbert, Republican; Twenty-third New York, J. S. Sherman, Republican; Fourth Kentucky, J. W. Lewis, Republican; Third Kentucky, John Skea, Democrat, and John F. Hazel, Democrat; Tenth Ohio, Frank H. Hurd, Democrat; Ninth Illinois, M. H. Peters, Democrat; Tenth Illinois, Judge McCulloch, Prohibitionist; Dakota Territory, H. H. Joy, Democrat.

The Massachusetts Democratic State Convention at Worcester, which was presided over by Hon. Patrick A. Collins, placed in the field the following ticket: Governor, John D. Andrew; Lieutenant Governor, Frank K. Foster; Secretary of State, J. E. Thayer; Treasurer, Louis Warner; Auditor, William E. Cook; Attorney General, J. W. Dickerson. The platform reiterates the democratic doctrine of the right of American citizenship, wherever born; demands the reform of the tariff; reaffirms the financial policy of the Democratic platform; insists upon the defense of the right of American fishery; welcomes the new era of organized labor; commends the Democratic members of the Legislature for securing the passage of various acts in the interest of labor during the last legislature; opposes the importation of foreign labor to compete with American labor; sends a sympathetic greeting to Parnell, and deplores the death of such men as McClellan, Hendricks, Hancock and Tilden.

The total number of failures in the United States and Canada during the three months ending Sep. 30 was 1,902, against 1,773 in the third quarter of 1887, a decrease of 341. The liabilities amount to $27,500,000, against $23,583,000 in the corresponding quarter of 1887.

Texas fever in an ugly form prevails near Decatur, Ill. The quarantine established at the Chicago distilleries over infected cattle coots the lives of from twenty to forty a day, and a special disbursing agent has been ordered on from Washington. It is probable that the troubled cattle will be put to the practice of feeding cows at distilleries.

A series of nine Italian ball games has been arranged between the Chicago and the Lorin Clubs for the championship of the world.

All of the Northwestern roads will reduce passenger fares to three cents per mile Oct. 15.

THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK.
BEEVES.....	$4.00	@ 5.00
SHEEP.....	3.75	@ 4.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red.....	.89	@ .90
CORN—No. 2.....	.47	@ .48
OATS—White.....	.32	@ .33
PORK—New Mess.....	10.00	@ 10.25
CHICAGO.
BEEVES—Choice to Prime Steers	5.00	@ 5.50
Good Shipping.....	4.00	@ 4.75
COMMON.....	3.00	@ 3.75
HOGS—Shipping Grades.....	4.35	@ 4.50
FLOUR—Extra Spring.....	4.25	@ 4.75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red.....	.87	@ .88
CORN—No. 2.....	.37	@ .38
OATS—No. 2.....	.25	@ .26
BUTTER—Choice Creamery.....	.22	@ .24
Fine Dairy.....	.16	@ .18
CHEESE—Full Cream, Cheddar.....	.10½	@ .11½
Full Cream, new.....	.11½	@ .12
EGGS—Fresh Packed.....	.17	@ .18
PORK—Mess.....	9.25	@ 9.50
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—Cash.....	.79	@ .79
CORN—No. 3.....	.37	@ .37½
OATS—No. 2.....	.26	@ .26½
RYE—No. 1.....	.48	@ .50
BARLEY—No. 2.....	.62	@ .63
TOLEDO.
WHEAT—No. 2.....	.87	@ .87½
CORN—No. 2.....	.39	@ .40
OATS—No. 2.....	.26	@ .27
DETROIT.
BEEF CATTLE.....	3.75	@ 3.75
SHEEP.....	3.00	@ 4.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red.....	3.04	@ 4.04
CORN—No. 2 Yellow.....	.40	@ .41
OATS—No. 2 White.....	.30	@ .30½
ST. LOUIS.
WHEAT—No. 2.....	.74	@ .75
CORN—No. 2.....	.34	@ .34½
OATS—No. 2.....	.24	@ .24½
PORK—Mess.....	9.00	@ 9.12½
CINCINNATI.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red.....	.86	@ .87
CORN—No. 2.....	.41	@ .41½
OATS—No. 2.....	.28	@ .29
RYE—No. 2.....	.50	@ .51
PORK—Mess.....	9.50	@ 9.75
BUFFALO.
WHEAT—No. 1 Hard.....	.92	@ .93
CORN—No. 2.....	.43	@ .44
OATS—No. 2 Mixed.....	.30	@ .31
BUFFALO.
BEEF CATTLE.....	3.25	@ 5.00
SHEEP.....	3.50	@ 4.00
SWINE.....	4.00	@ 4.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Mixed.....	.90	@ .91
CORN—No. 2.....	.43	@ .44
OATS—No. 2.....	.32	@ .32½
EAST LIBERTY.
CATTLE—Best.....	4.75	@ 5.00
Common.....	3.25	@ 4.50
HOGS.....	3.87	@ 4.00
SHEEP.....	3.75	@ 4.50

THE NATIONAL GAME.

The Struggle for the Base-Ball Championship Drawing to a Close.

The Chicago and St. Louis Clubs the Winners in Their Respective Leagues.

(Chicago correspondence.)

The Chicago still hold the lead in the race for the League pennant, and that they will be the champions of 1886 is an assured fact. The New Yorks and Philadelphias are making just as close a race for the third place as the two leaders did for first place.

The Detroits and St. Louis are also engaged in a lively contest for fifth position, with chances in favor of Boston, who now holds that place.

Following we give the schedule of the League and American Association, and some interesting records of League clubs:

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

Clubs.	Games won.	Games lost.
Chicago.....	77	27
Detroit.....	72	31
New York.....	59	38
Philadelphia.....	59	38
Boston.....	49	48
St. Louis.....	46	51
Kansas City.....	29	70
Washington.....	21	78

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION.

Clubs.	Won.	Lost.
St. Louis.....	80	41
Pittsburg.....	71	40
Baltimore.....	67	45
Louisville.....	65	46
Cincinnati.....	63	47
Brooklyn.....	61	49
Metropolitan.....	47	62
Athletic.....	41	68

WHITEWASHES.

The record of the games shows the opponents made nothing are as follows.

Chicago, 11; Kansas City, 0.
At Detroit.
Detroit, 10; New York, 0.
Detroit, 1; Philadelphia, 0.
Detroit, 2; Philadelphia, 0.
Detroit, 2; Philadelphia, 0.
Detroit, 2; Philadelphia, 0.
Chicago, 4; Detroit, 0.
At St. Louis.
Kansas City, 2; St. Louis, 0.
St. Louis, 5; Boston, 0.
St. Louis, 6; Kansas City, 0.
Washington, 2; St. Louis, 0.
Philadelphia, 1; St. Louis, 0.
Chicago, 1; St. Louis, 0.
St. Louis, 5; Kansas City, 0.
St. Louis, 5; Kansas City, 0.
At Kansas City.
Philadelphia, 1; Kansas City, 0.
Kansas City, 7; Washington, 0.
Philadelphia, 3; Kansas City, 0.
At Philadelphia.
Philadelphia, 3; Chicago, 0.
Detroit, 3; Philadelphia, 0.
Philadelphia, 1; St. Louis, 0.
Philadelphia, 8; Washington, 0.
Philadelphia, 7; Washington, 0.
Philadelphia, 5; Washington, 0.
At New York.
Chicago, 4; New York, 0.
New York, 3; Boston, 0.
Philadelphia, 4; New York, 0.
New York, 8; St. Louis, 0.
Washington, 5; New York, 0.
New York, 6; Washington, 0.
Chicago, 20; Washington, 0.
Detroit, 9; Washington, 0.
Kansas City, 2; Washington, 0.
Detroit, 9; Washington, 0.
Chicago, 11; Washington, 0.

Notes of the Game.

In Philadelphia the game pitching is called the "Hubbelbaw."

The St. Louis Browns and Maroons will play a full series at home, and usually take 60 per cent. and the lower 40 per cent.

The Chicagos won every game at home in August, and lost only one game, for which a remarkable achievement, equaled only by the St. Louis Browns.

GLASSCOCK's success with the St. Louis Club makes Dunlap's reputation as a captain sink into oblivion. Glasscock seems to have one faculty that Dunlap lacks—personal magnetism.

Detroit is the only thing no one can stop. Anyone much a cultivated bump on a Chicago Club enters the field they do so at a club and not as mere individual players.

Twice in the regular season it goes without saying that between the St. Louis Browns, champions of the American Association and the Chicagos, champions of the National League, for the championship of the world. The games are to be played in Chicago and St. Louis.

BOSTON CONNOR, the big foot lineman of the New Yorks recently achieved the feat of having kicked a ball over the twenty-foot high right field fence at Boston. He landed it in the lot across Oak Grove and Seventh streets, 450 feet from the home plate. This is the first time the feat has ever been accomplished, and it can not be repeated for a long time to come. It was undoubtedly the biggest lift of the season in the United States, and was made off Radbourn, of the Bostons.

GENERAL ARTHUR.

The Ex-President Said to Be Fatally Ill.

(Special from Washington.)

A gentleman who had a high position under President Arthur's administration, and who recently visited him at New York, says that, while there is nothing definitely known of his malady, the impression is that he is suffering from a disease of the kidneys which is fatal. He expect to report The progress of the disease has hitherto been somewhat stayed by medical treatment and careful nursing, but there is no one result that is expected, or can be expected, and that result is fatal. This gentleman says that those who are the most intimate with the ex-President are not fearful that the ex-President can long live. It is quite certain that he has not been benefitted by his visit to New Mexico as had been hoped

NO MORE HUMBUG.

The Friends of Commercial Freedom Are Waking Up at Last.

A Vigorous War to Be Waged Against the Atrocious "Protective System."

(From the Chicago Times.)

There are hopeful signs that the sincere adversaries of commercial slavery have about come to the resolution not to stand any more feelings. Among these signs is an address recently issued by the American Free-Trade League—a national organization with a branch in every Congressional district—against "excessive and unconscionable profits" exacted by the friends of protectionism.

Why the friends of commercial freedom should take a new departure at this juncture needs no explanation. During more than a decade they have been listening to the stern voices of Monopoly that issued periodically promised, before the election, to reform our atrocious tariff system, and after the election have taken their promises. The plan that they tried to perform them, but were prevented by an adverse action of their own party name, under the leadership of the foremost living champion of the system. Arthur has been the unswerving mockery of the just expectations of all that put trust in their promises. Year after year, during tariff reform, they entered gallantly into the contest against the most implacable enemies of tariff reform, seemed there as more than half in earnest, and, when the contest was over, they slunk back to their accustomed place, with the same promised and promised purpose. It is probably evident that the combination of commerce and industry from a tariff system that is a burden to the producer and a robbery of the consumer, has demonstrated that it has filled the expectation imagined by its inventors, namely, that it would enrich them and that it has not afforded protection to American labor. Will pay to see a nation or will we as a nation lose in prosperity by it? Is the criterion of expediency. Jeremiah by results our conditions now, and since 1873, shows that it has not profited us as a nation. The high set prosperity for the greatest number is the highest law of right to it. As applied, the theory of protection has given prosperity to less than 100,000 men out of 58,000,000. The tariff laws of America have given a monopoly of the American market to a small knot of men, who have, by reason of their small proportion, afforded ample degree of protection to American labor.

It is in portions of New England and from Pennsylvania, and perhaps half a dozen other restricted areas of industry, that the horrors of a debauched labor are most conspicuous. It is there that labor that has impacted the most degraded labor the sewer of Europe and Hong Kong could supply, and it is from these regions that the most pitiful cries of suffering, overworked poor. This is the sort of protection of the tariff monopoly has afforded to American labor. Contrast the American laborer of 1860 with the American laborer of 1886. Contrast shown a frightful deterioration in privileges, in ambition, in vigor, and in manhood. American labor has been placed to a lesser class from a class of small proprietors, and it has brought to pay by a lofty competition with European chinaboy and the very man who has been invested with power to tax the entire American people, for his individual benefit.

The American laborer in the industries protected by our tariff laws is given just as little wages as he can, by pinching and pinching, live upon, and just a penny more. In this respect he is exactly on a par with the Indian ryot, a Russian serf, or an Italian lazzarone. No matter what the figure may be, and no matter how little higher than the wages paid in Germany, all is taken away from him by the slope of advanced prices, ranging from twenty-five to seventy-five per cent., when the tariff admits the foreign goods, and no change in advance of what the articles are worth. I some time ago called the attention of the Sewing Machine Company to will make here in England for $25, and made an offer of forty per cent., while it charged a person living in Massachusetts, at the time that has created the American laborer so beggary and blind revolution, and the one the people to poverty. We would ask any one who does not believe the American laborer comprehends this phase of the tariff question to go among the sewing machine and mills of Indianapolis and converse with the operatives and employers. He will learn that the tariff laws are exactly what such a cultivated bump on a Chicago Club enters the field they do so at a club and not as mine individual players.

Twice in the regular season it goes without saying that between the St. Louis Browns, champions of the American Association and the Chicagos, champions of the National League, for the championship of the world. The games are to be played in Chicago and St. Louis.

BOSTON CONNOR, the big foot lineman of the New Yorks recently achieved the feat of having kicked a ball over the twenty-foot high right field fence at Boston. He landed it in the lot across Oak Grove and Seventh streets, 450 feet from the home plate. This is the first time the feat has ever been accomplished, and it can not be repeated for a long time to come. It was undoubtedly the biggest lift of the season in the United States, and was made off of Radbourn, of the Bostons.

GENERAL ARTHUR.

The Ex-President Said to Be Fatally Ill.

(Special from Washington.)

A gentleman who had a high position under President Arthur's administration, and who recently visited him at New York, says that, while there is nothing definitely known of his malady, the impression is that he is suffering from a disease of the kidneys which is fatal. He expect to report The progress of the disease has hitherto been somewhat stayed by medical treatment and careful nursing, but there is no one result that is expected, or can be expected, and that result is fatal. This gentleman says that those who are the most intimate with the ex-President are not fearful that the ex-President can long live. It is quite certain that he has not been benefitted by his visit to New Mexico as had been hoped

POLITICS.

The Knights of Labor Actively at Work in the Political Field, Here and There.

And They Will Probably Upset Many a Calculation—Political Notes and News.

Workingmen Taking Political Action.

The working men throughout the country are talking a great deal about political action, and will no doubt do better than they have done heretofore in that direction. The 30,000 signatures in favor of Henry George's candidacy for Mayor of New York have been secured, a convention has nominated him, and his friends and backers are making a vigorous canvass.

A cigarmaker and Greenbacker have been nominated for Congress at Albany, N. Y. The New York State Committee of the Greenback party met at Albany and nominated a cabinmaker for Judge of the Court of Appeals. Gideon J. Tucker is their choice. The New Hampshire Greenback State Convention, and with the Labor Party of the State, in convention, at Manchester. The labor men and the temperance people at Toronto will try to form a third party. The workingmen of Allegheny County, Pa., are arranging to take a hand in politics. A full labor ticket will be put in the field at Evansville, Ind. The industrial labor party of Baltimore has put up a ticket for city councils. A labor convention (?) Richmond has nominated the Danish Socialist, Jacob Jensen, for Congress. In some districts the Greenbackers and Republicans have fused, and in others the Greenbackers and Democrats have joined hands. The Petersburg (Va.) Republicans have nominated a knight of labor for Congress. The Milwaukee Knights expect to elect members of their order to the Legislature. A labor convention was held at Fort Worth, Texas, at which a called the Anti-Monopoly party. The Greenbackers and Democrats have joined hands in the First, Third, and Fifth Districts of Kansas, and Jesse Harper is working the State. The farmers and wage workers around Minneapolis are working on the same platform. A Knight of Labor has been nominated for Congress in Muscatine, Iowa, and will be supported by the Republicans. Ten Richmond delegates at Trenton will be run for the New Jersey Legislature. The Democrats and Knights of Labor will unite on a preacher in the Salem, Mass., district. It is estimated that the labor organizations of New York will cast 75,000 votes, and Henry George may probably be elected Mayor.

Congressional Nominations.

Ninth Illinois District, E. E. Payson, Republican; Tenth Missouri, M. J. Hatchett, Labor Party; Twelfth Pennsylvania, John Lynch, Democrat; Fifth Illinois, Charles Whedon, Prohibitionist; Third Louisiana, E. J. Gay, Democrat; First Pennsylvania, H. H. Bonham, republican; Second Pennsylvania, Charles O'Neill, Republican; Fourth Missouri, John R. Kelley, Republican; Fifth Pennsylvania, A. C. Harper, Republican; Sixth Maryland, Victor Bonham, Democrat; Sixth Maryland, William Wasner, Republican; Second Maryland, James Lancil; Fifth Missouri, William Wasner, Republican; Ninth New Jersey, George Hires, Republican; First Maryland, Thomas S. Hodson, Republican; Second Maryland, W. M. Mayne, Republican; Fourth Maryland, W. M. Mayne, Republican; Fifth Pennsylvania, C. Tuck, Republican; Seventh New York, J. F. Pinckney, Democrat; First Connecticut, J. B. Buck, Republican; First Wisconsin, L. B. Cassell, Republican; Fifth Michigan, H. A. Robinson, Republican and Labor; Ninth Indiana, R. P. Hunt, Democrat; Eleventh Michigan, S. C. Moffat, Republican; Third Georgia, Allen D. Candler, Democrat; Seventh Wisconsin, S. N. Dickinson, Republican; First Nebraska, Charles Green, Republican; Second Minnesota, O. P. Baldwin, Democrat and farmers; Twenty-first Pennsylvania, G. T. Rafferty, Democrat; Seventh Mississippi, John R. Allen, Democrat; Third Iowa, J. C. Cook, Democrat; Fourth Iowa, Jonathan Bell, Democrat; Eleventh Texas, S. W. T. Lanham, Democrat; Fourth Alabama, J. F. Rudolph, Democrat; Eighth Illinois, Republican; Ninth Illinois, Lorenzo Brentano, Democrat; Third Indiana, J. K. Marsh, Democrat; Dakota Territory, O. S. Gifford, Republican; Fifth Culpeper (Va.) district, W. H. F. Lee, Democrat.

Politics Down in Georgia.

(New York special.)

Gen. Gordon, the Democratic candidate for Governor of Georgia, is in New York on a flying visit. In response to an inquiry he said: "Politics in Georgia are complicated. "We have many. We are pending the six chief specials in Georgia of having only one candidate for Governor. So far it seems that the one we have is acceptable to but parties. There is no particular excitement among us now, and our people are paying the strictest attention to their respective interests. Our people are natural political born, but the necessities of our new conditions have made them pay more attention to their planting and less to their interests. The Democrats are all for Cleveland."

Gen. Beauregard on Mr. Cleveland.

Gen. G. T. Beauregard of New Orleans, says in a New York letter to a reporter "Mr. Cleveland appears to be making a very strong bid for the Democratic vote, and in popularity to force his term expires. He has been unprejudiced by the Republican Senate in making removals. Civil service reform is a name that will fit, but it is high on behalf of the people who are in should be let have their turn. The spoils system is as a standing candidate. Meanwhile Stanley, Gibbon, Roger, and Potter have all been signed, and will leave room to have the same consideration that he is safe for the next. Wilson's opponent at was only proposed to provide the place in the other office, who retires him, "early in October. After such postponement it would be a misfortune on Wilson to put a him over an outrage which Irrident Cleveland is not going to commit to please a man, just cutting on Wilson in the color Co. of the United States army, and has the highest military and national record of all the candidates. It would be a lasting wrong should a Just Cleveland Wilson be passed over, for it is his last chance, as he will be retired early on a number.

MICHIGAN AFFAIRS.

—Emmet County will this fall erect a large jail building.

—A Shelby firm is making 30,000 fishpoles for a Grand Rapids party.

—Nearly a mile of concrete walk has been laid in Nashville since June 1st.

—A reading-room has been established by the temperance ladies of Bronson.

—A Deerfield Center patriarch is accused of beating his 76-year-old wife with a club.

—The gate receipts at the Jackson Prison during the fair week amounted to $4,185.

—Two named Negro is on trial in Detroit for selling ice cut at the mouth of a sewer.

—Bronson Baptists have decided not to engage a minister until their church is out of debt.

—Improvements costing $1,500 are being made on the First Baptist Church at Flint.

—Jacob Hutchins, a pioneer at Jackson, the principal witness in the Crouch murder trials, died at the age of 82.

—Mrs. Sarah Campbell celebrated her 100th birthday last week at the house of her daughter, Mrs. Beckwith, near Jackson.

—Edward Sellers died at Jackson of heart disease. He was conductor on the Michigan Central Railroad for thirty-six years.

—At a hunting match at Springport between two parties of sportsmen, eight bushels of chipmunks and red squirrels were killed.

—A tooth measuring three inches in circumference was taken from a horse was recently removed from the throat of a horse at Jackson.

—Saith Rudd, of Menlon, is the owner of a rifle covered with gold and silver that was once carried by that prince of backwoodsmen, Davy Crockett.

—Mrs. John Kings, of Ludington, owns a Siberian crab-apple tree which has the second crop of fruit of this year on its branches and is also in bloom for the third time this season.

—Hon. P. M. Dunshee, a much-respected citizen of Ludington, died there recently. He moved to Ludington, then Pere Marquette, in 1853, and was a pioneer business man of that place.

—A Sa. Iowa City man has a pear tree on which there are fruit, blossoms, and tender green leaves. While other fruit trees frequently blossom in the fall, it is claimed that this is very rare for a pear tree.

—An old veteran was discharged from the Soldiers' Home at Grand Rapids the other day, and given a ticket of transportation to Houghton, Upper Peninsula. Instead of using it he sold it to a sculper, and is now under arrest.

—Albert Stookey, a Pulaski farmer, aged 70 years, recently cut and put up 101 shocks of corn on a lot, with 31 hills in each shock, making a total of 3,030 hills in one day, and had to quit work before night on account of the rain, at that.

—Charles Kendall, aged 62, and a member of one of the oldest and most respected families in Grand Rapids, committed by shooting himself in the head. He stood before a mirror in his sister's house and fired the shot. He was a sufferer from dyspepsia.

A hog belonging to William Carpenter, of Hudson, was found fast between two stone, twenty-three days after it had mysteriously disappeared. During its imprisonment without food its weight had gone from 200 pounds to seventy-five pounds.

—Mrs. Bentley, of Lansing, sat on a trunk at the side of her son while the young man toyed with a loaded thirty-two caliber revolver. Young Bentley was endeavoring to sell the revolver to a friend, and to convince him of its many admirable qualities he pointed it downward and began to slow the action of the cylinder. There was a sharp report, and Mrs. Bently went to the floor in a very uncomfortable heap, she in the knee. The ball struck the large bone of the knee and glanced off, leaving a painful but probably not serious wound. The chamber containing the discharged cartridge was only

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. S. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

DEMOCRATIC NOMINATIONS.

State Ticket.

For Governor—
GEORGE L. YAPLE, of St. Joseph.

For Lieutenant-Governor—
SOLOMON S. CURRY, of Marquette.

For Secretary of State—
PHILLIP R. WACHTEL, of Emmet.

For State Treasurer—
WILLIAM G. BEARD, of Bay.

For Auditor-General—
JUDSON S. FARRAR, of Macomb.

For Attorney General—
JOHN C. DONNELY, of Wayne.

For Commissioner of State Land Office—
ALONZO T. FRIZBIE, of Livingston.

For Superintendent of Public Instruction—
DAVID PARSONS, of Wayne.

For Member of State Board of Education—
JEROME W. TUNNICLIFF, of Shiawassee.

Congressional Ticket.

For Representative in Congress, Ninth District
LYMAN G. MASON, of Muskegon.

Legislative Ticket.

For Representative in the State Legislature, Charlevoix District.

County Ticket.

For Sheriff—
DANIEL B. JERRE'S, of South Arm.

For County Clerk—
WILLIAM F. PALMITER, of South Arm.

For County Treasurer—
ORLANDO BLAIR, of South Arm.

For Register of Deeds—
ELISHA H. SHEPARD, of Evangeline.

For Prosecuting Attorney—
MILTON M. BURNHAM, of South Arm.

For Circuit Court Commissioner—
ARTHUR E. MARTIN, of Evangeline.

For County Surveyor—
SIDNEY HAYDEN, of Eveline.

For Coroners—
ORVILLE D. HILTON, of Norwood.
ROBERT FINDLAY, of Boyne Valley.

Democratic Platform.

Resolved, That the democracy of Michigan in convention assembled, sincerely deplore the untimely death of the patriotic statesmen and national leaders of the Republic, Hendricks in Seymour, Geo. H. Pendleton in Hamilton, Thos. A. Hendricks and Samuel J. Tilden. Their illustrious services may serve as an example of those upon whom shall devolve the responsibilities of leadership.

Resolved, That the administration of Grover Cleveland, by its vigor and thoroughness, by the precedence it has given to considerations affecting public service over those merely partisan, by its practical denial of the doctrine that "to the victors belong the spoils of victory," by the discouragement it has given to seeking through political intrigues, by its exposure to preserve the land for actual settlers, by restoring by practical administration the constitutional rights of the states, has won the confidence of the people and the enlightened judgment and approval of all honest people.

Resolved, That though more than twenty years have elapsed since the war, we should not forget that a free soldier of that gigantic and patriotic army that preserved to us a united and prosperous country, is still, by reason of his long disability, the result of their privations and hardships, and we believe the general government should do justly with them and that liberal pensions should be granted to wounded and disabled soldiers, and to give to a dependent people of such a war, the care of a liberal pension.

Resolved, That we favor the adoption of measures providing for the health and safety of those engaged in mining, manufacturing, and building industries, and for indemnification to those injured thereby receiving injuries through lack of proper safeguards.

Resolved, That we favor the repeal of all laws in Michigan under which monopolies have been fostered and protected.

Phillip B. Wachtel, democratic nominee for secretary of state, is making an active canvass of the state, and finds scores and hundreds of friends wherever he goes. Mr. Wachtel is a young man, vigorous, energetic and enterprising and is the recognized leader of the democracy of Emmet county. By his consistent, gentlemanly and uncompromising attitude in his own county, he has made a host of friends among his republican neighbors. There is no doubt whatever of his election by a handsome majority, as he is well and favorably known all over the state, and it is equally as certain, that his business capacity will enable him to perform the functions of his office satisfactorily to the public.

THE COUNTY TICKET.

The campaign is getting to an interesting point, and some hard work will be done in the next two weeks. Every man on the fusion ticket is known to be capable of filling the office for which he is named.

Mr. Dan. Jerrue, candidate for sheriff, has been among the most active business men in the upbuilding of the county and one of the most active of the young democracy of South Arm township. He is in every respect qualified to fill the office for which he is named.

W. F. Palmiter, for clerk, has been before the people, and is well known. His integrity and competency are unquestioned.

Orlando Blair has made a competent and obliging county treasurer, and the people cannot do better than return him to the office for another term.

E. H. Shepard will undertake to keep the books of the register of deeds in their proper condition. All acquainted with Mr. Shepard as a business man, know that he is fully competent to conduct the business of the office with precision and satisfaction to the public.

M. M. Burnham declines to run as prosecuting attorney, and the committee will name a man for the place at the proper time.

A. E. Martin will make a careful, conscientious circuit court commissioner, and his papers, reports, etc., will be clean, legible, and always ready.

The balance of the ticket will fill their respective places with credit to themselves and the county.

MR. NOBLE DECLINES.

Mr. Edwin S. Noble, of Elk Rapids, whom the democrats and greenbackers nominated for representative in the legislature, has written a letter to the committee, declining the nomination on account of business arrangements and necessities, from which we take the following: "My business arrangements are of such a nature that it is absolutely impossible for me to accept. Had they been of such a character as to admit change, I certainly would have made the canvass as lively for our political opponents as possible. As it is, I must positively decline." We are not yet advised as to what the committee will do to fill the vacancy thus caused on the ticket.

Rev. C. I. Deyo on Yaple's Creed.

Petoskey, Sept. 18, 1886.

To the Editor of the Detroit Free Press.

As the republican press seems determined to circulate the story that Hon. Geo. L. Yaple is an atheist, in the interest of his opponent, Hon. Geo. S. Ferry, I wish to say that perhaps I am as well versed in Mr. Yaple's religious views as anyone outside of his own family, having been pastor of a church in Mendon for five years during which time he was a regular attendant upon my services. Nearly a year he taught a Bible class in my Sunday school, composed of intelligent people, to whom he endeavored to prove the harmony of the book of Genesis with the facts of science. While Mr. Yaple is not a member of any church, he is a firm believer in God, immortality and the truths of Christianity, exclusive of the mean and speculative dogmas of men. He is no more of an atheist or infidel than Thomas, Fred. Swing and other liberal minds of this thinking age. He is equally an admirer of the eloquence and independent thought of Ingersoll, Joseph Cook, Talmage and all other brilliant thinkers.

It is to be hoped that the intelligent people of Michigan, irrespective of party, are not quite ready to demand an unqualified indorsement of all the conflicting creeds of the churches before one is prepared to occupy the executive chair of our favored peninsula.

C. I. DEYO,
Pastor Christian Church, Oxford Mich.

S. S. Curry.

There is not a man on the state ticket who is more deserving of the votes of workingmen than Hon. S. S. Curry, of Ishpeming, who is named for lieutenant governor. When the workingmen of the upper peninsula manifested a purpose to join the knights of labor, the republican nominees, true to the aristocratic and monopolistic bent of the party, obeyed. They regarded the indication of the laborers to organize as dangerous. But not so with democrat Sol Curry. Although now a man of wealth and a large employer of men, he once had been poor and worked for his daily bread. He sympathised with his race, and as parsimonious as that of Uncle Tobey's, he swore his men should organize if they wanted to do so and he would help them. He next proceeded to erect a suitable hall for the meetings of knights of labor. That is the kind of a man Sol Curry is. He is a true American, and of course a true Jeffersonian democrat.—Leader

Only 25 Cents
buys a perfect remedy for sour stomach, diarrhœa, worms, convulsions, feverishness, and loss of sleep. Try it. Dr. Price's Maple Pain Ill effectually relieves external and internal pains. Sold by Perry Wood and Dr. G. W. Crouter's.

A GRAND PLAZA.

Joaquin Miller, in his gossipy letters of the Chicago Times, says: The Grand Plaza of Mexico City is probably the most historic spot in America. Quebec, with the blood of Montcalm and Wolfe and Montgomery and Arnold on her storied stones, appeals to us strangely. But here on this spot stood the temple to the sun, on whose summit Cortez saw, from the deck of his brigantine, sixty of his valiant soldiers sacrificed to the great stone idol, now in yonder museum. Here he imprisoned Montezuma; here he found the seaboard chamber, with its heaps and heaps of gold and precious stones. Here he slew the six hundred Aztec nobles, here, and hereabout, he and his Spanish soldiers slew more than two hundred thousand of these helpless and docile little brown Aztecs! And here, after he had destroyed the old city entirely and built a new one and died, was found, a century after, the marvelous "calendar stone," the Aztec almanac. And here was found the "sacrifice stone" that surmounted the temple to the sun.

When you read in the guide-book that this stone weighs twenty-five tons, and when you see that the calendar stone, with its thousands of wonderful figures, is nearly ten feet across, then, and then only, are you ready to read Prescott. And you are ready, too, to believe all that he has to tell you of the terrible scenes that have taken place on this Grand plaza.

It was only a little time ago that the gardener—this plaza was made a beautiful garden by Maximilian—dug up, or rather laid bare, with his little, six-inch spade, the nose of an idol. The government was notified—these same laws exist here as in Italy to govern such cases—and inspection followed.

The result was, three huge idols—each weighing at least a ton, I would say—were unearthed, and are now lying on their backs in the museum, awaiting their turn to be set on their feet. They had been badly battered and badly burned by Cortez in his attempt to destroy them. But, like the "calendar stone," as we call the "sacrifice stone," they were simply too big for his apparent cavaliers to batter to pieces. And so holes were dug and the hideous things tumbled in head first. Let us glance at the Mexican gardener and see what we can make of him. In the first place, I demand that you shall concede that he is the most industrious little being that ever was born. They, these Aztec toilers, remind one of ants. They are just as busy, and apparently as helpless as incapable.

Look at this one mowing the lawn. He is down on his knees, his bare, brown knees, and is clutching little handfuls of grass in his left hand. In his right hand he has a little knife, a piece of the size of a small butcher-knife. He saws off a handful of grass with this piece of tin, and puts it in his apron.

Another has the vast expanse of lawn in Mexico. Shade of the McCormick reaper!

After the bare-legged little brown man with the apron and piece of tin, comes another bare-legged little brown man. This one has a little tin can with a hole in the bottom. See how he holds a finger on the hole at the bottom of the tin can! There is water in the tin can. Now he takes his finger away, and now a little stream of water runs down, and as he hops up the little quick quick and swings it about over the clipt grass the water runs out, and the plot of grass is watered! It takes a hundred bare-legged Aztecs so do nothing. The little fellows trimming trees, flowers, or whatever they are about, seem to be almost idiots in their helpless inability to do the work of doing things. Yet this is what the Spaniards taught them to do. And I reckon they do not dare to think of doing otherwise. Soul and body they are still slaves.

Flowers here for the quiet little gardeners to work at? Yes. I found sunflowers as tall as hollyhocks, and hollyhocks of several kinds and colors, quite as high and in full flower. Yes, insects, birds and bees and butterflies in full bloom all the year through for the busy patient, and silent little people in patter over.

Series Acquaintances.

Everywhere throughout Switzerland the traveler finds people who wish to sell him something, or who continually volunteer to do something for which they wish him to pay. As he drives along the country roads, little girls throw bunches of wild flowers into his carriage and then run by his side expecting some money in return. By the roadside, in the most lonely places, he will find women and girls sitting behind little tables on which they are making lace, which with a collection of tiny Swiss chalets, and articles of carved wood, they are eager to sell. When the road passes near a precipitous mountainside, he will find a man with a long Alpine horn, who awakens the echoes and expects some pennies. At another place a fenced pathway leads into a little wood and a notice informs him that he may enter for a fee and get a view of the Black Falls for four cents.

When I was at Grindelwald, a little village among the higher Alps, I went part way up a mountain, to visit a glacier. In the one which I visited, a long tunnel had been cut, and this led me finally to a grotto known as the very heart of the glacier and called the Ice Grotto. There were lamps placed along it, by which this frigid passage was dimly lighted. The walls and roof of the tunnel were transparent for a considerable distance, and I could look into the very substance of the clear blue ice around me. I followed my guide to the end of the tunnel, and into the grotto, which was lighted by a single lamp. The moment I set foot inside of this wonderful chamber, with walls, roof, and floor of purest ice, I heard a queer tinkling and thumping in one corner, and looking there, I saw two old women, each placing an ear to a doleful zither. They looked like two horrible old witches of the ice. Of course I knew that they were playing for my benefit, and I wondered if they always sat there in that enormous refrigerator, waiting for the visitors who might enter and give them a few centimes in return for their mournful strumming. But when I went again, I found that the old women soon followed, and I suppose they go into the glacier and ensconce themselves in their frigid retreat, whenever they see a tourist coming up the mountainside.—Frank R. Stockton, in St. Nicholas for April.

The Great Earthquake of Scio.

Among the more recent earthquakes was the one that destroyed most of the Island of Scio. On the 3d of April, 1881, about an hour and forty minutes after noon, the city of Scio and thirty or forty villages in the southern part of the island were disturbed with a violent trepidation. The shaken and cracked houses were still standing, when, a few minutes afterward, a second shock, equally violent, came on, and finished the work of the first. With it the thousand persons were buried under their rubbish. A little while afterward four thousand other persons were killed. Hardly had the people recovered from the terror of one shock, than others came on, causing general panic and stupor. Hardly a quarter of an hour would pass without a new shock, and the wounded who had succeeded in extricating themselves from the rubbish were buried in it again. "Death," said an eye-witness, "seemed to pursue its victims with fury. In less than an hour Scio was an utter ruin." The agitations of the ground continued, with only short interruptions, for a year. During 1882 and 1883 Scio suffered from frequent tremors, sometimes experienced as many as five times in a day. Mitylene and Smyrna were also similarly affected, but none of the shocks were strong enough to cause great anxiety. They were, as it were, the subterranean preparation for the catastrophe that was to burst out a few months afterward.—From "A Study of Recent Earthquakes," by M. A. Daubree, in Popular Science Monthly for October.

Excitement in Texas.

Great excitement has been caused in the vicinity of Paris Texas by the remarkable recovery of Mr. R. H. Coles who was so broken he could not turn in bed or raise his head; everybody said he was dying of consumption. A trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery was sent him. Finding relief he bought a large bottle and a box of Dr. King's New Life Pills; by the time he had taken two boxes he was well and had gained in flesh twenty pounds. Trial bottles of this great discovery for consumption free at Dr. G. W. Crouter's.

AYER'S Sugar-Coated Cathartic PILLS.

If the Liver becomes torpid, if the bowels are constipated, or if the stomach fails to perform its functions properly, use Ayer's Pills. They are invaluable.

For some years I was a victim to Liver Complaint, in consequence of which I suffered from General Debility and Indigestion. A few boxes of Ayer's Pills restored me to perfect health.—W. T. Brightsey, Henderson, W. Va.

For years I have relied more upon Ayer's Pills than anything else.—

Regulate

my bowels. I love Pills as well as eating, and do their work thoroughly. I have used them with good effect, in cases of Rheumatism, Kidney Trouble, and Dyspepsia.—G. F. Miller, Attleborough, Mass.

Ayer's Pills cured me of Stomach and Liver troubles, from which I had suffered for years. I consider them the best pills made, and would not be without them.—Morris Gates, Dowansville, N. Y.

I was attacked with Bilious Fever, which was followed by Jaundice, and was so dangerously ill that my friends despaired of my recovery. I commenced taking Ayer's Pills, and so soon regained my customary strength and vigor.—John C. Pattison, Lowell, Nebraska.

Last spring I suffered greatly from Constipation, brought on my side. In spite of every effort to overcome this complaint, it became so obstinate that I thought nothing raw. I was troubled, at the same time, with Indigestion, and a decreasing pains in

The Bowels.

By the advice of a friend I began taking Ayer's Pills. In a short time I was free from pain, my food digested properly, the bowels to act regularly, and I commenced healing. I have since used Ayer's Pills, and am cured.—Daniel D. White, Atlanta, Ga.

I have long used Ayer's Pills, in my family, and believe them to be the best pills made.—S. C. Durfee, Dracut, Mass.

My wife and little girl were taken with Dysentery a few days ago, and I at once began giving them small doses of Ayer's Pills, thinking I would nip the disease in the bud. Instead of the disease becoming worse, in a short time bloody discharges stopped, all pain went away, and health was restored.—Theodore Eisling, Richmond, Va.

Ayer's Pills,

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Sold by all Dealers in Medicine.

THE GRAND RAPIDS

DAILY DEMOCRAT

Is the popular paper of Western Michigan. It contains all the associated press dispatches. Sent by mail at

50 CENTS A MONTH!

Only eleven and one-half cts. a week.

Try it.

The Circus

Commences Next Week.

I am going to receive a large invoice of CLOTHING, bought from one of the leading houses in Rochester, N. Y., which I am going to sell at Prices that will draw me trade from all around the county.

I think the best advertisement a merchant can have is to have his goods advertise him in Good Fits and Prices that cannot be beat.

GEO. W. MILLER.

THE EARTHQUAKE DID IT!

We mean we got a big bargain on all our cloak purchases. Our New York agent has taken advantage of the

GREAT EXCITEMENT!

And has written us that never before had we secured such an elegant line of

LADIES' MISSES' AND CHILDREN'S

CLOAKS

At Such LOW PRICES.

LADIES, DO NOT PURCHASE A CLOAK or Wrap of any kind until you have seen our goods and learned our prices, as they will soon be here.

A big line of everything in Dry Goods coming, wait for them.

Yours, very truly,

F. W. CRAINE & CO.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., Oct. 7, 1886.

PRODUCE MARKET.

Hay, loose, per ton $12; baled, $18
Corn, per bu. 65c.
Oats, 30 to 35c.
Feed, per ton, $22
Pork, $13 ₱ bbl, 7c ₱ lb.
Salt, ₱ bbl, $1.25
Syrup, "Gold Medal," 50c ₱ gal.
Canned Tomatoes, 12c.
Canned Peaches, 15 to 20c.
Coffee, Java and Mocca, 35c.
Farmer's Produce at Upright & Emrey's.

UPRIGHT EMREY & Co.

☞A splendid line of Boots and Shoes, for ladies and gents, boys, girls and misses. More on the road.

☞A magnificent lot of Dress Goods arrived recently, and we offer them at the very lowest figures.

☞Hosiery in all styles a specialty, for both ladies and gents—best line in town.

☞New Groceries received almost every day.

☞Both Dinner and Tea Sets in Belmont Ware at cost.

☞If you want some Choice But'er go to Upright & Emrey's.

☞"Jefferies" is the cheapest market in town. Everything clear down. Come back old friends and try it.

☞Clover and Timothy Seed, at L. D. Bartholomew & Co's.

Local Notes and News.

Will Covert is on the sick list.

Mrs. C. F. VanAuken is still improving.

Oil inspector Bontecou was in town twice this week.

Mrs. E. S. Hawkes is slowly improving in health.

Mrs. G. E. Bradbeen returned home to Kalamazoo, this week.

The board of supervisors will meet next week, at Bay Springs.

The Lawrence did not arrive last week till late Friday evening.

Mrs. G. E. Bradbeen returned home to Kalamazoo, this week.

The board of supervisors will meet next week, at Bay Springs.

The Lawrence did not arrive last week till late Friday evening.

Mr. Dan. Jerrue, candidate for sheriff, has been among the most active business men in the upbuilding of the county and one of the most active of the young democracy of South Arm township

PUBLIC LANDS.

Where Free Homes May Be Made —Areas of Unoccupied Land.

Variety of Soil and Climate—Territory Held in Reserve—State Lands.

There remains open to free settlement in the United States about 515,000,000 acres of Government land. Of this area about thirty-eight per cent, because of its mountainous character or barren surface, and will be permanently unavailable for the purposes of agriculture, or stock-raising, although as a timber preserve parts of it may serve as adjuncts of an equal area to compose farming sections. Of the remaining sixty-two per cent, fully one-half is not immediately available for settlement, owing to the swampy or arid nature of its soil. The swamp or marsh areas are comparatively small, and are rapidly disappearing as the timber is cut away and ditching and tiling appliances are brought into use. The arid lands, by reason of natural causes, will undoubtedly, in the few years hence they will be the most productive, and consequently the most valuable, districts in the Union. The arid area, so far as its availability goes, is an elastic quantity, the expansion of which is continued and increased by every new invention in the art of irrigation. Another factor, begun just west of the Mississippi River. Year by year the demonstration of actual cultivation has pushed it farther and farther to the southwest, and that it will soon be pushed beyond the Rocky Mountains is certain. To the poor homeseeker, however, this arid region is a present and a forbidding reality, and its area, except where bordering upon streams or bodies of water, is practically closed to settlement.

Stretching from the British possessions on the north to the Gulf of California at the south, and extending from the Mississippi valley to the Pacific coast, lies a vast section where cultivation, because of its uncertainty, is a questionable only through circumstances. Through this region, which is the home of the cattle and sheep ranges, irrigation, are, as a rule, taken in hand. Beyond these valleys artificial conditions are being overcome, but their extent is necessarily limited, and their cultivation costly. Outside of the valleys, the question of water is the problem of cultivation. Aqua's upon the availability of artesian wells, a question which has to be solved independently on every township of land, and on a possible, rather than a probable, foundation. There can be no question that artesian wells, where they can be secured, do remain but a moving slowly westward. Irrigation, moreover, barring the question of first cost, cannot be expanded so other than tentatively because of the control over the device by those who have the first possession of the water. Beyond, and to the west of the region where the Rio Grande and Arkansas rivers are located, the arid area can be acquired by the homeseeker, who is willing to take the risk of means of irrigation, and the payment of 1 per acre at the end of three years.

The entries of Government land were, in round numbers, 19,000,000 acres in 1883, 11,000,000 acres in 1884, and 15,000,000 acres in 1885, a total of 45,000,000 acres, including reserves, well over the million. The next two decades, in addition to the Government lands, action of the office to settlers at nominal per cent, ranging from six months to three years, and the entries in a certain area, including reserves, will reach a total within the next two decades. In addition to the Government lands, action

School Books and School Supplies

Our Prices are Rock Bottom, Lower than ever!

We have a full supply of every book used in the Charlevoix schools. Also a full supply for every school in the county.

Something New

In Scratch Books, Spelling Slips, Inks, Pens, Pencils, Rulers, Slates Chalks, School Registers, Etc.

The largest stock of Blank Books in the county!

☞ If you want to save money, call at

G. W. CROUTER'S Drug & Stationery Store.

For supplies in general.

Temperance Column.

Conducted by a Committee of the W. C. T. U.

OFFICERS.

President—Mrs. G. W. Jefferys.
First Vice President—Mrs. J. T. Cash.
Second Vice President—Mrs. L. E. Hodge.
Third Vice President—Mrs. R. Sedgwick.
Recording Secretary—Miss Julia Mason.
Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. L. E. Allen.
Treasurer—Mrs. C. J. Strang.

Resolution and Announcement From the W. C. T. U.

WHEREAS, the pastoral labors of Rev. J. T. Iddings and Rev. C. F. VanAnken, have just closed in Charlevoix, we, as a woman's christian temperance union, desire to express our appreciation of their work and interest for us, therefore Resolved, That we remember with gratitude the many addresses they have delivered for us. (J. T. Iddings has delivered thirteen in the three years.) We believe they have greatly helped in advancing public sentiment on the temperance question and hereby tender our thanks for the same. We are glad to know they still remain residents of Charlevoix, and shall hope to receive the same kindly interest and support we have had in the past.

The third annual meeting of 11th district W. C. T. U. will be held at Petoskey, commencing Tuesday evening, Oct. 12th, closing Thursday evening the 15th. Delegates are invited to be present from every township whether organized or not. Half fare on boats has been secured. Entertainment will be given by the ladies. Visitors share in all the privileges of the convention except voting.

MRS. R. A. CAMPBELL, Pres.
MRS. P. J. HOWARD, Cor. Sec.

Some California Products.

The annual review by a leading firm of this city of the trade in dried fruit and honey of California for 1885 contains many very interesting figures. It appears that the total dried-fruit product of the state last year reached 110,000,000 pounds of green fruit, equal to 5,500 carloads, and was of a value of $3,500,000. Of extracted honey the product was 1,500,000 pounds; comb honey, 750,000 pounds, and beeswax, 60,000 pounds, a pretty good showing for the bees. Raisins show an enormous increase, the total output of 1885 being estimated at 470,000 boxes of twenty pounds each, against 175,000 boxes in 1884. This indicates the rapid advance of what is destined to be a very important California industry, and which will keep in the country hundreds of thousands of dollars which now annually go to Spain and other Mediterranean countries. A decided improvement in packing and growing in 1885 was noticed, and is worthy of commendation. We are producing large and constantly increasing quantities of nuts, the product last year having been 1,250,000 pounds of walnuts, 318,000 of pecans and 1,050,000 of almonds. In sun-dried apples, peaches and plums, we also do well, the product having been: Apples, 1,070,000 pounds; peaches, 1,500,000, and plums, 1,027,000. We are gradually making headway on the foreign sale of prunes. Producers are beginning to grade and pack their prunes after the French method, and when this is universally done it is predicted that our prunes will take their proper place in the eastern markets. In 1885 there were imported into the United States 1,600,000 pounds of French, and 150,000 pounds of German prunes, or about the same as 1884. In the line of evaporated fruits less is being done than in sun-dried. The principal items for last year were: Apples, 750,000 pounds; apricots, 350,000 (sun-dried 300,000); peaches, 400,000. The crop of peaches (all kinds, dried) was three times what it was in 1884, and bids fair to be quadrupled in 1886. Evaporated apples doubled the product of 1884. Wine is largely increased, and other products in a lesser degree, a slight falling off in the peanuts being noted on account of low prices. All this is a most gratifying exhibit, and gives further evidence of the assured future of the state as a great fruit-producing country.—San Francisco Call.

The Old Roman's Tipple.

Senator Thurman and his amiable wife are receiving marked attentions from members of both parties. Mrs. Thurman goes everywhere that he goes. "Allen" and "Mary" are inseparable friends, and Mary takes pretty good care of Allen, too, in a quiet way. "Some time ago," said a close personal friend of the ex-senator, "Mr. Thurman was visiting here, when some friends came in for an hour's chat. In the course of the scance it was suggested something of a liquid nature might prove appropriate to the occasion. 'Well,' said old Allen G., with a sly look at Mary, 'I might take a little apollinaris. Mary has shut down on me lately and says I can't have anything else.' 'No indeed,' said Mary, 'nothing stronger for you just now, Allen.' So the apollinaris came up and was disposed of with rather wry faces, for it was not a beverage to which the gentlemen were much devoted.

"When the chat was ended old Allen walked down stairs with his guests and, glancing nervously about to see that 'Mary was not in hearing, said: 'Well, gentlemen, let's go down to the bar and get something to hold that apollinaris down.'"—Washington Correspondence to Columbus Dispatch.

The Verdict Unanimous

W. D. Salt, druggist, Bippus, Ind., testifies: I can recommend Electric Bitters, as the very best remedy. Every bottle sold has given relief in every case. One man took six bottles, and was cured of rheumatism of 10 years standing." Abraham Hare, druggist, Bellville, Ohio, affirms: The best selling medicine I have ever handled in my 20 years experience is Electric Bitters." Thousands of others have added their testimony so that the verdict is unanimous that Electric Bitters do cure all diseases of the Liver, Kidneys or Blood. Only a half a dollar a bottle at Dr. G. W. Crouter's drug store.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The Best Salve in the world for cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Dr. G. W. Crouter.

THE STAR

A Newspaper supporting the Principles of a Democratic Administration.

Published in New York City by

WILLIAM DORSHEIMER,
Editor and Proprietor.

Daily, Sunday, and Weekly Editions.

THE WEEKLY STAR,

A Sixteen-page Newspaper, issued every Wednesday.

A clean, pure, bright and interesting FAMILY PAPER.

It contains the latest news, down to the hour of going to press.

Agricultural, Market, Fashion, Household, Political, Financial and Commercial, Poetical, Humorous and Editorial

Departments, all under the direction of trained journalists of the highest ability. Its sixteen pages are filled with good, sound, pure reading, containing no dull or dry matter.

Original stories by distinguished American and foreign writers of fiction.

THE DAILY STAR,

THE DAILY STAR contains all the news of the day in an attractive form. Its special correspondence from all parts of the world, and its editorial comments, are a combination found in no other journal.

At Washington, Albany, and other news centres, its special corr spondents, specially retained by the THE STAR, furnish the latest news by telegraph.

Its Financial and Market Reviews are unusually full and reliable.

Special terms and extraordinary inducements to agents and canvassers.

Send for circulars.

TERMS OF THE WEEKLY STAR to SUBSCRIBERS, CITY OF PORTLAND IN THE UNITED STATES and Canada, outside the limits of New York City:

Per year	$1 25
Clubs of 10	10 00
Clubs of Fifteen (and one extra to organizer)	15 00

TERMS OF THE DAILY STAR to SUBSCRIBERS:

Every day for one year (including Sunday)	$7 00
Every day, six months, one year	3 50
Every day, six months, one year	2 00
Daily, without Sunday, six months	1 00

Address, THE STAR,
46 and 48 North William St., New York

WM. J. STEVENSON,
HORSE-SHOEING,

Wagon Shop,

BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture the celebrated "Jones" bolt wheel, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER BARTHOLOMEW & CO'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

☞ The OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale. 12

The above Eye-glass invented by the Johnston Optical Co. of Detroit, Mich., combines the best features of all others.

1st. The lenses can be placed far enough away that the eyelashes can not touch them, a thing very easy to do with other eye-glasses.

2d. The guards are set so as to drop the nose back under the brows which prevents slipping and falling off.

3d. The pressure is on the fleshy part of the nose above the bone, which prevents irritation.

4th. The lever feature secures its perfect adjustment, and prevents its slipping off when in bed.

5th. The lenses are set at right angles to line of vision.

6th. They can be worn safely without cord or chain as there is no danger of falling off.

7th. The material these to be the easiest eyeglass in the market.

C. R. BELLINGER,
Optician and Jeweler, Charlevoix, Mich.

At the Old Stand.

A. J. McLeod

Can be found at the old stand with a

FULL STOCK OF MEATS

Of all kinds

At Wholesale and Retail.

HIDES, PELTS, & FAT STOCK WANTED

For Baking Purposes. Best in the World.

Sold by Uptight & Emrey.

The Detroit Free Press

FREE

For the Campaign.

FIFTY CENTS

Will pay for the two best Newspapers published in the State of Michigan

For 4 Mo's.

On receipt of the above amount we will send

The Charlevoix Journal

—And—

THE WEEKLY DETROIT FREE PRESS

to any address for FOUR MONTHS on trial.

Everybody knows The Free Press. It is published in the metropolis of the State, and is a family newspaper, outranks all others. It is emphatically a people's paper, fearless, independent, and should find a place in every household.

The Journal speaks for itself. It is a necessity to every resident of this section who would keep informed on local affairs.

Arrangements for a club offer will be accepted for only a limited length of time.

SUBSCRIBE AT ONCE.

☞ Send order to

THE JOURNAL,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Old subscribers who desire the Free Press during the campaign can have it under the above offer by paying arrears to date, and at least four months in advance in cash.

Harbor Springs, Petoskey, Charlevoix, and East Jordan.

STEAMER THOMAS PRIANT.

CAPT. R. VANDERHOOF.

Morning—Leave Harbor Springs 7.00, Petoskey 9.00, Charlevoix 9.30, arrive East Jordan 11.30.

Afternoon—Leave East Jordan 1.30, Charlevoix 4.00, Petoskey 5.30, arrive Harbor Springs 6.0.

Close connections at Petoskey with M. R. & I. R. R. trains north and south.

STAUFFER'S

BROADCAST

Hand-Seeder.

This new invention possesses many qualities peculiarly adapted to farmers of this vicinity.

TEN REASONS:

1. It sows the roughest or smoothest soils.
2. It sows evenly all kinds of grain and seeds, large and small. Wheat, barley, clover, timothy, ruta bags, etc.
3. It sows any desired quantity. One-fourth pound of ruta bags seed can be spread over an acre of ground with perfect ease and accuracy.
4. It sows rapidly. With wheat it covers 40 feet in the round. Clover 45; clover and timothy mixed 36. Ten acres of clover sowed in 2½ hours.
5. It is not affected by quite a strong wind.
6. It is quickly adjusted to different quantities of grain.
7. It cannot clog.
8. It is easily operated.
9. It is cheap.
10. It is durable.

Patented by ISAAC STAUFFER, of Carpenter, Emmet Co., Mich. Sold by

UPRIGHT & EMREY,
Call and examine 4 Charlevoix, Mich.

Owing to Special Rates in Photographic Stock. I will continue to make Cabinet Photographs at $4.00 per Dozen Until further notice.

Dave Bradbeer,
Photographer,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

More Room! More Goods!!

THE ROUND OAK AND SQUARE BASE Heating Stoves.

Complete Stock of Hardware!

VERY BEST PUMPS.

Job and Tin Work. L. D. BARTHOLOMEW & CO.

Come and See our Immense Stock of

BOOTS AND SHOES.

FOX & MILLER.

HENRY C. COOPER

Undertaker!

CHARLEVOIX MICHIGAN.

Coffins, Caskets, and Trimmings Always in Stock.

Come and See my Stock of Furniture.

ALL ORDERS BY TELEPHONE RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION

Charlevoix Manufacturing Company,

MANUFACTURERS OF

Sash, Doors, and Blinds,

Screen Doors and Windows, and Mouldings of all Descriptions.

Newell Posts, Banisters, and Stair Rail, of Soft and Hard Wood, kept in Stock and Made and Put Up to Order.

PINE AND BASSWOOD SIDING, FLOORING, CEILING, AND FINISHING LUMBER KEPT ON HAND.

Also Contractors, Builders, and General Jobbers.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

PERRY WEED,

DRUGGIST AND STATIONER,

OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

A Large Stock of

Furniture!

IN

Oak, Maple, Ash, and Cherry,

JUST RECEIVED BY THE

PINE LAKE IRON COMPANY

IRONTON, MICH.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 170. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1886. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL
Published every Thursday
BY CHAS. J. STRANG.
Office on Bridge Street,
CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN
ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, MICH., AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

WATCH YOUR ADDRESS LABEL.
The date following the name on your address label indicates the time to which your subscription is paid. If in arrears, you are requested to pay up.

BUSINESS CARDS.

ATTORNEYS.

A. SINUK E. MARTIN, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Michigan. Prompt attention to business.

CROUTER, SHANK & GRIER, Attorneys at Law and Practicers in Admiralty. Office in Rogers Block, Petoskey, Mich.
A. J. CROUTER. C. J. SHANK. C. J. GRIER.

DART & CALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents. Lake St., east of postoffice, Petoskey, Mich.

FRED. M. WANE, Attorney and Counselor at Law. Collections promptly attended to. ☞ MONEY TO LOAN.

J. E. NEWBERRY, Attorney at Law and Judge of Probate of Emmet Co., Petoskey, Mich.

WILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

OSCAR E. WISNER, Attorney at Law and Notary Public. Circuit Court Commissioner, Boyne City, Mich. Office over Post Office.

W. N. MOORE, Attorney and Solicitor, East Jordan. Admiralty a Specialty.

A. S. BARRETT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

CHURCHES.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7.30 p. m. Sunday school at 12 m. Prayer meeting every Tuesday evening at 7.30. All seatings free. W. G. CLARKE, pastor.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7.30 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7.00 o'clock. J. VAN ANKEN, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7.00 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer and praise meeting Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. J. T. IDDINGS, pastor.

DENTISTRY.

N. J. PERRY, Dentist. Office over Post Office. CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

HUFFIELD, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Domestic Cases, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

PHYSICIANS.

J. LEWIN, M. D., Physician and Surgeon, Office in the Lewin house, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. M. PRESTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HORACE S. HARSHA, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loans, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

C. L. Barlier Post No. 119, meets second Monday in each month at Odd Fellows' hall.

O. O. C.—Round Lake Lodge, No. 1, meets every Thursday evening, in Odd Fellows' hall.

R. O. T. M.—Resort Tent No. 125, meets second and third Saturday evenings in Odd Fellows' hall.

L. O. L.—True Blue No. 127, meet Saturday on or before each full moon, in Barnard's hall.

MASONIC—Charlevoix Lodge No. 97, meets Tuesday on or before full moon, at their hall.

J. V. BROWN, President. N. A. BROWN, Cashier.

Brown & Co's Bank of Charlevoix

Drafts drawn direct upon the principal cities of Europe. Interest allowed on time deposits. Good securities bought and sold. Tickets to and from all points in Europe by best lines.

CORRESPONDENTS.—Chase National Bank, New York; First National Bank, Chicago; Merchants and Manufacturers Bank, Detroit; Traders National Bank, Grand Rapids.

1872. 1886.

DR. G. W. CROUTER,

Drugs, Stationery and Wall Paper.

Dental Office in Rear of Drug Store.

ADVERTISEMENTS of three lines or less will be inserted in this column for each insertion. (This type will average seven words to a line.) Each additional line, three cents each insertion.

TEN CENTS

FARM FOR SALE.—Six miles south of Charlevoix, on Mackinaw road. Inquire of Isaac Stauffer, Lake St., east of postoffice.

JOB PRINTING of every description executed promptly, neatly, skillfully, and cheaply, at the JOURNAL office.

JOHN HOGAN, HOUSE PAINTER AND INTERIOR DECORATOR, Charlevoix, Mich. Shop over door west of Rogers' Block.

LETTER HEADS, NOTE HEADS, Statements, Bill Heads, envelopes, visiting cards, neat, cheap, and quick, at the JOURNAL Office.

PERSONAL.—Minnie had better look out for Mell. He is throwing kisses at the old lady across the corner.

VIEWS OF CHARLEVOIX on heavy card stock, 12x15 inches, suitable for framing, for sale at this office, 50 cts.

WANTED.—A Good, Wide-Awake correspondent in Charlevoix for this paper in every town and school district in the adjoining country. For further information call on or address this office.

WANTED.—Men to cut posts and ties. Apply to Graham Brown, Cross Lake, or J. NICK DIXON, Terrace Farm, Charlevoix.

Terrace Farm

J. R. & J. S. DIXON
Charlevoix, Mich.
Dairy, Vegetable, and Stock Farm. Thoroughbred and Grade HOLSTEINS a specialty.

COMMERCIAL HOUSE

D. B. JERRUE, Proprietor.

East Jordan, Michigan.

Entirely rebuilt and refurnished. First-class Sample Room for agents. Good Stable in Connection with the House.

FARMERS' HOTEL,

WM. SANGER, MANAGER.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN

Excellent accommodations for the travelling public and for farmers with their families. Hostler always in good humor. Good stable for feeding horses. The management of this house will not interfere with my usual work at the season's trade.
WM. SANGER.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,

RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix - Michigan.

Finest location in town, giving good view of lake and surrounding country. Rates, $1 per day; guests for Petoskey and 25c Round Lake. Good sample room for commercial travelers adjacent depot.

WELL DIGGING.

I am prepared to dig, drive, and repair wells of all kinds, and guarantee satisfaction. Leave orders with Stockman & Gaffney.
E. W. BENNETT,
Charlevoix, Mich.

MISS L. SPAULDING.

MILLINERY

and Fancy Goods.

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

Millinery And Fancy Goods!

A Splendid Line of Ribbons, Ladies' Gloves, Zephyrs, Laces, Hosiery, Corsets, Notions, and Stamping Goods always on hand at Lowest Prices.

Smith & Cooper,
At the Ingleside.

THE GRAND RAPIDS

DAILY DEMOCRAT

Is the popular paper of Western Michigan. Contains the associated press dispatches. Sent by mail at

50 CENTS A MONTH!

Only eleven and one-half cts. a week.

Try it.

Charlevoix and Boyne.

Season of CLARA BELLE—Capt. Robert O'Neil.

Morning—Leave Charlevoix 6.30, arrive Boyne 7.30, leave Boyne 8.00, arrive Charlevoix 9.00.

Afternoon—Leave East Jordan 1.30, Charlevoix 4.00, Boyne 5.30, arrive Charlevoix 6.00.

Night—Leave Charlevoix 7.00, arrive Boyne 7.30. Sundays 4.30, arrive Charlevoix 5.00.

Stopping at intermediate points.

Around the County.

Wilson.

Our autumnal foliage is beautiful.

We had a little little snowstorm on Sept. 30th, but the weather has been delightfully warm since.

Miss Etta Peck, of Echo, who has been stopping with Mrs. Vance for a few days, has returned home.

Reports come to us of numerous bears being seen in this vicinity but none has been captured up to date.

Mr. Henry Young, of Echo, was a guest of J. R. Vance on Sunday night last. He contemplates moving near Lansing this week, where lies purchased a farm.

Mr. Isaac Vance, of Echo, passed through here on Sunday last on his way home from Buffalo, N. Y., where he had been to consult Dr. Pierce in regard to his disease. The Doctor promises him a recovery—eventually.

Nearly every one and their wives and sweethearts attended the fair, where they were delighted with the exhibition.

We understand seats have been ordered for the new school house and work on the building will be commenced soon.

Through the never tiring efforts of J. R. Vance and the kindly aid given by citizens of this vicinity, we expect to hear the mill whistle within a week.

Burgess.

John Ward has gone to the south part of the state to visit relatives.

Hattie Harris, who has been sick some time, is failing.

Mr. Tillotson is putting a stone wall under his house and fixing up generally for winter.

Frank Kane has had a carpenter at work on his house the past week, getting ready for the plasterer.

Mr. Austin is digging a well near his new residence.

Mr. Hale raised a new barn on his place last week. Loren Hamlin is improving his residence and fixing up for winter.

Barnard.

June roses are seen in bloom in blossom apples may also be found.

Mr. Tom Cannon moved into his new house last week.

Mr. Ingalls is expected in the neighborhood with his steam threshing machine, this week.

Mr. Clover has his new house up and enclosed.

Wm. Burns and wife returned home Monday, and were tendered a reception at the residence of Bernard Burns, Monday evening, which was attended by a large number of friends and well-wishers. They commence housekeeping at once in their new home, recently finished for them.

Premiums Awarded.

The following is a list of the premiums awarded at the second annual fair of the Charlevoix county agricultural society, at East Jordan, Sept. 22-24, 1886:

Division A—Horses.

Superintendent, Wm. Pinney.

Class 1—Thoroughbreds.

John Hammond, best stallion 3 yrs old.
A. Cooper, second best.
M. W. Bateman, best brood mare with foal at side.
John Monroe Jr. second best.
A. L. Wright, best mare 2 yrs old or over.
M. W. Bateman, best mare 2 yrs old.
A. L. Wright, second best.
M. M. Burnham, second premium, gelding 1 yr old.

Class 2—Horses for all Work.

H. Rainer, best stallion 4 yr old.
Ward Staley, best stallion 3 yrs old or over.
A. E. Upright second best.
A. L. Wright, best mare 2 yrs old.
Jacob Heller second best.
M. W. Bateman, second premium, mare 1 yr old.
N. K. Sherman, best brood mare with foal, Frank Coleman, best colt 6 months or under.
S. L. Jones second best.

Class 3—Carriage and Single Horses.

Geo. W. Isaacs, best matched horses 4 yrs old or over.
Adolph Heller best matched horses 3 yrs old.
J. T. Cowell, best single horse 4 yrs old or over.
A. R. Upright second best.
John Schalen, best single driving horse.

Class 4—Farm Teams for General Purposes.

Wm. Knight, best farm team 5 yrs old or over.
A. R. Upright second best.
M. M. Burnham, best draft mare 3 yrs old.
T. D. Bowman, M. M. Burnham, Jacob Bissell, awarding committee.

Division B—Cattle.

Superintendent, H. R. Hipp.

Class 1—Full Blood Holsteins.

D. M. Colby, best bull 2 yrs old or over.

Class 2—Full Blood Jerseys.

D. P. Bowman, best bull 1 yr old.
Jacob Bissell, best cow 3 yrs old or over.

Class 3—Grades.

C. A. Rinehart, best bull 1 yr old.
Daniel Cuton, best bull calf.
Stanley Bush, best cow 4 yrs old or over.
Geo. Sherman second best.
A. R. Murphy, best cow 3 yrs old.
M. M. Bissell second best.
Isabella Chatterton, best heifer 2 yrs old.
Michael Clark second best.
Isabella R. Chatterton, best heifer 1 yr old.
A. E. Upright second best.
Stanley Bush, best heifer under 1 yr.

Class 5—Working Oxen and Steers.

Chas. Alexander, best yoke of oxen 4 yrs old or over.
E. A. Bixby second best.
S. M. Richardson, Elijah Holden, Mr. Trachot, awarding committee.

Division C—Swine.

Superintendent, J. H. Lanway.

Class 1—Poland China.

A. E. Upright, best boar 1 yr old.
A. L. Wright, best sow over 1 yr.
A. L. Upright, best sow under 1 yr.
C. A. Rinehart, best sow under 1 yr old.
A. E. Upright second best.
A. E. Upright, best litter of not less than 4 pigs under 6 months old.

Class 3—Chester White.

Jacob Keller, best sow over 1 yr old.

Class 4—Berkshires.

E. A. Gibson, best boar under 1 yr old.
E. A. Gibson, best sow under 1 yr old.

Class 6—Cheshire.

M. M. Burnham, best boar under 1 yr old.
M. M. Burnham, best sow under 1 yr old.
S. M. Richardson, D. P. Bowman, Peter K. Wiers, awarding committee.

[On account of a rush of work in the office, we are compelled to continue the balance of fair report next week.]

Old Soldier Defended.

EDITOR JOURNAL:—How a man claiming to be a friend to the soldier and so patriotic as the Sentinel man, would stoop so low as to try to sian for the record of one of the boys in blue without knowing his record, is something that the old boys will not tolerate. But the immediate editorial of the Sentinel refuted the charges against the action of the republican party as to their motive in not making terms for the exchange of prisoners sooner than they did, the old boys would not say a word against the position of the Sentinel. But when it tries to slander the record of a true soldier and make it a personal fight by blackguard and nonsense, the readers are not likely to be interested.

I would not say an unkind word but certainly it is evident to every casual observer that the Sentinel man's appearance indicates within the censure of everyone who sees him; his pants and learning very few are judges of; and even upon those few they cannot first be well intended for policy and good breeding will council him to be reserved among strangers, for the outward habit gives him a taste of the spirit of the inward man.

Now, let us look at the exchange business for a moment. First, the rebel government had knowledge of the inhuman treatment of the prisoners and did not put forth proper efforts to rescue the unfortunate men from their perilous position, and finally said that it was his policy not to exchange for our excess of prisoners and deplete the rebel army so they could not oppose us, but did not state how long it would take, but was willing to let the men rot in rebel dens until the rebel army were all taken prisoners. Gen. Grant said, I deem it bad policy of war to give 75,000 able-bodied men for a few thousand men in good condition and 30,000 wrecks, and claimed that if the government kept on exchanging they could go on fighting until both armies were killed. Notwithstanding our martyred Lincoln was in favor of and expedient to release them. Was this a policy of war or barbarism? We did not expect when we enlisted to be subjects of such a policy and we have a right to hold the republican party to strict accountability for the course it pursued, and the government should recompense the victims of this barbarous policy. It may be claimed that the execution of Wirtz atones for the sufferings of the thousands of human wrecks who are unable to earn their bread or support their families. To ameliorate this condition is one of the solemn duties devolving upon congress, and its long delay in performing that duty is a disgrace to a government which, in point of numbers, intelligence and prosperity, ranks second to none in all the civilized world.

PRISONER OF WAR.

Communication.

Charlevoix, Oct. 14, 1886.

EDITOR JOURNAL:—There seems to be much opposition in both the republican and democratic ranks as to prohibitionists putting a ticket in the field, as it will have a tendency to elect men nominated in the old parties whom the people do not want, and claim the prohibitionists will be responsible for such a calamity. One would think such argument justifies them to nominate whiskey men and then howl because the prohibitionist no longer will recognize their action with the whisky crime. We certainly have a right to put a ticket in the field, as a political organization, and the only way we reasonably advise in the matter is this: If the temperance law and order men of the county mean what they say, (that they do not want a whisky man elected,) then come up and vote for the prohibition candidate and avert the calamity of men being elected whom you do not want. After election the people will then see where the responsibility belongs.

VOTER.

Chinese Supper.

One of the most pleasing and interesting entertainments ever given in Charlevoix will be held at the Opera House, Tuesday, Oct. 19th. A company of two Chinese students, a Chinese lady and a baby less than a year old, will be present, and will illustrate different novel features of Chinese life such as a Chinese wedding, eating with chop-sticks, singing Chinese songs, and playing upon their curious musical instruments. They will be dressed in Oriental costumes and will have a large collection of Chinese curiosities on exhibition and sale.

After the concert a supper will be furnished by the ladies of the Methodist church, at which the Chinese will serve pure tea, made by themselves, Chinese nuts, and proper chop-sticks will be furnished if you desire to use them, and a Chinese napkin given you as a souvenir of the occasion. Come! Of course you will, if you like fun, instruction, and a good supper. Admission, 15 cents. Supper 10 cents.

Firemen Re-Organized.

At the meeting of firemen, Monday night, Oct. 11th, the company was reorganized with the following officers: President, Chas. E. Swallow; vice-president, R. W. Kane; secretary, B. F. Bisbee; treasurer, Harry Nicholls. Chief of fire department and foreman of the engine, C. J. Grier; assistant foreman of the engine, Elmer Mayne; foreman of the hose, Andrew McCall; assistant foreman of hose, Lewis Smith; engineer, O. S. Washburn; first assistant engineer, John Ackert; second assistant engineer, B. H. Krebs. The following names were suggested for nominees: On main line of hose, Wm. Horton, Eli Jefferies. On second line of hose, Chas. See, Ed. Bedford. On third line of hose, A. E. Mason, W. Ripley. B. F. BISBEE, Secretary.

Shipments.

6—Schr. Jennie Phillips, 60,000 feet hardwood lumber, Pine Lake Lumber Co., to Chicago.
7—Schr. A. E. Upright, 80 cords wood, George Cross, to Manistee.
7—Schr. Blake, 1,000 ties, W. H. Downer, to Chicago.
8—Schr. J. R. Newland, 140 cords wood, W. H. Downer, to Chicago.
8—Schr. Niagara, 200,000 feet hardwood lumber, Pine Lake Lumber Co. to Chicago.
8—Schr. Mecklenburg, 1,875 ties, 62 cords wood Upright & Emrey to Chicago.
11—Schr. Artic, 400,000 hoops, Wilson Hoop Co. to Milwaukee.
12—Schr. Hart Barnes, 180 cords wood, Master to Milwaukee.
12—Schr. Lafayette, 130 cords wood, P. Thorp, to Milwaukee.
13—Schr. Eliza Day, 140,000 hardwood lumber, Glenn & Porter to Chicago.
13—Schr. Libbie Mann, 1,000 hardwood ties, Glenn & Porter to Chicago.

The following is a summary of the shipments from the port of Charlevoix for the week ending Wednesday evening, and for the corresponding week of 1885:

	1886.	1885.
Hardwood lumber, feet	265,000	585,000
Hardwood ties	2,875	20,000
Hoop poles		400,000
Railroad ties	4,400	17,875
Cedar posts	2,500	600
Wood, cords	80	395
Bark, cords	100	.....
Pig iron, tons	300	.....
Potato bulls, pounds	.....	7,700

A Million Dollars.

Millions of dollars would be saved annually by the health of every community, if, instead of calling a physician for every ailment, they were wise enough to put their trust in Golden Seal Bitters, a certain cure for all diseases arising from an impure state of the blood and liver, such as scrofula in its various forms, dyspepsia, or indigestion, female irregularities, diseases of the kidneys and bladder, exposure and imprudence of life. No person can take these bitters according to instructions, and remain long unwell, provided the bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair. Golden Seal Bitters numbers on its list of cures more than any other medicine known, and have already acquired a great celebrity, being used generally as a family medicine. Sold by Perry Weed and Dr. G. W. Crouter.

Money Refunded.

True remedy has at last been discovered. It was long known in his practice as Dr. Pope's Lung Food for Consumption. It is now called Dr. Pope's Second Cough Cure. It is the safest, the surest and the best. No other cough, cold, and consumption remedy is half its equal. We warrant it and will promptly refund the money paid for it a reasonable effect is not experienced by the time two-thirds of the contents of the bottle is used. Sold by Perry Weed and Dr. G. W. Crouter.

"For years I suffered from loss of appetite and indigestion, but failed to find relief until I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This medicine entirely cured me. My appetite and digestion are now perfect."—Fred G. Bonny, 436 Seventh st. South Boston, Mass.

Many forget that the hair and scalp need cleansing. Extensive use of Ayer's Hair Vigor has proven that it is the best cleansing agent for the hair—that it prevents dandruff and eliminates the hair to renewed growth.

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, — MICHIGAN

DEMOCRATIC NOMINATIONS.

State Ticket.

For Governor—
GEORGE L. YAPLE, of St. Joseph.

For Lieutenant Governor—
SOLOMON S. CURRY, of Marquette.

For Secretary of State—
PHILLIP B. WACHTEL, of Emmet.

For State Treasurer—
WILLIAM G. BEARD, of Bay.

For Auditor General—
JUDSON S. FARRAR, of Macomb.

For Attorney General—
JOHN C. DONNELLY, of Wayne.

For Commissioner of State Land Office—
ALONZO T. FRISBIE, of Livingston.

For Superintendent of Public Instruction—
DAVID PARSONS, of Wayne.

For Member of State Board of Education—
JEROME W. TUPER, of Shiawassee.

Congressional Ticket.

For Representative in Congress, Ninth District—
LYMAN G. MASON, of Muskegon.

Legislative Ticket.

For Representative in the Legislature, Charlevoix District,

County Ticket.

For Sheriff—
DANIEL D. JERGE, of South Arm.

For County Clerk—
WILLIAM F. PALMITER, of South Arm.

For County Treasurer—
ORLANDO BLAIR, of South Arm.

For Register of Deeds—
ELISHA H. SHEPARD, of Evangeline.

For Prosecuting Attorney—
MILTON M. BURNHAM, of South Arm.

For Circuit Court Commissioner—
ARTHUR E. MARTIN, of Evangeline.

For County Surveyor—
SIMON HAYDEN, of Eveline.

For Coroners—
ORVILLE D. HILTON, of Norwood.
ROBERT FINDLEY, of Horse Valley.

WHY HE SAID IT.

Republican papers throughout the state are publishing the following single sentence from one of Mr. Yaple's speeches on the tariff:

"I want the farmers of this district to understand what they ask when they ask me to vote for the restoration of the duty on wool. I didn't do it, and by the eternal, I never will."

(George L. Yaple in a speech at Sturgis, Oct. 9, 1884.)

Let us see what his reason was for making such a statement. As a matter of fact the price of wool has gone down under the tariff law. The tariff so suddenly diminished the demand for wool that although it tended to shut off foreign wool it did not open a market for domestic wool. It is an actual fact that since the tariff of 1867 the price of wool has been lower than ever before in the world. From statistics it appears that the average price of wool for the 15 years preceding 1867 was 52.8 cents per pound, while the average price for the the 15 years succeeding 1867 was 48.6 cents per pound. Thus under free trade wool sold for over four cents per pound more than it sells for under a high tariff.

It is natural to ask why the price of wool went down under protection, while the price of nearly everything else went up? This was owing to the sudden falling off in the demand for wool. The high tariff suddenly placed on wool almost ruined the woolen industry of this country, and though the year after the passage of the high tariff on wool the home clip increased 8,000,000 pounds, the demand for wool fell off 54,000,000 pounds. And the price of wool, which averaged in 1866 under the tariff of 1861 to 59¼ cents in 1867 and 46 cents in 1868 after the tariff.

The high tariff on wool not only lowered prices, but by lowering the price of wool it forced sheep-raising away from the middle states out on to the cheap lands of the west. Statistics taken from public documents are instructive as to the effect of the wool tariff on sheep raising. The following table shows the number of sheep in states named at the dates given.

STATES.	Before 1867.	Thirteen years after tariff.
Ohio	7,159,177	4,392,486
Michigan	4,028,767	2,180,289
Pennsylvania	3,526,958	1,776,598
New York	5,375,005	1,715,180
Indiana	2,933,305	1,195,514
Illinois	2,703,072	1,067,073
Wisconsin	1,666,538	1,436,807
Iowa	2,200,429	455,579
Total	24,574,222	14,213,426

What a falling off! From 29,874,222 in 1867 to 14,213,426 in 1880. And in the one state of Iowa a decrease of from 2,200,429 in 1867 to 455,579 in 1880. And yet it is in the above named states that the most complaint is heard about the reduction of the tariff on wool. Farmers know that something is wrong, and shrewd republican politicians tell them it is the reduction of the tariff. One or two more increases of the tariff would carry sheep-raising entirely west of the Missouri river.

The truth is, the tariff on wool has so disturbed and affected the wool market and the woolen industry that prices are unsteady and profits unstable.

During the session of 1882-3 the tariff on wool was reduced a little, and the following summer the price of wool did not happen to be quite so high. Immediately there went up a great cry from the politicians that the reduction of the tariff had reduced the price of wool. Let us see how prices were before the reduction. We give the highest and lowest prices quoted on wool in the New York market for the years named.

YEARS.	Lowest.	Highest.
1872	45 cents	67 cents
1873	35 "	57 "
1874	36 "	48 "
1875	38 "	48 "
1876	25 "	43 "
1877	32 "	43 "
1878	29 "	33 "
1879	27 "	50 "
1880	25 "	45 "
1881	21 "	47 "

What an industry to invest money in when prices range from 29 cents to 67 cents in the space of seven years, and from 21 cents to 47 cents inside of one year! Not once during the free trade period between 1850-60 did wool fall as low as 29 cents. The lowest price under free trade was 24 cents per pound.

We fail to see how the tariff on wool has benefited the sheep growers of the country. The price has averaged lower and has been more uncertain since the tariff. The market has been fluctuating and the demand uncertain. And sheep-raising is being driven from the prosperous and fertile middle states to the cheap lands of the south and west. Hence we say Yaple is right when he said "by the eternal I never will" vote to restore a high tariff on wool.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

New foreign markets for our surplus products are one of the most pressing demands of the day. Our products for the year 1880 amounted to $5,000,000,000, in value, and but two per cent of it was sold in foreign markets. This is the natural result of the restrictive tariff of the republican party, and the exact reverse of the democratic doctrine which maintains that 2,000,000,000 people for consumers in the markets of the world would be more beneficial to the farmers and laborers of this country than the exclusive market of 55,000,000 people for consumers at home.

Public documents show the foreign commerce of the counties lying south of the United States on the American continent to be $520,000,000 annually. Our share of this amount is about $112,000,000 of which only about $37,000,000 is carried in American bottoms. Such facts demonstration ones arouse our people from this lethargy and abolish the restrictive tariff laws.

Yaple Replies.

The following interview with Hon. Geo. L. Yaple appeared in the Grand Rapids Democrat:

"What have you to say to the charge that you are a devout disciple of Bob Ingersoll?"

"That charge is false. No one acquainted with my views would make such a charge unless he meant to tell a lie. I do not indorse Ingersoll's religion or his politics."

"It is claimed that you had assailed the christian religion at times and places when it has shown exceedingly strong?"

"That is false. Why don't they publish what I said at those times and places? They make a charge, but offer no evidence to sustain it."

"Did you not speak to a crowd at the pioneer meeting in Centreville this year?"

"No sir; I simply paid a tribute to the pioneers in the midst of industrious, quiet, peaceable, and law abiding people. Nothing that I said could be construed as an attack upon the church. Why don't they publish what I said and let the people judge?"

"What about your likening the pulpit to an auction block in a decoration day address in 1885?"

"Do they say I made off the fruits of the war. I said that the soldiers of the north were the missionaries of a new religion, the brotherhood of man. The particular expressions which seem to have struck a critical chord were: "The dress here of the south had converted the pulpit into an auction block. The soldiers of the north turned the auction block into ashes." It might be well for these sensitive critics to read Bryant's history of the United States, and learn the attitude of the church of the south on the slavery question—its attitude before the war. They do not quote me correctly. All I ask is that they tell what I said."

"What is there about your having taught a Bible class from political motives?"

"I never taught a Bible class from political motives. I taught it because I was earnestly requested to by Rev. M. V. Rork, and Rev. C. I. Dayo, the pastor of the church, and also by a number who were members of the class. Mr. Rork and Mr. Dayo were both acquainted with my views and desired me to take the place. At that time Mr. Dayo was a republican. He had never done any political work for me, or for the greenback or democratic parties. He was my personal, but not my political friend. Attack upon Mr. Dayo is wholly unwarranted for. He is a man of brains and character and no man making a claim to decency would make an attack upon him."

Tribune vs. "Free Press".

Charge: Perjury.

Thus the Tribune to the Free Press:

"Come, now, own up like a little man that you have deliberately and willfully prevaricated in saying that Mr. Lace was a banker instead of a farmer, when you knew he was a farmer and not a banker."

The Coldwater Inquirer can well be sworn. You are of lawful age, and have been a neighbor of Cyrus G. Lace for many years. What do you know relative to the facts in this case?

Answer—Any advertising columns testify as follows:

SOUTHERN MICHIGAN NATIONAL BANK.

Capital and Surplus, $180,000.

LARGEST IN THE COUNTY.

C. D. BARNARD, President. C. G. LACE, Vice-President. L. E. ROSE, Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

C. D. BARNARD, C. G. LACE, E. E. CLARKE, L. F. HALE, J. S. LOOMIS, D. C. POWERS, L. E. ROSE.

A general and conservative banking business transacted.

And deponent further saith not.

The burden of proof that Mr. Lace is a farmer rests with the Tribune, which has asserted it in the Free Press finds in the Michigan State Gazetteer, under Gilead, the following: "Cyrus G. Lace, farmer."

So far as the evidence has been taken for proof that the republican candidate is a banker is much the more conclusive. The charge of perjury is not sustained.

Brace Up.

You are feeling depressed, your appetite is poor, your nerves are shattered, you are sleepless, nervous, and generally out of sorts, perhaps made down by your work, or by excessive drinking, public anxiety, or stress, which is common to many at this season of the year, and which stimulate you for a time, and then leave you in worse condition than before. What you need is a tonic, and we know of no better tonic than Brown's Iron Bitters. This preparation is not a cordial, nor a beverage, but a tonic, which stimulates only after food and delivers its strengthening effects to the system in a gradual way. Such a medicine as this will find in almost every case, and we advise a bottle at Dr. G. W. Crouter's drug store.

The First Sign

Of falling health, whether in the form of Nervous Prostration, Languor, or Dullness of General Weariness and Loss of Appetite, should succeed the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This preparation is most effective for giving tone and strength to the enfeebled system, promoting digestion and assimilation of food, restoring the nervous force to its normal condition, and for purifying, enriching, and vitalizing the blood.

Failing Health.

Ten years ago my health began to fail. I was troubled with a distressing Cough, Night Sweats, Weakness, and Nervousness. I tried various remedies prescribed by different physicians, but became so weak that I could not go up stairs without stopping to rest. My friends recommended me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which I did, and I am now as healthy and strong as ever.—Mrs. E. L. Williams, Alexandria, Mich.

I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla, in my family, for Scrofula, and know, if it is taken faithfully, that it will thoroughly eradicate the disease. I have also prescribed it as a tonic, as well as an alterative, and must say that I regard it as the best blood medicine ever compounded.—W. F. Parker, D. D. S., M. D., Greenville, Tenn.

I had been troubled with a dull, pioneer meeting in Centreville this year.

No sir; I simply paid a tribute to the pioneers in the midst of industrious, quiet, peaceable and law abiding people. Nothing that I said could be construed as an attack upon the church. Why don't they publish what I said and let the people judge?

"What about your likening the pulpit to an auction block in a decoration day address in 1885?"

"Do they say I made off the fruits of the war. I said that the soldiers of the north were the missionaries of a new religion, the brotherhood of man. The particular expressions which seem to have struck a critical chord were: "The dress here of the south had converted the pulpit into an auction block. The soldiers of the north turned the auction block into

The Circus

Commences Next Week.

I am going to receive a large invoice of CLOTHING, bought from one of the leading houses in Rochester, N. Y., which I am going to sell at Prices that will draw me trade from all around the county.

I think the best advertisement a merchant can have is to have his goods advertise him in Good Fits and Prices that cannot be beat.

GEO. W. MILLER.

THE EARTHQUAKE DID IT!

We mean we got a big bargain on all our cloak purchases. Our New York agent has taken advantage of the

GREAT EXCITEMENT!

And has written us that never before had we secured such an elegant line of

LADIES' MISSES' AND CHILDREN'S

CLOAKS

At Such LOW PRICES.

LADIES, DO NOT PURCHASE A CLOAK or Wrap of any kind until you have seen our goods and learned our prices, as they will soon be here. A big Stock of Everything in Dry Goods coming, wait for them.

Yours, very truly,

F. W. CRAINE & CO.

YAPLE RALLY!

Hon. Geo. L. Yaple,

Union Nominee for Governor, will Speak at

Charlevoix

On Saturday Afternoon,

October 23

All through the south part of the State the people are giving the eloquent young defender of their rights a royal ovation wherever he appears, and Northern Michigan must not be outdone in loyal hospitality. Hitch up your horses, and come and see and hear the next Governor of Michigan,

"The Boy from Mendon."

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., Oct. 14, 1886.

PRODUCE MARKET.

Hay, loose, per ton $12; baled, $18
Corn, per bu, 65c.
Oats, 20 to 25c.
Feed, per ton, $22
Pork, 2½ @ 3½ cts, 7c ⅌ lb.
Salt, Fine, $1.25
Syrup, "Gold Medal," 50c ⅌ gal.

Dr. L. S. Ellis, of Manistee, prohibition candidate for Congress from this district, is billed to speak on the subject of prohibition, at the opera house, this (Thursday) evening, at 7:30.

The Cheboygan News is the title of a crisp little semi-weekly paper just started in Cheboygan. It is devoted to the cause of the labor party. Success, neighbor.

Bulowicz's old photo. gallery, occupied by Chas. Swallow as a paint shop, on the lot in the rear of the post office, is a larger Greenback vote than any convenient in the State proportionately. He never solicited a nomination to any office; in his case the office always seeking the man, and not the man the office. He always ran ahead of his ticket, and his popularity at home is so great that in the election of 1882, while his party was the weakest by large odds, in his own ward he received a majority of votes over his two opponents. In his election for City Treasurer he received the largest vote of any candidate on his ticket. His nomination for State Treasurer was unsought and was a great surprise, and was brought about by the Clinton county delegates against his protest. During the great strike amongst mill operatives in the Saginaw valley, he was foremost in the effort to bring about a peaceful solution of the trouble, and connected obedience to the law. He is a Past Grand in the I. O. O. F., a member of the A. O. U. W., and the Royal Arcanum, and a very prominent member of the K. of L. He has held the office of M. W. in his own local assembly six terms, and M. W. of District Assembly six terms, and M. W. of District Assembly six terms, and M. W. of District

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

DEMOCRATIC NOMINATIONS.

State Ticket.

For Governor—
GEORGE L. YAPLE, of St. Joseph.

For Lieutenant Governor—
SOLOMON S. CURRY, of Hargrave.

For Secretary of State—
PHILLIP B. WA

For State Treasurer—
WILLIAM G. BE

For Auditor-General—
JUDSON S. FA

For Attorney General—
JOHN C. DONN

For Commissioner of
ALONZO T. FR

For Superintendent of
DAVID PARSO

For Member of State
JEROME W. TU

Congress

For Representative
LYMAN G. M

Legisl

For Representative
Charle

Coun

For Sheriff—
DANIEL B. JEN

For County Clerk—
WILLIAM F. P.

For County Treasu
ORLANDO BLA

For Register of Deed
ELISHA H. SIM

For Prosecuting Atto
MILTON M. HO

For Circuit Court Co
ARTHUR E. M

For County Surveyo
SIDNEY HAYD

For Coroners—
ORVILLE D. H
ROBERT FIND

WHY

Republican p date are paid single sentence speeches on the

"I want the f
to understand they ask me to
tion of the duty
it, and by the a

[George L. Y
Sturgis, Oct. 3,

Let us see wl
nothing such a ter of fact the p down under the suddenly dis wool that altho off foreign wo market for dor actual fact that the price of wo
before under fr ies it appears of wool for th
1887 was 52.8
the average pr
succeeding 18
pound. Thus in for over four than under a f

It is natural of wool wool
while the pric
dles went up.
sodden falling wool. The placed on w wooden indust through the yo
the high tariff increased sal
mand for w pounds. And was 63 cents
7,811,758 sen
in 1888 after

The high lowered price price of wool
away from th
to the cheap tables taken are instructiv wool tariff following tab sheep in sta given.

STATES
Ohio
Michigan
Pennsylvania
New York
Indiana
Illinois
Wisconsin
Iowa
Total

What a
222 in 18
And in the crease of 455,573. In above nam complaint is tion of the tari know that something is wrong, and shrewd republican politicians tell them it is the reduction of the tariff. One or, two more increases of the tariff would carry sheep-raising entirely west of the Missouri river.

The truth is, the tariff on wool has so disturbed and affected the wool market and the woolen industry that prices are unsteady and profits unstable.

During the session of 1882-3 the to echoes." It might be well for these sensitive critics to read Bryant's history of the United States, and learn the attitude of the church of the south on the slavery question—its attitude before the war. They do not quote me correctly. All I ask is that they tell what I said."

"What is there about your having taught a Bible class from political motives? I taught it because I was repeatedly requested to by

The Circus

Commences Next Week.

I am going to receive a large invoice of CLOTH-to an auction block. The southern of

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., Oct. 14, 1886.

PRODUCE MARKET.

Hay, loose, per ton $12; baled, $18
Corn, per bu. 60c.
Oats, 30 to 35c.
Feed, per ton, $22.
Pork, $3.75 bbl, 7c ℔ lb.
Salt, ℔ bbl. $1.25.
Syrup, "Gold Medal," 50c ℔ gal.

Dr. L. S. Ellis, of Manistee, prohibition candidate for Congress from this district, is billed to speak on the subject of prohibition, at the crown house this (Thursday) evening, at 7:30.

The Cheboygan News is the title of a crisp little semi-weekly paper just started in Cheboygan. It is devoted to the cause of the labor party. Success, neighbor.

Baldwin's old photo gallery, occupied by Chas. Swallow as a paint shop, on the lot in the rear of the post-office, has been now fitted up for a photograph of the sunflower.

A friend in St. Louis, Mo., sends us some fine colored lithograph representations of the magnificent street pageant of the Veiled Prophet in that city, Oct. 5th. The procession included representations of some of the most important events in American history, as well as the greatest perfection in all of the important manufactures and trades of that city which can be represented in an actual living, moving panorama. This is a great annual attraction for the merchants of the sunflower.

DRY GOODS!

We offer for the next few days Great Bargains in all

---SUMMER DRESS GOODS---

Shawls, White Goods, Parasols, Silk and Thread Gloves, Hosiery, Straw Hats, etc.

show the active the ensuing winter will send a supply.

put his wealth to good use.

ind pain. Sold by Perry Wood and Dr. G. W. Crouter.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

Close connections at Petoskey with R. R. trains, north and south.

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

DEMOCRATIC NOMINATIONS.

State Ticket.

For Governor—
GEORGE L. YAPLE, of St. Joseph.
For Lieutenant-Governor—
ALEXANDER S. CURRY, of Hargatte.
For Secretary of State
PHILLIP E. WAI
For State Treasurer—
WILLIAM G. BR
For Auditor-General
HUDSON S. FAI
For Attorney-General
JOHN C. DONN
For Commissioner of
ALONZO T. FRI
For Superintendent
DAVID PARSO
For Member of State
JEROME W. TU

Congress

For Representative—
LYMAN G. M

Legisla

For Representative
Charle

Coun

For Sheriff—
DANIEL S. JEI
For County Clerk—
WILLIAM F. P
For County Treasu
ORLANDO BLA
For Register of Deed
EUGENE H. STO
For Prosecuting Att
MILTON M. BE
For Circuit Court Co
ARTHUR E. M
For County Surveyor
SIDNEY HAYD
For Coroners—
ORVILLE O. H
ROBERT FINN

WHY

Republicans pa state are publ single sentence f
speeches on the

"I want the f
to understand they ask me to tion of the duty
it, and by the a
(George L. Y
Sturgis, Oct. 9,

Let us see wi making such a for of fact the p down under the —suddenly dim wool that altho all foreign wo market for the actual fact that the price of wo
before under fi ces it appears of wool for th
1867 was 52.8 c
the average pr
succeeding 18
pound. Thus in for over four c than under a h

It is natural of wool wout c
while the pric
the world up.
sudden falling wool. The placed on wo woolen industr though the yee
the high tariff increased 800
mand for w pounds. And i was 63 cents i fell to 53½ cen
at 19.5 cents.

The high t lowered price price of wool
away from th
to the cheap ties taken are instructive wool tariff allowing tab cheap in sta given.

STATES.
Ohio
Michigan
Pennsylvania
New York
Indiana
Illinois
Wisconsin
Iowa
Total

What a f
222 in 188
And in the crease of 9
455,774, in above mant complaint is tion of the tar

know that something is wrong, and shrewd republican politicians tell them it is the reduction of the tariff. Or, or, two more increases of the tariff would carry sheep-raising entirely west of the Missouri river.

The truth is, the tariff on wool has so disturbed and affected the wool market and the woolen industry that prices are unsteady and profits unstable.

During the session of 1882-3 the to ashes." It might be well for these sensitive critics to read Bryant's history of the United States, and learn the attitude of the church of the south on the slavery question—its attitude before the war. They do not quote me correctly. All I ask is that they tell what I said."

"What is there about your having taught a Bible class from political motives?"

"I never taught a Bible class from political motives. I taught it because I was earnestly requested to by

The Circus

Commences Next Week.

I am going to receive a large invoice of CLOTH-

SUPPLEMENT.

NATURAL SCIENCE.—THE LAWS OF ATTRACTION AND REPULSION.—ILLUSTRATED BY A STUDENT.

Price $1; six bottles, $5.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., Oct. 14, 1886.

PRODUCE MARKET.

Hay, loose, per ton $12; bailed, $18
Corn, per bu, 55c.
Oats, 30 to 35c.
Feed, per ton, $22
Pork, 5½ ℔ lbs, 7c ℔ lb.
Salt, 4 bbl, $1.25
Syrup, "Gold Medal," 50c ℔ gal.
Canned Tomatoes, 12c.
Canned Peaches, 15 to 20c.
Coffee, Java and Mocha, 35c.
Farmer's Produce at Upright & Emrey's.

UPRIGHT EMREY & Co.

☞ A splendid line of Boots and Shoes, for ladies and gents, boys, girls and misses. More on the road.

☞ A magnificent lot of Dress Goods arrived recently, and we offer them at the very lowest figures.

☞ Hosiery in all styles a specialty, for both ladies and gents—best line in town.

☞ New Groceries received almost every day.

☞ Both Dinner and Tea Sets in Board Ware at cost.

☞ If you want some Choice Butter go to Upright & Emrey's.

☞ "Jefferies" is the cheapest market in town. Everything clear down. Come back old friends and try it.

Local Notes and News.

C. E. See is out again, after a long struggle with fever.

Chas. Swallow's new house is nearly ready for occupancy.

H. H. Vanwormam is out again after a long siege of sickness.

A. J. Mudge has built an addition to his grocery on Antrim street.

The age Jos. Gordon, of Bay City, was in harbor over Sunday

Al Draper and wife, of South Arm, spent Sunday in Charlevoix.

Will Francis has the frame up for a house on the Mason addition.

Boyne City is preparing to organize a post of Sons of Veterans.

Look out for the handbills for the Chinese supper, Tuesday, Oct. 19.

A new picket fence adorns John Wood's front yard, on Antrim street.

The re-organized fire department were out for practice on Wednesday afternoon.

The East Jordan foundry has a large order of car wheels for E. Shay of Bay Springs.

Come and see the Chinese curiosities and get a cup of Chinese tea Tuesday, Oct. 19.

Young people's meeting at the M. E. church next Sunday evening at six o'clock. Come early.

Willis G. Clark will preach at the Congregational church at Ironton next Sunday at 3 p. m.

Little Frank, the Portingese, had a cargo of fruit here to put into the retail market this week Harbor Springs is becoming somewhat inflated over a supposed find of iron ore near that place.

Mrs. Ella Smith took first prize on a silk crazy patchwork quilt at the Traverse City fair last week.

Mrs. Bradley's sale last Saturday was well attended, and some of the articles brought good prices.

Work has been commenced on a large eastern for fire protection on the southeast corner of the school lot.

Bradlow's portable photo gallery has been removed from the lot adjoint Burhlsdorner & Co's. warehouse.

The W. C. T. U. will hold their regular weekly temperance meeting at the M. E. church, next Sunday evening.

The Pilgrim has returned to its line, and the Progress pages will be brightened from his exhaustless fund of humor.

A friend in Detroit has donated a lot of small chairs, for the use of the infant class, in the Baptist Sunday-school.

Dr. G. W. Crouter is in Grand Rapids this week, attending the annual meeting of the state pharmaceutical association.

A large invoice of ruled and flat papers, cardboard, etc., just received. Call and examine, before you order your winter supply.

We understand prohibition clubs have been organized at East Jordan and other towns in the south-eastern part of the county.

Rev. J. T. Isbings has moved into D. C. Loveday's house on south bridge street, Mr. Loveday having moved his family to East Jordan.

The Enterprise says that Mrs. Lahoun president of the state W. C. T. U., is engaged for one lecture at East Jordan in the near future.

Married, in Charlevoix, by Rev. J. T. Isbings, Oct. 11th, 1886, Mr. Marcus S. Moulton, of East Jordan, and Mrs. Marion Parsons, of Chicago, Ill.

There will be preaching at the M. E. Church next Sunday morning, probably by the new pastor. If he does not arrive the Presiding Elder will send a supply.

Dr. L. S. Ellis, of Manistee, prohibition candidate for Congress from this district, is billed to speak on the subject of prohibition, at the opera house, this (Thursday) evening, at 7:30.

The Cheboygan News is the title of a crisp little semi-weekly paper just started in Cheboygan. It is devoted to the cause of the labor party. Success, neighbor.

Baldwin's old photo. gallery, occupied by Chas. Swallow as a paint shop, on the lot in the rear of the post-office, has been torn down and moved to the lot adjoining Bartholomew's warehouse.

Chas. S. Hampton was nominated for representative by acclamation in joint convention of democratic and greenback parties at Cheboygan. There was no other name presented. Hampton will be the next representative from that district.

The Charlevoix county prohibition club have issued a large edition of a four-page circular, advocating an organized prohibition movement, and the nomination of a county ticket, for this fall's campaign. It is called "The Temperance Eye."

Two sisters of Dan Jerrne, and the father and one brother of Dan's wife, all of Meadon, visited Charlevoix last Saturday. Dan is converting them to the beauties of this region. They are all, as a matter course, very enthusiastic in their support of Yaple for governor

"The Engineer" program got out by our foreman, Mel Livingston, for the entertainment Wednesday night is the neatest and most artistic specimen of the typographical art ever executed in the village. That is, the public say; and they are the very best of judges."—Manistique Sun.

The Board of Corrections and Charities are desirous to ascertain the number, residences, and circumstances of the class commonly known as imbeciles or idiots in Michigan. They will be indebted to any person who will communicate such information to L. C. Storrs, Secretary, Lansing, Mich.

The prohibitionists of Charlevoix township met at the opera house last Friday evening and organized a prohibition club, with 14 members. Officers were elected as follows: Pres. Mr. Jeffries, 1st vice-pres. R. A. Campbell; 2d vice-pres. B. Suffield; sec'y, Prof. J. B. Allen; treas., D. C. Nettleton.

"The Charlevoix JOURNAL says that Kilbern & Bowman were the only exhibitors of agricultural implements at the East Jordan fair. They must have an enterprising lot of dealers in farm machinery in Charlevoix county to let Emmet county make the only exhibit in that line—Petoskey Record.

Mrs. R. A. Campbell, Mrs. C. J. Strang, Mrs. G. W. Jefferies, Mrs. J. A. Hawkins, Mrs. L. Benson, Miss Anna Cooper, Mrs. L. D. Ranney, of Charlevoix, and Mrs. J. H. Stone, Mrs. Barbour and Mrs. Bryant, of East Jordan, are in attendance at the W. C. T. U. convention in Petoskey this week.

F. J. Mayhory, traveling agent of the G. R. & I. R. R., made us a call yesterday, in the interest of the special excursion to Detroit next Tuesday, the 19th. He finds much enthusiasm in regard to it, and expects to have a full train. To accommodate people from Charlevoix, the Clara Bells will make an early trip to Petoskey, leaving Charlevoix in time to connect with the excursion train.

App M. Smith has issued the first number of the Manistee Broadaxe. App has the faculty of getting at once right to the heart of his subject, and when it is known that he is devoted to Cutcheon's defeat this fall the contents of the Broadaxe may be well understood. It also contains a good deal of local news, and App announces that he has come to stay. We wish him abundant success.

The Detroit Graphic News, of Oct. 24, contains a double supplement, with the portraits of all the candidates for state officers on the fusion ticket, and also Don M. Dickinson of the national committee, and I. M. Weston, chairman of the state central committee. The paper also contains the portraits of other prominent people, views of public buildings, and much other valuable and interesting matter

The Graphic News advertises a grand holiday number to be ready early next month, to contain 50 pages of original masterpieces of art, one of which will be produced in sixteen colors. There will be three illuminated double supplements, and an illuminated cover. Annual subscriptions will include this magnificent work of art. Single copies, 50 cents. Order of your newsdealers, or address C. F. Bragg, proprietor, 135 Main street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Grand Haven Herald: Is there any limit to the wealth of Michigan? Fruit, grain and lumber without measure. Salt without end. Richest copper mines in the world. Then for iron the Gogebic range this year turns out 800,000 tons of the finest quality. A paying gold mine at Ishpeming. And now at Manistee, that most fortunate man, R. G. Peters, has struck a paying oil well, and no man knows better than he how to put his wealth to good use.

A friend in St. Louis, Mo., sends us some fine colored lithograph representations of the magnificent street pageant of the Veiled Prophet in that city, Oct. 5th. The procession included representations of some of the most important events in American history, as well as the greatest perfection in all of the important manufactures and trades of that city which can be represented in an actual living, moving panorama. This is a great annual attraction for the metropolis of the southwest.

It is very inconsistent on the part of the Hon. Byron M. Cutcheon to favor protective tariff under the plea that it affords employment to wage-workers, and at the same time advocate the building of forts, ships, sea-coast defenses, and government buildings to employ the surplus labor in the country! If the tariff really affords means of employment, Why the surplus of labor? Mr. Cutcheon, you must go to the foot of the class. You cannot answer the question.—Manistee Democrat.

F. W. Mayne is about to occupy his new house on the Dixon addition. Fred has a conspicuous place on north Bridge street, opposite W. A. Brown's, and when the final finish of color is on it will be a handsome place. Inside it is conveniently and comfortably arranged. There are three large rooms, connected by double doors, with a convenient kitchen, pantry, etc., on the first floor, and several sleeping rooms above. The whole is finished with white walls and birch woodwork. The double doors show some handsome panel work. Mr. Mayne has reason to feel proud of his new home.

Two years ago Mr. Cutcheon spoke to a large meeting of workingmen at the salvation army barracks in this city. He said: "The protection on lumber is $2 per thousand. Who gets the benefit of this? It is the workingmen." After the meeting was over some of the workingmen met on a corner and were discussing the matter. One of them, who was a foreman in a mill, scratched his head and said: "I can't get this man Cutcheon's arithmetic through my head. Our mill saws 200,000 a day. If the protection is $2 per M., that would make $400. We employ 150 men at average wages $1.50 per day, that makes an entire day's pay roll $225. Now who gets the balance, $175?"—Muskegon News-Reporter.

The editor of the Boyne Citizen fails to comprehend how any newspaper can print a communication at variance with the convictions of the editor, and abuse the editor of the JOURNAL for permitting the publication of the communication from Mr. Chapman. Yet the same editor was granted space on two occasions within the past year to advocate measures at variance with the opinions of the editor of the JOURNAL. Come, now, wake up from your narrow-minded-ness, and concede that a newspaper is not necessarily the ideas of one man, but a means of communication for the people. One of the best elements of success in the conduct of the JOURNAL has been the fact that it granted an opponent a hearing, and allows no one without a chance to be heard in defense. We have no desire to change the system.

School Report.

The following is the average standing of pupils in district No. 5, Hayes, at the monthly examination, Oct. 8th, Nellie M. Barnett, teacher.

	1. Reading.	2. Spelling.	3. Arithmetic.	4. Geography.	5. Civil Gov't.	6. Grammar.	7. Physology.
Frank Newman	75	98	95	85		85
Ella Newman	73	98	92	85		85	88
Ernest Jackson		90	85	78		75	50
Minnie Jackson	90	95	92	78
Lottie Jackson	90	95	92	78	72	72
Ella Ashley	85	95	95	90
A. McArthur	85	95	95	90
James Carey	75	95	95	90

Three Months Free.

The publishers of that excellent monthly, The Housekeeper, Minneapolis, Minn., offer to send it free for three months to any lady who sends them the postoffice address of twenty ladies who are keeping house. The addresses may be at one or several postoffices, but must be sent before November 15th, 1886. The Housekeeper is one of the best publications in the country.—Adv.

For Register of Deeds.

To the electors of Charlevoix County.

At the request of many friends from different parts of the county, I take this method of announcing myself an independent candidate for the office of Register of Deeds, and would most respectfully ask your suffrages.

FRED J. MERCH.

Charlevoix, Sept. 12, 1886.

M. E. Church, Ironton.

There will be preaching in the M. E. church at Ironton, next Sunday at 11 o'clock a. m.

At the evening service there will be the sacrament of baptism, and the reception of persons into the church, followed by a sermon.

Only 25 Cents

buys a perfect remedy for your stomach, diarrhoea, worms, convulsions, feverishness, and loss of sleep. TO ℔ Dr. Fahey's Magic Pain Oil. It effectually relieves Colic and internal pains. Sold by Perry Weed and Dr. G. W. Crouter.

DRY GOODS!

We offer for the next few days Great Bargains in all

----SUMMER DRESS GOODS----

Shawls, White Goods, Parasols, Silk and Thread Gloves, Hosiery, Straw Hats, etc.

NEW LINE OF BROADHEAD DRESS GOODS, Just received and marked at very low prices.

Jersey and Boucle Jackets, Very Cheap.

Staple & Fancy Groceries,

In great variety and at correct prices. The finest line of

Teas, Coffees, Spices.

PLANTATION JAVA COFFEE, - BEST IN THE WORLD.

Farmers will consult their own interests in buying our

FACTORY FILLED DAIRY SALT.

J. L. HURD & CO.

Cloaks ! Cloaks !!

Just Received, at

ROSENTHAL & SON'S,

The largest line of FALL and WINTER CLOAKS that ever was brought to Charlevoix. All styles in Short Wraps, New Markets and Street Jackets. Also a big line of CHILDREN'S CLOAKS. Now is the time to make your choice, as the assortment is large and prices are low. Be sure to come and see them, whether you buy or not,—no trouble to show goods.

ROSENTHAL & SON.

Most Excellent.

J. J. Atkins, chief of police, Knoxville, Tenn., writes: "My family and I are beneficiaries of your most excellent medicine, Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, having found it to be all that you claim for it, desire to testify to its virtue. My friends to whom I have recommended it, praise it at every opportunity." Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption is guaranteed to cure coughs, colds, bronchitis, asthma, croup, and every affection of throat, chest and lungs. Trial bottles free at Dr. G. W. Crouter's drug store. Large size $1.00. 2

WM. J. STEVENSON,

HORSE-SHOEING,

Wagon Shop,

BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture my spring wagons from the best material, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX

☞ The OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale. 12

The above Eyeglass invented by the Johnson Optical Co., of Detroit, Mich., combines the best features of all others.

1st. The spring is made strong enough away that the eye-lashes will not touch them, a thing not always easy to do with other eyeglasses.

2d. The springs are set so as to take the nose back under eye-brows, which prevents slipping and annoyance.

3d. The bridge is on the fleshy part of the nose above the bone, which is much more comfortable than to have it on the bone, and is particularly to the nose whether large or small.

4th. The lenses are set at right angles to line of vision.

5th. They can be worn safely without chain as there is no danger of falling off.

6th. We warrant them to be the easiest eyeglass in the market.

C. R. BELLINGER,

Optician and Jeweler, Charlevoix, Mich.

At the Old Stand.

A. J. McLeod

Can be found at the old stand with a

FULL STOCK OF MEATS

Of all kinds

At Wholesale and Retail.

HIDES, PELTS, & FAT STOCK WANTED

Jos. Beauvais

BOAT-BUILDER.

The Best Modeled, Easiest Rowing, and Best Sailing Boats in Northern Michigan, for the Least Money. Give me a Trial. I am bound to Please.

Boat Livery

In connection with shop.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

John Nicholls,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Manufacturer of and dealer in

HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER!

ALSO

Dressed lumber, Oar Blades,

WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

New Grocery!

Cor. Antrim and Grant Streets,

A. J. MUDGE

Would respectfully announce to the people of Charlevoix and vicinity, especially to the residents of the southeastern part of town, and all coming in from the south, that he has opened a stock of Groceries in his building on the corner of Antrim and Grant streets, and will be pleased to give him a trial.

BUTTER AND EGGS WANTED

J. A. HEATH,

Furniture and Jobbing Shop

ANTRIM STREET,

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICH.

All kinds of furniture made to order, old furniture repaired, and shop work of all kinds promptly attended to, and satisfaction guaranteed.

☞ Give Me a Call.

JAMES HEMMINGS,

On Mason St., third door west of State, Charlevoix

HOUSE PAINTER,

Calciminer,

Paper Harger,

And Decorator.

PINE AND HARDWOOD FINISHING. GOOD WORK.

F. E. Wood,

BARBER SHOP

And Bath Rooms.

Hot and Cold Baths at any hour of the day and evening.

Harbor Springs, Petoskey, Charlevoix, and East Jordan.

STEAMER THOMAS PRIANT.

CAPT. W. VANDERMEULEN.

Monday—Leave Harbor Springs 7:00, Petoskey 8:00, Charlevoix 9, arrive East Jordan 11:45.

Tuesday—Leave East Jordan 1:30, Charlevoix 4:00, Petoskey 5:00, Harbor Springs 6:00. Close connections at Petoskey with the C. & W. M. R. R. trains, both and south.

School Books and School Supplies

Our Prices are Rock Bottom, Lower than ever!

We have a full supply of every book used in the Charlevoix schools. Also a full supply for every school in the county.

Something New

In Scratch Books, Spelling Slips, Inks, Pens, Pencils, Rulers, Slates Chalks, School Registers, Etc.

The largest stock of Blank Books in the county!

☞ If you want to save money, call at

G. W. CROUTER'S Drug & Stationery Store,

For supplies in general.

Temperance Column.

Conducted by a Committee of the W. C. T. U.

OFFICERS.

President—Mrs. G. W. Jefferies.
First Vice President—Mrs. T. K. Sludge.
Second Vice President—Mrs. L. Hodge.
Recording Secretary—Miss Julia Moore.
Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. L. E. Allen.
Treasurer—Mrs. C. Strong.

At the annual meeting of the national W. C. T. U. in Philadelphia last Oct. a request came from twenty-one leading pastors of the city, that the convention designate a certain Sunday in each year to be known as temperance Sunday, throughout the world, and that the W. C. T. U. exert its influence in all its local unions, to secure its observance in all churches. In accordance with the request Sunday, Oct. 17th has been designated for 1886. In compliance, union service will be held in the M. E. church of this place which will be made a memorial service in honor of the cruelly murdered Geo. Haddock. The meeting will be addressed by the different pastors and others. All are invited to be present. The pastors will preach temperance sermons at their regular morning services. It is also desired that superintendents of Sunday schools give some time to the subject of temperance in their schools on that day.

Committee of W. C. T. U.

The Destiny of Prohibition.

The following is an extract from the speech of Hon. Chas. S. Wolfe:

The prohibition party has a vital, comprehensive, all-pervading a transcendant issue—the total and universal prohibition of the rum traffic. It has a right-eous cause—the suppression of that dreadful curse, intemperance. It has a grand and glorious mission—the physical, mental, and moral improvement of the citizens and the development of patriotism, philanthropy and statesmanship in the nation.

But prohibition laws will not of themselves prohibit any more than license laws will of themselves prevent illegal or unlicensed traffic, or disanti-discrimination laws or constitutional provisions will of themselves prevent discriminations. We must have able, pure and fearless judges to enforce them, when enunciated, in their spirit and in their letter. We must have capable vigilant, courageous, and faithful officers to ferret out and bring to trial and punishment all violators of them.

This necessarily brings the subject into politics. The saloon is and always has been, in politics as a very ugly and very potent factor. Prohibition must be there also, as an equally powerful, if not a more potential force.

How, then, can prohibitionists exert their political power most effectively, in securing the election of such men as these were? Can they best do it through the agency of the republican and democratic parties, or through a third party, organized upon the distinctive issue of prohibition?

The trouble with the old party leaders, and many of the members also, is that they cannot rid their minds of the delusion that somehow or other the party has a sort of a progressive, and ever-to-grow, sacred character to it, that it is logically repugnant to any such an one to dare to think of working out the political rights and interests of the citizen, or to attempt to persuade others so to do, through any other political channel. I see a great misfortune for the cause of prohibition and every other good cause as well as for the great cause of popular government, that so many good, intelligent, and patriotic members of both the great political parties without pausing even to acknowledge the solidity of the claim. They seem to have a lingering notion that anyone who bolts left the party have left a grave temporarily, impelled by some condition of passion or disappointment, or to secure some trifling or transitory gain. They cannot realize that prohibitionists, disheartened and disgusted it may be by the persistent greed, arrogance, and corruption of party leaders, and the disposition of the party masses to sustain and even vindicate them therein can have none, not only never to return themselves, but also to use all the power of logic and persuasion with which they may be endowed to convince those who still remain that it is their duty to follow them. They would not if they could, detach a single man until the path of duty is clear to him. They would, however, beseechingly implore those who still remain not to allow partisan pride to blind their eyes to the light of truth, nor partisan bitterness to check the free and genial flow of patriotic impulse in their hearts.

With these conditions fixed we move forward in joyful confidence that the day is not distant—never than some will believe—when the forces of king Alcohol and the entire prohibition army, no longer intermingled in confusion, shall meet in deadly conflict and victory be won.

Thus we have argued, and to some extent, at least, endeavored to show that total and universal legal prohibition is necessary to the proper protection and preservation of society and maintenance of every government. third party prohibitionists need offer no apology for their existence. On the contrary, they may justly challenge the old parties to justify their own continuance, and they may earnestly and hopefully appeal to the intelligence, the patriotism, and the sense of duty of their adherents, that laying aside all frivolous excuses they shall without delay, they shall join in swelling their bold, of earnest, self-sacrificing, and struggling patriots into a grand and victorious army.

Is there in all our broad land a single human being, male or female, new-born babe or grey-haired man, black or white, dweller in mansion, hovel or in palatial mansion, clothed in rags or arrayed in royal robes, ignorant as the beast of the field or wise as Solomon, pure as snow or detum incarnadine—who this demon alcohol does not in some way touch?

Is there a single piece of property, real, personal, or mixed—timber, farming, manufacturing, on land, on mountain top or valley deep, or prairie, along flowing river, or by placid lakes; in manufactories, mines, business houses, or in houses; on railroads, lines of telephone and telegraph; in ocean, lake, or river craft; in stocks of goods, in granaries of grain, in herds of cattle, in household goods, in articles of necessity, or those of virtue, in stocks, bonds, notes, judgments, or mortgages whose value it does not affect?

Is there a trade, calling, or profession—employer or employe, master or servant, principle or agent, pastor or flock, in city, town, or country, on farm, in manufactory, in mine or in commerce—that it does not reach?

Is there a single human being, a single relation in life, a single article of property, a single spot, a single human interest in all this broad land that this spirit of evil does not influence, for good in the mass for harm? It leaves its impress on body, mind and immortal soul. It enters homes, influences social, political, yes, and religious life. It not only spans our continent but it girdles the globe. It reaches from time to eternity. Its home is in the deepest and blackest abyss of hell. God-illumined heaven alone is beyond his reach.

Surely the issue which prohibition makes with a power so universal and pervasive must be a broad and all-pervading one. This issue the prohibitionists makes as a citizen in the exercise of his rights and powers of citizenship, in the interest of the citizen, and in harmony with every other instrumentality that has in view the suppression of intemperance.

The church of Christ does not shut its eyes to its duty. It dare not refuse to carry the principle of its holy religion into the responsible duties of citizenship. It does not tarry. No trivil excuse dare delay. The urgency is most pressing. God's warning is spread in immense letters of living light all the way across the broad front of the republic. "Righteousness exalteth a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people." The harvest is white, but the laborers have been few. But, thank God, they are coming! From the broad prairies of the west, from Iowa, from Kansas, and from far-off Oregon. Little Bloody is lighting anew the pathway of those who in the past have been lost in the wilderness of old party prohibition. Almost like a supernatural revelation, but with holy and patriotic impulsion to us, up from the broad savannas of the battle-furrowed, blood-irrigated south, come the joyful tiding of willing and determined helpers. What a grand field for Christian faith, for patriotic impulse, for heroic effort!

What a glorious opportunity for forever closing the dreadful wounds left by our civil war; for winning the sincere affection, the perfect confidence, and most enthusiastic co-operation of our brothers of the south, by the accomplishment of the grandest, noblest, and most beneficent reform that patriots ever undertook for and only firmly and immovably reconciling our dearly-bought, dearly-preserved republic upon the broad, deep, sure foundations of public virtue and public confidence, but also utterly disintegrating the solid south, thoroughly obliterating every vestige of the color line, and completely mending every fissure, crack, and abrasion caused by the earthquake shock of civil war. Then the white banner of prohibition, with the stars and stripes shall float over every equatorial, state and national, and we shall be a united, virtuous, happy, united people, United States, a perfect full union. In Demorest's Monthly for October.

The sale of intoxicating drink, so prevalent and debasing, is continued for the sake of filthy lucre. Everyone engaged in the business of dealing out the liquid poison to the poor inebriate, feels that it is a degrading and murderous employment, that the misfortune of the inebriate's family rests upon him, that public sentiment brands him with odium, that God in his word is saying, "Woe unto him that giveth his neighbor drink, that putteth the bottle to him, and maketh him drunken." Yet such is his predominant love of money that he continues his nefarious traffic.

In an appeal to the young by W. Jennings Demorest, he concludes thus: "A few more fleeting years, and all our sons, and our daughters, girls, too, will be privileged to cast their ballots for those who will have the making and executing of the laws. In this country we are all sovereigns, and it depends on you to say whether the rum-power shall rule the land or whether prohibition of the liquor traffic shall be our grand solution."

Does It Pay?

Three-fourths of our people are troubled with dyspepsia or liver complaint in some form or other, which by nature of the disease has a depressing influence on the mind or body, preventing them from thinking or acting clearly in any matter of importance. Indigestion, coming on of food after eating, dyspepsia, sick headache, acidity of the stomach or any derangement of the stomach or liver upon which the whole action of our system depends are specifically and certainly overcome by the use of Green's August Flower. The most stubborn cases have yielded to its influence, as thousands of letters received will testify. The immense sale of this medicine is another guarantee of its merits, over a million and a half bottles sold last year. So we ask, will it pay you to suffer from any of the above diseases when you can have immediate relief in Green's August Flower. Three doses will prove its worth. It is sold by all druggists and general dealers in all parts of the world. 2cow

Burdock's Arnica Salve.

The Best Salve in the world for cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Dr. G. W. Crouter.

STAUFFER'S BROADCAST Hand-Seeder.

This new invention possesses many qualities peculiarly adapted to farmers of this vicinity.

TEN REASONS

1. It sows the roughest or smoothest soils.
2. It sows evenly all kinds of grain and seeds, large and small. Wheat, barley, flower timothy, rutta bagas, etc.
3. It sows any desired quantity. One-fourth pound of rutta bagas seed can be spread over an acre of ground with perfect ease and accuracy.
4. It sows rapidly. With wheat it covers 40 feet to the round. Clover 42; clover and timothy mixed 36. Ten acres of clover sowed in 2½ hours.
5. It is not affected by quite a strong wind.
6. It is quickly adjusted to different quantities of grain.
7. It cannot clog.
8. It is easily operated.
9. It is cheap.
10. It is durable.

Patented by ISAAC STAUFFER, of Carpenter, Kansas Co., Mich. Sold by

UPRIGHT & EMREY, Charlevoix, Mich.

Owing to Special Rates in Photographic Stock, I will continue to make

Cabinet Photographs at $4.00 per Dozen

Until further notice.

Dave Bradbeer, Photographer, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

More Room! More Goods!!

THE ROUND OAK AND SQUARE BASE Heating Stoves.

Complete Stock of Hardware!

VERY BEST PUMPS

Job and Tin Work. L. D. BARTHOLOMEW & CO.

Come and See our Immense Stock of

BOOTS AND SHOES.

FOX & MILLER.

HENRY C. COOPER

Undertaker!

CHARLEVOIX MICHIGAN.

Coffins, Caskets, and Trimmings Always in Stock.

Come and See my Stock of Furniture.

ALL ORDERS BY TELEPHONE RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION

Charlevoix Manufacturing Company,

MANUFACTURERS OF

Sash, Doors and Blinds.

Screen Doors and Windows, and Mouldings of all Descriptions.

Newell Posts, Banisters, and Stair Rail, of Soft and Hard Wood. kept in Stock and Made and Put Up to Order.

A GOOD STOCK OF

PINE AND BASSWOOD SIDING,

FLOORING, CEILING, AND FORESTED LUMBER KEPT ON HAND.

Also Contractors, Builders, and General Jobbers

Summer Cottages a Specialty

CHARLEVOIX. MICHIGAN.

PERRY WEED,

DRUGGIST AND STATIONER,

OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

A Large Stock of

Furniture!

IN

Oak, Maple, Ash, and Cherry,

JUST RECEIVED BY THE

PINE LAKE IRON COMPANY

IRONTON, MICH.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 171. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1886. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL

Published every Thursday,

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN

Street, Near Bridge Street.

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX MICH. AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

WATCH YOUR ADDRESS LABEL.

The date following this name on your address label indicates the time to which your subscription is paid. If in arrears, you are requested to pay up.

BUSINESS CARDS.

ATTORNEYS.

A. STRUCK, E. MARTIN, Attorneys at Law, Boyne City, Michigan. Collections promptly attended to.

CHUBB & GRIEER, Attorneys at Law and Proctors in Admiralty. Office in Bulkley Block, CHARLEVOIX, Mich. O. A. CHUBB. F. G. GRIEER.

DAVIS, Office, Attorney at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents. Lake St., east of postoffice, Petoskey, Mich.

FRED. W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor, Real Estate business promptly attended to. MONEY TO LOAN.

L. C. VENEMAN, Attorney at Law and Judge of Probate of Emmet Co., Petoskey, Mich.

MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

OSCAR F. WINNER, Attorney at Law and Counsel in Admiralty. Practice in Northwestern District. East Jordan, Mich.

W. MOORE, Attorney and Solicitor, East Jordan. Admiralty a Specialty.

Z. S. GARRETT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

CHURCHES.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH—Sunday services at 10 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting Sunday evening at 6. All seatings free. At Geneva's hall, over F. W. Cyrier & Co.'s store. W. O. CLARK, pastor.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:00 o'clock. C. P. VAN ANDEL, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer and praise meeting Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. J. T. INGHAM, pastor.

DENTISTRY.

N. J. PERRY, Dentist. Rooms over Dr. Land's Drug store, CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

B. SHEFFIELD, Homeopathic Medicines Books, Domestic Cases, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

PHYSICIANS.

L. LEWIS, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office in Lewis block, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. M. PERSTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HORACE S. HARSHA, Notary Public. Real Estate, Loans, Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

G. A. R.—Rexter Post No. 119, meets second Monday in each month at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 361, meets every Wednesday evening, in their hall.

K. O. T. M.—Resort Tent No. 136, meets second and fourth Tuesday every month at Odd Fellows' hall.

L. O. L.—True Blues No. 187, meet Saturday on or before the full moon, in their hall.

MASONIC.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 293, meets Tuesday on or before full moon, in their hall.

W. V. BROWN, Cashier. W. A. BROWN, Ass't Cashier.

Brown & Co.'s Bank of Charlevoix

Capital, $100,000.

Drafts drawn direct upon the principal cities of Europe. Money to loan on approved security. Good securities bought and sold. Tickets to and from all parts of Europe by best lines. CORRESPONDENTS.—Lazard, Speyer, Ellissen, New York; First National Bank, Chicago; Merchants and Manufacturers National Bank, Detroit; Fourth National Bank, Grand Rapids.

THE JOURNAL.

1872. 1886.

DR. G. W. CROUTER,

Drugs, Stationery and Wall Paper.

Dental Office in Rear of Drug Store.

TEN CENTS

each insertion. (This rate will average about twenty words to a line. Each additional line, three cents each insertion.)

HOUSE TO RENT. Nine rooms and cellar, cistern, etc. Three minutes' walk from postoffice. Inquire at this office.

JOB PRINTING of every description executed promptly, neatly, artistically, and cheaply, at the JOURNAL Office.

JOHN HOGAN, HOUSE PAINTER AND DECORATOR, Charlevoix, Mich. Residence one door west of Sanford's.

LETTER HEADS, Note Heads, Statements, Bill Heads, neat, cheap, and quick, at the JOURNAL Office.

WANTED.—Men to cut ponds and tie up ice. Apply to GEO. BURGE, livery barn, or JUDICE DIXON, Terrace Farm, Charlevoix.

Terrace Farm

J. R. & J. S. DIXON Charlevoix, Mich.

Dairy, Vegetable, and Stock Farm. Thoroughbreds and Grade Holsteins a specialty

COMMERCIAL HOUSE

D. B. TERRILL, Proprietor.

East Jordan, Michigan.

Entirely rebuilt and refurnished. First-class Sample Room for agents. Good Stable in Connection with the House. 23

FARMERS' HOTEL,

WM. RANGER, MANAGER,

CHARLEVOIX ..... MICHIGAN.

Excellent accommodation for the city boarders and for farmers with their families who want a good dinner. Good stable for feeding horses. The management of this house will not interfere with my usual work in the boot & shoe trade. WM. RANGER.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,

RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix - Michigan.

Finest location in town, giving good view of Lake and Pleasure Grounds. Express office, and headquarters for Petoskey and Elk Rapids Stages. Good manger room for commercial travelers adjoining hotel.

WELL DIGGING.

I am prepared to dig, drive, and repair wells of all kinds, and guarantee satisfaction. Leave orders with Stockman & Iddings.

E. W. BENNETT, Charlevoix, Mich.

MISS L. SPAULDING.

MILLINERY

and Fancy Goods.

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

Millinery And Fancy Goods!

A Splendid Line of Ribbons, Ladies' Gloves, Zephyrs, Laces, Ladies' Fine Underwear, and Stamping Goods always on hand at Lowest Prices.

Smith & Cooper,

At the Ingleside.

THE GRAND RAPIDS

DAILY DEMOCRAT

Is the popular paper of Western Michigan. Contains the associated press dispatches. Sent by mail at

50 CENTS A MONTH!

Only eleven and one-half cts. a week.

Try it.

Poster Printing

Quick and Cheap,

At the Journal Office.

YAPLE RALLY.

Hon. Geo. L. Yaple, fusion candidate for Governor, will speak at Charlevoix, Saturday afternoon, October 23d. Everybody COME! Voters, bring your wives and children, and see the next Governor of Michigan.

Union Mass Meetings.

HON. GEO. L. YAPLE.

Charlevoix, Oct. 23, afternoon.

A. D. CRUICKSHANK.

Ironton, Oct. 22, evening.

L. A. TABOR.

Charlevoix, Oct. 23, afternoon.

Boyne Falls, Oct. 26, evening.

H. B. HUDSON.

Charlevoix, Oct. 23, afternoon.

Atwood, Oct. 23, evening.

Around the County.

Wilson.

A heavy rain and wind-storm on Oct. 19th.

Frosty but delightful weather at present.

A logging bee at Geo. Bowen's and a boy at Mr. Hery's in the evening, on Monday last.

Mr. Ed. Nowlan, brother of Abner Nowlan of this place, has moved in to spend the winter.

We regret that we were not represented at the prohibition convention, but hope to poll some votes for the good cause.

Mr. Geo. Milburn lies very low with consumption. Mrs. Lewis was taken, seriously ill on Sunday last.

We learn that Mr. Horn, of Boyne Falls, proprietor of the grist mill there, died last week.

Burgess.

The Adventists commence a series of meetings at the Murray school house this week Wednesday, and will continue them throughout the week and perhaps longer.

Mr. and Mrs. Andy Holmes were visiting at Peter Kauss the first of the week.

Mr. Geo. O. Scott expects the steam threshing machine at his place this week.

While a vessel was loading ties at Oyster Bay, one day last week, they came near having a free fight,—cause, some Italians and too much abbsentee.

Mr. and Mrs. John Newstead buried one of their little children one day last week. They have the sympathy of their friends and neighbors in their bereavement.

The Tariff and Wages.

A correspondent wishes to ask if Senator Logan told the truth in his Pittsburg speech when he said that the advance of wages from 1860 to 1880 is one hundred and fifty per cent?

In one aspect of the matter Senator Logan did tell the truth. The "advance" in the total amount paid out as wages from 1860 to 1880 was not far from the rate named. In other words the amount paid as wages in 1860 was $378,878,000, while in 1880 it was $917,953,000.

In the impression sought to be conveyed the statement was not true. What Senator Logan meant his hearers to understand was that individual wages had increased one hundred and fifty per cent, when the fact is that the increase was but twenty per cent.

Mr. J. I. Moore, the New York economist, sets Senator Logan right on this point in a communication to the New York Times. He also sets him right and at the same time enlightens the workingman on another point—the point so often urged by protectionists that the workingman is better off because his wages are higher than in 1860. Replying to Senator Logan he gives a test case to show that the laborer or mechanic is worse off at present under our barbarous tariff than he was in 1860 under a revenue tariff.

Senator Logan spoke in Pittsburgh and I will therefore take a laborer who works in a "forge" or "rolling mill." This class of labor was paid with $983 per annum in 1860 in Pennsylvania, and in 1880 the same labor was paid $414 per annum. Well, then, if the man engaged in his labor be a single man he had to board and lodge in either period. It so happens that only a few days ago the census bureau issued the twentieth volume, which shows the cost of necessaries of life—house rent, board, etc. If Senator Logan or any other orator on the high tariff will consult volume 20, page 110, line 33, of the census report he will find that in 1861 board per week for men in Philadelphia was $3 and for women $1.75, and in 1880 men's board was $5 per week and women's board $2.50.

In Sharon, in Pennsylvania, the board, per week for men in 1860 was $2.50, and in 1880 it was $4.50. These being statistical facts, which can be verified by consulting the volume, page, and line which I give, I shall just make a little calculation and see how far our friend working in a forge has benefited by dint of the high tariff. In 1860-61 this workingman had to pay $156 per annum, at $3 a week for his board. His earnings in 1860-61 were, as I stated, $983. If we deduct the $156 for board from the above, the workingman had $227 left for all other necessaries. Now, then, let us turn to 1880. Board, as I stated, was $5 a week in Philadelphia; his board, therefore, would have been $260. His year's earnings, as I have shown, was $414. If we deduct $260 from $414, we get a balance of $154, or $73 less than under the revenue tariff of 1860.

Now, I need hardly say that this increase is still more potent in clothing, blankets, or any other manufactured good that are enhanced by our tariff system, and is an actual fact the workingman has, as we all know, to pay more for his luxuries of tobacco, spirits and beer.

If the workingman is married and has a family, then I am sure he is worse off, as the increase in his rent and other necessaries of a household is more severely felt. I cannot dismiss this subject without calling attention to Senator Logan's remarkable assertion that "under our system of protection farm products are to day higher, while manufactured goods are lower, than in 1860."

As an actual fact, wheat is ten cents per bushel less this year than it was in 1860. As for cotton, that is much lower than in 1860. Altogether, the statistics and deductions of Senator Logan are not a success.—Free Press.

Yaple's Tour Through the 9th District.

The ninth congressional district never had such a shaking up for the union cause as that commenced last Monday and still in operation by the "Boy from Mendon." Words would almost fail to describe the ovation given the young and daring champion of the great reforms of the day. Hon. George L. Yaple, Michigan's next governor. On Monday afternoon, he opened at Manton, where delegations from Kalkaska, Manistee, Charlevoix, Lake, and other counties flocked to hear him. Col. S. W. Fowler closed the meeting. In the evening he held forth at Reed City, Osceola county and turned out such a crowd of humanity that the oldest inhabitant could not recall such an assembling. On Tuesday evening, the political situation in Mecosta county was given a send off that in itself spoke in tones not to be completely captured by a mere whose political creed differs so widely from mine. He is a perfect Demosthenes. His voice is clear, sonorous and grand, his mein dignified and graceful and manly, his delivery perfect and the manner in which he sets forth his argument, carried conviction even to the most careless listener. I am inclined to think he is about right."—Muskegon News.

A Million Dollars.

Millions of dollars would be saved annually by the invalids of every community, if, instead of calling a physician for every ailment, they were wise enough to put their trust in Golden Seal Bitters, a certain cure for all diseases arising from an impure state of the blood and liver, such as scrofula in its various forms, rheumatism, dyspepsia, or indigestion, female irregularities, diseases of the kidneys and bladder, exposure and imprudences of life. No person can take these bitters according to instructions, and remain long unwell, provided the bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair. Golden Seal Bitters numbers on its list of cures more than any other medicine known, and have already acquired a great celebrity, being used generally as a family medicine. Sold by Perry Weed and Dr. G. W. Crouter.

Money Refunded.

The true remedy has at last been discovered. It was long known in his practice as Dr. Peter's Lung Food for Consumption. It is now called Dr. Peter's Recent Cough Cure. It is the safest, the surest and the best. No other cough, cold, and consumption remedy, is half its equal. We warrant it and will promptly refund the money paid for it if a beneficial effect is not experienced by the time two-thirds of the contents of the bottle is used. Sold by Perry Weed and Dr. G. W. Crouter.

Every wife and mother in the country should know the great value of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, as a blood purifier. It gives tone, health, and strength, to the vital organs, corrects all irregularities, and expels impurities from the system. Young and old use it. Price $1.

Why suffer with that aching head when you may be cured with Ayer's Cathartic Pills? Send 2 cent stamp to Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass., for a set of their attractive album cards.

Tribute to Mason.

At the county convention at Hart, Oceana county, recently, N. DeLong of this city, made the principle speech before the fusion forces. In referring to the speech the Oceana Co. Tribune said.

"His manly tribute to Lyman G. Mason, our nominee for congress, was a compliment, which while more than deserved by Mr. Mason, carried with it double force, coming as it did from a man between whom and Mr. Mason there never existed the most friendly feeling. 'We are not the best of friends,' said Mr. DeLong to a reporter after the address, 'but I feel bound to say this for Lyman G. Mason: No man ever came to this county laden and went away without material assistance. During the great Muskegon strike a few years ago, when the over-worked men up there wanted to reduce the working hours to ten, Mr. Mason on a man who hired as many men as any other manufacturer in Muskegon, stood by the boys from beginning to end and from first to last opposed in committee the idea advocated by the employers down there of importing cheap Canadian labor. Every year since that memorable time the workingmen of Muskegon have wanted to run Lyman G. Mason for Mayor. Last spring they succeeded in getting his consent, and he carried the city by storm. That is how Mr. Mason stands in the place where he is best known, and no higher compliment can be paid the ninth congressional nominee when I say there is not a prominent man in Muskegon who doesn't consider that he owes to Mr. Mason this fall by 1200 majority.'"

Republican Praise of Yaple.

Said a prominent Muskegon republican in the presence of a reporter: "I have listened to speakers whose reputation is not confined to this country, but never before was I completely captured by a man whose political creed differs so widely from mine. He is a perfect Demosthenes. His voice is clear, sonorous and grand, his mein dignified and graceful and manly, his delivery perfect and the manner in which he sets forth his argument, carried conviction even to the most careless listener. I am inclined to think he is about right."—Muskegon News.

Money Refunded.

The true remedy has at last been discovered. It was long known in his practice as Dr. Peter's Lung Food for Consumption. It is now called Dr. Peter's Recent Cough Cure. It is the safest, the surest and the best. No other cough, cold, and consumption remedy, is half its equal. We warrant it and will promptly refund the money paid for it if a beneficial effect is not experienced by the time two-thirds of the contents of the bottle is used. Sold by Perry Weed and Dr. G. W. Crouter.

Sad Mistake.

Sad is the mistake of those who think that because they have taken a cathartic that they have taken a blood purifier. Cathartic pills do not purify the blood. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is a blood purifier. It gives tone, health, and strength, to the vital organs, corrects all irregularities, and expels impurities from the system. Young and old use it. Price $1.

Tribute to Mason.

At the county convention at Hart, Oceana county, recently, N. DeLong of this city, made the principle speech before the fusion forces. In referring to the speech the Oceana Co. Tribune said.

"His manly tribute to Lyman G. Mason, our nominee for congress, was a compliment, which while more than deserved by Mr. Mason, carried with it double force, coming as it did from a man between whom and Mr. Mason there never existed the most friendly feeling. 'We are not the best of friends,' said Mr. DeLong to a reporter after the address, 'but I feel bound to say this for Lyman G. Mason: No man ever came to this county laden and went away without material assistance. During the great Muskegon strike a few years ago, when the over-worked men up there wanted to reduce the working hours to ten, Mr. Mason on a man who hired as many men as any other manufacturer in Muskegon, stood by the boys from beginning to end and from first to last opposed in committee the idea advocated by the employers down there of importing cheap Canadian labor. Every year since that memorable time the workingmen of Muskegon have wanted to run Lyman G. Mason for Mayor. Last spring they succeeded in getting his consent, and he carried the city by storm. That is how Mr. Mason stands in the place where he is best known, and no higher compliment can be paid the ninth congressional nominee when I say there is not a prominent man in Muskegon who doesn't consider that he owes to Mr. Mason this fall by 1200 majority.'"

Republican Praise of Yaple.

Said a prominent Muskegon republican in the presence of a reporter: "I have listened to speakers whose reputation is not confined to this country, but never before was I completely captured by a man whose political creed differs so widely from mine. He is a perfect Demosthenes. His voice is clear, sonorous and grand, his mein dignified and graceful and manly, his delivery perfect and the manner in which he sets forth his argument, carried conviction even to the most careless listener. I am inclined to think he is about right."—Muskegon News.

Sad Mistake.

Sad is the mistake of those who think that because they have taken a cathartic that they have taken a blood purifier. Cathartic pills do not purify the blood. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is a blood purifier. It gives tone, health, and strength, to the vital organs, corrects all irregularities, and expels impurities from the system. Young and old use it. Price $1.

Why suffer with that aching head when you may be cured with Ayer's Cathartic Pills? Send 2 cent stamp to Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass., for a set of their attractive album cards.

A MASTERLY SPEECH.

United States Senator Voorhees' Opening Gun in the Indiana Campaign.

One of the Most Eloquent and Forcible Addresses Ever Delivered in the West.

Terrible Arraignment of the Republican Party—Why the Government Should Remain Democratic.

(From the Indianapolis Sentinel.)

Senator D. W. Voorhees opened his campaign in Indiana at Tomlinson Hall on the night of Sept. 27. His speech was largely in the nature of a reply to the Republican "keynote" recently sounded by Senator Harrison. The hall was filled with no less than 4,000 people, despite the rain, and the reception which greeted the orator of the occasion was a complete testimonial of his popularity with the masses of Hoosier Democrats. Long before he entered the hall the applause was deafening.

When ex-Senator McDonald, as Chairman, stepped forward and called the meeting to order he was given a grand ovation. He said: Fellow-citizens, we have assembled to hear our distinguished fellow-citizen and able Democratic advocate. When we come together to attend to business we then plan to attend to it at once. He introduced introduced Senator Voorhees, who was received with

MR. PRESIDENT AND FELLOW CITIZENS—Among the various manifestations of the popularity there are some, perhaps, as proving to an upright mind they the position of arraignment of the Democrat party for one or a crime which the accuser himself notorious by and habitual. Such, I think, is the charge in favor of nominating pointed out in the most detestable vice when he claimed in some which will never die away:

"And why beholden then the mote that is in thy brother's eye, and consider not the beam that is in thine own eye, consequent with the beam of thine own eye, and then shalt thou see clearly to cast out the mote out of thy brother's eye."

From the day of the delivery of the Sermon on the Mount down to the present time, I doubt if there was ever a more complete and thorough application of the principle of the text than the circle was then presented by the divine Saviour Jesus was presented by the Republican Senatorial Convention in Indiana at their recent state Convention. Loaded with the obloquy and slander of the Government, and with the enemies of the Government, full of guilt in connection with every known crime, and burdened down with every known crime, and burdened with charges, specifications and proofs of fraud and corruption made to the Government, men who were belonged to that organization, the Republican party, with an effrontery and impudence unknown in the history of political literature, rey rogues forward and in a railing accusation, full of the spirit of Satan and slander, seeks to fasten upon others the indictable stigma of its own well-known and notorious delinquencies.

In the Republican platform of September 24 it is charged that the Democratic party has "succeeded in power in the National Government by virtue of unparalleled crime against free suffrage, and it then further declared that "the security of government rests upon an equal, intelligent and free ballot, and we therefore are declaration against crimes of fraud and violence, wherever practiced and under whatever form, whether the right of every man to cast his vote, and have that vote counted and returned, is taken from the ballot box by corruption, here that Cleveland and Hendricks were elected by unparalleled crimes against free suffrage, and the declaration in favor of honest ballots and a fair count, are made by that party which only ten years ago distributed ballots, set aside legal returns, organized frauds, and by force, fraud, bribery, perjury, and violence, transported from constitutional majorities, and by open defiance of the ballot box, stole the Presidency of the United States. Are we supposed to be ignorant of the history of the most colossal crime of 1876, whereby Louisiana and Florida were robbed of their electoral votes, which, for years, have been taken from us, and illegally asserted majorities? The Republican candidate for Governor of Florida was beaten by his Democratic opponent nearly ten thousand votes, and yet he was seated in office. Oregon was a still another minority, and yet perjury and forgery, and the most flagrant crime of the times, for the better times is now living a fair minded man, well-informed that there is still, if he will attempt to maintain the Republican party. Whether were elected. The majority against the Republican party was so overwhelming, and the lawless crime were beyond question before any unbiased tribunal. All the proceedings of the Republican party, however, then intrenched in all the power of the Government, and backed by the purse and the sword as its servants, set out in motion to subvert the well-known will of the people and to maintain the power of the time being, by a fraudulent revolution. The Democrats were robbed of their rights, and the Republicans their ascendancy, have then, as they do now, that a gigantic fraud was committed, but they succeeded in the execution of the fraudulent plot, and enjoyed its fruits. Their party is now to come to us, and, in the name of purity, to come to us, forgetting that the party is now to come to us, forgetting that the party is now to work with the party, and to establish in the country in its public archives, establish all the crimes of the Republican party, beginning at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, New York, at midnight, and continuing down to the Electoral Commission, consummated on the 2d of March, and in the triumph of a dishonest ballot and a false count.

It is a well-known fact, too, and one which will pass into history, that a similar conspiracy was not only contemplated, but was organized in 1876, for the purpose of manufacturing false and forged returns in the State of New York, with the view of the election of Samuel J. Tilden. It was only when the plotters and fraudmongers heard the rising wrath of the people and saw the angry roar of the ocean in a storm, that they quailed and trembled for their own safety, and that the conspiracy was abandoned. Such is the crime which could never be perpetrated a second time in this country.

If some of my hearers should suggest that these matters are past and present issues, my answer is that if a man whom I know to be a highwayman should insist on lectures on morality and should denounce the crime of robbing travelers, I would feel impelled to inquire him of his own infamous career upon the subject under discussion. And so, when a political Pharisees, with beams of fraud as large as the Republican party, should come to me to set in judgment and denounce counting motes in other people's eyes, I would be to face the sound of their own in their eyes and long them into the derision and contempt of the people.

It seems of my hearers should suggest that these matters are past and present issues, my answer is that if a man whom I know to be a highwayman should insist on lectures on morality and should denounce the crime of robbing travelers, I would feel impelled to inquire him of his own infamous career upon the subject under discussion. And so, when a political Pharisees, with beams of fraud as large as the Republican party, should come to me to set in judgment and denounce counting motes in other people's eyes, I would be to face the sound of their own in their eyes and long them into the derision and contempt of the people.

In close connection, however, with its assumption of the Republican party, to the contrary, this conscienceless platform goes still further and very forcible illustration of the extent to which a combination of hypocrisy and audacity can go. In its colossal libel, its slander and its cant, in the Democratic party, we find the following:

"Under its control the civil service has been degraded by the appointment and retention of persons not of convicted criminals to posts of honor and trust, and the public offices made prizes and chosen by the methods inaugurated by the Pottsville and Tammany Halls to distribute the offices to party workers, which it sought to placate the growing sentiment against the spoils system by fabrication of the Pendleton civil service law, which, in its practical application, has made it a mere form, and in a railing accusation, full of the spirit of Satan and slander, seeks to fasten upon others the indictable stigma of its own well-known and notorious delinquencies.

In the Republican platform of September 24 it is charged that the Democratic party has "succeeded to power in the National Government by virtue of unparalleled crime against free suffrage, and it then further declared that "the security of government rests upon an equal, intelligent and free ballot, and we therefore are declaration against crimes of fraud and violence, wherever practiced and under whatever form, whether the right of every man to cast his vote, and have that vote counted and returned, is taken from the ballot box by corruption, here that Cleveland and Hendricks were elected by unparalleled crimes against free suffrage, and the declaration in favor of honest ballots and a fair count, are made by that party which only ten years ago distributed ballots, set aside legal returns, organized frauds, and by force, fraud, bribery, perjury, and violence, transported from constitutional majorities, and by open defiance of the ballot box, stole the Presidency of the United States. Are we supposed to be ignorant of the history of the most colossal crime of 1876, whereby Louisiana and Florida were robbed of their electoral votes, which, for years, have been taken from us, and illegally asserted majorities? The Republican candidate for Governor of Florida was beaten by his Democratic opponent nearly ten thousand votes, and yet he was seated in office. Oregon was a still another minority, and yet perjury and forgery, and the most flagrant crime of the times, for the better times is now living a fair minded man, well-informed that there is still, if he will attempt to maintain the Republican party. Whether were elected. The majority against the Republican party was so overwhelming, and the lawless crime were beyond question before any unbiased tribunal. All the proceedings of the Republican party, however, then intrenched in all the power of the Government, and backed by the purse and the sword as its servants, set out in motion to subvert the well-known will of the people and to maintain the power of the time being, by a fraudulent revolution. The Democrats were robbed of their rights, and the Republicans their ascendancy, have then, as they do now, that a gigantic fraud was committed, but they succeeded in the execution of the fraudulent plot, and enjoyed its fruits. Their party is now to come to us, and, in the name of purity, to come to us, forgetting that the party is now to work with the party, and to establish in the country in its public archives establish all the crimes of the Republican party, beginning at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, New York, at midnight, and continuing down to the Electoral Commission, consummated on the 2d of March, and in the triumph of a dishonest ballot and a false count.

It is a well-known fact, too, and one which will pass into history, that a similar conspiracy was not only contemplated, but was organized in 1876, for the purpose of manufacturing false and forged returns in the State of New York, with the view of the election of Samuel J. Tilden. It was only when the plotters and fraudmongers heard the rising wrath of the people and saw the angry roar of the ocean in a storm, that they quailed and trembled for their own safety, and that the conspiracy was abandoned. Such is the crime which could never be perpetrated a second time in this country.

If some of my hearers should suggest that these matters are past and present issues, my answer is that if a man whom I know to be a highwayman should insist on lectures on morality and should denounce the crime of robbing travelers, I would feel impelled to inquire him of his own infamous career upon the subject under discussion. And so, when a political Pharisees, with beams of fraud as large as the Republican party, should come to me to set in judgment and denounce counting motes in other people's eyes, I would be to face the sound of their own in their eyes and long them into the derision and contempt of the people.

In close connection, however, with its assumption of the Republican party, to the contrary, this conscienceless platform goes still further and very forcible illustration of the extent to which a combination of hypocrisy and audacity can go. In its colossal libel, its slander and its cant, in the Democratic party, we find the following:

"Under its control the civil service has been degraded by the appointment and retention of persons not of convicted criminals to posts of honor and trust, and the public offices made prizes and chosen by the methods inaugurated by the Pottsville and Tammany Halls to distribute the offices to party workers, which it sought to placate the growing sentiment against the spoils system by fabrication of the Pendleton civil service law, which, in its practical application, has made it a mere form, and in a railing accusation, full of the spirit of Satan and slander, seeks to fasten upon others the indictable stigma of its own well-known and notorious delinquencies.

"When the greatest national party, which has been in power for twenty years, and during the two great sons which wault our shores, was finally driven from its place of supremacy by a combination formed in bitterness and shame by the unanimous reproach and execration of the millions of the Government, in every department of that mighty enterprise—had been taken from its hands, search of fraud, paid for with hundreds of thousands of dollars, was made in every section of the country. It indicated a system of robbery of the Government, in every department of the Government, in every department of the Government, in every department

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - - MICHIGAN

DEMOCRATIC NOMINATIONS.

State Ticket.

For Governor—
GEORGE L. YAPLE, of St. Joseph.

For Lieutenant-Governor—
SOLOMON S. CURRY, of Marquette.

For Secretary of State—
PHILLIP R. WACHTEL, of Emmet.

For State Treasurer—
WILLIAM G. BEARD, of Bay.

For Auditor-General—
JUDSON S. FARRAR, of Macomb.

For Attorney-General—
JOHN C. DONNELY, of Wayne.

For Commissioner of State Land Office—
ALONZO T. FREDRE, of Livingston.

For Superintendent of Public Instruction—
DAVID PARSONS, of Wayne.

For Member of State Board of Education—
JEROME W. TURNER, of Shiawassee.

Congressional Ticket.

For Representative in Congress, Ninth District
LYMAN G. MASON, of Muskegon.

Legislative Ticket.

For Representative in the state Legislature,
Charlevoix District.
HORATIO T. LEWIS, of Elk Rapids.

County Ticket.

For Sheriff—
DANIEL B. JERRUE, of South Arm.

For County Clerk—
WILLIAM F. PALMITER, of South Arm.

For County Treasurer—
ORLANDO BLAIR, of South Arm.

For Register of Deeds—
ELISHA H. SHEPARD, of Evangeline.

For Prosecuting Attorney—
ARTHUR E. MARTIN, of Evangeline.

For Circuit Court Commissioner—
ARTHUR E. MARTIN, of Evangeline.

For County Surveyor—
SIDNEY HAYDEN, of Eveline.

For Coroners—
ORVILLE D. HILTON, of Norwood.
ROBERT FINDLEY, of Boyne Valley.

Democratic Senatorial Convention.

A democratic senatorial convention for the purpose of nominating a candidate for senator for the twenty-first senatorial district will be held at Charlevoix on Friday, Oct. 29, 1886, at 1 o'clock p. m.

The several counties will be entitled to delegates as follows: Grand Traverse, 5; Leelanaw, 3; Antrim, 4; Charlevoix, 4; Manitou, 1.

By order of Senatorial Committee.

Oct. 12, 1886.

DON'T BE DECEIVED

by the cry of the Sentinel that the prohibition ticket is made to elect Dan Jerrue and the democratic ticket, by dividing the vote of the republicans, but make up your mind to work and vote for the whole democratic ticket, from top to bottom, from now till the close of the polls. Dan Jerrue is a better man than his opponent every day in the week, on any issue that can be raised; and no good democrat should allow himself to be led away. Don't be too sure about anybody's election, but get out and work as if one more vote was necessary for each candidate on the ticket, and on you depended that vote.

FOR REPRESENTATIVE.

Mr. Horatio B. Lewis, of Elk Rapids, has been named by the representative committee for the place on the ticket made vacant by the declination of Mr. E. S. Noble.

We are not personally acquainted with Mr. Lewis, but understand that he is a young man of good promise. He is connected with the mercantile business of Dexter & Noble, is active and ambitious, and has an excellent reputation for honesty and integrity in all his business transactions. As a politician he is with the party of progressive ideas, is popular with the boys, and we have no doubt will cause it trouble for his opponent, Mr. Dougherty.

PROSECUTING ATTORNEY.

Arthur E. Martin has been placed on the fusion ticket for prosecuting attorney, to fill the place made vacant by the declination of M. M. Burnham. Mr. Martin is in every way competent to perform the duties of the office, and if elected will make a faithful, conscientious officer.

It is understood that Mr. Burham declined on account of his business arrangements and because of his short acquaintance in the county. He has since, however, been named by the prohibitionists for the same place on their ticket. We do not know that he will accept this latter nomination.

Mr. Martin is a good temperance man, and can be endorsed by conscientious temperance men everywhere.

FOR STATE SENATOR.

The democratic convention to nominate a candidate for state senator from the twenty-ninth district, will be held at Charlevoix to-morrow afternoon. The district is composed of Antrim, Charlevoix, Grand Traverse, Leelanaw, and Manitou counties.

No other name having been presented, we would suggest for the consideration of the convention the name of Mr. Walter S. Johnson, of Leelanaw county. Mr. Johnson has been a resident of the Traverse region more than a dozen years, the last five of which he has lived in Suttons Bay. There are but few if any men in the district better known in business circles and among the workingmen. He is deservedly popular, and if nominated, will make a lively canvass against his opponent on the republican ticket, and will make himself heard on the right side in the senate chamber at Lansing.

YAPLE AS A GRANGER.

The Grand Rapids Democrat prints a long article showing Yaple's connection with the Grange and that he is still in good standing in the order. It publishes a fac-similie of the following letter:

Michigan State Grange,
Patrons of Husbandry,
Secretary's Office,

SCHOOLCRAFT, Mich., Jan. 19, 1877.

To all patrons to whom this may come—greeting: From a long acquaintance with the bearer, George L. Yaple, I take pleasure in commending him to the goodwill of the Brotherhood. I think he will be found an earnest, active, working member of any Grange with which he may affiliate.

[Signed] J. T. Cobb,
Sec'y Michigan State Grange.

Yaple's defense thus is also published showing his withdrawal, and interviews are given with farmers of Mendon as to his life upon the farm, all speaking in commendatory terms.—Lansing Journal.

Honors to Yaple.

Arrangements are being made for a grand reception to the fusion candidate for governor, Hon. Geo. L. Yaple, next Saturday morning. The following are on the committee of reception. The people are invited to turn out en masse to meet their next governor:

Charlevoix.—J. Milo Eaton, L. D. Bartholomew, Amos Fox, Geo. W. Miller, Geo. W. Crouter, L. E. Allen, W. P. Brown, J. B. Allen, C. J. Strang, Allen E. Mason, E. M. Clark, Chas. Swallow, John Bell, James Washburn, J. M. Clark, A. J. McLeod, James Gelick.

Boyne City.—Benj. F. Ingalls, Frank Abrams, A. E. Martin, E. H. Shepard, T. J. Hill.

East Jordan.—S. G. Isaman, Patrick Welch, Frank Martinek, J. Alexander, John Monroe, Sr., James Palmiter, William Hilbert, Wm. Palmiter, D. B. Jerrue, Orlando Blair.

Ironton.—Ava Smith, A. B. Noyes, Richard Lake.

Advance.—Peter Karlskin, Ammon Beers.

Bay Springs.—Howard Flanigan, R. M. Calwell.

Norwood.—O. D. Hilton, Ed. Cook, Parker McIntyre.

Hayes.—John A. Bacot, H. S. Newson, F. J. Smith, Isaac Stauffer.

Marion.—Michael Nowland, John Cooper, J. G. Reed, Arthur Beattie.

Yaple in Nebraska.

From the Grand Rapids Democrat.

EDITOR DEMOCRAT:—I see that the Detroit Tribune assails the honor as a politician and ability as a lawyer of a former citizen of this city. Although a republican, I deem it my duty to contradict the charges there made—charges so base and unfounded, they could have originated only in the mind of a politician driven to frenzy by the merited success of an honorable opponent.

Mr. Yaple's public record of government when I knew him in Nebraska were the same as those advocated by him to-day.

He was ever candid and outspoken in his sympathy for labor and against the overcoming of capital and monopoly. While here he showed his interest in and knowledge of agriculture by delivering several addresses at several of the fairs which were acknowledged by all who heard them to be the finest ever delivered in the state. As a lawyer he took front rank at a bar of acknowledged ability. As proof of the confidence in his ability and integrity as a lawyer by people here, I would say one term of the district court for this county shows a docket of eighty five cases and Geo. L. Yaple appears as attorney in thirty-eight, of them. After the people have become acquainted with him he was employed upon one side or the other of every important case. If their republican party in Michigan have been forced from the real issues but even the parties and have to rely upon such base and malicious falsehoods as I have noticed from the Tribune, it is time the party was rebuked.

Geo. L. Yaple's friends in Nebraska (and by that I mean all who know him, irrespective of party, believe him the peer of any man in Michigan in ability and integrity, and we also believe if elected governor of Michigan that he will make an executive whom the state may well be proud. Truly yours for the right.

A. J. HALE.

Beatrice, Neb., Oct. 10th, 1886.

Premiums Awarded.

The following is a list of the premiums awarded at the second annual fair of the Charlevoix county agricultural society, at East Jordan, Sept. 22-24, 1886:

Division A—Horses.

Superintendent, Wm. Jaquays.

Class 1—Thoroughbreds.

John Hammond, best stallion 3 yrs old.
A. Cooper, second best.
Frank Coleman, best brood mare with foal at her side.
John Meservey, second best.
A. E. Dwright, best colt 1 yrs old or over.
M. M. Burnham, best make 2 yrs old.
A. E. Richardson, best mare 1 yr old.
Wm. Jaquays, second, premium, gelding 1 yr old.

Class 2—Horses for all Work.

F. H. Rooney, best stallion 1 yr old.
David Staley, best mare 3 yrs old or over.
M. M. Burnham, best mare 2 yrs old.
Wm. Jaquays, second do.
F. H. Rooney, second premium, mare 1 yr old.
S. G. Isaman, best brood mare with foal.
Wm. Jaquays, best colt 6 months or under.
S. G. Isaman, second do.

Class 3—Draft and Single Horses.

Geo. W. Pond, best matched horses 4 yrs old or over.
Adrian Heller best matched horses 3 yrs old.
F. H. Rooney, best single horse 4 yrs old or over.
A. E. Dwright second do.
A. E. Dwright, best single driving horse.

Class 4—Farm Team for General Purposes.

Wm. Jaquays, best farm team 5 yrs old or over.
C. M. Jones, second do.
M. M. Burnham, best draft mare 2 yrs old.

Division B—Cattle.

Superintendent, H. D. Hyde.

Class 1—Full Blood Holsteins.

D. M. Cudney, best bull 2 yrs old or over.

Class 2—Full Blood Jerseys.

D. P. Bowman, best bull 1 yr old.
Jacob Bissett, best cow 3 yrs old or over.

Class 4—Grades.

C. A. Rinehart, best bull 1 yr old.
Jacob Bissett, best do 2 yrs old.
Jacob Bissett, best cow 4 yrs old or over.
Geo. Sherman, second do.
Jacob Bissett, best heifer 3 yrs old.
A. M. Murphy, second do.
Jacob Bissett, best heifer 2 yrs old.
Jacob Bissett, second do.
Jacob Bissett, best heifer 1 yr old.
A. E. Dwright second do.
Stanley Bush, best heifer under 1 yr.

Class 7—Working Oxen and Steers.

Chas. Alexander, best yoke of oxen 4 yrs old or over.
E. S. Harley second best.

S. M. Richardson, Philip Holden, Mr. Tenhout, awarding committee.

Division C—Swine.

Superintendent, J. H. Lanway.

Class 1—Poland China.

A. E. Dwright, best boar 1 yr old.
J. W. Shaw, best boar under 1 yr.
A. E. Dwright, best sow 2 yrs old.
A. E. Rinehart, best sow under 1 yr old.
A. E. Rinehart second best.
A. E. Dwright, best litter of not less than 4 pigs under 6 months old.

Class 2—Chester White.

Jacob Keller, best sow over 1 yr old.

Class 3—Jersey Reds.

E. A. Gibson, best boar under 1 yr old.
E. A. Gibson, best sow under 1 yr old.

Class 6—Cheshire.

M. M. Burnham, best boar under 1 yr old.
M. M. Burnham, best sow under 1 yr old.
S. M. Richardson, D. P. Bowman, Peter K. Winters, awarding committee.

Division D—Sheep.

Superintendent, S. G. Isaman.

Class 3—Shropshire Downs.

A. E. Dwright, best ram lamb.
A. E. Dwright, best ewe 2 yrs old.
A. E. Dwright, best ewe lamb.

Class 4—Native.

Henry Knowland, best ram 2 yrs old.
Christopher Marlow, John Hammond, John Ward, awarding committee.

Division E—Poultry.

Superintendent, A. E. Dwright.

M. T. Kinney, best pair partridge cochin.
Wm. Jaquays, best pair cochin.
E. Holbrook, best bantams.
Wm. Jaquays, best pair aylesbury ducks.
Frank Pearsall, best white rats.
David Staley, best white rabbits.
Martin J. Staley, Henry Black, John Padgeon, awarding committee.

Division F—Farm Implements, Etc.

Superintendent, W. F. Gardner.

Kilbourn & Isaman, best churning machine, horse rake, plow for general purposes, fanning mill, cutter, harrow, tempered steel plow, grain drill, spring tooth harrow, corn sheller, cultivator, hay fork, set of harness, one horse harness, best pair horse boots.
D. P. Bowman, J. H. Lanway, awarding committee.

Division G—Fruit, Vegetables, Grain.

Superintendent, Wm. Black.

Class 1—

J. V. Lange, best 10 lb pail wheat.
Robert Price, second, best white wheat.
Jesse M. Patterson, best 10 lb spring wheat.
Jesse M. Patterson, best 10 lb spring barley.
Wm. Jaquays, best ½ bu white oats, (Harper's Prolific).
M. M. Burnham, best three ears sweet corn, large.
F. A. W. Stone, best ½ bu red clover seed, large.
M. M. Burnham, best ½ bu timothy seed.
M. M. Burnham, best ½ bu alsike clover seed.
M. M. Burnham, best ½ bu field peas.

Class 2—Potatoes.

J. Hammond, best 12 ears yellow dent corn.
S. G. Isaman, best 12 ears yellow corn, (Jewell).
Hiram Jones, best 12 ears sweet corn.
Hiram Jones, second do.

Class 3—Vegetables.

Charles Shooter, best ½ bu early rose potatoes.
Louis Gregory, best ½ bu late rose potatoes.
Louis Gregory, best ½ bu Burbank seedling.
John Stevens, best ½ bu white flower.
John Stevens, best ½ bu Vermont Green potatoes.
Wm. Jaquays, best 6 cauliflower.
John Stevens, best 6 cabbage.
Wm. Jaquays, best 6 red beets.
F. A. W. Stone, best 12 turnips.
E. J. Lane, best 6 carrots.
E. J. Lane, best 6 parsnips.
C. Kinney, best 6 sugar beets.
Wm. Jaquays, best 6 mangel wurtzels.
S. G. Isaman, best 6 pure tomatoes.
Mrs. M. J. Gardner, best pickling onions.
H. B. Higo, best peck red onions.
Wm. Jaquays, best 3 hubbard squash.
Wm. Jaquays, best 3 marblehead squash.
Mrs. M. J. Gardner, best 3 squash.
Mrs. M. J. Gardner, best peck yellow onions.
Wm. Jaquays, best 3 hubbard squash.
Wm. Jaquays, best 3 marblehead squash.
M. Murphy, second do.
Wm. Jaquays, best 3 Canada pumpkins.
A. E. Rinehart, best 3 sugar do.
A. E. Rinehart, best 3 field do.
J. H. Lanway, best 3 atikin cotton.
Mrs. M. J. Gardner, best 3 Italian onions.
A. E. Gardner, alpine potatoes.
Mrs. M. J. Gardner, hybrid squash.
Mrs. M. J. Gardner, hybrid squash.
Jesse Spafford, best 3 squash.
John Spafford, 3 squash.
Jacob Bissett, best 3 squash.
Jacob Bissett, 3 squash.
Jacob Bissett, best 3 pumpkins.
Jacob Bissett, 3 pumpkins.
A. E. Dwright, best 3 pumpkins.
A. E. Dwright, 3 pumpkins.
George Kilmon, 3 pie melons.
Mrs. M. J. Gardner, white sugar, oats.
Martin J. Staley, Hugh Whitelord, Hordon Brady, awarding committee.

Class 5—Fruits.

J. Hathon, best plate western spy.
Richard Lake, best plate northern spy.
Richard Lake, best plate Jonathan.
A. H. Kinney, best plate spitzenberg.
Wm. Jaquays, best plate King of Tompkins.
Wm. Jaquays, best plate King of Tompkins.
James Sherman, best plate Talman sweet.
Henry Knowland, best plate Duchess Oldenberg.
Henry Knowland, best plate Fameuse.
Henry Knowland, best plate greening.
M. F. Gates, best plate pipe pippin.
M. F. Gates, best plate strawberry.
M. F. Gates, best plate black Pearmain.
Henry Knowland, best plate snow.
A. H. Reinhart, best plate bell flower.
A. H. Reinhart, best plate talisman sweet.
Thomas Dennison, best plate fox Chase.
Thomas Dennison, best plate Davis.
Robert Trimble, best plate Danish beauty.
Henry Knowland, best plate perry russet.
Wilmot Graham, best plate fairy sweet.
Mrs. Hodges, best plate harp.
Mrs. Hodges, best plate Alexander.
Henry Knowland, best plate walbridge, lady newton pippin.
Jas. Hodges, best plate cathay russet.
M. M. Richardson, best plate St. Lawrence.
M. M. Richardson, best plate water, calvert.
Canada red, seekonderfliar, golden sweet.
Shiawassee beauty, Canada, strawberry.
Scotts nonesuch, Jackson, Gilbert, Williams golden.
Richard Trimble, best plate Gallaway.
A. E. Gessler, best plate Williams fafette.

Class 6—Plums, Pears, Peaches, Grapes, Melons.

Robert Trimble, best plate Danish beauty pears.
Michael Knapp, best plate jenner pears.
Henry Knowland, best plate Lodon Honda peaches.
M. F. Gates, best plate peaches.
A. H. Reinhart, best plate yellow egg plums.
Mary Eaton, best plate damson plums.
F. McMillan, best plate Damson (not known).
Thomas Dennison, best plate Damson purple plums.
Richard Knight, best plate damson plums.
James McGonegal best plate quince.
Thomas Dennison best plate crab apples.
M. F. Gates best plate grapes.
Mrs. Hodges, best display of fruit by one exhibitor.
A. Hayward, A. E. Hayes, D. C. Loveday awarding committee.

Division H—Dairy Products, Aparian Department, Canned and Preserved Fruit, Cooking, Etc.

Superintendent, John A. Bacon.

Class 1—Dairy Products.

Robert Trimble, best gold medal butter.
F. H. Rooney best 2 rolls butter.
Mrs. Frank Pearsall, best 1 lb print butter.
Mrs. Frank Pearsall best eggs.

Class 3—Canned Fruit and Dried Fruit.

H. L. Page best can cherries.
Mrs. F. W. Stone, best can damson plums.
H. L. Page best can pie plums.
Mrs. E. J. Bryant best and greatest variety of jellies.
Mrs. Jones, Durham, best sample dried cherries.
Jacob Bissett, best sample dried apples.
Mrs. Hodges, best sample dried pears.

Class 4—Cooking.

Mrs. I. M. Bartlett best sample hop yeast bread.
F. H. Rooney best 3 loaves family raising bread.
Miss Jessie Kent 12 rolls of sugar best plate doughnuts.
Mrs. E. J. Spafford best do.

Class 5—Pickles Shown in Glass.

Mrs. F. J. W. Stone best all cucumbers.
Mrs. J. C. Jordan best of mixed pickles.
Mrs. F. J. W. Stone best gallon of vegetable pickles.
James Ketchum G. P. Stanley Orlando Blair awarding committee.

To be Continued.

Only 25 Cents

buys a perfect remedy for sour stomach, diarrhœa, worms, convulsions, feverishness, and loss of sleep. Try it, Dr. Peter's Magic Pain Oil. It effectually relieves external and internal pain. Sold by Perry Wood and Dr. G. W. Crouter.

☞"Ladies' Mantles, Newmarkets, Short Wraps and Plush Cloaks; newest styles, just received, at Rosenthal & Son's.

☞Carpets, Matting, Rugs, and Window Curtains and fixtures, at Rosenthal & Son's.

☞The finest line of Trunks and Valises in town, at Rosenthal & Son's.

Day and Night

During an acute attack of Bronchitis, a ceaseless tickling in the throat, and an exhausting, dry, hacking cough, effect the sufferer. Sleep is banished, and great prostration follows. This disease is also attended with Hoarseness, and sometimes Loss of Voice. It is liable to become chronic, involves the lungs and induces fatality. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral affords speedy relief and cure in cases of bronchitis. It controls the disposition to cough, and induces refreshing sleep.

"I have been a practising physician for twenty-four years, and for the last twelve, have suffered from annual attacks of Bronchitis. After exhausting all the usual remedies

Without Relief,

I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It helped me immediately, and effected a cure.—W. Scott, M. D., Carrollton, Mo.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is decidedly the best remedy, within my knowledge, for chronic Bronchitis, and all affections of the throat and lungs.—J. Wilkins, M. D., South Paris, Me.

I was attacked, last winter, with severe Cold, which, from exposure, grew worse and finally settled on my lungs. For nights sweats I was reduced almost to a skeleton. My Cough was incessant, and frequently spit blood. My physician told me to give up business, or I would live a month. After taking various remedies without relief, I was finally two bottles of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I am now in perfect health, and also in robust health, although I have been exposed to all weathers, while canvassing.—S. P. Henderson, Sandusky, Ohio.

Cured By Using

For years I was in a decline. I had a cough, and could not sleep. Friends said I was in the last stage of consumption. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral restored me to health, and I have gained a long time since with every vicissitude, in case of a sudden cold I immediately take the Pectoral, and always find relief.—Edward L. Curtis, Rutland, Vt.

Five years ago I suffered from a severe Bronchitis. The physicians said I would become fatally consumptive, and I gradually relinquished my business. After trying many medicines, without benefit, he finally prescribed Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which relieved me at once. I continued to take this medicine a short time, and was cured.—Ernest Cohen, Logansport, Ind.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles $5.

Jos. Beauvais

BOAT-BUILDER.

The Best Modeled, Easiest Rowing, and Best Sailing Boats in Northern Michigan. Call for Money. Give me a Trial. I am bound to Please.

Boat Livery

In connection with shop.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

A Special Sale

IN CHILDREN'S SUITS,

AND

A GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES

On all other goods.

I will sell you a real all-wool suit of underwear for $1.50; a good, heavy winter pants for $1.50; a good, all-wool, kersey suit for $9.00, the best goods for the money that can be made.

Don't fail to give me a call for anything in my line, for

I am Giving Great Bargains This Fall.

Just received my stock of Winter Caps. You will be surprised when you see what I can sell you a Fur Cap for.

GEO. W. MILLER.

THE EARTHQUAKE DID IT!

We mean we got a big bargain on all our cloak purchases. Our New York agent has taken advantage of the

GREAT EXCITEMENT!

And has written us that never before had we secured such an elegant line of

LADIES' MISSES' AND CHILDREN'S

CLOAKS

At Such LOW PRICES.

LADIES, DO NOT PURCHASE A CLOAK or Wrap of any kind until you have seen our goods and learned our prices, as they will soon be here. A big line of everything in Dry Goods coming, wait for them.

Yours, very truly,

F. W. CRAINE & CO.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., Oct. 21, 1886.

PRODUCE MARKET.

Hay, loose, per ton $12; bailed, $18
Corn, per bu. 65c.
Oats, 30 to 35c.
Feed, per ton, $22.
Pork, $15 ₱ bbl, 7c ₱ lb.
Salt, ₱ bbl, $1.25.
Syrup, "Gold Medal," 50c ₱ gal.
Canned Tomatoes, 12c.
Canned Peaches, 15 to 20c.
Coffee, Java and Mocca, 35c.
Farmer's Produce at Upright & Emrey's.

UPRIGHT EMREY & Co.

☞A splendid line of Boots and Shoes, for ladies and gents, boys, girls and misses. More on the road.

☞A magnificent lot of Dress Goods arrived recently, and we offer them at the very lowest figures.

☞Hosiery in all styles a specialty, for both ladies and gents—best line in town.

☞New Groceries received almost every day.

☞Both Dinner and Tea Sets in Colored Ware at cost.

☞If you want some Choice Butter go to Upright & Emrey's.

☞All persons having business with me can find me in the new court house at Boyne City. Office hours From 8 in the morning to ten in the evening. Persons wishing to return on the same boat will be waited upon first with pleasure.
SAMUEL B. TRATCHER, County Clerk.

☞Jefferies' is the cheapest market in town. Everything clear down. Come back old friends and try it.

☞Fresh Oysters, direct from Baltimore, at Jefferies' Market.

Local Notes and News.

Sam. Thatcher is on a still hunt for county clerk.

The fire department went out for practice last night.

John Burns has gone to St. Louis, Mo., to visit friends.

The Chinese students had a full house Tuesday evening.

Last Thursday night was one of the wildest of the season.

Martin Butler is recovering from his recent run of typhoid fever.

Alex. Cadieron and wife have gone to Pennsylvania to visit friends.

Rosenthal & Son have a new advertisement in their space this week.

W. S. Hayes, formerly of Charlevoix, was married at Bellaire, Oct. 5.

Geo. Miller has taken his mamoth squirrel cage out of his front window.

Geo. W. Miller advertises a special sale of gentlemen's fall and winter wear.

W. H. Carr and wife returned home from Clinton county last Friday.

A. D. Crickshank filled two engagements to speak in Emmet county this week.

It is reported that there is a new paper at Boyne Falls but we haven't seen a copy.

The ladies of the Baptist church are preparing for a "corn social" to be held at Hotel Charlevoix in the near future.

And still they come. Another accession to the prohibition ranks, one pound boy at George Duranee's, on the 14th inst.

James H. Stone, secretary, writes us that people near Charlevoix can get the cash on their premium orders by applying to John Nicholls.

Mrs. M. Litney, milliner, returned yesterday from her business trip to Suttons Bay, where she disposed of a large stock of ladies fancy goods.

R. Mudge left a carrot at the office this week which measured seventeen inches in circumference, and weighed four pounds and fourteen ounces.

Miss Annie Shrier, of Canada, returned home Tuesday morning. She was so well pleased with Charlevoix that she will return next summer.

Last Thursday was cold water day for certain. Cold water convention in the afternoon, cold water speech in the evening, and a cold rain all day and night.

A very pleasant reception was tendered to Rev. J. T. Wakeman and family at the Congregational church last evening. Refreshments were served by the ladies of the church.

In a letter to the Sentinel, Mr. H. Bishop claims, incredibly, that a rail road will be a damage to Charlevoix. It is just the kind of talk and work that has done us without a railroad for several years.

Dr. Crouter has just received a lot of Lessons for libraries, to be sold at three and six cents, a reduction from the old prices of two and twenty. They are by the best authors, and are printed in large, clear type.

Rev. W. H. McCartney has been appointed to the vacancy in the Charlevoix charge of the M. E. Church, caused by the retiral of Rev. C. S. to come here. Mr. McCartney will preach his first sermon next Sunday morning.

Preaching by Rev. J. T. Iddings at Block's school house next Sunday at 3 o'clock, and at Johnson's school house at night.

Henry Barth, of Charlevoix, has been in the village several days looking up business in his line—boiler making.—Manistique Sun.

Dr. Crouter returned home from the state pharmaceutical association annual meeting last Friday. The next annual meeting will be held in Petoskey, in July, in 1887.

Philip R. Wachtel, fusion candidate for secretary of state is making a thorough canvass of the state in his quiet unassuming manner and is making hosts of friends wherever he goes. Vote for Wachtel and reform.

As Charlevoix is it Queen summer resort of northern Michigan, so is the Bridge Street house at that place an enjoyable place to stay. R. A. Campbell is the proprietor, and an excellent hotel man.—Elk Rapids Progress.

It has just come to light that the senior editor of our esteemed contemporary refused to advertise the Chinese students' entertainment for the ladies of the M. E. church, because by a mere accident the DEMOCRAT made the first announcement of it as an item of news. Wonder how much he will make by such an exhibition of jealousy.

Rev. Dr. A. J. Mead, superintendent of the American Bible Society for Michigan and Wisconsin, addressed a union meeting at the Congregational church, on Sunday afternoon. Measures were taken to organize an auxiliary Bible society. R. A. Campbell was chosen president, R. W. Isaac secretary, J. L. Hurd treasurer.

The October Babyhood includes a small chart of standard shades of the six spectrum colors as an accompaniment to the first of a series of articles on kindergarten occupations in the home, in order that readers who wish to make the worsted balls and other articles described in the series may have a guide in the selection of of their materials.

"They are a set of d—d bummers, is the gentlemanly way in which Yaple speaks of the soldiers. We hardly think such an expression will entitle the soldiers' vote for him."—Harbor Springs Republican. Will the Republican please state just when and upon what occasion Mr. Yaple made that remark? Until it does, we denounce the statement as a deliberate falsehood.—Democrat.

Col. Judson S. Farrar, of Mt. Clemens, the fusion candidate for auditor general, is a plain unassuming gentleman, but has a record as a soldier that any man might justly feel proud of. He went out in June, 1861, as captain of B company, "Fighting Fifth," Michigan Infantry, became Colonel of the Twenty-sixth infantry in 1862, and was honorably discharged for disability March 20, 1864.

The prohibition convention which met last Friday, put in nomination the principal officers of the county ticket, selecting men of avowed prohibition proclivities. For sheriff, Henry Sheldon, of Eveline; for clerk, Brice Suffold, of Charlevoix; for prosecuting attorney, Milton M. Burnham, of South Arm; for register of deeds, James H. Stone, of South Arm; for treasurer, Horace Thomson, of Evangeline. It will get votes about equally from both the old party tickets.

It was Byron M. Cutcheon who publicly charged on the floor of congress that Gen. Grant made a corrupt bargain with Gen. Porter's friends by which he was to be placed on the retired list for heading his influence to secure the vindication of Porter. And yet it is this same mountebank Cutcheon who goes around the state telling voters what an infamous fellow Yaple is because he voted against the bill to place Grant on the retired list with pay!—Lansing Journal.

Corruption, bribery, extravagance and fraud have been charged upon the republican members of the last legislature. Those charges still remain upon record. The republicans did not dare call for an investigation. Therefore it is absolutely necessary that the people should have a change of administration in Michigan, and an investigation of previous transactions which has taken place under republican rule. This can be accomplished by electing Philip R. Wachtel secretary and George L. Yaple governor.—Democrat.

While the friends of Mr. Cutcheon, and radical papers, are indulging in their usual warfare of misrepresentation and personalities, charging to Mr. Mason matters and things that are absolutely false and unfounded, Mr. Mason is quietly discharging duties entrusted to him by others, and neglecting his individual and political interests. Mr. Mason evidently deems the new railroad at Muskegon, and the business interests of large estate in Newaygo county, for which he is trustee or executor, of more importance than traveling over the ninth district looking after his canvass for congressman.—Big Rapids Herald.

George L. Yaple, while a practical farmer and living upon a farm, was a lecturer of the state grange to which both himself and wife at present belong. J. T. Cobb of the Grange Visitor directed the movements of Mr. Yaple about the district in which he lectured. Now this same J. T. Cobb prostitutes an organ of the farming community, whose declared purpose in existence is to secure those very rights for the farmers that democracy is fighting for and which republican monopolists and class legislation have prevented, to the partisan support of a banker and pliable tool of the Michigan club, upon a platform that advocates robbery of the farmer of all the necessities of life which he must purchase. The democratic farmers must be proud of an organ that loses sight of every effect of its defined existence and appears, for personal reasons, as the champion of monopoly.—Kalamazoo Gazette.

F. & A. M.

Special meeting Tuesday evening, Oct. 26th, for work.

For County Clerk.

To the electors of Charlevoix County.

At the request of many friends from different parts of the county, I take this method of announcing myself an independent candidate for the office of County Clerk, and would most respectfully ask your suffrages.

SAMUEL B. TRATCHER.

Charlevoix, Oct. 21, 1886.

Logging Bee.

Attention, comrades of Baxter post, No. 119, G. A. R. There will be a logging and grubbing bee at the soldiers' cemetery grounds, Friday, Oct. 22, 1886. Bring your axes, mattocks, shovels, and your dinners. Hot coffee will be furnished by the committee.

W. A. ATCHISON,
D. J. BOSLOW,
Committee.

Died.

At the Ohio industrial school, on Thursday, Sept. 30, 1886, Robert Nicholls, infant son of Robert and Mary Paddock, aged 4 months and 15 days.

Mrs. Paddock, mother of little Robert, will be remembered as Miss Mamie Nicholls, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Nicholls, of Charlevoix, and her many friends here will sympathize with her in this great bereavement.

Historical Society.

The first regular meeting of the historical society will be held at the rooms of Mrs. O. D. Wood, on Friday evening, Oct. 22, at 8 o'clock, local time (twenty minutes faster than standard time).

The program will be about as follows:

Music. Five-minute speeches. "The Historical Society—Objects and Influence," Prof. Enos. "Results," President Green. Vocal solo, "The Gay Hussar," W. A. Smith. "Some Reflections upon the Character of Stonewall Jackson," Dr. Carleton.

You are invited to attend if you have been or wish to become a member.

COMMITTEE.

Prohibitionist vs. Sentinel.

EDITOR JOURNAL:—According to the Sentinel of this week, Oct. 20, "the board of corrections and charities at Lansing are desirous of getting the names of any imbeciles or idiots in Michigan." We don't know what thing in the shape of a man that will come so near filling the bill as the arrogant editor of the Sentinel, and we shall forward his name as the only person we know of in this part of the country who is not in his right mind. If the bombastic editor of the Sentinel expects to crush the prohibition party of the county by his nefarious abuse, he must use a sharper knife than the Sentinel to do it with. He is cooking a dish of crow, which will be harder to digest than the East Jordan stew was. Perhaps he can afford it.

PROHIBITIONIST.

☞The Illustrated Graphic News has secured the services of John McGovern, who resigns the editorship of The Current to take the editorial control of the great pictorial weekly, John McGovern is a man identified with the intellectual development of the West. He is the author of "An Empire of Information," "The Gold Era Censor," which has sold 150,000 copies so far, and "The Toilers' Diadem." His successful books are moral essays; also as an obituary writer he is a first-class man. His leading sketches are "Reader's Bridges," "Sybsey," "Riley Rose," "The Pharisee of Pigeon Creek," and "Memories for Decoration Day," these will be published in book form. Previous to his connection, of two years, with The Current, he was for sixteen years on The Chicago Tribune. The Graphic News now guarantees the people of the west a first-class literary lining to the handsome picture paper, which has won so many commendations of late. Its new editor can command the necessary manuscripts to make his share of the work a fine success. In connection with this important step, Mr. Bragg, the proprietor of The Graphic News, is about to open a large establishment at Chicago for the publication of his excellent weekly. An eminent artist is to take full charge of the art department. A file of Graphic News portraits will prove a valuable possession to any subscriber.

DRY GOODS!

We offer for the next few days Great Bargains in all

—SUMMER DRESS GOODS—

Shawls, White Goods, Parasols, Silk and Thread Gloves, Hosiery, Straw Hats, etc.

NEW LINE OF BROADHEAD DRESS GOODS,

Just received and marked at very low prices.

Jersey and Boucle Jackets, Very Cheap.

Staple & Fancy Groceries,

In great variety and at correct prices. The finest line of

Teas, Coffees, Spices.

PLANTATION JAVA COFFEE, - BEST IN THE WORLD.

Farmers will consult their own interests in buying our

FACTORY-FILLED DAIRY SALT.

J. L. HURD & CO.

NOW IS THE TIME!

ROSENTHAL & SON

ARE PREPARED FOR COOL WEATHER

With a Tremendous Stock of Dry Goods, Clothing, and Gentlemen's Furnishing Goods.

Having just returned from the market, we feel confident in stating that we can show the largest stock of Dry Goods, Fancies, Cloaks, Wraps, Carpets, Matting, Rugs, Clothing, Overcoats, Gent.'s Furnishing Goods, Hats and Caps, ever shown here at such low figures as we have marked them.

Our styles are so varied that it would be folly to attempt to describe them. As for prices, we shall maintain and increase our well earned reputation of giving the best value for the money. ☞Please give us a call.

ROSENTHAL & SON.

A Captain's Fortunate Discovery.

Capt. Coleman, Schr. Weymouth, plying between Atlantic City and New York, had been troubled with a cough so that he was unable to sleep, and was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. It not only gave him a sound relief, but aligned the extreme soreness in his breast. His children were similarly affected and a single dose had the same happy effect. Dr. King's New Discovery is now the standard remedy in the Coleman household and on board the schooner. Free trial bottles of this standard remedy at Dr. G. W. Crouter's drug store.

☞"Ladies' Misses' and Children's scarlet, wool, and merino Underwear, is shown by Rosenthal & Son.

☞"Dress Goods, low priced, medium priced, and fine all new (no old) stock, at Rosenthal & Son's.

WM. J. STEVENSON,
HORSE-SHOEING,

Wagon Shop,

BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Henry Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture my own wagons of the best material. WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CLIFFSTEEL BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

☞THE OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale.

The above Eyeglass invented by the Johnston Optical Co., of Detroit, Mich., combines the best features of all others.

1st. The lenses can be placed far enough away that the eyelashes will not touch them, a thing not always can be done with other eyeglasses.

2d. The guards are set so as to guide the nose back under eye-brows which prevents slipping and fog off.

3d. The pressure is on the fleshy part of the nose, not on the bridge, avoiding irritation.

4th. The lenses are set at right angles to line of vision.

5th. They can be worn safely without cord or chain so there is no danger of falling off.

6th. We warrant them to be the easiest eyeglass in the market.

C. R. BELLINGER,
Optician and Jeweler, Charlevoix, Mich.

LEAVE YOUR ORDER FOR

JOB WORK

AT THIS OFFICE.

At the Old Stand.

A. J. McLeod

Can be found at the old stand with a

FULL STOCK OF

SUPPLEMENT.

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

DEMOCRATIC NOMINATIONS.

State Ticket.

For Governor—
GEORGE L. YAPLE, of St. Joseph.

For Lieutenant-Governor—
SOLOMON S. CURRY, of Marquette.

For Secretary of State—
PHILLIP R. WACHTEL, of Encinal.

For State Treasurer—
WILLIAM G. BEARD, of Bay.

For Auditor-General—
JUDSON S. FARRAR, of Macomb.

For Attorney-General—
JOHN C. DONNELY, of Wayne.

For Commissioner of State Land Office—
ALONZO T. PRIEST, of Livingston.

For Superintendent of Public Instruction—
DAVID PARSONS, of Wayne.

For Member of State Board of Education—
JEROME W. TURNER, of Kalamazoo.

Congressional Ticket.

For Representative in Congress, Ninth District
LYMAN G. MASON, of Mississippi.

Legislative Ticket.

For Representative in the State Legislature, Charlevoix District,
HORATIO E. LEWIS, of Elk Rapids.

County Ticket.

For Sheriff—
DANIEL B. JERRUE, of South Arm.

For County Clerk—
WILLIAM F. PALMITER, of South Arm.

For County Treasurer—
ORLANDO BLAIR, of South Arm.

For Registrar of Deeds—
ELISHA H. SHEFARD, of Evangeline.

For Prosecuting Attorney—
ARTHUR E. MARTIN, of Evangeline.

For Circuit Court Commissioner—
ARTHUR E. MARTIN, of Evangeline.

For County Surveyor—
SIDNEY HAYDEN, of Evelyn.

For Coroner—
ORVILLE D. HILTON, of Norwood.
ROBERT FINDLEY, of Boyne Valley.

Democratic Senatorial Convention.

A democratic senatorial convention for the purpose of nominating a candidate for senator for the twenty-ninth senatorial district will be held at Charlevoix on Friday, Oct. 24, 1896, at 2 o'clock p. m.

The several counties will be entitled to delegates as follows: Emmet, 7; Antrim, 4; Charlevoix, 3; Manistee, 1.

By order of Senatorial Committee.

Oct. 12, 1896.

DON'T BE DECEIVED

by the cry of the Sentinel that the prohibition ticket is made to elect Dan Jerrue and the democratic ticket, by dividing the vote of the republicans, but make up your mind to work and vote for the whole democratic ticket, from top to bottom, from now till the close of the polls. Dan Jerrue is a better man than his opponent every day in the week, on any issue that can be raised; and no good democrat should allow himself to be led away. Don't be too sure about anybody's election, but get out and work as if one more vote was necessary for each candidate on the ticket, and on you depended that vote.

FOR REPRESENTATIVE.

Mr. Horatio E. Lewis, of Elk Rapids, has been named by the representative committee for the place on the ticket made vacant by the declination of Mr. E. S. Noble.

We are not personally acquainted with Mr. Lewis, but understand that he is a young man of good promise. He is connected with the mercantile business of Dexter & Noble, is active and ambitious, and has an excellent reputation for honesty and integrity in all his business transactions. As a politician he is with the party of progressive ideas, is popular with the boys, and we have no doubt will make a lively fur for his opponent, Mr. Dougherty.

PROSECUTING ATTORNEY.

Arthur E. Martin has been placed on the fusion ticket for prosecuting attorney, to fill the place made vacant by the declination of M. M. Burnham. Mr. Martin is in every way competent to perform the duties of the office, and if elected will make a faithful, conscientious officer.

It is understood that Mr. Burham declined on account of his business arrangements and because of his short acquaintance in the county. He has since, however, been named by the prohibitionists for the same place on their ticket. We do not know that he will accept this latter nomination.

Mr. Martin is a good temperance man, and can be endorsed by conscientious temperance men everywhere.

FOR STATE SENATOR.

The democratic convention to nominate a candidate for state senator from the twenty-ninth district, will be held at Charlevoix to-morrow afternoon. The district is composed of Antrim, Charlevoix, Grand Traverse, Leelanaw, and Manitou counties.

No other name having been presented, we would suggest for the consideration of the convention the name of Mr. Walter S. Johnson, of Leelanaw county. Mr. Johnson has been a resident of the Traverse region more than a dozen years, the last five of which he has lived in Suttons Bay. There are but few if any men in the district better known in business circles and among the workingmen. He is deservedly popular, and if nominated, will make a lively canvass against his opponent on the republican ticket, and will make himself heard on the right side in the senate chamber at Lansing.

YAPLE AS A GRANGER.

The Grand Rapids Democrat prints a long article showing Yaple's connection with the Grange and that he is still in good standing in the order. It publishes a fac-simile of the following letter:

Michigan State Grange,
Patrons of Husbandry,
Secretary's Office.

SCHOOLCRAFT, Mich., Jan. 19, 1877.

To all patrons to whom this may come—greeting: From a brief acquaintance with the bearer, George L. Yaple, I take pleasure in commending him to the good will of the Brotherhood. I think he will be found an earnest, active, working member of any Grange with which he may affiliate.

[Signed] J. T. Cobb,
Sec'y Michigan State Grange.

Yaple's denial card is also published showing his withdrawal, and interviews are given with farmers of Mendon as to his life upon the farm, all speaking in commendatory terms.—Lansing Journal.

Honors to Yaple.

Arrangements are being made for a grand reception to the union candidate for governor, Hon. Geo. L. Yaple, next Saturday morning. The following are on the committee of reception. The people are invited to turn out en masse to meet their next governor:

Charlevoix,—J. Milo Eaton, L. D. Bartholomew, Amos Fox, Geo. W. Miller, Geo. W. Crouter, L. E. Allen, W. P. Brown, J. B. Atkins, C. J. Strang, Albert E. Mason, E. M. Clark, Chas. Swake, John Bell, James Washburn, J. M. Clark, A. J. McLeod, James Gillick.

Boyne City,—Benj. T. Ingalls, Frank Abrams, A. E. Martin, E. H. Shepard, T. J. Hill.

East Jordan,—S. G. Isaman, Patrick Welch, Frank Martinek, J. Alexander, John Monroe, Sr., James Palmiter, William Hulburt, Wm. Palmiter, D. B. Jerrue, Orlando Blair.

Bruntons,—Ava Smith, A. B. Noyes, Richard Lake.

Advance,—Peter Karlskin, Ammon Boers.

Bay Springs,—Howard Flanigan, R. M. Cadwell.

Norwood,—O. D. Hilton, Ed. Cook, Parker McIntyre.

Hayes,—John A. Bacot, H. S. Newson, F. J. Smith, Isaac Stauffer.

Marion,—Michael Nowlend, John Cooper, J. G. Reid, Arthur Beattie.

Yaple in Nebraska.

From the Grand Rapids Democrat.

EDITOR DEMOCRAT:—I see that the Detroit Tribune assails the honor as a politician and ability as a lawyer of a former citizen of this city. Although a stranger to them I may claim to contradict the charges there made—charges so base and unfounded, they could have originated only in the mind of a politician driven to frenzy by the merited success of an honorable opponent.

George L. Yaple's politics and theory of government when I knew him in Nebraska were the same as those advocated by him to-day.

He was ever candid and outspoken in his sympathy for labor and against the concentration of capital and monopoly. While here he showed his interest in and knowledge of agriculture by delivering several addresses at several of the fairs which were acknowledged by all who heard them to be the finest ever delivered in the state. As a lawyer he took front rank at a bar of acknowledged ability. As proof of the confidence in his ability and integrity as a lawyer by people here, I would say one term of the district court for this county shown a docket of eighty-five cases and Geo. L. Yaple appears as attorney in thirty-eight of them. After the people here became acquainted with him he was employed upon one side or the other of every important case. If the republican party in Michigan have been forced from the real issues between the parties and have to rely upon such base and malicious falsehoods as I have noticed from the Tribune, it is time the party was rebuked.

Geo. L. Yaple's friends in Nebraska (and by that I mean all who know here), irrespective of party, believe him the peer of any man in Michigan in ability and integrity, and we also believe if elected governor of Michigan that he will make an economical and safe one, whom the state may well be proud. Truly yours for the right.

A. J. HALE.

Beatrice, Neb., Oct. 10th, 1896.

Premiums Awarded.

The following is a list of the premiums awarded at the second annual fair of the Charlevoix county agricultural society, at East Jordan, Sept. 22-24, 1896:

Division A—Horses.

Superintendent, Wm. Simpson.

Class 1—Thoroughbreds.

John Hammond, best stallion 3 yrs old or over, Wm. Lewis, second best.

Frank Coleman, best brood mare with foal, John Monroe Jr. second best.

Frank Coleman, best mare 3 yrs old or over.

M. M. Burnham, best mare 2 yrs old.

M. M. Burnham, second premium, gelding 1 yr old.

Class 2—Horses for all work.

F. H. Rooney, best stallion 1 yr old.

Jas. Holben, best mare 3 yrs old or over.

F. H. Dwight second best.

M. M. Burnham, best mare 2 yrs old.

M. M. Burnham, second best.

M. M. Burnham, second premium mare 1 yr old.

M. M. Burnham, best blood mare with foal.

Frank Coleman, best colt 6 months or under.

Frank Coleman, second best.

Class 3—Carriage and Single Horses.

Geo. Lewis, best matched horses 4 yrs old or over.

Andrew Heller best matched horses 3 yrs old.

A. E. Dwight, best single horse 4 yrs old or over.

A. E. Dwight second best.

John Schedlon, best single driving horse.

Class 4—Farm Team for General Purposes.

Wm. Knight, best farm team 4 yrs old or over.

M. M. Burnham second best.

M. M. Burnham, best colt 1 yr old.

F. D. Bowman, M. M. Burnham, Jacob Bisnett, awarding committee.

Division B—Cattle.

Superintendent, S. H. Hipp.

Class 1—Full Blood Holsteins.

D. M. Carey, best bull 2 yrs old or over.

Class 2—Full Blood Jerseys.

D. P. Bowman, best bull 2 yrs old or over.

Jacob Bisnett, best cow 3 yrs old or over.

Class 3—Grades.

C. A. Rinehart, best bull 1 yr old.

Daniel Carey, best bull calf.

Stanley Bush, best cow 4 yrs old or over.

Jas. Alexander, best cow 3 yrs old.

A. M. Murphy, best cow 2 yrs old.

Mrs. F. J. Sherman, best heifer.

Class 4—Working Oxen and Steers.

Chas. Alexander, best yoke of oxen 4 yrs old or over.

E. S. Bigley second best.

S. M. Richardson, Elijah Holden, Mr. Tomlinson, awarding committee.

Division C—Swine.

Superintendent, J. H. Conway.

Class 1—Poland China.

A. E. Dwight, best boar 1 yr old.

A. E. Dwight, best boar under 1 yr.

A. E. Dwight, best sow over 1 yr old.

A. E. Dwight, best sow under 1 yr old.

C. A. Rinehart second.

A. E. Dwight, best litter of not less than 4 pigs under 6 months old.

Class 2—Chester White.

Jacob Keller, best sow over 1 yr old.

Class 4—Jersey Reds.

E. A. Gibson, best boar under 1 yr old.

E. A. Gibson, best sow under 1 yr old.

Class 6—Cheshire.

M. M. Burnham, best boar under 1 yr old.

M. M. Burnham, best sow under 1 yr old.

F. D. Bowman, Peter K. Winters, awarding committee.

Division D—Sheep.

Superintendent, S. G. Isaman.

Class 3—Shropshire Downs.

A. E. Dwight, best ram lamb.

A. E. Dwight, best ewe 1 yr old.

Class 6—Grade or Native.

Henry Knowland, best ram 2 yrs old.

Christopher Maynes, John Hammond, John Ward, awarding committee.

Division E—Poultry.

Superintendent, A. B. Dwight.

M. T. Libby, best pr partridge cochin.

Wm. Lewis, best pr games.

Wm. Lewis, best pr plymouth rocks.

E. Holben, best turkeys.

Robert Trimble, best pr salesbury ducks.

Louis Graner, best white rats.

Wm. Lewis, best white mice.

Martin J. Sullivan, Henry Black, John Radgeran, awarding committee.

Division F—Farm Implements, Etc.

Superintendent, W. F. Carey.

Kilborn & Burnham, best mowing machine, horse rake, sulky rake, hay tedder, wheel cultivator, spring, financial, harrow, mower, rake, spring tooth harrow, corn planter, cultivator, seed, one bottom plow, meadow king mower, road cart, post cutter.

F. D. Bowman, J. H. Conway, awarding committee.

Division G—Fruit, Vegetables, and Grains.

Superintendent, Wm. Black.

Class 1.

J. V. Lager, best bu of white wheat.

Peter Tebo, best bu of white winter wheat.

Jesse M. Paterson, best bu of red winter wheat.

Jesse M. Paterson, best bu spring barley.

Wm. Jacques, best bu of white oats, Burpee's seed.

M. M. Burnham, best bu buckwheat.

F. J. Sherman, best bu of red clover seed, large.

F. J. Sherman, best bu of red clover seed, small.

M. M. Burnham, best bu timothy seed.

M. M. Burnham, best bu beans.

Class 2—Vegetables.

Henry Knowland, best bu early rose potatoes.

Chas. A. Rinehart, best bu late rose potatoes.

Chas. A. Rinehart, best bu Burbank seedling.

Chas. A. Rinehart, best bu sun flower.

F. J. Sherman, best bu white mammoth potatoes.

John Kilborn, best 4 cucumbers.

F. J. Sherman, best 4 cucumbers.

F. J. Sherman, best bu carrots.

F. J. Sherman, best bu beets.

M. T. Libby, best 4 squash.

M. T. Libby, best 4 pumpkins.

George Kilborn, best parsnips.

George Kilborn, best parsnips.

Mrs. F. J. Sherman, best bu onions.

Mrs. F. J. Sherman, best bu onions.

H. B. High, best pumpkin, Jacob Bisnett.

H. B. High, best pumpkin, second.

H. B. Jerrue, best 4 marblehead squash.

H. B. Jerrue, best 4 marblehead squash.

Mrs. F. J. Sherman, best 4 marblehead squash.

Mrs. F. J. Sherman, best 4 squash.

Mrs. F. J. Sherman, best 4 squash.

Mrs. F. J. Sherman, best 4 squash.

Mrs. F. J. Sherman, best 4 squash.

Mrs. F. J. Sherman, best 4 squash.

Mrs. F. J. Sherman, best 4 squash.

Mrs. M. J. Gardner, hybrid squash.

Mrs. M. J. Gardner, hybrid squash.

John Spidel, chili squash.

Mrs. F. J. Sherman, hybrid squash.

Amelia Burchell, pumpkin.

Mrs. F. J. Sherman, pumpkin.

George Kilborn, 2 black pumpkins.

Mrs. F. J. Sherman, best sweet potatoes.

Mrs. F. J. Sherman, best red onions.

George Kilborn, 2 white onions.

F. J. Sherman, best white onions.

Martin J. Sullivan, white onions, cept.

Martin J. Sullivan, single Whitelord, Hebron Potatoes.

Class 3—Fruits.

J. Fellows, best plate seedling apples.

J. Fellows, best plate northern spy.

J. Fellows, best plate sweet sweet.

A. H. Rockwell, best plate sweet sweet pippin.

A. H. Rockwell, best plate pippin.

Robert Trimble, best plate King of Tompkins.

Robert Trimble, best plate King of Tompkins.

Robert Trimble, best plate greasy pippin.

Henry Knowland, best plate Duchess Oldenberg.

Henry Knowland, best plate sweet bough.

Robert Kincaid, best plate pippin.

M. F. Gates, best plate strawberry.

Harry Knowland, best plate Jewett.

Harry Knowland, best plate Jewett.

A. H. Rockwell, best plate bell flower.

A. H. Rockwell, best plate bell flower, sweet.

J. A. King, best plate Iron Davis.

J. A. King, best plate, spitzenberg.

Robert Trimble, best plate danish beauty.

Henry Knowland, best plate danish beauty.

William Graham, best plate fanny sweet.

Jas. Holben, best plate harp.

Anton Hawes, best plate Jonathan.

Henry Knowland, best plate wallbridge, lady apple, Hebron Potatoes.

E. M. Richardson, best plate sweet.

E. M. Richardson, best plate sweet.

M. F. Gates, best plate fallow water, calvert, Canada red, nonesuchter, golden sweet.

M. F. Gates, best plate fall pippin, calvert, Northern spy, golden sweet, autumn strawberry, golden spitzenberg, golden pippin, Belmont, Grimes golden, spitzenberg.

Robert Trimble, best plate Russia.

A. B. Gessner, best plate Williams' fatte.

FRAME PEARS, PEACHES, QUINCES, GRAPES AND APPLES, ORCHARD.

Robert Trimble, best plate French beauty pears.

Richard Knight, best plate bonner pears.

Henry Knowland, best plate Louis Bonde pears.

Henry Knowland, best plate.

M. F. Gates, best plate peaches.

A. H. Rockwell, best plate yellow egg plums.

Mary Mellis, best plate damson plums.

Mrs. Thomas Dunkinson, best plate damson plums.

Thomas Dunkinson, best plate Damson purple plums.

Henry Knowland, best plate Imperial plums.

James McGonegal best plate quince.

T. W. Richardson best plate rare ripens.

Thomas Dunkinson best plate grapes.

John Schedlon, best and largest display of fruit by one person.

A. Hayward A. E. Hayes D. C. Lovedsy awarding committee.

Division H—Dairy Products, Apiarian Department, Canned Fruit and Preserved Fruit, Cooking, Etc.

Superintendent, John Simpson.

Class 1—Dairy Products.

Robert Trimble, best pr farmers butter.

F. H. Rooney best 2 rolls butter.

F. H. Rooney best pr 1 lb. print butter.

Mrs. Emma J. Spidel best eggs.

Class 2—Honey, Maple Syrup and Dried Fruit.

H. L. Page best can cherries.

H. L. Page best can green plums.

H. L. Page best can peaches and pears.

Mrs. E. J. Spidel best 1 lb. sample varsity of jellies.

Miss Rose Barbour best sample dried cherries.

James Kelly best sample dried Orlando Blair awarding committee.

Class 4—Cooking.

Mrs. J. H. Barnett best sample hop yeast bread.

Mrs. J. H. Barnett, sample hop yeast bread.

Miss Ellen Kent 15 yrs of age best plate doughnuts.

Class 5—Pickles Shown in Glass.

Mrs. F. J. W. Sims best of cucumbers.

Mrs. J. C. Gordon best of gherkins.

Mrs. F. J. W. Sims best of vegetable pickles.

James Ketchum G. B. Stanley Orlando Blair awarding committee.

To be Continued.

Only 25 Cents

buys a perfect remedy for sour stomach, diarrhœa, biliousness, constipation, headache and loss of sleep. Try it. Dr. Pete's Maple Pain Oil, it mentally relieves external and internal pain. Sold by Perry Wood and Dr. G. W. Crouter.

☞ Ladies' Mantles, Newmarkets, Short Wraps and Flesh Newmarkets, latest styles, just received, at Rosenthal & Son's.

☞ Carpets, Matting, Rugs, and Window Curtains and fixtures, at Rosenthal & Son's.

☞ The finest line of Trunks and Valises in town, at Rosenthal & Son's.

Day and Night

During an acute attack of Bronchitis, a constant tickling in the throat, and an exhausting, dry, hacking cough, add the sufferer. Sleep is troubled, and great prostration follows. This disease is also attended with Hoarseness, and sometimes Loss of Voice. It is liable to become chronic, involve the lungs, and terminate fatally. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral stops speedy relief and cure in cases of Bronchitis. It controls the disposition to cough, and induces refreshing sleep.

I have been a practising physician for twenty-four years, and, for the past twelve, have suffered from annual attacks of Bronchitis. After exhausting all the usual remedies

Without Relief,

I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It helped me immediately, and effected a speedy cure.—G. Stovall, M. D., Carrollton, Miss.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is decidedly the best remedy, within my knowledge, for chronic Bronchitis, and Throat Diseases.—M. A. Hunt, M. D., South Paris, Me.

I was attacked, last winter, with a severe cold, which, from exposure, grew worse and finally settled on my lungs. I was night sweats I was reduced, and in a doctor. My cough was incessant, frequently spit blood. My physician had me to give up business, or I would live but a month. After taking this remedy two months I was cured.

Cured By Using

two bottles of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I am now in perfect health, and able to resume business, after has been a long time a helpless invalid.—Mrs. S. P. Henderson, Saddle River, N. J.

For years I was in a decline. I had a hard cough, and suffered from Bronchitis and Catarrh. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral cured me to health, and I have, for a long time thereafter, enjoyed very vigorous health. In case of a sudden cold, I use Ayer's Cherry Pectoral as the best remedy I know of.—Edward E. Curtis, Bainbridge, Ind.

Two years ago I suffered from a severe Bronchitis. The physicians failed to give me any permanent relief. I commenced to take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and in a few months was cured. I believe it saved my life.—Thomas Lonergan, Lapsuggan, Ind.

In the case of a sudden cold, I use Ayer's Cherry Pectoral as the best remedy I know of.—Edward E. Curtis, Bainbridge, Ind.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists. Price $1, six bottles $5.

Jos. Beauvais

BOAT-BUILDER

The Best Modeled, Easiest Rowing, and Best Sailing Boats in Northern Michigan, for the Least Money. Give me a Trial. I am bound to Please.

Boat Livery

In connection with shop.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

A Special Sale

IN CHILDREN'S SUITS,

AND

A GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES

On all other goods.

I will sell you a real all-wool suit of underwear for $1.50; a good, heavy winter pants for $1.50; a good, all-wool, kersey suit for $9.00, the best goods for the money that can be made.

Don't fail to give me a call for anything in my line, for

I am Giving Great Bargains This Fall.

Just received my stock of Winter Caps. You will be surprised when you see what I can sell you a Fur Cap for.

GEO. W. MILLER.

THE EARTHQUAKE DID IT!

We mean we got a big bargain on all our cloak purchases. Our New York agent has taken advantage of the

GREAT EXCITEMENT!

And has written us that never before had we secured such an elegant line of

LADIES' MISSES' AND CHILDREN'S

CLOAKS

At Such LOW PRICES.

LADIES, DO NOT PURCHASE A CLOAK or Wrap of any kind until you have seen our goods and learned our prices, as they will soon be here.

A big line of everything in Dry Goods coming, wait for them.

Yours, very truly,

F. W. CRAINE & CO.

GRANGER YAPLE!

The Union Candidate for Governor a Granger in Good Standing in the Order.

THE DOCUMENT IN THE CASE.

The Hollow Mockery of the Republican Farmer Campaign—Inconsistency of Jerome T. Cobb—Yaple's Experience on the Farm—Good Words From Leading Papers—Fine Steels of Cobb's Letter—Yaple Takes a Demit.

Special to the Grand Rapids Democrat.

MENDON, Mich., Oct. 11.—The republicans are using their best efforts to turn the Michigan Grange into a political machine. In their efforts they have secured the assistance of Jerome T. Cobb, editor of the Grange Visitor. He has made that journal of industry, which was intended to be and should be non-partisan in all its utterances, a republican organ. The excuse given is that the republican candidate for governor, Cyrus G. Luce, is a granger and a farmer. The millionaires of Detroit are appealing to the farmers of Michigan to support their man, claiming that he is the granger candidate. Luce was nominated by a partisan republican convention, upon a partisan republican platform, and his success will be a partisan republican victory. He advocates principles antagonistic to the interests of the farmer, and if, through the cry of "the farmer candidate," a sufficient number of farmers can be hoodwinked into voting for the republican candidates for the legislature, then the mask will be thrown off, and a millionaire's monopoly and money power, and all its attendant evils, will be elected as a United States senator from Michigan.

A MOCKERY.

The cry that this campaign is being waged for the farmers benefit is a hollow cry. The election of Luce will in no way be a farmers' victory. His sympathies and habits of thought are from the Coldwater Republican of the date of October 3 inst.

SOUTHERN MICH. NAT'L BANK.

CAPITAL AND SURPLUS, $200,000.

LARGEST IN THE COUNTY.

C. D. RANDALL, President. C. G. LUCE, Vice-Pres't.
L. E. ROSE, Cashier.
Directors: C. D. Randall, L. F. Hale, C. G. Luce, J. S. Barber, L. E. Rose, E. R. Clarke, D. C. Powers.

A general and conservative banking business transacted.

Office hours from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m."

What the Democrat says is men in office who will care for their interests. They will be injured by one who, like Luce, sympathizes with those who are making the times harder and the farmers poorer. The farmers need just such men as the people need. It makes no difference what a man's calling is, whether he be a lawyer, a blacksmith, or a farmer, so long as he is a citizen will mean the success of principle and the good of all concerned in the interest of the masses.

YAPLE IS A GRANGER.

Nevertheless, we propose to show, not the union candidate, while he is a lawyer in good repute, and thoroughly educated in the science of government, is also a granger in good standing, and so much so is just as much entitled to the support of Cyrus G. Luce, the granger candidate. Luce was nominated by a partisan republican convention, upon a partisan republican platform, and his success will be a partisan republican victory. He advocates principles antagonistic to the interests of the farmer, and if, through the cry of "the farmer candidate," a sufficient number of farmers can be hoodwinked into voting for the republican candidates for the legislature, then the mask will be thrown off, and a millionaire's monopoly and money power, and all its attendant evils, will be elected as a United States senator from Michigan.

A MOCKERY.

The cry that this campaign is being waged for the farmers benefit is a hollow cry. The election of Luce will in no way be a farmers' victory. His sympathies and habits of thought are all with the monied classes. It is true that he owns a farm, but he also owns a large amount of bank stock is an officer of the Southern Michigan national bank of Coldwater, and believes in perpetuating the national debt, and is a connivance of the republican system of war taxation for the protection and building up of monopolies. In proof our statements we cite you to the advertisement of his bank, taken from the Coldwater Republican of the date of October 3 inst.

SOUTHERN MICH. NAT'L BANK.

CAPITAL AND SURPLUS, $200,000.

LARGEST IN THE COUNTY.

C. D. RANDALL, President. C. G. LUCE, Vice-Pres't.
L. E. ROSE, Cashier.
Directors: C. D. Randall, L. F. Hale, C. G. Luce, J. S. Barber, L. E. Rose, E. R. Clarke, D. C. Powers.

A general and conservative banking business transacted.

Office hours from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m."

This letter shows the entire dishonesty of the so-called grange campaign. It shows that it is not a granger that is the editor, but that it is a republican, and the efforts that are being used to make the grange a lever to move the republican machine, ought, if nothing more was at hand, to cause every lover of the order to vote for George L. Yaple and the balance of the union ticket, state, congressional and county.

The father of the union candidate is an old pioneer of St Joseph county. He settled in that fertile section towards the close of the last century. Yaple was born in 1823. His wife is finely educated and has been a through help meet to her husband. Soon after their marriage they went to live on a farm belonging to his father. The farm is situated about two miles from Mendon, where Mr. Yaple now resides, and contained 200 acres of land. When he was first nominated for congress, one of his own county papers used the following language concerning his early life:

YAPLE FOLLOWS FARMING.

"They (Mr. Yaple and wife) started out to learn in a practical way, the business of farming. Mr. Yaple knew but very little about the rough and rugged work that he had undertaken, and his wife as little about practical housekeeping but they appreciated their dependence and became willing pupils of neighbors and friends who were so willing to impart, as they were to receive instructions. By diligent efforts, together with hard labor, in the course of three years Mr. Yaple became a practical farmer and his wife a practical housekeeper. During these years Mr. Yaple became a Granger and lec tured frequently, in the winter season, before the local Grange, and sometimes after gaining the practical knowledge of farming he had learned his attention to the practice of law in Nebraska and were necessary in his county, where he has earned the reputation from jealous competitors of his as being now a star among the young lawyers of the state."

Mr. Yaple has all his life taken a great interest in public matters. He has lectured before the grange at Mendon, Marcellus, Langley's grove the mouth, Schoolcraft, Battle Creek, Coldwater and Vicksburg. He has also delivered agricultural addresses among other places at Marshall, Lake Pleasant, Centerville and also at the Gage county fair in Nebraska. At some of these places did he seek to organize himself into a branch of the grange, and at each place he greatly pleased and instructed all who heard him. Jerome T. Cobb, in the Grange Visitor, spoke in the highest terms of Mr. Yaple's speech at Battle Creek.

"Hon. George L. Yaple and David Ward Wood, the orator of the day, were the only speakers. Mr. Yaple is a young farmer, only 36 years of age, but one of the most brilliant young men we have met with in a very long time. His address was scholarly and finished production, and would do credit to any man. The necessity of mind and money combined would prove more attention to agricultural literature, and the need of more and better agricultural journals was alleged that money would be forthcoming were such journals in demand. He denounced the protective tariff system as a fraud upon the farmer. The speech was received with great applause."

This letter shows the entire dishonesty of the so-called grange campaign. It shows that it is not a granger that is the editor, but that it is a republican, and the efforts that are being used to make the grange a lever to move the republican machine, ought, if nothing more was at hand, to cause every lover of the order to vote for George L. Yaple and the balance of the union ticket, state, congressional and county.

The father of the union candidate is an old pioneer of St Joseph county. He settled in that fertile section towards the close of the last century. Yaple was born in 1823. His wife is finely educated and has been a through help meet to her husband. Soon after their marriage they went to live on a farm belonging to his father. The farm is situated about two miles from Mendon, where Mr. Yaple now resides, and contained 200 acres of land. When he was first nominated for congress, one of his own county papers used the following language concerning his early life:

YAPLE FOLLOWS FARMING.

"They (Mr. Yaple and wife) started out to learn in a practical way, the business of farming. Mr. Yaple knew but very little about the rough and rugged work that he had undertaken, and his wife as little about practical housekeeping but they appreciated their dependence and became willing pupils of neighbors and friends who were so willing to impart, as they were to receive, instructions. By diligent efforts, together with hard labor, in the course of three years Mr. Yaple became a practical farmer and his wife a practical housekeeper. During these years Mr. Yaple became a Granger and lectured frequently, in the winter season, before the local Grange, and sometimes after gaining the practical knowledge of farming he had learned his attention to the practice of law in Nebraska and were necessary in his county, where he has earned the reputation from jealous competitors of his as being now a star among the young lawyers of the state."

Mr. Yaple has all his life taken a great interest in public matters. He has lectured before the grange at Mendon, Marcellus, Langley's grove the mouth, Schoolcraft, Battle Creek, Coldwater and Vicksburg. He has also delivered agricultural addresses among other places at Marshall, Lake Pleasant, Centerville and also at the Gage county fair in Nebraska. At some of these places did he seek to organize himself into a branch of the grange, and at each place he greatly pleased and instructed all who heard him. Jerome T. Cobb, in the Grange Visitor, spoke in the highest terms of Mr. Yaple's speech at Battle Creek.

"Hon. George L. Yaple and David Ward Wood, the orator of the day, were the only speakers. Mr. Yaple is a young farmer, only 36 years of age, but one of the most brilliant young men we have met with in a very long time. His address was scholarly and finished production, and would do credit to any man. The necessity of mind and money combined would prove more attention to agricultural literature, and the need of more and better agricultural journals was alleged that money would be forthcoming were such journals in demand. He denounced the protective tariff system as a fraud upon the farmer. The speech was received with great applause."

Yes, said Mr. Angevine, "I knew Mr. Yaple as a farmer and as a granger and I have frequently met him in the grange, and he is considered a worthy member of the order. A few years ago I heard Mr. Yaple and Cyrus G. Luce, in Leighton township, three miles north of Conterville, in this county, deliver grange addresses from the same stand. Luce recognized him as a worthy member of the order."

What was thought of Mr. Yaple as a farmer?

"He was a good farmer. Of course he had but little previous experience, but he was an apt pupil and learned rapidly. He was not afraid of hard work and worked with his men in the field. His crops averaged well. We old farmers had a little curious interest in the young man and watched to see how he would succeed. We found that he made the farm average up better than it had ever done before. Mr. Yaple was a success as a farmer."

"I was in the grange," said George R. Osgood, now postmaster of Mendon, when Mr. Yaple and his wife were initiated. He became a very active member and did the order much good by his addresses and lectures. Like Mr. Angevine I watched his course as a farmer and I can testify that he was a success. He was a hard worker—went right out into the field, took his coat off and was to my sense of the word 'a hired hand' farmer. Yaple has no need to feel ashamed of his record on the farm."

And he has a lawyer in Geo. P. Doan, who is also successful as a lawyer, I think I have an impartial mind as the law is Judge reserves. There is more in the law than is in a mere logical reasoner and his advice is much sought after. He is a thorough student and when he decides to devote his entire attention to the law he will have no difficulty in secuing a large practice."

"I wish you could talk with Abe Yaple the master of the grange," remarked Angevine. "He could give the work a statement of what Mr. Yaple did for the grange, but he is away from home."

"Well," said a bystander, "the people here know that Luce is running the grange for his own benefit, and I do not believe a member of the order will be fooled. It is pretty generally understood that the publication office of the Grange Visitor was removed from Kalamazoo to Coldwater, so that Luce could personally supervise it. The Coldwater Republican is without the shadow of a doubt the organ of the lady, Mrs. Johnson, referred to as an old maid, who is spreading the scandal, and who, by the way, does washing and kindred work about the neighborhood, not only utterly denies telling the tale on her, but alleges that the reporter who saw the Tribune reporter. In conjunction with prominent Mendon citizens, obtained the indignant refutation of the outrageous falsehood from her own lips.

"Yes, other woman authority referred to in support of the alleged conjectured lies (Mrs. Hoag), never lived next door, as stated but in another block, and full 20 rods away. And the third, (who is now alleged to be the inspector,) the recent issue of the Mendon Globe, her card thereon being herewith printed without comment:

"To the Editor of the Globe:

As I am the only surviving member of the Johnson family in Mendon, I feel it my duty to contradict the report circulated about me and published in the Detroit Tribune of the 8th.

In the first place I did not see the reporter, it states that my mother talked over to Mr. Yaple's house and announced the killing of Garfield, which I was then carrying in a pail, and that they sh outed "Hurrah for the good news!" and waved their sunbonnets in the air. The witness who related this incident is a liar. I have no recollection of any such occurrence. I remember well the day Garfield was shot, I was sitting alone in the yard, returning home from my school that afternoon, noticed the flag at half-staff on entering the house I asked my mother what that was for. She said, "The president is shot and we are in mourning for a time." But she did not shout nor wave her sunbonnet over the event. I think if she had felt so jubilant, as your reporter represents, I should have known it. If she was living, she would corroborate what I tell it, she has been in my employ for years and I write this to expose my utter ignorance of the conduct of a person who represents around the neighborhood, not content with slandering my absent daughter, but with her dead one.

MRS. NANCY M. BENNETT."

Mr. Reynolds denounces the whole catalogue of charges. He inspected Mr. Yaple's law library and pronounces it one of the best and largest in St Joseph county. He also ascertained by auspicious inquiry throughout the town that the popular nominee for governor was looked upon as one of the most talented and reliable attorneys at the St. Joe bar, was an able, extemporaneous orator, and if elected would be honored by everybody and had remained at home in so small a town, (1,200 inhabitants) and attended to his father's extensive business only since and because his honored father was stricken with an attack of the palsy—from which he is now recovering. Charges leaving a large and lucrative practice in Nebraska for that purpose.

As to the mortgage transaction, in which $150 is alleged to have been taken from Mrs. Clark on a promise to foreclose a mortgage on the Clark farm, Mr. Reynolds says the whole affair is shown to be a most villainous fabrication. The transaction took place before witnesses. It is as follows: The elder Mr. Yaple bought a mortgage against the Clark farm of something like $2,200, in lieu it running at 8 per cent interest and being due in one year. The new grant was originally given to one Ephraim Wilcox, some 15 years before, and forward. The interest there had been paid but $200. Then, after the elder Yaple took the mortgage for the aggregated amount, it ran till the 85s (instead of that $150) was with difficulty obtained, for the same promise of further time, as stated in the unscrupulous charges. And, moreover, the $150 was paid on 86 acres, and has been long in the market at $40 per acre. Mr. George L. Yaple offers, and has bonded, $100 that any man can prove that Mr. Yaple offered, and has been offered, $100 for the 86 acres.

Mr. Yaple and Cyrus G. Luce, in Leighton, three miles north of Conterville, in this county, deliver grange addresses from the same stand. Luce recognized him as a worthy member of the order.

What was thought of Mr. Yaple as a farmer?

"He was a good farmer. Of course he had but little previous experience, but he was an apt pupil and learned rapidly. He was not afraid of hard work and worked with his men in the field. His crops averaged well. We old farmers had a little curious interest in the young man and watched to see how he would succeed. We found that he made the farm average up better than it had ever done before. Mr. Yaple was a success as a farmer."

"I was in the grange," said George R. Osgood, now postmaster of Mendon, when Mr. Yaple and his wife were initiated. He became a very active member and did the order much good by his addresses and lectures. Like Mr. Angevine I watched his course as a farmer and I can testify that he was a success. He was a hard worker—went right out into the field, took his coat off and was to my sense of the word 'a hired hand' farmer. Yaple has no need to feel ashamed of his record on the farm."

And he has a lawyer in Geo. P. Doan, who is also successful as a lawyer, I think I have an impartial mind as the law is Judge reserves. There is more in the law than is in a mere logical reasoner and his advice is much sought after. He is a thorough student and when he decides to devote his entire attention to the law he will have no difficulty in secuing a large practice."

"I wish you could talk with Abe Yaple the master of the grange," remarked Angevine." He could give the work a statement of what Mr. Yaple did for the grange, but he is away from home."

"Well," said a bystander, "the people here know that Luce is running the grange for his own benefit, and I do not believe a member of the order will be fooled. It is pretty generally understood that the publication office of the Grange Visitor was removed from Kalamazoo to Coldwater, so that Luce could personally supervise it. The Coldwater Republican is without the shadow of a doubt the organ of the lady, Mrs. Johnson, rifles; that to every three consulship officers to be appointed, during the war, there were about 60 private soldiers, and when they reflect that there are now a hundred officers seen or spoken of in newspapers where one private is mentioned, they will wonder what has become of all the privates. In McKinstry, of Michigan, the sole remaining private soldier? If so, the country cannot be too careful of him for none wants the race of market carriers to become extinct. The Sun has often wondered why a man, who did not engage a private soldier of the late war as an attaché. People would give more to see a good old private soldier than to see a cart load of officers. Officers are all right enough, and they are good fellows, but they are so plenty that you cannot walk a block without being a man who was a general, a colonel, a major or a captain. There are few lieutenants left, and in fact a lieutenant was so rare to a private soldier, being only one to a company, that he does not count. The private soldier was awfully hard during the war. There was no mixing in the army that did more to engender a feeling of hate than the private soldier. These officers that have taken to cities, yes, even the whole bakery in the way of offices since the war, always relied a great deal on the private soldier. Some of them come one week and write "Private Soldiers" after their names, and the next week another will was to break out and all the officers should rush to the war, and the privates did not, what an army it would be. Yes, the private soldier and his credentials would be flying around like hens with their heads cut off, looking for private soldiers. Where would they find them? Private soldiers, who have been so employed to avoid the draft, as though they never existed, would be reluctant to own up, and the fellows you were looking for, if young men promoted to enlist as privates, they would not get much encouragement from old black number eleven, who limped around with rheumatics contracted on the field of battle, who could not get pensions, while officers who had rheumatism of the hair from drinking champagne since the war had received pensions large enough to live on and keep a carriage. A private who has valuably endeavored to make his officer's number something of the long age, on which he could get a small private's pension might be too apt to let a government severely alone, and encourage his boy from enlisting when trouble comes again. He will tell his son to make an officer or a sutler, but after a cheap hand to carry the muskets. The private soldier of the only private known to exist with the patent office department of Washington will be pleasant news to hundreds of thousands of men who were do as he did. We have seen the news in them selves. Let this Detroit private be sent circulated widely, and let the country rally. Let other privates write to Mr. Kinstry, and tell him that they will send them write to Gen. Black, the new commissioner of pensions, and thank him for recognizing a private soldier. If there is another private soldier left in this country, let him write to the Sun and own up to it. We would like to get a group of pictures of private soldiers, if so many exist.

Among the other credits, the Chicago Times of recent date, mentions Sergeant Ingersoll, who was a private soldier and served through most of the war in that capacity, also Melbourne H. Ford, in the Fifth district of Illinois, who served in time as a common rank seaman in the navy during the war. The republicans have also nominated several soldiers for congress, but they all wore shoulder straps during their term of service.

The American House of Lords.

The party of monopoly in the United States, which is protected by the Republican flag, has decreed that Senator Conger is too near the people and must go. More railway kings, more millionaires are needed and already foreign corporations, with headquarters on Wall street, are pouring, money into Michigan to secure the next legislature and elect a millionaire senator in the American House of Lords. Senator Hill, of Colorado, tells how it is done when, at his call, the cities was filled with money sent to the legislature by the Western Union telegraph company. The votes of my friends were worth $5,000 each. Anyone of them could obtain that sum for the proposition clearing my road. I paid for his ballot. Colorado is a monopoly ridden state.

In regard to the condition of his state Mr. Hill said: "Colorado is prosperous. We have very little indebtedness, and our mining, grazing and agricultural resources are adding to our wealth rapidly. We are unfortunately situated in regard to freight transportation. The growth of cities and towns is simply dependent on transportation. We are completely in the power of the great railroad corporations, and with the pooling arrangements that now exist we are in the same position that we would be if we had but one railroad to connect us with the other parts of the country. There is no city in the United States of the size of Denver which pays so dearly for everything which is transported to it and from it. Nearly all articles of merchandise are carried from Chicago to San Francisco for less than we can get to Denver, one half the distance. If you send freight from Denver to San Francisco it costs more than it would to send it to Chicago. It is the business side wisdom of the managers of these great lines of transportation, that points of distance are wiped out—completely eliminated—from the consideration in determining rates. And yet we have on the line of one of the great subsidized roads—a road for which every dollar of this land was raised by a tax on the people, and which has received from the roads in this country, title, above all others, which should be treated with justice to all and partiality to none."

Gold and Silver Products of the United States for the Year 1884.

	GOLD.	SILVER.	TOTAL.
Alaska	$ 300,000	$ 1,000	$ 301,000
Arizona	150,000	5,500,000	5,650,000
California	15,000,000	1,500,000	16,500,000
Colorado	1,250,000	10,000,000	11,250,000
Dakota	500,000	50,000	550,000
Idaho	1,250,000	2,500,000	3,750,000
Montana	5,000,000	2,750,000	7,750,000
Nevada	1,500,000	1,500,000	3,000,000
New Mexico	300,000	500,000	800,000
North Carolina	17,000	3,000	20,000
Oregon	150,000	15,000	165,000
Utah	100,000	4,900,000	5,000,000
Virginia	40,000	1,000	41,000
Washington	80,000	20,000	100,000
Wyoming	1,000	1,000,000	1,001,000
Arizona, Texas, Mexico, Chili	50,000	5,000	55,000
Total	$21,500,000	$46,500,000	$67,900,000

PROTECTION WHICH PROTECTS.

Democratic Acts vs. Republican Promises—What Has Been Done by the Democratic Party in the Interest of Labor.

It Is Just as Legal to Protect Labor From the Importation of Competing Pauper Labor of Europe, Canada and China as to Protect Merchandise—What Reputation Ever Proposed a Tax on Foreign Laborers Coming Here?—What Republican Manufacturer, Lumberman or Miner Never Ever Failed to Import Chinese, Canadians or Other Labor to Keep Down the Wages of Our Laborers?

A republican congress in 1864 passed an act providing for the appointment of a commissioner of immigration. Section 2 of that act is as follows:

"And be it further enacted, that all contracts that shall be made by emigrants to the United States in foreign countries in conformity to regulations to be established by the said commissioner, whereby emigrants shall pledge the wages of their labor for a term not exceeding 12 months, to repay the expense of their emigration, shall be held to be valid in law, and may be enforced in the courts of the United States, or of the several states, and territories, and such advances, if so stipulated in the contract, and the contract be recorded in the recorders office in the county where the emigrants shall settle, shall operate as a lien upon any land thereafter acquired until liquidated by the emigrant, whether under the homestead law, when the title is consummated, or on property otherwise acquired by the emigrants."

THE CHINESE BILL.

The bill prohibiting the immigration of Chinese was opposed by the republicans, and vetoed by a republican president.

LABOR LEGISLATION.

The 49th congress (republican) refused to appoint a committee on labor. The 48th congress (democratic) created such a committee, and appointed thereon well known friends of labor, Mr. O'Neil of Missouri, the chairman, Messrs. Morrison of Illinois, Forsythe of Ohio, a cooper by trade; Mr. Lovering of Massachusetts, a mechanic from the shops of Lynn; Mr. Tarsney of Michigan, formerly an engineer; Lawler of Illinois, a labor man himself; Mr. Daniels of Virginia; Mr. Weaver of Iowa, and Mr. Crain of Texas all earnest advocates of the labor cause, were the democratic members of that committee.

The following extracts from a speech by Hon. John O'Neil of Missouri, chairman of that committee, gives the result of the labors of that committee during the last session:

"I submit the list of bills reported from the committee on labor of the present congress (49th), which have been passed, and are now pending in the senate, with the exception of the bill regulating the incorporation of national trades unions, and house resolution 142, relating to the contract labor law, have passed both houses, and become law.

Arbitration bill (H. R. 7479) provides that in all controversies between railroad companies and their employees, if requested to arbitration, the United States would give the arbitrators the power to send for persons and papers, administer oaths, in fact all the powers of the United States commissioners, and would pay all the expense of the arbitration, the award to be filed with the commissioner of labor, and to be made public by him.

TO LEGALIZE THE INCORPORATION OF TRADES UNIONS.

The term National Trades's union, in the meaning of the act, to signify any association of working people having two or more branches in the states or territories of the United States for the purpose of aiding its members to become more skillful and efficient workers; to promotion of their general intelligence; the elevation of their character; the acquisition of higher wages and their home; the protection of their individuality in the prosecution of their trade or trades; the raising of funds for the benefit of sick, disabled or unemployed members, or the families of deceased members, for such other object or objects, for which working people may lawfully combine, having in view their natural protection or benefit.

TO PROTECT MECHANICS, LABORERS AND OTHERS IN THEIR WAGES. (H. R. 5010.)

By providing that all personal services rendered by any person acting in the capacity of a mechanic, laborer or servant, in the District of Columbia and territories of the United States, no property shall be exempt from seizure and sale under execution.

CONVICT LABOR. (H. RES. 142.)

Authorizing and directing the commissioner of labor to make full investigation as to the kind and amount of work performed in the penal institutions of the several states and territories of the United States and the District of Columbia, as to the methods under which convicts are or may be employed, and as to all the facts pertaining to contract labor and the influences of the same upon the industries of the countries.

CONVICT LABOR. (H. R. 7691.)

To prohibit any officer, agent or servant of the government of the United States to hire or contract out the labor of prisoners incarcerated for violating the laws of the United States.

CONVICT AND ALIEN LABOR. (H. R. 5641.)

To prevent the employment of convict labor and alien labor upon public buildings and other public works; and convict labor in the preparation or manufacture of materials for public building, and other public works, and to regulate the manner of letting contracts therefor.

IMPORTED CONTRACT LABOR. (H. R. 9.232.)

To amend an act to prohibit the importation of foreigners and aliens under contract or agreement to perform labor in the United States, approved February 26, 1885. The secretary of the treasury is charged with the duty of executing the provisions of the act, and may enter into contract with each state commissioner, board, or officers so may be designated for that purpose by the governor of any state, to take charge of the local affairs of immigration in the port within such state, and any emigrants any person in any state to execute the provisions of this act, and shall have power to examine into the condition of passenger ports within the ports, to go on board of any ship or vessel; and if on examination there shall be found among the passengers any persons included in the prohibition act, such persons shall not be permitted to land.

All persons included in the prohibition in the act, upon arrival, to be sent back to the nations to which they belong and from whence they came; the expense of return of such persons not permitted to land to be borne by the owners of the vessels in which they came. Any vessel refusing to pay such expenses not to be thereafter permitted to land at or clear from any port of the United States, and such expenses to be a lien on the vessel.

Thus seven distinct labor bills were passed by the present democratic house all but two of which—the bill legalizing the incorporation of national trades unions, and the bill relating to convict labor—have been hung up by a republican senate.

The following demands, expressed in the platform of the Knights of Labor, adopted at Philadelphia, September 12, 1884, have been complied with as far as lay in the power of a democratic legislature:

Article 3. The establishment of bureaus of labor statistics, that we may arrive at a correct knowledge of the educational, moral and financial condition of the laboring masses.

Art. 7.—For the repeal of the conspiracy, of trades unions, which have in such other associations as may be organized by the working people to improve their condition and protect their rights.

Art. 12—To prohibit the hiring out of convict labor.

Art. 16—That the importation of foreign labor under contract be prohibited.

Art. 22—To persuade all trades to agree to arbitrate all difference, which may arise between them and their employes, in order that the bonds of amity and friendship between them may be strengthened, and that strikes may be rendered unnecessary."

Knights of Labor and Fusion Platforms Compared.

KNIGHTS OF LABOR FUSION PLATFORM.

PLATFORM. We pledge ourselves to the enactment of the following laws, we demand:

The abolition of the black laws, which prevent a man on account of color from obtaining his rights before the law.

The prohibition of the employment of the hiring out of convicts, forever the prohibition of the employment of children under eight years of age.

The prohibition of the employment of children under eight years of age.

The establishment of a bureau of labor statistics.

The adoption of such measures as will secure to the laborer the full fruits of his labor, the MICHIGAN has 15,100 colored inhabitants, 7,249 Indians and 28 Chinese.

MICHIGAN produces 32,461,452 bushels of corn, 35,532,543 of wheat, and 22,382,158 of oats annually.

REPORTS from the Seventh district, indicate that Wellington is gaining friends every day. His friends have no doubt of his success, and that district may be set down as safe.

If you want to see a Chipman boom, get a toy balloon and sit down on it.—Tribune.

Robinson will do just as well to "sit down on" Ferry or Pres.

Or suppose you try Cutchon.

THE value of leading crops produced in the United States for the year 1879 was as follows: Corn, $280,486,317; wheat, $407,000,142; hay, $359,904,494; cotton, $212,140,987; oats, $120,533,294; potatoes, $79,533,673; tobacco, $36,624,320.

NOTWITHSTANDING the terrible gale of Thursday an immense crowd filled the opera house at Ann Arbor to see and hear Yaple. The storm may best set the state ablaze, but the people propose to put George L. Yaple in the state house.

THE Free Press pertinently inquires: "If Pitt John Porter still being courtmartial on Michigan? Republican newspapers and orators attempt to cry down George L. Yaple because he voted to restore Porter's good name. Every word against that just action is a word against Grant, who favored it."

SENATOR PALMER says that the prohibitionists are falling over each other to get back into the republican party in time to vote. Said he: "Mr. Luce holds the bag and I coupled the tree and shake it and we are getting all that we can carry." So that is the kind of crop that the eminent agriculturist is gathering this fall.

NEARLY all the states elect congressmen November 2 this year, and the following also have state elections on the same day: California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

The endorsement of Mr. Yaple by such a strong republican and able man as Rev. A. M. Waldron of Hillsdale county is very significant. It indicates that the drift still continues in our direction and that the better thought of the country is inclining toward democracy. There are changes, and many of them, going on among republicans of the rank and file, that are not advertised from the hill tops, but when the ballot boxes are opened, the republican managers will be treated to a revelation that they little dream of.

A LITTLE table in the annual report of the commissioner on pensions, just issued, gives an idea of one of the reforms which have been silently wrought by the methods of the different departments under the present administration. It gives a comparison of the time lost by the absence of clerks during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1885, with the time lost by the absence of clerks during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1886, by months. The aggregate time lost during the year 1885 was 54,316 days, the aggregate time lost during the year 1886 was 20,000 days, a saving of 18,316 days or 51 years, 11 months and four days. The efficiency of the office has corresponding improved.

AND now the papers are calling attention to the fact that Burrows at one time promised himself to be appointed one of the commissioners to locate the capital of Dakota, and the Niles Mirror quaintly inquires of Mr. Burrows:

"Now, Mr Burrows, being out of a job by the intrusion of the young man in Steadson, did you not go to work to procure the appointment of commissioner to locate the capital of the Territory of Dakota? Did not the commissioners, you being one, meet at once, and secretly, at Washington, and then and there fix the capital at Bismarck, and then did you not, Mr. Burrows, speedily make tracks for one Mr. Duncan at Decatur on Van Buren county, a man of half a million dollars, more or less, and enter into a copartnership with him to buy lots and lands at Bismarck, you to furnish private information and see to the locating, and Duncan to furnish the "spondulicks" wherewith to do the buying and selling the profits to be equally divided? Now, we ask Mr. Duncan made such terrible efforts for your nominat on, and no one but Burrows men could go to a convention."

HELP THE ANTI MONOPOLY SIDE

The Rock Islander, a very able green back organ edited at Rock Island, Ill., by Col. J. B. Danforth, comments on Governor Pattison's declaration of war against monopolies as follows:

The Rock Islander is rejoiced to see that the democratic party in this county must soon become the anti monopoly party, as it was in the days of Jefferson and Jackson. Let all the people who use coal, and all the people who dig coal rejoice that an effort is to be made to break up the wicked combination which robs both consumers and laborers. Let everybody help on the anti monopoly side. Let the people sustain the men and the party having the moral courage to attack the wicked combination and conspiracy to rob the people.

Large Presidential Majorities in 1884.

FUSION.		REPUBLICAN.
Wayne Co	3,618	Montgomery Co	2,738
Bay Co	1,582	Montcalm Co	1,627
Washtenaw Co	1,299	Van Buren Co	1,475
Saginaw Co	1,198	Hillsdale Co	1,366

THE LAND QUESTION.

Millions of Acres of the Public Domain Given Away by the Republican Party.

Millions of Acres Being Restored by a Democratic Administration—Land Pirates Balked.

One of the greatest dangers that threaten the dissolution of our great republic of this country is the large accumulation of landed wealth—the absorption of the land by the few to the exclusion of the many.

For 20 years this concentration of landed wealth has been most rapid, and it has been accelerated by the predigate system of disposition of the public lands, adopted and pursued by the republican party.

The total area of the United States is given at 2,265,043,840 acres, of which the government originally owned 1,848,662,952 acres, an average sufficient to give to each head of a family in a population of 415,000,000 a farm of 80 acres of land.

Of these lands there were ceded to the government 250,171,787 acres, and the government obtained by purchase 1,589,490,200 acres.

The original cost of the lands paid	$ 83,757,396
Thereon at an average of 5 per cent	65,661,392
The cost of survey and disposition as has been	65,661,392
There has been sold for Indian outstanding titles	187,268,804
Total cost to 1880	$3,202,326
From sales and fees the government had received prior to 1861	$175,251,479
From sales and fees from 1861 to 1880	32,808,178
	208,059,657
Cost of lands remaining sold	$171,989,939

Although 758,000,000 of acres have been disposed of, the remaining lands have cost the government nearly $30,000,000 more than the original cost of the whole.

Of the 759,000,000 acres disposed of, less than 65,000,000 acres have been disposed of under the homestead and timber culture acts, and the fees collected under these acts make up almost 50 per cent of the moneys received by the government from 1860 to 1881.

Prior to 1860 less than 28,000,000 acres had been granted to railroads, canals, etc. From 1860 to 1880 under republican rule, nearly 128,000,000 acres have been granted to railroads, canals, etc., and hundreds of millions of acres have been patented to private persons who claimed under spanish and other foreign grants. For instance, 1,714,765 acres were granted in 1878 patented to one Ord, and 1,000,000 acres were in 1881 patented to another claimant.

In 1880 the private claims pending in the general land office covered nearly 50,000,000 acres.

When the democratic party came into power in March, 1885, it found pending private claims for hundreds of millions of acres of the public domain.

It found that railroad companies had organized the robbery of hundreds of thousands of settlers;

That there had been hundreds of thousands of fraudulent land entries;

That there had been hundreds of thousands of acres of the public lands had been taken possession of and inclosed by land grabbing corporations without any color of right or title;

That large tracts of valuable timber lands had been fraudulently appropriated; as an instance, an English syndicate had ayer pirated 100,000 acres of the finest redwood land in California, worth at least $10,000,000.

That millions of acres of land had been taken possession of by railroad companies under a fraudulent system of measurement of grants made.

That even the Indian reservations had been invaded by land grabbers.

That the government surveying system was corrupt, indeed the land office seemed to be in league with "land grabbers."

Two seven miles square townships were in possession of 15,000,000 acres of land and 22 others were in possession of 7,220,000 acres.

The democratic administration determined to put a stop to this wholesale plunder of the public domain—the people's heritage—and a halt has been called.

WHAT HAS BEEN DONE

The surveying system has been purged.

Five hundred and fifty thousand acres of land granted to the Texas and Pacific railroad have been restored to the public domain.

Two million acres granted to the Atlantic and Pacific railroad have been removed to the people.

Commissioner Sparks has given a decision, by the terms of which 2,500,000 acres granted to the Northern Pacific will be restored to the public.

Suits have been commenced to recover 100,000 acres fraudulently appropriated by the Oregon Central Wagon Road company.

Suits have been instituted to set aside patents for 50,000 acres, unlawfully issued to the Atlantic and Pacific railroad.

The Portage Lake and Lake Superior Canal company received a grant of 400,000 acres to aid in building a ship canal which was never properly constructed, and the company selected 70,000 acres of its mineral lands, although the act expressly excepted these lands. Suits have been recommended to set aside these illegal patents.

The reconstitution of the homes of settlers has been secured.

Hundred grants have been resignated—thus revoked—and as a result the area of the Northern Pacific has been reduced, in Nebraska alone, about 322,100 acres, and the reduction in Wyoming and Idaho will be much greater. A reduction of over one million acres in the lands grabbed by one railroad company.

The area of the grant to the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe road in Kansas has been reduced 384,734 acres.

By a continuation of this process of reduction millions of acres will be restored to the public domain.

The "Peralta" claim embracing an area of 4,000,000 acres has been declared wholly fraudulent.

The "Nolan" claim, embracing 575,000 acres has been declared fraudulent.

A claim presented by the Cemeros of Pennsylvania, embracing thousands of acres, was approved by the last republican secretary of the interior, but Secretary Lamar revoked the order of approval.

Land grabbing under a system of fraudulent entries has assumed such mammoth proportions that General Sparks issued an order suspending all entries in suspected districts.

In the month of February, 1886 alone, Commissioner Sparks recommended criminal proceedings against 57 persons for timber thieving, and civil suits for the recovery of damages from timber trespassers amounting to $2,091,995.

Patents which unlawfully embraced 5,214,999 acres of the public domain have been removed, and suits are pending now involving the removal of fences which enclose 3,500,000 acres more.

Thus a democratic administration has, in 19 months, set on foot proceedings for the protection and recovery of 17,000,000 acres of public lands—enough to give 80 acres each to 425,000 sons of farmers and workingmen, and supply homes for over 2,000,000 of our population.

These very lands so recovered may furnish the only supply out of which, not future generations, but our children, may obtain their homes. For decording to the reports in the land office, nearly all of the land suitable for farming purposes was disposed of before the democratic party came into power.

If the present administration had done but this, nothing more, who shall say that it shall not be continued and sustained by a congress which shall uphold and support it in this good work?

THE CANDIDATES PARALLELED.

The Allegan Democrat observes: "The citizens of Allegan have had a chance to see and listen to the two men who are running for governor. We ask them candidly to contrast the two men as they appeared and spoke here:

Mr. Yaple is a young. How different with him! He has lived long enough to have made friends, but he has not been a career—but he has made no bitter enemies. He is a farmer, and has spent his life among his fellows. He has not been a money-grubber, but has kept a good name. Through good accomplish his ends. He has planted and reared children, who are honored and respected. No conspiracies to his discretion of place-purposes. His supporters hope, may never look upon his like again. This weak son of a great father said he was a republican because he was a Douglas democrat. Let us see what kind of a democrat the little giant our old standard bearer, proved himself when in the flesh. At the outbreak of the rebellion Stephen A. Douglas said: "There are only two sides to this controversy. Every man must be on the side of the union or against it. There can be no neutrals in this war. There cannot be a true democrat unless he is a true patriot."

Stephen A. Douglas son of the illustrious statesman, your father, was at the moment erected to his memory in a magnificent city, look upon the green sod that covers his last resting place on earth, commune with your conscience, and then say if you will or wish you can be a "loyal patriot" and a supporter of the republican party—the party which honored the man who opposed your father in the Charleston convention, by appointing to office the notorious Dorsey, and who is now hounding guerrilla Mosby. Read the history of the rebellion, young Douglas. Read the history of the United States, young Douglas. Read the speeches of your honored father, young Douglas, and then remember, when you see the error of your ways, that

"While the lamp holds out to burn
The vilest sinner may return."

The republican party talks continually about saving the union and freeing the slaves.

How many young republicans are there in this county, who, in Lincoln's words upon the question of slavery? On August 22 1864, Mr. Lincoln said: "I could save the union without freeing any slave; I would do it if I could save it by freeing all the slaves I would do it; and if I could do it by freeing some and leaving others alone I would do that." Many of the religious denominations in the country demand immediate and universal emancipation upon Lincoln's right and proper measure by Lincoln argued that such a measure would prove futile.

Now as to the republican party saving the union. Let us see about that claim by the Hon. Charles S. Hyde in a speech delivered during the Hancock campaign. Speaking of that question we really will quote his words: "In the election of 1860, which preceded the war Mr. Lincoln, the republican candidate, had in round numbers, 1,300,000 votes, while Mr. Douglas, the candidate of the democratic party had 1,300,000 votes. Now, Mr Lincoln received all the republican votes, as there was no opposition to one has been fully demonstrated. You never see lady with her necklace over her ears. A brief trial of six months has taught women more in the matter of wearing art than mes have learned in 6,000 years. A human being that can make a necktie stay in place should have the right to cast two ballots at every election.—Lynn (Mass.) Union.

A NATURAL CONCLUSION.

Sunday School Teacher—What did Lot do after his wife was turned into a pillar of salt? Sadie—I spose he looked out for a fresh one.

He Will Explain to Pat Next Time.

He returned from his yachting trip, and as the hogging of the gunny-sacks was conveyed ashore, the array of empty bottles that had not been thrown overboard was something of a whisper to look upon. The gentlemen not caring to dump them at the anchorage in the face and eyes of the sailors, said invitedly to his man, "Pat, get those bottles ashore as quick as you can. Do you understand?" "Yis, sor, I do," was the reply, and the yachtsman went ashore. When he returned the bottles were not on deck. The next he knew he heard his man talking to someone. "For goodness sake, my dear, what ails Pat brought all the bottles up here?" It was but one step from the bed to the window, where the original gentleman called out: "You blasted rubbisher! didn't I tell you to throw those bottles?" "Yer did, sor, and it's divilish sorry I am I didn't, sor, I have no an hunny, sor." The yachtsman wearily exclaimed in his wife. Next time he will consider it more valuable and discreet to take Pat a little into his confidence.—Boston Home Journal.

What Troubled Him.

Editor's Wife—Why, John, what is the matter? You look dreadfully pale and out of sorts. Are you in trouble? Editor—Worse than that, my dear. I have a dun and my patent inside have been come New York yet. Editor's Wife—Here, John, you never told me anything about your patent inside.—Tid Bits.

ELOQUENT ENRIGHT

Pays His Respects to Young Stephen A. Douglas and Uses Him Up.

A Degenerate Son of a Noble Sire—Lincoln and Slavery—Over One Million Democrats in the Army—Why the Irish Vote For Democracy—A Rousing and Eloquent Speech.

At the Yaple meeting at Ann Arbor, Thursday evening, October 14 John J. Enright was one of the speakers. He paid his respects to young Stephen A. Douglas, and wound him up in good style. The Free Press gives the following report of his speech. He said:

Before entering into a discussion of the living issues of the day, I may be pardoned for trespassing upon your time by alluding to the political status in the First district of Michigan. The republicans of Detroit attempted last night to awaken great enthusiasm by holding a republican rally and introducing Stephen A. Douglas, (groans) of a noble father recreant scion of illustrious parentage. Ath age 25 years have passed and gone, it seems but yesterday that I stood, a mere lad, hand in hand with a disinterested father on the Chicago Martina, listening to the masterly oratory of the "Little Giant," Stephen A. Douglas. Admiration for his life, character and genius, belief in his words adoption of his sentiments by the great mass of what kept the democratic party intact and won for them the right of honestly administering a government dishonestly administered since the death of Lincoln. The Stephen A. Douglas who spoke at Detroit last night would never be taken as the son of his father. He indulged in cant, slang, attempted to be humorous, by repeating stories told by Noah to his family on the poop deck of the ark long before a patent was issued to the inventor of the chestnut gong. He had a nasal twang and talked like an itinerant chiropodist soliciting patronage at the county cross roads. He was a man, take him for all in all, Detroit, it is to be hoped, may never look upon his like again. This weak son of a great father said he was a republican because he was a Douglas democrat." Let us see what kind of a democrat the little giant our old standard bearer, proved himself when in the flesh. At the outbreak of the rebellion Stephen A. Douglas said: "There are only two sides to this controversy. Every man must be on the side of the union or against it. There can be no neutrals in this war. There cannot be a true democrat unless he is a true patriot."

Stephen A. Douglas son of the illustrious statesman, your father, look upon the monument erected to his memory in a magnificent city, look upon the green sod that covers his last resting place on earth, commune with your conscience, and then say if you will or wish you can be a "loyal patriot" and a supporter of the republican party—the party which honored the man who opposed your father in the Charleston convention, by appointing to office the notorious Dorsey, and who is now hounding guerrilla Mosby. Read the history of the rebellion, young Douglas. Read the history of the United States, young Douglas. Read the speeches of your honored father, young Douglas, and then remember, when you see the error of your ways, that

"While the lamp holds out to burn
The vilest sinner may return."

The republican party talks continually about saving the union and freeing the slaves.

How many young republicans are there in this county, who, in Lincoln's words upon the question of slavery? On August 22 1864, Mr. Lincoln said: "I could save the union without freeing any slave; I would do it if I could save it by freeing all the slaves I would do it; and if I could do it by freeing some and leaving others alone I would do that." Many of the religious denominations in the country demand immediate and universal emancipation upon Lincoln's right and proper measure by Lincoln argued that such a measure would prove futile.

Now as to the republican party saving the union. Let us see about that claim by the Hon. Charles S. Hyde in a speech delivered during the Hancock campaign. Speaking of that question we really will quote his words: "In the election of 1860, which preceded the war Mr. Lincoln, the republican candidate, had in round numbers, 1,300,000 votes, while Mr. Douglas, the candidate of the democratic party had 1,300,000 votes. Now, Mr Lincoln received all the republican votes, as there was no opposition to one has been fully demonstrated. You never see lady with her necklace over her ears. A brief trial of six months has taught women more in the matter of wearing art than mes have learned in 6,000 years. A human being that can make a necktie stay in place should have the right to cast two ballots at every election.—Lynn (Mass.) Union.

A NATURAL CONCLUSION.

Sunday School Teacher—What did Lot do after his wife was turned into a pillar of salt? Sadie—I spose he looked out for a fresh one.

He Will Explain to Pat Next Time.

He returned from his yachting trip, and as the hogging of the gunny-sacks was conveyed ashore, the array of empty bottles that had not been thrown overboard was something of a whisper to look upon. The gentlemen not caring to dump them at the anchorage in the face and eyes of the sailors, said invitedly to his man, "Pat, get those bottles ashore as quick as you can. Do you understand?" "Yis, sor, I do," was the reply, and the yachtsman went ashore. When he returned the bottles were not on deck. The next he knew he heard his man talking to someone. "For goodness sake, my dear, what ails Pat brought all the bottles up here?" It was but one step from the bed to the window, where the original gentleman called out: "You blasted rubbisher! didn't I tell you to throw those bottles?" "Yer did, sor, and it's divilish sorry I am I didn't, sor, I have no an hunny, sor." The yachtsman wearily exclaimed in his wife. Next time he will consider it more valuable and discreet to take Pat a little into his confidence.—Boston Home Journal.

What Troubled Him.

Editor's Wife—Why, John, what is the matter? You look dreadfully pale and out of sorts. Are you in trouble? Editor—Worse than that, my dear. I have a dun and my patent inside have been come New York yet. Editor's Wife—Here, John, you never told me anything about your patent inside.—Tid Bits.

HE WANTS TO KNOW.

A Grange's Pertinent Questions Which Cyrus G. Luce Has as Yet Failed to Answer.

Editor Free Press—I have read with interest the article in the Free Press signed "Patron of Husbandry."

I was early a member of the order and took great interest in its progress and felt that it might be made of great use and benefit to us farmers.

When Jonathan J. Woodman was master of the state grange he advocated political action within the party, and had for his motto, "the office should seek the man and not the man seek the office," and to the best of my knowledge and belief, he acted upon the principle.

The Grange Visitor, the organ published by the order, seemed to take this view of the question.

But a change came which was apparent to all who would observe. Cyrus G. Luce was elected master, and from that time on his efforts seem to have been to get an office for himself first and then for his immediate followers in the republican party and the grange.

The Visitor has been managed solely in his interest, so much so that the printing of the paper which had been done at Kalamazoo near to the residence of the secretary, who is the editor, is now done at the office of the Coldwater Republican, the home organ of Luce. He desires to have it near his home that he can more conveniently control it.

It is to raise that the man should not seek the office but the office must have the man.

Pledge! You were so drunk that the officer tied you in a hard knot to toss you into the wagon.

Well, I swan! Have the villains been overhauled?

"No, sir—none except you, Abraham Ryder. What sort of a man are you to come down here from Bay City and get drunk and break in on the slumbers of our policemen? Is this doing the fair thing by Detroit? Do any of us ever go up to your town and make trouble for your people?

"Never, judge—you never do. I deserve death, and I'm expecting every minute to be put with a bullet. Shoot me, please! I'll get that or die. If I don't remember this twice preaching for 250 years then I want to be kicked. Judge—

"You can go."

"Now, you are the nicest, slickest, kindest, goodest, gallantest—

"Pay your fine and I give you thirty days."

"All right—I'm simply off. Good-by, old chappy, and here's one more vote for you next election." Detroit Free Press.

Tale of Patience and a Happy Thought.

How he got the calf to market.—The Judge.

The Young Idea.

A train was rushing along through some scenery in northern Indiana. The track was lined on both sides for miles with little boys, all by thousands of their brown heads looking around in the breeze. A small boy and his presently exclaimed: "Mamma, Injuns don't know much about raisin' wheat."—Chicago Herald.

CONTRABUNCTORY ORDERS.

"Bessie, temper is an awful thing. You ought to get rid of it." "Why, mamma, only yesterday you told me to keep it." "Sue Pinkerton, you know."

TEMPER TRUTH.

A little girl "On the Hill," Rosdell, last night, strongly importuned her mother to allow her to go a short distance with another little girl. After promising not to be gone over five minutes, she was given permission. She did not return home for half an hour. Her mother took her to task by saying: "Here is it! My little girl said she would be back in five minutes and she was gone over half an hour." "I doesn't know, mamma, I does the minutes was wabber and stretched," was the child's answer.—Kingston Freeman.

JOURNAL

...Mich., Oct. 21, 1886.

PRODUCE MARKET.

...per bu. $12, bailed, $18 ...ne ton, 65c.

...ow 35c.

...ot ton, $22.

...3 bbl, 7c ⅌ lb.

...ch $1 25.

...ed Mochal," 50c ⅌ gal.

...Tomatoes, 12c.

...Peaches, 15 to 20c.

...Java and Mocs, 36c.

...Produce at Upright & ...

UPRIGHT EMREY & Co.

...Splendid line of Boots and ...for ladies and gents, boys, girls ...More on the road.

...magnificent lot of Dress ...arrived recently, and we offer ...the very lowest figures.

...Jewelry in all styles a specialty, ...ladies and gents—best line in ...

...New Groceries received almost ...daily.

...Tech Dinner and Tea Sets in ...Ware at cost.

...Ladies' rubbers and gents' ...

...persons having business ...can find me in the new ...Block, over Frey's ...tobacco store. Five ...from five in the morning to ...evening. Persons wishing ...the same boat will be ...upon first with pleasure. ...H. THATCHER, County Clerk.

...Inflatter is the cheapest man ...town. Everything clear down. ...old friends and try it.

...Oysters, direct from ...market at Jefferies' Market.

...al Notes and News.

...Thatcher is on a still hunt for ...clerk.

...fire department were out for ...night.

...Burns has gone to St Louis, ...visit friends.

...Chinese students had a full ...Sunday evening.

...Thursday night was one of ...of the season.

...Butler is recovering from ...run of typhoid fever.

...Cole and his wife have gone ...sylvania to visit friends.

...thal & Son have a new advertisement this week.

...Hayes, formerly of Charlotte ...married at Bellaire, Oct. 5.

...Miller has taken his mouth ...Hill's "Pearl wizard."

...W. Miller advertises a special ...gentlemen's fall and winter ...

...Carr and wife returned ...Clinton county last Friday.

...Crnickshank filled two engagements to speak in Emmet county ...

...reported that there is a new ...Boyne Falls but we haven't ...

...ladies of the Baptist church ...ring for a "corn social" to ...at Green's hall in the near ...

...they come. Another ...the prohibition ranks.—a ...bad boy at George Durance's, ...

...H. Stone, secretary, writes us ...ble near Charlevoix can get ...on their premium orders by ...Cutcheon was ...around the state telling voters what ...as infamous fellow Yaple is because ...votes against the bill to place ...Grant on the retired list with pay!—Lansing Journal.

Corruption, bribery, extravagance and fraud have been charged upon the republican members of the last legislature. Those charges still remain upon record. The republicans did not dare call for an investigation. Therefore it is admitted by necessity that the people should have a change of administration in Michigan, and an investigation of previous transactions which has taken place under republican rule. This can be accomplished by electing Philip B. Wachtel secretary and George L. Yaple governor.—Democrat.

While the friends of Mr. Cutcheon, and radical papers, are indulging in their usual warfare of misrepresentation and misstatement, charging to Mr. Mason matters and things that are entirely false and unfounded, Mr. Mason is quietly attending to duties entrusted to him by others, and neglecting his individual and political interests. Mr. Mason evidently deems the new railroad at Charlevoix of more importance than that of a large estate in Newaygo county, for which he is trustee or executor, of more importance than traveling over the ninth district looking after the canvass for congressman.—Big Rapids Herald.

George L. Yaple, while a practical farmer and living upon a farm, was a member of the state grange at a time when both himself and wife at present belong, J. T. Cobb of the Grange Visitor directed the movements of Mr. Yaple about the district in which he lectured. Now this same J. T. Cobb prostitutes an organ of the farming community, whose declared purpose in existence is to secure those very rights for the farmers that democracy is fighting for and which republican monopolists and class legislation have prevented, to the partisan support of a banker and pliable tool of the Michigan club, upon a platform that advocates robbery of the farmer of all the necessities of life which he must purchase. The democratic farmers must be proud of an organ that loses sight of every object of its defined existence and appears, for personal reasons, as the champion of monopoly.—Kalamazoo Gazette.

F. & A. M.

Special meeting Tuesday evening, Oct. 26th, for work.

For County Clerk.

To the electors of Charlevoix County.

At the request of many friends from different parts of the county, I take this method of announcing myself an independent candidate for the office of County Clerk, and would most respectfully ask your suffrages.

SAMUEL B. THATCHER.

Charlevoix, Oct. 21, 1886.

Logging Bee.

Attention, comrades of Baxter post, No. 119, G. A. R.: There will be a logging and grubbing bee at the soldiers' cemetery grounds, Friday, Oct. 22, 1886. Bring your axes, mattocks, shovels, and your dinners. Hot coffee will be furnished by the committee.

W. A. AVERSON,
D. J. BOATROW,
Committee.

Died.

At the Ohio industrial school, on Thursday, Sept. 30, 1886, Robert Nicholls, infant son of Robert and Mary Paddock, aged 4 months and 15 days.

Mrs. Paddock, mother of little Robert, will be remembered as Miss Minnie Nicholls, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Nicholls, of Charlevoix, and her many friends here will sympathize with her in this great bereavement.

Historical Society.

The first regular meeting of the historical society will be held at the rooms of Mrs. C. L. Dake, on Friday evening, Oct. 22, at 8 o.clock, local time—twenty minutes faster than standard time.

The program will be about as follows:

Music. Five-minute speeches. "The Historical Society—Objects and Influence," Prof. Enos. "Results," President Green. Vocal solo, "The Gay Hussar," W. A. Smith. "Some Reflections upon the Character of Stonewall Jackson," Dr. Carlstein.

You are invited to attend if you have been or wish to become a member.

COMMITTEE.

Prohibitionist vs. Sentinel.

EDITOR JOURNAL—According to the Sentinel of this week, Oct. 20, "the board of corrections and charities at Lansing are desirous of getting the names of any imbeciles or idiots in Michigan." We don't know of any thing in the shape of a man that will come so near filling the bill as that arrogant editor of the Sentinel, and we shall forward his name as the only person we know of in this part of the country who is not in his right mind. If this humiliation does not cause the editor of the Sentinel to cease the prohibition party of the country by his nefarious tactics, it must use a sharper-edged tool than the Sentinel to do it with. He is cooking a dish of crow, which will be harder to digest than the East Jordan stew was. Dyspepsia is an awful ailment. PROHIBITIONIST.

☞The Illustrated Graphic News has secured the services of John McGovern, who resigns the editorship of The Current to take the editorial control of the great pictorial weekly. John McGovern is a man identified with the intellectual development of the West. He is the author of "An Empire of Information," "The Golden Censor," which has sold 150,000 copies so far, and "The Tribune Primer." His successful books are moral essays; also as an editorial writer he is a first-class man. His leading sketches are "Kessler's Bridges," "Sykes," "Riley Ross," "The Pharisees of Pigeon Creek," and "Memories for Decoration Day." These will be published in book form. Previous to his connection, of five years, with The Current, he was for sixteen years on The Chicago Tribune. The Graphic News now guarantees the people of the west a literature literary lining to the handsomest picture paper, which has won so many commendations of late. Its new editor can command the necessary manuscripts to make his share of the work a success. In connection with this important step, Mr. Bragg, the proprietor of The Graphic News, is about to open a large establishment at Chicago for the publication of his excellent weekly. An energetic manager will take full charge of the art department. A file of Graphic News portraits will prove a valuable possession to any subscriber.

DRY GOODS!

We offer for the next few days Great Bargains in all

—SUMMER DRESS GOODS—

Shawls, White Goods, Parasols, Silk and Thread Gloves, Hosiery, Straw Hats, etc.

NEW LINE OF BROADHEAD DRESS GOODS, Just received and marked at very low prices.

Jersey and Boucle Jackets, Very Cheap.

Staple & Fancy Groceries,

In great variety and at correct prices. The finest line of

Teas, Coffees, Spices.

PLANTATION JAVA COFFEE, - BEST IN THE WORLD.

Farmers will consult their own interests in buying our

FACTORY-FILLED DAIRY SALT.

J. L. HURD & CO.

NOW IS THE TIME!

ROSENTHAL & SON

ARE PREPARED FOR COOL WEATHER

With a Tremendous Stock of Dry Goods, Clothing, and Gentlemen's Furnishing Goods.

Having just returned from the market, we feel confident in stating that we can show the largest stock of Dry Goods, Fancies, Cloaks, Wraps, Carpets, Matting, Rugs, Clothing, Overcoats, Gent.'s Furnishing Goods, Hats and Caps, ever shown here at such low figures as we have marked them.

Our styles are so varied that it would be folly to attempt to describe them. As for prices, we shall maintain and increase our well earned reputation of giving the best value for the money. ☞Please give us a call.

ROSENTHAL & SON.

A Captain's Fortunate Discovery.

Capt. Coleman, Schr. Weymouth, plying between Atlantic City and New York, had been troubled with a cough so that he was unable to sleep, and was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. It not only gave him instant relief, but allayed the extreme soreness in his breast, his children were similarly affected and a single dose had the same happy effect. Dr. King's New Discovery is now the standard remedy in the Coleman household and on board the schooner. Free trial bottles of this standard remedy at Dr. G. W. Crouter's drug store.

☞Ladies' Misses' and Children's scarlet, wool, and merino Underwear, is shown by Rosenthal & Son.

☞Dress Goods, low priced, medium priced, and very fine (new to date) stock, at Rosenthal & Son's.

WM. J. STEVENSON,
HORSE-SHOEING,

Wagon Shop,

BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture my own wagons, of the best materials. WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

☞The OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale.

J. A. MUDGE

Would respectfully announce to the people of Charlevoix and vicinity, especially to the residents of the southwestern part of town, and all coming in from the south, that he has opened a stock of Groceries in his building on the corner of Antrim and Grant streets, and requests all to give him a trial.

BUTTER AND EGGS WANTED

J. A. HEATH,

Furniture and Jobbing Shop

ANTRIM STREET,

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICH.

All kinds of furniture made to order, old furniture repaired, and shop work done. Jobbing promptly attended to, and satisfaction guaranteed.

☞Give Me a Call.☜

JAMES HEMMINGS,

On Mason St., third door west of State, Charlevoix

HOUSE PAINTER,

Calciminer,

Paper Hanger,

And Decorator.

FINE AND HARDWOOD FINISHING. GOOD WORK.

F. E. Wood,

BARBER SHOP

And Bath Rooms.

Hot and Cold Baths at any hour of the day and evening.

Harbor Springs, Petoskey, Charlevoix, and East Jordan.

STEAMER THOMAS PRIANT.

CAPT. E. VANDERBURGH.

Mondays—Leave Harbor Springs 7:00, Petoskey 8:30, Charlevoix 9:30, arrive East Jordan 12:30.

Wednesdays—Leave East Jordan 1:30, Charlevoix 4:00, Petoskey 5:30, arrive Harbor Springs 7:00.

These connections at Petoskey will be, R. & G. R. R. trains, north and south.

SAVE YOUR EYES.

The above Eyeglass invented by the Johnston Optical Co., of Detroit, Mich., combines the best features of all others.

1st. The lenses can be placed far enough away that the eyelashes will not touch them, as they are always coated with other eye-glasses.

2d. The guards are so shaped that they do not pinch the nose which prevents slipping and falling off.

3d. The pressure is on the fleshy part of the nose where the nose, which prevents irritation.

4th. The new feature, saves its perfect adjustment to the nose whether large or small.

5th. The lenses are set at right angles to line of vision.

6th. They can be worn safely without cord or copies so far, and "The Tribune Primer." We warrant them to be the easiest eyeglass in the market.

C. R. BILLINGER,

Optician and Jeweler, Charlevoix, Mich.

LEAVE YOUR ORDERS FOR

JOB WORK

AT THIS OFFICE.

At the Old Stand.

A. J. McLeod

Can be found at the old stand with a

FULL STOCK OF MEATS

Of all kinds

At Wholesale and Retail.

HIDES, PELTS, & FAT STOCK WANTED

NOW IS THE TIME!

John Nicholls,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Manufacturer of and dealer in

HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER!

ALSO

Dressed lumber, Oar Blades,

WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER

New Grocery!

Cor. Antrim and Grant Streets.

A. J. MUDGE

Would respectfully announce to the people of Charlevoix and vicinity, especially to the residents of the southwestern part of town, and all coming in from the south, that he has opened a stock of Groceries in his building on the corner of Antrim and Grant streets, and requests all to give him a trial.

BUTTER AND EGGS WANTED

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

EASTERN.

Up to Oct. 1 there had been shipped, in round numbers 2,20,000 gross tons of iron ore from the harbors of Michigan, Wisconsin, and Minnesota.

Nine cases of pleuro-pneumonia were discovered on the farm of William Case, near Vienna, New Jersey. Three of them have already proved fatal.

The socialists of New Haven, during an address by Herr Liebknecht, put out of the hall a Russian anarchist who interrupted the proceedings.

Governor Pattison of Pennsylvania has instructed the Attorney General of the State to institute legal proceedings against the anthracite pool to prevent the contemplated advance in the price of coal after October 1.

At Hartford, Conn., Henry Hotchkiss, a musician, shot and killed his wife on a public street, and then fired a bullet into his own head, inflicting, however, only a slight wound.

The Rhode Island Supreme Court has dismissed the bill brought before it in which it was sought to establish that the prohibitory amendment recently voted upon in that State did not receive the requisite three-fifths majority.

WESTERN.

The petroleum excitement at Manistee, Mich., has led to the purchase of all available lands within one hundred miles, and tax sales at auction bring fifty times their value.

A mob stormed the jail at Steelville, Mo., and took out R. P. Wallace, charged with murdering the Logan family, at Cuba. Wallace protested his innocence, and pleaded for mercy, but he was strung up to a tree and strangled to death.

The steamer La Mascotte, bound from Grand Tower, Ill., to Cape Girardeau, Mo., exploded her boilers opposite Neeley's Landing, on the Mississippi River, and was burned to the water's edge. The wreck floated nearly a mile below Willard's Landing, where it lodged on the shore. The tow-boat Eagle was within sight when the explosion took place, and rendered valuable assistance, rescuing all who were left alive. The Eagle took thirty-five persons to Cape Girardeau. Out of the crew of twenty-four, fourteen are saved, and the total loss of life is placed at between eighteen and twenty-two. The La Mascotte was a new boat, having been built at Evansville, Ind., during the last summer, at a cost of $30,000.

Ice to the amount of two thousand tons has recently been forwarded from Chicago to San Francisco, at the rate of $200 per car-load, and shipments will continue until the holidays.

The safe of the Ashland Avenue Building and Loan Association, at No. 261 West Twelfth street, Chicago, was broken into and robbed of money and papers to the value of $14,000.

SOUTHERN.

S. S. Hamilton, a prominent citizen, fell down stairs at Louisville, breaking his neck and causing instantaneous death.

Charles Edwards, colored, who cut the throat of his mistress, was hanged at New Orleans.

Frost damaged vegetation in certain sections of the South from 10 to 50 per cent.

Matt O'Brien, a New Orleans tough, killed his brother Hugh in a bar-room.

There have been thirty-one earthquake shocks at Charleston since Aug. 27.

Atlanta's City Fathers have weakened on prohibition. The City Council has passed a resolution permitting breweries to deliver beer at private residences.

J. Juvenet, of New Orleans, sent a bale of ramie to the Cotton Exchange, and a bale of jute to the Produce Exchange, with letters stating that they were the first bales of these products ever grown in the United States.

By the explosion of the steamer Mascotte, near Cape Girardeau, Mo., six of the crew were burned to death by escaping steam; six more persons are known to have been drowned, and five deckhands and one passenger were fatally burned. It is feared that other persons whose bodies have not been recovered.

POLITICAL.

The New Jersey Republican State Convention assembled at Trenton and chose ex-Senator Alexander G. Cattell as temporary chairman. In a speech he spoke of Mr. Blaine as the Republican standard-bearer in 1888, whereupon the members of the convention rose to their feet and cheered for several minutes. William Walter Phelps was made permanent chairman. The convention then nominated R. Fred Howey for Governor on the first ballot. A platform was adopted which protests against the importation of contract labor and recognizes the right of workingmen to unite for protection; favors compulsory education and opposes the competition of convict labor with honest labor; favors equal taxation and approves of restrictive legislation on manufacturers of bogus butter; condemns the removal of crippled Union soldiers from public office, and the attitude of President Cleveland on the pension question; declares that outstanding trade dollars should be redeemed at their face value; accuses the Democratic party of violating its promises to sustain the civil-service law, and favors the submission to the people at a special election of the question of controlling the liquor traffic.

Congressional nominations: Sixth Kentucky District, John G. Carlisle; Twelfth Ohio District, John H. Fedeler; Fifteenth Ohio, John H. Fedeler; Fifteenth Pennsylvania, Welty McCullough, Republican; Tenth Massachusetts, J. E. Russell, Democrat; Sixth Virginia, Samuel J. Hopkins, Knights of Labor, vice J. B. Page, declined; Tenth Michigan, H. M. Lord, Republican; Twenty-first Pennsylvania, J. W. Latta, Democrat; Eighteenth New York, H. G. Burleigh, Republican; Thirty-third New York, J. R. Weber, Republican; Nineteenth Pennsylvania, Levi Marsh, Democrat; Fourth Connecticut, M. T. Granger, Democrat; Tenth Massachusetts, W. H. Earle, Prohibition; Seventh Massachusetts, W. H. Whiting, Republican; First Ohio, Samuel A. Miller, Democrat; Second Ohio, Hugh Sisson, Democrat; Eighth Pennsylvania, George D. Stitzel, Republican; Third Nebraska, G. W. Dorsey; First New Hampshire, Daniel C. Knowles, Prohibition; Eighth Missouri, James H. Harris, Prohibition; Ninth Missouri, W. C. Wilson, Prohibition; Tenth Missouri, E. R. Grant, Prohibition; Sixth Texas, Judge A. B. Norton, Republican.

A Washington special says it is now made known that Attorney General Garland had serious thoughts of resigning his office last spring, and offered his resignation to the President more than once. He was led to this partly by his poor health and partly by the criticisms on his course in connection with the Pan Electric Company. But the President absolutely refused to entertain the idea, and kept him by all means to remain where he was. Now that his health is completely cleared he will continue to hold the Attorney Generalship, perhaps as long as Mr. Cleveland holds the Presidency.

General John B. Gordon was elected Governor of Georgia on the 6th inst., there being no candidate in the field against him. There will not be over fifteen anti-prohibitionists in the Legislature, and only one Republican in the Senate.

The Colorado Democracy, in convention at Denver, placed in the field the following ticket: Governor, Alva Adams; Lieutenant Governor, H. B. Gallespie; Secretary of State, Jerry Mahony; Treasurer, James F. Benedict; Auditor, Casimero Barela; Attorney General, Col. Stirman; Congressman, Rev. Myron Reed. The platform favors free and unlimited silver coinage; criticises the Republican party for creating and maintaining monopolies while in power, which resulted in a conflict between capital and labor; commends the Democratic Congress for refusing to suspend the silver coinage and for passing the surplus resolution; commends President Cleveland for his unpartisan exercise of the civil-service law; congratulates the party upon its honest administration, and approves the reclamation of public lands. It sympathizes with the Irish home-rule movement, favors interstate legislation as to railroad corporations, and denounces convict labor.

WASHINGTON.

The public debt statement issued on the 1st inst. shows the reduction of the public debt during the month of September to be $16,057,275, and total cash in the treasury $465,375,715. The following is a recapitulation of the statement:

INTEREST-BEARING DEBT.
Bonds at 4½ per cent	$250,000,000
Bonds at 4 per cent	737,000,000
Bonds at 3 per cent	191,104,300
Refunding certificates at 4 per cent	199,000
Navy pension fund at 3 per cent	14,000,000
Pacific Railroad bonds at 6 per cent	64,623,512
Principal	$1,256,927,312
Interest	11,996,841
Total	$1,268,924,153
DEBT ON WHICH INTEREST HAS CEASED SINCE MATURITY.
Principal	$6,936,708
Interest	1,299,047
Total	8,235,756
DEBT BEARING NO INTEREST.
Old demand and legal-tender notes	$346,738,391
Certificates of deposit	24,000,000
Gold certificates	84,621,907
Silver certificates	29,604,519
Fractional currency (less $6,875,954 estimated as lost or destroyed)	6,953,726
TOTAL DEBT.	$1,968,478,452
Principal	$1,731,499,031
Interest	12,157,872
Total	$1,743,656,903
Less cash items available for reduction of the debt	26,934,043
Less reserve held for redemption of U. S. notes	100,000,000
Total	$300,934,043
Total debt less available cash items	$1,443,445,860
Net cash in the Treasury	65,906,855
Debt less cash in Treasury Oct. 1, 1886	$1,507,540,807
Debt less cash in Treasury Sept. 1, 1886	1,738,176,580
Decrease of debt during the month	$16,057,275
CASH IN THE TREASURY AVAILABLE FOR REDUCTION OF PUBLIC DEBT.
Gold bullion held for gold certificates	$84,621,907
Gold coin held for gold certificates not included in the above	1,000,100
Silver held for silver certificates as per contra	29,136,019
U. S. notes held for certificates of deposit per contra	7,700,000
Cash held for national debt and interest unpaid	19,136,607
Fractional currency	5,017
Total available for reduction of the debt	$166,524,043
RESERVE FUND.
Held for redemption of U. S. notes, acts Jan. 14, 1875, and July 12, 1882	$100,000,000
Unavailable for reduction of the debt—
Fractional silver coin	$26,999,716
Minor coin	245,318
Total	$27,245,034
Certificates held as cash	$6,130,000
Net cash balance in bank	59,776,855
	65,906,855

Total cash in Treasury as shown by the Treasurer's general account... $465,375,715

The total of the gold coin and bullion in the Treasury Sept. 30 was $242,990,018, as compared with $235,435,025 the 31st of the previous month. The net gold in the Treasury, after deducting gold certificates in Treasury cash and in circulation Sept. 30, $157,927,211, as compared with $152,725,288 on the 31st of the previous month.

The amount of United States currency outstanding is as follows:

Old demand notes	50,000
United States notes, all issues opposed to gold	346,681,391
Gold notes of 1863	30,257
Two-year notes of 1863	57,000
Compound interest notes	2,200
Fractional currency, all issues	15,956,726
Total	$362,781,439

The amount of national bank notes outstanding is $230,982,487, a decrease during the last month of $1,317,208, and a decrease since October 1, 1885, of $18,979,997. This circulation is secured by $63,612,247 in lawful money and $190,198,400 in bonds, as follows: Currency 4½s, $5,576,000; 4½ per cents, $56,276,100; 4 per cents, $115,746,850; 3 per cents, $8,599,450. The amount of certificates outstanding is: Gold, $84,621,907; silver, $29,136,019; and currency, $7,700,000.

The annual report of the Utah Commission shows that the law regarding the disenfranchisement of polygamists has been fully and successfully enforced, and that a number of persons have been fined and imprisoned in the penitentiary for polygamy. Polygamous marriages are on the decrease.

THE INDUSTRIAL OUTLOOK.

Dissatisfaction prevails among the Pennsylvania coal miners, and an extensive strike is probable.

Justice Gordon decided in the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, at Pittsburgh, that the store-order act of June 29, 1881, is unconstitutional and void, inasmuch as by it "persons are prevented from making their own contracts." In his opinion Judge Gordon says: "The act is an infringement alike of the rights of the employer and employe, and it is an insulting attempt to put the laborer under legislative tutelage, which is not only degrading to the manhood but subversive to the rights as a citizen of the United States." The decision caused a great deal of comment in Pittsburgh labor circles. The Labor Tribune advises every labor organization in the State to make a determined fight against the store-order system. John Costello, President of the Pittsburgh Miners' Association, said: "The decision will be startling news to the miners. They must necessarily begin a warfare against the pernicious system."

In pulling down the undertaking shop of Sam Gompers, the Cigar-Makers' Organizing Board fame, in New Orleans, workmen discovered a mishaid coffin containing the corpse of a Cuban laborer who died in Baltimore a few days ago.

Heavy shocks of earthquake have been felt near Ninety six, S. C., and it is believed the center of the disturbances has shifted from Charleston to that point. Earthquake shocks have also been felt in Kentucky.

Failing to receive an advance of wages, the freight brakemen of the Cleveland and Mahoning Road struck at Youngstown, Ohio.

MISCELLANEOUS.

John Fitzgerald, President of the Irish National League of America, has issued an address urging every patriotic man to start an anti-eviction fund and send the contributions to Treasurer Dillon, of Dublin.

The Collector of Customs at St. John, N. B., compelled the Captain of the Spanish steamer Orinoco to haul down the Irish flag which was floating at the masthead as his vessel sailed into the harbor.

The September fire losses in the United States and Canada was $6,500,000, a slight decrease from the average September loss of previous years. Up to October 1 the aggregate fire waste in 1886 was $85,000,000, against $1,500,000,000 the same period of 1885.

The Governors of Minnesota, Dakota, and the State Board of Health of Kentucky have issued proclamations quarantining against the importation of Illinois cattle. The Missouri State Board of Health has refused to quarantine. The chief inspector of stock in Canada has written to the United States Commissioners of Agriculture declaring that Canada is entirely free from pleuro-pneumonia or other cattle diseases, and expressing that a qualified veterinarian be sent to the Dominion at any time to examine there personally, or at least several months.

The triennial council of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States began its sessions in Chicago on the 6th instant. There were in attendance nearly sixty Bishops and four hundred clerical and lay delegates. The two houses organized by electing Bishop Williams, of Connecticut, Chairman of the House of Bishops, and the Rev. Dr. Morgan Dix, of New York, Chairman of the House of Deputies.

FOREIGN.

Joseph Chamberlain says that the threatened actions of a certain section of the Liberals constitute the greatest obstacle to a reunion of the party.

The sons of Edward Solomon, hangman of Lillian Russell, who was arrested in London on the charge of tigamy, preferred by his first wife, Lily Grey, came up for bearing, and Solomon was remanded pending the arrival of witnesses from the United States.

The Duc d'Aumale has bequeathed the Chantilly estates to the French people.

Violent earthquake shocks are reported from Central Germany.

Bulgaria has accepted the Czar's terms, provided independence is guaranteed.

Mrs. T. D. Sullivan, wife of the Lord Mayor of Dublin, and a vice-relation of Irish women presented Mr. Gladstone, at Dublin, with the mammoth home-rule petition. It bears the signatures of 306,000 Irish women. After Mrs. Sullivan had read the address of the Irish women, she knelt to kiss the Premier's hand. At the Committee on Credentials, deeply interested in the consideration of the case of contesting delegations from St. Louis, the rules were suspended and the question of giving the support of the Government to the contestants for the seats, viz., the carriers and tanners of Pimlico and Salem, Mass., and the journeymen plumbers of New York. There are 5,000 men in each of the first-named bodies, and about fourteen hundred in the last-named, all locked out for three months. An extra force of police was on duty in the evening at both the Richmond Theater and Theatre of Music as a precaution against trouble if any further attempt should be made by the Knights of Labor to introduce colored people to seats from which they are excluded. No attempt was made, however.

CATCHING A FLY IN PURSE.

In the first inning there was a very big fly, but it got too high to me. The sky was "high," that is, there were no clouds by which to locate, or, as we say, "judge" the ball. I have since then seen base-balls do strange things, but I don't remember ever to have seen one make so many eccentric moves as that one. At one time it seemed to be falling ten feet to my right, and the next instant it had jumped ten feet to my left. I thought it never would come down. I grew tight-headed and faint. It came zigzagging down in such a way that at one moment there seemed to be a half-dozen of them and the next moment I couldn't see any. To make matters pleasanter, a couple of demons yelled out there, "carry it up to the sky-hard! he'll never get it." I realized that my "nerve" would be judged by that catch. I made one last desperate effort to collect my senses, and, as it came within reach, I clutched at it and it stuck fast in my hands. That gave me confidence, and after that I think I played a fairly good game.—Lippincott's Magazine.

LATER NEWS ITEMS.

The Nebraska Democratic State Convention assembled at Hastings and nominated the following ticket for Governor, John M. North; Lieutenant Governor, C. P. Bailey; Secretary of State, Richard Thompson; State Treasurer, J. F. Hale; Auditor, Thomas E. Binger; Attorney General, W. L. Green; Land Commissioner, Thomas W. Smith; Superintendent of Public Instruction, L. A. Cooley.

Judge Gary overruled the motion for a new trial for the Chicago anarchists, and informally announced December 3 as the date for their execution. Each of the condemned men was given an opportunity to state his reasons why sentence of death should not be passed upon him. Spies led off with a written address and was followed by the lesser lights.

Devastating prairie fires have been raging in Western Manitoba.

Henry Sherman and Fred Munchrath, Sioux City saloon-keepers, were arrested in that city and placed in $5,000 bonds each for alleged complicity in the murder of the Rev. George C. Haddock. H. A. Lewis was also arrested in Chicago on the same charge, and John Jones was also apprehended at Davenport.

There is a deficit of $10,000,000 in the revenues of New South Wales, which has been undergoing the greatest period of commercial depression known for ten years.

Queen Christina of Spain has commuted the sentences of the condemned insurgents, and has also signed the decree emancipating the Cuban slaves from the remainder of their term in servitude.

The eighteenth annual meeting of the American Woman Suffrage Association will be held in the hall of the House of Representatives at Topeka, Kas., Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, Oct. 26, 27, and 28.

The Richmond Convention of Knights.

Very little was accomplished at the fourth day's session. It was decided to admit the delegation from District Assembly 126 of New York City, which was expelled last April at the request of Mr. Hayes. As the Committee on Credentials desired more time for the consideration of the case of contesting delegations from St. Louis, the rules were suspended and the question of giving the support of the Order to the contestants for the seats, viz., the gasts, viz., the carriers and tanners of Pimlico and Salem, Mass., and the journeymen plumbers of New York. There are 5,000 men in each of the first-named bodies, and about fourteen hundred in the last-named, all locked out for three months. An extra force of police was on duty in the evening at both the Richmond Theater and Theatre of Music as a precaution against trouble if any further attempt should be made by the Knights of Labor to introduce colored people to seats from which they are excluded. No attempt was made, however.

CATCHING A FLY IN PURSE.

In the first inning there was a very big fly, but it got too high to me. The sky was "high," that is, there were no clouds by which to locate, or, as we say, "judge" the ball. I have since then seen base-balls do strange things, but I don't remember ever to have seen one make so many eccentric moves as that one. At one time it seemed to be falling ten feet to my right, and the next instant it had jumped ten feet to my left. I thought it never would come down. I grew tight-headed and faint. It came zigzagging down in such a way that at one moment there seemed to be a half-dozen of them and the next moment I couldn't see any. To make matters pleasanter, a couple of demons yelled there, "carry it up to the sky-hard! he'll never get it." I realized that my "nerve" would be judged by that catch. I made one last desperate effort to collect my senses, and, as it came within reach, I clutched at it and it stuck fast in my hands. That gave me confidence, and after that I think I played a fairly good game.—Lippincott's Magazine.

MAINE'S GOVERNOR-ELECT.

Joseph R. Bodwell, who has been elected Governor of Maine, was born in 1828 in what is now part of Lawrence, Mass. In those days they called it Bay State, the old-fashioned name of Methuen. His father was so poor that the boy went to live with an uncle. The Governor-elect of Maine has been a farm laborer, schoolmaster, farmer, teamster, quarryman and granite worker, proprietor. The latter he is still on a very large scale. He it was who opened the granite quarries of Maine, thus giving his fellow citizens a new industry. He began to work the quarries at Fox Haven in 1852. So small was the quarrying that he used to hand the granite out himself with one yoke of oxen. He found abundant encouragement, while he was going to school in the daytime. He has, besides his quarry interests, a fine farm, and is known as a large importer of blooded stock. Mr. Bodwell became a resident of Maine in 1852, in the town of Hallowell, where he previously discovered a desirable quality of granite. He has been an active politician, having represented the town of Hallowell in the Maine Legislature, and has served as Mayor for ten terms, and was a delegate at large to the Republican National Conventions of 1880 and 1884.

MARKETS.

NEW YORK.
BEEVES	$4.00	@5.75
Texas	3.00	@4.00
SHEEP—Fair to Choice	3.00	@5.00
LAMBS	4.00	@6.00
HOGS—Live	4.00	@4.40
CORN—No. 2	.47	@.48
OATS—White	.36	@.40
PORK—New Mess	10.00	@10.25
CHICAGO.
BEEVES—Choice to Prime Steers	5.00	@5.50
Good Shipping	4.65	@4.75
Common	3.00	@3.75
HOGS—Packing Grades	3.75	@4.00
FLOUR—Extra Spring	4.25	@4.90
WHEAT—No. 2 Spring	.77	@.78
CORN—No. 2	.37	@.37½
OATS—No. 2	.26	@.26½
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	.29	@.30
Fine Dairy	16	@.20
CHEESE—Full Cream, new	10½	@.11
Full Cream, new	12½	@.13½
EGGS—Fresh Party Rose, per doz	.18	@.19
PORK—Mess	9.50	@9.75
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—No. 2	.70	@.71
CORN—No. 2	.37	@.37½
OATS—No. 2	.26½	@.27
RYE—No. 1	.51	@.52
BARLEY—No. 2	.57	@.58
TOLEDO.
WHEAT—No. 2	.76	@.77
CORN—No. 2	.37	@.37½
OATS—No. 2	.26	@.26½
DETROIT.
BEEVES—Cattle	4.00	@5.00
SHEEP—Fair to Choice	3.00	@4.00
LAMBS	5.50	@6.00
WHEAT—Michigan Red	.78	@.79
CORN—No. 2	.38	@.38½
OATS—No. 2 White	.30	@.31
ST. LOUIS.
BEEVES	.74	@.75
CORN—Mixed	.34	@.34½
OATS—Mixed	.25	@.26
PORK—New Mess	9.00	@9.50
CINCINNATI.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.76	@.76½
CORN—No. 2	.38	@.38½
OATS—No. 2	.27	@.27½
PORK—Mess	9.00	@9.50
BUFFALO.
WHEAT—No. 1 Hard	.81	@.82½
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	.42	@.42½
CATTLE	4.00	@5.50
INDIANAPOLIS.
BEEVES—Cattle	3.25	@5.00
HOGS	3.50	@4.50
SHEEP	3.00	@4.50
WHEAT—No. 2 White	.80	@.81
CORN—No. 2	.37	@.37½
OATS—No. 2	.25½	@.26½
EAST LIBERTY.
CATTLE—Fair	4.75	@5.25
Fat Cows	2.00	@3.00
SHEEP	3.00	@4.25
HOGS	4.00	@5.00
SHEEP	3.75	@4.50

MARRIED FOR MONEY.

She Tells About Her Conquests, and Makes Startling Revelations.

My gay dame has fingers sparkling with many jeweled rings. The other moonlight night, as she sat out upon the balcony, tilting back in one of those grand, easy chairs—revealing black satin slippers and nicely turned ankles, encased in pink silk stockings, with no other protection wrap than a couple of yards of white tulle that swept about head and shoulders like a floating cloud, some matrons even congratulating her upon the possession of so many superior diamonds, she held up her fair, glittering hands.

"Yes," said she, languidly; "these are all records of my past conquests. I wear seven engagement solitaires, three clusters and a lovelock of ruby, emerald and diamond—the big gold band is my wedding ring, emblem of my bondage. They make a gorgeous sort of chronological reminder of silly, happy, evanescent delights. Sometimes I dissipate ennui by going over them one by one, seeming of the time to gather up pleasant magnetisms of the giddy past, for they were really good fellows and very fond of me."

"Why, did you never return the ring when you broke the engagement?" asked one astonished listener. "I always did."

"Certainly, as a matter of conscience as well as of good luck, I never dreamed of retaining mine," declared a matron, with the coolness that might characterize an Apache in the conning up the scalps he had taken.

"Indeed, you must be very foolish," replied my lady with sang froid. "Of course, some, chosen different things I did send back in my early days, for I certainly hope you do not, but I do not triumphs to this miserable hour. Not a single one of the seven, small number, bore the signatures of 306,000 Irish women. After Mrs. Sullivan had read the address of the Irish women, she knelt to kiss the Premier's hand. At the Committee on Credentials deeply interested in the consideration of the case of contesting delegations from St. Louis, the rules were suspended and the question of giving the support of the Order to the contestants for the seats, viz., the gasts, viz., the carriers and tanners of Pimlico and Salem, Mass., and the journeymen plumbers of New York. There are 5,000 men in each of the first-named bodies, and about fourteen hundred in the last-named, all locked out for three months. An extra force of police was on duty in the evening at both the Richmond Theater and Theatre of Music as a precaution against trouble if any further attempt should be made by the Knights of Labor to introduce colored people to seats from which they are excluded. No attempt was made, however.

CHICAGO FIRE INSURANCE PATROL

Brief Sketch of the Life of the Founder and Perfecter of the Patrol System.

CAPTAIN BEN B. BURLINGNELL, the founder and improver of the fire insurance patrol system of Chicago, and now Agent and General Manager of the Arizona Cattle Company, is one of the most popular and best known firemen in Chicago. He is a native of Ohio, but has become so thoroughly identified with the most extensive cattle interests of the West that Captain Burlingnell is a native of New York City, where he was born, the eldest of three children, March 17, 1847. His father, Charles E. Burlingnell, died in 1857, and his mother, Elizabeth Burlingnell, three years previous to that date. With a younger brother and sister he endured upon his sole energies, at the age of ten years Captain Burlingnell became an errand boy, and subsequently was employed in his family until his sister was married and his brother became a jeweler. When the Civil War broke out the ambitious Ben entered the Chicago Fire Department, then a volunteer service, and served for three years, his duties consisting in attendance at all fires that occurred, and he became practical as a fire-fighter and in every detail of the system. His diligence and ability soon commended attention, and when the insurance companies organized the fire patrol, in 1868, he was made Chief of the Patrol, and their committee of direction completed the service in Chicago, the necessary qualifications of Captain Burlingnell led to his selection as head of the system, and Oct. 2, 1869, the first company in Chicago was established. The great fire of 1871 did not prevent its organization. From this grew the West Division and Stock Yards company, which under the control of Captain Ben, in the meantime, made numerous improvements in the system, and increased the reliability and rapidity of the service. The President of the United States and dignitaries of foreign countries have visited the quarters of the wagons as a marvel. He was consulted by insurance companies, and by underwriters in fire matters, and is recognized as a fire-fighter and an authority on the subject with a badge and gold watch given him by the insurgents, nearly a dozen clubs, as a token of appreciation and respect. As a Freemason he is a member of Washington Lodge, and an attendant of the Presbyterian Church, as a Lodge member, he is a Knight Templar. Burlingnell was prominently and universally esteemed. He was married Nov. 5, 1872, to Miss Angelina J. Moody. They have one child, a boy, born in 1880. Ben has had a change of climate, desirable to his health, and accepted his present position, which he occupies with his accustomed ability, and inactivity of his nature. Captain Ben, also, he relies upon to promote sleep and appetite.

Where Gen. Grant Learned Strategy.

Once, while talking with Gen. Grant, I asked him how he got his strategic knowledge.

"I got it on the farm when I was a boy," said the General. "I learned it on the farm. I used to drive the cows and calves, and breaking horses. One day, when I was on the old farm in Ohio, my father taught me a valuable lesson in strategy.

"How," I asked.

"Well, father took me into the stable one day, there was a colt standing there in their unclean stalls.

"Said he, 'Ulysses, for a stable window is pretty high for a boy, but do you think you could make the colt put his head out of the stable?'

"I don't know, father,' said I; 'I never have done it.'

"'Well, my boy, if you will do it this morning, I'll give you the bright silver dollar,' said my father, patting me on the head, while he held the silver dollar before my eyes.

"'Good,' said I; 'I'll try,' and then I went to work. I tugged and pulled, and lifted and pulled, and finally it was done, and father gave me the bright silver dollar, saying:

"'That's right, Ulysses, you did it splendidly; and now I find you can do it so nicely, I shall have you do it every morning all winter.'—Eli Perkins.

THE most astonishingly beneficial results have followed the use of Red Star Cough Cure by those afflicted with throat and lung troubles. Price, twenty-five cents.

On the Street.

Blythers—Sey, Miffkins, who is that amazing girl we just passed? Seems how she looks familiar, and yet I can't name her.

Miffkins—That? Why, that's Miss Grace, the burlesque actress at the Bijou that you've been raving so over for a month past. Didn't you say you'd been to see her three nights a week for the last fortnight? I should think you'd know her face by this time.

Blythers—Face? Oh, yes; but, come to think of it, I don't know as I ever looked at her face before.—Somerville Journal.

FOX wash brings, sickness of blood, shortness of breath, consumption, night sweats, and all lingering coughs. Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" is a sovereign remedy. Superior to cod liver oil. By druggists.

THERE is a grist of irony in the earth. Dixon Crock, agricultural, who is remarkable for his personal piety, "can't tell you, boss. It's mighty free was what de Lord gibs. Dar's a ton from de Lord, but dar's a fall." Him fun at the expense of the aboriginal Catskillian was expensive. And he visited Beecher Lake no more.—New York Times.

Dressing on a Bed of Agony.

In the throes of rheumatism, which has reached the inflammatory stage, the invalid has just cause to deplore the inadequacy of medicines which could neither appease the disease at its outset, nor avert its fearful fruitage. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a medicine which, without the danger attending the use of some of the ordinary remedies for this malady, is attended by more searching and effective. Used at the start, it checks the progress of the disease, and expels, or neutralizes, the rheumatic virus in the blood. Who so takes it incurs no risk, and is sure to be benefited. Valuable in rheumatism, it is equally efficacious as a remedy for neuralgia, liver complaint, indigestion, chills and fever, debility, and inactivity of the kidneys and bladder. It has, also, be relied upon to promote sleep and appetite.

Where Gen. Grant Learned Strategy.

Once, while talking with Gen. Grant, I asked him how he got his strategic knowledge.

"I got it on the farm when I was a boy," said the General. "I learned it on the farm. I used to drive the cows and calves, and breaking horses. One day, when I was on the old farm in Ohio, my father taught me a valuable lesson in strategy.

"How," I asked.

"Well, father took me into the stable one day, there was a colt standing there in their uncleaned stalls.

"Said he, 'Ulysses, for a stable window is pretty high for a boy, but do you think you could make the colt put his head out of the stable?'

"'I don't know, father,' said I; 'I never have done it.'

"'Well, my boy, if you will do it this morning, I'll give you the bright silver dollar,' said my father, patting me on the head, while he held the silver dollar before my eyes.

"'Good,' said I; 'I'll try,' and then I went to work. I tugged and pulled, and lifted and pulled, and finally it was done, and father gave me the bright silver dollar, saying:

"'That's right, Ulysses, you did it splendidly; and now I find you can do it so nicely, I shall have you do it every morning all winter.'—Eli Perkins.

THE most astonishingly beneficial results have followed the use of Red Star Cough Cure by those afflicted with throat and lung troubles. Price, twenty-five cents.

On the Street.

Blythers—Sey, Miffkins, who is that amazing girl we just passed? Seems how she looks familiar, and yet I can't name her.

Miffkins—That? Why, that's Miss Grace, the burlesque actress at the Bijou that you've been raving so over for a month past. Didn't you say you'd been to see her three nights a week for the last fortnight? I should think you'd know her face by this time.

Blythers—Face? Oh, yes; but, come to think of it, I don't know as I ever looked at her face before.—Somerville Journal.

FOX wash brings, sickness of blood, shortness of breath, consumption, night sweats, and all lingering coughs. Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" is a sovereign remedy. Superior to cod liver oil. By druggists.

THERE is a grist of irony in the earth. Dixon Crock, agricultural, who is remarkable for his personal piety, "can't tell you, boss. It's mighty free was what de Lord gibs. Dar's a ton from de Lord, but dar's a fall." Him fun at the expense of the aboriginal Catskillian was expensive. And he visited Beecher Lake no more.—New York Times.

Dressing on a Bed of Agony.

In the throes of rheumatism, which has reached the inflammatory stage, the invalid has just cause to deplore the inadequacy of medicines which could neither appease the disease at its outset, nor avert its fearful fruitage. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a medicine which, without the danger attending the use of some of the ordinary remedies for this malady, is attended by more searching and effective. Used at the start, it checks the progress of the disease, and expels, or neutralizes, the rheumatic virus in the blood. Who so takes it incurs no risk, and is sure to be benefited. Valuable in rheumatism, it is equally efficacious as a remedy for neuralgia, liver complaint, indigestion, chills and fever, debility, and inactivity of the kidneys and bladder. It has, also, be relied upon to promote sleep and appetite.

Important.

When you visit or leave New York City, save baggage, expressage, and $1 carriage hire, and stop at the Grand Union Hotel, opposite Grand Central Depot.

615 rooms, fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, $1 and upwards per day. European plan. Elegant dining rooms (equal to any in the city), gas, steam, and electric bell attached to all depots. Family rooms, with bath for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first-class hotel in the city.

A HUGE derrick-pole fell and severely injured the foot of Mechanical Engineer E. R. Hoyt at the New Orleans Exposition, and after only three applications of St. Jacobs Oil, all the swelling and pain disappeared.

To Skeletonize Leaves.

Soak the leaves for a long time in rain-water, until they are quite decayed, but those who have had considerable experience in the work recommend a quicker method, the immersion of the leaves in a boiling alkaline solution, the time of immersion to be regulated by the character of the various leaves and the nature of the epidermis to be removed. When it is seen that the green part of the leaf is dissolving, put the leaf on a flat white earthen plate and cover it with clear water. Then having gently agitated with the fingers, the membranes will begin to open and the green substance will come out at the edges. The membranes must be carefully taken off with the finger, and great caution must be used in separating them near the middle rib. The skeletons must then be thoroughly bleached by exposing them to the fumes of chlorine gas. If to this vapor be added that of peroxyde of hydrogen the fibers of the leaves are strengthened, so that they can readily be arranged—after being dried by pressure between the folds of tissue paper—in bouquets.—Inter Ocean.

A LAST farewell—a shoemaker giving up his business.

A Hard Fate

It is, indeed, to always remain in poverty and obscurity. Be persuading reader, and avoid this. No matter in what part of Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, Maine, and receive, free, full particulars about work that will more than double, at a profit of at least $5 to $25 and upwards daily. Some have made over $50 in a day. All in new. Capital not required. You are started free. Either sex. All ages. Better not delay.

THIRD PERSON.

"Wells' Health Renewer" restores health, and vigor to impotent, nervous, exhausted, premature Debility, Consumption, Wasting diseases, Dollar. At druggists, or address Wells' Health Renewer, Chicago, Ill.

HEART PAINS.

Palpitation, Fluttering, Smothering, Dizziness, Indigestion, Headache, Ague, Liver and Kidney Complaints, all cured by "Wells' Health Renewer." Elegant Tonic for Adults or children.

LIFE PRESERVER.

If you are losing your grip on life try "Wells' Health Renewer." Goes direct to weak spots. Great Appetizer, and aid to Digestion, giving strength to stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels.

PURE Cod Liver Oil made from selected livers on the sea-shore by Caswell, Hazard & Co., of New York. It is absolutely pure and sweet. Patients who have once taken it prefer it to all others. Physicians have decided it superior to any of the other oils in market.

BED-BUGS, FLIES.

Flies, roaches, ants, bed-bugs, water-bugs, mosquitoes, rats, mice, sparrows, jack-rabbits, gophers, chipmunks, moles, woodchucks. Sent 15c. Ohio Chemical Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

BUCHU-PAIBA.

Cures all Kidney & Urinary Troubles, Scalding, Irritations, Stone, Gravel, Catarrh of the Bladder. $1.

ROUGH ON RATS

clears out rats, mice, roaches, flies, ants, bed-bugs, vermin, water-bugs, skunks. 15c.

"Rough on Corns" hard or soft corns, bunions. 15c

"Rough on Toothache." Instant relief. 15c.

"No Opium to Pine's Cure for Consumption. Cures where other remedies fail. 25c.

Josiah Davis's Trouble.

Josiah Davis, North Middleboro, Ky., writes: "I am now using a bottle of your BENN'S PAREGORIC for my children, which, for the past ten days, has given me great relief. I have also used it myself for a cough, and it has given me more relief than I received from any other remedy I ever used. Please send me one dozen more. Address THE CHICAGO LEDGER, Chicago, Ill.

Decayed Teeth, Poor Eyesight.

De ayed teeth have been known to cause an injurious effect on the eyesight, but a recent case in Sweden illustrates this effect better than an unusually striking manner. The patient was a young girl blind in the right eye, through the surgeon, Dr. Widm

School Books and School Supplies

Our Prices are Rock Bottom, Lower than ever!

We have a full supply of every book used in the Charlevoix schools. Also a full supply for every school in the county.

Something New

In Scratch Books, Spelling Slips, Inks, Pens, Pencils, Rulers, Slates Chalks, School Registers, Etc.

The largest stock of Blank Books in the county!

☞ If you want to save money, call at

G. W. CROUTER'S Drug & Stationery Store,

For supplies in general.

Temperance Column.

Conducted by a Committee of the W. C. T. U.

OFFICERS.

President—Mrs. G. W. Jeffords.
First Vice President—Mrs. C. T. Cash.
Second Vice President—Mrs. L. E. Madge.
Third Vice President—Mrs. R. Sanford.
Recording Secretary—Mrs. J. Weaver.
Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. L. E. Allen.
Treasurer—Mrs. C. J. Strang.

National Temperance Conventions.

The first was held in Philadelphia, in the hall of independence, the 24th of May, 1833—in a most appropriate place twenty one states were represented, with four hundred delegates. There were delegates from the various temperance societies in the United States, "met to consider the best means of extending temperance by a general diffusion of information, and, by the exercise of a kind and persuasive moral influence, the principles of abstinence from the use of ardent spirits throughout our country."

Hon. Ruben H. Walworth of New York, was appointed president.

Twenty-eight resolutions were prepared and presented by the business committee. They were freely and ably discussed. The greatest harmony prevailed.

A public meeting was addressed by H. G. S. Hillard, of Mass., Rev. T. P. Hunt, of N. C., Rev. T. H. Stockton, of of Md., Joseph Lumpkin, of Ga., and N. Hewitt, of Conn. When had temperance abler advocates!

In their able report they sent out many reasons, strong as holy writ, "for complying with the resolutions adopted by the convention." The convention did much good, giving a fresh impetus to the cause of temperance throughout the nation.

Hon. S. VanRensselaer of Albany, gave the money to defray the expense of the distribution of 100,000 copies of the proceedings of the convention.

The second assembled at Saratoga Springs, August 1836, three hundred and forty-eight delegates present, from nineteen states and territories. Chancelor walworth presided. The principles were firmly established of total abstinence from the use of liquors as a beverage, and from making and furnishing to others.

The convention was attended by a noble class of men, among whom were—Chancellor Walworth, E. C. Delavan, Rev. J. Edwards, Moses Grant, Billy J. Clark, Rev. J. Marsh, and many others, who are now in their graves.

There were able reports, able discussions, and able addresses at these meetings, Dr. Jewett and General Carey, from Ohio, being the able orators.

The third was held at Saratoga Springs, July, 1841, five hundred and sixty delegates present. The convention announced its judgment that "license laws," authorizing the sale of liquors, "are at variance with all true political economy, and one of the chief supports of intemperance."

The fourth convened at Saratoga Springs, August 1851: three hundred delegates, from seventeen states, present. The keynote of the convention was prohibition, and the "right and duty to bring the traffic to an end" emphatically proclaimed.

The fifth convention met at Saratoga Springs, August, 1853, Hon. William A. Buckingham presiding, resulting in the establishment of a publication house and the creation of a sound, able, and pure temperance literature, which is scattering its tens of millions of pages yearly throughout all parts of the land.

The sixth National Convention was held in Cleveland, July, 1868, Hon. William E. Dodge president. The convention declared that temperance, having its political as well as its moral aspects and duties, demands the persistent use of the ballot for its promotion. It took more advanced ground than that of any former convention, and marks a new era in the history and progress of this great nation.

The seventh was held at Saratoga, August 26, 1873. There were representatives from twenty-three states and Canada. Important essays were read, new and old themes discussed; strong resolutions were passed. At this convention there was a new departure; they took higher and stronger ground than ever before. They passed the following:

"Resolved, That the time has arrived fully to introduce the temperance issue into State and national politics; that we recommend all the friends of temperance to make it henceforth the paramount issue; to co-operate with existing party organizations where such will endorse the legislative policy of prohibition and nominate candidates pledged to its support; otherwise to organize and maintain separate, independent party action in every state and in each congressional and electoral district of the United States."

The Liquor Traffic in Politics.

This must must not become a political question, says the willing apologist for the crime of rum-selling; it will endanger our christianity, disturb our morals, and awaken feelings of animosity, and why should the community be annoyed by these new-fangled notions of partisan politics? But it is in politics, and no voter can rid himself of the grave responsibility which this involves. We must do something about it. The liquor traffic must be suppressed or it will suppress us. It is the most momentous question ever presented to a civilized people, and it must be met with such weapons as will be most efficient in crushing it out of existence. Must not become a political question, when all the woes of war, famine, and pestilence are not to be compared to its ravages on the best interests of the community! Where is our common sense, that we can tolerate these copper-heads in this moral war to exterminate the greatest curse known in the history of the world?—Demorest's Monthly Magazine.

The Atlanta Constitution is authority for the statement that the United States government takes no notice of local liquor laws; that the internal revenue collector of Geogia issues retail liquor licenses in prohibition counties whenever he is asked to do so and $25 is tendered therefor, and this license once secured is good till its expiration. To make the matter worse, Collector Crenshaw says he will not "give away" one of his customers. "The law" he confesses "says the lists shall be open to the public; but I have been advised by my lawyer that I can legally do it, and to resist to the last any attempt to secure my books as evidence against men who violate local laws. I am simply and solely a tax collector, and have no official notice of local laws. I sell a license to a man, which clears his skirts, so far as the United States is concerned, and I will not help to convict him under a state law; neither will I help to defend." Since May 1st Collector Crenshaw has sold licenses to twenty-three men to retail liquor in Pulaski county, which voted prohibition under local option. And yet, the national government is not responsible for the liquor traffic!

A Convert's Argument.

EDITOR JOURNAL.—The temperance law and order men of Charlevoix county are gratified that the prohibition party had the courage to stand by their colors, and put a straight prohibition ticket in the field. We have had quite enough of republican temperance ideas, viz., the Rauer resolution. Oh, don't run a third party, you will help the democrats. Wait until next campaign, you are too premature. All we have to say is, what is right is never premature. We are here to stay; to fight high license, low license, free whiskey and the damnable saloon system, and while we this fight we will do so from a prohibition standpoint. Nor would we call any one a "bull-headed fanatic" because their views were adverse from ours, but in political parlance we wish we could call the Sentinel man a gentleman. Pardon the digression, but the Chicago anti-saloon republican convention was too much for us to swallow. We have no desire to consider the temperance question from the republican point of view. No, the anti-saloonists have not left prohibition party, they did not assemble there for that purpose. Their temperance principles are too thin. Mr. Sentinel, now let the temperance people vote as they pray, and we can carry the election on the first ballot. Of all people who need to vote for prohibition is the man who is addicted to drink. Now let the working men act in their own interest and vote the prohibition ticket. Free yourselves from the slavery of the rum power held over you by the false pretenses of the republican party. CONVERT.

What True Merit Will Do.

The unprecedented sale of Boehne's German Syrup within a few years, has astonished the world. It is without doubt the safest and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of coughs, colds, and the severest lung troubles. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual prescriptions given by physicians, as it does not dry up a cough and leave the disease still in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when these diseases make their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land. Price 75 cents, large bottles. 20w1

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The Best Salve in the world for cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Dr. G. W. Crouter.

The Detroit Free Press

FREE

For Four Months.

FIFTY CENTS

Will pay for the two best Newspapers published in the State of Michigan

For 4 Mo's.

On receipt of the above amount we will send

The Charlevoix Journal

—And—

THE WEEKLY DETROIT FREE PRESS

to any address for FOUR MONTHS on trial.

STAUFFER'S

BROADCAST

Hand-Seeder.

This new invention possesses many qualities peculiarly adapted to farmers of this vicinity.

TEN REASONS:

1. It sows the roughest or smoothest soils.
2. It sows evenly all kinds of grain and seeds, large and small. Wheat, barley, clover, timothy, rutabaga, etc.
3. It sows any desired quantity. One-fourth pound of rutabaga seed can be spread over an acre of ground with perfect ease and accuracy.
4. It sows rapidly. With wind it covers 40 feet to the round. Clover 42; clover and timothy mixed 26. Ten acres of clover sowed in 3½ hours.
5. It is not affected by quite a strong wind.
6. It is quickly adjusted to different quantities of grain.
7. It cannot clog.
8. It is easily operated.
9. It is cheap.
10. It is durable.

Patented by ISAAC STAUFFER, of Carpenter, Emmet Co., Mich. Sold by

UPRIGHT & EMREY,
Charlevoix, Mich.

Call and examine 4

Owing to Special Rates in Photographic Stock. I will continue to make Cabinet Photographs at $4.00 per Dozen Until further notice.

Dave Bradbeer,
Photographer,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

More Room! More Goods!!

THE ROUND OAK

AND SQUARE BASE

Heating Stoves.

Complete Stock of Hardware!

VERY BEST PUMPS.

Job and Tin Work. L. D. BARTHOLOMEW & CO.

Come and See our Immense Stock of

BOOTS AND SHOES,

FOX & MILLER.

HENRY C. COOPER

Undertaker!

CHARLEVOIX MICHIGAN.

Coffins, Caskets, and Trimmings Always in Stock.

Come and See my Stock of Furniture.

ALL ORDERS BY TELEPHONE RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION

Charlevoix Manufacturing Company,

MANUFACTURERS OF

Sash, Doors, and Blinds,

Screen Doors and Windows, and Mouldings of all Descriptions.

Newell Posts, Banisters, and Stair Rail, of Soft and Hard Wood, kept in Stock and Made and Put Up to Order.

DeLAND & CO'S

CAPITAL LOAF

SALERATUS

SODA

For Baking Purposes. Best in the World.

Sold by Upright & Emrey.

PERRY WEED,

DRUGGIST AND STATIONER,

OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

A Large Stock of

Furniture!

IN

Oak, Maple, Ash, and Cherry,

JUST RECEIVED BY THE

PINE LAKE IRON COMPANY

IRONTON, MICH.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 172. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1886. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL

Published every Thursday,

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

Office on Bridge Street

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX MICH. AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

WATCH YOUR ADDRESS LABEL.

The date following the name on your address label indicates the time to which your subscription is paid. If in arrears, you are requested to pay up.

BUSINESS CARDS.

ATTORNEYS.

A. STRONG, MARTIN, Attorney at Law, Boyne City. Collections promptly attended to.

CHUCKNSANCE & GRIFF, Attorneys at Law and Proctors in Admiralty. Office in Barnes Block, Charlevoix, Mich.
A. D. CHUCKNSANCE. C. J. GRIFF.

HART & CALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate, Loan and Insurance Agents. Lake St., east of Post-office, Petoskey, Mich.

FRED W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor at Real Estate business promptly attended to. ☞ WEST TO LEAN.

J. L. NEWBERRY, Attorney at Law and Judge of Probate of Emmet Co., Petoskey, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

OSCAR F. WINNER, Attorney at Law and United States Circuit Court Commissioner, Western District, East Jordan, Mich.

W. N. MOORE, Attorney and Solicitor, East Jordan. Admiralty a Specialty.

ZN. GARBUTT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

CHURCHES.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock. A. T. WAYERMAN, Pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH—Sunday services at 10:30 A. M. and 7:30 P. M. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer and praise meeting Thursday evening at 7:00 o'clock. W. H. MCCARTHY, pastor.

DENTISTRY.

N. J. PERRY, Dentist. Rooms over Weed's Drug Store. CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

B. BUFFIELD, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Domestic Cases, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

PHYSICIANS.

LEWIS M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office in Town block, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. M. PRESTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HORACE S. HARSHA, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix

SECRET SOCIETIES.

G. A. R.—Baxter Post No. 113, meets second Monday evening at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Round Lake Lodge, No. 293, meets every Wednesday evening, in their hall.

K. O. T. M.—Resort Tent No. 19, meets second Thursday every month at Odd Fellows' hall.

O. U. A. M.—Meets every alternate Saturday evening before full moon, in Barnard school house.

MYSTIC—Charlevoix Lodge No. 205, meets on or before full moon, in Barnard school house.

W. P. BROWN, Cashier. W. A. BROWN, Ass't Cashier.

Brown & Co's Bank of Charlevoix

CAPITAL, $25,000.

Drafts drawn on all the principal cities in Europe. Collections receive prompt attention. Good accommodations for Tourists, and from all points on Europe by mail lines.

CORRESPONDENTS—Chase National Bank, New York; First National Bank, Chicago; Merchants and Manufacturers' National Bank, Detroit; Fourth National Bank, Grand Rapids.

DeLAND & CO'S

CAPITAL LOAF

SALERATUS

SODA

For Baking Purposes. Best in the World.

Sold by Upright & Emrey.

PERRY WEED,

DRUGGIST AND STATIONER,

OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

A Large Stock of

Furniture!

IN

Oak, Maple, Ash, and Cherry,

JUST RECEIVED BY THE

PINE LAKE IRON COMPANY

IRONTON, MICH.

1872. 1886.

DR. G. W. CROUTER,

Drugs, Stationery and Wall Paper.

Dental Office in Rear of Drug Store.

ADVERTISEMENTS of three lines or less will be inserted in this column for

TEN CENTS

Each insertion. (This type will average seven words to a line.) Each additional line, three cents each insertion.

FOUND, A SAFE KEY, near the Rink. Owner can have it by proving property and paying for this notice.

HOUSE TO RENT. Nine rooms and cellar, cistern, etc. Three minutes' walk from postoffice. Inquire at the office.

JOB PRINTING of every description executed promptly, neatly, artistically, and cheaply, at the JOURNAL Office.

JOHN HOGAN, HOUSE PAINTER AND PAPER HANGER, Charlevoix, Mich.

LETTER HEADS, Note Heads, Statements, Bill Heads, etc., neat, cheap, and quick, at the JOURNAL Office.

LOST, A BUNCH OF KEYS. The finder will oblige by leaving at this office.

MEN WANTED—Good men to work at the iron and peach mills, from Charlevoix, Grand Haven, or Muskegon. Wages, $1.75 per day. Apply to W. Wilson, Charlevoix.

WANTED—Men to cut posts and ties on the lands of GEORGE TENNANT, Terrace Farm, Charlevoix.

Terrace Farm

J. R. & J. S. DIXON

Charlevoix, Mich.

Dairy, Vegetable, and Stock Farm. Thoroughbred Grade HOLSTEINS a specialty.

THE "WAGES" DODGE.

It is one of the commonest dodges of the protectionists and their organs to make a comparative exhibit of the wages in this country and in England and then ask whether the workingmen in the United States wants to be reduced to the level of the pauper labor of Europe. It is a pretty ingenious dodge, too, or was before the workingmen got their eyes open to the fallacy of it. Naturally searchers for the wages question the workingman has been easily alarmed in times past by any suggestion that his wages were to be affected; and as is usually the case when people are alarmed, he has not inquired very carefully into the real character of the scare. His case has been very much like that of a good many people during the rebellion excitement. They were a little inclined to accept the abolition doctrine on the general grounds of humanity; but when the supporters of slavery thundered out, "Do you want your daughter to marry a nigger?" they were scared out of their leanings toward abolition and turned the cold shoulder on Phillips and Garrison. They never stopped to inquire whether abolition necessitated the marriage of their daughters to colored men; and in like manner the workingmen have not stopped to inquire whether protection really had anything to do with the differences in wages between England and the United States or whether tariff really would have any tendency to reduce their wages.

Of late, however, the workingmen have stopped to make these inquiries. The old "scare" has lost its force. And one of the first results of their inquiries has been the discovery that protection does not increase wages. They might have learned this long since if they had enlarged the wages comparison. All the time the protectionists have been parading the difference between wages in England and in America they have studiously concealed and ignored the fact that wages in protected Germany and Italy were lower than in England without any protection. This fact alone is a sufficient answer to the pretense that a protective tariff enhances wages, but the inquiring, reading, thinking workingmen have found other facts which are, if possible, more convincing.

They have found, for instance, that no matter what the enhancement of profits may be from protection of an industry the employe in such industry gets no increase of wages. They find the steel rail industry enabled by the imposition of a duty to roll up enormous profits; but they do not find the steel rail makers inviting their employes to share in those profits. The "going rate" is good enough for them.

It has been pointed out to the workmen, too, that their wages, measured by the amount of the product, are really no better than those of English workmen. They get more money per week because they work more steadily and do better work; but they do more work for a dollar than the English workingman does.

The time is coming, therefore, if it has not already come, when this wages "dodge" of the protectionist, with its false and illogical deductions and its groundless threats, will cease to have any effect but to disgust the workingmen whom it is sought to gull with it.—Free Press.

THE K. OF L. ON CUTCHEON.

The following circular, bearing the official seal of District Assembly No. 83, has been received at this office. We commend it to the careful consideration of workingmen generally:

SANCTUARY DISTRICT ASSEMBLY NO. 83, Menominee, Mich., Oct. 25, 1886.

To the Order wherever found, greeting:

The General Assembly of the Knights of Labor of America, adopted at the special session held at Cleveland, Ohio, in May and June, this year, certain resolutions to be found on page 40 of the report of the session, and on page 42 of the same report is recorded the following resolution: "That we hold," &c, which defined the political action properly to be taken by the order and its members. In order to prepare for future political action and not be compelled to rely upon stump speakers and office-hunters during the present campaign and possibly be deceived by the fine oratory and and speeches to be poured into our ears, the general body of our order caused to be appointed a committee of three to go to Washington and urge certain measures from the hands of congress then assembled. That committee has given its report of action, and also the action of the congressmen upon the measures urged for passage. On a close examination of that report we find that Honorable R. M. Cutcheon, representative from the ninth congressional district of the state, voted for a vote on House Bill No. 7887, repealing the timber culture and desert land act; and that he voted in the affirmative for a motion to recommit the resolution to pay the U. S. debt with the treasury surplus, which motion, if carried, meant to smother it in the committee. Both of these measures were urged by the K. of L. committee.

The different assemblies, attached to this district assembly, and being composed of the greater number of men employed in the manufacture of lumber, and salt have unanimously been urging upon Mr. Cutcheon the necessity of the abolition of the lumber and salt tariff, but notwithstanding good and sufficient arguments have been given for our position on that question, arguments not met by Mr. Cutcheon, and arguments which he cannot meet, he actually refused to set in accordance with our sentiments, answering thus: "I can't see young man about 31 years old, of industrious habits, and had for two years been a faithful employee of Upright & Emrey of this city. In society he was esteemed for his many virtues, and his death will cause a sadness in the hearts of hosts of friends. He leaves a son about three years old, an aged father and mother, and three sisters to mourn his death. He was an officer of Resort Tent K. O. T. M., which society passed resolutions of condolence, (found elsewhere in this paper) reciting his many virtues as a member of the order.

Mrs. Wm. See (formerly Miss Ella Barry) died at her home in Charlevoix, on Sunday morning, of consumption. Mrs. See has been a resident of Charlevoix since childhood, was for a long time a teacher in our schools, and had many friends who will extend their sympathy to the bereaved husband. The funeral services were held at the Congregational church on Tuesday morning, conducted by Rev. A. T. Waterman.

Mrs. Wm. Glover, of St. Andrews Bay, Fla., died at her home in Florida Oct. 25, of typhoid fever.

☞ The P. & O. Red Book as usual makes its appearance just when wanted, and the state edition this year abounds with statistical information of the character now most in demand. The little publication has become the standard political text book and not only is it of unquestioned value as an authority upon election results, but is a model of clean and neat artistic typography. As of old it is sent without money and without price by inclosing stamp to C. K. Lord, Baltimore, Md.

Bill of Fare.

"He that withholdeth corn, the people shall curse him, but blessings shall be upon the head of him that selleth it." Prov. xi. 27.

Corn hulled with milk, 10c. "Corn maketh men cheerful." Zach. ix. 17.

Corn mush, with milk, 10c. "They did eat of the old corn of the land." Josh. v. 11.

Corn bread, 5c. "Eat bread and let thy heart be merry." 1st Kings, xxi. 7.

Corn popped, 5c. "And he reached her parched corn and she did eat." Ruth ii. 14.

Corn bake, Indian Pudding, 10c. "Go ye, carry corn for the famine of your house." Gen. xlii. 19.

Corn Johnny Cake, 5c. "David dealt to every one a cake of bread. 2 Sam. vi. 19.

Corn Starch Cake, 5c. "Baked it in pans and made cakes of it." Numb. xi. 9.

Corn Starch Pie, 5c. "Eat, O friends: eat abundantly." Sol. v. 1.

Corned Beef, 5c. "And he took the calf which he had dressed, and set it before them." Gen. xviii. 8.

Coffee, 5c. "Do not drink wine or strong drink lest ye die."

Historical Society.

The Historical Society met last Friday evening with Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Wood, with a large attendance. The program followed was substantially as announced last week, and was listened to with marked attention. The following are the officers for the coming year:

President, E. H. Green.
1st Vice President, Mrs. E. M. Clark.
2d Vice President, A. J. Washburn.
Secretary, Miss May Waterbury.
Treasurer, Mrs. L. E. Allen.
Executive Committee, H. Leo Iddings, Prof. H. M. Enos, Mrs. J. A. Carleton, Mrs. O. S. Washburn, A. D. Bradbeer.

The next meeting will be at the residence of President Green.

Ben. Wade's Strong Prayer.

A story told me by Senator Henderson about the late "Ben" Wade, of Ohio, sounds characteristically true to the popular portraiture of that sturdy old abolitionist. Chief Justice Taney was in feeble health about the close of Buchanan's administration. It was feared in Washington by the abolitionists that he might die before Lincoln was inaugurated and give Buchanan the appointment of his successor. In fact, he lived along until near the close of Lincoln's first term. At his death Lincoln, it will be remembered, appointed Salmon P. Chase, who had just been nominated for president by a convention at Cleveland, and was thus a rival. Some time in 1863 Henderson was sitting beside Wade at the capitol when Chief Justice Taney walked by. Wade spoke up with much vigor: "Just look at that old sinner—how erect and firm he walks. Why, along in 1859 and '60 I was praying night and day that he might live our friend Lincoln's term. Say, Henderson, it strikes me I must have prayed too strong, eh?"—New York Tribune.

Mussel Stews Down East.

The Rockland Courier-Gazette reports a new rival to the oyster which it thinks will bring fame if not fortune to North Haven, where the discovery was made. It seems some enterprising citizen of that place, with an eye to developing home talent, conceived the idea of making an oyster stew without the oyster, substituting in the place of that bivalve some of the mussels with which the coast abounds. The result was a brilliant success. Such a stew had never been eaten before. Local epicures now turn up their noses at the oyster and vote it decidedly old-fashioned, and are preparing to impart their discovery to less enlightened regions. Their missionaries have already got as far as Rockland, and it is predicted that ere long the markets of all the big cities will abound with the legend "North Haven mussels—20 cents a quart." It is enough to make the clam turn green with envy.—Lewiston (Me.) Journal.

He Knows Now.

"I—I don't understand this at all," said Smith, as he looked over the bill.

"Why, it's a bill for a pair of bronze vases at $65 per pair," replied the collector.

"Bronze vases? Why, I never bought such a thing in my life! We have a pair in the house, but they were a wedding present."

"Presented by whom?"

"Why my friend Green."

"Exactly. He told us to wait three months, and send the bill to you. That has come to be the fashion now, and I'm surprised that you didn't catch on. I'll receipt it. Thanks. Fine weather this."—N. Y. Sun.

REGISTER.

Saturday, October 30th is the last day on which voters can be registered and without registration they cannot vote. Every new voter and every voter who has changed his residence since last election, will have to be registered. Let democrats see to it in every locality that no voters are lost on account of a failure to register.

THE TWO WALTERS.

As against Walter W. Burton it is generally understood that Walter S. Johnson will be the choice of the fusionists as candidate for state senator in this district. As between these two men no honest voter can hesitate a moment. W. S. Johnson is well known throughout this and adjoining counties as an active, energetic business man who has been the architect of his own fortunes, and his large and flourishing business at Suttons Bay and Good Harbor attests that his industry, frugality and good management has been crowned with the success it deserves. Compare for a moment the abilities of the two candidates: Johnson earnest, active, alert, an excellent business man who has made his business a success. A man who has contributed much to the growth and prosperity of his town and county; who pays 100 cents on the dollar on every debt he owes; who is fully abreast of the times in his business views and who would carry his habits of industry and energy into any field where his services were demanded.

The other candidate is notoriously lazy, shiftless and impecunious; a chronic office hunter whose services in any capacity are never wanted for a second term; who has ignominiously failed in any and all business transactions which he ever undertook; a man who compromises with creditors; one whom his constituents found it impossible to elect to the office of supervisor of his own township at last spring's election, and who will not carry his own town this fall.

Now while the Enterprise does not propose to support such a man as this merely because he has been ground out of the republican machine as a compromise-candidate, we suppose the great rank and file will vote for Barton because he is the republican nominee. But before the canvass is closed he will wishes to the fact that he has a wide-awake man on trail with W. S. Johnson as the opposing nominee. Our comparisons of the candidates are true to the life, and while our comments may seem severe on one of them they are nevertheless the unvarnished truth as all who know his history will attest, and we say such a man ought to be defeated.—Loela new Enterprise (Rep.).

Death's Harvest.

Wm. Covert died at his home in this place last Thursday night, of typhoid fever, after a short illness, and his remains were taken to Central Lake on Friday for interment by the side of his late wife. Will was a young man about 31 years old, of industrious habits, and had for two years been a faithful employee of Upright & Emrey of this city. In society he was esteemed for his many virtues, and his death will cause a sadness in the hearts of hosts of friends. He leaves a son about three years old, an aged father and mother, and three sisters to mourn his death. He was an officer of Resort Tent K. O. T. M., which society passed resolutions of condolence, (found elsewhere in this paper) reciting his many virtues as a member of the order.

Mrs. Wm. See (formerly Miss Ella Barry) died at her home in Charlevoix, on Sunday morning, of consumption. Mrs. See has been a resident of Charlevoix since childhood, was for a long time a teacher in our schools, and had many friends who will extend their sympathy to the bereaved husband. The funeral services were held at the Congregational church on Tuesday morning, conducted by Rev. A. T. Waterman.

Mrs. Wm. Glover, of St. Andrews Bay, Fla., died at her home in Florida Oct. 25, of typhoid fever.

☞ The P. & O. Red Book as usual makes its appearance just when wanted, and the state edition this year abounds with statistical information of the character now most in demand. The little publication has become the standard political text book and not only is it of unquestioned value as an authority upon election results, but is a model of clean and neat artistic typography. As of old it is sent without money and without price by inclosing stamp to C. K. Lord, Baltimore, Md.

Bill of Fare.

"He that withholdeth corn, the people shall curse him, but blessings shall be upon the head of him that selleth it." Prov. xi. 27.

Corn hulled with milk, 10c. "Corn maketh men cheerful." Zach. ix. 17.

Corn mush, with milk, 10c. "They did eat of the old corn of the land." Josh. v. 11.

Corn bread, 5c. "Eat bread and let thy heart be merry." 1st Kings, xxi. 7.

Corn popped, 5c. "And he reached her parched corn and she did eat." Ruth ii. 14.

Corn bake, Indian Pudding, 10c. "Go ye, carry corn for the famine of your house." Gen. xlii. 19.

Corn Johnny Cake, 5c. "David dealt to every one a cake of bread. 2 Sam. vi. 19.

Corn Starch Cake, 5c. "Baked it in pans and made cakes of it." Numb. xi. 9.

Corn Starch Pie, 5c. "Eat, O friends: eat abundantly." Sol. v. 1.

Corned Beef, 5c. "And he took the calf which he had dressed, and set it before them." Gen. xviii. 8.

Coffee, 5c. "Do not drink wine or strong drink lest ye die."

Historical Society.

The Historical Society met last Friday evening with Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Wood, with a large attendance. The program followed was substantially as announced last week, and was listened to with marked attention. The following are the officers for the coming year:

President, E. H. Green.
1st Vice President, Mrs. E. M. Clark.
2d Vice President, A. J. Washburn.
Secretary, Miss May Waterbury.
Treasurer, Mrs. L. E. Allen.
Executive Committee, H. Leo Iddings, Prof. H. M. Enos, Mrs. J. A. Carleton, Mrs. O. S. Washburn, A. D. Bradbeer.

The next meeting will be at the residence of President Green.

Ben. Wade's Strong Prayer.

A story told me by Senator Henderson about the late "Ben" Wade, of Ohio, sounds characteristically true to the popular portraiture of that sturdy old abolitionist. Chief Justice Taney was in feeble health about the close of Buchanan's administration. It was feared in Washington by the abolitionists that he might die before Lincoln was inaugurated and give Buchanan the appointment of his successor. In fact, he lived along until near the close of Lincoln's first term. At his death Lincoln, it will be remembered, appointed Salmon P. Chase, who had just been nominated for president by a convention at Cleveland, and was thus a rival. Some time in 1863 Henderson was sitting beside Wade at the capitol when Chief Justice Taney walked by. Wade spoke up with much vigor: "Just look at that old sinner—how erect and firm he walks. Why, along in 1859 and '60 I was praying night and day that he might live our friend Lincoln's term. Say, Henderson, it strikes me I must have prayed too strong, eh?"—New York Tribune.

Mussel Stews Down East.

The Rockland Courier-Gazette reports a new rival to the oyster which it thinks will bring fame if not fortune to North Haven, where the discovery was made. It seems some enterprising citizen of that place, with an eye to developing home talent, conceived the idea of making an oyster stew without the oyster, substituting in the place of that bivalve some of the mussels with which the coast abounds. The result was a brilliant success. Such a stew had never been eaten before. Local epicures now turn up their noses at the oyster and vote it decidedly old-fashioned, and are preparing to impart their discovery to less enlightened regions. Their missionaries have already got as far as Rockland, and it is predicted that ere long the markets of all the big cities will abound with the legend "North Haven mussels—20 cents a quart." It is enough to make the clam turn green with envy.—Lewiston (Me.) Journal.

He Knows Now.

"I—I don't understand this at all," said Smith, as he looked over the bill.

"Why, it's a bill for a pair of bronze vases at $65 per pair," replied the collector.

"Bronze vases? Why, I never bought such a thing in my life! We have a pair in the house, but they were a wedding present."

"Presented by whom?"

"Why my friend Green."

"Exactly. He told us to wait three months, and send the bill to you. That has come to be the fashion now, and I'm surprised that you didn't catch on. I'll receipt it. Thanks. Fine weather this."—N. Y. Sun.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

EASTERN.

Fire at Punxutawney, Pa., destroyed over $100,000 worth of property. Thirty-five buildings, including two hotels, were burned.

Town Treasurer Josiah Carter, of Pittsfield, Mass., is reported to be $55,000 short in his accounts.

Latimer E. Jones, a lumber dealer in New York, issued nearly $300,000 in fictitious paper, and fled the city.

Three trustworthy gentlemen, who occupied a sailboat, report that when half way between Westport and Southport, Ct., they saw a huge sea serpent, 75 to 100 feet of the body of which was exposed, while the monster carried its head five feet out of the water.

Daniel Crusty and Louis Jester engaged in a prize fight at Rockaway Beach, Long Island. Crusty won, knocking his antagonist through a window.

At thirteen different points along the Hudson River, between Catskill and Marlborough, ripe strawberries were gathered last week in the open field.

Judge Wallace, of the United States Circuit Court at New York, denied the petition of thirty-five banks for an injunction against the collection of State taxes on the value of their shares.

General C. P. Stone has been selected as grand marshal of the coming parade in New York at the dedication of the Bartholdi statue, Oct. 28. The attendance is requested of military or civic organizations from every State and Territory.

A prisoner named McVicker, who was being taken by the town marshal to Fremont, Ohio, leaped through a window of a coach on an express train, and died soon after he was picked up.

WESTERN.

H. L. Leavitt, who was arrested in Chicago on charge of being concerned in the murder of Rev. G. C. Haddock, at Sioux City, has made a confession, saying that one John Arensdorf, foreman of the Franz brewery, and one of the stockholders in that concern, was the assassin. He says Arensdorf met the clergyman on the street on the night of Aug. 3, and held up his hand in front of Mr. Haddock's face. The latter took something from his pocket and struck Arensdorf, who thereupon drew a revolver and shot Haddock. Leavitt says he had several others, whom he names, witnessed the shooting, and that all ran away after the crime was committed. Several of those implicated are now under arrest, and warrants have been issued for the others.

The father of Wallace, recently lynched at Steelville, Mo., for the murder of the Logan family, refused to care for the body, which was buried on a hill by the roadside, where the remains of a colored murderess, who had been executed according to law, were interred years ago.

The order to remove cattle from the Sioux Reservation in Dakota has been revoked, and the stockmen are elated.

The disappearance of N. M. Neeld, one of the directors of the Chicago Board of Trade, who was managing partner of the packing firm of J. C. Ferguson & Co., led to the discovery that he had sunk a large amount in speculation, and had issued bogus warehouse receipts estimated as high as $250,000. Neeld has fled to Canada, and the firm is regarded as ruined by his operations. The losses falls largely upon Chicago banks.

The custom house authorities of San Francisco have seized a large quantity of opium consigned to a Chinese firm as tea. The opium seized is valued at $20,000.

John F. McLees, a notorious "killer," was taken from the jail at Montrose, Colo., and lynched. He had gone to the town to be arraigned before the Mayor and others, when locked up, and a mob subsequently broke the jail and carried him away.

"Dobby" Adams, an expert burglar, the prime mover in $21,000 stamp robbery at Minneapolis, has been jailed at Chicago, in default of $5,000 bail.

Edward Robeson, proprietor of a woolen-mill near Lafayette, Indiana, has fled to Canada, leaving debts of $2,000. He forged a note on his father, 88 years of age.

The American Woman Suffrage Association will hold its eighteenth annual meeting at Topeka, Kansas, October 26-28.

De Revers & Co., the New York sugar merchants, who failed last July, have filed their schedule. The liabilities are nearly $1,200,000, with actual assets of but $7,77.

At the annual meeting of the Western Union Telegraph Company Austin Corbin, Henry H. Hyde, and John G. Moore, were elected as new directors, taking the place of Harrison Durkee, deceased, Frank Work, and Hugh J. Jewett.

SOUTHERN.

The city of Charleston will ask the State for a loan of $5,000,000 to assist in rebuilding.

D. L. Yulee, a Senator from Florida for three terms, withdrawing at the outbreak of the rebellion, died in a hotel at New York.

What are believed to be volcanic noises, accompanied by a quivering of the earth, are reported to be heard almost daily in a district ten miles square in the southeastern portion of South Carolina, about one hundred miles distant from Charleston. These noises and convulsions have been heard and felt there at intervals for the past eighteen months, and are said to be increasing in frequency and force.

The most serious gale since the war prevailed on the Gulf coast on the 12th inst. At Galveston heavy damage resulted, streets being inundated, trucks torn up by the waves, and steamers and other craft injured by being pounded against the wharves. In Lower Louisiana people were driven from their homes, levees were demolished, and the rice and other crops ruined. The water in the town of Pointe a la Hache was several feet deep. In the vicinity of the Mississippi quarantine station the breaking waters have left the people destitute, and at points on the Alabama coast severe losses have also been inflicted. The lake and shell roads at New Orleans were inundated.

New Orleans telegram: "The Western Union Telegraph Company has received a message from the operator at Orange, Tex., saying that the town of Sabine Pass, two miles below Beaumont, on the Sabine River, was totally destroyed by the water of the river last night. There are known to be sixty-five lives lost. Last night during the overflow a hotel with fifteen or twenty people in it was swept into the bay and every one of the inmates drowned. The captain of a schooner from there to-day says not a house is left in the whole county, and every living thing there was drowned."

WASHINGTON.

Commissioner Sparks has just rendered a decision confirming the title of lands in New Orleans worth millions of dollars.

The Controller of the Currency has called for a statement of the condition of national banks at the close of business, Thursday, Oct. 2.

The Land Office report shows that during the year 22,134,568 acres of public lands have been disposed of, which is an increase of 1,126,000 acres over the previous year.

The President has pardoned three Mormon bishops, the first who were convicted under the Edmunds law. He had become satisfied that the sentences were illegally imposed.

The remains of Salmon P. Chase were transferred to a new casket, for shipment from Washington to Cincinnati. The body having been embalmed, the features were easily recognized.

It is claimed that a court of inquiry will yet be necessary to settle the status of Geronimo's surrender, though General Miles' report is looked upon by his friends as a complete vindication of his course.

Col. O. B. Willcox, Twelfth Infantry, was appointed by the President to be Brigadier-General, vice Gen. J. H. Potter, retired. Gen. Willcox will assume command of the Department of the Missouri, with headquarters at Fort Leavenworth.

POLITICAL.

President Cleveland has appointed Gen. John M. Corse, formerly of Chicago, Postmaster at Dunkirk, Mass.

Congressional nominations: Fourth Indiana district, T. G. Lucas, Democrat; Twenty-third New York, J. I. Spriggs, Democrat; Twenty-second New York, A. X. Parker, Republican; Twelfth Massachusetts, F. W. Rockwell, Republican; Ninth Massachusetts, F. D. Ely, Republican; Fourth Connecticut, F. W. Niles, Republican; Twenty-sixth Pennsylvania, W. R. Roberts, Republican; Tenth Pennsylvania, W. H. Snowden, Democrat; Twenty-second New York, A. Corbin, Jr., Democrat; First Connecticut, R. J. Vance, Democrat; Sixth Massachusetts, H. R. Lovering, Democrat; Fifth South Carolina, John J. Hemphill, Democrat; Seventh Massachusetts, Walter Spalding, Prohibitionist; Second Nebraska, Thomas McLeighan, Democrat; Eighth Missouri, D. Wyman, Labor; Ninth Missouri, G. W. Davidson, Labor; Tenth Missouri, J. Michael Batchford, Labor; Third Massachusetts, A. A. Salsey, Republican; Twenty-fourth New York, David Wilber, Republican; Fourth New Jersey, Lewis Vox Blacrom, Republican; Fifth Alabama, P. A. Wood, Independent; Fourth Wisconsin, Thomas H. Brown, Republican; Tenth Ohio, Jacob Romeis, Republican; Fifth Kentucky, A. M. Carruth, Democrat.

Congressional nominations: Fifth Massachusetts District, E. D. Hayden, Republican; Seventh Massachusetts James H. French, Democrat; Seventh Massachusetts, Rev. W. Spaulding, Union; Seventh New Jersey, Edwin Z. Kerr, Democrat—to fill from the nomination of Congressman Meadows.

William L. Maginnis, of Ohio, was appointed by the President to be Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the Territory of Wyoming.

Congressional nominations: Third Maryland District, H. N. Ward, Democrat, for third and long terms; Thirty-first New York, J. G. Sawyer, Republican; Fourth Maryland, Isaac Barnes, Democrat; Seventh New Jersey, Siegfried Hammerslough, Republican; Second Connecticut, E. C. Lewis, Republican; Fifteenth New York, Henry Bacon, Democrat; Twenty-ninth New York, Thomas West, Republican; Thirty-third New York, James Jackson, Jr., Democrat; Second Massachusetts, Burthard Morse, Democrat; Eighth Massachusetts, Charles H. Utley, Republican; Second Connecticut, Carter French, Democrat; Eighteenth Pennsylvania, Louis E. Atkinson, Republican; Ninth Massachusetts, John Frank, Republican; Second Louisiana, Edward Sims, Republican; Third Kentucky, W. G. Hunter, Republican; Sixth Massachusetts, Henry Cabot Lodge, Republican; Eleventh New York, James S. Ketcham, Republican; Utah, John T. Caine.

John R. Mitchell has been nominated for Congress by the Republicans of the Seventh District of Missouri. Spencer G. Fisher is the nominee of the Democrats and Greenbackers in the Tenth District of Michigan.

RAILROAD INTELLIGENCE.

At the meeting of the Board of Directors of the Northern Pacific, Robert Harris was re-elected President.

The Illinois Central Road has just filed in Chicago a mortgage on its land grant and New Orleans branch for $9,000,000.

The new directory of the Louisville, Evansville and St. Louis Air Line Road, will build two branch lines—one from Mt. Vernon, Ill., to St. Louis, and the other from Tell City, Ind., to Huntingburg, Ind.

Henry C. Barlow, Traffic Manager of the Mexican Central Road, has resigned his position rather than remove his headquarters from Chicago to the City of Mexico.

The St. Paul Road has let a contract for the construction of an iron bridge over the Missouri River at a point three miles south of Kansas City, to be completed by July next.

THE INDUSTRIAL OUTLOOK.

The employes of the pork-packing establishments at the Stock Yards, near Chicago, went out on a strike against the resumption of the tag-hour system.

The Detroit brewers have locked out five hundred employes, and have resolved to submit to no dictation from trades unions.

The eighteen window-glass factories in New York State and other factories in the northern district will resume operations at once, the wages question having been settled.

In the United States Circuit Court at Detroit, in the case of a citizen charged with bringing ship-carpenters across the river from Canada, Judge Brown sustained the constitutionality of the law prohibiting the importation of labor.

The Illinois Board of Labor Statistics has recommended the abolition of the contract system for convict labor.

MISCELLANEOUS.

M. de Lesseps will attend the dedication of Bartholdi's statue of "Liberty Enlightening the World."

Minister Jackson's departure from the Mexican capital was the occasion of a most enthusiastic demonstration, in which both the Americans resident in Mexico and the natives participated.

The ocean steamer Anchoria arrived safely at St. Johns, N. F., having been overdue twelve days. Her machinery had broken down when three days out from Liverpool, and the remainder of the voyage was made under sail. The passengers and crew had been put upon an allowance of two meals a day.

An armed crew from the Canadian cruiser Terror boarded the American schooner Marion Grimes, held at Shelburne, N. S., for violation of the customs laws, and compelled the Captain to haul down the American flag, which was waving from the masthead.

While officiating at the altar in a Polish Catholic church at Pittsburgh, a priest was made to assassinate the Rev. Father Dzikowski, an unknown person firing at him through a window. The bullet passed within six inches of the priest's body, and the affair caused intense excitement among the congregation.

A water famine prevails in the Manoning Valley, Pennsylvania, the hot weather having fallen in nine weeks. If rain does not come speedily the miners will be compelled to stop work. The people are reported to be greatly alarmed.

The Standard Oil Company has purchased the property of the American and Empire Refining Companies in the Pittsburgh district, and the Raccoon Oil Company's one at Shanoklin, Pa. The plant has put by the Standard Company aggregated $2,000,000.

FOREIGN.

The estimates of the Prussian Ministry of Finance show the budget of 1885 closing with a deficit of $[illegible].

Lawrence's cotton-mill and four houses at Chorley, Lancaster County, England, have been destroyed by fire. The loss is $1,000,000.

Emperor William has sent to the Dalai Lama of Thibet a gold watch and a gold snuff-box.

A new Spanish Cabinet has been formed with Senor Canovas, President of the Council, Senor Pagasta, Minister of Foreign Affairs, Senor Romero, Minister of Justice, Senor Maximo, Minister of the Interior, Leon Castillo, Minister of Public Works, Senor Rodrigo, Minister of War, Senor Aunon, Minister of Marine, Admiral Arlaza; Minister of Colonies, Senor Balgosa.

In the elections held at Sofia for members of the great Sobranje to elect a successor to Prince Alexander, all the Government candidates were successful. A Russian sympathizer received but one-thirteenth of the votes cast in his district.

One of the leading Paris newspapers, in discussing the need of neutrality in Egypt, says that England's annexation of the country would amount to a casus belli.

Advices from India state that the cotton crop is fully up to the average.

The anniversary of the members of the Irish National League, in Lonsdale, resolutions were adopted emphatically ordering the boycotting of all persons obnoxious to the league.

Lord Lismore has offered his tenants at Fethenagh a reduction of 40 per cent on the judicial rents.

Berlin newspapers advise that the Austrian anarchists be treated with merciless severity.

The police of Paris tore down colored caricatures of Prince Bismarck in a newspaper office, and arrested several sandwich-men for displaying similar pictures of the character.

The eminent Unitarian preacher, Rev. Augustus Stopford Brooke, of Dublin, has resigned a living worth $[illegible].

Since last June at least twenty exiles have escaped from Siberia, among the number being Du Galiff, the N hilist, who planned and assisted in the murder of General Sudeikin, the St. Petersburg Chief of Police, December 28, 1882.

Empress Augusta of Austria has joined a society for the promotion of animal proper fodder of Bayreuth, and will donate 1,000 marks yearly to the fund for that purpose.

LATER NEWS ITEMS.

Congressional nominations: First New York District, Perry Belmont, Democrat; Third Arkansas District, H. R. Hobson, Republican; Twenty-sixth New York, R. H. Delaney, Republican; Seventeenth New York, William Lounsberry, Democrat; Fifteenth New York, Moses Stearns, Republican; Thirty-second New York, J. M. Farquhar, Republican; Twenty-fourth Pennsylvania, J. F. Allen, Greenbacker; Fifth Pennsylvania, Edwin Satterthwaite, Democrat; Fourth Pennsylvania, Franklin Bound, Republican; Ninth Massachusetts, D. E. Burnett, Democrat.

The steam-barge Selah Chamberlain came into collision, six miles east of Sheboygan, Wis., with the steamer John Pridgeon, Jr. The Chamberlain sank, and the engineer, fireman, three deck-hands, and the second engineer were drowned. The Chamberlain was valued at $50,000.

Harry Wildman, a farmer near Atwood, Ill., who murdered his wife and attempted suicide, was taken from jail at Monticello and hanged to a tree by a mob.

Mrs. Rosalinda Fonda, of Ingell Wellar & Co., Cincinnati, made an assignment, caused by the confidential clerk of the firm, R. M. Doll, forging warehouse receipts to the extent of many thousand dollars. A rough estimate places the liabilities of the firm at $300,000. Edwards & Co. also made an assignment, the firm holding about $30,000 of Weller's paper. Their liabilities will probably reach $60,000.

Bayard Putnam, chief of the Government Topographical survey, hanged himself to a tree near his camp at North Adams, Mass.

Sarah E. Howe had recovery against the Woman's Bank in Boston, after having served two and a-half years for swindling depositors.

The State Department is informed that the pulling down of the American flag by a Mexican mob at Stalhorne, Nova Scotia, was the result of a misunderstanding, for which the Canadian officers have apologized.

The assassination of ex-President Gonzales in an interior town in Mexico is reported. General Gonzales was installed President of Mexico December 1, 1880, on the overthrow of General Porfirio Diaz.

Johnson's Bayou, La., was inundated by the waters of the Gulf during the recent tempest, and many houses swept away. Seven families perished by drowning, and several persons are reported missing.

William W. T. Coleman killed himself with morphine in a cell at Tuscaloosa, Ala., where he was serving out his sentence of twenty years in the penitentiary, and many house sweep away. Seven families perished by drowning, and several persons are reported missing.

William W. T. Coleman killed himself with morphine in a cell at Tuscaloosa, Ala., where he was serving out his sentence of twenty years in the penitentiary, and many house sweep away.

The King of Abyssinia has ordered his subjects to prepare for war.

Canon Blanchini, while leaving St. Peter's, at Gradual at Venice, was stabbed in the heart by a man who cried, "Behold thy victim." The assassin was arrested and proved to be Sig. Vanelli, formerly a deacon, whose conversion to Protestantism caused a furor amongst the priests a few years ago. On examination Vanelli deposed that he came to Venice with the intention of avenging himself on Canon Bianchini, whose chicanery had driven him to apostacy and ruin.

Knights Elect as Executive Board.

The Knights of Labor General Assembly at Richmond elected these members of the General Executive Board for the ensuing year: Harry John W. Hayes, William H. Bailey, A. A. Carter, Frank Ferrell, and Jas. R. Sovereign. Hayes was a prominent leader in the contest of two members of the General Cooperative Board to fill the place of the two retiring members. The General Assembly then voted to have the Board meet at Reading, Pa., instead of Chicago, as at the Salem and Philadelphia Assemblies. Samuel Gompers, of the Labor men in attendance on the convention will be invited to meet with the Executive Board to discuss the question of the best means of preserving accurate statistics of industrial progress, and the best method of their relation to the white laborers whenever they are employed together.

THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK.

BEEVES	$4.00	@ 5.85
HOGS	4.00	@ 5.25
WHEAT—No. 1 White	.89	@ .89½
No. 2 Red	.87½	@ .88
CORN—No. 2	.51	@ .51½
OATS—White	.43	@ .45
PORK—New Mess	10.75	@ 11.00

CHICAGO.

BEEVES—Choice to Prime Steers	5.00	@ 5.30
Good Shipping	4.35	@ 4.75
Stockers and Feeders	2.50	@ 3.00
HOGS—Shipping Grades	4.00	@ 4.50
FLOUR—Extra Spring	4.00	@ 4.15
WHEAT—No. 2 Spring	.84	@ .85
No. 2 Red	.87	@ .88
CORN—No. 2	.34	@ .35
OATS—No. 2	.25	@ .25½
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	.30	@ .32
Fine Dairy	.22	@ .25
CHEESE—Full Cream, Cheddar	.09½	@ .10
Full Cream, New	.11	@ .12
EGGS—Fresh	.18	@ .19
POTATOES—Early Rose, per bu	.60	@ .65
PORK—Mess	10.00	@ 10.25

MILWAUKEE.

WHEAT—No. 1	.71	@ .72
No. 2	.69	@ .70
OATS—No. 2	.24	@ .24½
CORN—No. 2	.33	@ .34
PORK—Mess	9.50	@ 9.75

TOLEDO.

WHEAT—No. 2	.87	@ .88
CORN—No. 2	.37	@ .38
OATS—No. 2	.26	@ .27
RYE—No. 2	.52	@ .53

DETROIT.

BEEF CATTLE	4.00	@ 5.25
HOGS	4.00	@ 5.25
SHEEP	3.75	@ 4.75
WHEAT—Michigan Red	.87	@ .88
CORN—No. 2	.37	@ .38
OATS—No. 2 White	.26	@ .27

ST. LOUIS.

WHEAT—No. 2	.73	@ .74
CORN—No. 2	.32	@ .32½
OATS—No. 2	.22	@ .22½
PORK—New Mess	10.00	@ 10.25

CINCINNATI.

WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.76	@ .76½
CORN—No. 2	.37	@ .38
OATS—No. 2	.27	@ .28
RYE—No. 2	.52	@ .53
PORK—New	10.00	@ 10.25

BUFFALO.

WHEAT—No. 1 Hard	.90	@ .91
CORN—No. 2	.40	@ .40½
OATS—No. 2	.29	@ .29½

INDIANAPOLIS.

BEEF CATTLE	3.25	@ 4.75
HOGS	4.00	@ 5.25
SHEEP	3.50	@ 4.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.87	@ .88
CORN—No. 2	.34	@ .34½
OATS—No. 2	.25½	@ .26

EAST LIBERTY.

CATTLE—Best	4.75	@ 5.00
Fair	4.25	@ 4.50
Common	3.25	@ 3.75
HOGS	4.00	@ 5.25
SHEEP	3.75	@ 4.25

KNIGHTS OF LABOR.

Proceedings of the Richmond Convention.

Nearly the whole of the fifth day's session was occupied in discussing the report of the Committee on Credentials. Twenty-five Louisiana contesting delegations. The question at issue was whether the delegates elected at the regular meeting, back in the evening, or at a subsequent meeting an hour later were the regularly elected delegates. The matter originated in the convention, the proposal emanating from the floor. The report was accepted by the convention and accepted by a majority of the delegates elected at the 8 o'clock meeting. Mr. Mahoney's address was finally read, and the report of the committee appointed to investigate the case of the Union officer New York was made and adopted. A committee was appointed to draft a memorial adopted authorizing the appointment of a National representative to prepare and send a telegram to secure proper person in Providence, R. I., with respect to the case of the right of suffrage in that city. The committee drafted and sent the following: Hon. Grover Cleveland, President, Washington, D. C.: The Equal Rights Protective Association, Providence, R. I.: The order of Knights of Labor, in general assembly convened at Richmond, Va., implores your efforts in behalf of the enfranchisement of your disfranchised citizens, and promises you unfailing support in your noble efforts in behalf of the oppressed." A committee was directed to send a telegram to the District of Columbia in relation to the assessment case. The committee on the Knights of Labor Journal reported that the journal was in a prosperous condition. The committee on Organization reported that the Knights of Labor were combined for some purpose. The object of that combination had been debated by the members of the order, and it was found that that was, whether it was meant by some that the workingmen to resist unlawful attacks of wheel it was not clear. There was no better way than to read what they had spoken and written on the subject. The combination which the Knights were occasioning. He had been asked if it was not true that the Knights of Labor intended to take the law into their hands. He replied that the Knights put the question that was a stone of stumbling. The committee on Organization, in the reports of the Executive Board, the General Secretary, the Treasurer, and the Journal were given to each delegate. A standing committee of thirteen on finance was appointed, as also a committee on the relation of Christianity and foreign contract labor, emigration, legislation, the relation of the order to the Union and Railroads and Other Railroad departments.

Between four and five thousand Knights of Labor paraded the streets of Richmond on the day, 11th inst., and all public offices and many all workshops, manufactories, and other business houses in the city were closed in honor of the event. At the close of the parade speeches were made by Mr. Powderly, Mr. Tredel, and Mr. Litchman, remarkable Daniel, Mayor Harrington, and others. There was no noise nor disorder, and did not appear. Later there were games and sports in the fairgrounds, and a large number of people were present to witness the white and colored delegates "at play." The parade was a great success, and the day passed off without a single accident.

Upon the question whether the defendants or the Government of Chicago, Mr. Powderly said he thought, he said that it was a question of the right of the people to govern. The question was, shall the people govern themselves, but upon the ground that they had generally been defeated in the contest, and that they had not murder, and had left the occasion, time, and place of the attack, and that the conspirators of the individuals as advised, and that the Government of Chicago was a government and hoping to avoid the blood of those who were loose than which had lost its blood. Mr. Powderly said that the Knights of Labor desired to impress upon the minds of the people that the Knights of Labor had no connection with the anarchists, and that the action was on the part of Chicago, and that the Knights of Labor had no connection with the anarchists in this city, I said to the people of Richmond, and I repeat it to the people of Chicago, that the Knights of Labor, which cannot be avoided or obtained. Thereby the Knights of Labor have made a mistake in the matter, that they are in the same position as the Knights of Labor, and that the Knights of Labor in general assembly convened at Richmond, Va., implore you authorities in behalf of the disfranchised citizens, and promises you unfailing support in your noble efforts in behalf of the oppressed." Are not all the principles of this order represented under the surveillance of the police. He unhesitatingly said, "No."

"If you think that by hanging up you can stop the agitation, you are mistaken, that will be hanging. But you will tread upon the ashes of your fathers, behind you, in front of you, everywhere, thence will blaze up. The principles of the order are not to be stopped by hanging." He said that he had been directly in witchcraft, but you do believe in conspiracies. He said that the Knights of Labor had been called upon to aid the Haymarket business. He commended the variety of the Knights of Labor, and the Knights of Labor, and the Knights of Labor, and

THE JOURNAL,

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

DEMOCRATIC NOMINATIONS.

State Ticket.

For Governor—
GEORGE A. YAPLE, of St. Joseph.

For Lieutenant-Governor—
SOLOMON S. CURRY, of Marquette.

For Secretary of State—
PHILLIP B. WACHTEL, of Emmet.

For State Treasurer—
WILLIAM G. BEARD, of Bay.

For Auditor-General—
LYDIAN F. FARRAR, of Macomb.

For Attorney General—
JOHN C. DONNELLY, of Wayne.

For Commissioner of State Land Office—
ALONZO T. FRIZBIE, of Livingston.

For Superintendent of Public Instruction—
DAVID PARSONS, of Wagon.

For Member of State Board of Education—
JEROME W. TURNER, of Shiawassee.

Congressional Ticket.

For Representative in Congress, Ninth District
LYMAN G. MASON, of Muskegon.

Legislative Ticket.

For Representative in the State Legislature, Charlevoix District.
HORATIO B. LEWIS, of Elk Rapids.

For State Senator—Twenty-Ninth District,
WALTER S. JOHNSON, of Boyne City.

County Ticket.

For Sheriff—
DANIEL B. JERRUE, of South Arm.

For County Clerk—
WILLIAM T. PALMITER, of South Arm.

For County Treasurer—
ORLANDO BLAIR, of South Arm.

For Register of Deeds—
ELISHA H. SHEPARD, of Evangeline.

For Prosecuting Attorney—
ARTHUR E. MARTIN, of Evangeline.

For Circuit Court Commissioner—
ARTHUR E. MARTIN, of Evangeline.

For County Surveyor—
SIDNEY HAYDEN, of Eveline.

For Coroner—
ORVILLE D. HILTON, of Norwood.
ROBERT FINDLEY, of Boyne Valley.

YAPLE AT CHARLEVOIX.

Last Saturday afternoon occurred the grandest fusion rally ever held in Charlevoix county. A. D. Cruickshank, chairman of the county committee, supported by a dozen or more of his most active lieutenants, and the large committee of reception published last week, put in several days of good work in advertising and preparing for the meeting, and the result was a rink full of interested, attentive listeners. Before the hour of meeting the Charlevoix boys' band, and the East Jordan band were the centre of attraction while discoursing some of their sweetest music infront of the rink.

At 1:30 p. m. Mr. Cruickshank called the assemblage to order, introducing the speaker in a few well chosen words.

Mr. Yaple first answered the question why he voted against placing Gen. Grant on the retired list, paying a glowing tribute to that quinsum general's memory, and satisfying everyone of his own honesty of purpose in voting as he did. In voting against placing General Grant on the retired list he expressed the opinions of many men of all parties. But it was at least an honest vote in the interest of the taxpayers. General Grant rendered great services to the country and was greatly rewarded. He voluntarily quit the head of the army to become a partisan candidate for the presidency, and he was elected to that high office two terms, and received for his services one hundred thousand dollars more than any man had ever received before in that office. He was supposed to be a millionaire at the very time Yaple voted against putting him back in the army.

In like manner Mr. Yaple touched the restoration of Fitz John Porter to his rank in the army, a bill supported like by republicans and democrats. At the head of the republican supporters of that bill was Gen. Grant himself, the one man above all others most capable of judging of that measure.

In his discussion of the tariff, Mr. Yaple crushed the strongest bulwark of the corporation monopolists at every point. In beautiful rounded periods and unanswerable arguments, in a cultured and musical voice, he unmasked the protection absurdity, which enables the crafty few to earn their bread by the sweat of their neighbor's brow. He showed how the poor are made poorer, and the rich richer. He showed how the poor workingman pays tribute through tariff tax to the rich manufacturer in almost every article he is compelled to buy for the support of his family. He followed in detail the evils of high tariff in all the leading commodities which become necessities of life in every American home, and was listened to with marked attention and frequent applause for over an hour and a half. The seed there sown has already commenced to bear fruit.

One of the pleasing features of Mr. Yaple's speech was that he did not abuse the republican party, or any other party. He did not find it necessary to stoop to the republican art of slandering his opponent. His heart and soul are in the cause he so eloquently advocates. He swears he will never rest until the laboring man can buy his merchandise in the same kind of a market in which he is compelled to sell his labor. If Geo. L. Yaple is defeated in this election, his defeat will be a lasting disgrace to the laboring men of Michigan.

As a result of this meeting, we believe Charlevoix will make a good report of herself next Tuesday night.

THE STATE SENATORSHIP.

The Leelanaw Enterprise, a paper which hoists the republican ticket on its editorial page, has the following among other things to say of Mr. Barton, the republican nominee for state senator on the republican ticket. The references to his official obscenity can be verified by dozens of men in Charlevoix county, and the conclusions drawn from the Enterprise are that he cannot possibly carry his own township or county because of the knowledge of his dishonesty and general incapacity to conduct public business. Referring to the almost overwhelming republican majority in the district, the Enterprise says: "Now, as it is proclaimed that anybody can carry this district," Barton's shoulders will doubtless soon be graced with the senatorial mantle, but if it ever falls there it will not be because he can carry his own township and county or because this paper will support him, but it will be simply because he is a creature of the republican machine, and the nominee of a party that has an insurmountable majority in this district." Walter S. Johnson's friends everywhere should keep this in mind, and though they may not entirely overcome the republican majority in the district, they must see that every vote possible is recorded against Barton. The Enterprise says further:

Among his neighbors and friends Barton is well known to be a unprofoundness in the strictest sense of the word. To say that he is a consumer would hardly describe him,—he might more aptly be termed an absorbor. His successful efforts to pay off his debts at from 10 to 20 cents on the dollar mark him as a financier worthy of a place in the treasury department. Then again his adroitness as a political wire-puller and trickster is finely exemplified in the fact that he retains the Leland postoffice notwithstanding the change of governmental administration. How did he do it? Why, do you suppose that when the republican party, of which he professed to be a stanch member, was defeated in 1884, he manfully took his place with the rest of the boys on the "outside" and let his postoffice go? Hardly. He had his accommodating little son-in-law appointed winnie manipulated the office and enjoyed the emoluments just the same. This ought to commend him to every lover of right and justice as just the man for a state senator.

But the shrewdest thing Barton ever accomplished in the way of close financiering was when he got in debt to a friend who lives not a thousand miles from Charlevoix to the extent of several thousand dollars, and succeeded in inducing his friend to throw off all but so many hundred, and then trying to borrow the money of his friendly partner in business to pay the debt!!! Here was a magnificent nosity of check that momentarily paralyzed his friend, but still it displayed such a high sense of pecuniary honor in Barton that his friend will doubtless take the strong and advocate his election this fall.

In Barton's brief political career he has shown the same shrewdness as he has as a financier. Public rumor says that he was once town treasurer of Leland township, that he was short in his funds when he came to settle up with his successor and that the matter was only adjusted after considerable trouble.

In the state legislature he displayed the great talent he has for eating, resting and sleeping to such an extent that he was unceremoniously shelved at the end of his first term. His record there was an absolute blank.

In the fall of 1878 Barton's name was presented in the county convention as a candidate for county treasurer but his name in the office of town treasurer were discussed and he was defeated, and Charles W. Williams was nominated. Barton bolted the nomination and ran as an independent candidate but was defeated.

At the county convention this fall he got the nomination for county treasurer, but as he was sure of defeat in his own county he grasped at the nomination for senator as a drowning man catches at a straw thinking doubtless that the assured republican majority in the district would carry him through. But we opine that if the opposition put forward a trustworthy man Barton will have to walk over. He may catch the popular vote where he is unknown but in his own township and county where he is best known he will be defeated.

Voters, who labor early and late, Ask these things of the candidate: What's his record? How does he stand At home? no matter about his hand, But how does it set in politics? To elect over to Lansing six oxes, Has he in view no little intrigue? Is he honest and capable? He is our man."

Premiums Awarded.

The following is a list of the premiums awarded at the second annual fair of the Charlevoix county agricultural society, at East Jordan, Sept 22 24, 1886:

Continued from last week.

Division 1—Domestic Manufactures and Fancy Work.

Superintendents Mrs. Wm. F. Palmiter and Mrs. H. P. Barbour.

Class 1.

Miss Gracie Bourinque best table spread arabesque and ribbon, silk patchwork quilt, embroidered table scarf.
Mrs. James Bowman, best chopping bag.
Mrs. Mary Burns, best chair tidy, drawn work.
Mrs. Sarah Gibson, best infants embroidered robe.
Mrs. C. H. Watkinson, best wax cross.
Mrs. C. W. Lewis, best slipper case.
Miss Alice Gleason best silk embroidered table cover.
Mrs. Lilley, best display of winter millinery.
Mrs. John Bowman, best slumbering robe.
Mrs. John Nicholls, best housewife.
Mrs. Alice Gleason, best lace and drawn work.
Mrs. T. Cook, best silk crazy quilt.
Mrs. Emma Lewis, best table scarf.
Mrs. A. J. Green, best silk crazy table scarf.
Mrs. Ella Smith, best crochet lace, in cotton; chenille tidy; pin cushion sachet.
Mrs. E. G. Bryant, best quilt patchwork and feather.
Mrs. W. L. Cash, best undershirt emb. on flannel.
Mrs. Bringham, best patchwork quilted quilt.
Mrs. A. Hendon, best specimen etching.
Mrs. L. Brenhart, best collection point lace and largest display of fancy work by one exhibitor.
Mrs. M. K. Clark, best display general fancy goods.
(exhibitor unknown) best crazy silk patchwork sofa pillow cover.
Mrs. H. P. Barbour, best etched apron.
Mrs. H. P. Barbour, specimen antique.
Miss Gracie Bourinque, best tidy etched on felt.
Mrs. J. A. Kent, best etched table mats.
Mrs. H. P. Barbour, best applique table scarf and bureau.
Mrs. Bourinque, best chenille toilet cushion.
Mrs. H. P. Barbour, best silk embroidered satin; turkey work; black silk embroidery on silk lace; lambequin arasene and ribbon; lambequin arasene on a sacs 11 yrs old.
Mrs. C. A. Brenhart, best silk patchwork quilt
Mrs. Ella Bowman, best crochet quilt.
Mrs. A. Hendon, best lace engraved pillow shams.
Mrs. G. G. Lewis, best macramé lambequin.
Mrs. Hodge, best lace edging, very fine pattern.
Mrs. Bringham, best crochett table mats.
Mrs. H. P. Barbour, best lace, open work and set.
Mrs. Mary P. Burns, best pillow shams, darned lace.
Mrs. E. A. Gibson, best embroidered pillow shams.
Mrs. E. Empey, best embroidered chair cover.
Mrs. Ella Chamberlin, best canvas emb. lambequin.
Mrs. E. G. Bryant, best crazy quilt patchwork.
Mrs. Fairchilds, best worsted Jekyll wreath, by child 8 years old.
Mrs. E. Empey, best specimen needlework on cardboard.
Harris Wilensky, best silk embroidery toilet bottle.
Miss Alice Barnhart, best darned lace collar.
Mrs. L. Rowe, best ball lace.
Mrs. Hand, best gauntlet apron.
Mrs. Ella Bowman, best fan.
Mrs. H. Hanna, best Jersey crocheted rug, half work; silk embroidery on Mina 14 yrs old.
Mrs. H. P. Barbour, best antique fan, woven knit lace; lobsigran; leather bread collar.
Mrs. Ella Bowman, best silk fan.
Mary Mosier, best gents comfort or sack tidy.
Harris Wilensky, best crochett shawl, in wool.
Mrs. Fairchild, best patchwork in 2 yrs old.
Miss Alice Palmiter best macramé lambequin.
Mrs. H. P. Barbour, best vest.
Willie Wilensky best vest, red silk quilt.
Mrs. E. F. Empey, best bead work.
Mrs. Bringham, best silk embroidered lambequin; silk emb. apron.
Mrs. H. P. Barbour, best rich rack lace and ribbon.
Mrs. C. H. Whittington, best rich rack lace; silk emb. shawl.
Mrs. Geo. Sherman, best emb. toilet set.
Mrs. Hand, best crochet comfort wool.
Miss Alice Palmiter, best paper flowers.
Mrs. H. P. Barbour, best display of silk, millinery, general fancy goods and white accounts.
Discretionary premiums were awarded on the Jersey, pen wiper, pin cushion and dressed dolls, to Mrs. M. N. Clark.
Special premiums entries were made in this class but there were premiums offered too; for which diplomas will be forwarded by mail.
Mrs. Jason Nicholls, Mrs. M. Hilsinger, Mrs. E. E. Madge, Mrs. A. Heaton awarding committee.

Class 2—Home Made Fabrics.

Mrs. Bromsmith, best woolen blanket.
Mrs. Geo. Fish, best woolen mittens.
Lida King, best woolen socks.
Mrs. Geo. Fish, best knit gloves.
Mrs. J. H. Lindsay, best hosiery.
Awarding committee, same as in class 1.

Division 2—Plants, Flowers, Pictures, Paintings, Drawings, Etc.

Superintendents—Mrs. W. Dunham and W. F. Palmiter.

Class 1—Plants.

Mrs. F. J. W. Stone, best and largest display of house plants.
Mrs. Jos. A. Kent, best display of cut flowers.
Mrs. J. M. Atkinson, best specimen of fuchsia; best plant in flower; best specimen rose geranium.
Mrs. Jas. Palmiter, best specimen single rose geranium.
Mrs. W. F. Porter, best ornamental leaf geranium.
Mrs. Jenny VanDuzn, best specimen fuchsia.
Mrs. Jenny VanDuzn, best variegated foliage begonia.
Mrs. H. P. Barbour, best specimen flowering begonia.
Mrs. D. C. Loveday, best specimen oleander.
Mrs. Wm. Dunham, best fuchsia.
Mrs. Wm. Dunham, best specimen wax begonia.
Mrs. C. L. Lanway, best specimen geranium.
Mrs. Wm. Dunham, best floral design.
Mrs. W. F. Porter, best display of foliage plants.
Mrs. Jenny VanDuzn, 2d best display of foliage plants.
Mrs. W. F. Porter, best English ivy.
Jas. E. Palmiter, Ella Smith, Alexander Bush, awarding committee.

Class 2—Works of Art.

Mrs. H. L. Page, best landscape painting in oil.
Harris Wilensky, best marine scene in oil.
Mrs. H. L. Page, best animals painting in oil.
Mrs. F. J. W. Stone, best fruit painting in oil.
Mrs. Jas. Shepard, best portrait painting in oil.
Mrs. John Mason, best portrait painting in oil.
Mrs. John Mason, best water color painting.
Mrs. H. L. Page, 2d best picture in oil.
Mrs. E. Hunt, second.
Mrs. L. Page, best painted flowers in water colors.
Master Harry Stevens, best pencil drawing.
Mrs. S. E. Cash, second.
Mrs. H. P. Barbour, best painting on porcelain vase.
Miss Emma Green, second.
Ella Carr, best panel piece in oil.
Mr. Whittington, best crayon sketch.
S. D. Brayhesr, best display of photographs.
Mrs. H. Hanna, second.
Mrs. H. P. Barbour, best specimen job printing.
Geo. W. Alger, best specimen ornamental penmanship.

Discretionary Premiums Received.

Mrs. H. P. Barbour, best painted sofa cushion in oil, on paper.
Mrs. Jas. Flower, best oil painting on velvet, 17 yrs 10 mos old.
Mrs. E. G. Bryant, best oil painting of flowers on brass.
Mrs. H. P. Barbour, best oil painted wooden spoon.
F. W. Wilson, Mrs. Ella Smith, Mrs. C. J. Strang, awarding committee.

Division 3—Miscellaneous.

Superintendent—H. L. Page.

F. W. Crosby & Co., best display of dry goods.
C. W. Dunham & Co., best display of furniture.
F. W. King, best display of crockery.
E. Bonsinger & Co., best display of boots and shoes.
D. F. Loveday, best display of hardware.
W. L. Cash, best display of tinware.
Mrs. M. S. Clark, best display of ladies' and children's fine shoes.
G. G. Lewis, best display of gent's furnishing goods.
J. J. Gunn, best display of a leafless branch.
J. Chamberlin, best display of ladies' cloaks.
A. Heaton, best display of ready made boots and ladies' and gent's shoes.
C. W. Dunham & Co., best display of wall paper.
W. F. Page, best display of lumberman's hard ware.
D. F. Loveday, best display of shelf hardware.
D. H. Gotfried, best display of hand wrought tools, tool chest, and cane.
William Howe Co., best display of barrel hoops.
M. T. Kibby best display of invalid spring bed.
Manistee Mining Co., best display of flowing material.
H. P. Barbour, best steam washing machine.
F. D. Kettle best wove matting.
Orlando Blair, A. R. Nicholas, A. D. Bradbeer, awarding committee.

A Million Dollars.

Millions of dollars would be saved annually by the invalids of every community, if, instead of calling a physician for every ailment, they were wise enough to put their trust in Golden Seal Bitters, a certain cure for all diseases arising from an impure state of the blood and liver, such as scrofula in its various forms, rheumatism, dyspepsia, or indigestion, female irregularities, diseases of the kidneys and bladder, exposure and imprudence of life. No person can take these bitters according to instructions, and remain long unwell, provided the brain are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair. Golden Seal Bitters members on its list of cures more than any other medicine known, and have already acquired a great celebrity, being used generally as a family medicine. Sold by Perry Wood and Dr. O. W Crouter.

An End to Bone Scrouging.

Edward Shepherd, of Harrisburg, Ill., says: "Having received so much benefit from Electric Bitters, I feel it my duty to let suffering humanity know it. Have had a running sore on my leg for eight years; my doctors told me I would have the bone scraped or leg amputated. I used, instead, three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and my leg is now sound and well." Electric Bitters is sold at 50 cts. a bottle, and Bucklen's Arnica Salve at 25c. per box by Dr. O. W. Crouter. 3 buys a perfect remedy for every stomach, diarrhoea, worms, convulsions, feverishness, and loss of sleep. Try it. Dr. Fahr's Mother Cake Oil. It effectually relieves external and internal pain. Sold by Perry Wood and Dr. O. W. Crouter.

Only 25 Cents

The experience of years furnishes the most convincing evidence that thousands of lives are annually saved by the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It speedily cures all affections of the throat, bronchial tubes, and lungs.

SCROFULA

Humors,

Erysipelas,

Canker, and

Catarrh,

Can be cured by purifying the blood with

I do not believe that Ayer's Sarsaparilla has its equal as a remedy for scrofulous Humors. It is pleasant to take, gives strength and vigor to the body, and produces a more permanent, healthy result than any medicine I ever used.—Hiram Nichols, Ste. Louise, Ill.

I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla in my family, for Scrofula and Humors, and know it is a faithful, if not thoroughly eradicator of this terrible disease.—W. F. Fowler, M. D., Greenville, Tenn.

For forty years I have suffered with Erysipelas. I have tried all sorts of remedies for my complaint, but found no relief until I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla. After taking the medicine of this medicine I am completely cured.—Mary C. Amesbury, Rockport, Me.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Price $1; six bottles, $5.

Jos. Beauvais

BOAT-BUILDER.

The Best Modeled, Easiest Rowing, and Best Sailing Boats in Northern Michigan, for the Least Money. Give me a Trial. I am bound to Please.

Boat Livery

In connection with shop.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

A Special Sale

IN CHILDREN'S SUITS,

AND

A GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES

On all other goods.

I will sell you a real all-wool suit of underwear for $1.50; a good, heavy winter pants for $1.50; a good, all-wool, kersey suit for $9.00, the best goods for the money that can be made.

Don't fail to give me a call for anything in my line, for

I am Giving Great Bargains This Fall.

Just received my stock of Winter Caps. You will be surprised when you see what I can sell you a Fur Cap for.

GEO. W. MILLER.

THE EARTHQUAKE DID IT!

We mean we got a big bargain on all our cloak purchases. Our New York agent has taken advantage of the

GREAT EXCITEMENT!

And has written us that never before had we secured such an elegant line of

LADIES' MISSES' AND CHILDREN'S

CLOAKS

At Such LOW PRICES.

LADIES, DO NOT PURCHASE A CLOAK or Wrap of any kind until you have seen our goods and learned our prices, as they will soon be here.

A big line of everything in Dry Goods coming, wait for them.

Yours, very truly,

F. W. CRAINE & CO.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., Oct. 29, 1886.

PRODUCE MARKET.

Hay, loose, per ton $12; baled, $18
Corn, per bu. 65c.
Oats, 30 to 35c.
Feed, per ton, $22.
Pork, $13 ⅌ bbl, 7c ⅌ lb.
Salt, ⅌ bbl, $1.25.
Syrup, "Gold Medal," 50c ⅌ gal.
Canned Tomatoes, 12c.
Canned Peaches, 15 to 20c.
Coffee, Java and Mocca, 35c.
Farmer's Produce at Upright & Emrey's.

UPRIGHT EMREY & CO.

☞A splendid line of Boots and Shoes, for ladies and gents, boys, girls and misses. More on the road.

☞A magnificent lot of Dress Goods arrived recently, and we offer them at the very lowest figures.

☞Hosiery in all styles a specialty, for both ladies and gents—best line in town.

☞New Groceries receive 1 almost every day.

☞Both Dinner and Tea Sets in Colored Ware at cost.

☞If you want some Choice Butter go to Upright & Emrey's.

☞All persons having business with me can find me in the new cent house at Boyne City. Office hours: From five in the morning to ten in the evening. Persons wishing to return on the same day will be waited upon first with pleasure. Sarah B. Traverse, County Clerk.

☞"Jefferies" is the cheapest market in town. Everything clear down. Come back old friends and try it.

☞All who are indebted to me are requested to call and settle before the 3rd of November. JOHN MCCANE.

☞"Fresh Oysters, direct from Baltimore, at Jefferies' Market.

Local Notes and News.

The Boyne Citizen had the lowest bid on county printing.

Be sure and register next Saturday. Then vote the union ticket.

Grand Traverse prohibitionists nominated a full county ticket.

Hampton's prospects for re-election in the Emmet district are good.

Vote the fusion ticket straight from top to bottom. Every man is worthy.

One of the first duties of the citizen is to make sure that he is registered.

N. Ainslie and family returned home last Friday, from their western trip.

Joseph Stevens left a turnip at this office this week that weighed 21 pounds.

F. M. Cowles, of Lansing, called on some of his Charlevoix friends last Saturday.

W. A. Atchinson had his right eye paralyzed by a flying brass ring on "Tee" last Friday.

Rev. J. T. Hodgs will preach at Ironton, M. E. church, next Sabbath morning and evening.

The Sturgeon Falls Gazette is the name of a neat five-column quarto just started at that place.

Democrats and greenbackers should see that each voter who favors the union ticket is registered.

Jas. D. Wood goes on the road in the interest of Chas. Wright & Co., wholesale druggists, Detroit.

Boyne City is now the county seat. Some queer stories of trading are told in connection with the final vote.

Michael Nowlan left us four potatoes this week that would average nearly four pounds each, and he has more like them.

In spite of the croakers, the Yaple rally last Saturday was the most successful political mass meeting ever held in Charlevoix.

"An attempt to organize workingmen, is an attempt to rob them, by fraud, from their real interests."—From M. Catchelon.

Democrats and greenbackers, this week closes the campaign, substantially. Keep at it work. The victory can be made overwhelming.

Make no mistake. See that your votes do not help to defeat political men who shown the same shrewdness as he has as a financier. Public rumor says that he was once town treasurer of Leland township, that he was short in his funds when he came to settle up with his successor and that the matter was only adjusted after considerable trouble.

In the state legislature he displayed the great talent he has for eating, resting and sleeping to such an extent that he was unceremoniously shelved at the end of his first term. His record there was an absolute blank.

In the fall of 1878 Barton's name was presented in the county convention as a candidate for county treasurer but his name in the office of town treasurer were discussed and he was defeated, and Charles W. Williams was nominated. Barton bolted the nomination and ran as an independent candidate but was defeated.

We understand the Sentinel is preparing an extra to be circulated the last hour before election. If it be true, look out for campaign slanders that will not bear the light of investigation.

Last Tuesday morning J. A. Bacon's house and store on Pine lake, valued at about $4,000, was entirely destroyed by fire, the family barely escaping with their lives. Insured for $1,800.

Howard Flannigan will give a ball at the Walloon Lake Bay Springs, next Monday night. The Clara Belle will run an excursion from Charlevoix, to accommodate those who desire to attend.

Wherever Geo. L. Yaple goes the workingmen become convinced that they have been deceived for years in regard to the working of the tariff, and that they have to pay tribute to their employers, the manufacturers.

Lon Brooks has left at the Traverse Herald office the specimens from the recent "find" at Norwood. One large specimen is evidently "drift" and is rich in iron ore. The other was taken 45 feet below the surface.

The editor of the Sentinel seems never so happy as when writing of some one that "he lies," he is a "ball headed fanatic," a "slanderer," a "falsifier," and so on. Keep it up neighbor; you will get your reward some day.

Geo. L. Yaple's speech last Saturday has set the workingmen to thinking and talking about the tariff in a different light than ever before. Avowed protectionists now admit the reason and justice in the arguments presented.

Boyne City heard from Charlevoix before the hour for calling the Democratic meeting to order Wednesday night, and five republicans, six democrats, and seven greenbackers turned out to hear "the eloquent orator from Detroit."

J. G. Reed has shown at this office six selected potatoes, perfect in form, which weighed 15¼ pounds, and two imperfect weighing 9¼ pounds. Three potatoes taken from one hill weighed seven pounds. This is but a sample of the large stock he has for sale.

The ladies of the Baptist church will give a novel entertainment in the form of a corn festival at their hall over Craine's store next Wednesday eve. Nov. 3d. Corn will be served in a great variety of ways and charges made upon the European plan. See small bills of fare.

The Grand Rapids Telegram-Herald has just set up a perfecting press which will print 12,000 perfect papers an hour,—the first of the kind in Michigan outside of Detroit. The Herald proposes to keep in the front rank of live Michigan newspapers.

Long before the close of Donovan's speech at the opera house Tuesday night, the senior editor of the Sentinel retired in disgust, and was heard to curse the state committee for sending up here a speaker who had no more good sense than Donovan had.

"Calico" Johnson, of Suttons Bay, was in town Saturday night. He is one of the jollest, whole souled singers that ever lived, and should he receive the nomination for senator on the half-and-half ticket which is very likely, he will go in a booming.—Elk Rapids Progress.

Horatio B. Lewis, of Elk Rapids, has been placed on the fusion ticket by the democratic and greenback parties, and the state committee for member of the state legislature. He is a young man of good ability, a sound democrat, and is an honor to the ticket on which his name appears. He ought to be elected.—Traverse Eagle.

"Capt. Berdan strongest supporters are leading democrats in Charlevoix and other parts of the county."—Sentinel. Just so. And we happen to know that some of those "leading democrats" were in the democratic county convention as delegates, and helped to nominate Dan. Jerrue for sheriff by voting for him for the nomination.

In another column is a notice of J. S. Smithson's lecture on "Candles," to be given at Ironton, next Monday evening. We have heard this lecture and can recommend it to all who wish a rare treat in the class of entertainment. The listener does not find any part of it tiresome, but is led along by a plain practical talk, so illustrated as to make every point clear, into higher channels of thought and study, seldom brought to the mind of the ordinary observer.

One of the amendments to the constitution proposes to allow the legislature to control the board of auditors of Wayne county. The other permits the legislature once in four years to fix the salaries of state officers. It is generally admitted that the salaries are too low, but we are not prepared to say that a partisan legislature is the proper authority to fix them. While the parties are nearly equally divided, there is no special danger of reckless extravagance, but with an over-whelming majority either way, the temptation would be very great. Just now there can be no harm in trying it, and we shall vote "yes."

A. D. Crnickshank addressed a large and enthusiastic audience at Schaffer's hall, Ironton, last Friday night. After the address he was greeted by life-long republicans with the assurance that they had never before been so favorably impressed with the theory of a reduction of the tariff, and that they should vote for Yaple and the fusion ticket.

Prohibitionists, and republicans who have prohibition will gain nothing on that point by voting for Barton. He was in the house of representatives in 1881, and voted No on the proposition to submit to the people an amendment to the constitution prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor as beverages, when one more vote cast for the submission would have given the matter to the people.

Frank D. Phillips held the attention of his audience over two hours at the opera house Wednesday evening. He discussed the evils of the national banking system, of high tariff, of monopoly, intemperance, and republican misrule in its various features, and scored Byron M. Cutcheon most beautifully. He fastened to the fusion ticket many voters broken from the republicans by Yaple's masterly address last Saturday, and proved to the satisfaction of all that T. G. Mason is a man to look after the workingmen's interest in congress from this district.

The Sentinel whines because the JOURNAL "has a temperance column while it shows alcohol." The editor of the JOURNAL is not one of those narrow minded souls who would prevent the proper education of the people on the temperance question by the refusal of space to those who devote a large portion of their time and attention to the subject. So long as we conduct the JOURNAL, its columns will be open to the dissemination of temperance principles, but no principle is violated by supporting a candidate in opposition to one who admits himself to be a drinker as the republican candidate for sheriff does.

A careful study of the tariff issue resolves it to this: Shall the consumer (the workingman and the farmer) be compelled to pay tribute to the manufacturer, or shall he be allowed to buy where he can buy the cheapest. Capital will never pay a cent more for labor than it is compelled to, and is only prevented by labor organizations from reducing wages to a point far below that now paid. A vote for Geo. L. Yaple next Tuesday means that the workingman shall be allowed free markets, and the manufacturer shall be satisfied with smaller profits. Shall the benefits be given to the many who are now poor, or to the few who are rich?

Resolutions of Condolence.

The following resolutions were adopted at a recent meeting of the Knights of the Maccabees:

WHEREAS, It has pleased the Supreme Commander of the universe, in His all-wise providence, to remove from our midst our beloved brother, Sir Knight William M. Covert, therefore

Resolved, That we, his Brother Sir Knights of the Maccabees of the World, do sincerely and thoroughly appreciate his loss to the Tent, of which he was a worthy member and officer, as well as to the community in which he resided.

Resolved, That we tender our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved parents and friends of our deceased brother and leg leave to condole with them in their hour of trial and sorrow.

Resolved, That a copy of the foregoing resolutions be spread on the records of this Tent, and that copies of the same be sent to the parents of our deceased brother, and to the Charlevoix JOURNAL and Charlevoix Sentinel for publication.

J. MILO EAVOS,
WM. M. PARSONS,
D. SHEAWOON,
Committee.

Ironton.

J. S. Smithson Esq will preach at the First Congregational church Ironton on Sunday afternoon at three o'clock. We think the above notice will be sufficient to fill the church, as all who have heard Mr. Smithson will be glad of another opportunity.

In the evening the Rev. John G. Hodge will preach at half past seven o'clock, to which a cordial invitation is extended to all. Mr. Hodge comes with a view to filling the pulpit of the Congregational church permanently.

J. S. Smithson Esq. has very kindly accepted the united invitation of the members of the Workingmens Aid Society to lecture for the benefit of that society, on Monday evening Nov. 1st at the Congregational church Ironton, at half past seven o'clock. Subject—"Candles."

☞It is useless to attempt the cure of any disorder, if the blood is allowed to remain impure. Neuralgia and rheumatism are traceable to a disordered condition of the blood, and in numerous cases have been cured by taking a few bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

DRY GOODS!

We offer for the next few days Great Bargains in all

—SUMMER DRESS GOODS—

Shawls, White Goods, Parasols, Silk and Thread Gloves, Hosiery, Straw Hats, etc.

NEW LINE OF BROADHEAD DRESS GOODS,

Just received and marked at very low prices.

Jersey and Boucle Jackets, Very Cheap.

Staple & Fancy Groceries,

In great variety and at correct prices. The finest line of

Teas, Coffees, Spices.

PLANTATION JAVA COFFEE, - BEST IN THE WORLD.

Farmers will consult their own interests in buying our

FACTORY-FILLED DAIRY SALT.

J. L. HURD & CO.

NOW IS THE TIME!

ROSENTHAL & SON

ARE PREPARED FOR COOL WEATHER

With a Tremendous Stock of Dry Goods, Clothing, and Gentlemen's Furnishing Goods.

Having just returned from the market, we feel confident in stating that we can show the largest stock of Dry Goods, Fancies, Cloaks, Wraps, Carpets, Matting, Rugs, Clothing, Overcoats, Gent.'s Furnishing Goods, Hats and Caps, ever shown here at such low figures as we have marked them.

Our styles are so varied that it would be folly to attempt to describe them. As for prices, we shall maintain and increase our well earned reputation of giving the best value for the money. ☞Please give us a call.

ROSENTHAL & SON.

Shipments.

Oct. 15—Schr. Dan Maher, 147 cords wood, Geo. Burnham & Sons, to Milwaukee.
16—schr. Cascade, 3,300 ties, 2,500 posts, W. H. Powner, to Chicago.
18—Schr. Stampede, 280,000 feet hardwood lumber, Pine Lake Lumber Co., to Sheboygan.
18—Schr. Charlotte Rash, 5,400 ties, F. J. Meech, to Chicago.
18—Schr. Sea Gem, 25 cords stave bolts, 2,000 bushels potatoes, W. S. Stripp, to Milwaukee.
18—Schr. Lottie Mason, 26 cords wood, I. H. Morehouse, 4,500 broom handles, W. J. Ketzingh, to Milwaukee.
20—Schr. Evening Star, 200,000 feet hardwood lumber, F. J. Meech, to Chicago.
21—Schr. B. Coats, 220,000 feet hardwood lumber, Green & Porter, to Chicago.
21—Prop. John H. Pauly, 140 cords wood, R. E. Perkins, to Milwaukee.
22—Schr. Alvin Brunson, 140 cords wood Wm. McNally, to Milwaukee.
22—Schr. John Baker, 5,000 hemlock ties, Upright & Emrey, to Chicago.
22—Schr. Jessie Phillips, 180,000 feet hardwood lumber, John Strobel, to Chicago.
22—Schr. Z. M. Smith, 2,000 bushels of potatoes R. Tulloch, to Chicago.
22—Schr. John L. Green, 80,000 feet hardwood lumber, Pine Lake Lumber Co., to Sheboygan.
23—Schr. Bert Barnes, 40 cords wood, H. Oberg, to Milwaukee.
24—Schr. John C. Barnes, 120 cords wood, John Wright, to Milwaukee.
25—Schr. J. R. Newland, 140 cords wood, W. H. Downer, to Chicago.
25—Schr. Pine Island City, 45,000 feet hardwood lumber, Pine Lake Lumber Co., 37 bushels of potatoes, H. C. Kane, to Milwaukee.
25—Schr. A. J. Mowrey, 120,000 feet hemlock and pine lumber, 80,000 shingles, Pine Lake Lumber Co., to Chicago.
26—Schr. Dan Mahoe, 158 cords wood, Geo. Burnham & Sons, to Milwaukee.
26—Schr. Charlotte Rash, 5,200 hemlock ties F. J. Meech, to Chicago.
26—Schr. Lottie Mason, 45 cords wood, I. H. Morehouse, to Milwaukee.
26—Schr. Arctic, 700,000 hoops, Wilson Hoop Co., to Milwaukee.
26—Schr. Lapeline, 130 cords wood, P. Thorp, to Milwaukee.

Dose It Pay?

Three-fourths of our people are troubled with dyspepsia or liver complaint in some form or other, which by nature of the disease has a depressing influence on the mind or body, preventing them from thinking or acting clearly in any matter of importance. Indigestion, coming up of food after eating, dyspepsia, sick headache, acidity of the stomach or any derangement of the stomach or liver (upon which the whole vital fluid of our system depends) are speedily and effectually overcome by the use of Green's August Flower. The most stubborn cases have yielded to its influence, as thousands of letters received will testify. The immense sale of this medicine is another guarantee of its merits, for we sell more of a half bottle add last year, than all the balance of the world put together. Regular size 75 cents. These facts will prove its worth. It is sold by all druggists and general dealers in all parts of the world. 2cow

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The Best Salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns, and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Dr. O. W. Crouter.

FARMERS' HOTEL,

WM. SANGER, MANAGER,

CHARLEVOIX - - - MICHIGAN

Excellent accommodations for transients and for farmers, with their families who come to attend dinner. Good stable for feeding horses. The management of this house will spare no pains to make it a pleasant home for its guests.

WM. SANGER.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,

RICHARD COOKS, Proprietor,

Charlevoix - - Michigan.

Finest location in town, giving good view of lakes and resorts. Express office and telegraph quarters for Petoskey and Elk Rapids stages. Good sample room for commercial travelers adjoining hotel.

John Nicholls,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Manufacturer of and dealer in

HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER!

ALSO

Dressed lumber, Oar Blades,

WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER

New Grocery!

Cor. Antrim and Grant Streets.

A. J. MUDGE

Would respectfully announce to the people of Charlevoix, and vicinity, especially to the residents of the southwestern part of town, and all coming in from the north, that he has opened a stock of Groceries in his building on the corner of Antrim and Grant streets, and requests all to give him a trial.

BUTTER AND EGGS WANTED

J. A. HEATH,

Furniture and Jobbing Shop

ANTRIM STREET,

CHAR

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

DEMOCRATIC NOMINATIONS.

State Ticket.

For Governor—
GEORGE L. YAPLE, of St. Joseph.
For Lieutenant-Governor—
SOLOMON S. CURRY, of Marquette.
For Secretary of State—
PHILLIP B. WACHTEL, of Emmet.
For State Treasurer—
WILLIAM G. BEARD, of Bay.
For Auditor-General—
JUDSON S. FAIRAIR, of Macomb.
For Attorney General—
JOHN C. DONNELY, of Wayne.
For Commissioner of State Land Office—
ALONZO T. FRIZBIE, of Livingston.
For Superintendent of Public Instruction—
DAVID PARSONS, of Wayne.
For Member of State Board of Education—
JEROME W. TURNER, of Shiawassee.

Congressional Ticket.

For Representative in Congress, Ninth District
LYMAN G. MASON, of Muskegon.

Legislative Ticket.

For Representative in the State Legislature, Charlevoix District,
HORATIO B. LEWIS, of Six Rapids.

For State Senator—Twenty-Ninth District,
WALTER S. JOHNSON, of Sutton's Bay.

County Ticket.

For Sheriff—
DANIEL P. JERRUE, of South Arm.
For County Clerk—
WILLIAM F. PALMITER, of South Arm.
For County Treasurer—
ORLANDO BLAIR, of South Arm.
For Register of Deeds—
ELISHA H. SHEPARD, of Evangeline.
For Prosecuting Attorney—
ARTHUR E. MARTIN, of Evangeline.
For Circuit Court Commissioner—
ARTHUR E. MARTIN, of Evangeline.
For County Surveyor—
SIDNEY HAYDEN, of Eveline.
For Coroners—
ORVILLE D. HILTON, of Norwood.
ROBERT FINDLEY, of Boyne Valley.

YAPLE AT CHARLEVOIX.

Last Saturday afternoon occurred the grandest fusion rally ever held in Charlevoix county. A. D. Crunck shank, chairman of the county committee, supported by a dozen or more of his most active lieutenants, and the large committee of reception published last week, put in several days of good work in advertising and preparing for the meeting, and the result was a rink full of interested, attentive listeners. Before the hour of meeting the Charlevoix boys' band, and the East Jordan band were the centre of attraction while discussing some of their sweetest music infront of the rink.

At 1:30 p. m. Mr. Crunckshank called the assemblage to order, introducing the speaker in a few well chosen words.

Mr. Yaple first answered the question why he voted against plugging Gen. Grant on the retired list, paying a glowing tribute to that gallant general's memory, and satisfying everyone of his own honesty of purpose in voting as he did. In voting against placing General Grant on the retired list he expressed the opinions of many men of all parties. But it was at least an honest vote in the interest of the taxpayers. General Grant rendered great services to the country and was greatly rewarded. He voluntarily quit the head of the army to become a partisan candidate for the presidency, and he was elected to that high office two terms, and received for his services one hundred thousand dollars more than any man had ever received before in that office. He was supposed to be a millionaire at the very time Yaple voted against putting him back in the army.

In like manner Mr. Yaple touched the restoration of Fitz John Porter to his rank in the army, a bill supported like by republicans and democrats. At the head of the republican supporters of that bill was Gen. Grant himself, the one man above all others most capable of judging of that measure.

In his discussions of the tariff, Mr. Yaple crushed the strongest bulwark of the corporation monopolists at every point. In beautiful rounded periods and unanswerable arguments, in a cultivated musical voice, he unmasked the protection absurdity, which enables the crafty few to earn their bread by the sweat of their neighbor's brow. He showed how the poor are made poorer, and the rich richer. He showed how the poor workingman pays tribute through tariff tax to the rich manufacturer in almost every article he is compelled to buy for the support of his family. He followed in detail the evils of high tariff in all the leading commodities which become necessities of life in every American home, and was listened to with marked attention and frequent applause for over an hour and a half. The seed there sown has already commenced to bear fruit.

One of the pleasing features of Mr. Yaple's speech was that he did not abuse the republican party, or any other party. He did not find it necessary to stoop to the republican style of slandering his opponent. His heart and soul are in the cause he so eloquently advocates. He swears he will never rest until the laboring man can buy his merchandise in the same kind of a market in which he is compelled to sell his labor. If Geo. L. Yaple is defeated in this election, his defeat will be a lasting disgrace to the laboring men of Michigan.

As a result of this meeting, we believe Charlevoix will make a good report of herself next Tuesday night.

THE STATE SENATORSHIP.

The Leslanaw Enterprise, a paper which hoists the republican ticket on its editorial page, has the following among other things to say of Mr. Barton, the republican nominee for state senator on the republican ticket. The references to his official dishonesty can be verified by dozens of men in Charlevoix county, and the conclusions drawn from the Enterprise are that he cannot possibly fix his own township or county because of the knowledge of his dishonesty and general incapacity to conduct public business. Referring to the almost overwhelming republican majority in the district, the Enterprise says: "Now, as it is proclaimed that anybody can carry this district," Barton's shoulders will doubtless soon be graced with the senatorial mantle, but if it ever falls there it will not be because he can carry his own township and county or because this paper will support him, but it will be simply because he is a creature of the republican machine, and the nominee of a party that has an insurmountable majority in this district." Walter S. John son's friends everywhere should keep this in mind, and though they may not entirely overcome the republican majority in the district, they must see that every vote possible is secured against Barton. The Enterprise says further:

Among his neighbors and friends Barton is well known as a big speculator in the strictest sense of the word. To say that he is a consumer would hardly describe him.—he might more aptly be termed an absorber. His successful efforts to pay off his debts at about 10 cents on the dollar mark him as a financier worthy of a place in the treasury department. Then again his adroitness as a political wire puller and trickster is finely exemplified in the fact that he retains the Leland postoffice notwithstanding the change of governmental administration. How did he do it? Why, he (or his supporters) took his republican party, of which he professed to be a staunch member, was defeated in 1884, he immediately took his place with the rest of the boys on the "outside" and let his party go.

Hardly. He had his accomodating little son-in-law appointed while he remained in the office and enjoyed its emoluments just the same. This ought to convince him to every lover of right and justice a fitter man for a state senator.

But the shrewdest thing Barton ever accomplised in the way of clear financiering was when he got in debt to a friend who lives not a thousand miles from Charlevoix to the extent of several thousand dollars and succeeded in inducing his friend to throw off all but as many hundred, and then trying to borrow the money of his friend's partner in business to pay the debt!! Here was a magnitudinosity of cheek that momentarily paralyzed his friend, but still it displayed such a high sense of pecuniary honor in Barton that his friends doubtless take the stump and advocate his election this fall.

In Barton's brief political career he has shown the same shrewdness as he has as a financier. Public rumor says that he was once town treasurer of Leland township, but he was short in his funds when he came to settle up with his successor and the matter was only adjusted after considerable trouble.

In the state legislature he displayed the great talent he has for jobbing, voting and sleeping to such an extent that he was unanimously shelved at the end of his first term. His record there was an absolute blank.

In the fall of 1878 Barton's name was presented in the county convention as a candidate for county register but his antics in the office of town treasurer were discussed and he was defeated, and Charles W. Williams was nominated. Barton bolted the nomination and ran as an independent candidate but was defeated. At the county convention this fall he got the nomination for county treasurer, but as he was sure of defeat in his own county he grasped at the nomination for senator as a drowning man catches at a straw thinking doubtless that the assured republican majority in the district would carry him through. But we opine that if the opposition put forward a trustworthy man Barton will have no walkover. He may catch the republican vote where he is unknown but in his own township and county where he is best known he will be defeated.

Farmers, who labor early and late, Ask them what is the best investment. What's his remedy? Have down his stand At home; no matter about his hand, But hard or soft so it be not prone To close over money not his own. Is he honest and thriving pray? Is he honest and capable? He is our man."

Premiums Awarded.

The following is a list of the premiums awarded at the second annual fair of the Charlevoix county agricultural society, at the East Jordan, Sept. 20 21, 1882:

Continued from last week.

Division I—Domestic Manufactures and Fancy Work.

Superintendents Wm. Palmiter and Mrs. P. J. Barbour.

Class 1.

Miss Gracie Bennett, best table spread arabine and ribbon work.
Mrs. Jas. Bowman, best chair tidy, drawn work.
Mrs. E. A. Gibson, best infants embroidered robe.
Mrs. P. J. Barbour, best wax cross.
Mrs. C. G. Lewis, best slipper mat.
Mrs. Alice Gleason, best silk embroidered table scarf.
Mrs. Palmiter, best display of winter millinery.
Mrs. Jas. Bowman, best slumbering robe.
Mrs. John Nicholls, best knit shawl.
Mrs. Jas. Bowman, best knit baby shoes.
Mrs. C. W. Cook, best silk crazy quilt.
Mrs. C. W. Cook, best silk and satin patchwork.
Mrs. S. A. Proctor, best silk crazy outer scarf.
Mrs. Jas. Bowman, best silk and velvet patchwork, chenille tidy, pin cushion sunflower.
Mrs. E. G. Bryant, best quilt patchwork and cover.
Mrs. N. L. Cash, best underskirt emb. on flannel.
Mrs. Geningan, best patchwork cotton quilt.
Mrs. A. Heaton, best specimen crochet quilt.
Mrs. A. Kowalski, best silk and satin patchwork and largest display of fancy work by one exhibitor.
Mrs. E. A. Clark, best display general fancy goods.
Oxhibitor unknown best crazy silk patchwork sofa pillow covey.
Mrs. E. A. Gibson, best etched apron.
Mrs. H. P. Barbour, specimen etching.
Mrs. Jas. Bowman, best tidy etched on felt.
Mrs. A. Kowalski, best etched table mats.
Mrs. H. P. Barbour, best applique table scarf and lambrequin.
Mrs. A. Heaton, best chenille toilet cushion.
Mrs. Jas. Bowman, best specimen tatting in salin; crimson luster, black silk embroidery on silk lace; lumberquin arisene and ribbon; muslaine lambrequin; black and white.
Mrs. C. A. Rouhhart, best silk patchwork quilt and specimen of quilting, every variety.
Mrs. E. G. Bryant, best crazy work tidy.
Mary Mobbs, best gonta work.
Mrs. Palmiter, best crochet mats, in wool.
Mrs. Fairchild, best patchwork by girl 9 yrs old.
Mrs. E. G. Bryant, best muslaine lambrequin, 2 yrs work.
Willing Workers, best crib built.
Mrs. F. P. Roper, best bed wove.
Mrs. Gracie Bennett, silk embroidered lambrequin, silk stitch.
Mrs. A. Bush, best rick rack lace and ribbon work.
Mrs. T. H. Holmes, best rick rack lace; silk emb. banner.
Mrs. Geo. Bennett, best ecru lace.
Mrs. Shear, best crocheted curd basket.
Mrs. E. A. Clark, best knit mittens.
Mrs. M. N. Clark, best display of silk velvet, general fancy goods.
Mrs. Palmiter, best specimen in class 1.

Division 2—Plants, Flowers, Pictures, Paintings, Drawings, Etc.

Superintendents—C. W. Dunham and W. F. Palmiter.

Class 1—Plants.

Mrs. P. J. W. Sisson, best and largest display of plants.
Mrs. Jas. A. Keat, best display of cut flowers.
Mrs. J. M. Alexander, best specimen of flowers.
Mrs. Jas. Bowman, best specimen rose geranium.
Mrs. Jas. Palmiter, best specimen single rose geranium.
Mrs. W. F. Porter, best ornamental leaf geranium.
Mrs. Jas. Bowman, best specimen fuschia.
Mrs. A. Heaton, best specimen begonia.
Mrs. E. G. Bryant, best specimen flowering begonia.
Mrs. Geo. Loveday, best specimen oleander.
Mrs. Alvina Nicholls, best specimen wax begonia.
Mrs. Jas. Palmiter, best specimen lantanas.
Miss Nina Bush, best floral design.
Mrs. E. A. Clark, best display of geraniums.
Mrs. Sherman, 2d best display of foliage plants.
Mrs. Jas. Palmiter, Ella Smith, Alexander Bush, awarding committee.

Class 2—Works of Art.

Mrs. H. L. Page, best landscape painting in oil.
Miss Emma Gaines, second.
Mrs. Geo. Bennett, best water color in oil.
Mrs. Evelyn Carr, best national painting in oil.
Mrs. E. A. Clark, best crayon drawing.
Mrs. A. Kowalski, best pastel drawing.
Mrs John Mason, best portrait painting in oil.
Mrs. H. L. Page, best water color drawing.
Mrs. H. L. Page, best painted pinaple in oil.
Mrs. E. J. Madge, best painted flowers in water colors.
Master Harry Sisson, best pencil drawing.
Mrs. E. J. Clark, second.
Mrs. H. L. Barber, best painting on porcelain vase.
Miss Emma Gaines, second.
Ella Carr, best painting on silk.
Mrs. Whittington, best crayon sketch.
Mrs. E. A. Clark, best photo. of photographs.
Mrs. Geo. Bennett, second.
Mrs. H. P. Barbour, best specimen job printing.
Mrs. Jas. Bush, best specimen ornamental penmanship.

Directionary Premiums Received.

Mrs. H. P. Barbour, best painted flowers in oil, on paper.
Mrs. A. J. Pierce, best oil painting on velvet, by girl 9 yrs old.
Mrs. E. Bennett, best oil painting of flowers on velvet.
Mrs. H. P. Barbour, best oil painted wooden spoon.
O. F. Wisner, Mrs. Ella Smith, Mrs. C. J. Strang, awarding committee.

Division 8—Miscellaneous.

Superintendent—H. L. Page.

F. W. Craine & Co., best display of dry goods.
C. W. Dunham & Co., best display of furniture.
H. B. King, best display of crockery.
Lewis Bininger & Co., best display of boots and shoes.
D. C. Loveday, best display of hardware.
H. B. King, best display of jewelry.
Mrs. M. N. Clark, best display of ladies' and gents' furnishing goods.
G. G. Lewis, best display of gent's furnishing goods.
J. C. Given, best display of a business house.
J. C. Chamberlin, best display of ladies' cloaks.
A. Hepkin, best display of hand-made boots, and ladies' and gent's shoes.
C. W. Dunham & Co., best display of wall paper.
H. L. Page, best display of undertaker's hardware.
D. C. Loveday, best display of shelf hardware.
T. H. Goddard, best display of hand wrought iron work, and best horse shoe.
Mrs. Jas. Palmiter, best display of barrel hoops.
M. T. Kibbe best display of cigars, best lot, fifteen cents, filling Oz., best display of fishing pull products.
H. B. King, best steam washing machine.
H. D. Kettle, best snow shovel.
Oxhibitor unknown, A. D. Brudberr, awarding committee.

A Million Dollars.

Millions of dollars would be saved annually by the invalids of every community, if, instead of calling a physician, they would learn that it was enough to put their trust in Golden Medical Discovery, a certain cure for all diseases arising from an impure state of the blood and liver, such as scrofula in various forms, rheumatism, dyspepsia, or indigestion, female irregularities, diseases of the kidneys and bladder, exposure and imprudence of life. Sarsaparillas and compounds of iodide of potassium, and other so-called blood purifiers according to instructions, are filled with mercury and potash, and leave the system worse than before, and many times more miserable than the disease they profess to cure. Golden Medical Discovery, known and recommended by the best medical men, and have been long acquired a great celebrity, being used generally for this affection. Sold by Perry Wood and Dr. G. W. Crouter.

An End to Home Savaging.

Edward Shepherd, of Harrisburg, Ill., says: "Having received so much benefit from Electric Bitters, I feel it my duty to let suffering humanity know it. Have had a running sore on my leg for eight years; my doctors told me I would have the bone scraped or leg amputated. I used, instead, three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and my leg is now sound and well." Electric Bitters is sold at 50 cts. a bottle, and Bucklen's Arnica Salve at 25c. per box by Dr. G. W. Crouter. 5

Only 25 Cents

buys a perfect remedy for sour stomach, diarrhoea, worms, convulsions, feverishness, and loss of sleep. Try it. Dr. Bull's Baby Syrup. It effectually relieves external and internal pains. Sold by Perry Wood and Dr. G. W. Crouter.

The experience of years furnishes the most convincing evidence that thousands of lives are annually saved by the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It speedily cures all affections of the throat, bronchial tubes, and lungs.

SCROFULA

Humors,

Erysipelas,

Canker, and

Catarrh,

Can be cured by purifying the blood with

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Price $1; six bottles, $5.

Jos. Beauvais

BOAT-BUILDER.

The Best Modeled, Easiest Rowing, and Best Sailing Boats on Northern Michigan, for the Least Money. Give me a Trial. I am bound to Please.

Boat Livery

In connection with shop.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

A Special Sale

IN CHILDREN'S SUITS

AND

A GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES

On all other goods.

I will sell you a real all-wool suit of underwear for $1.50; a good, heavy winter pants for $1.50; good, all-wool, heavy suit for $9.00, the best goods for the money that can be made.

Don't fail to give me a call for anything in my line, for

I am Giving Great Bargains This Fall.

Just received my stock of Winter Caps. You will be surprised when you see what I can sell you a Fur Cap for.

GEO. W. MILLER.

THE EARTHQUAKE DID IT

We mean we got a big bargain on all our cloak purchases. Our New York agent has taken advantage of the

GREAT EXCITEMENT!

And has written us that never before had we secured such an elegant line of

LADIES' MISSES' AND CHILDREN'S

CLOAKS

At Such LOW PRICES.

LADIES, DO NOT PURCHASE A CLOAK or Wrap of any kind until you have seen our goods and learned our prices, as they will soon be here.

A big line of everything in Dry Goods coming, wait for them.

Yours, very truly,

F. W. CRAINE & CO.

SUPPLEMENT.

Union State Ticket.

For Governor,
GEORGE L. YAPLE, of St. Joseph.
Lieutenant Governor,
SOLOMON S. CURRY, of Marquette.
Secretary of State,
PHILIP B. WACHTEL, of Emmett.
State Treasurer,
WILLIAM G. BEARD, of Bay.
Auditor General,
JUDSON S. FAIRAIR, of Macomb.
Attorney General,
JOHN C. DONNELLY, of Wayne.
Commissioner of the Land Office,
ALONZO T. FRIZBIE, of Livingston.
Superintendent of Public Instruction,
DAVID PARSONS, of Wayne.
Member of State Board of Education,
JEROME W. TURNER, of Shiawassee.

Union Congressional Ticket,

For Representative in Congress—5th District,
LYMAN G. MASON, of Muskegon.

The Platforms on Which the Union Party Stands.

The People Against Monopolies and Class Legislation, Democratic Platform.

Resolved, That the Democracy of Michigan in convention assembled sincerely deplore the recent death of those patriotic statesmen and eminent leaders of Democratic party, and for the payment of wages in cash; the recognition of incorporations of trades unions, orders and such other associations as may be organized by the working masses to improve their condition and protect their rights; and controversies between labor and capital, as between employes and employers, shall be adjusted by arbitration, and in all actions involving the questions of contributory negligence the verdict of proof shall be on the party charging it; a law which shall give the mechanic, artisan, or party furnishing material, a fair, sufficient and equitable first lien, for labor and material, together with a reasonable parcel of land, upon which the building or structure is placed, and we deprecate all laws and treaty stipulations tending to admit or encourage Chinese emigration or the introduction of contract or legalized pauper labor from other nations.

We demand that the bonds be paid in lawful money of the country according to contract and as rapidly as our resources will permit. The practice or policy of hoarding millions in the treasury, and at the same time paying interest on public debt is not sound business, and we heartily approve and endorse the Morrison resolution, so called, as lately passed in the house of representatives.

We favor a liberal system of pensions to soldiers and sailors, their widows and orphans, based upon merit as well as misfortune.

Railroad and other land grants forfeited by reason of non-fulfillment of contract, should be immediately reclaimed by the government, and hereafter no public domain reserved exclusively for grants to railroad corporations and American citizens and those intending declared their intention of becoming such.

It being the duty of Congress to regulate commerce between the several states, as well as with foreign nations, we favor the principle that telegraph and transportation should be brought under the control of government, and Congress should provide by law for the uniform and cheap transportation of the products of industry from one section of the country to the other.

We denounce as destructive to prosperity and dangerous to liberty the action of the eight-hour League in initiating and sustaining gigantic land, railroad and other corporations and individuals, invested with and exercising sovereign rights, to the government, yet not responsible to it for the exercise of their authority.

We are in favor of such just and liberal system of legislation in the way of several states having control thereof as shall secure to every child of American parentage a common school education.

We are opposed to all class legislation, and hold that every American, without distinction of sex, nationality, race or condition, should be equally protected in the enjoyment of all their rights of person and property.

Said experience has demonstrated that this government could not exist half free and half slave, and believing it to be our earnest conviction that the people of these states cannot long enjoy the blessings of liberty, peace, happiness and prosperity—one-half sober, one-half drunk—and we favor such wise and judicious legislation or change in the organic law of this nation as shall remove from the land the accursed curse of withering, blighting curse of intemperance. We demand that our halls of legislation shall be purged of high public trust shall honor only such as are honorable, honest, temperate and pure.

Resolved, That we demand an unconditional repeal of the infamous Blaker conspiracy law.

Resolved, That we denounce as cowardly and as invasion of the rights of our people the bringing into our state armed men at the instance of corporations and private parties, and invoking the passage of a law by the next legislature prohibiting such invasions without the consent of the Governor first obtained.

Fault is found by many because Lyman G. Mason, Union nominee for Congress, is not devoting his whole time to politics, and traveling into every nook and corner of the Ninth District in the interest of himself. Mr. Mason finds himself awkwardly situated. Public interests or his individual political interests must be sacrificed—one or the other. He has chosen, and wisely, too, in the opinion of many, to let his own matters go while he attends to the work of securing a railroad to secure the railroad into Muskegon that was built the present year, he has for a long time been at work on another and so nearly is the project completed, the company organized and the money raised, insuring a third road into Muskegon, that Mr. Mason continues his good work for the interests of his city and neglects himself. The verdict of the people of the Ninth, Mr. Mason will be a safe man to represent the Ninth District in Congress.

THE OFFICIAL RECORD.

General Cutcheon a Weak Candidate in His Own County.

The impression has been created that General Cutcheon, Republican nominee for Congress, is a very strong man in Manistee, his own county. The orator and newspaper has dwelt on this at considerable length. Now, what are the facts? Mr Cutcheon was nominated in 1882, when the Ninth was re-districted. The total vote on Governor in Manistee county that year was 2,796 and on Coroner 2,752. The few scattering votes are omitted. Mr. Bronson was the Union candidate for Congress, and despite the fact that he was the target for the most unscrupulous warfare ever waged upon a candidate, carried the county of Manistee by 129 majority—only 46 less than Begole received for Governor. Jerome, the Republican nominee, received a total vote of 1,132 and Cutcheon a total vote of 1,358. The Republican nominee for Coroner received a total vote of 1,126. Hence, in his own home, where he has lived so many years, in 1882 Mr. Cutcheon only ran ahead of the head of his ticket 226. These figures certainly give no proof of such great popularity. The table below is copied from the official returns of 1882 and 1884, and certified to by the County Clerk under the seal of the county.

Manistee County.	1882. Governor.	1882. Congress.	1882. Coroner.	1884. Governor.	1884. Congress.	1884. Coroner.
Arcadia	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Brown	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Cleveland	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Filer	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Gaston	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Kalkaska	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Manistee	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Maple Grove	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Norwood	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Pleasant Plains	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Stronach	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Sherman	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Springdale	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Stronach	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Sugar Loaf	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Sutton's Bay	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Taft	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Wellington	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Totals	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]

STATE OF MICHIGAN COUNTY OF MANISTEE, ss. I, the undersigned, clerk of the county of Manistee and the county thereof, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and complete copy of the vote on Representative in Congress for the years 1882 and 1884 as shown in the canvass of the county of Manistee, as the same appears of record in my office. In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the seal of the County of Manistee, at the City of Manistee, this 21st day of October, A. D. 1884. J. P. HANFER, Clerk.

The vote of 1884 shows an increase on Governor of 598 votes. Three tickets were in the field, Prohibitionist, receiving 150 votes. On Congressman, Cutcheon received 1,141, a falling 180, and Blake, (Prohibitionist), 1,126. A comparison on Governor shows that while Alger received 1,327, Mr. Cutcheon received 1,441, or only 114 more than the head of his ticket, and less than two of only one-half of his strength the first time he ran. In his vote for Congress, Gallup received 1,800, or 342 majority over Cutcheon. Begole received 1,877, or 550 more than Alger. That Alger held his own in a year denoted by the vote on Secretary of State, which was 1,336 for Conant for Secretary, against 1,327 for Alger, for Governor. This we look for Mr. Cutcheon losing his own county by 129 majority in 1882, and again losing it in 1884 by 359, six of the towns and wards actually giving him smaller votes the second time than the first time. The table above tells the story. Mr. Cutcheon is a weak candidate in his own ward, city and county.

A paper at Manistee gives the following figures of his decreasing strength at home. Says the Brooklyn Times:

"Four years ago he went out of this county with only 123 against him, while at the last election he had a majority of 359 against him. Add to this the three towns of Filer, Manistee and Stronach, all adjacent to the city, and the foundation of which we are well acquainted with things that occur here in the city, and Mr. Cutcheon had a majority of over 600 against him. This shows the condition of things right here at home, where people knew all about the conduct of Mr. Cutcheon, and the facts connected with his history.

"Now, go a little further from home and take the county. Four years ago this county only gave 129 against Mr. Cutcheon. Two years ago the majority was 483, with about 30 Republican tickets in the county, and the Democratic nominee of Congressman was entirely scratched, thus making a real majority of over 500 against him then. Mr. Cutcheon and his friends may explain these facts as they like. The truth is, that there was at the last election more anti-Cutcheon in his own ward by 112, in his own city by about 400, and more in the county by about 375 than there were three years ago."

A FALSEHOOD EXPLODED.

Mason a Staunch Friend of the Laboring Man.

It has been asserted that Lyman G. Mason imported Canadian labor during the Cook and Lee strike two or three years ago. No men were more conspicuous as leaders during that strike than Messrs. Cook, DeLong and Fellows. Especially was this true of Col. DeLong, who was the workingmen's candidate for Prosecuting Attorney of Muskegon County, and elected by a very large majority. No better authority on the question can be had. Col. DeLong was at Hart, Oceana county, some three weeks since and addressed a large audience, including many Knights of Labor. In his remarks on the Muskegon strike Mr. DeLong covered fully the situation, and the Oceana Tribune contained in its report the following, which is a complete refutation of the slander:

"A good speech and running over with sound argument," was the universal verdict at Nelson DeLong's Greenback speech Saturday night. That he is a forcible speaker and thoroughly understands and appreciates his subject, no one will deny. His apt illustrations of the fallacies of protection as endorsed by the Republican party, could not fail to carry conviction to the understanding of any man willing to receive the truth. We are sorry that the limited space allowed us will not admit of a complete digest of the speech. It was one well worthy of a careful perusal in print, where the understanding is unhampered by surrounding circumstances. His manly tribute to Lyman G. Mason, our nominee for Congress, was a compliment, which, while more than deserved by Mr. Mason, carried with it double force, coming as it did from a man between whom and Mr. Mason there has never existed the most friendly feeling. "We are not the best of friends," said Mr. DeLong to a reporter after the address, "but I want to say this for Lyman G. Mason. No man ever came to him empty handed and went away without material assistance. During the great Muskegon strike a few years ago, when lumber was overworked men up there wanted to reduce the working hours to ten, Mr. Mason, as a man who hired as many men as any other manufacturer in Muskegon, by the boys from beginning to end and from first to last opposed it committed the idea advocated by the employers down there of importing cheap Canadian labor. Every year since that memorable time the workingmen of Muskegon have wanted to run Lyman G. Mason for Mayor. Last spring they succeeded in getting his consent, and he carried the city by storm. That is how Mr. Mason stands at home where he is best known, and no higher compliment can be paid the Ninth Congressional nominee when I say that was the man who was chosen by Muskegon who doesn't concede that county to Mr. Mason that fall by 1,300 majority."

Two years ago Mr. Cutcheon spoke to a large meeting of workingmen at the Salvation Army barracks in this city. He said: "The protection on lumber is $2 per thousand. Who gets the benefit of this? It is the workingmen." After the meeting was over some of the workingmen met on a corner and were discussing the matter. One said, "I was a foreman in a mill, scratched his head and said: 'I can't get this man Cutcheon's arithmetic right. I pay out in my mill now over 200,000 a day. If the protection is $2 per m., that would make $400. We employ 150 men at average wages $1.50 per day, that makes an entire day's pay roll $225. Now who gets the balance, $175?'—Muskegon News-Reporter

Just as some of the radical papers are asking what Mr. L. G. Mason has done for Muskegon and the workingmen, along comes the news, and in Muskegon's own papers, too, of the ultimate settlement of details that ensures for that city a third railroad—the Toledo, Saginaw and Muskegon—a region teeming with people, and filled up that city, and largely increase the value of every foot of land and every cottage owned by her people, whether the laborer, merchant or business man. The News-Reporter of last Sunday contained the full correspondence between Mr. Mason, whose untiring efforts has secured the road, and the company who is to construct it. Muskegon seems destined to become a great city, and no man is aiding more in laying about the grand results than L. G. Mason. Big Rapids Current please copy.—Big Rapids Herald.

Says the Brooklyn Times:

"Four years ago he went out of this county with only 123 against him, while at the last election he had a majority of 359 against him. Add to this the three towns of Filer, Manistee and Stronach, all adjacent to the city, and the foundation of which we are well acquainted with things that occur here in the city, and Mr. Cutcheon had a majority of over 600 against him. This shows the condition of things right here at home, where people knew all about the conduct of Mr. cutcheon, and the facts connected with his history.

"Now, go a little further from home and take the county. Four years ago this county only gave 129 against Mr. Cutcheon. Two years ago the majority was 483, with about 30 Republican tickets in the county, and the Democratic nominee of Congressman was entirely scratched, thus making a real majority of over 500 against him then. Mr. Cutcheon and his friends may explain these facts as they like. The truth is, that there was at the last election more anti-Cutcheon in his own ward by 112, in his own city by about 400, and more in the county by about 375 than there were three years ago."

LYMAN G. MASON.

The Union nominee for Congress is Lyman G. Mason, of Muskegon, a gentleman widely known throughout the Ninth District and the state for his sterling business qualities and general enterprise. Mr. Mason was born in the year 1829 at Belchertown, Mass., where he entered the public schools. At the early age of fifteen years he commenced the duties of clerk in a mercantile store, where he remained until 1850, when he started for the far west, landing in California. Six years of steamboating, lumbering, mining and mercantile pursuits, he returned to New England, and in 1857 removed to Michigan, settling in Muskegon. In company with Chicago parties, a mill was erected, (afterward destroyed by fire,) on the present site of Hodgett's mill, Mr. Mason superintending the work and being interested therein. He operated the mill till '61 or '62, when he sold out to Geo. R. Roberts & Co. The firm of L. G. Mason & Co then built the property now known as Bugelow & Co's mill, and afterward disposing of the same, erected in 1864 the mill now operated by the Hayes Lumber Company, operating the same till 1878. Since that time Mr. Mason has been in the real estate and general business.

For thirty years Mr. Mason has been one of the foremost and public spirited men of Muskegon. Its enterprise or improvement but it received his hearty support and co-operation. When Muskegon was organized as a village, Mr. Mason was elected its first President. In 1872 he was elected Alderman of the Third Ward, and subsequently a member of the Board of Education, holding the position for a number of years. When the first railroad was projected, no man took a more active part than

LYMAN G. MASON.

He was made a director and vice-president (subsequently president) (he was also prominently and actively connected with the second road (now the Chicago and West Michigan) down the south to Muskegon,) and later was made president of the Muskegon and Big Rapids railroad. At the present time Mr. Mason is, and has been for a long time, actively encouraging the building of the road from Muskegon to Muskegon Railroad, so soon to be completed to Muskegon. In fact, Mr. Mason has been identified with almost every public enterprise developed at Muskegon and in the Muskegon Valley, not excepting the opening of the harbor and building the first piers at the mouth of the river, the superintending of the work being done by Mr. Mason. For several years, Mr. Mason so had the contract for driving the logs in the Muskegon River. In all the various enterprises, covering a period of a quarter of a century, Mr. Mason has employed and been intimately acquainted with thousands of men. Many of whom to-day reside and labor in the District, and are his warm friends.

Thus has Mr. Mason, for some thirty years, led and is still leading an active business life, promoting the general growth and prosperity of Muskegon Valley, and benefitting by employment hundreds and hundreds of laboring men. At no time has he sought personal preferment in office, and his nomination for Congress by the unanimous consent of the Democrats, Greenbackers and Knights of Labor. He has ever taken an interest in the political questions of the times and locally in the municipal affairs of Muskegon. Only last spring he was nominated by the Democratic and Working Men's parties, unanimously, by joint convention by acclamation, and received a plurality of 808 votes—a clean majority of 72 over the Republican and Prohibition candidates combined, every one of the eight precincts giving him majorities ranging from 8 to 181 respectively. No better evidence of Mr. Mason's standing at home can be had, especially when it is taken into consideration that Muskegon two years ago gave a Republican majority of between three and four hundred.

Mr. Mason is strictly a self-made man. Commencing life a poor boy, going out into the world without a dollar, laboring with his hands and head, he has indeed had to "paddle his own canoe," and has done it successfully, and his success is the result of his own ability. Mr. Mason is a man whom the common people of the Ninth District have nominated for Congress. His election means opposition to everything tending to class legislation and monopolies, and a hearty support of every measure that will give the country commercial freedom, and lighten the burdens of the wage-working classes.

THE POLITICAL OUTLOOK

The political skies never looked so bright, the Union forces never so united and certain of victory, as today in Michigan. That Yaple will be the next Governor seems absolutely certain. His canvass of the state has won thousands of new friends. The young men are flocking to his support with wonderful rapidity. From every section of the state the same cheering reports are received. A political revolution is evidently at hand, and the wage working classes are the revolutionists. They demand for the farmer, mechanic, artisan and laborer, laws that will do justice to the many, and a repeal of all legislation that fosters monopoly and private corporations. Convict labor and child labor must go. The tariff laws must be reformed, so that no more money than sufficient to run the government will be raised. The necessities of life must be made free and the luxuries taxed. There must be one money for all—the bond holder and laborer served alike. These are some of the reforms pledged by the Union party, and it is in their support that the common people are congealin. Every man who desires such an improved state of affairs will vote the Union ticket from Governor to Coroner. He will aid in making the victory so overwhelming in Michigan that the revolution will be complete.

From the Free Democrat.

The K. of L. Endorse Yaple.

A Democrat scribe collided, or nearly so, with Mr. A. Hall, last morning, and happening to remember that that gentleman had been a delegate to the Knights of Labor convention at Grand Rapids, he bethought him that he would tackle him for a little information.

"I heard yesterday that the Knights of Labor had endorsed Yaple's nomination for Governor, is that so?"

"The Knights of Labor are not a political organization, but they recognize their friends. At the convention at Grand Rapids it was practically decided to support three men whom they had picked out as especially the friends of the working men."

"And who are those three candidates?"

"They are Yaple, Democratic nominee for Governor, Curry, Democratic nominee for Lieutenant Governor, and Aplin, Republican nominee for Auditor General."

"And these nominations were endorsed at your convention?"

"Yes; not by resolution but by vote and expression of opinion."

"No other candidates were spoken of?"

"Other names were mentioned but were not seriously considered as the especial friend of the working classes."

"Your convention was united and harmonious, was it?"

"Yes, except"

"Good eve."

From the Lapeer Democrat.

It Means Monopoly.

The Republican State Convention has challenged the people of Michigan to a square fight with the "Millionaire Syndicate." The head of its State Committee is President of the Michigan Car Works, President of a National Bank, President of the Malleable Iron and Steel Company, President of a Land Grant Railroad Company, President of numerous transportation companies, and a large shareholder in about every corporation that has struck a gushing rich in Michigan, and is, par excellence, the head of the Michigan Ring.

In other words, the hydra-headed syndicate, which controls all the monopolies in Michigan, whose tentacles are upon every industry in the state, is "Chairman of the Republican State Central Committee."

The PRESS NOTICES.

How Lyman G. Mason's Nomination was Received.

Lyman G. Mason is a leading manufacturer of Muskegon and is one of the best known citizens in western Michigan. He has the confidence of the laboring men, and will make a strong run.—Lansing Journal.

Lyman G. Mason will make Congressman Cutcheon weep over his defeat after the tickets are counted next November. The opposition are harmoniously united, and Mr. Cutcheon will distribute no more speeches through the mails.—Herbar Springs Independent.

That Lyman G. Mason was given the nomination against H. M. Cutcheon, at Big Rapids by acclamation, speaks volumes for his ability and popularity. He is too well known throughout Michigan as a successful business man to need any further mention. He is a man who is never contented with half the entire labor vote and unless the signs of the times fail, will redeem the ninth district.—Ludington Gazette.

Mr. Mason is a native of Massachusetts and about 58 years of age. He has resided in Muskegon since 1856. Was the first president of the village of Muskegon, one seven as alderman and member of the school board and was elected Mayor last spring. He ran for State senator in 1880 and came very near being elected. Mr. Mason is an enterprising and pushing business man and, if elected, would make a good representative.—North Muskegon Herald.

Lyman G. Mason is a man of medium height, with fine intellectual features, open and free in his opinions, and one who impresses his hearers with the sincerity of his convictions. He is 58 years of age, and his hair, mustache and goatee, are tinged with gray. Last spring he was elected mayor of Muskegon by a majority vote of over 400, which was largely due to his popularity with the workingmen, as he was jointly nominated by the labor and democrat conventions.—Manistee Democrat.

The joint convention was one that did honor to the participants, and the grand work there performed will tell with crushing effect on the Republicans next November, when it shall appear that General Cutcheon has been defeated in this heretofore overwhelming Republican District. The Opposition have put their best foot forward, first after the tickets are counted next November. The opposition are harmoniously united, and Mr. Cutcheon will distribute no more speeches through the mails.—Herbar Springs Independent.

Mr. Mason is a native of Massachusetts and about 58 years of age. He has resided in Muskegon since 1856. Was the first president of the village of Muskegon, one seven as aldermen and member of the school board and was elected Mayor last spring. He ran for State senator in 1880 and came very near being elected. Mr. Mason is an enterprising and pushing business man and, if elected, would make a good representative.—North Muskegon Herald.

Hon. Lyman G. Mason, of Muskegon, the Union candidate for Congress in this district, is one of the most widely-known lumbermen and business men of Michigan. He has been for thirty years a citizen of Muskegon and a leading Democrat. He is now 56 years old, but has all the vigor and clear-head of a man twenty years his junior. He has not been an office-seeker, and has only consented to hold few offices. He was the fifth member of the Constitutional convention of 1872. In 1880 he made a spirited run for state senator in the strong Republican district of Muskegon and Ottawa. He is the present mayor of Muskegon, and was elected last spring by a majority of nearly 400, against a popular opponent. He will make a strong run for Congress in this district.—Manistee Votes.

The nomination of Hon. L. G. Mason, for Congress, in the Ninth district means a red-hot fight and the defeat of Cutcheon, the detainer of Gen. Grant. Mason is a hustler and he always gets there. He is a man of great energy and keen intellect. His business talents are of the highest order. Few men in the State are greater organizers and leaders than Mr. Mason. If elected to Congress, as we believe he amply will be, he will prove the most efficient representative the Ninth district has ever had at Washington. The great coast interests of that large and important section of the State are well understood by Mr. Mason and he would be untiring in pressing them upon Congress. As the representative of the Ninth district Mr. Mason would be in accord with the party in power and possesses influence that would be valuable to the district. We hope all classes of voters in the Ninth district will come and all, recognize in Mr. Mason a gentleman more worthy of their votes than Gen. Cutcheon.—Grand Rapids Leader.

Lyman G. Mason, of Muskegon, the fusion candidate for congress, in the Ninth District, has been for many years closely identified with the material interests of the Muskegon valley. While the more immediate theatre of his activities has been the city where he makes his home, he has not confined himself to so narrow a sphere but reached out into broader fields of labor and enterprise. Possessed of fine business ability and unbounded energy, Mr. Mason has ever been foremost in pushing forward all public improvements in Muskegon, and to him as much as any one man is that city indebted for its growth and prosperity. The Republican press has with its usual uncharitableness charged Mr. Mason with being a national banker, and grasping capitalist with the hope of alienating from him the labor vote of the district, but all such attacks will prove unavailing to stem the tide now rapidly setting in and which will bear our candidate to the halls of congress. The inability of Mr. Mason to deliver as fine a speech as his opponent has been urged as a reason for his non support; but the hard working voters of the ninth district do not care so much for spread eagle oratory as for sound business ability and sympathy for them and their interests. What is needed at Washington is less talk and more honest work; and on this line Mr. Mason can be surprised. When the ten hour law took effect he conformed his business to its provisions and in all of his relations with the men in his employ he has ever been fair and honorable. Want of space forbids a more extended notice at this time, but we ask our readers to examine for themselves and act accordingly.—Newaygo Tribune.

The new congressman from the Ninth district will be Lyman G. Mason, of Muskegon, said Hon. F. W. Cook, of the sawdust town, to the Grand Rapids Leader reporter and he said it in such a positive and sincere manner that there was no doubting his veracity. "Cutcheon will be laid out this year as sure as fate. Two years ago he had 2,750 plurality, and he carried every county in the district, except his own, Manistee county, where he is best known, and which went against him by 300, and Newaygo, Fulton and Muskegon counties, which usually a Democratic county, but Cutcheon carried it against Fallas by 324. Last spring Mr. Mason was elected mayor of Muskegon by some 400 majority, and he will go out of his own county with a round 1,200 majority over Cutcheon, which will more than half erase away Cutcheon's last year's plurality. Mason will also improve the Democratic figures in Manistee, Newaygo, Oceana and Oceana counties, and will not fall behind his party strength in any of the other counties. Cutcheon is a good man to let alone, and he will be left alone.

PENSION VETOES.

A One-Sided Statement Presented by Republican Orators and Newspapers.

The President Signed 400 Good and Vetoed 100 Bad Private Bills.

Samples of the Bills to Rob the Treasury Vetoed by President Cleveland.

The Republican politician and newspaper dwell severely upon President Cleveland for his veto of pension bills, and no one in Michigan has sought more to arouse the passions and prejudices of old soldiers than Byron M. Cutcheon. He reports a one-sided story, and endeavors to make his hearers believe that the Democratic party has no love for those who perilled life and health for their country. He does not say that while President Cleveland vetoed about one hundred private bills, he signed about four hundred private bills, which he believed were just claims, and vetoed 100 private bills which he believed were unjust claims, and the most of which were given either dragging along for years, or had been rejected by the pension bureau because of their injustness. In other words, Mr. Cleveland approved the good and disproved the bad. But Mr. Cutcheon does not say so. Not he. He dare not, neither does any other Republican speaker dare read a solitary message written by Cleveland giving his reason for vetoing the bills—for watching the United States Treasury from the sharks who would rob it in the disguise of pension bills. Not he; but he will tell with all the force possible of the hatred of the President to the soldier.

Mr. Cutcheon spoke his piece at Morley, Mecosta county, on the 19th of this month. And, (THE HERALD has it from responsible parties,) one of his audience yelled out "he ought to be hung" whereupon Republicans applauded heartily! Reader, Republican orators tell us at every election of the great hatred lurking in the South; of the heat and hatred engendered at political meetings. What do you think of the sense? Republican candidate for Congress so appealing to passions and prejudices that a part of his audience openly assert the President of the United States ought to be shot and hung, and others show their approval by applauding! And this in Michigan! Not in a Southern state, mind you; not among the once disloyal and the lost heads; but here in tranquil Republican Michigan. Such speeches, such actions, ought to have the effect of binding still tighter the cords of the compact union, and cause every voter sworn in will not split his Union ticket under any circumstances.

Too, in Michigan.

Hon. B. M. Cutcheon has been posing in what radical papers call "hot shot" throughout this district. He has made several speeches in Mecosta. Some gentleman at any time during the past fourteen years know his speech. It is practically the same—slander of the Democratic party, and waving the bloody shirt generally. He has tacked on a few small additions, one of them being President Cleveland's pension bill vetoes. Of course, Mr. Cutcheon does not attempt in the least to state the facts as they should be stated. He does not state, as a fair, candid and honest speaker would, that Mr. Cleveland signed over four hundred private pension bills, which he believed were just claims, and vetoed 100 private pension bills which he believed were unjust claims, and the most of which were given either dragging along for years, or had been rejected by the pension bureau because of their injustness. In other words, Mr. Cleveland approved the good and disproved the bad. But Mr. Cutcheon does not say so. Not he. He dare not, neither does any other Republican speaker dare read a solitary message written by Cleveland giving his reason for vetoing the bills—for watching the United States Treasury from the sharks who would rob it in the disguise of pension bills. Not he; but he will tell with all the force possible of the hatred of the President to the soldier!

Mr. Cutcheon spoke his piece at Morley, Mecosta county, on the 19th of this month. And, (THE HERALD has it from responsible parties,) one of his audience yelled out "he ought to be hung" whereupon Republicans applauded heartily! Reader, Republican orators tell us at every election of the great hatred lurking in the South; of the heat and hatred engendered at political meetings. What do you think of the sense? Republican candidate for Congress so appealing to passions and prejudices that a part of his audience openly assert the President of the United States ought to be shot and hung, and others show their approval by applauding! And this in Michigan! Not in a Southern state, mind you; not among the once disloyal and the lost heads; but here in tranquil Republican Michigan. Such speeches, such actions, ought to have the effect of binding still tighter the cords of the compact union, and cause every voter sworn in will not split his Union ticket under any circumstances.

From Grand Rapids Herald.

Pension Vetoes.

Pensions should be granted on just and liberal laws, honestly administered, and that are applicable to all alike.

It is not necessary to go over the pension vetoes of President Cleveland. They have been generally read and approved by the people. In looking back over the Congressional Record to-day this was the first of these vetoes we came across:

To the House of Representatives:

I herewith return without approval House bill number 3338, entitled "An act granting a pension to Jennette Thomas."

The husband of the claimant enlisted August 7, 1862; received a gunshot wound in left knee in September, 1863, and was mustered out with his company June 10, 1865. He was pensioned for his wound in 1878, at the rate of $1 per month, dating from the time of his discharge, which amount was increased to $8 per month from June 4, 1881. The pensioned soldier died December 17, 1882, and in 1883 his widow, the claimant, filed an application for pension alleging that her husband's death resulted from his wound. Her claim was rejected in 1885, upon the ground that death was not caused by the wound.

The physician who was present at the time of the death certifies that the case resulted from apoplexy in twelve hours after the deceased was attacked.

It also appears from the statement of this physician that the deceased was injured for years after his discharge from the Army as a laborer and teamster, and that at the time of his death he was a laborer, earning enough to support the two dependents following the attack, the usual manifestations of apoplexy, and adds that he regards the case as one of "hemiplegia, the outgrowth primarily of nerve injury, aggravated by the life's calling, and eventuating in apoplexy." The evidence is filed in the Pension Bureau showing that after his discharge he was more or less troubled with his knee, although one witness testifies that he railroaded with him for fifteen years after his injury. I find no medical testimony referred to which, with any distinctness, charges death to the wound; and it would be hardly credible if such evidence was found.

I am sure that in no case, except in an application for pension, would an attempt be made in the pension bureau to attribute death from apoplexy to a wound in the knee received nineteen years before the apoplectic attack.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

Executive Mansion, July 31, 1886.

This is, undoubtedly, a fair sample of the vetoes. In fact it is a much stronger case for the applicant than many others. But who will say the President was wrong in that veto upon facts as he understood them? The last paragraph is one of the most characteristic summings up that has been delivered against pensions as heartless and not becoming the President, but perhaps it is justifiable, strong and sententious presentation of the case that must be accepted as conclusive.

In this matter of pension vetoes we have shown beyond all dispute that Senator Cullom was deceived when he said "no other President ever vetoed a pension bill." We present the record of such vetoes by the war Vice President himself, and we can present many others. Moreover, that same President went much further than to veto private pension bills, he vetoed the great measure for equalizing bounties that would have benefited all worthy soldiers, and thousands of them entitled to the credit of the greatest pension act, that was submitted to a Democratic House by Gen. Rice of Ohio, a one-legged Democratic soldier and Congressman, and which was passed by a party vote in consequence. We believe, also, the Senate at that time was Democratic, but as to that we are not certain; the House, we are sure, was Democratic and originated the bill.

For re-enactment of that great measure we defeated in the Republican Senate a few years since by the vote of pensioners against it of this same Senator Cullom, who now hypocritically and falsely denounces President Cleveland for his vetoes of special pension bills.

From the Grand Rapids Leader.

A Change Needed in the Ninth District.

The Ninth is less important a district to be represented in Congress by a man who is identified with corporations and monopolies while in Congress than any other. Men noted and other representatives of such legislation are upon all questions. The interests of the Ninth District are many and varied, and they are entitled to a voice in Congress from a man who will represent them. Hon. Lyman G. Mason, the Fusion nominee for Congress, unlike Mr. Cutcheon, has been foremost in developing the industries of the district, encouraging the building of railroads and giving employment to labor. He knows that the interests of the district are dear to the hearts of the people because he associates with them. He is generous and liberal hearted, always contributing to the means to his less fortunate fellow man. Every man who toils, farmer, laborer or mechanic, living in the Ninth District, should cast a vote for Lyman G. Mason for Congress. He will be found faithful to the trust confided to his care and his efforts will be directed in the interests of the people, and not in the interests of monopolies and corporations.

From the Grand Rapids Leader.

Cutcheon Must "Go."

The tide has set in against Byron M. Cutcheon, the Republican Congressman from the Ninth District, and his defeat is an absolute certainty. From all parts of the district come reports of dissatisfaction with Mr. Cutcheon's work in Congress and the demand for a change. Some of the best informed men of the district say that Mr. Cutcheon himself feels that he is conducting a hopeless fight this year, as he finds his old support gradually slipping away from him. As a matter of fact, Mr. Cutcheon's popularity has been waning for several years. A man should certainly be stronger at his home, where he is known, than he is away from his home, among strangers, yet Mr. Cutcheon's own county, the county of Manistee, where he has lived for years,

WASHINGTON NEWS.

President Cleveland's Proclamation Re-imposing Discriminating Tariffs.

Secretary Whitney Rest on Effecting a Reorganization of the Navy Department.

William L. Morrison, of Ohio, has been appointed chief justice of Wyoming.

Secretary Manning recovered his entire health, returned to Washington Tuesday afternoon.

The president has reopened the Indiana office, made vacant by the death of Hendricks, at the same time issued a proclamation restoring the tariff on coal.

Professor Dodge has completed his report of the geological survey a description of a lump cliff in Yellowstone park composed wholly of glass.

The name of Brigadier General J. B. Potter, commanding the department of the Dakota, was stricken from the retired list, he having reached the age of 64 years.

Preparing for the enforcement of the oleomargarine law, the revenue commissioner is pursuing regard to taxing cocoa oil. The question will be at once referred to the business officers of the government.

The export of breadstuffs for September, 1886, footed up $14,000,000, against $6,000,000 for the same period in 1885; and for the nine months ended June 30, 1886, $193,000,000, as against $192,100,000 during 1885.

President Cleveland has appointed Colonel O. H. Wilcox a lieutenant colonel in the ordnance department with rank from Lieutenant Colonel Commandant Lee, who has been made chief of ordnance. C. Duane was made chief of engineers, with the rank of brigadier general.

President Cleveland has appointed Benjamin Folsom, of New York, consul at Sheffield, Canada, and Frank D. Lockwood, of Buffalo, a commissioner to examine a portion of the Northern Pacific road recently constructed in Washington territory.

Secretary Manning has come back to work with the determination of staying until the end of Mr. Cleveland's term. He says his work in the department is not yet finished, and intends to finish it before he is ambitious to carry out. He spent two days in the department Tuesday, but is not yet ready to assume actual charge, and Mr. Fairchild continues to act as secretary for several days yet.

Advices received by the state department in regard to the action of the Canadian authorities in hauling down the American flag on the Canadian fishery schooners that had hoisted the flag to celebrate the anniversary of his birthday, Secretary Bayard says that the Canadian customs officers confess that a mistake was made in arresting the men, but have been released no further redress is asked.

Secretary Whitney has come back from his vacation with a vigorous idea of reorganizing the navy department. "He has a plan in his mind," said a prominent department secretary, and some of his predecessors have tried to get it, but have served in the problem. Although Mr. Whitney has been in the office only a few days, he knows what he wants quite decided what to do, and is not easily turned from his purpose." The secretary has such work ahead of him that it has generally been thought that he would need help, but he told the naval committeemen that he would do the work himself if he could and had failed, and he wanted to be brought into a fair trial of strength. He has strong and very radical act abolishing the office of assistant secretary of the navy, and has already changed his mind about it and had a bill on the subject prepared. The new secretary is also trying to reduce the number from eight to five, and succeeding.

The secretary is now thinking of abolishing bureaus, because it looked very much like nepotism, and he hinted broadly that if the senate would abolish all of it the administration could not.

THE CURRAN PENSION VETOES.

The president has issued a proclamation revoking the suspension of the duties on coal, imposed on the products of and articles imported from the United States of Canada, Prince Edward Island, and the Canadian Provinces of Quebec and Ontario, and Nova Scotia, and WAGES IN EUROPE.

How American Trade Is Handicapped and Depressed by the "Protective Policy."

A Manufacturer's Views—His Observations in the Workshops of Europe.

[From the Dirigo (Me.) Rural.]

Under the caption of "Protection vs. Free Trade," in your paper, I notice that the writer of it labors under the delusion that wages are much higher in this country than in England, or on the continent of Europe. Mr. Blaine is evidently under the same impression. In fact, the protectionists have talked and written that way so long, that they believe that the cost of labor in this country to produce a piece of merchandise is much higher than in Europe, where "pauper labor," as they choose to call the labor of the politically, socially and class oppressed workingmen and laborers of Europe, abounds. But the assessment is not true.

It is true that the farmer of the United States has much more of the crop to divide between himself and his help, after paying interest or rent on his farm, than the European farmer has after paying his rent, or the interest on the cost of his farm, because of the extreme cheapness of the land here as compared with that in Europe. Two years next of land there will buy it here in the thinly settled States. And as there is more of the crop to divide, after rent or interest is paid here, either in crop or in money, between the farmer and his help, each gets a larger amount for his year's work than they would get were they working on land at European rent or value. Mines of coal, iron and other minerals have for the same reason, more to divide between the owners operators, and laborers. And, for the same reason, wages in all the new countries with fertile soil are, or should be as much higher than in the old countries as there is left for the workman's share after paying for the use of the land and expenses of tools, living, etc.; and the mechanical or factory workman should always have as much, or more, than the farm laborer in proportion as his occupation is more wearing, more unsteady, hazardous or unhealthy, or he will not leave the farm. So far, on account of the bountifulness of nature to this country, in its fertile lands, its grand forests, its wonderful extent of mines of coal and iron and other minerals, and such a small population, comparatively, to whom to divide the produce, the share of each should be much larger than to any other people.

Adam Smith, in his "Wealth of Nations"—published in London in 1774, when the present United States was a colony of England—says that wages in America are very nearly, if not more than double, in London, and gives the reason for it. But there was no tariff against importation of English goods.

But the protective policy was forced upon the country after the war of the Revolution by the owners of the immense tracts of mining land they had "polished up," and, under the cry of "protection to American labor," a tariff has been manipulated on all foreign coal, iron, and other minerals that tone, so as to enable the monopolists to get extortionate prices for the products of their monopolies to put into their own pocket, to add to their own wealth, or to expend in extravagance, while to their poor laborers, perhaps imported free of tariff duty, they pay only the scant wages of the nobility and envy-ridden peasantry of Europe, from which they emigrated, for the sake of living in a free country, even at the same wages.

It is true that the labor cost, in the manufacture of some of the articles in this country, is cheaper than in Europe, but it is confined almost entirely to those articles for which the demand is small in this one market, and the manufacture is consequently carried on without the competition necessary to produce the greatest results at a given cost, or in some few branches of industry, like wooden toys, wood carving, etc., that are done in Europe by the peasantry in their winter houses.

In all the branches of cotton and woolen and other textile goods, the manufacture and demand for which is large in this country, in the manufacture of iron, steel, all kinds of hardware, machinery of all kinds, woodenware, shoes, harness, hats, hosiery, and nearly every other article of merchandise made in this country is as low as anywhere in the world.

You will ask: "Is not a day's wages in this country higher than in Italy, Spain, Austria, France?" I answer, "No, not twice as high as in those high-tariff and army-oppressed countries, but our two dollars paid out here for labor to our ambitious workmen produces more and better results than the same amount of money paid to the hopeless, unambitious workman of either of the above countries. But bring that workman here, with his family, and in a year he will become an American workingman and ambitious to earn and get American wages for American work; American wage for American work is more profitable to the employer than foreign wages for foreign work.

I was born and raised among the Massachusetts manufactures and protectionists, and from 1842 was a believer in Horace Greeley, and in the New York Tribune, which I took from the first year of its publication. After I became a manufacturer of hardware, more than thirty years ago, I was in constant fear of free trade and the "pauper labor of Europe," till near 1873, when I began to realize that what of hard ware we exported was almost entirely that having the greatest amount of labor in it, finish. That is, that the less proportion of raw material (iron, steel, copper, leather, wood) in it and the more labor, the more easily I could compete with European manufacturers in markets where all met on equal terms. That looked to me as if the difficulty with the cost of American hardware was not in the cost of labor in this country, but in the 60 per cent. (present tariff) on pig-iron, 50 to 150 per cent. on steel, 30 to 50 per cent. on bar iron, 30 per cent. on copper, 100 per cent. (average) on lead, 50 per cent. on zinc, etc.

While I know that the farmers are as patient as their oxen, what if they should some day wake up to the fact that they buy all their supplies on family and farm at high tariff prices, and sell everything they sell at free trade prices made in Liverpool and London?

Will they always stand that? I feared they would get their eyes opened, and therefore I spent a summer in Europe investigating that dreadful "pauper labor" business, and came home in favor of a gradual reduction of the tariff on raw materials.

In two years more, I spent another summer in Europe, watching that "pauper labor," and came to the conclusion that I did not want it at any price—not as a gift, working under European circumstances. I came home in favor of "a tariff for revenue only."

I spent nearly six months again last summer in Europe, giving much of my time watching that "pauper labor," and came home in favor of out and out free trade, and as soon as we can get it. I employ a very large number in the manufacture of hardware, in New Haven, and believe no country gets its factory labor so cheap as the United States, if the labor is measured by its product or results.

Protection is preventing the growth of manufactures and commerce, and fills our streets with people not fully employed. There is no way of employing our increasing surplus of workingmen except in manufacturing, more or less, for the fifteen hundred millions of people outside of the United States. To do that we want raw materials at free trade prices, and then all protection on manufactured goods may go to Spain where it had its birth, and spread over Europe in the interest of royal governments.

We manufacturers can take care of ourselves with free trade and employ more people at higher wages. Our competitors are exposed to a considerable extent, and I have seen Maine and Massachusetts cheetings in the retail stores of London, at the same time that I was offered for the entire tariff cost of their machinery and existing supplies, and American goods would find their markets in every country and in unlimited quantities.

The English free trade workmen get from 10 per cent. more to double the wages of the workmen of the high tariff countries of Germany, France, Austria, Italy, and Spain, and three times as much as the Russian; but the six and six days' work for such an enormous sum of the whole wages of a month, is thinks, optimistically, the workmen, is what keeps the deposits in the savings banks so small, to which Mr. Blaine sighed. Governor St. John has the remedy for this, if he could apply it in England.

There are five times more in number of factory working people employed in England now, than at any time before free trade in 1845. The wages per person are fully double the protection rate of wages prior to 1845, and as good a living for a family can be had for not much over half the protection rate. But the English workingman is not so inlied with the old protection code of living. He spends fully twice as much as before free trade, and gets very much more than twice as good a living. He is a temperate man, although no British factory workman works more than fifty-six hours in a week.

Mr. Blaine does not mean to say that the cost of the old "protection" living costs now more than the increase of wages, but that the British workingman's scale of living has increased or advanced faster than wages. So Prof. Fawcett, in speaking of "the increase of the national prosperity has not yet conferred any appreciable benefit on the condition of the laboring classes," refers to the neglect of so many of the working people to improve their condition, as they might.

It is true in all countries where liquor is largely consumed, that it impairs, and also says, and gives statistics in support of it, that "pauperism is greatest in England in the years of greatest business prosperity," but the increase of pauperism is not because the family got not earn and get more money, but because with so many it goes for liquor, perhaps just as much money is saved.

And another reason the Professor gives is, that increased incomes to the rich tend to increase luxuries and depredations on the poor, by too much indiscriminate almsgiving, encourages idleness.

As Mr. Allan says in his article: "The Republican administration inlied the word free trade stops resulting in the appointment of a revise commission that, after sitting at a large expense to the country, the Commission, "Free Trade" was inlied in the silly expectation that the people of this country would buy our goods because manufactures."

The commission got well snubbed, and were informed that the United States better give chance to tariff, before attempting foreign commerce. The commission came home with very large and very "flat a in its ear." If we would sell goods in Europe, we must understand Commerce means buying and selling—not selling, only.

J. B. SARGENT.

The Puzzed Protectionists.

The leading protectionist journals of the country are simultaneously confessing that the manner of collecting and disposing of national revenue has become a highly important question of public policy. The Government is collecting far more revenue than is demanded by the public exigencies, it is piling up a cumbrous accumulation of useless and idle money in the Treasury, at a time, too, when the revival of trade demands all the available funds that can possibly be spared for the use of our varied industries.

Unfortunately also this very excess of revenue is being withdrawn from the circulation of the country at, economically, a most inopportune period, making the actual revival of business, which has been so long so almost hopelessly prayed for, recoil disastrously on itself. Thus the Treasury, instead of being made an incentive to the business revival, is its most virulent and financial system which at present tends to paralyze it.

Mr. Blaine's vote-catching proposal, issued previous to the last Presidential election, to distribute the surplus revenue among the various states, has not been renewed by that statesman in his late campaign in Maine. Indeed, the idea at the present time among his Republican friends is "more on over as to do it revenue." It is, accordingly, relegated by the protectionist supporters to the limbo of rejected political projects. They now frankly admit that it would be a costly method of transferring money from one hand to the other, employing a brigade of officers to collect revenue and another to distribute it.

The result of the constantly growing surplus mean while remains to be solved, while the financial distribution is rendered still more acute by the fact that the duties on imports are increasing and farm at high tariff prices, and sell everything they sell at free trade prices made in Liverpool and London!

Will they always stand that? I feared they would get their eyes opened, and therefore I spent a summer in Europe investi-

JOHN ARENSDORF,

Charged with Killing Rev. George C. Haddock,

Held in Bonds of Twenty-five Thousand Dollars.

[Sioux City telegram.]

John Arensdorf, who is charged by H. L. Leavitt with having the man who killed Rev. George C. Haddock, was arraigned in Justice Brown's court on two charges—conspiracy and murder—and held in bonds of $25,000, which were furnished with very little delay. The defendant was represented by Judge Kinnan, Sloan, B. Selzer, E. J. Gallagher, and L. H. Sloan.

Confession of the Man Who Turns State's Evidence.

Harry L. Leavitt is my stage name, and the name I commonly go by, but Herman Levy is my real name. My home is in New York City, but I have been a resident of Sioux City since January, 1886, opening the Standard Theater in February, 1886, and managing it ever since. I am 35 years old, and I manage and book for theaters. I arrived in Sioux City from a visit East with my wife the Friday evening before the killing of George C. Haddock. Up to after the arrival of my wife I had been in no way connected or connected with the injunction proceedings, but I had been in the habit of my wife's letters to me about politics, as advertisements in the paper about opening the theater, and I gathered in advertisements. In conversation with Mr. Kelly and Mr. Hill I told them it was my wife's business, and I had no right to know or to have anything to do with it. I had to them that I believed I could make it pay, and I had to them that the only way was to get a man who had a place, and had about the same kind of talk with the Democrats. I had talked with Mr. Arensdorf about it on Monday, Aug. 2. I was approached on the subject of the injunction proceedings by John Sullivan, of the Democrats. He told me that the organization was for the purpose of protecting the saloonkeepers and employing a lawyer, and myself and Doc Dannenberg, of the Democrats, came to see Mr. Arensdorf and I told him I was with the Democrats and joined the association. My name was put on the list as a member. I told Mr. Arensdorf that as soon as it was necessary to use money I would see that he got it. I said to Mr. Arensdorf that I could get the money for him. After I should open my place, Adolph Sachs, of Omaha, did not know my business, and I told him that I would not know anything about it, and I told him I would see that he got it. I said to Mr. Arensdorf that I would get the money for him, and he said he had some money in the bank, and I said

School Books
and
School Supplies

Our Prices are Rock Bottom, Lower than ever!

We have a full supply of every book used in the Charlevoix schools. Also a full supply for every school in the county.

Something New

In Scratch Books, Spelling Slips, Inks, Pens, Pencils, Rulers, Slates Chalks, School Registers, Etc.

The largest stock of Blank Books in the county!

If you want to save money, call at

G. W. CROUTER'S Drug & Stationery Store,

For supplies in general.

Temperance Column.

Conducted by a Committee of the W. C. T. U.

OFFICERS.

President—Mrs. G. W. Lafferty.
First Vice President—Mrs. C. T. Cook.
Second Vice President—Mrs. L. E. Mosier.
Third Vice President—Mrs. R. Sadlier.
Recording Secretary—Miss Julia Mason.
Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. L. E. Allen.
Treasurer—Mrs. C. J. Strang.

Taking a Firm Standing.

The Rock River, Illinois, Methodist conference passed the following among numerous other telling resolutions, recently:

That to license or otherwise legitimatize the liquor traffic is wrong in principle, a grievous error as a policy and as practiced a sad exhibition of moral blindness. It can never be right to sanction a moral wrong nor sound policy to stand upon defective principles. The license or regulative system has been demonstrated to be an utter failure as a temperance measure in a trial of 200 years. The history of high license shows that it does not diminish the volume of the traffic nor improve the character of the saloons, but is a bribe to the cupidity and an opiate to the conscience of tax payers and voters. If its purpose is to make the traffic reputable, collect revenues from the vices and miseries of the people, "to build a town with blood and establish a city by iniquity" is a splendid success, but a success that justifies our "uncompromising opposition to laws that propose by license, taxing, or otherwise to regulate the drink traffic, because they provide for its continuance and afford no protection against its ravages."

That we urge all our preachers to study with care and to preach and teach with all the authority of thorough information and profound conviction the doctrines and declarations of the church upon this subject, explaining, defending, and enforcing the discipline as it is. And as the citizen in this country is the responsible ruler, accountable to God for righteous law and its faithful enforcement, it is one of the solemn duties of the Christian teacher and pastor to set forth the nature of the political duties of the American citizen and the principles which should guide his action. While we will not degrade our pulpits by making them the rostrums from which to teach mere partisanship, we will faithfully and frequently expound to our people the laws of God and the doctrines of the church with regard to this traffic, no matter what the consequences may be to any political party.

A Plea for Prohibition.

Miss Frances E. Willard, the famous temperance orator from the west and president of the Women's National Temperance Union, was glad to see that there were so many men in Brooklyn, and especially in the Eastern District, who voted with the new party. No man there away his vote when he placed it in the ballot-box with his conviction behind it, and the speaker thanked the Prohibition voters of Brooklyn for their loyalty to humanity, to God, to home and their native land. To carry this movement out there must be an organized, concentrated power, and that power was a party. There was no taunt that was bad attached now to the name "party," that people forgot what a magnificent thing martianship was when it was a basis of loyalty to that principle which the party embodies. The party which elected Lincoln in 1860, polled only seven thousand votes in 1840. What Americans had done, Americans could do again. (Applause.) Revolutions never go backward, and the fanaticisms of to-day are the victories of to-morrow. The people who stand by this new party have not the flimsy, flabby courage which only dares to assert itself in times of success, and they will grow in strength and numbers and will succeed. The Prohibition movement must be a partizan movement because it must elect men who will enforce the law. In every county it must elect a sheriff and constables who will insist upon the rigid enforcement of the law. Until it does that any prohibition law that may be passed will be like a rusty sword in a still more rusty scabbard Brooklyn Daily Times, Nov. 24, 1882.

Effect of Prohibition in Kansas.

Recently a Missouri whiskey organ paper stated that "whiskey, wine and beer were never more plentiful at the Kansas capital than now," whereupon the Atchison Champion replies with these emphatic and conclusive words:

"It is about time that this lying about drinking in Kansas should come to an end. There is less drinking in Kansas and the people are more temperate than in any other state in the American union. A temperance millennium has not been established, 'tis true; but on the other hand, nine tenths of the drinking and drunkenness of former years have been abolished. Further, the temperance sentiment is steadily growing in this state, growing so steadily and finely that the next democratic state convention will not dare to adopt a resolution against prohibition. Tens of thousands of men now go to bed every night sober and self respecting who went to bed every night, four or five years ago, soaked with liquor. Thousands of women and children, hungry and in rags five years ago, are now comfortably clad and sit down every day at tables provided with all the necessaries of life. * * *

Four fifths of the people of this state, knowing that what we assert is true, have resolved that they will not return to the old order of things. * * *

The open saloon in Kansas has gone, and gone to stay."

A Heartbroken Wife.

One of the circumstantial features of the approaching grand-jury investigation of Arendsof, one of the men on whom the suspicion rests for the murder of Dr. Haddock, will be his conduct after having been arrested. He was at Davenport with the Knights of Pythias when taken. No explanation was vouchsafed until Council Bluffs was reached, and from that point he travelled silently home with his head half protruding from the window, as if stifling. Upon arriving here Sheriff McDonald asked if he desired to see his wife and family, and he said "No." He moved about and talked mechanically, acting like a child. The following morning he was taken to his wife. When he entered the room she was seated in a rocking-chair, her face buried in a handkerchief wet with tears. There was no expression of belief in his innocence, no wifely confidence. There she sat and refused to look up at him. "She needed," said a deputy, "like one who knew something and believed the worst had come." Arendsof staggered into an adjoining room and wept, after which he went up-stairs for a shirt. He called for his wife and she procured the shirt for him without exchanging a dozen words and then he returned with the deputy. Chicago Times.

Good Results in Every Case.

P. A. Rinsland, wholesale paper dealer of Chattanooga, Tenn., writes that he was seriously affected with a severe cold that settled on his lungs; had tried many remedies without benefit, being induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, did so and was entirely cured by use of a few bottles. Since which time he has used it in his family for all coughs and colds with best results. This is the experience of thousands whose lives have been saved by this wonderful discovery. Trial bottles free at Dr. G. W. Crouter's drug store.

Money Refunded.

The true remedy has at last been discovered. It was long known to his practice as Dr. King's Long Cool for Consumption. It is now called Dr. Price's Accord Cough Cure. It is the safest, surest and best. No other equals it. We guarantee this remedy, in bad as well as good cases, to give immediate relief. It is guaranteed to do it. A wonderful effect is not expected from the first bottle, but the two-thirds of the contents of a bottle is used. Sold by Perry Wood and Dr. G. W. Crouter.

The Detroit Free Press

FREE

For Four Months.

FIFTY CENTS

Will pay for the two best Newspapers published in the State of Michigan

For 4 Mo's.

On receipt of the above amount we will send

The Charlevoix Journal

—And—

THE WEEKLY DETROIT FREE PRESS

to any address for FOUR MONTHS on trial.

Everybody knows The Free Press. It is published in the metropolis of the State, and is a family newspaper, outranks all others in enterprising, newsy, original, spicy and entertaining, and should find a place in every household in Michigan.

The Journal speaks for itself. It is a necessity to every man who wants the news, and has been assisted and improved until Council Bluffs was reached, and from that point he travelled silently home with his head half protruding from the window, as if stifling. Upon arriving here Sheriff McDonald asked if he desired to see his wife and family, and he said "No." He moved about and talked mechanically, acting like a child. The following morning he was taken to his wife. When he entered the room she was seated in a rocking-chair, her face buried in a handkerchief wet with tears. There was no expression of belief in his innocence, no wifely confidence. There she sat and refused to look up at him. "She needed," said a deputy, "like one who knew something and believed the worst had come." Arendsof staggered into an adjoining room and wept, after which he went up-stairs for a shirt. He called for his wife and she procured the shirt for him without exchanging a dozen words and then he returned with the deputy.

Money Refunded.

The true remedy has at last been discovered. It was long known to his practice as Dr. King's Long Cool for Consumption. It is now called Dr. Price's Accord Cough Cure. It is the safest, surest and best. No other equals it. We guarantee this remedy, in bad as well as good cases, to give immediate relief. It is guaranteed to do it. A wonderful effect is not expected from the first bottle, but the two-thirds of the contents of a bottle is used. Sold by Perry Wood and Dr. G. W. Crouter.

MISS L. SPAULDING.

MILLINERY

and Fancy Goods.

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

Millinery And Fancy Goods!

A Splendid Line of Ribbons, Ladies' Gloves, Zephyrs, Laces, Ladies' Fine Underwear, and Stamping Goods always on hand at Lowest Prices.

Smith & Cooper,

At the Ingleside.

At the Old Stand.

A. J. McLeod

Can be found at the old stand with a

FULL STOCK OF MEATS

Of all kinds

At Wholesale and Retail.

HIDES, PELTS, & FAT STOCK WANTED

WM. J. STEVENSON,

HORSE-SHOEING,

Wagon Shop,

BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Heavy Wagons a specialty and made to order. Horse-shoeing by one who understands the best material, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

☞The OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale. 4a

The above Switch invented by the Johnston Manufacturing Co., of Detroit, Mich., surpasses the best switches of all others.

1st. The hair is so firmly secured for enough away that the switches will not touch them, a thing not always easy to do with other switches.

2d. The plates are set so as to hide the seam and the switches always which prevents slipping and falling out.

3d. The pressure is on the fleshy part of the nose above the bone, which prevents pinching.

4th. The lever fastener secures the perfect adjustment to the nose whether large or small.

5th. The braids are set at right angles to line of vision.

6th. They can be worn safely without cord or chain as there is no danger of falling off.

7th. We warrant them to be the easiest eyeglass in the market.

C. R. BELLINGER,

Optician and Jeweler Charlevoix, Mich.

THE GRAND RAPIDS

DAILY DEMOCRAT

Is the popular paper of Western Michigan. Contains the associated press dispatches. Sent by mail at

50 CENTS A MONTH!

Only eleven cents a week! Etc. a week.

Try it.

Owing to Special Rates in Photographic Stock, I will continue to make Cabinet Photographs at $4.00 per Dozen Until further notice.

Dave Bradbeer,

Photographer,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

DE LAND & CO'S

CAP AF

SALERATUS

SODA

For Baking Purposes.

Best in the World.

Sold by Upright & Emrey.

A Large Stock of

Furniture!

IN

Oak, Maple, Ash, and Cherry,

JUST RECEIVED BY THE

PINE LAKE IRON COMPANY

IRONTON, MICH.

More Room! More Goods!!

THE ROUND OAK

AND SQUARE BASE

Heating Stoves.

Complete Stock of Hardware!

VERY BEST PUMPS.

Job and Tin Work. L. D. BARTHOLOMEW & CO.

Come and See our Immense Stock of

BOOTS AND SHOES.

FOX & MILLER.

HENRY C. COOPER

Undertaker!

CHARLEVOIX MICHIGAN.

Coffins, Caskets, and Trimmings Always in Stock.

Come and See my Stock of Furniture.

ALL ORDERS BY TELEPHONE RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION

Charlevoix Manufacturing Company,

MANUFACTURERS OF

Sash, Doors, and Blinds,

Screen Doors and Windows, and Mouldings of all Descriptions.

Newell Posts, Banisters, and Stair Rail, of Soft and Hard Wood, kept in Stock and Made and Put Up to Order.

A GOOD STOCK OF

PINE AND BASSWOOD SIDING,

FLOORING, CEILING, AND SEASONED LUMBER CUT ON HAND.

Also Contractors, Builders, and General Jobbers.

Summer Cottages a Specialty.

CHARLEVOIX . . . . . MICHIGAN.

PERRY WEED,

DRUGGIST AND STATIONER,

OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 173. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1886. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL

Published every Thursday,

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

Office on Bridge Street,

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX MICH. AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

WATCH YOUR ADDRESS LABEL.

The date following the name on your address label indicates the time to which your subscription is paid. If in arrears, you are requested to pay up.

BUSINESS CARDS.

ATTORNEYS.

A. ARTHUR S. MARTIN, Attorney at Law, Boyne City. Collections promptly attended to.

C. QUICKSMAN & GRIEE, Attorneys at Law and Land Agents, Lansing, Mich. Office in office of C. QUICKSMAN.

A. S. CHUSASANK. C. J. GRIEE.

L. HART & CALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents, Lake St., east of postoffice, Petoskey, Mich.

WILLIS W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor at Law. Collections promptly attended to. OFFICE, TO LET.

L. L. NEWBERRY, Attorney at Law and Justice of Peace of Kewadin, Antrim County, Mich.

MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix Mich.

CHAS. F. WINNEG, Attorney at Law and Notary Public, Circuit Court Commissioner, Western District, East Jordan, Mich.

W. S. MOORE, Attorney and Solicitor, East Jordan. Admiralty a Specialty.

F. N. CARROTT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

CHURCHES.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH—Sunday services at 10 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at 12 m. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7:30. All seats free. Church hall, over F. W. Craine & Co.'s store. W. G. CLARK, pastor.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath school at 12 m. Sunday-evening meeting every Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock. A. T. WATERMAN, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer and praise meeting Thursday evening at 7:00 o'clock. W. H. MCCARTNEY, pastor.

DENTISTRY.

N. J. PERRY, Dentist. Office at Wood's Drug Store. CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

B. WINFIELD, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Pamphlets, Charlevoix, Antrim county, Mich.

PHYSICIANS.

L. LEWIS, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office for in the Lewis block, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. M. FRIMSTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HORACE S. HARSHA, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

C. A. E.—Baxter Post No. 119, meets second Monday evening in each month. W. H. MCCARTNEY, Adjt.

I. O. O. F.—Round Lake Lodge, No. 309, meets every Wednesday evening, in their hall.

K. O. T. M.—Charlevoix Tent No. 170, meets every Thursday every month at 1856 Fellows' hall.

I. O. L.—True Blue No. 187, meet Saturday on or before full moon, at Harmonie hall. W. F. BROWN, Cashier. ANT. CARPENTER, Ass't Cashier.

Down & Co's Bank at Charlevoix,

CAPITAL, $25,000.

Drafts drawn direct upon the principal cities of the world. Collections receive prompt attention. Good securities bought and sold. Tickets to and from all points in Europe by best lines. Correspondents: Ira Davenport, Bank, New York; First National Bank, Chicago; Merchants and Manufacturers' National Bank, Detroit; Fourth National Bank, Grand Rapids.

Drs. Price's Cream Baking Powder

Is the Standard of Excellence. Its use is recommended by the highest authorities. It is the most healthful of all leavening agents. It is used in the Cabinet of the President of the United States. It is used in the Navy Department of the United States. It is used in the Army Department of the United States. It is used in the Department of Agriculture. It is used in the Department of Interior. It is used in the Department of Justice. It is used in the Department of State. It is used in the Department of Treasury. It is used in the Department of War. It is used in the Department of Navy. It is used in the Department of Indian Affairs. It is used in the Department of Patents. It is used in the Department of Pensions. It is used in the Department of Public Printing. It is used in the Department of Public Buildings and Grounds. It is used in the Department of Public Lands. It is used in the Department of Public Works. It is used in the Department of Public Health. It is used in the Department of Public Education. It is used in the Department of Public Charities. It is used in the Department of Public Morals. It is used in the Department of Public Manners. It is used in the Department of Public Taste. It is used in the Department of Public Fashion. It is used in the Department of Public Amusements. It is used in the Department of Public Recreation. It is used in the Department of Public Worship. It is used in the Department of Public Prayer. It is used in the Department of Public Praise. It is used in the Department of Public Glory. It is used in the Department of Public Honor. It is used in the Department of Public Shame. It is used in the Department of Public Disgrace. It is used in the Department of Public Ridicule. It is used in the Department of Public Contempt. It is used in the Department of Public Hatred. It is used in the Department of Public Revenge. It is used in the Department of Public Murder. It is used in the Department of Public Suicide. It is used in the Department of Public Hell. It is used in the Department of Public Damnation. It is used in the Department of Public Perdition

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

EASTERN.

The Hon. Joseph B. Clark, a prominent citizen, hanged himself in his barn at Manchester, N. H. His failure to receive a nomination for Congress, coupled with grave business cares, is supposed to have led to the tragedy.

In a saloon fight between Italians employed on the new aqueduct at New York, Louis Borall was killed and Albert Gromino dangerously wounded by an unknown Italian.

H. D. Ward, a prospector, has struck a rich gold mine near North Adams, Mass.

Sheriff Rowan, of Philadelphia, has been placed under bonds of $5,000, because of softening of the brain.

An educator at Newburgh, N. Y., will send to Albany a bill making the sale of cigarettes to such boys a punishable offense.

Fire at Farmington, Me., destroyed thirty-three awnings, nineteen stores and three churches. The loss is estimated at $300,000.

The Hon. James G. Blaine was present at the assembling of the students of Washington and Jefferson College at Washington, Pa., by invitation of the trustees and faculty. President Moffat referred to the Hon. John H. Talbot, who accompanied Mr. Blaine, as the oldest living graduate and to Mr. Blaine as the most distinguished. Mr. Blaine addressed the student.

The youngest son of Judge Daniels, of Buffalo, was accidentally shot dead while climbing a tree with a gun.

Editorial comment in the Yale Courant, to the effect that Sunday services in the University are not what they should be, and that the students are fed on the "dry husks of religious conventionalism, which can hardly be expected to develop a practical and robust Christianity," has created a sensation among the students and faculty.

The total number of students in Harvard University this year is 1,672. The freshman class list bears 279 names, the largest on record. There are twenty-three Illinoisans in the college.

WESTERN.

Justin McCarthy, Parnellite, has been awarded the seat in the House of Commons which he contested in the recent election against Charles Edward Lewis, Conservative. Mr. Lewis has sat for Londonderry ever since 1872.

Two Germans have been arrested in France for making plans of the forts and railways. They admitted having received a sovereign for each letter containing a military diagram.

The killing of Baron Rentern by the Czar is confirmed. The latest report is that the act was committed in the heat of passion because the young man resented some of the Czar's hard remarks.

Michael Davitt is about to marry Miss Yore, a handsome orphan and heiress of Oakland, Cal.

The business portion of Versailles, the county seat of Morgan County, Missouri, was destroyed by fire last week. Loss, $50,000.

A tame bear kept by P. W. Curran, a saloon-keeper at Cleveland, crushed Carlife out of Rocks Dorsheck, 20 years old. Curran was arrested on a charge of manslaughter.

An express-car on the San Francisco Road was robbed of $50,000 near Pacific, Mo., by a man who had been admitted on a letter bearing the forged signature of an officer of the express company. The messenger was relieved by threats of murder, and was found bound and gagged two hours after the robbery.

Barhart Stillwell, a farmer near Akron, Ohio, was entered into a lonely wood and tortured until he surrendered $1,500 which was concealed on his person.

Judge Walter Bennett Scates, formerly Chief Justice of the Illinois Supreme Court, died at Evanston of paralysis.

In a curve near Pine Bluff, Wisconsin, a wild train and a passenger train dashed together, the engines being wrecked, and the baggage and mail cars, with their contents, burned. One man was killed and two others fatally hurt. Three persons were severely wounded, and the engineer of the passenger train, who was caught in his cab with his head and one of his legs crushed, was only rescued just in time to prevent his being scalded to death.

On the Grand Jury which, it is expected, will investigate the Haddock assassination at Sioux City, Iowa, are nine Democrats and three other persons who are believed to be opposed to the Prohibition law. It is believed that Henry Ivens, a missing witness, was killed by the assassins to prevent his revealing their name. A decomposed body found on the 4th inst. at Conway, Iowa, and interred in the Potters' field at Council Bluffs, was exhumed, and an examination of the clothing led to the almost complete identification of Ivens.

The jury in the Begley inquest at Chicago recommended that the four prisoners who admit that they fired from the Dakotian train, be held to the Grand Jury without bail.

Mr. Fotheringham, the express messenger who was robbed on the San Francisco road, says the perpetrator gave his name as Jim Cummings, the last of the Jesse James gang, a participant in the Blue Cut train-robbery, which yielded him only $1,500.

A. A. Mellier & Co., wholesale druggists at St. Louis, made an assignment. The firm place their assets at $30,000, with liabilities estimated at $100,000.

A poisoned well at Battle Creek, Mich., caused the death of Mrs. G. Winters, and the serious illness of her three children and of a neighboring family.

The dry-goods house of Shiply, Dorsey & Co., of Cincinnati, have asked an extension of time of their creditors. The firm's liabilities are $810,000, with assets of $970,300.

The building occupied by the Case School of Applied Science, in Cleveland, named after the late Leonard Case, by whom it was founded, was destroyed by fire. The laboratory, containing many chemicals, exploded. Total loss, $200,000.

SOUTHERN.

Sharp shocks of earthquake were experienced at Charleston, Summerville, Columbia, Savannah, Wilmington, N. C., Raleigh, Augusta, Atlanta, Chattanooga, Louisville, and other Southern points, on the 22d. Washington also felt the quake. Rumbling sounds accompanied the vibrations, which were very severe, causing, in some instances, a good deal of apprehension. Four shocks were felt at Charleston, while two or more distributed the other cities mentioned, but no damage is reported.

The earthquakes of last month made three large cracks in Fast Top Mountain, Lazewell County, Virginia. One of the chasms, which crossed a wagon road, had to be filled with large trees and bowlders to permit the passage of teams.

Earthquake shocks were felt at Fort Morgan and Mobile, Ala. No damage resulted.

Robert W. Alston, a son of the late Col. "Bob" Alston, of Atlanta, threw out his brains in the office of the Sixth Auditor at Washington, where he held a clerk ship.

James Haynes, the colored murderer of Mary Jackson, was taken from the Brownsville (Miss.) jail, and lynched.

No news can be received from Biloxi, Miss., as to the progress or decrease of the yellow fever epidemic supposed to exist there. It is believed that the correspondents of newspapers have been bulldozed into silence by the inhabitants of the place.

Atlanta has no saloon within her limits, but the police picked up twenty-two drunken men on Saturday and Sunday.

Editor Cutting, now at El Paso, Texas, is said to be endeavoring to enlist 10,000 men, for the purpose of conquering three Mexican States.

The recent dynamite explosion in the house of Commissioner Colins, at Clarkesville, Ga., has been followed by the indictment for attempt to murder of Dr. Thomas H. Baker, one of the foremost citizens, and his brother Gus.

WASHINGTON.

The following United States Consuls have been appointed: Seth Pratt, of Massachusetts, at Zanzibar; C. R. Merrill, of Alabama, at Santos; William R. Greathouse, of Louisiana, at Tampico; Enoch J. Southes, of Delaware, at Tientsin; John T. Campbell, of California, at Tamatave; Leopold Moser, of New York, at Hiogo.

The Secretary of the Interior has decided that the marriage of a single woman who had a homestead entry will not defeat her right to make final proof and receive a title to the land under the homestead law.

The Treasury Department holds that the honey is a vegetable and cannot be exempt from duty as fruit.

No more liquor will go to Alaska by permits of the War Department except wine for sacramental purposes.

A couple of blooded dogs brought by a Virginian as a gift to the President got into a fight in his presence, and created a great flutter among the dignified officials who put out of the room, and the presentation ceremony did not come off.

The proclamation of the President, reinstating the 10 per cent. discriminating duties on Spanish imported products, is to be withdrawn, as spain is to make concessions regarding duties on United States products imported into Spanish West Indian possessions. The announcement is temporary, in the expectation that permanent treaty arrangements will follow.

POLITICAL.

Commissioner Black has informed the pensions agent at San Francisco that he has yielded to the demand of a political committee and paid an accountant, his official position would have been at stake.

Carter H. Harrison has been nominated for congress by the Democrats of the Third Illinois District, in opposition to William E. Mason, Republican.

President Cleveland has ordered the removal of M. R. Boman and M. A. Shaw, District Attorneys in Missouri and Pennsylvania, for addressing political meetings in their respective States throughout the campaign. Daniel J. Campau has been appointed Customs Collector at Detroit, to fill a vacancy caused by resignation.

The National Convention of the W. C. T. U. at Minneapolis, passed resolutions promising the Prohibition party support, protesting against the Government's toleration of the liquor traffic, denouncing the use of fermented wine in the Lord's Supper, and demanding more prominent representation of colored women in the paipit. A minority report, that it was unwise to pledge the support of the organization to any political party, even to the Prohibitionists, was rejected by a vote of 151 to 33.

RAILROAD INTELLIGENCE.

At the meeting of the Board of Director of the Northern Pacific Railroad, Robert Harris was re-elected President.

The Mammoth Cave Railroad, running from Glasgow Junction, on the Louisville and Nashville Line, to the Mammoth Cave, will commence operating next month.

The yellow pontoon bridge launched at Prairie du Chien for the use of trains of the St. Paul Road is four hundred feet long and forty feet wide.

The Southwestern Railway Association has completed its fourth year of existence, under the control of J. W. Midgley. Of the officials who participated in the first meeting only J. C. McMillin remains in the list.

The United States Supreme Court has reversed a decision of the Illinois Supreme Court in the case of the Wabash, St. Louis and Pacific Railway, declaring that the Illinois State law of 1871 and 1873, regulating transportation charges, can not apply to commerce between the States; that such regulation can only appropriate by be governed by general principles, which demand that it should be done by Congress, under the commerce clause of the Constitution. Justice Bradley, Chief Justice Waite, and Justice Gray dissented.

Under a decree of foreclosure, the Havana, Rantoul and Eastern Railway, seventy-six miles in length, was sold at auction by the Marshal at Springfield, Ill., for $100,000.

THE INDUSTRIAL OUTLOOK.

The gamblers of Cincinnati have placed a boycott on the playing-cards manufactured by Russell, Morgan & Co., because of the determination of Potter Commissioner Morgan to have all the gambling-houses closed.

The National Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers re-elected their old officers, with Frank Arthur, as Grand Chief Engineer, whose term is three years.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The St. Louis Browns won the last game of the series with the Chicago League Club for the championship of the world. The score was 4 to 2. The Chicagos left home with St. Louis had a grand serenade, and went wild with enthusiasm. The game was played in a rain-storm and before a multitude of people.

The Episcopal Council at Chicago has elected Rev. R. M. Kerfy, of Rutledan, N. Y., Bishop of Nevada, and Rev. Ethelbert Talbot, of Macon, Mo., Bishop of Wyoming and Idaho.

The steamer America, which has just arrived in New York from Queenstown, had an eventful voyage. A violent storm was encountered. A panic ensued. Two men became insane through fear, and one of them jumped overboard and was drowned. Capt. Grace was on duty for forty-two hours, until the great storm ceasing a congestive chill, from which he died.

M. Ledrain, a Hebrew scholar, has just published the first volume of a new translation of the Bible in French.

An assignment has been made by Roth child & Co., wholesale jewelers of Toledo, whose liabilities are $180,000.

The visible grain supply statement for last week shows an increase of 1,545,000 bushels of wheat, 225,000 bushels of corn, 3,256,258 bushels of barley, but a decrease of 2,000 bushels of oats, and 78,772 bushels of rye.

Mrs. Cornelia Stewart, widow of the late Alexander T. Stewart, the New York merchant prince, died suddenly the other morning, in the marble palace erected by her husband. The question as to whether the stolen remains of the late Mr. Stewart were ever recovered is yet undecided. Other recent deaths: Hon. Mason W. Tappan, Attorney General of New Hampshire; Judge William H. Horner, of the Circuit Court of St. Louis.

The commission which has been investigating the affairs of Scroggs Vail, of the National Trotting Association, has filed its report, which shows a complete system of looting the books, and exposes his loose method of handling the funds. It also intimates that the Secretary has been accessories to members of the organization, but states that Mr. Vail is innocent of any dishonest agency in his accounts discovered by the expert accountant.

Flames wiped out the Jordan Block at Nashville, Tenn., valued at $100,000, six business buildings at Evansville, Ind., and a building-mill of the Old Colony Works at East Boston, Mass.

The nineteenth annual convention of the General Council of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of North America adjourned sine die at Chicago after a session of six days.

A large amount of business was transacted, including the adoption of a financial plan for carrying on home and foreign mission work.

FOREIGN.

Emperor William expects to witness the first cutting on the Kiel and North Sea canal next month.

The British Government will reorganize the police forces of Belfast on the Dublin model and substitute qualified janitors for the present boisterous incumbents.

General von Moltke, who resides on his estate in Silesia, has completed his 86th year.

The owners of coal-mines in the Rhine Valley have decided upon making a reduction of 25 per cent. in the wages of their employes.

The French now occupying the New Hebrides are erecting substantial buildings, in extreme rare and language, at Port Vila.

The Marquis of Clanricarde denies that he refused to abide his cousin's verdict in a Conference of Irish Tories relative to his policy.

Burmah officials say it will be impossible to subjugate that country under four years, and that a large army will be needed to restore order.

Floods are causing much damage in the province of Vaucluse, France. The city of Avignon is partially submerged.

A state of siege has been proclaimed at Sofia.

The rebellion in Mying-Lan is increasing.

The Federal Government of Switzerland proposes to purchase all the railways in that country.

THE APACHES.

Extracts from Gen. Miles' Report to the War Department.

Experience of the Troops on the Trail —Three Days Without Rations.

(Washington special.)

The controversy as to what assurance Gen. Miles gave Geronimo and his band is settled by the following, which is Gen. Miles' own language, and is an extract from his last annual report

The efforts of a small party of Indians to get through the lines south of Nogales, near the boundary, and their action in not committing any depredations, indicated a desire to surrender or get past the troops to the agency. When near Fronteras there was some communication between the Indians and the local authorities regarding terms of surrender, a message being sent to Captain Lawton, and I presume they would not place themselves in the hands of the Mexicans. At the request of Captain Lawton I joined his command on the evening of September 3, at Skeleton Canyon, a favorite resort of the Indians in former wars, and a well-ended place for ambush and defiance to witness the closing scenes of such an Indian war. While en route to join Lawton's command, Geronimo had sent his son-in-law and his chief interpreter to Fort Bowie to see me, and if not as a hostage, as an assurance of their submission and desire to surrender, and as an earnest of good faith, and in reaching Lawton's command, Geronimo had sent his son and other prominent men, and then, coming forward unarmed, accompanied by his principal men, to announce his leaving the reservation. Immediately before and after this meeting several official communications were received from either side, a debarkation of the Fort Fetterman massacre; Chief Joseph, Dull-in-the-Face, Spotted Eagle, Sitting Bull, and thousands of others, many of whom have murdered and tomahawked their fellow victims.

The report gives in some detail and very graphically accounts of the experience of the troops in pursuing the Indians and of the fighting that occurred. In speaking of one of the pursuits through Arizona he says:

In this pursuit Lieut. Bent displayed great energy and determination. The Indians, seeing that they could escape, breaking down one set of horses, would immediately take another, and, by the shortest ranges and steal other ones. The troops were obliged to follow the trail and follow impassable mountain heights in the same manner, and, in the end, sliding in the descent. He succeeded in so doing that time Capt. Lawton's band and Cabinet, Gen. Sheridan, and the Governors of eight States.

A disastrous accident occurred on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad at East Rio, Wis., a passenger train having been derailed by an open switch. There are conflicting stories as to the loss of life, one dispatch stating that twenty-six persons were killed.

A Wabash train which left St. Louis collided with a freight train when ten miles out. Both engines were wrecked and an engineer and fireman were killed.

The banking-house of William M. Dunn, at Lincoln, Ill., has suspended business, and an assignment will be made. Its liabilities are $240,000. Mr. Dunn was engaged in a banking business in New York City, in company with Roscile M. Hough, who built the Chicago Stock Yards. Their buildings were burned last fall, the loss of which was $100,000.

Colonel S. L. James has sold to New York parties his plantation in Louisiana and the lease of the labor of the penitentiary in that State. A company will be organized to build levees and work the plantation with 1,000 convicts.

A log cabin near Flat Rock, Knox County, Ky., was burned, the wife and two children of William Fox, and Misses Alice Carnes and Sallie Adams perishing in the flames.

Maurice, a son of Sarah Bernhardt, fought a duel with M. Langiron for exhibiting a painting ridiculing the actress, and gave him a slight wound.

United Ireland tells tenants that the time for patient endurance has passed and that it is time for them to stand up and fight, nothing from the shoulder.

Heavy reductions in rents have been made by a large number of landlords in West Clare, Ireland.

Two druggists in Guatemala were condemned to death for giving poison and a bribe of $2,000 to a servant of the President to dispose of that official. The servant handed the vial and the money to his master.

It is estimated that the expenses of the postal service for the next fiscal year will exceed $56,242,140, an increase of $606,286 over the current year.

A STOUT WILLOW basket of convenient size, with straight sides and a well-fitting cover, can be made as commodious as one of the expensive baskets made expressly for carrying lunches, by the exercise of a little feminine ingenuity. Let the side-wide strips of thick linen, doubled and stitched at the edges, be tacked in loops on the inside, with white flax thread that will be scarcely visible on the exterior. In these keep knives, forks, spoons, pepper and salt cruets, and napkins. Lay a folded napkin in the bottom, another over all when the provision is packed in the interior; tie the top in place with a bright ribbon or braid, and you have what, when it is ready to pass from the Latin "panis," bread, might be a pretty hanger of fruits or flowers, and an opulent householder might be willing to carry to a neighbor.

THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK.

BEEVES	$4.00	@ 5.75
HOGS	4.62	@ 5.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.97	@ .98
CORN—No. 2	.45	@ .46
OATS—No. 2 Mixed	.29	@ .30
PORK—New Mess	10.25	@ 10.37
CHICAGO.
BEEVES—Choice to Prime Steers	4.00	@ 5.50
Good Shipping	3.50	@ 4.00
HOGS—Shipping Grades	3.90	@ 4.35
FLOUR—Fair to Spring	3.00	@ 4.25
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.94	@ .95
CORN—No. 2	.44	@ .44½
OATS—No. 2	.24	@ .24½
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	.24	@ .26
Fair to Good Dairy	.12	@ .16
CHEESE—Full Cream, Cheddar	.11½	@ .11¾
EGGS—Fresh, Western	.17½	@ .18
POTATOES—Choice, per bu	.60	@ .65
PORK—Mess	9.75	@ 9.80
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—Cash	.91	@ .92
CORN—No. 3	.43	@ .43½
OATS—No. 2	.23	@ .23½
RYE—No. 1	.47	@ .48
PORK—Mess	9.75	@ 9.80
TOLEDO.
CORN—Cash	.47	@ .47½
OATS—Cash	.24	@ .24½
DETROIT.
BEEF CATTLE	2.75	@ 4.50
SHEEP	3.50	@ 4.00
LAMBS	4.00	@ 5.00
WHEAT—Michigan Red	.94	@ .95
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	.46	@ .46
OATS—No. 2 White	.26	@ .26½
ST. LOUIS.
WHEAT—No. 2	.74	@ .75
CORN—Mixed	.35	@ .35½
OATS—Mixed	.23	@ .26
PORK—Jobbing	9.75	@ 9.80
CINCINNATI.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.96	@ .98½
CORN—Mixed	.47	@ .48
OATS—No. 2 Mixed	.27	@ .28
RYE—No. 2	.48	@ .50
PORK—Mess	10.00	@ 10.25
BUFFALO.
CATTLE—Fair to Best	3.50	@ 4.50
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	.46	@ .46½
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.99	@ 1.00
INDIANAPOLIS
BEEF CATTLE	3.25	@ 4.00
SHEEP	3.00	@ 4.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.97	@ .98
CORN—No. 2	.45	@ .45½
OATS—No. 2	.25	@ .25½
EAST LIBERTY.
CATTLE—Best	4.50	@ 5.00
Common	3.00	@ 4.00
HOGS	4.80	@ 5.00
SHEEP	3.75	@ 4.25

THE BRONZE GODDESS.

With a Torch in Hand, Liberty Now Enlightens the World.

The Gift of the Land of Lafayette to the Land of Washington.

A Million People Witness the Exercises in New York City.

The Demonstration on Land and Water of a Most Magnificent Character.

"The great statue, 'Liberty Enlightening the World,' was formally presented to the American people, and dedicated to the work of sending forth enlightenment which shall symbolize to the world the light of liberty, at Bedloe's Island yesterday to be known as Liberty Island, in New York harbor, on Thursday, Oct. 28. The statue is a gift to the greatest republic of the world from the greatest republic in Europe—a tribute of honor and esteem to the oldest popular government from a sister nearly a century younger. The act and the formal acceptance with all the sentiments involved therein, may be regarded as the most significant of the great events in the history of the world for years. President Cleveland, the President of the French republic and the Governors of eight States, with all the governors of the States, and the mayors of the principal cities of the Union, were present to participate in the naval pageant, and this made the line fully eight miles long, the first division being directly opposite the City Hall, where they were reviewed at Madison Square by President Cleveland and Mayor Grace. The statue is estimated to weigh 200 tons, and is 151 feet from the branch of the display, which consisted of 40 all side wheels, from Central Park down to the reviewing stand. The Second Division was a military one, which consisted of 20 regiments of infantry, cavalry and artillery, and the Second Regiment National Guard, State of New York.

A Detachment of Massachusetts Volunteer Militia.

FIRST DIVISION.

First Brigade, Second Division National Guards, Eighth Regiment.

THIRD DIVISION.

United States Marine Band, Band of Officials of the United States, in Carriages.

Governor of Massachusetts, Governor, and High Sheriff.

FIRST DIVISION.

Mayors of Cities, and Municipal Officers, in Carriages.

Battalion of Veterans of Philadelphia.

Veterans of the War of 1812 in Carriages, Veterans of the War of 1812 in Carriages.

Veterans of the Mexican War in Carriages.

Veterans of the Legal Legion.

FOURTH DIVISION.

War Veterans, Veterans, Commissions.

FIFTH DIVISION.

Second Brigade, National Guard State of New York, Reserve Corps, Grand Army of the Republic.

Grand Army of the Republic.

Veteran Military Organizations.

SIXTH DIVISION.

Veteran Military Organizations.

SEVENTH DIVISION.

Seventh Regiment, Veteran Volunteers.

EIGHTH DIVISION.

Independent Military Organizations.

Washington's Carriage, Drawn by Eight Horses escorted by Commandery of the State of Washington, D. C., and by the old Washington Guard.

Sons of the Revolution in Carriages.

NINTH DIVISION.

Sons of Veterans.

A Detachment of the Brooklyn Fire Department.

Association of old Brooklynites in Carriages.

Representative Firemen of Brooklyn in Carriages.

TENTH DIVISION.

Volunteer Firemen's Associations.

Board of Trade and Transportation in Carriages.

Benevolent Orders of Undivided Knights of Pythias, of Odd Fellows.

Regiments of Uniformed Knights of Pythias, of New York.

Charitable Organizations.

Civic Societies.

Citizens.

The naval parade of war-ships and other vessels followed, and then the ceremonies at the statue began, at which moment 10,000 rounds from 4 rifling guns were fired by the second Battery.

The crowd on the Battery was so dense that it stood in place on the island was almost entirely made up of men. But few tickets were issued to women, and the tickets were not transferable. Tickets admitting one to almost any vantage point were issued in advance of the day were at a premium. Even the agents of the more prominent buildings on Broadway were commanding any degreeless, indeed, to the desire to surrender or get past the troops to the agency. When near Fronteras there was some communication between the Indians and the local authorities regarding terms of surrender, a message being sent to Captain Lawton, and I presume they would not place themselves in the hands of the Mexicans. At the request of Captain Lawton I joined his command on the evening of September 3, at Skeleton Canyon, a favorite resort of the Indians in former wars, and a well-ended place for ambush and defiance to witness the closing scenes of such an Indian war. While en route to join Lawton's command, Geronimo had sent his son-in-law and his chief interpreter to Fort Bowie to see me, and if not as a hostage, at an assurance of their submission and desire to surrender, and as an earnest of good faith, and in reaching Lawton's command, Geronimo had sent his son and other prominent men, and then, coming forward unarmed, accompanied by his principal men, to announce his leaving the reservation. Immediately before and after this meeting several official communications were received from either side, a debarkation of the Fort Fetterman massacre; Chief Joseph, Dull-in-the-Face, Spotted Eagle, Sitting Bull, and thousands of others, many of whom have murdered and tomahawked their fellow victims.

The report gives in some detail and very graphically accounts of the experience of the troops in pursuing the Indians and of the fighting that occurred. In speaking of one of the pursuits through Arizona he says:

In this pursuit Lieut. Bent displayed great energy and determination. The Indians, seeing that they could escape, breaking down one set of horses, would immediately take another, and, by the shortest ranges and steal other ones. The troops were obliged to follow the trail and follow impassable mountain heights in the same manner, and, in the end, sliding in the descent. He succeeded in so doing that time Capt. Lawton's band and Cabinet, Gen. Sheridan, and the Governors of eight States.

Of Capt. Lawton's pursuit he says:

Among those that time Capt. Lawton, with a fresh command, assumed the arduous and difficult task of pursuing them continuously through the broken mountainous country of Sonora for four or five months. A portion of the command leaving on the day hire without rations, and the other three days being the longest continuous period. They subsisted on two of three days killed by the scouts and sank meat without salt.

Gen. Miles, meanwhile, from the first, to get all the dangerous Indians out of the two territories, as a result, gives the following extract:

Soon after assuming command of the department, I became convinced that there could be no permanent peace in Indian country so long as there were bands among them who were willing and capable of doing the work of murder and devastation, and those who were desirous of keeping peace in the Indian country in the two Arizonas, and Sonora, Mexico, I determined to make a thorough and decisive effort to remove the Indians from the open sides of Arizona, and greater part of the Indians in Sonora, Mexico, and secured them, instead of grasping the opportunity to surrender, and those of the Indians who had left the agency to make a retreat, and, as they thought, to make a stand, in the Sierra Madre Mountains, in Sonora, Mexico, I, in view of the fact that I had made a promise to Geronimo and his band, that they should not be removed from that mountainous region, and that the Indians they had made in past years showed that their raids had been from the agency through the settlements and back again to that source of evil, and every few years their boys became half-grown warriors, who, in order to achieve distinction according to the traditions and practices of their fathers, were compelled to commit savage acts of devastation.

Maugus' Band Captured.

Washington dispatch:

The following telegram from General Miles, dated Fort Apache, Arizona, has been transmitted by General Howard to the War Department:

A detachment under Captain Cooper, fourth cavalry, has just arrived at camp having captured Mangus and his whole party, consisting of 12 bucks, 30 women, three squaws, and five children; also, 1,000 ponies, saddles and five ponies, all of which were brought in.

MILES, Captain Commanding.

These Indians have been under charge of Lieutenant Johnson, and others through Chihuahua, Mexico, and the Sierra Madre since September 7.

MILES, General Commanding.

A later dispatch, dated San Francisco, via Guaymas, Mexico, October 20, says, the following telegram had been received from General Miles:

"Mangus, who was captured by Captain Cooper, states that part of his band escaped by Mexicans and never heard from afterward. This would seem to confirm other reports, and gave rise to the report that Mangus himself had been killed. Capt. Viele, commanding Fort Apache, states that he believes we have all that are left of the Mangus party."

It is learned at the War Department that the Indians above referred to formed a part of Geronimo's band, but escaped from that warrior's hand last April when he offered to surrender to Gen. Crook. Nothing definite was known of Mangus' movements since his separation, but it was reported that he had escaped into Mexico and had been killed by the Mexicans.

DEATH AT THE SWITCH.

Frightful Wreck of an Express Train on the St. Paul Road.

The Occupants of a Car Hemmed In and Burned to Death.

Twenty-six People Cremated—Eleven Bodies Recovered—Heartrending Scenes.

(Milwaukee telegram.)

The most appalling railroad disaster that has ever occurred in Wisconsin resulted from the collision shortly after midnight of a passenger train on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad, and a freight train at Rio, a small station fifteen miles this side of Portage and seventy-five miles from Milwaukee. I. e the collision is believed that twenty-six were either crushed or burned to death, while a number of others were injured. Eleven charred corpses have been taken from the wreck already.

The passenger train was a lightning express from Chicago for St. Paul, with baggage and mail cars, one day coach, and three sleepers. At Rio two freight trains were side-tracked to allow the express to pass. One of them had just crawl into the station when the express came thundering down upon it. Either the engineer or fireman, or both, mistook the signals, or else the switch was wrong, and the express crashed into the freight, ploughing

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG,

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

MISSING LINKS.

During the year ending last June nine Orangutans died aged one hundred.

Two of the thrones of the last Napoleon are for sale in France at $100 each.

The biggest of the battle fields is honored in the naming of Gettysburg, D. T.

Baby alligators are sold by the hundreds as ladies' pets yearly in New York city.

Geronimo and his band are said to have been the authors of 2,500 brutal murders.

It is a fashionable thing at San Diego, Cal., for bathers to smoke cigarettes while bathing in the bay.

In the town of Charlottetown, Canada, it is a common sight on the streets to see women smoking cigars.

A Norwood, Ga., negro slept so soundly that he was not awakened by rats that were eating off his fingers.

Several large stove manufacturing works are being established at Birmingham, Ala., by northern capitalists.

Virginia newspapers are calling on northern and western farmers to go down there and build up the state.

Gen. Sherman has made his home at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, New York, and will spend the fall and winter there.

The local option law passed by the Washington territory legislature last fall has been declared unconstitutional.

Miss Harriet Hosmer, the American sculptress, now living in Italy, is reported to have had much of her fortune in Keely motor stock.

Wong Tie, a Chinese desperado who for years has been a terror to his countrymen, has at last been arrested and is now in jail in Tucson.

Out of 2,660 cans of milk, examined one day recently by the New York health department, 70 were found to contain adulterated milk.

Nathan Robbins, the veteran Boston banker, is 83 years old, has occupied an office for sixty years, and has been absent because of illness only eight days.

A Mapleton, Mass., lad recently sent up some lanterns on the tail of his kite, and the citizens turned out en masse to view what they thought was a fine meteoric display.

fairy palace under the rays of the moon, back in among those old forest trees."

Miss Harriet Goodwin, a niece of Stonewall Jackson, is a member of the Shaker Society at Alfred, Me. She is a native of West Point, N. Y., her mother being a sister of Gen. Jackson, and came to Alfred from the Shaker Society at New Lebanon, N. Y. She is a woman of much culture and refinement and is recognized as one of the leading and most efficient members of the Alfred society.

The grandeur of the Muir glacier fades into insignificance compared with that which guards the coast of Icy Bay, as seen by the voyagers on the last cruise of the Pinta, says the Alaskan. It appears to be about forty miles long. Its height could not be estimated, as the day was cloudy and its upper ridge obscured, but enough could be seen to indicate that it was at least three times as high as the Muir—that is to say, eight or nine hundred feet.

Lord Randolph Churchill, according to an observant visitor at the House of Commons, in a speech of eight minutes made 120 movements with his hands. He crossed his hands in front of him, behind him, above him, below him, he raised his hands upon every part of him within reach; he caught hold of every inanimate object within a circle of two yards or so. He differs, however, from many of our American politicians. He didn't put his hands in anybody else's pockets.

The Rev. Dr. Joseph Parker of the City Temple Church, London, who has been entertaining Mr. Beecher, has come to the conclusion that as he writes to the Inlooker, "You must live with Mr. Beecher to understand Mr. Beecher. Before he came to be my guest I had viewed him with the wonder which might be bestowed upon a planet; now that we have lived together I record him the affection which is due to the tenderest intelligence and the most winsome modesty."

A young man of Baltimore went west several years ago and corresponded regularly with an elderly lady friend in Washington. About six months ago he wrote that he'd get married now if he knew a nice girl that would have him. "There's a chance for you," said the lady, laughingly, to her niece when she received the letter. "Tell him to write to him," said the young woman, also laughing. The aunt did so, the young man wrote to the young woman answered the letter, and the result of the correspondence that followed was a wedding last week between the young folks, who, until a few days before, had never seen one another. Their friends say that both have done well.

The Preacher in Politics.

Some years ago, says the Danville Ky., Advocate, Col. Boyd was running for congress in the famous Ninth district. It came to his ears that a preacher in a certain locality in one of the counties had been tampered with and seemed looking askance at the clergyman had some political influence worthy a candidate's consideration. Boyd went to the minister and had a long talk with him, but elicited no assurance that he would get the divine's support. Returning to London, he told Judge Brown of his experience, and it was decided that Brown should give him a solo. A few days later the judge met the man of God, and after inquiring the news in his locality, drifted upon the congressional race but warily, for he felt the preacher fully satisfied that he was not favorably disposed toward Boyd. Boyd and Brown held a consultation, and decided that the clerical gentleman could be won over with "motive power," which usually carries the day in elections. So they agreed that R. L. Ewell, a well-known politician and former Campbellite preacher, should approach the mysteriously-affected gentleman, and in the course of his conversation placed a roll of money in his hand and remarked: "Brother So-and-so, you take this; think you can do some good with it in your neighborhood." True as the coin to the sound came forth in words easily understood: "Brother Ewell, in the three talents' conversation which we have had you have shed more light on this subject than the two hours' conversation I had with Col. Boyd and Judge Brown." The preacher did valiant work for the colonel.

A Remarkable Incident.

At the execution of the murderer Guyot at Troyes a few days ago an incident took place the like of which has never before been witnessed in France. The condemned man during his trial and final imprisonment did not evince the least fear. When, on the morning of the fatal day, he was roused from sleep and informed that his hour was come, he received the intelligence calmly. He arose, attended to his last religious duties, ate a hearty breakfast, had his "chief" made, asked for a good glass of brandy, and said he was ready to go. He walked between his attendants with a firm step and a look of resolute courage, almost of defiance. But when he came in front of the ghastly instrument of death and glanced up at it he was noticed to blanch or turn almost white. At the same time his body became inert. He was lifted on the bascule, where he lay for twenty-five awful seconds before the knife fell. Meanwhile he did not stir. When the head was severed from the body it was noticed the blood did not spurt right or nine feet, as it does in such cases. When the attending physicians were given charge of the body, they found the heart had filled with congealed blood. This they explained by the fact that when Guyot was dead at the machine and turned suddenly white, his heart ceased action and did not resume it. He was dead before the knife touched him.—Mind and Nature.

Vote of Charlevoix County in Detail.

	Charlevoix	Emmet	Antrim	Kalkaska	Otsego	Oscoda	Alcona
Vasle.
Lace.
Dickie.
Curry.
McDonald.
Mosher.
Wachtel.
Ommen.
Evans.
Beard.
Maltz.
Fisher.
Farrar.
Aplin.
Williams.
Donnelly.
Taggart.
Laing.
Prisbee.
Dix.
Fraser.
Parsons.
Estabrook.
Bennis.
Turner.
Holwerk.
Downing.
Mason.
Cutcheon.
Ellis.
Johnson.
Barton.
Lewis.
Dougherty.
Jarrus.
Berdan.
Sheldon.
Pelmster.
Green.
Thatcher.
Hale.
Cooper.
Thompson.
Sheppard.
Upright.
Meech.
Stone.
Martin.
Corbett.
Durham.
Martin.
Gartett.
Foss.
Hayden.
Robinson.
Hilton.
Findley.
Bennett.
Sanderson.

A Bee in a Telephone.

The experience of telegraph operators, inspectors, and linemen brings them into close acquaintance with a variety of conditions of faults in connection with their work, the variety of these faults is wonderful, many stranger than fiction. One of the most curious in connection with telephony which we have yet known has just happened within the last few days at a place near Sandy Bay. The lineman's attention was called to the circuit in question as hearing was difficult, on listening at the telephone he heard a "roar of booming which came on intermittently, now and much resembling the distant roll of the tide, and now a rendered gurgle and transmission of work almost impracticable." Having satisfied himself by the usual methods that the instrument was right and the line free from induction, and that it was not passing through a storm, the conclusion was arrived at that the fault must be in the ground office, at Moss Bay. An examination of the telephone apparatus disclosed a novelty. A large bee was found in the telephone, and, in trying to make good its escape, it had become fixed between the sounding board and the microphone, and it had hummed to the extent of interfering with the human organs of the circuit. How the bee came there the linesman cannot say, whether by accident or design he knows not, but the bee was the cause of the fault. In consulting his report the Freeman candidly states: "I have met some very odious and technical faults in various telephone apparatus, but I never was done so a bee before."—Mechanical World.

The Appetite

May be increased, the Digestive organs invigorated, and the Bowels regulated, by taking Ayer's Pills. These Pills are purely vegetable in their composition. They contain no alcohol nor any other dangerous drug, and may be taken with perfect safety by persons of all ages.

I was a great sufferer from Dyspepsia and Constipation. I had no appetite, became greatly debilitated, and was constantly afflicted with Headache and Dizziness. I consulted our family doctor, who prescribed for me, at various times, while I could afford one more than frequency relief. I finally commenced taking Ayer's Pills, in a short time my digestion and appetite my bowels were regulated, and, by the time I finished the second vial of these Pills my tendency to headaches had disappeared, and I became strong and well.—Delina M. Logan, Washington, Del.

IMPROVED

I was troubled, for over a year, with Loss of Appetite, and General Debility. I commenced taking Ayer's Pills, and, before finishing half a box of this medicine, my appetite and strength were restored.—G. Cerry, Dunbridge, Ohio.

Ayer's Pills are the best medicine known to me for regulating the bowels, and for all disorders caused by a disordered Stomach and Liver. I suffered for over three years with Headache, Dyspepsia, and Constipation. I had no appetite, and was weak and nervous most of the time.

BY USING

three boxes of Ayer's Pills, and, at the same time dieting, I was cured, to my perfect content.—Mrs. Cornelia Gates, Newark, N. J.

Ayer's Pills have benefited me wonderfully. For months I suffered from dyspepsia and Biliousness. I was sick nearly every night, and had a bad taste in my mouth every morning. I now feel like a new man. Ayer's Pills, all other troubles disappear, my food digests well, my bowels are regular, my sleep is refreshing.—Henry C. Hennessey, Rockport, Texas.

I was cured of the Piles by the use of Ayer's Pills. They are the best cathartic of that painful disorder, but gave me no relief from Costiveness.—Joseph Boudreau, Jr., St. John's, N. B.

Ayer's Pills,

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers in Medicine.

Jos. Beauvais

BOAT-BUILDER.

The Best Modeled, Easiest Rowing, and Best Sailing Boats in Northern Michigan, for the Least Money. Give me a Trial. I am bound to Please.

Boat Livery

In connection with shop.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

A Special Sale

IN CHILDREN'S SUITS,

AND

A GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES

On all other goods

I will sell you a real all-wool suit of underwear for $1.50; a good, heavy winter pants for $1.50; a good, all-wool, kersey suit for $9.00, the best goods for the money that can be made.

Don't fail to give me a call for anything in my line, for

I am Giving Great Bargains This Fall.

Just received my stock of Winter Caps. You will be surprised when you see what I can sell you a Fur Cap for.

GEO. W. MILLER.

THE EARTHQUAKE DID IT!

We mean we got a big bargain on all our cloak purchases. Our New York agent has taken advantage of the

GREAT EXCITEMENT!

And has written us that never before had we secured such an elegant line of

LADIES' MISSES' AND CHILDREN'S

CLOAKS

At Such LOW PRICES.

LADIES, DO NOT PURCHASE A CLOAK or Wrap of any kind until you have seen our goods and learned our prices, as they will come in here.

A big line of everything in Dry Goods coming, wait for them.

Yours, very truly,

F. W. CRAINE & CO.

Shipments.

Oct. 26—Schr. Sea Gem, 75 cords wood, O. J. Smith, to Milwaukee.

28—Schr. Carrie, 400 ties ,Upright & Emery, to Chicago.

29—Schr. Libbie Nan, 120,000 feet hemlock lumber, W. S. Johnson & Co., to Chicago.

29—Schr. Cascade, 4,000 ties, 2,000 posts, W. H. Downing, to Chicago.

Nov. 1—Schr. Success, 5,000 ties, W. H. Downing, to Chicago.

1—Prop. J. H. Pauly, 140 cords wood, R. H. Perkins, to Milwaukee.

1—Schr. Flying Cloud, 7,000 hemlock ties, F. J. Meech, to Chicago.

2—Schr. John Fisher, 140 cords wood, Upright & Emery, to Chicago.

2—Schr. A. J. Money, 100 cords wood, Upright & Emery, to Chicago.

2—Schr. Scotish, 125,000 feet hardwood lumber, Pine Lake Lumber Co., to Sheboygan.

2—Schr. John Larsen, 30,000 feet hardwood lumber, Pine Lake Lumber Co., 30,000 feet, hardwood lumber, A. W. Oslo, to Sheboygan.

2—Schr. Evening Star, 2,000 ties, 1,000 feet, birch lumber, 120,000 feet hardwood lumber, Pine Lake Lumber Co., to Chicago.

3—Ariole, 60,000 hoops, Wilson Hoop Co., to Milwaukee.

3—Seaman, 200,000 feet hardwood lumber, Pine Lake Lumber Co., to Detroit.

Bridge-tender Martin reports the number of times he has opened the bridge during the month of October as follows:

Steamers	271
Tugs	146
Small boats	150
Total	567

A Million Dollars.

Millions of dollars would be saved annually by the health of every community, if, instead of the worthless nostrums which, if they were absolutely good for what they claim, would be a certain cure for the diseases arising from an impure state of the blood and liver, such as scrofula in its various forms, consumption, dyspepsia, constipation, female irregularities, diseases of the kidneys and bladder, and all pulmonary diseases. No medicine can rival these bitters accordingly, for instances, and remain long unwell, provided these bitters are not destroyed by alcohol poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the power of repair. Golden Seal Bitters improve on the old cures more than any other medicine known. Sold by Perry Weed and Dr. G. W. Crosier.

Saved His Life.

Mr. D. I. Wilkenson, of Horse Cave, Ky., says he was, for many years, afflicted with jaundice, also diabetes; the pins were almost unendurable, and would sometimes almost throw him into convulsions. He tried Electric Bitters and got relief from first bottle and after taking six bottles was entirely cured, and had gained in flesh to pounds. He now positively believes he would have died, had it not been for the relief afforded by Electric Bitters. Sold at 50 cents a bottle by Dr. G. W. Crosier.

Only 25 Cents

buys a perfect remedy for sour stomach, diarrhœa, worms, convulsions, feverishness, and loss of sleep. Try it, Dr. Fahr's Magic Pain Oil. It effectually relieves external and internal aches. Sold by Perry Weed and Dr. G. W. Crosier.

☞ Muslin underwear almost given away at F. W. Craine & Co.'s.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., Nov. 4, 1886.

PRODUCE MARKET.

Hay, loose, per ton $12; baled, $18
Corn, per bu. 25c.
Oats, 30 to 35c.
Feed, per ton, $22.
Pork, $12 ℔ bbl, 7c ℔ lb.
Salt, ℔ bbl, $1.25.
Syrup, "Gold Medal," 50c ℔ gal.
Canned Tomatoes, 12c.
Canned Peaches, 15 to 20c.
Coffee, Java and Mocca, 35c.
Farmer's Produce at Upright & Emery's.

UPRIGHT EMREY & Co.

☞ A splendid line of Boots and Shoes, for ladies and gents, boys, girls and misses. More on the road.

☞ A magnificent lot of Dress Goods arrived recently, and we offer them at the very lowest figures.

☞ Hosiery in all styles a specialty, for both ladies and gents—best line in town.

☞ New Groceries received almost every day.

☞ Both Dinner and Tea Sets in Colored Ware at cost.

☞ If you want some Choice Butter go to Upright & Emrey's.

☞ The furniture and fixtures of the Museum is for sale. Those wishing anything from a broom to a piano are invited to call and witness the low prices every article will go at.

G. E. SWEETLAND.

☞ Jefferies' is the cheapest market in town. Everything clear down. Come back old friends and try it.

☞ All who are indebted to me are requested to call and settle before the first of November. Jons McCabe.

☞ Fresh Oysters, direct from Baltimore, at Jefferies' Market.

Local Notes and News.

The steal is republished.

F. W. Wilcox has added a porch to his cottage.

Mrs. S. J. Spalsbary is home from Elk Rapids.

Mike Linsay goes to Wisconsin on a visit this week.

Jas. Washburn has a crow which talks like a parrot.

Al. Draper, of East Jordan, made us a brief call to-day.

Political bargains don't always pan out as expected.

Last Sunday was one of the finest days of the year.

So far the Gazelle has missed but one trip this season.

Walter S. Johnson made a magnificent ink exposition.

Painters and plasterers are at work on the new club house.

Our amateur musicians are busy at rehearsal.

Prof. Sandish, 125,000 feet hardwood lumber, Pine Lake Lumber Co., to Sheboygan.

2—Schr. John Larsen, 30,000 feet hardwood lumber, Pine Lake Lumber Co., 30,000 feet, hardwood lumber, A. W. Oslo, to Sheboygan.

2—Schr. Evening Star, 2,000 ties, 1,000 feet, birch lumber, 120,000 feet hardwood lumber, Pine Lake Lumber Co., to Chicago.

3—Ariole, 60,000 hoops, Wilson Hoop Co., to Milwaukee.

3—Seaman, 200,000 feet hardwood lumber, Pine Lake Lumber Co., to Detroit.

Bridge-tender Martin reports the number of times he has opened the bridge during the month of October as follows:

Steamers	271
Tugs	146
Small boats	150
Total	567

A Million Dollars.

Millions of dollars would be saved annually by the healthy of every community, if, instead of the worthless nostrums which, if they were absolutely good for what they claim, would be a certain cure for the diseases arising from an impure state of the blood and liver, such as scrofula in its various forms, consumption, dyspepsia, constipation, female irregularities, diseases of the kidneys and bladder, and all pulmonary diseases. No medicine can rival these bitters accordingly, for instances, and remain long unwell, provided these bitters are not destroyed by alcohol poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the power of repair. Golden Seal Bitters improve on the old cures more than any other medicine known. Sold by Perry Weed and Dr. G. W. Crosier.

Saved His Life.

Mr. D. I. Wilkenson, of Horse Cave, Ky., says he was, for many years, afflicted with jaundice, also diabetes; the pins were almost unendurable, and would sometimes almost throw him into convulsions. He tried Electric Bitters and got relief from first bottle and after taking six bottles was entirely cured, and had gained in flesh to pounds. He now positively believes he would have died, had it not been for the relief afforded by Electric Bitters. Sold at 50 cents a bottle by Dr. G. W. Crosier.

Only 25 Cents

buys a perfect remedy for sour stomach, diarrhœa, worms, convulsions, feverishness, and loss of sleep. Try it, Dr. Fahr's Magic Pain Oil. It effectually relieves external and internal aches. Sold by Perry Weed and Dr. G. W. Crosier.

☞ Muslin underwear almost given away at F. W. Craine & Co.'s.

The county seat steal is rebuked by the people in spite of the cry of "whiskey ticket."

Ed. Preston's smile Monday morning was caused by that nine pound girl which arrived at his house Saturday night.

Kenny Bros. have established a feather renovating business in the Morgan building, corner of State and Mason streets.

Jos. Beauvais has the frame up for a new boat house on the lot adjoining F. W. Wilcox's. It is 22x40 feet, and two stories in height.

The Historical Society will meet with Miss Maud Loveday at East Jordan, on Nov. 12. The Gazelle will be chartered for the occasion.

Owing to some broken machinery and not enough business to pay expenses the Clare Belle has been laid up for the remainder of the season.

The propeller John H. Pauly, which left this port on Tuesday afternoon, was obliged to return on account of a cylinder head blowing off.

Poor Garbutt,—the catspaw to secure the county seat,—disastrous,—deserted by his managers, repudiated by the people, politically dead and buried.

Earnest Peaslie left at this office last week, two Pomeranian white globe turnips, of perfect form, and solid, which weighed 13½ pounds,—the largest weighing 7¼ pounds.

Our job register shows a business for October nearly double the average for the summer, and $50 better than the best month of the resort season. And it was not all political work either.

The merchants are fast preparing for cold weather by laying in their supplies of winter goods. The careful buyer will consult the columns of the JOURNAL when in search of bargains.

Samuel Pendee, of Milton, handed us an apple of the twenty ounce pippin variety from his orchard, which measured 14½ inches in circumference and weighed two pounds.—Elk Rapids Progress.

The perpetrators of some of the devilries of hallowe'en should serve a term in the house of correction. It is bad enough to transfer signs and gates, but when valuable property is destroyed it is time to call a halt.

An examination of the vote in this county with that of two years ago will convince the most careless observer that the democratic prohibitionists voted the prohibition ticket while the republican prohibitionists voted the straight republican ticket.

A. W. Chew for clerk, A. R. Upright for register, and Z. N. Garbutt for commissioner, on the regular republican ticket, were all defeated by "stump" candidates; yet they were all supported by their recognized official republican organ, the Sentinel.

Dr. Sweetland and wife return to Chicago for the winter, for the purpose of going before a board of physicians in Rush Medical College to demonstrate their new methods of examining diseases of the human system knowing their intrinsic worth.

Postmaster Colbourne, of Healdsburg, takes the cake as a turnip raiser. He pulled some last week weighing 17 pounds apiece and being three feet in circumference. He sold 60 bushels from a piece of ground 164 rods in area. Next!—Independent.

When the news came Thursday morning that Lane was elected, the stars and stripes were raised on the signal service pole. At noon, when the report was received that Tapln was elected, the stars and stripes were hauled down and the storm signal raised in its place.

The receiver of the Scranton & Watson Lumber Co., at Detroit, has filed his inventory and appraisal, as follows: Assets $81,346.09, not including $33,618.25 of bad and doubtful accounts; liabilities, $133,315.06, including $21,10.46 due labor at the East Jordan mill.—Tradesman.

"The special meetings in the Congregational church are being largely attended. Rev. C. F. Van Auken, of Charlevoix, has arrived and will assume control of the meetings. As Mr. Van Auken is the state evangelist of the Congregational body, he brings the experience and knowledge to the work. Meetings are held daily at 2:30 and 7 p. m.—Clare Democrat.

Harrison Berdan and his friends did all they could before the convention to secure Jerrue's nomination, asserting that with Jerrue on the ticket Berdan would have "a walkaway." They misreckoned their money. They raised the cry of "whisky ticket" to divert the people from the other issue,—the enforcement of the county-seat steal,—and got left.

Capt. Clyster will give the Gazie Barker somewhat of a rebuild this fall, and will have the upper deck extended to the bow, the pilot house raised to the upper deck, and a convenient stairway built so that passengers can ride on the hurricane deck. This will add greatly both to the appearance of the boat and to her carrying capacity, Mr. Campbell, of Charlevoix, will have charge of the work.—Independent.

M. S. P. A. at Petoskey.

The following extract from the proceedings of the last meeting of the Michigan State Pharmaceutical Association, shows how the meeting next summer was located at Petoskey:

"Secretary Parkill stated that an invitation had been received from the druggists of Petoskey, inviting the association to hold its next meeting at that place.

"Frank Wells moved that the next meeting of the association be held at Detroit.

"Dr. G. W. Crouter presented the claims of Petoskey, promising the members all the entertainment they could wish and a sight of the grandest body of water they ever looked upon.

"A. Bassett asserted that the association was not looking for entertainment, but should hereafter confine its meetings to 'strictly business.'

"Dr. Crouter asserted with a good deal of feeling that whenever the entertainment feature was eliminated, the association would go down.

"S. S. Parkill, A. W. Allen, A. B. Stevens, M. V. Gunstrum, O. Eberbach, A. B. Lyons and Fred M. Ali (dot) declared themselves in favor of having the next meeting at Petoskey and the convention so voted. The date of the meeting was changed to July 12, 13 and 14."

She Was an Expert.

One of the conductors on the overland road tells of a queer customer that he had for a passenger the other day. The man was a New Englander of middle age, who had been in the West long enough to get a pretty good idea of the country, and he was outward bound not for the purpose of settling down, but to secure a wife, he having jacked one out by letter, as he said when speaking on the subject.

"You see," he told the conductor in one of their confidential conversations, "the West is no place for an eloping woman. I had one of that kind. In fact that was the reason I happened to go West. I'd been farming in Connecticut for a good many years, ever since I was a boy, and the wife of a friend of mine and I got to smiling on each other, and first thing I knew she was suggesting that we skip for the West. She had some money of her own and was a smart woman, and as I had always hankered after a little Western adventure I concluded to join in. Now, stranger, to tell you the truth, I've had more adventure than I counted on. In the first place, the woman's husband got on our trail and clung to it for all of one week, and in the next place I lost the woman.

"We got out here I wanted to get a farm somewhere and settle down, but she wouldn't do it. We went to Idaho prospecting, and before we had been there a month the madam's head begins to get turned. Women are very scarce up there, and it didn't take my woman long to find it out. While I was only a plain sort of farmer man, she pretty soon discovered that there were judges, governors, Mormon kings, silver-mine owners, and big ranchers who were liable to want wives, and, by cracksy, mister, she had it out with a colonel before I knew it. They got married, too. Well, I didn't have much reason to complain, and I thought I'd just leave them. So I followed. When I caught them, in Helena, what do you suppose she said to me? She said, said she:

"'You are good enough to elope with from Connecticut, but you are small potatoes and few in a hill out here. I'm only taking advantage of the opportunities which a new and growing country offers.'

"After that I left her alone. You see, she was just cute enough to scheme, being on the ground, she could marry in great shape if she wanted to, and so she threw me overboard. She's rich now, and will make a big splurge in the East some day. But what I wanted to say to you is this: Don't bring any eloping women out here. If they elope once, they'll do it again, and there's altogether too big a premium on them in this section. The young women I am going back after now is 41 years old, has never been married, and has taught a Sunday-school class thirty years."—Cheyenne Leader.

Homing Instinct of Dogs.

A correspondent of the Country Gentleman writes as follows from Eastville, Va.: "In leaving my bachelor home in Northampton county, Virginia, soon after the late war, to practice medicine in Washington, D. C., I was at a loss to know what to do with a fine setter dog that had been presented to me and one day I asked a friend if I was anxious to leave him in the hands of some friend who would appreciate his many qualities, so taking him to Smith's Wharf, on the Rappahannock river, ten miles from my home, I put him on board the steamer with card and address to a gentleman in Fredericksburg. The dog was duly delivered, as they told me when the steamer passed on her return trip. Three days after this occurrence, while seated in the shade of the large trees that then clustered about the old ancestral mansion, I was suddenly startled by the rapid approach of a joyful whine of a dog, and lo, Sejpio was at my feet—poor, sore-footed and utterly worn out! He had traveled by land from Fredericksburg to Chatham (my home on the Potomac), a distance of about seventy-five miles. Sejpio was brought to me a puppy, and was then two years old, never having been off the farm except when taken to the steamer by myself. I afterward took him up the Potomac with me, and presented him to General Fitzhugh Lee, our present Governor of Virginia."

DRY GOODS!

We offer for the next few days Great Bargains in all

----SUMMER DRESS GOODS----

Shawls, White Goods, Parasols, Silk and Thread Gloves, Hosiery, Straw Hats, etc.

NEW LINE OF BROADHEAD DRESS GOODS, Just received and marked at very low prices.

Jersey and Boucle Jackets, Very Cheap.

Staple & Fancy Groceries,

In great variety and at correct prices. The finest line of

Teas, Coffees, Spices.

PLANTATION JAVA COFFEE, - BEST IN THE WORLD.

Farmers will consult their own interests in buying our

FACTORY-FILLED DAIRY SALT.

J. L. HURD & CO.

NOW IS THE TIME!

ROSENTHAL & SON

ARE PREPARED FOR COOL WEATHER

With a Tremendous Stock of Dry Goods, Clothing, and Gentlemen's Furnishing Goods.

Having just returned from the market, we feel confident in stating that we can show the largest stock of Dry Goods, Fancies, Cloaks, Wraps, Carpets, Matting, Rugs, Clothing, Overcoats, Gent's Furnishing Goods, Hats and Caps, ever shown here at such low figures as we have marked them.

Our styles are so varied that it would be folly to attempt to describe them. As for prices, we shall maintain and increase our well earned reputation of giving the best value for the money. ☞ Please give us a call.

ROSENTHAL & SON.

New Harness Shop.

E. B. Hodge has fitted up part of Bellinger's front for hanging up harness goods, and will undertake to supply the wants of the trade. He will confine himself chiefly to homemade work, which will enable him to guarantee the quality of every article sold. His old friends are invited to give him a call.

What True Merit Will Do.

The unprecedented sale of Boschee's German Syrup within a few years, has astonished the world. It is simply and solely the merits of this remedy that have caused such a demand for it, and the universal satisfaction it gives, coupled with the several long troubles. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual prescriptions given by physicians, as it does not dry up a cough and leave the disease still in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when these diseases make their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land. Price 75 cents, large size $1.00.

Hockins's Arnica Salve.

The Best Salve in the world for cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, Skin eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Dr. G. W. Crouter.

☞ All kinds of yarns at F. W. Craine & Co.'s.

☞ See what bargains F. W. Craine & Co. offer during the month of November and be doing hold.

☞ F. W. Craine & Co. sell goods for no more than they are worth.

UNCLAIMED LETTERS.—The following is a list of letters remaining in the post office at Charlevoix, Mich., at the close of business Saturday, Oct. 30, 1886. If not called for in two weeks they will be sent to the Dead letter office. In calling for any of them please say "advertised."

Bancroft, Alfred
Burnett, Mr. Mamie
Bickmann, Mrs. L. D.
Carter, C. E.
Crossley, Irvine
Cook, Miss Jennie
Conant, Perry E.
Cody Rosier
Dalton, Mrs. Ella
Dale, W. H.
Dale, Mrs. Ella
Dell, Mrs. F.
Englesby, Chas. H. 5
Eaton, Mrs. Frank
Ely, Geo. M
Fitzpatrick, Henry
Gaskey, Mrs. Wm.
Hayes, Jas.
Hawkins, Jonathan
Hughes, Mrs. M. M.
Lavalley, Alex
Lemaitz, Antony
Morse, Albert
Martin, Seymour
McDonald, Geo.
Minton, Thos.
McCarty, Mrs. Levi
McVean, Frank
Peterson, I. M.
Pomeroy, Chas. H.
Quigley, Mrs. R. C. 2
Sheppard, Mrs. Rosa
Smith, P. L.
Stone, Jas.
Stacy, Mrs. Mary
Smith, Mrs.
Smith, Mrs. Emma
Sutton, Lucy
Scung, F. N.
Tuttle, Mrs. Cynthia
Dover, Oliver J.
White, W. H.
Wicker, W. H.
Weadman, Margaret
Zimmerman, Willett

CHAS. J. STRANG, P. M.

FARMERS' HOTEL,

W. W. BAKER, HARBOR SPRINGS, MICHIGAN.

Excellent accommodations for transients and boarders with their families. Good livery in connection. Rates reasonable. The management of this house will not interfere with my usual work at the present trade.

W. W. BAKER.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,

Richard Coors, Proprietor.

Charlevoix - - Michigan.

Finest location in town, giving good view of lakes and resorts. Express office and headquarters for Petoskey and Elk Rapids stages. A good stager room for commercial travelers adjoining hotel.

LEAVE YOUR ORDERS FOR

JOB WORK

AT THIS OFFICE.

John Nicholls,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Manufacturer of and dealer in

HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER!

ALSO

Dressed lumber, Oar Blades,

WAGON TOUCHES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER

New Grocery!

Cor. Antrim and Grant Streets.

A. J. MUDGE

Would respectfully announce to the people of Charlevoix and vicinity, especially the residents of the southwestern part of town, and all coming in from the south, that he has opened a stock of Groceries in his building on the corner of Antrim and Grant streets, and requests all to give him a trial.

BUTTER AND EGGS WANTED

J. A. HEATH,

Furniture and Jobbing Shop

ANTRIM STREET,

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICH.

All kinds of furniture made to order, old furniture repaired, and shop work of all kinds promptly attended to, and satisfaction guaranteed.

☞ Give Me a Call.☜

JAMES HEMMINGS,

On Mason St., third door west of State, Charlevoix.

HOUSE PAINTER,

Calciminer,

Paper Hanger,

And Decorator.

PINK AND HARDWOOD FINISHING. GOOD WORK.

F. E. Wood,

BARBER SHOP

And Bath Rooms.

Hot and Cold Baths at any hour of the day and evening.

COMMERCIAL HOUSE

D. S. PERRYCE, Prop'r.

East Jordan, Michigan.

Entirely refitted and refurnished. First-class Sample Room for agents. Good Stabling in connection with the House.

SOMEHOW OR OTHER WE GET ALONG.

The pool was bustled about the house,
Her face still bright with a pleasant smile,
A broken matches of happy song
Strengthened her heart and hand the while.
Her husband was idling at his trade,
He liked the fire pipe within his jaw,
And all he'd made and all he'd lost
Nearly and clear on his finger tips.

"Good wife, I've just been thinking a bit,
Nothing has done very well this year;
Money is bound to be hard to get—
Everything's bound to be very dear;
How the devil are going to be fed
Or how are you to keep the boys at school,
It's hard on a decent and credit man
I can't make bankers by my rule."

She turned her round from the baking bread,
And she faced him with a cheerful laugh;
"Why, husband, dear, one would think
We'd lived on the fat of the land—poor stuff.
And what if the wheat was only half
As long as we looks are well and strong?
I'm not a woman to worry a bit,
Somehow or other we get along.

"Info some lives some rain must fall,
Over all lands the storm must beat,
But when the rain and storm are o'er,
The after sunshine is twice as sweet.
Some years every stock we have fond a rot,
Some years every crop we found a scour;
We've had to eat our words and our words
But somehow or other we get along.

"For thirty years we have loved each other,
Hand to each other whatever befell.
Six boys have gone from our home and mother,
And all of them living and doing well.
We owe no man a penny, my dear,
We're both of us young, well and strong.
Good lord, I wish you would smoke again,
And wish how well we've got along."

He filled his pipe with a pleasant laugh;
He kissed her with a kiss of a lover pride;
He said: "I'll do as you tell me,
I'll just count up on the other side."
She left him talking with his better thought,
He sat and smoked his pipe with a happy song,
A song that followed me many a year,
Somehow or other we get along.
Philadelphia Times.

Mother and Son.

BY EMMA MAUD PHELPS.

PART I.

It was a long, low house of rough gray stone, with only one story and a high peaked roof.

It was more than a hundred years old, and had been a famous tavern away back in revolutionary ages. One of Washington's generals had passed a night under its roof, it was said.

The old house was now occupied by a widow, a self-styled invalid, and her two nieces.

Mrs. Atkinson had come to the mountains of this Southern State for her health, but finding the noise and gaiety of the fashionable hotel too much for her nerves, and seeing in one of her drives about the country this old house standing empty, she had instituted a search for its owner, found him, taken the house for six months, and removed from the hotel as soon as possible, with her two nieces and three servants.

The departure of these young ladies from the hotel was received by sincerely deplored by every unmarried man in the house, for they were, if not absolutely beautiful, yet undeniably pretty, and though rather reserved, perfectly amiable and well-bred.

The family had now been some six weeks or more in its home among the mountains, and though they were five miles away from the town, and three from the postoffice, the girls had not yet shown any signs of loneliness.

It was September now. It had been clear in the morning, but a shower had come by rather suddenly about an hour ago; it had not cleared off, but settled down into a driving storm of wind and rain.

It was very dreary out of doors, but within it was pleasant enough.

On the hearth, open hearth a fire of nine sticks was snapping cheerily; before the fire was a rug of white bear-skin. The round table, covered with a crimson Turkey-brilliant cloth, was fairly loaded down with books, papers and magazines. There was a big easy lounge, a screen artistically painted, and any number of comfortable easy chairs. Before the fire, bending over an embroidery frame, sat an old working lady. Another girl was seated on the lounge, curled up in a half-reclining attitude, absently at the dropping, swaying, mounting grass-tree.

The worker at the fire looks up now, suddenly puts down her work, and going up to the watcher at the window, says affectionately:

"Does the rain make you melancholy, Nell? I wish for your sake Aunt Kate would have allowed us to stay on at the hotel. It is such a pity you should miss all the hops, the bowling, the tennis, and"—with a lamb—"the nice young men."

The other turns a lovely little microcosm face up at her companion.

"As if I cared for the dancing and the men. I have you, Cousy, and that's all I want. I never expected to be with you again—you know your aunt never could endure me." Constance turns red up to the roots of her hair.

"Aunt Kate is very peculiar in her likes and dislikes, Nell, but she is your aunt, Nell, as much as mine. And she will do you invite one of these days, Nell. I am sure. I don't understand how anybody could dislike you."

"Aunt Kate dislikes me, Cousy; always has and always will. I think the reason must be that my mother married a poor man. A beggarly artist, Aunt Kate once called my father to my face, while she and your mother made very grand matches. Well, Cousy, it is rather too bad; but the sins of the fathers, and mother, too, in this case, are visited upon the children, you know." Then, turning her face to the window again, she continued: "I wonder if while we have been talking, that tramp has gone away again? But I don't think he has; I kept one eye on the window all the time we have been talking together."

"What tramp, Nell? tramps never come here."

"This was a tramp. He came up to the kitchen door about a half an hour ago. He was all wet and completely covered—his clothes were—with mud, and he staggered as he walked as if he were drunk.

"I hope," suddenly, "he hasn't murdered Dinah; still I think Dinah is a match for two tramps at least; don't you?"

"Suppose we go to the kitchen and look after her; and, Nell, did you see the man's face? did he look very wicked and villainous? We are only women in the house. Aunt sent Sejito to the post-office over an hour ago."

"I couldn't see his face; it was hidden by his hat. He was awfully tall, and came staggering up the garden walk like, as they say her, like he was drunk."

"Well, let's go and investigate the mystery."

"Aren't you afraid, Cousy? he may have murdered Dinah, and we are to be his next victims. It is probably sharpening the axe, which has been blunted by coming in contact with Dinah's skull. I am sure Dinah's head is even harder than the average head of the race. And how much harder do they say a negro's skull is than ours, Cousy?"

"I thought you said Dinah was a match for two tramps at least. Don't be a miserable coward, Nell, but follow, follow me."

The girls go through the broad, long hall, and Constance has her hand on the door-latch. As they stand there they hear very plainly through the closed door the sound of groaning. "There!" exclaimed Nell. "Dinah has fallen a victim to the blood-thirsty wayfarer, just as I told you, Constance."

"Nonsense!" and Constance opens the door and enters the kitchen, followed at a safe distance by Nell.

Dinah turns and greets them with a smile that shows her large white teeth from ear to ear. Not from her, however, do these sounds of anguish proceed, but from the stranger, the "tramp," as Nelly dubbed him.

He is lying stretched out at full length on the wooden settee, his face deadly pale, with pain. But the face of the man lying prostrate there is that of a gentleman, unmistakably.

"What is the matter, Dinah? What has happened?" inquired Constance.

On hearing her voice the young man opened his eyes. Seeing a lady he make an effort to rise; an effort promptly suppressed by the noble divinity of her sex.

"Now, you just keep quiet, chile. Don't you going for to hurt yourself, young gentmen," continues Dinah, addressing Constance, "he done hurt powerful bad wound in him's chest, Miss Conny, sure as you're born. Blud himself sectionsidental, I reckon. Did ever you go off and hit yer boxes?" addressing the wounded man.

He shakes his head. "I was shot."

"Shot!" exclaimed the two girls.

"Well, well, don't try for to talk, honey. Jes' keep quiet—that's a lamb."

This to a man six feet taller, he is fancy.

Then, coming close up to Constance, she whispered:

"Sejito, he done gone to the pos'office, and hosi's he back nobow until dark. We had daughter have de doctor, but I must do the best I kin until that jaer nigger Sejito done come back. But de gentmen hurt powerful bad, Jes' sure. I done mix a heap of sojers in de wah.

"Dinah," exclaimed Constance, suddenly, "I'll go for the Doctor. I know where the Doctor lives. I passed his house only yesterday."

After an hour's ride the Doctor's house is reached at last.

He comes riding after her in a very few minutes, and they gallop on in silence.

The Doctor drops his mackintosh in a heap on the steps of the porch, and together they enter the kitchen. Then, to her astonishment, Constance finds her self ushered into the presence of some, the stranger is lying. Nelly, who is seated in a corner of the room directly behind her aunt, grimaces and gesticulates energetically at Constance, who stares at her in amazement. The Doctor approaches, and to where the wounded man is lying.

The patient smiles faintly, and nods out a languid hand of recognition.

"Well! I see you, yes, old man" is his greeting to the physician.

"Hurt badly, hey?" says the Doctor, turning toward the ladies, "on every one's leaving the room but Sejito and Dinah, I shall want you."

"Sush I's gwine to stay, Doctor," returns Dinah. "I done nurse a heap of sojers in de wah. Yes, I reckon you couldn't get on without me, sure as you're born."

"The girls will go, of course," says Mr. Atkinson, "but, Doctor, surely I may stay. I am his mother."

"I don't know," returns the Doctor, doubtfully.

"Doctor, I must stay. I'll keep perfectly still. I won't be in the way at all. Surely, you'll not drive me away from my son."

"Well, well, if you insist, of course; but, young ladies, you be kind enough to get out home—directly."

The girls gently sentle away, very much startled at the Doctor's sudden exhibition of temper.

When they have left the kitchen a safe distance behind them Constance informs her companion, "How did Aunt Kate happen to go into the kitchen and find Fred there?"

"Well, she woke up, and nobody thought of taking her tea to her. I was in the kitchen with Dinah, it was so lonely in the sitting-room, and I was so worried about you—not, all alone, in that dreadful storm. Anyhow, listening, refusing to Fred's groans—he had fallen asleep, you know, was moaning pitifully—and wringing the hands of the kitchen clock, which really did and seem to move one bit, he door opened and Aunt Kate came stalking into the room, looking for all the world like Lady Macbeth in the sleep-walking scene. 'What is all this?' she said. 'How did this man come here? Who brought him here?'—glaring at me, you know she doesn't like me.

"'Well, that man' woke up at the sound of her voice, 'Mother,' he said, and fainted away. I thought he was dead, then he was so white and cold, and it was such a long time before he came to."

"They are in Constance's room now, and Nelly is helping her cousin to exchange her garments for dry ones.

"Constance, what a judgment it will be on Aunt Kate if Fred dies! It was her son, and she has not seen him, not spoken a word to him, for five long years, ever since Fred married a girl she didn't like, who in death bedded and under the sod these three years."

Late in the afternoon of the next day, Constance, seated at the window, seeing the doctor ride up, goes to the door and opens it for him.

"My cousin," are her first words; "will he live, Doctor? He is not mortally wounded, I hope?" in an apologetic tone, "have been fast asleep almost ever since—"

"Not a doubt about his recovery. I think all right with him, and left him to see about hunting his trunk out here.

"I have also found out how Mr. Atkinson came to be shot.

"It was no accident—it was a piece of villainy. He left the hotel early yesterday morning—you know it did not come on the rain until the afternoon, the shower lasting finally into a pouring rain—to a shooting expedition. He took with him as guide a hanger-on about the inn known to everybody by the sobriquet of Slippery Jos. Mr. Atkinson was warned by several not to go off alone in company with such a character as Slippery Jos. But he said, laughingly, he hoped he was not afraid of any one man, no matter what his reputation might be. It appears they were joined later in the day by two friends of Slippery Jos—mulattoes these, though Jos is a white man—and the three, when they entered the woods just below here, demanded his watch and money of Mr. Atkinson. He refused to give up his property, there was a struggle, and in it your cousin was shot and left for dead. Jos and his companions were at the hotel this morning. They told the hotel-keeper Mr. Atkinson had sent them back, waiting he preferred such a short distance from the woods for fear of your cousin would have prevented them from cold and exposure, if not from his wound—which I am happy to say is not as bad as I first feared—he is pain through now, thanks, I'm continued, mainly, to the young lady who rode five miles in a driving storm to fetch a surgeon for him.

"And thanks," replied Constance, returning his smile, "to the surgeon who came directly he was called."

PART II.

A month has rolled away since Fred, bleeding and wounded, staggered to the threshold of his mother's door.

It is late October. The moth wins is whistling among the tops of the pines.

It is evening. The fire is lighted, the heavy curtains drawn.

Mrs. Atkinson, lame and helpless, is sitting peacefully among the cushions of her easy-chair.

The Doctor and Constance are playing chess.

Fred, lying on a couch, is listening indolently to Nelly's lore, vivacious as ever. She has drawn a low chair close up to the couch, and, glancing from her work now and again from under her long, curly lashes, "Fred, Fred," she says, "you are in the thick, soft curls of her fair hair. "How is it?" addressing the invalid, very ceremoniously—how is it that your hair is shaded, did you get it so by the fashion?

"Fashion indeed! Did you think I would cut off my hair to be in the fashion? Nelly, Nelly, I am not so stupid. I lost my hair in a fever I had three months ago. I was a raving lunatic—a madman—raving, but I broke down ignominiously, right in the midst of a term, with nervous fever. The people in the boarding house where I was lost it into their heads that it was some kind of contagious fever, and I had, and so I was left to the tender mercies of a chambermaid, who was drunk more than half the time."

"I see, and, Nell, I must give those curls just one pull, not a very hard one, of course, but a pull. My health, all my prospects of complete happiness depend at, waiting the action to the word."

Nelly gives a mischievous laughing shriek, and Constance raises her eyes from the chess-board.

Her face grows pink from brow to chin, and the drops her eyes again as quickly as she had raised them.

The chances of the game have until that moment been in her favor, but the news of Fred made now causes her adversary to exclaim: "I don't see how you manage to win, I think. You may take it back if you please.

"Oh, no—no! I made the very move I intended to," not a blush, and her serenity raises his eyebrows in astonishment. A very few moments more, and the game is finished, and Constance totally routed, of course.

"I am afraid I played very badly," she says as she puts the men away into the box, "but Nelly has been teasing me. He keeps pulling at my dress every few minutes, like a spoiled little Yokohama terrier."

Constance's earnest pet and property, Fred, was, what is the dog's name, anyhow, on my lap?" stopping and picking him up.

But Nap evidently does not want to come on his mistress' lap; he refuses to stay there, runs to the door, whines, scratches on the panels, then scoots back to his mistress, jumps up on her lap, and then to the door again.

Constance rises and opens the door, but the little doggy, though he runs down the corridor a short distance, returns almost directly, and, put as the mistress is about to close the door, he stands up again, leaks his hand, his bright dark eyes—"Fred, Fred, I'm sure he wants you."

"Fred, come here, Nap, at once," Constance gives a backward glance into the room before following her favorite.

Mrs. Atkinson's eyes are closed. She is sitting very erect now in her arm-chair, glancing from Nelly in Nelly's direction, whose head, as she sits, has taken up her lamb, and is singing softly, the two gentlemen admiring and attentive auditors. "It was a lovely lullaby, and so dressed."

Constance hears her sing, as she softly closes the door behind her.

Nap, delighted that he has induced his mistress to follow him, trots off in the direction of the kitchen.

"Well, Nap, now what is it you want—some milk?"

The kitchen is dark, save for the light of the smoldering fire of logs upon the hearth. Dinah is sleeping in the room overhead; her snoring fairly shakes the ceiling.

But Nap spurns the milk. He whines, he runs scuttling along the wall, stopping under an old-fashioned casement window, which has been left slightly ajar.

"Oh, she is not the dog to be insulted, you frosty little Nap."

The little animal has grown all of a sudden very quiet; it crouches close up against the casement, and stays there until Fred upon her face.

Constance's hand, which is raised to close the window, drops heavily against her side.

Surely there are voices speaking under the window. She bends forward and listens.

Her face grows white, her breath checks as she does so. She gets out her hand and presses it on her bosom, close up to her, as silent, immovable now as she.

Nap has gone nearer, then Constance fastens the window, carefully replaces the fire, presses a heavy mounted chair against the side-door, which is provided with a stout, old-fashioned wooden bolton. This done she returns to the sitting-room.

"Where is Dr. Preston?" are her first words.

"Gone," returns Nelly, "gone a half an hour ago. Didn't you hear him ride off? Have you been unknown, then, to me?

"I was in the kitchen."

"In the kitchen! What were you doing there at this time of night, pray?"

"Well, Nap, you see, Fred sent me there. Aunt—Fred—is to too, too horrible to think Dr. Preston has gone, for there are four men outside, waiting until the house is dark to rob it. I heard them. It was Nap who discovered them: it was that that made him restless and fidgety the whole evening. Nelly, why did you let the Doctor go?"

"He had to see a patient."

"Constance, you are dreaming!" exclaims her aunt.

"I am not, indeed, Aunt Kate. I heard them as plainly as I hear you now. They came to know that there is a great deal of plate in the house, and that you have your diamonds with you.

Fred has left his couch at her first words, and is standing opposite to her.

The doors are strong and well furnished with locks and bolts, all except the small side door in the kitchen.

"But that is the very door by which they will enter the house—they seem to know it well. Nap is away at a prayer-meeting, and Fred is wounded. One man wounded at that, against four strong ruffians. God help us all!" says Mrs. Atkinson.

"Mother, you and the girls had better go to your rooms and lock the doors. I will wait for the scoundrels in the kitchen, and if they attempt to enter give them a warm reception. Don't give way to mother. One man inside a house is a match for four outside it. I will take my pistols, and you and the girls can send your screamers up in one of the towers.

"Leave you to face death alone?" exclaims Constance and Nelly in one breath. We—at least Constance and I"—the ruling passion causing her even in this moment of suspense and danger to leave Nelly out—"we will go with you, and if we die we'll all die together."

"Nonsense—no motion, I entreat. Don't talk about dying yet. I should feel so humiliated, I should, indeed, if I thought you women were safely locked up in your rooms, and I had to be insulted, recently, the cost of tubing and of excavation is avoided; and, thirdly, the sewage can be carried off underground instead of being compelled to follow all the serpentine windings of the sinuous. But the electrical overhead wires in Europe are doomed.

The Prince Who Founded Heidelberg.

Count Palatine Rupprecht I., who founded the University of Heidelberg just five hundred years ago, was a very wise prince, and Italian princes of today may appreciate the advantages of learning all the more. He ordered, among other things, that students in travelling should be treated as princes and not offered no violence. Rupprecht well understood the danger of traveling in his dominions, for he ran two strong fortified robbers' nests of his own, for the purpose of wresting unwilling tribute from the traveling public. Students were exempt until they had finished their curriculum and were taking it home so have it framed preparatory to drawing it, when the Prince would swoop them in just like common folks.
—Texas Siftings.

Two Georgia Women.

Within fifteen miles of Atlanta, in a pretty little village, is perhaps the only lady depot agent in Georgia. It is possible that she is the only one in this country. She is a lady widow, and her own exertions several months ago by the death of her husband, who was the village depot agent at the time of his demise. Although the railroad was in no way responsible for the agent's sudden death, the vacancy at the depot was promptly tendered the widow. The pay was $1 a day, which is the country is a good salary for a woman. The position was accepted, and the lady depot agent was duly installed. She receives and forwards freight, sells tickets, and attends to whatever business comes to her lot, and is giving entire satisfaction to the road and to the public. The idea of a lady depot agent swinging a lantern around the platform of the depot, meeting trains and answering tiresome questions for a dull public seemed novel and heroic to me. I mentioned the circumstance and expressed my admiration in the presence of some lady friends. I thought I had found a real heroine, and was quite surprised by the lack of enthusiasm which followed my recital.

After a pause one of the ladies remarked: "The widow who took her husband's place at the depot deserves great praise, but there are many homeless vacancies to be filled and many depots to be kept. Three years ago, I was a girl—a graceful, slight ancemone, with fair, smooth skin, serious, calm, white hands, and big, deep-blue eyes sensitively mirroring every emotion that stirred her gentle heart. I never rested my eyes on her graceful little form without thinking of the children, the Puritan maiden, Priscilla," and the charm of her pure, sweet nature. To-day I met my little friend, and she was robed in black and had worked the folds of crape her shining gold hair and tender blue eyes. This meek girl, this fair maiden Priscilla, all steeped in angel instincts," had taken upon her own heart and hands the cares and duties of mother to her young orphan brothers and sisters.

"The widow and the young girl both deserve praise, I remarked, "and both instances are sad."

"Yes," was the reply. "It is the pity of it. Tiger, Tiger, burning bright in the lonely deep, Will there be one to look upon thy wings his soul. On entering the kitchen door she finds the door of the kitchen which wings his soul. On entering the kitchen door she finds the door of the kitchen which wings his soul. On entering the kitchen door she finds the door of the kitchen which

School Books
and
School Supplies

Our Prices are Rock Bottom, Lower than ever!

We have a full supply of every book used in the Charlevoix schools. Also a full supply for every school in the county.

Something New

In Scratch Books, Spelling Slips, Inks, Pens, Pencils, Rulers, Slates Chalks, School Registers, Etc.

The largest stock of Blank Books in the county!

If you want to save money, call at

G. W. CROUTER'S Drug & Stationery Store,

For supplies in general.

Temperance Column.

Conducted by a Committee of the W. C. T. U.

OFFICERS.

President—Mrs. G. W. Jefferies.
First Vice-President—Mrs. C. Y. Cook.
Second Vice-President—Mrs. J. E. Madge.
Treasurer—Mrs. Wm. Bennett, Jr.
Recording Secretary—Miss Julia Moore.
Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. L. E. Allen.
Pianist—Mrs. C. J. Strang.

Plank on High License.

The foundation of republican government is intelligent manhood and womanhood. To perpetuate itself the government must foster and sustain all institutions which tend to elevate and ennoble man and suppress all institutions which degrade, debauch, and ruin him. The public saloon, grog-shop or whatever you call it is simply a school of misery, vice, and crime. It has not one redeeming feature. It ruins its customers, degrades his wife, beggars his children. Through his terrible appetite it controls the vote of its victim, and through such votes mike and unmake officers. It is despotic and aggressive in the use of its power.

"License in all its forms has been tried for years, and so far as reducing the evils of drink or evils growing out of drink is a total failure. License laws never were enforced, never can be enforced, and never will be enforced. Take Chicago for an example. In there are by less drinking or drunkenness, or is the saloon power in politics any less under high license than under license? Local option is a demonstrated failure because it turns the cities over into the hands of the vile elements by isolating them from the moral country districts. Local option might as well be applied to polygamy, gambling, and prostitution as to liquor selling. The state must protect its life by bringing the moral strength of the country to bear on the cities. Local option makes good centers better and bad ones worse. "Birds of a feather flock together," and the drunkards have a right to abandon certain centers to the control of the vicious simply because they are in the majority. The prohibitionists want a law which will make it a crime and unprofitable to sell liquor; then the executive officer in sympathy with the law; then behind that officer an organized party that will break his political neck if he does not do his duty and enforce the law.

"After the election of 1884 the national non-partisan league was organized for the avowed purpose of usurping the prohibition party. In 1885 a temperance committee of fifteen fought the prohibitionists in New York. Investigation showed the committee of fifteen to be Gen. Thomas Conway and an office boy, both in the pay of the republican state committee. The assembly is gone dead, the national league has closed its offices, the committee of fifteen was at Chicago, in the person of Gen. Conway, and I imagine that will all be resurrected in 1888 in the political committee managed by Mr. Griffin. All this work helps our party, and our forces are increasing in numbers every day."

MISS L. SPAULDING,

MILLINERY

and Fancy Goods.

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

CANINE WISDOM.

A Southern Story of a Savage and Sagacious Dog.

The fact that a dog at the president's bait Saturday, as telegraphed from the Lake Saranac fishing-ground, recalls a similar experience on the part of a journalist and a criminal judge of this city some years ago at Bay St. Louis, Miss. The two set out one morning after breakfast to the end of one of the bathing piers to try the fascinating diversion of rod and reel. In one basket they carried a little bait for the fish, and in another a little more for themselves. They set their two baskets behind them on the line of the long and narrow wharf, dropped their lines into the water, and dangled their legs over the end of the pier waiting for a bite. They had waited about an hour when the judge, getting a bite, landed a large croaker on the wharf behind him. He turned just in time to see the tail of his fish disappear down the throat of a big-jawed, savage looking brindle bulldog. The judge and the journalist entertained no but of exceptions in the case, as the dog looked like he had come there on important business, and wouldn't stand any fooling. So they sat still and waited to drop overboard at the first symptom of a further canine invasion.

The dog regarded the anglers a moment with silent contempt, then he calmly devoured all the bait in the fish-basket. Next he turned his attention to the lunch-basket, and literally cleaned up its solid refreshments. He then started to walk leisurely away, and two passive hearts began to beat more freely; but, turning as if he had forgotten something, he again went to the lunch-baskets, and scratching among the empty paper parcels, resurrected a whisky bottle from its depths, and rolling it out on the wharf, let its neck break in the fall. The bulldog stopped, lifted his head, and gave the amateur Waltonians a long and settled look of scorn; then he pounded one of his paws at the broken bottle as if professing against the use of any more whisky by the party that day, and turning, with a parting salve, took another knot in his tightly-curled tail and trotted off in a dignified manner, as if he had fish to fry somewhere else.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

They were engaged, he and she, as they sat in the gloaming. The rays of the vanishing sun peered in golden sheen the surface of the lake before them, and intensified with its varied hues the beauties of the cottages and woodlands that skirted the shore. He and she were silent, as become lovers who have been long separated and are together again. His arm right arm was invisible. She found great difficulty in breathing. "Have I changed any?" queried he. "You are strouger," she replied, catching her breath. "Have you joined the boxing club?" "No," he replied. "The only club I belong to is the St Paul Press Club."—St. Paul Globe.

Don't Experiment.

You cannot afford to waste time in experimenting when your lungs are in danger. Consumption always seems at first only a cold. Do not permit any dealer to impose upon you with some cheap imitation of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption coughs and colds, but be sure you get the genuine. Because it can make more profit he may tell you he has something just as good or just the same. Don't be deceived, but insist upon getting Dr. King's New Discovery which is guaranteed to give relief in all throat, lung, and chest affections. Trial Bottles free at the G. W. Crouter's.

Money Refunded.

The true remedy has at last been discovered. It was long known in its properties as the Pacific Coast Cough Cure, and was used by the Indian Medicine Men for years. It is the safest, the surest and the best. It is pleasant to take and unexceptionally speedy in its effects. We warrant it and will promptly refund the money to any one who may be dissatisfied after using two-thirds of the contents of the bottle we sell for 50 cents. Sold by Percy Wood and G. W. Crouter.

Skin diseases cannot be successfully treated by external applications. The proper way to cure such complaints is to purify the blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Under the vitalizing influences of this medicine all the functions of the body are brought into healthy action.

Hundreds of persons who have used Ayer's Hair Vigor attest its value, as a stimulant and tonic, for preventing and curing baldness, cleansing the scalp, and restoring the youthful color to faded and gray hair.

The Detroit Free Press

FREE

For Four Months.

FIFTY CENTS

Will pay for the two best Newspapers published in the State of Michigan

For 4 Mo's.

On receipt of the above amount we will send

The Charlevoix Journal

—And—

THE WEEKLY DETROIT FREE PRESS

to any address for FOUR MONTHS on trial.

Everybody knows The Free Press. It is published in this entirely in of the State, is a daily newspaper, contrasks all others. It is surprising, newsy, original, spicy and entertaining, and should find a place in every household.

The Journal speaks for itself. It is a necessity to every resident of Charlevoix who would keep himself posted on local affairs.

Neither of these offers will be accepted for only a limited length of time.

SUBSCRIBE AT ONCE.

☞ Send order to

THE JOURNAL,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Old subscribers who desire the Free Press during the campaign can have it sent them for 50 cents, if all arrears to date, and at least one month in advance is paid.

Millinery And Fancy Goods!

A Splendid Line of Ribbons, Ladies' Gloves, Zephyrs, Laces, Ladies' Fine Underwear, and Stamping Goods always on hand at Lowest Prices.

Smith & Cooper,
At the Ingleside.

The above Eyeglass invented by the Johnston Optical Co., of Detroit, Mich., combines 5 features of value to the wearer.

1st. The lenses can be pierced far enough away for always comfort to will not touch them, a thing not possible with other eye-glasses.

2d. The guards are so bent as to rest on the nose under eye-brows where they are entirely slipping and falling off.

3d. Less pressure is on the fleshy part of the nose than any other, which prevents irritation.

4th. The lens fastener is so made that it will not unscrew by the jarring of the wearer.

5th. The lenses are set at right angles to line of vision.

Without a frame, glasses invented by the Johnston Optical Co. are perfectly safe and comfortable. Sold by reputable dealers.

C. G. BELLINGER,
Optician and Jeweler, Charlevoix, Mich.

THE STAR

A Newspaper supporting the Principles of a Democratic Administration.

Published every Day in the Week by

WILLIAM DORSHEIMER,

Editor and Proprietor.

Daily, Sunday, and Weekly Editions.

THE WEEKLY STAR,

A Sixteen-page Newspaper, issued every Wednesday.

A clean, pure, bright and interesting

FAMILY PAPER.

It contains the latest news, down to the hour of going to press;

Agricultural,
Market,
Fashion,
Household,
Political,
Financial and Commercial,
Poetical, Humorous and Editorial

Departments, all under the direction of trained journalists of the highest ability. Its sixteen pages will be found crowded with good, thoughtful, original stories by distinguished American and foreign writers of fiction.

THE DAILY STAR,

The DAILY STAR contains all the news of the day in a condensed form. Special correspondence by cable from London, Paris, Berlin, Vienna and Rome, in addition to the cable dispatches.

At Washington, Albany, and other news centers, special correspondents are maintained by the STAR's staff, furnish the latest news by telegraph.

The financial and Market Reviews are unusually full and complete.

Liberal terms and extraordinary inducements to agents and canvassers.

Send for circulars.

TERMS OF THE WEEKLY STAR to Subscribers, FIVE cents per copy, or $1 a year in the United States and Canada, outside the limits of New York City.

TERMS OF THE DAILY STAR to Subscribers in New York City and Brooklyn, delivered by carriers, 50 cents per month.

Daily (except Sunday), six months.....$2 00
Daily (except Sunday), one month.....$1 00
Daily, including Sunday, six months.....$3 00
Daily, including Sunday, one month.....$1 00

Address, "THE STAR,"
36 and 38 North William St., New York

Poster Printing

Quick and Cheap,

At the Journal Office

Owing to Special Rates in Photographic Stock, I will continue to make

Cabinet Photographs at $4.00 per Dozen

Until further notice.

Dave Bradbeer,
Photographer,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

For Baking Purposes.
Best in the World.
Sold by Upright & Emrey.

WM. J. STEVENSON,
HORSE-SHOEING,
Wagon Shop,
BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order, manufacture my own wagons, of the best materials, and warrant them to GRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, HASTINGS&NEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

☞ The OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale. 42

At the Old Stand.

A. J. McLeod

Can be found at the old stand with a

FULL STOCK OF MEATS

Of all kinds

At Wholesale and Retail.

HIDES, PELTS, & FAT STOCK WANTED

We have the

ATKINS SAWS,

Perfection Axes,

—AND THE—

ROUND OAK STOVES.

Job and Tin Work. L. D. BARTHOLOMEW & CO.

Come and See our Immense Stock of

BOOTS AND SHOES.

FOX & MILLER.

HENRY C. COOPER

Undertaker!

CHARLEVOIX MICHIGAN.

Coffins, Caskets, and Trimmings Always in Stock.

Come and See my Stock of Furniture.

ALL ORDERS BY TELEPHONE RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION

Charlevoix Manufacturing Company,
MANUFACTURERS OF

Sash, Doors, and Blinds,

Screen Doors and Windows, and Mouldings of all Descriptions.

Newell Posts, Banisters, and Stair Rail, of Soft and Hard Wood, kept in Stock and Made and Put Up to Order.

A GOOD STOCK OF

PINE AND HEMLOCK SIDING,

FLOORING, CEILING, AND FINISHING LUMBER KEPT ON HAND.

Also Contractors, Builders, and General Jobbers.

Cottages a Specialty.

CHARLEVOIX MICHIGAN.

PERRY WEED,

DRUGGIST AND STATIONER,

OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 174. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1886. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL
Published every Thursday,
BY CHAS. J. STRANG.
Office on Bridge Street,
CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, MICH. AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

WATCH YOUR ADDRESS LABEL.

The date following the name on your address label indicates the time to which your subscription is paid. If in arrears, you are requested to pay up.

BUSINESS CARDS.

ATTORNEYS.

ARTHUR E. MARTIN, Attorney at Law, Boyne City. Collections promptly attended to.

CROSS & SHANK & GRIER, Attorneys at Law Office in Bank Block, Petoskey, Mich. C. J. GRIER.

HART & CALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents, Lake St., east of postoffice, Petoskey, Mich.

LUCIUS C. SLAYTON, Attorney and Counselor, Real Estate business promptly attended to. MONEY TO LOAN.

J. L. SEWBERRY, Attorney at Law and Judge of Probate of Emmet Co., Petoskey, Mich.

MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

OSCAR T. CONNER, Attorney at Law and United States Circuit Court Commissioner, Western District, Petoskey, Mich.

W. N. MOORE, Attorney and Solicitor, East Jordan, Mich. Admiralty a Specialty.

ZN. GARRETT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

CHURCHES.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7:00 o'clock. A. T. WATERMAN, pastor.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:00 o'clock. A. T. WATERMAN, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7:00 o'clock. W. H. MCCARTHY, pastor.

DENTISTRY.

N. J. PERRY, Dentist. Office at Weed's drug store. CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

BUFFIELD, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Domestic Cases, Charlevoix, Mich.

PHYSICIANS.

LEWIS M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office in the Lewis block, Charlevoix, Mich.

SHEPARD, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HORACE S. HASSIA, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

G. A. R.—Baxter Post No. 119, meets second Monday in each month. J. E. MADGE, Adjt.

I. O. O. F.—Round Lake Lodge, No. 265, meets every Wednesday evening, in their hall.

K. O. T. M.—Charlevoix Tent, No. 103, meets every Thursday every month at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. L.—True Blues No. 157, meet Saturday on or after full moon at their hall. J. E. MADGE, Dictator.

MANONIC.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 345, meets at Masonic hall on or before full moon, at least half the nights.

W. F. BROWN, Cashier. W. A. BROWN, Ass't Cashier.

Brown & Co.'s Bank of Charlevoix
CAPITAL, $25,000.

Drafts drawn direct on the principal cities of the world. Collections receive prompt attention. Interest allowed on time deposits. Money to loan from all points in Europe by best lines. Connections in Chicago, Detroit, Milwaukee, New York; First National Bank, Chicago; Merchants and Manufacturers' National Bank, Detroit; Fourth National Bank, Grand Rapids.

CHARLEVOIX
Savings Bank

Organized under the General Banking Law of the State of Michigan.

Henry Bennett, President.
John Nicholls, Vice President.
F. A. Smith, Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

Henry Bennett, O. D. Wood,
John Nicholls, A. Butters,
A. D. Upright, A. Fox.

CAPITAL.....$50,000
Surplus.....2,000

The business of Stockholders in all state banks as provided in Act 314, Sec. 40 of Revised Statutes of Michigan is added to double the amount of stock taken, making a guaranteed fund of 100,000 to secure the depositors. Interest on time deposits at every anniversary. Special attention to business extended to our customers by mail. Drafts on Europe are sold here at Gold-Bank Rates.

Drafts drawn direct on the leading commercial cities of the world in large or small amounts. Money to loan on approved paper. Exchange bought and sold. Certificates of deposit issued bearing interest.

We respectfully solicit your patronage.

CORRESPONDENTS:

NATIONAL PARK BANK.....NEW YORK.
COMMERCIAL NAT. BANK.....CHICAGO.
FIRST NATIONAL CITY BANK.....GRAND RAPIDS.
DETROIT NATIONAL BANK.....DETROIT.

GOLD! Gold is no more, but those who write to Hallett & Co., Portland, Maine, will receive by return mail, free, some thing that will pay them handsomely for the time, and 10 cent stamp. Any one can do it and live at home. Some have made over $50 in a day. Women make as much as men. Boys and girls can earn a fortune. All succeed who follow our plain directions. The expenses of the business are so small and the profits so large. There will not be an idle or unfortunate one. Address as above.

THE JOURNAL

1872. 1886.

DR. G. W. CROUTER,

Drugs, Stationery and Wall Paper.

Dental Office in Rear of Drug Store.

ADVERTISEMENTS of three lines or less will be inserted in this column for each insertion. (This type will average seven words to a line.) Each additional line, three cents each insertion.

TEN CENTS

JOB PRINTING of every description executed promptly, neatly, artistically, and cheaply, at the JOURNAL Office.

JOHN HOGAN, HOUSE PAINTER AND INTERIOR DECORATOR, Charlevoix, Mich. Residence one door west of factory.

LETTER HEADS, Note Heads, Statements, Bill Heads, etc., neat, cheap, and quick, at the JOURNAL Office.

MEN WANTED—at good men to work at Nursery stock. Address, stating age, Ridge Nurseries, Ashtabula, Ohio.

Terrace Farm

J. R. & J. S. DIXON
Charlevoix, Mich.
Dairy, Vegetable, and Stock Farm. THOROUGHBREDS and Grade HOLSTEINS a specialty.

CLAY TOBACCO-PIPES.

A Description of the Way in Which They Are Manufactured and Various Designs.

It will surprise nearly every Brooklynite, says the Eagle, to know that nine-tenths of all the tobacco clay pipes manufactured in the United States are made in Brooklyn, and yet such is the fact. Over fifteen thousand gross of clay pipes are annually produced by the three factories located in this city, which together employ thirty hands, or an average of ten each. A visit was made to the largest of these factories, which is situated on Kosciusko street, near Broadway, and which is run on the cooperative system, being the result of a combination of several small manufacturers, who found that the profit on the goods was too small to allow of much competition. Probably less than one person in a thousand knows how the clay pipe is made.

The clay used in the manufacture of the common pipe is obtained from Woodbridge, N. J., and costs at the pit $1 per ton, to which the freight and carting added, the raw material does not cost at the factory $5 per ton. The clay obtained at Woodbridge is said to be superior for pipe-making to that obtained in Dorchester and Devonshire in England, as it is more absorbent and therefore more readily to the smoker. A fine bed of clay is also said to exist near Grant Cove, L. I. The clay after being delivered at the factory is allowed to stand in the sun for a few days to become seasoned. After being exposed sufficiently long it is mixed with water and "milled," the process consisting of running it through a mill which crushes it and removes all gritty and foreign substances. After coming from the mill it is worked and kneaded by hand, much in the same manner as bread, and whatever grit remains is carefully removed. Great care is taken to have the clay of the same consistency throughout or otherwise the pipe would crack and become spoiled under the test of the kiln. When the clay has been worked sufficiently it is given to the "roller," as the man who fashions it is called. His tools are of the simplest, a wooden bench, a stool, a rolling-board, and his hands constituting his "kit." The clay is placed on the right hand of the bench, an easy reaching distance to the workman, and then the second process of pipe-making is gone through. Grasping a handful of clay the workman separates it in halves, and, placing them on the board, rolls them, one with each hand, until they have reached the length desired, one end, of which the bowl is made, resembling a small-sized pear. When it is remembered that only about one ounce of extra clay is allowed for each desired pipe rolled, it will be seen how difficult it is to grasp just the exact amount necessary for each pipe from the pile of clay without calling into requisition the aid of scales. After being rolled the partly-formed pipe is laid on a board just the length of the pipe desired, when if the stem is too long it is broken off at the required length.

After one dozen pipes have been rolled in this fashion they are benched and passed over to the helper, who sits on the opposite side of the bench, on one end of which is the machine with which the pipe is made. It consists of a lever, the lower end of which is a plunger, the size of the bowl of the pipe to be made. Below the plunger is a slat in which the iron mold is placed, the slat allowing the mold to enter until the bowl of the pipe is directly underneath the plunger. When the half-made pipes are handed to the man at the machine he picks up the bunch in one hand, dipping the other in a tub, with which he oils the clay, separating the bunch as he does so. After oiling the clay he picks up the iron mold, which is double, separating at the center, and opening it he dips his finger in the oil and with a quick movement oils the inside of the mold, which from constant use shines like burnished steel. The mold is the exact size and shape of the pipe. After the mold is oiled the workman picks up a long steel wire and, oiling it, proceeds to insert it in the stem of the pipe, pulling the clay on in about the same manner as a glove is put on the hand. After the wire has been inserted nearly to the bowl portion of the pipe, the clay is placed in a mold, which is then closed and placed in the slot of the machine, care being taken that the wire in the stem does not reach to the bowl, as if it did the plunger which forms the bowl would break it. The mold is mashed as far as possible into the slot, and while being held there with one hand the workman turns a screw at the side of the machine, with the other hand, forcing an iron plate against the mold, the pressure forcing out all superfluous clay and forming the pipe. The lever to which the plunger is attached is then lowered, the plunger entering the bowl portion of the mold forcing out the clay and making the bowl. The mold is then withdrawn from the machine, the wire in the stem being forced into the bowl of the pipe, making the hole through which the smoke is drawn. The clay which has been forced out of the mold is then cut away with a knife and the pipe removed from the mold and placed upon a tray. In some of the machines used a knife is attached to the lever, the superfluous clay being cut from the mold as it is removed from the machine. It is an American invention, but owing to the fact that it does not always work smoothly it is only used upon the more common pipes. The wooden trays when full are placed in the sun to allow the clay to dry moderately. They are then taken by a girl, and each pipe is carefully polished with a piece of hard wood. A "trimmer," a block of hard wood, is placed in the bowl and turned around to smooth the bowl, while a piece of iron attached to the "trimmer" cuts the wreath on the outside of the bowl. The stamp that is seen on the front of the bowl is then put on by means of a hand stamp, and the pipe is ready for the "putter," another girl, who places the pipes, bowl down, into an earthen pot called a "saggar," which, after being filled with pipes, is covered with a flat earthen cover and placed in the kiln. The clay before being burned is of a sixty hue. The various decorations, such as wreaths, fern leaves, figures, etc., seen on the pipes are formed by the mold. After the kiln has been filled with the "saggars" containing the pipes the door is closed and the fire built. The fuel used is coke, and the fire and the fire is kept at a white heat for twenty hours, the heat entering the kiln by means of flues. Great care is taken not to allow the flames to reach the white clay pipes, as the slightest touch of fire would blacken them. After remaining in the kiln the required time the pipes, which by that time have become perfectly white and hard, are removed and allowed to cool, and are then carefully examined and placed in the boxes and barrels ready for shipment. The clay pipes, the bowls of which are colored in imitation of meerschaum, are made in the same manner, excepting that the fire is allowed to reach them in the kiln. The meerschaum coloring is obtained from the white clay pipes which look like new meerschaums are made so by being varnished.

The factory visited makes about fifty different styles of pipes at present, and can make as many as the ingenuity of man can suggest by means of molds. One style of pipe was of red clay obtained from Maryland, in the form of a hand, and that hand represented a well-known Brooklyn divine. The "Portuguese" pipe is used for the bowl of the pipe, the neck being utilized for the stem. The demand for this style of pipe was very large for a time, but some new fashion has taken its place. Various other curious styles were seen, one a bust of Garfield, which proved a total failure on the market.

"Bonanza."

The critic should be something more than a fault-finder. In an English magazine an attempt is made to give a series of "Americanisms," that is to say, words coined or invented in America. Under the word "bonanza" the definition is given—"Spanish, a big volume by which, honesty or otherwise, much money is made." Upon this a critic pounces, and says that bonanza means "good fortune or good luck." Bonanza is indeed a Spanish word, and very naturally came into use in California or Nevada. But it does not mean "a big scheme" or "good luck." It is a nautical—a sea-going—word, and means fair weather at sea. If the reader will refer to St. Matthew, xvi. 26, he will read that after the Lord rebuked the wind and the sea "there was a great calm." And if reference is next had to the Spanish version of the New Testament he will find the phrase there given "una grande bonanza." It is easy to understand how the word came into its figurative use—as meaning a happy, calm and good hope after a weary search. But neither the glossary nor the critic is quite correct in the definitions cited above.—Philadelphia Ledger.

WIT AND HUMOR.

THE AMBITIOUS KANGAROO.

They had a great meeting a kangaroo to select,
And the kangaroo rose in a dignified way,
And said, "I'm the one you should surely select
For I can do everything better than any other."
Said the owl, "How high can you climb in the air?"
Said the nightingale, "Favor us, please,
With a song?"
Said the hawk, "Let us measure our powers
Together?"
Said the lion, "Come wrestle, and prove you are strong?"
But the kangaroo said, "It would sure be bad form
To blow
In our choice of a king, to make leaping the main Issue."
—A. E. Wells, in St. Nicholas.

A little child once asked his mother the question: "Mother, what part of Heaven do people go to who are good, but not agreeable?"—Christian Advocate.

The economic question agitating the public mind just now is whether it costs more to be a member of Congress or a student at Harvard College.—Providence Journal.

It was a grim joke on the part of a condemned man, who, the night before his execution, requested the jailer to close his grated window because he considered night air unhealthy.—Texas Siftings.

The great Alaskan glacier is credited with moving only at the rate of one-fourth of a mile a year. What the great Alaskan glacier seems to need more than anything else is an sfidavit.—Chicago Tribune.

No, it is not hard to write funny paragraphs; all you have to do is to procure a pen, some paper and ink, and then sit down and write them as they occur to you. It is not the writing but the occurring that is hard.—New Haven News.

"Please pass the Scandinavian butter," said the grocer's clerk to the hardware man at our boarding-house. "Pass the which?" "The Scandinavian butter—the Omargarine, you know." The landlady fainted.—Minneapolis Tribune.

A teacher was endeavoring to explain a question in arithmetic to a dull pupil. "Suppose you had 100 sovereigns and were to give away 80, how would you ascertain how many you had remaining?" "Why, I'd count it," drawled the hopeful.

At the Dudery: "Is it true Smith is going to call Brown out?" "I believe it is." "Why, what is the trouble?" "He insulted him in the deadliest way; invited him to dinner, and offered him calf's brains a la Knickerbocker for the entree."—Texas Topics.

It is told in Washington that after a certain Senator, noted for his absentmindedness, came to this city for a short visit, this memorandum was found in his room: "Things to take along: One pair socks, one shirt, two collars, one pair cuffs, one wife."

Frank Krause has been added to the Bull staff as a reporter. Any force that the public can extend to him in the way of running schools, square meal, or other luxuries will be fully appreciated by this great original humorist and necessity.—Keokuk (Iowa) Bell.

An Indian chief who is visiting in Washington at Government expense was introduced to a Senator recently who has a very bald head. The chief looked at him for some moments with great interest. Finally he said: "Ugh! Where you fight Injun some time?"—N. Y. Sun.

Do suppose you've heard that they are selling birds at all the soda-water fountains?" says the man with the gag. "No, I haven't." "It is a fact." "What kind of birds are they selling them?" "Canaries." Then the man with the gag runs.—Cincinnati Times-Star.

A San Francisco Chinaman who had been found smuggling cigars in his cook-stove was asked how he came by the cigars. "A friend gave them to me—leave 'em with me 'till he comes back; he one bad man, he come back; he bahee olil eye," replied the innocent Ah Sin.

"Wonder what I'd better name him," said Johnny, thoughtfully, as he wabbled his new dapple colt drinking eagerly in the brook. "I'll tell you," cried his comrade Willie, eagerly; "call him Preserved Fruit." "Why Preserved Fruit?" "Because," replied Willie, "he's such a dry dapple."—Texas Siftings.

The following poem appears in the obituary column of a Baltimore morning paper under the death notice of a husband and Italian born in Ireland, aged 54:

He heard the angels calling him
From that Celestial shores
He hopped his wings and away he went To make one angel more. BY HIS SON.
—Harper's Monthly.

A Texas preacher caught four or five boys in his peach melon patch. He did not punish them, but merely said: "You ought to be ashamed of yourselves, particularly the big boys. Which of you boys here is the oldest?" "He isn't here at all, sir. He didn't know that we were coming," said a youngster.—Texas Siftings.

Young Man—"Is it true, doctor, that smoking cigarettes tends to soften the brain?" Physician—"There is a belief to that effect, but with all our boasted modern scientific appliances it can never be verified." Young Man—"Why, doctor?" Physician—"Because nobody with brains ever smokes them."—N. Y. Sun.

Mr. W.—"I guess they will prove that Bacon wrote the plays known as Shakspeare's." Mr. S.—"Gracious! I hope Bacon wouldn't Mr. W.—"Why, what difference does it make to you?" Mr. S.—"I have put in two years reading Shakspeare's plays, and if they prove he did not write them all that time will be wasted!"—Detroit Free Press.

It requires a good deal of nerve to perform duty visits under such conditions as happened the other day when a man in Paris called at a house where he had been dining two days before. With his card-case in his hand he asked the concierge: "Are M. and Mme. X. at home?" "Yes, sir." "O, all right, then I will call again."—London Globe.

Hilarious Passenger—"I've got a pass over this road. I can get one any day I want it." President of the Road (unrecognized) "Will you allow me to see it?" "Certainly. Here it is." "This is a regular ticket. You paid for it." "Why, of course I did. You didn't suppose I stole it, eh? I buy one every day. I didn't say it was a free pass."—Philadelphia Call.

A correspondent tells a story of Congressman, gathering around a pool in front of the Capitol and throwing dimes and nickels into the water to see the fish dive after them. The thing is preposterous. If the correspondent had told us that the fish stood around the pool and threw dimes and nickels into the water to see the Congressmen dive after them we might have believed it.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

"George is working too hard," exclaimed a fond but foolish wife, referring to her husband. "Indeed!" said a friend of her husband. "He does look very pale." "He's not only so pale, but absent-minded. He does not appear to have a thought about what he is doing. Only the other night we were out to a dinner-party, when the host said, speaking to George: "What will you have?" George replied: 'I'll take two cards.' Poor man, he's working too hard."—St. Paul Globe.

A stranger who attempted to drown himself at St. Louis and was pulled out of the river was asked by one of the crowd around him: "Say, do you really want to make a sure thing of it?" "Yes, I want to do, do." "Want to die real bad?" "Yes." "All right; come over here in the saloon where there is a gang of men and hurrah for Jay Gould for the next President. If you live three minutes after yelling I'll pay your board for a whole month. The man concluded to live on.—Wall Street News.

"Ma," said little 9-year-old Sam, "does it cost anything to come and call on pa?" "Why, certainly not," replied the mother; "what put that idea into your head?" "I was down to pa's office to-day, and Mr. Smith came in." "Well, what of that?" asked his mother. "I was just going to tell you. Papa asked Mr. Smith to call again, and Mr. Smith said: 'No, I think you the last time I called you had a full house, and it cost me twenty cases. What did he mean by that?"—St. Paul Globe.

An Original Old Seminole.

Tiger Tail seems to be quite an original old Seminole. A newly matching agent drifted into his dominions one day and set up a machine in Tiger Tail's tent. The old chief, with great deliberation, watched him put it through its paces. He then arose, brushed the agent to one side, and, seating himself, adjusted his feet to the treadle. Finally he stuck the wheel and found that he could make it go. He sewed up one piece of cloth and down another, and then gravely and critically examined the work. At last he appeared to be satisfied that it was all right. He then turned quietly to his wives, who had watched the proceedings with interest, and kicked them, one after the other, out of his tent.—Atlanta Constitution.

Does It Pay?

Three-fourths of our people are troubled with dyspepsia or liver complaint in some form or other. We do not claim that this disease has a depressing influence on the mind or body, preventing them from thinking or acting clearly in any matter of importance. Indigestion, coming up of food after eating, dyspepsia, sick headache, acidity of the stomach or any derangement of the stomach or liver (upon which the whole action of our system depends) are specedily and effectually overcome by the use of Brown's Celery Flower. The most stubborn cases have yielded to its influence, as thousands of letters received will testify. The immense sale of this medicine, which is a specific for all its ills, proves a million and a half bottles sold last year, so we ask, will it pay you to suffer from any of the above diseases when you may have instant relief in the August Flower. Three doses will relieve you of Dyspepsia. It is sold by druggists and general dealers in all parts of the world. 60w2

Wonderful Cures.

Dr. G. W. Crouter, retail druggist of Charlevoix, Mich., says: We have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery, Electric Bitters and Bucklen's Arnica Salve for six years. Have never handled remedies that sold as well, or give such universal satisfaction. They have cured many wonderful cures effected by these medicines in this city. Several cases of pronounced consumption have been entirely cured by use of a few bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery, taken in connection with Electric Bitters. We guarantee them always. Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter.

Active, Pushing and Reliable.

Dr. G. W. Crouter can always be relied upon to carry in stock the purest and best goods, and sustain the reputation of being active, pushing, and reliable, by recommending articles with well established merit and work at 25c. popular. Having the agency for the celebrated Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, colds and coughs, we sell it on a positive guarantee, it will surely cure any and every affection of throat, lungs, or chest, and in order to prove our claim, we ask you to call and get a trial bottle free.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

EASTERN.

Rev. Dr. Phillips Brooks, in a sermon delivered in Boston, condemned the tendency to exclusiveness manifested at the recent Episcopal Conference in Chicago.

Catherine Taswell (colored) aged 30, a married woman, was outraged and murdered near Haverford College Station, Pa.

James Russell Lowell is engaged to the dowager Lady Ignatius, who, like Mr. Lowell, has been twice married, has three children, and is 40 years old.

The will of Mrs. Cornelia Stewart was filed for probate at New York. She bequeathed the bulk of her estate to Charles J. Clinch, her nephew, of Paris, and Judge Henry Hilton, the latter in trust for several objects named.

Hans S. Beattie, Surveyor of the Port of New York, was fired at three times by a discharged inspector named Louis Baird. One bullet penetrated Beattie's thigh, and another passed through the palm of his right hand. Baird had been dismissed for exacting money from immigrants at Castle Garden. He was born in Brazil, and is seventy-two years old.

WESTERN.

An inquest held at Evansville, Wis., on the body of a stockman named Hamilton showed that his spinal cord was broken by a fall from a car of Herbageo, and that he survived his injuries for a week.

The stock of apples in Chicago at the present time is estimated not to exceed 20,000 barrels, against the 40,000 barrels on hand a year ago, and there is little prospect of the quantity becoming any larger. The last windfalls are reported to have been very destructive to the winter apple crop of Michigan, and the supply from other sources can hardly make amends for the failing of in that region. It now looks as if there will be a decided scarcity of apples of good keeping quality, and that stocks of the evaporated fruit will be very light.

Rockford, Ill., was visited by a destructive fire, causing a loss of probably $100,000.

The dwelling of the late Louis Lichtenbecker, at Sandusky, Ohio, was destroyed by fire. Lichtenbecker committed the flames. His wife and children escaped by jumping from a window.

The Ackerman Hotel, at Longcotee, Indiana, was destroyed by fire. Three guests perished in the flames—two of them being John C. Gates and Michael Tracy, who had just been elected Treasurer and Auditor of Martin County.

SOUTHERN.

A killing frost occurred in Mississippi on the night of Oct. 28, and a light frost was reported along the river in the vicinity of New Orleans.

W. P. Payne, Prosecuting Attorney of McDowell County, West Virginia, had a drunken quarrel with his brother Albert, and killed him with a revolver.

It is rumored in Vicksburg that C. P. Huntington and Leland Stanford intend to open and civilize 100,000 acres of cotton land in the Yazoo delta, on one of their railway lines.

Six United States prisoners have been sentenced to be hanged in Fort Sill, Ark., Jan. 14, for murders committed in Indian Territory.

An incendiary fire destroyed John Thurber and wife near Hardeman, near Owensboro, Ky., 2,100 barrels of whisky being destroyed. The loss is $75,000.

A freight train on the Louisville, New Orleans & Texas Railroad was ditched near Vicksburg, Miss. Forty tramps were stealing a ride on the train, one of whom was killed and eleven injured.

The extensive works of the Walker Horse-shoe Company at Baltimore were destroyed by fire, loss, $85,000 insured.

By the explosion of a boiler in a cotton factory at Charleston a colored fireman was literally boiled in steam.

WASHINGTON.

President Cleveland has selected Thursday, November 26, as a day of national prayer and thanksgiving. The official proclamation reads as follows:

It has long been the custom of the people of the United States, on a day in each year recently set apart for that purpose by the ruler of the land, to express their gratefulness and memory of God and to ask for continued care and protection.

In observance of such custom, I, Grover Cleveland, President of the United States, do hereby set apart and appoint Thursday, the 26th day of November, instead, to be observed and kept as a day of thanksgiving and prayer.

On that day let all our people forego their accustomed employments and assemble in their usual places of worship. It will thus be fitting for the survivors of the common employment of the blessings of a year characterized by a renewal of business prosperity throughout our land, for the return which has rewarded the husbandman's toil, the mine, the shop and the improved home, blessings in all that makes a nation great. And while we rejoice and give thanks for our power of field in earthquake, flood, and storm, let the grateful hearts of those who have been stricken from harm through His mercy be turned in sympathy and helpfulness toward those who have suffered through His visitation. It is also the duty of our thanksgiving, in this the year and in a year when disease has visited that our service may, by deeds of charity, be made acceptable to the Ruler of the seasons.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington this 1st day of October in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and ninth.

By the President: GROVER CLEVELAND.

T. F. BAYARD, Secretary of State.

The decrease in the public debt during the month of October was $[illegible]

Following is the statement issued on the 1st inst.:

INTEREST-BEARING DEBT.

Bonds at 4½ per cent	250,000,000
Bonds at 4 per cent	737,795,400
Bonds at 3 per cent	670,260,950
Refunding certificates at 4 per cent	199,320
Navy pension fund at 3 per cent	14,000,000
Pacific Railroad bonds at 6 per cent	64,623,512
Principal	1,737,878,182
Interest	9,203,41
Total	1,746,881,673

DEBT ON WHICH INTEREST HAS CEASED SINCE MAT. QUT.

Principal	12,316,450
Interest	230,487
Total	12,546,937

DEBT BEARING NO INTEREST.

Old demand and legal-tender notes	346,738,231
Certificates of deposit	24,710,000
Gold certificates	9,240,900
Silver certificates	100,206,869
Fractional currency (less $6,973,284 estimated as lost or destroyed)	6,953,702
Principal	542,849,802
Principal	2,312,193,410
Interest	9,203,43
Total	2,324,396,847
Less cash items available for reduction of the debt	217,388,315
Less reserve held for redemption of U. S. notes	100,000,000
Total	217,388,315
Total debt less available cash items	2,107,008,532
Net cash in the Treasury	52,776,192
Debt less cash in Treasury Nov. 1, 1886	2,154,317,047
Debt less cash in Treasury Oct. 1, 1886	2,167,549,567
Decrease of debt during the month	13,232,519

CASH IN THE TREASURY, SUBJECT TO DEMAND.

Gold held for gold certificates actually outstanding	99,294,959
Silver held for silver certificates actually outstanding	100,206,900
U. S. notes held for certificates of deposit actually outstanding	7,140,000
Cash held for matured debt and interest unpaid	21,542,409
Fractional currency	6,953
Total available for reduction of the debt	217,388,315

RESERVE FUND.

Held for redemption of U. S. notes, act Jan. 14, 1875, and July 12, 1882	100,000,000
Unavailable for reduction of the debt
Fractional silver coin	26,700,305
Minor coin	2,15,21
Total	26,700,305
Certificates held as cash	54,460,700
Net cash balance on hand	52,776,192

Total cash in Treasury as shown by the Treasurer's general account. $453,068,033

The Government receipts during the first four months of the present fiscal year (July, August, September and October) were $127,844,977, being $14,208,802 in excess of the receipts during the corresponding period of last year. The net receipts during the same period of 1886 were $92,636,175, being $11,928,476 less than the expenditures during the same period of last year.

The coinage of the mints for October was $4,172,150, of which $3,000,000 was in silver dollars.

In a building at Washington occupied by the fish commission a terrible fight took place between an Arizona lizard and a Florida alligator, which had been thoughtlessly placed together on the same floor. The latter received a dislocated shoulder and was probably fatally poisoned.

It is proposed to renew the negotiations for an enlarged extradition treaty with Canada.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Business failures in the United States and Canada for the past week number 215, against 198 the previous week.

A disastrous fire, hard to subdue, broke out at Chicago in the building occupied by Knight & Leonard, printers, the Goodyear Rubber Company, and Salisbury & Co., which created a pecuniary loss of $225,000 to the firm, and $100,000 to the Goodyear Company. The fire insurance patrol, lost his life, and four other members of that organization received serious injuries. A fire at Des Arc, Arkansas, destroyed six stores and two churches; the losses aggregate $50,000. Marshall's foundry, Pittsburg, was damaged by fire to the amount of $25,000.

Robert Evan Sproule, an American citizen, was hanged at Victoria, B. C. He died without a tremor, and stoutly protested his innocence on the scaffold.

During last week the visible supply of grain in the United States and Canada showed an increase of 881,194 bushels of wheat, 50,000 bushels of oats, 28,866 bushels of rye, and 71,560 bushels of barley, but corn diminished 322,000 bushels.

The Spanish bark Tres Amoras, bound from Barcelona to Havana, foundered in a hurricane when within three days sail of her destination. Seven of the crew perished. Five others drifted for five days on a piece of the wreck, and were finally rescued in a half famished condition.

FOREIGN.

The districts of Maremma and Ferrara, Italy, are suffering disastrous floods. Great distress prevails among the peasants.

It is now said that the reason the Czar killed his aid, Count Benckendorff, was because he suspected the Count of complicity with a member of the imperial family.

The guaranty fund for the Glasgow (Scotland) Exhibition will have reached £87,000. The space to be devoted to it compares an area of thirty-one acres.

The situation in Bulgaria leads to a new crop of warlike rumors. Turkey is powerless to prevent the occupation of the unfortunate principality by the Russians.

China will next month send a high official to notify the Czar that the Emperor has attained his majority.

It is reported that the proposition to increase the duty on imports of breadstuffs by France is not by any means certain to become law. The Chamber of Deputies may not be in shape to reach the consideration before the close of the year, and the opposition to the measure is so strong that they may not deem it expedient to pass a measure which would much more dearer bread to every resident of that country.

The Manchester (Eng.) Chamber of Commerce rejected by a majority of only one a resolution opposing free trade.

A cablegram from Cairo makes the official statement that the English Government has determined to maintain public safety in Egypt, an I not to leave that country in a fresh revolution.

LATER NEWS ITEMS.

The French visitors made a formal call on the President last week. M. de Lesseps delivered an address, to which Mr. Cleveland responed d ho fly.

At a cost of $250,000 a fast cruiser is to be built at Philadelphia for the Government, capable of firing every two minutes a projectile which weighs two hundred pounds.

The assessable value of taxable real estate in Washington has increased from $85,151,430 to $96,388,486. The total assessed value of all the real property in the District of Columbia is $222,105,316.

Thirty-seven Apache Indian children, part of the band captured by General Miles, arrived at the training-school at Carlisle, Pa., last week. They will remain at school until they have completed the full course.

A railway telegraph operator at Ingraham Station, Pennsylvania, had a call at midnight from a madman dressed in white, armed with a large knife. Trains were necessarily brought to a standstill, while the operator stood on the defensive in the corner of the room for an hour. Some trainmen who came to investigate captured the lunatic.

In a row between the Salvation Army and the Queen's guard several citizens were severely injured.

A new transatlantic line between Newport News (Va.) and Liverpool has been established and steamers will begin running about Dec. 1.

Twenty-two buildings were destroyed by fire at Dalzonne, N. H. Hartford, N. Y., was also visited by a conflagration.

Fort Fred Steele, Wyo., has been discontinued.

France has failed to secure allies in its Egyptian policy.

Marcus Jordan, of Bielefeld, Germany, has celebrated the one hundred and seventh anniversary of his birth, in good health and mentally clear.

It is stated that at the coming session of the British Parliament the Government will be ready to assume three bills. The first will deal with the allotments and the second with the extension of local government; the third, bearing on the payment of tolls, will probably be introduced in the House of Lords by Premier Salisbury.

LATER ELECTION RETURNS.

Michigan.—A Detroit dispatch says: The latest returns do not materially change the Republican majority for Governor, and the full returns will make the figure not far from 20,000. Full returns of 83 counties give Luce (Rep.) 105,[illegible] Ferris (Dem.) 85,[illegible]. Congressmen-at-large elected: First District, J. Logan Chipman; Second District, Julius C. Burrows; Third, James O'Donnell (Rep.); Fifth, Fourth, James Birney (Rep.); Sixth, Seventh, Edwin Willits (Rep.); Eighth, Mark S. Brewer (Rep.); Ninth, Newell Avery (Rep.). Congressmen: Fifth District, T. E. Tarsney (Dem.); Sixth, Henry M. Cutcheon (Rep.), 5,500; Tenth, Spencer O. Fisher (Rep.), 1,700; Eleventh, Seth C. Moffatt (Rep.), 1,500. The latest returns give the State Legislature as follows: Senate, 26 Republicans, 6 Democrats, 30 Republicans in House, 28; Democrats, 32; Labor, 4; doubtful, 3.

Colorado.—A Denver dispatch says the Republicans now concede the election of Adams (Dem.) to Congress by 127 plurality. Returns from the election of Byron W. Reed (Dem.) to Congress from the Second District in 1884 could not be obtained. Reed claims control of the lower house of the General Assembly, and possibility of the senate.

Kansas.—An Indianapolis telegram says there is no doubt that Morton (Rep.) has been elected Secretary of State, by a majority in the neighborhood of 1,500. The Legislature will stand, in joint ballot, 75 Republicans to 50 Democrats, 3 Labor, 1 Independent Democrat, 3 Independents, 1 Independent Republican, 1 Greenbacker, 1 Prohibitionist, 1 Independent Prohibitionist, 1 Independent Prohibitionist, 1 Independent

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

If history is to be trusted, Cleveland is as strong with the people as any administration has been within the last fifty years.—Detroit Journal.

It has been asserted by our local contemporary that the prohibition movement was fostered by the democrats to injure the republicans, and served to defeat Jordan. This we must emphatically deny; and an examination of the figures will disprove the Sentinel's assertion. In Charlevoix county in 1884, Alger received 1,022 votes; in 1886, Luce received 1,044; republican gain 22. In 1884, Bergle received 570 votes; in 1886, Yaple received 773; democratic loss, 186. In 1884, Preston received 67 votes; in 1886, Dickie received 152 votes; prohibition gain, 85. All the prohibition gain came from the democratic party. No, neighbor; it was something besides prohibition that elected Mr. Jerrue. South Arm township gave Luce 225 votes, Jordan 73. The prohibitionists can appreciate and sheriff was the same. Consequently the 152 good republican votes cast for Mr. Jerrue in South Arm township—to the neglecting of those cast in other townships—is what elected him. We commend to our readers a careful analysis of the official vote as found in another column of this paper.

Notwithstanding his defeat no one can deny, in the face of all the facts and circumstances, that George L. Yaple has made an extraordinary run. There is no state in the union which has been counted upon more surely by the protectionists than Michigan. They have taken it for granted that the raising here of the tariff reform issue would be as fatal as it would in Ohio or in Pennsylvania. Yet it was raised by Mr. Yaple with a distinctness, an openness, a boldness that left no room for doubt or cavil as to the ground to be occupied. He was represented, too, by the advocates of protection as even more pronounced than he really was in his denunciation of the tariff swindle. The changes were rung persistently upon the word "free trade," and the supposed believers in the protective policy were urged to rally, not against a reform, but against a revolution. Had Michigan been wedded, as the protectionists believed, to their policy, Luce should have been and would have been elected over a man holding the views which Yaple proclaimed and was believed to hold by 20,000. That he has been elected by a beggarly plurality shows that Michigan sentiment has been utterly misapprehended by the protectionists. Instead of being led by its industries, its monopolies, or the bad teaching of interested parties to commercial slavery, it is really alive to the business of commercial freedom. Mr. Yaple is entitled to distinguished credit for the demonstration of this fact, so pregnant with meaning for the industrial as well as political future of Michigan.—Free Press.

WHEREFORE?

"The county seat steal is rebuked by the people in spite of the cry of whisky racket."—Journal.

"If that is true, why were Samuel R. Thatcher and Roscoe L. Corbett, the "arch-conspirators," elected by round majorities? Wherefore??????"—Sentinel.

Let's see. In 1884, Berdan had a majority of 239; in 1886, Jerrue, a plurality of 29; the steal repudiated by 268. In 1884 Thatcher had a majority of 326; in 1886, a plurality of 111; the steal repudiated by 215. In 1884 Meech had a plurality of 108 on the regular ticket; in 1886, a plurality 305 as an independent candidate; the steal repudiated by 213. In 1884, Fogg had a plurality of 189 on the regular ticket; in 1886, a plurality of 393 as an independent candidate; the steal repudiated by 213. Wherefore?

The Tariff Reform Issue.

It is a common remark with the republicans and also with a few democrats that it was the efficiency of free trade or rather revenue reform which caused the defeat of Yaple. Let us look over the election returns and see whether this is so.

It is apparent that if Mr. Yaple's revenue reform views had injured his chances anywhere the injury would have been wrought in the upper peninsula and in the Saginaw Valley. But the election returns show that he has run way ahead in these protected sections of the state. In Saginaw county alone he received nearly 500 larger majority than Begole got in 1884, and in the upper peninsula he has cut the republican majority down to less than 3,000—a loss of about 4,000. In the fifth district a bold and uncompromising fight for revenue reform was made by Melbourne H. Ford, and the result is an increased fusion majority in that usually close district. Tarsney and Fisher also met the issue squarely, and are re elected by handsome pluralities.

The democracy has been strengthened, not weakened, by its manly stand for revenue reform. Mr. Yaple has gained the respect of all intelligent and patriotic citizens for the glorious part he has taken in planting the party on the granite rock of principle. The party cannot retreat now if it would. It must press on in the grand work of reform. There must be no cowards, no compromise of conviction. Truth will conquer in 1888.—Lansing Journal.

The Score Order Act Invalid.

The supreme court of Pennsylvania sitting at Pittsburg, on Oct., 4, decided the anti-score order system act of June 29 1881, to be unconstitutional. The provisions of this act we condense as follows:

"Persons mining or manufacturing or either, coal, ore, or other mineral shall pay their employees in lawful money, or by order redeemable at its face value in lawful money by the issuer within thirty days. Violation a misdemeanor, punishable by fine up to $100, to go to school fund. Employers interested in merchandising are not to make a greater profit on goods than outside dealers in like articles. Violation makes the debt uncollectible from employers. Employers refusing for twenty days to pay employees regularly or to redeem orders shall pay one per cent a month, if suit be brought for the amount due."

The court said: "The act is an infringement alike of the rights of the employer and the employee. More than this, it is an insulting attempt to put the laborer under a legislative tutelage which is not only degrading to his manhood, but subversive of his rights as a citizen of the United States. He may sell his labor for what he think best, and whether money or goods, just as his employer may sell his iron or coal, and any order every law that proposes to prevent him from so doing is an infringement on his constitutional privileges, and consequently vicious and void."—Ex.

A Republican Trick.

ADRIAN, Nov. 2—Several postal clerks were notified by W. G. Lovell to appear at Cleveland Tuesday for case examination. Of course they were men and democrats. It is needless to say that this is a sample of Mr. Lovell's dirty work, and as the clerks were advised not to heed the order they may be followed up with a recommend for dismissal. The matter demands the immediate and prompt attention of Mr. Vilas and a superintendent who does not play into the hand of the republican party. There was no excuse whatever for assigning Tuesday as the day for examination, except to take the men away from the polls to prevent their voting the democratic ticket.

The union forces are defeated, but not disheartened. Their gallant battle against overwhelming odds. He bravely carried the banner of revenue and currency reform to the fore, and fought the campaign on the high, uncompromising principle. With harmony restored in the ranks, and with a direction to the grand principles of industrial liberty which the memory of the splendid contest just closed will kindle anew, the united opposition to republicanism will march on to certain victory in Michigan in 1888.—Lansing Journal.

The Great German Doctor.

The remarkable phase in the practice of Dr. Peter W. Schmidt (frequently called Dr. Peter) is his success and one to deserve the their disease, his intuitive perceptions being so strong he can tell any one their trouble without asking a question. His success is phenomenal. His practice enormous. He is sought after by hundreds who have given up hope, because he cures when every physician and remedy has failed. The giving of his great medicine, Golden Seal bitters, which has made his great success, to the world mark a new era in medicine. Blood, liver, kidney and stomach disorders yield to this master of healing and his wonderful cures are regarded as phenomenal, but the germ of truth ever sees "Truth has been may be again." We say to the sick and discouraged give Golden Seal Bitters a trial. It is all we ask. You will be your own witnesses. Sold by Perry Wood, and Dr. O. W. Crouter.

Excitement in Michigan

Continues over the great story over pain, neuralgia, burns, and rheumatism, achieved by Dr. John's Magic Pain Oil. Only 25 cents for the largest bottle. Warranted to Cure. Sold by Perry Wood and Dr. O. W. Crouter.

Avoid the harsh, irritating, griping compounds so often sold as purgative medicine and correct the irregularities of the bowels by the use of Ayer's Cathartic Pills. They are invaluable as a family medicine.

Official Vote of Charlevoix County.

	Governor	Lieut. Gov.	Secy. State	Auditor Gen.	Treasurer	Atty. Gen.	Supt. Pub. Instr.	Member	Judge Prob.	Sheriff	Clerk	Treasurer	Register	Prosecutor	Surveyor	Coroner	Com. Sch.
Bay
Charlevoix
Antrim
Kalkaska
Otsego
Total Maj.

| | Yaple. | Luce. | Dickie. | Curry. | McDonald. | Mosher. | Wachtel. | Osmun. | Evans. | Beard. | Maltz. | Fisher. | Farrat. | Aplin. | Williams. | Donnelly. | Taggart. | Laing | Frisbee. | Dix. | Fraser. | Parsons. | Rotabroet. | Bemis. | Turner. | Babcock. | Dauchee | Mason. | Cutcheon. | Ellis. | Johnson. | Barton. | Lewis. | Dougherty. | Jerrue. | Beman. | Shelton. | Palmiter. | Chew. | Thatcher. | Suffield. | Hale. | Cooper. | Sherpard. | Upson. | Meech. | Stone. | Martin. | Corbett. | Burnham. | Martin. | Gartell. | Fogg. | Hayden. | Robinson. | Hilton. | Pinthy. | James H. | Sanderson. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---

COURTING OF TAM AND CLARI.

"Miss Clari, Nel," said Tam-Bourine,
A sixteen by her side,
"I've courted eighteen nigh sixteen
Long years to guitar music.

For barrelsfoot ed you too slow
And in a hundrum way,
Thus Jenkins cut ahead of me
Thus Bunkard to obtain.

I'ed ask my love must chest,
If codens must die,
You gave the cabbage be meet
Up yander in the sky.

"Eh, Philadelphia?" the maiden cried,
"You spin it out forever;
If you're a bargain for a bride,
You'll pop false night—born never."

Ge finke to kiss the maiden coy,
Who, blushing, cried out,
"Don't, Meg! 'Tis wrong to kiss hastboy Till he's my true bans-man."

"Twas, bed sixteen long years," he cried,
"And I cousent wait longer."
"Oh, dear," the cousins maid replied,
"I'll shot my eyes—you're stronger."

I wheels little one be look,
Enfeone dol not restore
The maiden's sight. To make her look
Organ be look life more.

Cullinan Courant.

THE PATRIOTIC BOY.

A TRUE STORY OF 1861.

One morning in May, 1861, a knot of young men were standing at the corner of the principal street in a little town not far from Boston, earnestly discussing the latest news, for the torch of war had been lighted at Fort Sumter, and the red glow filled the land, putting a stop for a time to all business whatever; till the first volunteer armies had been enlisted and sent out to crush the rebellion. Among the rest, not talking, but with eager eyes and arms drinking in all that was said, stood Albert O., a boy of sixteen years, son of the wealthiest man in the place.

"I would enlist this minute," said Charley B., "if there was any one to look after my dear old mother. She is so feeble now, and her little property is not quite enough to keep her, so how can I go?"

"I don't see how you can, Charley," spoke another young man; "but I wish you could, for you and I have been chums so long that I would be glad if we could be comrades still."

"I want to go," said an older man in the group—grave, sad-looking man; "I know if my Mary was living she'd tell me to go at once and serve my country, but how can I leave my motherless children?"

"I thought their aunt Emily took care of them," remarked another.

"So she does, but she could not afford to do so for nothing. I pay her $200 a year for their board and what teaching she can give them till they can go to the public school. If they were old enough Jenny could teach and Willie could work in a machine shop, and so take care of themselves; but now they are too young for me to leave."

"And I," said another.

And they talked about the new company, and who of their town's people were to be officers and so, on till one of them turned to the boy, asking:

"Is it true, Albert, that your father's book-keeper is going as ensign?"

"I don't know," replied Albert, "he has said nothing to me about it.

"Yes, he is going," said one of the men. "I went to the store not an hour since and he told me so."

